22. B to K B 6th	B to K B 6th

(Cleverly played; threatening to mate in two moves if the Rook be captured.)

23. B to K 6th	Kt to Q B 2nd
24. Kt to Q 2nd	Kt takes B
25. Kt takes B	Kt to K B 5th

(On examination, it does not appear that Black would have gained much had he played the more natural-looking move of 24. R to K Kt sq. The game would probably then have been continued as follows:—

25.	R to K Kt sq
26. B to K Kt 5th (best)	Kt to B 6th (ch)
27. K to Kt 2nd	Kt takes B
28. Kt takes Kt	Kt takes Kt
29. P takes Kt	R takes P
30. R to K 4th	K to K 2nd
31. R to K B sq	R to K R sq
32. Q R to K B 4th

And the game would probably be drawn.)

26. B takes R	K Kt to R 6th (ch)
27. K to R sq	Kt to B 7th (ch)

and draws by perpetual check.

CHESS IN PARIS.

Two lively specimens of the new phase in the Evans's Gambit, played between Messrs. MORTIMER and ROSENTHAL.

WHITE (Mr. M.)	BLACK (Mr. R.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th
4. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes Kt P
5. P to Q B 3rd	B to Q B 4th
6. Castles	P to Q 3rd
7. P to Q 4th	P takes P
8. P takes P	B to Q Kt 3rd
9. Kt to Q B 3rd	B to K Kt 5th
10. Q to Q R 4th	B to Q 2nd
11. Q to Q Kt 3rd	Kt to Q R 4th
12. B takes K B P (ch)	K to B sq
13. Q to Q B 2nd	K takes B
14. P to K 5th	Kt to K B 3rd

(This move, which at first was thought likely to prove a serviceable defence against the new line of attack introduced by Mr. Mortimer, appears upon trial to be hardly satisfactory.)

WHITE (Mr. M.)	BLACK (Mr. R.)
15. P to K 6th (ch)

(Better, apparently, than taking the Kt.)

15.	Q B takes P
16. Kt to K Kt 5 (ch)	K to K 2nd
17. R to K sq	K to Q 2nd
18. Kt takes B	Q to K Kt sq
19. Q to K B 5th	R to K sq
20. Kt takes K Kt P (dis. ch.)	K to Q sq
21. Q takes Kt (ch)—

and wins.

The moves in the second game are precisely the same on both sides as in the previous one, up to move 14:—

WHITE (Mr. M.)	BLACK (Mr. R.)
14. P to K 5th	P to K R 3rd
15. P to Q 5th	Kt to K B 3rd
16. P to K 6th (ch)	K to Kt sq
17. P takes B	Q takes P
18. Kt to K R 4th	Q to K Kt 5th
19. Kt to K Kt 6th	R to K R 2nd
20. P to K R 3rd	Q to K R 4th
21. R to K sq	Kt to Q B 5th
22. Kt to K 7th (ch)	K to R sq
23. Kt to K 4th	Kt takes Kt
24. Q takes K Kt	Kt to K 4th
25. B to Q Kt 2nd	R to K sq
26. Kt to K Kt 6th (ch)	K to Kt sq

(It is clear that he could not capture the Kt without loss.)

27. B takes Kt	P takes B
28. P to K R 4th	K to B 2nd
29. Kt takes P (ch)	K to Kt sq
30. P to Q 6th	R to K B sq
31. Q to Q 5th (ch)	K to R sq
32. Kt to B 7th (ch)

and Black resigns.

On Monday the rebuilding of the Surrey Theatre, in the Blackfriars'-road, upon an extended scale, was commenced.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

Mr. Charles T. Newton, the keeper of Greek and Roman antiquities at the British Museum, commenced on Thursday, March 30, a course of three lectures on the recent acquisitions to the museum from Rhodes and the Farnese Palace. While at Rhodes, in 1853, he discovered numerous remains indicating the site of the necropolis of the ancient Camirus; but, being then devoted to his investigations at Cnidus, he was prevented from pursuing his researches. In 1859 he incited MM. Salzmann and Billotti to commence the explorations which have produced such successful results, under the patronage of the authorities of the museum. Large diagrams of many of the valuable antiquities thus happily acquired for our national collection were suspended on the wall of the theatre, by means of which Mr. Newton was enabled to point out their distinguishing characteristics, in three classes—viz., Egyptian and imitations of Egyptian; Archaic Greek; and Asiatic, or Phœnician; including tazzas, bronzes, sarcophagi, vases, ornaments of gold, &c., sculptures, glass, terra-cottas, &c.; their date ranging probably from 600 to 200 B.C. He then referred to the traditions regarding the early settlers on the island of Rhodes; the three cities mentioned by Homer, Ialysus, Lindus, and Camirus, afterwards eclipsed by the city of Rhodes; the intimate connection of Lindus with Egypt; the large commerce of the Phœnicians in the Mediterranean, and the great distribution of their art as especially proved by recent discoveries in Nimroud, Etruria, Sardinia, Cyprus, and Rhodes. Mr. Newton concluded with some descriptive details of the tombs discovered at Camirus, and the points in which they resemble those of ancient burial discovered in Lower Egypt and Syria, as affording indications of early Phœnician settlements.

Mr. Glaisher, F.R.S., in the Friday evening discourse on March 31, gave a resumé of his recent aerial researches. He reminded his audience that eighty years had elapsed since the first balloon ascent, and that till the last few years little had been done in the way of making use of balloons for scientific investigation. He then briefly described an ascent, from the filling the balloon with gas to the descent, including the peculiar sensations experienced by the aeronaut—the total absence of any sense of motion, the earth appearing to recede from his feet—the gorgeous beauty of the clouds illumined by sunshine, the intense stillness, &c. He stated that a sense of duty had led him to comply with the wishes of a committee of the British Association, and undertake the examination of various questions in meteorology and general physics at various distances above the earth, in a balloon at different seasons of the year. In numerous large diagrams, he gave the results of above twenty ascents, some very recent, which will, doubtless, shortly be given to the scientific world. He warmly eulogised the excellent scientific apparatus with which he had been provided, especially the Herschel-Browning spectroscope, whereby he had been able to distinguish numerous additional Fraunhofer's lines in the solar spectrum. In some amusing anecdotes, he exposed the ludicrous exaggerations of some amateur aeronauts, and stated that even experienced observers like himself had need to be on their guard. In conclusion, he expressed a hope that, although much scientific information had been acquired by means of his aerial expeditions (such as the breaking down of the law which asserts that the temperature of the air rises as we ascend at the rate of 1 deg. Fahr. for every 300 ft., whereas, in some cases, he found the temperature rise—the remarkable decrease in humidity, till at the height of five miles there was scarcely any moisture at all). He hopes for still more valuable results from scientific balloon ascents in other countries where the climate is more favourable than our own for such observations. Sir Henry Holland, Bart., vice-president, was in the chair.

Professor Marshall, in his eleventh lecture on the nervous system, delivered on Saturday last, resumed the consideration of the psychical functions of animals, as divided into two groups—the non-cerebral or invertebrate class, and the vertebrate, possessing a brain of varying size and complex structure. Among the latter man is pre-eminent, as being alone endowed with pure reason and the moral sense. The psychical functions which he possesses in common with animals are the formation of simple ideas or cognitions, derived from sensations, and complex ideas, from which result corresponding emotions—love, gratitude, obedience, fear, &c., of which interesting examples were given. Man alone forms abstract ideas of such subjects as the first cause, the infinite, a future state, which awaken in his mind the emotions of faith, hope, &c. Animals are seen to possess judgment, discrimination, and choice, and a certain degree of imagnination, as manifested in dreaming; the faculties of attention, retention, and memory; and a power of communicating knowledge to each other by gestures and cries, corresponding to language in man. The professor, in conclusion, pointed out, by the aid of diagrams, the gradation of endowment in proportion to the increase in the size and complexity of the brain of animals, all tending to prove that the brain is the organ through which the mind acts. He stated that the weight of the brain in man was about the 36th of that of his whole body, that of idiots being between the 60th and the 140th. The average weight in proportion to the rest of the body in the mammalia is the 186th; in birds, the 212th; in reptiles, the 1321st; and in fish, only the 5688th.

Mr. Charles T. Newton's second lecture on the recent acquisitions to the British Museum, delivered on Tuesday last, the 4th inst., was devoted to the consideration of the antiquities of the finest period of Greek art, obtained from the site of the ancient Camirus. These consist principally of painted vases, which were represented by large diagrams, especial attention being bestowed on a cup with a representation of Aphrodite (Venus), as an example of the time of Phidias; and on a vase representing an incident in the myth of Peleus and Thetis, as an example of a later school. The latter was dwelt upon as an early specimen of polychrome ceramography, combining the excellencies of the earlier and later styles; the composition being nobly conceived and the drawing of the figures bold and masterly, and the features being given with exquisite delicacy. The white colour is reserved for the two figures round which the whole interest of the subject centres, Thetis and Eros (Love). Mr. Newton places the date of this vase between 350 and 320 B.C.; and he sees no reason to doubt its being of Rhodian fabric, and thinks that probably the native artist who drew the composition may have studied in the school of the celebrated painter, Protogenes, who flourished at Rhodes, and who was honoured by Apelles. Mr. Newton contrasted the mode in which the same was treated in a very early Greek vase, and also in the celebrated Portland vase, formed about the time of Augustus. He dilated upon the distinguishing characteristics of various periods in the history of Greek art, as manifested in the discoveries at Camirus, and concluded by referring to their importance in relation to the history of Rhodes.

No lectures will be delivered during Passion and Easter weeks.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Probate of the will of Admiral the Most Noble Algernon Percy, Duke and Earl of Northumberland, K.G., P.C., D.C.L., F.R.S., passed the seal of her Majesty's Court of Probate on the 29th ult., and was granted to the Right Hon. Hugh Lupus, Earl Grosvenor, M.P., and the Right Hon. John Thomas Freeman Mitford, Baron Redesdale, the executors. The personal property was sworn under £500,000. The will bears date Feb. 11, 1848, being the year after he succeeded to the title, on the death of his brother, the third Duke. The attesting witnesses are Alfred Bell and Henry Lloyd, solicitors, Lincoln's-inn-fields. His Grace died at Alnwick Castle, on the 12th of February last, at the age of seventy-three. He married, in 1842, Lady Eleanor Grosvenor (born 1820), eldest daughter of the second and present Marquis of Westminster, but has no issue. To her Grace he leaves a life interest in the estates at York and Durham over which he had power of disposition; he also confirms two marriage settlements in her favour, adding thereto a sum making up £5000 per annum, and leaving her Grace a legacy of £8000 and the plate having the baronial coronet and crest of "Prudhoe" (his former title), two carriages, and four carriage-horses; also the paintings, pictures, books, articles of virtù, furniture, wines, &c., and the deer at Stanwick Hall. The residue of his property he leaves to the possessor of the estate of Alnwick Castle, Northumberland.

The will of the Hon. George Scotland, C.B., of St. Mary Abbotts-terrace, Kensington, formerly Chief Justice and Judge of the Vice-Admiralty Court at Trinidad, Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, was proved in the London Court under £40,000 personalty in England by two of the executors and trustees—viz., William Humphrys Scotland and Henry Scotland, Esqs., sons of the testator; power being reserved to the Rev. John Scotland, also a son, and trustee and executor. His relative, Dr. Thomas Anderson, M.D., of Trinidad, is appointed executor of his property in the islands of Antigua and Trinidad, to whom he leaves a legacy of £200; to Nathaniel Humphrys, Esq., Clerk of the House of Assembly in the Island of Antigua, £1000; and legacies to other persons in Antigua and Trinidad, and to two of his nieces in the United States. To Mr. Dixon, principal clerk in the banking-house of Sir Charles Price and Co., he leaves £25; £10 to one other clerk of that house he may select; to the servant who has been longest with him £20, and £10 each to two other servants. He appoints his three sons, John, William, and Henry, residuary legatees.

The will of Miss Anne Dealtry, formerly of Bedford-square, but late of Bryanstone-square, was proved in the London Court, on the 20th ult., by her sister, Miss Frances Dealtry, the sole executrix, to whom she has bequeathed the whole of her property absolutely. The personalty was sworn under £60,000.

The will of the late Captain Sir William Cunningham Cavendish Dalzell, Bart., of Greenwich Hospital, and of Binns, in Linlithgowshire, N.B., has been proved by Lieutenant-Colonel Charles T. Du Plat, of the Royal Artillery, and John Ward Nicholls, Esq., Royal Navy, two of the executors. The personalty was sworn under £18,000. The real estate of Binns descends, with the baronetcy, to the only surviving son, Robert Alexander Dalzell. Lady Dalzell and the daughters being respectively provided for under their several marriage settlements, the personalty, after payment of certain bequests to the son and daughters and legacies to the two executors, falls to Lady Dalzell, as residuary legatee. Sir William died on the 16th of February, 1865.

The Royal Academy of Sciences of Belgium has awarded the gold medal, proposed to be given to the author of the best work on the constitution of steel, to Captain Caron.

NEW MUSIC.

THE QUADRILLE OF THE SEASON.

COOTE'S LARA QUADRILLE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s. Post-free at half price. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE VALSE OF THE SEASON.

COOTE'S LARA VALSE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s. Post-free at half price. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE ARAB SONG from LARA. "The gem of the opera." Song by Miss Louisa Pyne. BRINLEY RICHARDS'S Transcription of "The Arab Song" for the Pianoforte. "One of his best pieces." Price 3s. each. Half price.
METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SENSATION MAD.—Mr. Sothern's Comic Song in "The Woman in Mauve." Written by H. J. BYRON. Illustrated. Price 3s. Post-free for 19 stamps.
METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

HENRY SMART'S

BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.—A New Edition, corrected and revised, of the Pianoforte Score is now ready. Price 18s., bound and illustrated.
METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.—Favourite Songs:—"The full moon is beaming," 2s. 6d.; "The sea rules all," 3s.; "Our home shall be on this bright isle," 2s. 6d.; and the popular "Sea-maidens' chorus," arranged as a Trio, 3s. All sent post-free at half price.
METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SACRED SONG FOR EASTER, EIGHT HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

MAGDALENA, CEASE THY WEEPING (PONE LUCTUM MAGDALENA). Words by Peter the Venerable. Music by C. G. HAMILTON. In F and A flat. "The most beautiful and interesting sacred song ever published." Post-free, 1s. 6d.; Quartet, 3d.; Pianoforte Piece, 1s. 6d.
OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, W.

ROSE LEAVES.—Ballad without Words. By E. L. HIME, Composer of "Parfait Amour" (sent for fifteen stamps). A melody full of beauty and refinement.—Vide Press.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

PARFAIT AMOUR. Romance for Piano. By E. L. HIME. Played by Master Willie Pape before the Prince and Princess of Wales at Marlborough House. "One of the most exquisite romances we have ever heard."—Review. Sent for 15 stamps.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

THE GOOD-BYE AT THE DOOR. Ballad by S. GLOVER.—This truly beautiful song is now established as one of the leading favourites of the season. Mr. Glover has lately made a transcription of it for the Pianoforte. Sent by post for 18 stamps each.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

THE BROOK.—Nocturne for Piano. By E. L. HIME, Composer of "Parfait Amour," "Rose Leaves," "Reverie in F," &c. Sent for 18 stamps. A charming piece.
DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S LIST of NEW MUSIC.
DANIEL GODFREY'S ASSEMBLY GALOP. For Piano (Melody by Kücken), with Cornet. Free for 19 stamps. Played at Marlborough House.
IN SEARCH OF A PRIMROSE. For Piano. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. 3s.
THE LIQUID GEM. For Piano. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. 3s.; free for 16 stamps.
WARBLINGS AT EVE, Warblings at Morn, and Warblings at Noon. For Piano. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. 3s. each.
MARCH OF THE MEN OF HARLECH. For Piano. 3s. By BRINLEY RICHARDS.
THE LIQUID GEM (W. T. Wrighton). For Piano. 3s.; post-free for 17 stamps. By BRINLEY RICHARDS.
THE UNITED SERVICE QUADRILLES. For Piano. 4s. By A. F. GODFREY.
THE GUARDS' GALOP. For Piano. 2s. 6d. By HENRY PRINCE.
THIRTY YEARS AGO. Song. By the Composer of "Fading Away." Free for 16 stamps.
O YE TEARS! O YE TEARS! Ballad. 2s. 6d. Sung by Mdme. Lemmens-Sherrington. Free for 16 stamps.
THE MOUNTAIN WANDERER. Song. GEO. LINLEY. Free for 16 stamps.
JENNY OF THE MILL. Song. Free for 19 stamps.
ROBERT COCKS and CO'S TRICHORD PIANETTE—a most perfect instrument—26 guineas.
6, New Burlington-street, W. Agents for India, Messrs. BURKINYOUNG and Co., Calcutta.

TO LEARN TO PLAY THE CONCERTINA EASILY AND THOROUGHLY, USE

MARR'S CONCERTINA TUTOR. A new and greatly-improved Instruction-book. In royal 8vo, price 6d.; post-free for 7 stamps. Glasgow: JOHN S. MARR, 194, Buchanan-street.

In music folio, price 6d., post-free for 7 stamps,

MARR'S CONCERTINA COMPANION. Contains above 100 New and Popular Airs. Glasgow: JOHN S. MARR, 194, Buchanan-street.

In music folio, price 6d., post-free for 7 stamps, MARR'S SELECTION OF 140 TUNES FOR THE CONCERTINA. Glasgow: JOHN S. MARR, 194, Buchanan-street.

Just published, price 1s., post-free for 14 stamps,

MARR'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR: a New and Simple Instruction Book, containing complete Lessons to enable the Learner to Play the Pianoforte easily and thoroughly. It also contains 27 popular Tunes, progressively arranged for beginners. Glasgow: JOHN S. MARR, 194, Buchanan-street.

GARDEN EDGING TILES in great variety. Garden Vases, Fountains, &c., in artificial stone.—F. and G. ROSHER, Manufacturers, Queen's-road West, Chelsea; Upper Ground-street, Blackfriars, S. Illustrated Price-lists by post.

MARBLE CHIMNEYPIECES. — EVANS, SON, and CO. respectfully invite the attention of purchasers to their extensive Stock of the above, as well as of Stoves, Grates, and Fenders, en suite, adapted to every style of decoration, and to apartments of all descriptions.
Show-rooms, 33 and 34, King William-street, London Bridge.

THE FIVE-GUINEA SERVICE of PLATE and CUTLERY, in oak case, manufactured by MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO., 77 and 78, Oxford-street, and 71 and 72, Cornhill, is specially suitable for University students, military and naval officers, and is a very useful and appropriate present. Full particulars on application. Catalogues post-free.
West-end House, 77 and 78, Oxford-street.
City House, 71 and 72, Cornhill.
Manufactory, the Royal Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO.'S Fish-eating Knives. Fish Carvers for Lent.

ORNAMENTS for the MANTELPIECE, &c. Large and Choice Selection, including, among other articles, Groups, Statuettes, Vases, &c., in Parian and English and foreign Porcelain; Clocks (bronze, marble, and gilt), first-class Bronzes, Lustres, Candelabra, Candlesticks, and Bohemian Glass.
Novelty, Beauty, and Art.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 23, Ludgate-hill, E.C. Established 1760.

GARDNERS' LAMPS ARE THE BEST.— MODERATOR and PARAFFIN TABLE LAMPS, from 5s. 6d. each. Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (four doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GARDNERS' DINNER-SERVICES, best quality. Illustrated Catalogues post-free.—Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (4 doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GASELIERS in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze. Mediæval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures.
D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 55 and 56, High Holborn, W.C.

PATENT SPRING PILLOWS.—These Pillows are strongly recommended by the Medical Profession to Invalids for affording great ease and comfort, especially when travelling. They are alike adapted for the bed, couch, or carriage. To be had of W. H. BATSON and CO., 1, Maddox-street, Regent-street. Eiderdown Quilts of every colour and size.

TO LADIES.—GREEN TISSUE IVY LEAVES for ornamenting Chimney-glasses, 18 stamps per set of 72 slips. Tissue Window-blinds. Specimens and prices 2 stamps.—R. PETERS, Tovil, Maidstone.

INAUGURATION OF THE NEW TATTERSALLS'.

THE Friends of Messrs. TATTERSALL having determined on giving them a DINNER to celebrate the above event and to mark the general estimation in which they are held, the same will take place at WILLIS'S ROOMS, King-street, St. James's, on TUESDAY, APRIL 11, 1865, at Six o'Clock precisely, the Hon. Admiral ROUS in the chair.
Tickets, Two Guineas each, to be had at Willis's Rooms; at Mr. Bubb's Library, 167, New Bond-street; and at Tattersalls' Subscription Rooms, Hyde Park-corner, on application to Mr. Thomas.

CANCER HOSPITAL, London. Offices, 167, Piccadilly (opposite Bond-street).
Form of Legacy.
To those benevolent persons who kindly desire to become benefactors by will, the following form of legacy is recommended:—
"I give and bequeath unto the Cancer Hospital, London, situate at 167, Piccadilly, and also in the Fulham-road, Brompton, Middlesex, the sum of ——, to be paid out of my personal estate not charged on land, to be applied towards carrying on the charitable designs of the said Institution."
By order, W. J. COCKERILL, Secretary.

ACCIDENTS to LIFE or LIMB.—£1000 in case of death, or £6 per week while laid up by injury, secured by a payment of from £3 to £5 5s. per annum to the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY, 64, Cornhill; and 10, Regent-street. W. J. VIAN, Secretary.

ROYAL NAVAL, MILITARY, AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (Established A.D. 1837, under Royal Patronage), 17, Waterloo-place, London, S.W. ARTHUR H. HAMILTON, Secretary.
Agents wanted in towns not yet represented.

SCRAPS for SCREENS, SCRAP-BOOKS, &c. A great variety of Flowers, Figures, Landscapes, &c. Specimen Sheets from 1s.; or one doz. sheets assorted, post-free, 10s. 6d. WILLIAM BARNARD, 59, Connaught-terrace, London, W.

FOR 7s. 6d., 300 beautiful ILLUSTRATIONS for ALBUMS, SCREENS, PRESENTS, &c., comprising fine Steel Engravings, Picturesque Views, Rural and Domestic Scenes, rich Chromolithographs, &c. Post-free.
J. REYNOLDS, 174, Strand.

CARTES DE VISITE, 12 for 2s. 6d. Forward your carte de visite and 32 stamps to the LONDON PHOTOGRAPHIC COPYING INSTITUTION, 73, Great College-street, Camden Town, and you will receive 12 exact, full-size copies, post-free, with original. Six copies, 24 stamps. Tinting, three extra stamps for each carte. Address, WM. CHARLESON.

HALF-GUINEA BOX of MOIST COLOURS and Materials for Illumination.
WINSOR and NEWTON, 38, Rathbone-place, London; and all local Artists' Colourmen, Stationers, &c.

PHOTOCHROMY.—Photographs delicately coloured by this new Art. No knowledge of painting required. Box containing Colours and Matériel complete, with Instructions, 10s. 6d.—LECHERTIER, BARBE, and CO., 60, Regent-street.

THE FIVE-SHILLING ILLUMINATING COLOUR BOX contains twelve superfine Colours, body, white, gold, aluminium, and brushes.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st., London; and all Artists' Colourmen, &c.

THE PHOTOCHROMATIC COLOUR BOX, enabling any person, without a knowledge of painting or drawing, to colour photographs, producing a beautiful enamelled appearance, with twelve colours, all materials, specimen, and full directions, price 10s. 6d.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street; and all Artists' Colourmen, Stationers, &c.

SELLING BY THOUSANDS.

THE INGENIOUS POCKET TIMEPIECE, with Case complete, warranted to denote solar time correctly. Price One Shilling; by post, thirteen stamps.
WARD and CO., Kinver, near Stourbridge.

THE PRETTIEST GIFT FOR A LADY is one of JONES'S LEVER WATCHES, at £11 11s.; for a Gentleman, at £10 10s. Rewarded at the Exhibition for cheapness of production. Manufactory, 338, Strand, opposite Somerset House.

M. F. DENT, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen and to the principal Courts of Europe.
M. F. Dent, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, London.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—ARTIST IN HAIR. DEWDNEY beautifully makes and mounts in fine gold Hair Bracelets, Chains, Brooches, Rings, Pins, Studs, &c., and forwards the same at about one half the usual charge. An elegant collection of specimens handsomely mounted kept for inspection. A splendid assortment of Jet in every variety. An Illustrated Book sent post-free.—Dewdney, 172, Fenchurch-street, London.

A. FORRER, Hair Jeweller to the Queen, 2, Hanover-street, Hanover-square, W.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—G. HOOPER, Artist in Hair.—Solid Gold Lockets for Hair, from 5s. each; Hair Rings, from 6s. 6d.; Hair Alberts, from 25s. each, &c. Illustrated Catalogues sent free.—213, Regent-street, London.

SALOM'S NEW OPERA and FIELD GLASS, and THE RECONNOITERER GLASS, price 10s. 10d., sent free. This "Tourist's Favourite," through extraordinary division of labour, distinctly shows small windows 10 miles off, landscape at 30 miles, Jupiter's Moons, &c.—The Marquis of Carmarthen: "The reconnoiterer is very good."—Rev. Lord Scarsdale "approves of it."—Lord Gifford, of Ampney: "Most useful."—Lord Garvagh: "Remarkably good."—Sir Digby Cayley, of Brompton: "It gives me complete satisfaction, and is wonderfully good."—Capt. Sidney, Royal Small Arms Factory, Enfield Lock, "Presents his compliments to Messrs. Salom and Co., and begs to inclose 10s. 10d. for a reconnoiterer glass, having just tried that sent to Lieut. Hopkins, and found it effective at the 1000-yards range."—F. H. Fawkes, of Farnley Hall, Esq.: "I never before met an article that so completely answered the recommendation of its maker, nor, although I have tried many a glass, combining so much power for its size with so much clearness."—"The Field": "We have carefully tried it at an 800-yard rifle range against all the glasses possessed by members of the corps, and found it fully equal to any of those present, although they had cost more than four times its price."—"Notes and Queries": "What intending tourist will now start without such an indispensable companion to a pleasure trip?" The celebrated "HYTHE" GLASS shows bullet marks at 1200 yards, a man at 3½ miles, price 31s. 6d. All the above Glasses, respectively bearing the registered trade marks, "Salom," "Reconnoiterer," and "Hythe," are only to be had direct from Salom and Co., 98, Princes-street, Edinburgh.
No Agents of any kind anywhere.

THE PLANET JUPITER, when magnified 250 times with the new £5 TELESCOPE, appears seven times as large as the moon is to the naked eye; and the other planetary bodies proportionately. It will also distinguish the face of a sheep and features of a man four miles, shot marks upon a target two miles, and time by a church clock ten miles. This instrument is guaranteed, in writing, to perform the whole of the above, and to be equal in the most important respects to telescopes costing £70. It has a 3-in. superior achromatic object-glass, two eyepieces, &c., with portable metal tripod stand with jointed claw feet. Persons are invited to apply for a diagram, with other particulars, and eight sheets of testimonials from scientific and other gentlemen, including Lord Rosse. Sent free by book post.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly. High-power small pocket Telescopes, opera, race, field, and general outdoor glasses.

POCKET BAROMETER, COMPASS, and THERMOMETER, all in one, the size of a watch, for telling the weather, the heights of mountains, direction of winds, and temperature of the air. Guaranteed for twelve months. Price £4 15s., sent free.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-st., Piccadilly.

THE ACHROMATIC SPECTACLE LENSES, registered by S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians to the Government, 24th December, 1863, No. 4610.—"The great advantage and benefit derived from the use of these lenses need no comment."—Vide "Sir David Brewster on Optics," page 57; and Sir William Herschel, page 22.—39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly. Copies of testimonials from the principal ophthalmic hospitals sent post-free.

DEAFNESS.—The SOUND MAGNIFIER and INVISIBLE VOICE CONDUCTOR, for Deafness. It fits into the ear not perceptible, removes singing noises in the head, and enables deaf persons to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

WANTED.—LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, &c. Mr. or Mrs. A. DAVIS, 2, Crawford-st., Baker-st., W., attends Ladies and Gentlemen privately, to purchase Wearing Apparel, Uniforms, Jewellery, Diamonds, Plate, &c.; or, Parcels being sent, Post Office orders remitted the same day. Est. 64 years. Terms cash.

WANTED.—Left-off Clothes, Uniforms, Jewellery, and Miscellaneous Property, &c. Highest price given. Ladies and Gentlemen waited on. Address Mr. or Mrs. D. DAVIS, 46, Marylebone-lane, Oxford-street, W. Parcels being sent, Post Office orders remitted. Established 1800.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. G. HYAM, 10, Beak-street, Regent-street, W.; or, Parcels being sent, the utmost value in cash instantly remitted. Established 1820.

NOTICE.—THOMAS TAPLING, BEALL, and CO., formerly "Thomas Tapling and Co.," Carpet Warehousemen, &c., have REMOVED from 44A, Gresham-street, and 74, Aldermanbury, to their restored Premises, 1 to 8, GRESHAM-STREET WEST, City.

OLD MARSALA WINE, guaranteed the finest imported, free from acidity or heat, and much superior to low-priced Sherry. One guinea per dozen. A genuine, really fine old Port, 36s. per dozen. Terms cash. Three dozen, rail paid. W. D. WATSON, Wine Merchant, 73, Great Russell-street (corner of Bloomsbury-square), London, W.C. Established 1841.

PALE SHERRY at 36s. per Dozen, fit for a gentleman's table. Bottles and Cases included. Terms Cash. Post Orders payable Piccadilly.
Samples sent free of charge.
CHARLES WARD and SON
(Established upwards of a century), 1, Chapel-street West, Mayfair, W., London.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY V. COGNAC BRANDY.—This celebrated old Irish Whisky rivals the finest French Brandy. It is pure, mild, mellow, delicious, and very wholesome. Sold in bottles, 3s. 8d., at the retail houses in London; by the agents in the principal towns in England; or wholesale at 8, Great Windmill-street, London, W.—Observe the red seal, pink label, and cork branded "Kinahan's LL Whisky."

ALLSOPP'S PALE ALE.—The MARCH BREWINGS of the above ALE are now being supplied, in the finest condition, in bottles and in casks, by FINDLATER, MACKIE, and CO., 33, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

FRY'S CHOCOLATE FOR EATING, in Sticks and Drops, &c.
The increasing popularity of J. S. Fry and Sons' Chocolate is the best proof of its superiority over other kinds of sweetmeats.
FEW ARTICLES OF CONFECTIONERY embrace so many advantages. It is very delicious and sustaining, and is thus peculiarly adapted for persons who require light refreshment in A PORTABLE AND CONVENIENT FORM.

Sold by Grocers, Confectioners, and Druggists,

FRY'S CHOCOLATE CREAMS, AN EXCEEDINGLY DELICIOUS SWEETMEAT, rapidly increasing in public favour.

Made by J. S. FRY and SONS, Bristol and London.

FRY'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA, IN PACKETS SECURED IN TINFOIL.
The purity, delicacy of flavour, and nutritious properties of this Cocoa, as well as the great facility with which it is made, have rendered it a standard article of
GENERAL CONSUMPTION.
It is equally adapted for invalids and others, and is highly approved and strongly
RECOMMENDED BY MEDICAL MEN.

CHOCOLAT-MENIER.
The best aliment for Breakfast.

Yellow wrapper	2s. 0d.	per lb.
Chamois ditto	2s. 6d.	,,
Pink ditto	3s. 0d.	,,
Blue ditto	3s. 6d.	,,
Flavoured with Vanille.
Green wrapper	2s. 6d.	per lb.
Lilac ditto	3s. 0d.	,,
Bronze ditto	3s. 6d.	,,
White ditto	4s. 0d.	,,

Sold, in ¼ lb. packets, by all respectable Houses.
Wholesale, 23, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden.

FISON'S PEARL SEMOULE is Delicious, Wholesome, Economical, and Extremely Nutritious.
For the Dinner Table it gives a variety of choice dishes.
For Invalids it is very delicate, light, and digestible.
For Children, prepared with milk, it is a perfect diet.
For Infants it is much prized; they will often thrive upon it when everything else fails.
Sold in Packets by Grocers, Chemists, &c. London Wholesale Agents: HICKS BROS., Maiden-lane, E.C. Works, Ipswich.

OSWEGO

PREPARED CORN for Puddings, Custards, Blancmanges, &c., Manufactured and Perfected by T. KINGSFORD and SON, of Oswego, State of New York.
It is the original preparation from the farina of maize, established 1848, commands the highest price from the trade, and offers the best value to the consumer.
It is stronger than any of the imitations, has a finer grain, and is more delicate.
The Oswego has the natural golden tinge, and not the chalk white produced by artificial process.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

LETTERS PATENT, 1823. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862.

ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS is the most valuable preparation for making pure and delicate gruel. Modern chemistry has shown that this food is easy of digestion and rich in nutriment.
ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY makes a delicious custard-pudding, directions for which have been given by Mons. C. E. Francatelli. It is appreciated as a non-inflammatory drink, is excellent for mothers nursing, and has long been used with great success for rearing children by hand.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD. First Manufactured A.D. 1742, or more than ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY YEARS.
This well-known brand of Mustard has been sold by the trade of Great Britain for more than a century, and is held in high estimation for its purity and pungency of flavour. The qualities that are recommended for family use are the Double Superfine and the Genuine, both of which can be obtained from most Family Grocers, in canisters of 1 lb. and ½ lb. each.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

PURITY AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY.

COLMANS' PRIZE-MEDAL MUSTARD bears their trade mark, the Bull's Head, on each package.
It is the only Mustard which obtained a Prize Medal at the Great Exhibition, 1862.
For domestic purposes nothing finer can be produced. Their "genuine" and "double superfine" are the qualities particularly recommended.
Retailed in every town throughout the United Kingdom.
J. and J. Colman, 26, Cannon-street, London.

COLMAN'S STARCH obtained Prize Medals, International Exhibitions, 1851, 1862.
Report—"Superior Quality, with large Production."

BROWN and POLSON'S

PATENT CORN FLOUR. "JOHN BROWN" "JOHN POLSON" is signed by the Makers on each Packet.

"IT IS THE BEST I HAVE EVER USED or seen in use," writes Mr. Bladon, Refreshment-rooms, House of Lords, where FLOWER'S NON-MERCURIAL PLATE-POWDER has been in use the last seven years. Sold in boxes, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each, by Chemists and Ironmongers; Wholesale, by Crosse and Blackwell, 21, Soho-square, W.

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL.—This elegant and fragrant Oil is universally in high repute for its unprecedented success in promoting the growth, restoring, and beautifying the Human Hair. Its invaluable properties have obtained the patronage of Royalty, the Nobility, and the Aristocracy throughout Europe. Price, 3s. 6d., 7s., 10s. 6d. (equal to four small), and 21s. per bottle. Sold at 20, Hatton-garden, and by Chemists and Perfumers. Ask for "Rowlands' Macassar Oil."

DIAMOND HAIR DUST. PIESSE and LUBIN'S. Price 3s. 6d. box; by post, 6d. extra. Sprinkling Diamond Dust on the hair is now la mode. It produces the most charming effect.
Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond-street, London.

THE CONGRESS OF FLOWERS. PIESSE and LUBIN'S NEW PERFUME, made only at the Laboratory, 2, New Bond-street.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA, an excellent remedy for Gout and Stomachic Disorders of every kind, and as a mild aperient for delicate constitutions.—172, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS give instant relief of Asthma, Consumption, Colds, Coughs, &c.
Price 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. per Box, of all Druggists.

NICHOLSON and CO., Silkmercers, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard, London, beg to announce that they have just received their NEW SILKS for SPRING. Messrs. N. and Co. have also bought in Lyons several lots of last year's patterns at about half their original prices. 300 Patterns post-free. Established 22 years. No connection with any other firm.

OWING to the facilities now afforded by the Postmaster-General, Messrs. NICHOLSON beg to state that they have greatly improved their system of sending patterns of Silks, &c., by post. Instead of the small pieces and necessarily limited variety which, from the expense of postage, could formerly be sent, they now undertake to forward, post-free, 300 PATTERNS of SILKS, each piece 3½ in. by 2½ in. in size.
These patterns comprise every colour and design now fashionable in London and Paris, and represent a stock of £20,000 in value.
NICHOLSONS',
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Coloured Glacés, 30 shades, from 1s. 4½d. per yard. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Checks and Stripes, from 1 guinea a Dress. Reversible. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Broché and Chéné Silks, from 1½ guinea. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Moire Antiques and Corded Silks, from 2 guineas. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S BLACK SILKS. Black Glacés, Gros Grains, Drap de Lyon, Drap de Paris, &c., from 1 guinea a Dress. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED?—Boys' Knickerbocker Suits in Cloth, from 15s. 9d. Useful School Suits, from 12s. 9d. Patterns of the Cloths, directions for measurement, and 45 Engravings of New Dresses, post-free.—NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE OF PARIS FASHIONS, containing Twenty Illustrations of New Mantles, Dresses, and Juvenile Attire for the present season, is just published, and will be forwarded, gratis and post-free, to any part of the world on application.—Nicholson and Co., 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

LUDGATE-HILL RAILWAY (now opened).
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.
SILKS, DRESSES, MANTLES, FAMILY LINENS.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. New Checked Glacés, 14 yards, £1 15s. 6d.
Patterns of Rich Silks.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. New Striped Glacés, 14 yards, £2 2s.
Patterns of New Ribbed Silks.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. Gros de Suez, all the new colours. £3 9s. for 14 yards.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. Best Spitalfields Ducapes, warranted to wear, 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., 3s. 11d., 4s. 6d., 4s. 11d. per yard.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK FIGURED SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
A large assortment of New Patterns, £2 5s. 6d. for 14 yards.
Black Gros Grains, Black Gros de Suez.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES.—PATTERNS FREE.
Double Mohairs, Challis, Checked and Plain.
A large variety of useful Dresses cut by the yard.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

FAMILY LINEN DEPARTMENT. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.
Linen and Cotton Sheetings, best makes, all widths.
Irish and Scotch Table Linen, Napkins, and Slips,
Made and Marked with Crest or Initial, and Warranted for Wear.

MARRIAGE TROUSSEAUX and LAYETTES.—CHRISTIAN and RATHBONE respectfully solicit an inspection of their extensive and recherché Stock, combining Parisian taste with the excellence and durability of material for which their House has been noted for upwards of seventy years.
Christian and Rathbone, 11, Wigmore-street, W.

THIS SEASON'S FASHIONS IN DRESS. LADIES and the PUBLIC visiting London are respectfully invited to inspect our STOCK of SPRING PURCHASES, consisting of all the LATEST NOVELTIES IN DRESS, of British and Foreign Manufacture.
RICH BLACK GLACES, GRO GRAINS, and DUCAPES, of the Best Manufactures.
FANCY SILKS in all the new Styles and Colours.
BONNET GLACES, SATINS, and TERRYS, in the newest Shades.
All the LATEST FASHIONS in JACKETS and MANTLES for Spring Wear.
Paisley, Cashmere, and Lace SHAWLS in all the latest Designs.
NEW POPELINES, Plain and Checked, 10s. 9d. and 12s. 9d. (much under the usual price).
Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings, Haberdashery, Parasols, Ties, &c.
FAMILY AND COMPLIMENTARY MOURNING.
Drapers, Milliners, and Dressmakers supplied with cut lengths at Trade Price.
Matching Orders carefully and promptly attended to.
Patterns post-free.
Close on Saturdays at Five o'Clock.
JAMES SPENCE and CO., Wholesale and Retail Silkmercers, Drapers, &c., 77 and 78, St. Paul's-churchyard.

JAMES LOCKE and CO., the SCOTCH WAREHOUSES,
by appointment to her Majesty the Queen and her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales.
117, 119, and 127, Regent-street, London, W.
Waterproof Tweed Cloaks, Walking and Yachting Jackets, Shawls, Rugs, and Wrappers of every description. Shetland Shawls, Veils, and Hose. Serges, Fine Tweeds, and Linsey Woolseys for Ladies' Travelling and Seaside Dresses.
Patterns forwarded free.

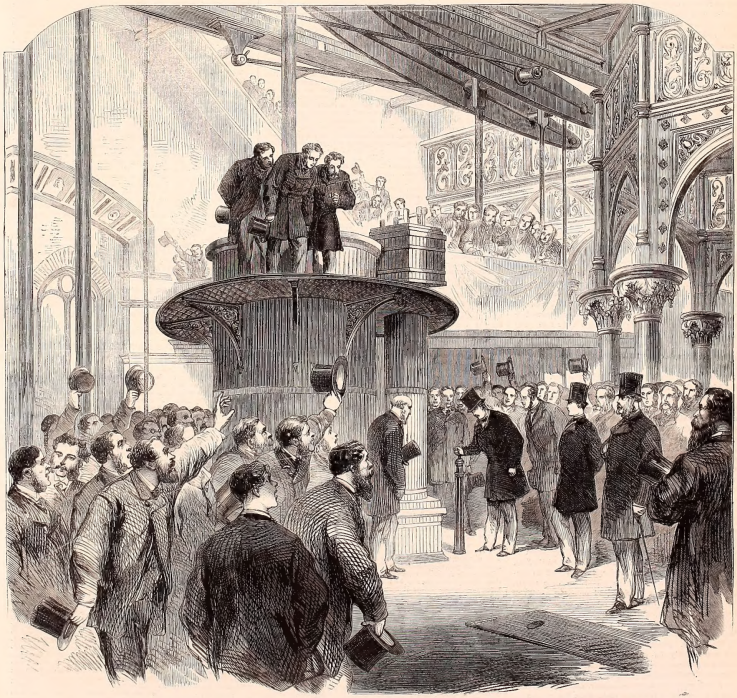
NEW SILKS, DRESS FABRICS, &c.

GRANT and GASK invite an inspection of their large collection of new French Fancy SILKS, rich Silk Robes, Court Trains, Satins in all the new colours, Moire Antiques, made-up Skirts, Mantles, Shawls, Evening Dresses, Organdie Muslins, &c.
Several very cheap lots of rich Silk Robes and Fancy Silks, from 2½ to 4½ guineas Full Dress of 14 yards; greatly under value.
Richest Moire Antiques, at 4½ guineas the Full Dress.
The Made-up Skirt Department contains a beautiful collection of Novelties for the Season.
Odd dress lengths of rich French Silks, very cheap, from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 9d. per yard, full width.
Several hundred pieces of French Brilliantines and Printed Cambrics much below the usual prices.
PATTERNS FORWARDED FREE.
58, 59, 60, 61, 62, Oxford-street; 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street, London.

NEW FRENCH SILKS, in COLOURS and BLACK, at 2s. 6½d. the yard, made of bright Italian silk, with the guarantee for durability of eminent firms in Paris and Lyons. The Silk Department includes all the richest and most costly productions. Patterns sent free.—HARVEY and CO., Lambeth House, Westminster-bridge, S.

IMPORTANT TO WOOLLEN BUYERS. Tailors and others desirous of saving 5 per cent every purchase, should go to JAMES PLATT and CO., 78, St. Martin's-lane, and 28 and 29, Cranbourn-st., who return to Cash Buyers 1s. out of 20s. N.B. Foreign Orders honestly, carefully, and promptly executed.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1865.



THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1310.—VOL. XLVI. SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1865. WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

THE FIRST STAGE OF THE SESSION.

THERE are usually three stages in a Parliamentary Session—from the opening to the Easter holidays, from Easter till Whitsuntide, from Whitsuntide to the grouse-shooting season. The first interval is commonly the least important of the three, particularly when party spirit is somewhat somnolent. The second, properly speaking, belongs to the Budget and to the financial measures consequent upon it. The third is appropriated to heavy legislative work, and, though most useful, is least attractive. The last legal Session of a Parliament is not very often reached—when it is, dulness is expected to be in the ascendant. That expectation, however has only been partially fulfilled this year. It is true, there have been no "field nights" worth speaking of—no pitched battles "in the open" between Government and the Opposition—no very exciting skirmishes preliminary to grander struggles; but the number of interesting and instructive debates has been greater than usual during this first stage of the Session, and, if it must be confessed that they are not likely to bear immediate fruit, they still serve to assure us that there is no reason for despairing of the political future.

OPENING THE METROPOLITAN MAIN-DRAINAGE WORKS AT CROSSNESS: THE PRINCE OF WALES STARTING THE ENGINES.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

The truth is that public opinion just now is singularly inert. Men's thoughts are preoccupied with matters that touch them more closely than politics. For some years past foreign affairs have chiefly engaged their sympathies—Italy, Poland, Denmark, America—and party conflicts have ranged themselves round the interests or principles supposed to be involved in the questions arising out of them. We are all too glad to have seen one after another of the crises occasioned by each of these controversies pass away without dragging us into war not to be grateful for a period of rest. We are in no mood to renew, at all events for the present, our excitement over political affairs at home. Peace on the Continent, and the probability of its continuance, coupled with a gradual relaxation of commercial restrictions by several of the European States, open to us enticing vistas of profitable enterprise. The nation is busy and successful in acquiring wealth. All existing indications favour the pursuit. It absorbs our energies. It engrosses our care. We are content to let other things stand over for awhile. We rather prefer than regret a Parliamentary Session which makes but little demand upon our solicitude. Such is the state of the public mind for the time being. How long it may remain such it is not for us to predict. Whilst it lasts, we have no right to look for stirring incidents of Parliamentary strife. It seems probable, indeed, that the reign of political indifference may extend to the very threshold of the general election—possibly, it may pass beyond it. So that, all things considered, we have reason to be surprised that the first stage of the Session has not been far duller than it has proved to be in fact.

Of the Army and Navy Estimates we are not disposed to say much. They are high as compared with what used to be accepted as the normal standard, but they exhibit for the third time a reduction which will assist the Chancellor of the Exchequer towards offering to the people a splendid budget of remissions. The discussion of the items of each has been quite as lively as can be expected, has showed quite as much vigilance, and has turned up here and there questions of very high moment. In connection with the Army Estimates, the debate on the Canadian defences was extremely able, and, quite irrespectively of the division, will do much to educate the public mind on a subject of pre-eminent national importance, but hitherto not very maturely considered. So also, in the discussion of the Navy Estimates, the relative naval strength of England was surveyed with a keen and critical eye, and the question as to the best ships and guns for attack or defence was gone into with unusual earnestness and acumen, leaving us, as the result of the searching debates, under the consolatory conviction that, if we have not yet reached perfection, we are at all events quite able to hold our own, and are not insensible to the importance of adapting our fleet to the work which will be expected from it in case of war. We do not know that the consideration of the estimates for these twin branches of the public service has been more efficiently proceeded with in any preceding Session of the present Parliament. Of course, the debates have in no case altered the votes; but every good discussion in Committee of Supply tells sensibly upon the next year's Estimates, and beneficially affects, meanwhile, the administrative departments principally concerned.

Government measures announced in the Royal Speech seldom succeed in getting through all their stages prior to the Easter holidays; but by Good Friday one is usually able to form a tolerably accurate judgment of what will become of them. Before that time they have almost always passed or succumbed to that ordeal which determines their fate. The bill for the concentration of all our superior law-courts upon one site, that of Sir George Grey for a nearer approach to uniformity in prison administration, and the two bills of the president of the Poor-Law Board for the more successful management of pauperism, will probably become law. Of the Public Schools' Bill, introduced by Lord Clarendon into the House of Lords, we cannot speak with equal confidence. Present appearances indicate that there is a struggle before it which it has not sufficient vitality to surmount, and that it will either be defeated or withdrawn before the Whitsuntide recess.

But the first stage of a Session commonly derives its chief interest from the debates raised on motions introduced by members on both sides of the house unconnected with the Government. Down to the Easter holidays the opportunities presented for these independent discussions are ample, and seldom fail of being turned to account. Indeed, it is often urged against the House of Commons as a matter of complaint that it wastes the first half of every Session in barren talk, and, when summer arrives, finds itself obliged to do penance by working double tides. The facts are undeniable, but the censure implied in the statement of them is but very partially deserved. For, in the first place, legislation is not the only, not perhaps the highest, function of Parliament. As the grand council of the empire, it does well to discuss all questions which affect the condition of the people, to bring forward matters which would otherwise perish of neglect, to throw light upon what is obscure, to ascertain the tendencies of the age, to inform, and educate, and occasionally stimulate the public mind. This is not so much the business of the Executive Government as of the representative branch of the Legislature. Moreover, the earlier portion of a Session cannot conveniently be engrossed by actual law-making. Government measures can only proceed at the pace allowed by the forms and traditional etiquette of the House; and, unless they are of an extremely urgent character, can only be pushed through the stage which takes the sense of the House upon the principles which they respectively embody after the lapse of some considerable time from the opening of Parliament. It may be partly of choice, but it is mainly of necessity, that the first two months of the Session are so largely devoted to discussions from which no immediate legislative results are anticipated.

This year the debates on motions submitted by private members have been unusually good. The condition of Ireland, for instance, has, in one or other of its phases, been under consideration no less than four times—in the discussion raised by Sir Hugh Cairns, on the report of the Belfast Commission; in that which followed Mr. Hennessy's motion respecting the depopulation of the sister isle; in that which gave Mr. Maguire a Select Committee on the question of landlords and tenants; and in that on Mr. Dillwyn's motion concerning the Irish Church. All these, except, perhaps, the first, were grave and statesman-like in tone, and useful in tendency. Then there has been an equally instructive debate on the affairs of New Zealand. The policy of maintaining our West African squadron has once more been ably discussed. The malt tax has demanded and received special notice, and our educational establishments have been temperately though somewhat searchingly brought under review. On the whole, the early talk of the House of Commons in this last year of its Parliamentary life has been interesting far above the average; not brilliant, it is true—in very exceptional instances mischievous—but, for the most part, such as well became the character of the House for intelligence, moderation, and wisdom.

We are not disposed to underrate the Session thus far. It has been less languid than it first promised to be. The business actually done has been of a modest and unostentatious kind, and mostly such as will command approbation. But it can hardly be said with justice that time has been wasted. A brief season of recreation has been fairly earned, and we unfeignedly hope it will be thoroughly enjoyed.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AT THE METROPOLITAN DRAINAGE WORKS.

The opening of the Southern Outfall Works of the Metropolitan Main Drainage took place, as we have reported, on Tuesday week, in the presence of their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales, Prince Alfred, and the Duke of Cambridge; Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, the two Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Bishops of London and Oxford, the Duke of Sutherland, the Secretary of State for the Home Department, and a large company of noblemen and gentlemen, including many members of the House of Commons. In our Impression of last week we gave a View of the exterior of the buildings and the covered Reservoir at Crossness; a View of the interior of the Reservoir; and a ground-plan showing its communications with the outfall sewer, which drains the whole of the southern part of the metropolitan district, from Putney down to Woolwich and from Norwood to the banks of the Thames. We now publish a View of the interior of the Engine-house, and some Illustrations of the proceedings upon the occasion of the opening. The Prince of Wales and other distinguished visitors had come down the river by the Oread steamer, from the Speaker's Stairs at Westminster Palace, and arrived at Woolwich about noon, when the Fisgard, the guard-ship, fired a Royal salute. They first landed, however, on the opposite side of the river, at Barking Creek, to inspect the Northern Outfall Drainage Works, under the guidance of Mr. Thwaites, chairman of the Metropolitan Board, and Mr. Bazalgette, the engineer. A guard of honour was formed by the 3rd Essex Volunteer Artillery to receive the Princes and their party at this place. Mr. Bazalgette gave them a brief explanation of the works at Barking, after which they recrossed the Thames and landed at the Southern Outfall Works at Crossness, which place is situated in the Plumstead Marshes, below the town of Woolwich. As soon as the Prince of Wales set foot on the pier, which was spread with crimson cloth, a Royal standard was hoisted, while other flags were hung out upon the buildings and along the river wall. Shrubs and flowers in pots, which were set upon the terrace, gave a very gay appearance to the whole scene, which was further enlivened by the band of the Royal Marines. In front of the engine-house was erected a section of the outfall sewer, by means of which a perfect idea of the magnitude of the culvert could be obtained. The visitors were first taken through the engine and boiler house, and then into the culvert which receives the sewage after it leaves the pumps. This was lighted up by rows of lamps, and presented—for a sewer—a cheerful appearance. There was nothing about it to remind one of the purpose for which it had been built. It was simply a long, lofty, wide tunnel of excellent brickwork. The next step in the tour of inspection brought the visitors to the Reservoir. This immense range of vaults, which we have already described, was illuminated for the occasion by myriads of coloured lamps, which shed such a bright light around that the architectural features of the works and the nicety with which the brickwork had been executed could be distinctly seen. The inspection of the subterranean parts was followed by a visit to one of the great sheds, in which a large number of working drawings and plans of various kinds were displayed on the walls. This shed, ordinarily used as a workshop, was now converted into a lecture hall. The Prince of Wales and some others were here installed in a gallery draped in crimson cloth, and Mr. Bazalgette proceeded to give a very clear and instructive account of the origin, progress, and completion of the great work about to be inaugurated by his Royal Highness. Mr. Bazalgette reminded his hearers of the pestilence which reigned in London in the first cholera year (1832), and of the low fevers and malaria which have been chronic in South London for so lengthened a period, and he did not hesitate to ascribe much of the sickness and mortality which have decimated the poorer classes of the population to the insufficient drainage of transpontine London. At the conclusion of Mr. Bazalgette's discourse, which was most ably and clearly given, his Royal Highness was conducted to the engine-rooms. Here, after a careful inspection of the immense pumping apparatus and furnaces, the Prince of Wales, under the guidance of the engineers in charge, proceeded to set the stupendous works in motion. As soon as the handle was turned by his Royal Highness, a sensible vibration was felt throughout the building, showing that the enormous beams, lifting-rods, and fly-wheels were in operation, and that the sewage which had been confined in the great receptacles underground was being pumped into the reservoirs, thence to be afterwards discharged into the Thames. The four engines were successively set in motion by his Royal Highness, who was greeted with a loud cheer by a body of workmen perched aloft in the galleries about the building as each lever was turned.

The guests of the Metropolitan Board of Works then entered a large shed, corresponding in size to that in which the lecture had taken place, and separated from it by a raised terrace. In this building, which was well and elaborately decorated, an excellent déjeûner had been prepared. Accommodation had been provided for about 500 visitors. There was but little room to spare. The Prince of Wales, Prince Alfred, the Duke of Cambridge, and Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, with a few of the more distinguished guests, sat on a raised dais, on which also sat the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Oxford, the Archbishop of York, the Duke of Sutherland, the Duke of St. Albans, the Marquis of Hartington, Earl Cadogan, Earl Stanhope, the Lord Mayor, the Hon. F. Byng, the Hon. H. W. Byng, Sir George Grey, and others. Mr. Thwaites, who presided, was seated on the left of the Prince of Wales. Before the déjeûner grace was said by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and at the conclusion by the Archbishop of York. In proposing the toast "Her Majesty the Queen," Mr. Thwaites remarked that the presence of their Royal Highnesses, with so many members of both Houses of the Legislature, was an encouragement to the promoters of the main-drainage scheme to persevere in discharging the important duties cast upon them. Then followed the toast of "The Prince of Wales," which was received with loud and hearty cheers.

The Prince of Wales briefly responded to the toast, and said:—"There is one toast which on this occasion cannot be left out—a toast which it gives me much pleasure to propose. It is, 'Success to the great and national undertaking the completion of which we have witnessed this day.' It is not good that we should separate without proposing this toast; and I may, perhaps, be allowed, in the name of those here present, to congratulate Mr. Thwaites and the eminent and skilful engineer, Mr. Bazalgette, on having completed this great public work so successfully. The work will be of material use to London, not so much now, perhaps, as in the future, when I hope London will have become one of the healthiest cities in Europe. I now propose 'Success to the great national undertaking, the completion of which we have witnessed to-day.'"

More than once his Royal Highness was cheered in this brief but effective address, and at the close of his speech the toast was drunk with all the honours. Then came the movement to the steamer which was to convey his Royal Highness back to town. The Prince was accompanied to the pier by most of those who were present. As he embarked he turned and saluted those assembled, and, being joined by the party which arrived with him in the morning, the signal was given, and at three o'clock the steamer Vivid turned to pilot the way up the river, soon followed by the Oread, which arrived at the Speaker's Stairs, Westminster, at a quarter-past four o'clock.

The main-drainage system on the south side of the Thames, which has thus been brought into complete operation by the opening of the reservoir and pumping apparatus of the outfall at Crossness, is a work of such importance that we may do well to add a few statistical particulars to our general description already given. The High-level Sewer and its southern branch together drain an area of about twenty square miles, including Tooting, Streatham, Clapham, Brixton, Dulwich, Camberwell, Peckham, Norwood, Sydenham, and part of Greenwich. Both lines are constructed of sufficient capacity to carry off all the flood-waters, so that they may be entirely intercepted from the low district, which is tidelocked and subjected to floods. The storm-waters will be discharged into Deptford Creek; while the sewage and a limited quantity of rain will flow by four iron pipes, each 3 ft. 6 in. in diameter, laid under its bed, into the outfall sewer. The length of this portion is only four miles and a half, of which a little over 300 yards was executed by tunnelling at a depth varying from 30 ft. to 35 ft. below the surface. The Low-level Sewer, commencing at Putney, takes a direct line through low ground once forming the bed of a second channel of the Thames, and drains Putney, Battersea, Nine Elms, Lambeth, Newington, Southwark, Bermondsey, Rotherhithe, and Deptford, comprising an area of twenty square miles. The surface of this land is mostly below the level of high water, and is, in many places, 5 ft. or 6 ft. below it, having at one time been completely covered by the Thames. The sewers throughout this district had but little fall, and could never empty themselves but at dead low water, and it was with reference to the condition of this part of the metropolis that some of our greatest engineers described the effects of artificial drainage by pumping as equivalent to raising the whole surface by more than 20 ft. The Low-level Sewer will, in fact, render this district as healthy as the highest in the metropolis. Its length is about ten miles, and its size varies from 4 ft. at the commencement to the two main sewers, which are 7 ft. by 7 ft., at its termination. This line communicates with the pumping station at Deptford, which raises the low-level sewage into the main Southern Outfall Sewer, which we described in last week's Paper. The length of this outfall sewer is eight miles, its diameter is 11 ft. 6 in., its sides are 18 in. thick, and it passes underground at a depth of 16 ft. in general, but from 45 ft. to 75 ft. below the town of Woolwich. The Crossness reservoir, into which this outfall flows, is six acres and a half in extent, and is formed by brick piers on brick arches, covered in with earth. The soil here, consisting of peat and sand, or soft silty clay, afforded no sufficient foundation within 25 ft. of the surface; and the contractor, Mr. T. Webster, deserves the highest credit for his execution of the brickwork of this reservoir and of the outfall sewer, which were by far the most difficult parts of the whole undertaking. The bricks used in all the works were mostly picked stocks, frequently faced with gault clay bricks, and the inverts were occasionally faced with Staffordshire blue bricks. The brickwork was, as a rule, laid in blue lias lime mortar, mixed in the proportions of two of sand to one of lime, for two thirds of the upper circumference of the sewers; the lower third was laid in Portland cement, mixed with an equal proportion of sand. A considerable length of sewer was laid entirely in cement. A double test of the quality of the cement was employed, which tended greatly to improve the manufacture of that material. The specifications provided that "the whole of the cement shall be Portland cement of the very best quality, ground extremely fine, weighing not less than 110 lb. to the bushel, and capable of maintaining a breaking weight of 500 lb. on $1\frac{1}{2}$ square inch seven days after being made in an iron mould, of the form and dimensions shown on a drawing, and immersed in water during the interval of seven days."

The engines and pumping-machinery at Crossness, which have been constructed by Messrs. James Watt and Co., were described and illustrated by a diagram in our Journal of May 28 last year. They are similar to those erected at Deptford for the raising of the low-level drainage into the outfall sewer.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL INTELLIGENCE.

FRANCE.

The annual sitting of the society of the Prince Imperial for granting loans to working men was held on Thursday week, at the Tuileries, in the Salle des Maréchaux—the Empress presiding, and the young Prince by her side. The Archbishop of Paris and several other distinguished personages were present. M. Frémy, vice-president of the Superior Council read the report of the year's proceedings, after which her Majesty spoke a few kind words in reply, and the meeting separated with cries of "Vive l'Empereur!" "Vive l'Impératrice!" "Vive le Prince Impérial!" During the three years that the society has been in existence it has advanced in Paris and the departments nearly 5000 loans, amounting to a total of 1,300,000f.

The Grand Duke, heir apparent to the Russian throne, has returned to Nice, after having spent a few days incognito in Paris.

Alro-Effendi, Plenipotentiary of the Porte upon an extraordinary mission relative to the unification of the Turkish interior debt, arrived at Paris on Monday.

In the Corps Législatif the debate on the paragraphs of the Address is going briskly on. There was a long debate yesterday week on an amendment proposing the abolition of the punishment of death, which, though eloquently supported by M. Jules Favre, was negatived by a large majority. On Saturday, the question of compulsory education was debated, when the Government promised to introduce a measure which, while not enforcing either compulsory or gratuitous education, would concede such improvements as might be found necessary. The debate was resumed on Monday, when the amendment was rejected by large majority. On Monday, M. Jules Favre drew attention to the foreign policy of the Government. He spoke of Mexico, Italy, Denmark, and Poland, and declared that none of the pending questions affecting these countries had been settled. Italy awaited her unity, and Poland her reconstitution; while Mexico remained in a deplorable condition. He complained of the policy of the Government in regard to Denmark, and may be said generally to have brought in a bill of indictment against the management of the empire's foreign affairs. M. Emile Ollivier defended the foreign policy of the Government against his ancient colleague. Paragraphs 14 and 15 of the Address were then adopted. M. Jules Favre explained the amendment to paragraph 16, regretting intervention in Mexico and demanding the recall of the French troops. M. Corta replied. The debate upon the Mexican question was continued on Tuesday. M. Picard sustained the views of the Opposition, and M. Rouher was the champion of the Government. The Minister stated, in the course of his speech, that the French troops would all return home "as soon as possible;" but we do not learn that he gave the Chamber any data on which to found a conjecture as to the nearness of the possibility. In a subsequent speech, M. Rouher energetically denied that there is the slightest chance of a war between France and the United States. The amendment was rejected by 225 against 16 votes; and paragraph 16 of the Address was adopted. On Wednesday General Allard, replying to the speeches of M. Lanjuinais and Baron David, said it was necessary to increase the European population of Algeria, and was of opinion that a military government would, for a long time to come, be indispensable in that colony. Paragraphs 17 and 18 of the Address were then adopted. The amendment of the Opposition to paragraph 19 was rejected. M. Kolb-Bernard delivered a speech against Italy.

The Congress assembled at Paris to deliberate on certain projected alterations in the cost of transmitting telegraphic messages over the various Continental wires, having agreed to the principle of a uniform charge, has now determined on the following rates:—A single despatch of twenty words, coming from whatever quarter, will be—for Prussia, 3f.; for Austria, 5f.; Spain, 4f.; Switzerland, 3f.; Italy, 4f.; Russia, 11f.; Turkey, 11f.; the Scandinavian countries, 3f. 50c. and 4f.

At an election of two members of the French Academy in place of Count Alfred de Vigny and M. Ampère, M. Camille Doucet, a writer of second-rate comedies and vaudevilles and some indifferent poetry, was chosen to fill the vacant chair of the former, and M. Prevost-Paradol, the well-known journalist, that of the latter. M. Jules Janin, the feuilletonist, after three ballots, obtained fourteen votes against M. Prevost-Paradol's sixteen.

The Academy of Moral and Political Sciences, at its last sitting, elected Mr. Henry Reeve, of London, as its correspondent in the section of politics, administration, and finance, in the place of the late Mr. E. Everett.

The whole amount received for the Pourtalès Collection is 2,820,000f. The supposition is that, without taking into consideration the interest of the sums employed in the purchase of these objects of art, the heirs will have a profit of 1,500,000f.

On Monday a painting by Murillo, from the collection of the late Marquis Aguado, representing the death of Santa Clara, was disposed of by public sale for 75,000f. The Royal gallery at Madrid has secured this work of a great countryman.

Thirty-seven thoroughbred horses, part of the stud of the late Duke De Morny, were sold by auction at Chantilly on Saturday last.

The Journal l'Union de l'Ouest has been suspended for two months for publishing false news, with the object of misleading public opinion and exciting hatred against the Government.

Official intelligence from Cochin-China to the 3rd ult. reports the establishment of the French in that country to be most satisfactory. The military reconnaissance made as far as Giaphu had been attended with the best results and assured tranquillity along the entire frontier of the province of Bien-Hoa. The Envoy sent to Hue to inform the King Su-Duc of the resolution of the French Government to maintain the treaty of 1862 had returned to Saigon. He had been well received, and the different claims of Rear-Admiral de la Grandière had been fully satisfied. A fresh instalment of 1,400,000f. of the indemnity due to France and Spain had been shipped on board the corvette Cosmao, at anchor at Sourane, and will be dispatched by the next mail.

SPAIN.

In the Senate, yesterday week, the bill for the anticipation of the taxes was agreed to by 101 to 42 votes.

A Royal decree has been published sanctioning the emission of hypothecated notes. The adjudication is fixed for the 4th of May next, at Madrid, and in the capitals of the provinces. Companies and private persons wishing to participate in the subscription will present sealed tenders. The notes will bear interest at the rate of six per cent, dating from January last, and be redeemable in three years. The rate of adjudication will be previously fixed by the Government, and those tenders will be admitted which equal or exceed the same.

According to the bill read last Friday in the Congress by the Minister of Marine, the Spanish naval forces are fixed as follow:—two sailing-vessels of 172 guns, a frigate of 42 guns, three corvettes carrying 76 guns, two brigantines carrying 32 guns; two first-class sloops, 4 guns; eleven second-class sloops, 11 guns; seventy schooners, three launches, and three transports, of 1823 tons burden. The ironclads will consist of three frigates, of 104 guns and 3000-horse power; four screw steam-frigates, of 186 guns and 2360-horse power; twelve schooners, carrying 29 guns, of 1400-horse power; three transports, of 2600 tons and 370-horse power; eight paddle-steamers, of 40 guns and 1760-horse power; and a transport, of 960 tons and 500-horse power. These vessels will be manned with sailors, and provided with 2826 marines. Lastly, there will be 597 men to guard the arsenals.

On Sunday, the 2nd instant, the first public meeting for the abolition of slavery in the Spanish colonies which has ever been held in Spain assembled in the Academy of Jurisprudence at Madrid. It was convened by the recently-established Spanish Abolitionist Society, and was presided over by Don Antonio Maria Segovia, a member of the Lower Chamber of the Cortes and one of the founders of the society. The meeting is reported to have been most crowded and enthusiastic, and resolutions were unanimously adopted approving of the establishment of the society and nominating as its president Don Salustiano Olozaga, one of the leaders of the Progressista party. A large and an influential committee, including five vice-presidents of high standing, were elected, and the majority of the gentlemen present inscribed their names as members of the new society. The cause of the abolition of slavery may now be considered as fairly planted in Spain.

The Minister of Public Works died suddenly in Madrid yesterday from a stroke of apoplexy.

PORTUGAL.

As stated in a great part of our Impression last week, the Government has given in to the demand of the American Minister, dismissed the Governor of the Belem Fort, and ordered it to salute the Federal flag with twenty-one guns. There appears some truth in the allegation that the Federal vessels, the Niagara and Sacramento, were only preparing to shift anchorage, they having been assigned somewhat inconvenient berths in the harbour, so as not to be too near the Stonewall. It is said that at the first shot the Niagara lowered her flag half-mast to show she accepted the intimation not to go out; but this signal appears not to have been observed at the tower. The commander of the Niagara complained, further, that a blank cartridge was not fired first to give him warning. It is alleged that the Confederate ram remained outside the harbour beyond the legal interval of twenty-four hours, ready to fight if the Federal frigates should come out.

The entire Ministry (the Duke de Loulé, Premier) has resigned, and their resignation had been accepted. The King had sent for the Marquis of Sa Da Bandiera.

The Chamber of Deputies has adjourned for a fortnight.

BELGIUM.

Brussels has had an extra-Parliamentary incident of some interest. In a debate in the Chamber of Deputies, on Wednesday week, the Minister of War, General Chazal, used some language which M. Delaert, one of the members for Antwerp, considered offensive. The member challenged the Minister, and a duel took place on Saturday. The Minister was slightly wounded in the side.

ITALY.

In the Chamber of Deputies at Turin, on Thursday week, the bill to extend the territory belonging to the town of Florence was passed. The Chamber then resumed the discussion on the bill for the sale of the State railways. Several amendments proposing a delay of the sale, and others opposing it altogether, were rejected.

The report of the Committee of the Chamber of Deputies upon the principal expenditure for 1863-4 has been issued. The committee propose that a bill of indemnity be passed in favour of the preceding Ministry, and recommend the Government to appoint a commission for the purpose of studying the system of administrative accountability and to present to a future Parliament a complete project of reform.

The Chamber of Deputies approved, on Wednesday afternoon, the second article of the bill relative to the sale of the State railways. The Chamber subsequently approved the whole project for the reorganisation of the railways by 156 against 88 votes.

At Rome Palm Sunday was celebrated with splendid ceremonies. The Pope blessed a number of palms and distributed them among the representatives of foreign States. A large crowd of foreigners lined the route of the procession from the Basilica to the Vatican. The Duke de Persigny, to whose mission so much political importance has long been attached by anticipation, has arrived in Rome.

There has been an enormous landslip in the commune of Buonarotte, Upper Abruzzi. Five manufactories, according to a telegram from Naples, have already been overthrown, and sixty-four more are threatened with ruin. The inhabitants have fled in the greatest consternation to the neighbouring villages. The cause of this disaster is a sudden and violent depression of the soil, which is for the present accounted for by the supposed yielding of the roof of an extensive subterranean cavern. A number of civil engineers have hastened to the spot to see what they can do to arrest such a formidable freak of nature.

Vesuvius is emiting strong columns of flame, with greater fierceness than was observed in the first ebullition. The subterranean rumbling sound is also louder than before; and everything combines to induce the belief that an eruption is imminent.

The Official Gazette of Turin publishes the latest returns of the progress made in piercing the tunnel of Mount Cenis. During the first quarter of the present year an advance of 337 metres have been made, counting both sides together. Last year, during the corresponding period, the progress made was only 235 metres. The whole length pierced on both sides, on the 31st of December, 1864, was 4086 metres; so that it is at present 4423 metres, or a little more than a third of the whole.

PRUSSIA.

The Government has submitted to the Chamber of Deputies a plan for the increase of the Prussian fleet. It claims for the country a position capable of imposing respect upon naval powers of the second rank. Ten iron-clad frigates, ten iron-clad batteries, and twenty corvettes and despatch-boats are stated to be necessary for Prussia. The expenses for the whole increase are estimated at 34,593,500 thalers.

DENMARK.

The debate on the bill for the modification of the Constitution, which had been protracted for so many weeks, was concluded on Monday night in the Rigsraad. The bill was passed in the Landething, but rejected in the Folkething by a small majority.

The session of the Rigsraad was closed on Tuesday. The King in his message addressed to the House regrets that the debate upon the proposed modifications of the Constitution had been without result, and views with grief the continuation of the present state of things. His Majesty expresses a wish that God will avert the dangers which may result from this position of affairs for the common fatherland.

Tuesday's Dagblad asserts that great demonstrations in favour of Denmark took place in Flensburg upon the King's birthday anniversary. The ships in the harbour hoisted the Danish colours, and the houses were illuminated. The streets were much crowded during the evening.

Privy Councillor Brastrup, who was intrusted last year with a mission to Athens, and subsequently with one to Berlin, has been appointed Minister of Justice and Public Worship.

RUSSIA.

A note in Sunday's Moniteur announces that two official despatches received from St. Petersburg state the sanitary condition of that capital to be greatly improved, and no sickness beyond that of an ordinary character to be now prevailing there. The Moniteur states that "the disease which has prevailed there for some few months assumed, at first, the character of recurrent fever, and afterwards, in a great number of cases, that of typhoid fever, without presenting, generally, any particularly serious character. It has hitherto been severe scarcely anywhere else than in the hospitals. As to the Siberian plague, or malignant pustules—the inroads of which at St. Petersburg have been announced by certain journals—no symptoms of it have been discovered in that city."

AMERICA.

By the City of London we have intelligence from New York to the 1st inst., when gold was quoted at 151¼.

Active operations have been begun before Petersburg, where the two armies had long lain supine. On the morning of the 25th ult., Lee suddenly attacked Grant's centre and captured Fort Steadman. The Confederates, flushed with this success, pushed on, captured a battery, and turned the guns on the Federals. They were, however, driven out from the battery, and their attacks on Fort Askell were repulsed. The Federals then assumed the offensive, and, having been reinforced, not only drove the Confederates out of Fort Steadman, but captured their picket-line beyond, and held it. The Federal account says the guns of Fort Steadman were uninjured; but General Lee, in his account, states they were disabled. The loss on both sides was heavy. General Grant estimates the slaughter of the Confederates at the point where they entered the Federal lines at 3000 men; his own loss altogether being put at 2000. The Federal troops in front of Petersburg, having been relieved by corps brought from the north bank of the James River, marched, on the 29th ult., towards the Federal left; and the result of their day's march was, as we are told, that they established themselves on a line parallel with the Boydton Plank Road, and west of Hatcher's Run. The Confederate pickets were driven in; and the Confederates who attacked General Griffin's division on the Quaker Road, were repulsed with severe loss—the Federals losing some 250 men in killed and wounded during the day, and capturing about one hundred prisoners. The Confederates were believed to be in strong force near Gravelly Run, and a heavy engagement was expected; but, although firing was heard at City Point on the 30th ult., it was supposed that operations had been interrupted by rain. General Sheridan's cavalry had accompanied the march of the Federals, and had been last heard of at Dinwiddie Courthouse, with the supposed intention of cutting the Southside Railway.

President Lincoln, Secretary Seward, and Generals Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan have had an interview at City Point. Rumours of peace negotiations were again current, but a New York telegram of the 31st ult. states it to have been "semi-officially denied that General Lee has demanded a peace conference." The Spanish and British Ministers accompanied Mr. Seward to City Point.

General Sherman, it is announced, had had hard and continued fighting since leaving Fayetteville, but he had formed a junction with the corps of Generals Schofield and Terry at Goldsborough, which had been occupied by General Schofield on the 2nd ult.; and there, it is stated, the armies were resting to refit, the campaign having been a glorious success. General Sherman had issued an order of the day, dated near Bentonville, on the 22nd ult., in which he stated that the concentrated armies of the enemy had upon the 21st been beaten upon their chosen ground, and were fleeing in disorder, leaving their dead and wounded, and burning the bridges in their retreat. General Sherman had quitted his army and proceeded to City Point, where, as stated above, he held a council on March 27, with President Lincoln, General Grant, and General Sheridan, and afterwards returned to Goldsborough.

General Thomas has effected a junction with Gillen at Knoxville, and the ultimate object of this combined movement is believed to be the capture of Lynchburg.

The Federal forces advanced against Mobile on the 18th ult., and, from heavy firing which was heard on the 21st, it was believed that the attack had commenced. Mobile is said to be provisioned for a six months' siege.

BRITISH NORTH AMERICA.

A Montreal telegram of March 30 states that the St. Albans raiders had been discharged on the ground that they were belligerents. They were no sooner at liberty, however, than they were re-arrested on a charge of violent assault, with intent to commit murder.

INDIA.

A telegram has been received at the India Office, announcing that General Tombs, the new Commander of the Bhootan expedition, had recaptured Dewangiri. The enemy fought well, and lost a great many men and two chiefs. Our loss was very slight.

The Moniteur Algérien gives a statistical account of the destruction of wild beasts in the French African colony, for which premiums are paid by the Government:—Lions, lionesses, and cubs, 20; panthers, 62; hyenas, 87; jackalls, 1161. The prizes given are—for lions, lionesses, and grown panthers, 40f. each; cubs, 15f.; full-grown hyenas, 15f.; young ones and jackalls, 1f. 50c.

AUSTRALIA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Feb. 24, 1865.

Victoria has not, I fear, raised her character of late in British estimation. Unluckily, she is fast going to prove that in the lowest deep there is still a lower. The list of her blunders during the last month would be a long one; so it is as well to begin at once. Neither this nor any of the other Australian colonies wish, directly or indirectly, to sever their allegiance to the mother land. But, if not disloyal in spirit, a very large section of the community—the most numerous and the most noisy, but anything but the most respectable and influential—are vehemently urging a measure which has all the practical effects of a financial separation, and, in the particular case of Melbourne, may be called suicidal. The experience of the last month has shown that in Victoria we have a Parliament so alien to British common-sense and British spirit, and so alien to the teachings and policy of England's profoundest writers and wisest statesmen, as to pass a measure embodying all the pernicious elements of the long-exploded system of protection. It is fortunate that, by our Constitution Act, the bill has to receive the sanction of the Upper House before it becomes law; and, such being the case, there is still the chance of our being saved from disgrace and ruin. The Assembly seemed to pass the measure under some infatuation. The evil effects of the proposed change are even now observable everywhere. The erection of large warehouses that were contracted for has been stopped, numbers of hands have been discharged from the employment of importers, and the price of some of the necessaries of life have risen from 10 to 25 per cent. What makes the change in the tariff the more unwarrantable is the fact that our finances are, or were, in the most satisfactory condition, the Treasurer's statement showing that the new year could be commenced with an actual balance at the right side of the account. The duty on tea and sugar has been somewhat reduced, and the gold export duty all but repealed. To make up for the deficiency thus caused, duties have been levied upon almost all imports, including wearing apparel, boots, shoes, hats, hams and bacon, candles, butter, cheese, oats, &c. It ought to be mentioned to our credit that, as soon as the Budget was disclosed, the mercantile classes took instant steps to endeavour to thwart the designs of the Ministry. Meetings were held, a free-trade league was formed, towards the carrying out of the objects of which £5000 was subscribed in the course of a day or two. As the measure was pushed rapidly through the Assembly, no influence could be made to bear upon that body. So the league is directing its efforts towards the Council, to which several large petitions against the new tariff have been already presented, and others from different districts are in course of preparation.

The next matter in which Victoria will appear to a disadvantage at home is the treatment which the commander of the Confederate war-steamer, the Shenandoah, received at the hands of our Government. In my last letter the arrival of the Shenandoah, with, probably, Captain Semmes on board, was announced. It appears I was mistaken as to Captain Semmes, the vessel being under the command of Captain Waddell, who, as soon as he anchored in Hobson's Bay, communicated the fact of his arrival to the Governor, and asked permission to have the machinery overhauled, and to take in stores. Permission to do both was granted. After being some twelve or fourteen days in port, and while the vessel was on the patent slip undergoing the repairs that were deemed necessary, and which were sanctioned by Government commissioners, rumours were circulated to the effect that a number of men had been induced to join the Confederate service. It appears the information was supplied by some deserters, and, upon the information so furnished, a warrant was issued for the apprehension of one named "Charlie," who was declared to be on board wearing the uniform of the ship. The execution of the warrant was intrusted to an officer of police, who, on going on board, was, in the absence of the captain, refused permission to search the ship. On the following morning the officer presented himself, when he saw Captain Waddell, who informed him that it was contrary to the rules of the service that a vessel of war should be searched; but, at the same time, he gave his word of honour as an officer and a gentleman that no other men than his own crew were on board. The Government, not content with this declaration, and believing that the Foreign Enlistment Act, as well as the Neutrality Laws, had been violated, sent a force of military and police, with instructions that they were to allow no person to afford any aid in launching the vessel, unless the search was allowed or "Charlie" given up. This caused considerable excitement; but still Captain Waddell refused permission to search. Late on the same night four men were seen to leave the vessel. They were pursued and captured, and one of them was indentified as the man "Charlie" for whom the warrant had been issued. The military and police were then withdrawn, and the Shenandoah was launched on the following day; but not until a great deal of correspondence had passed between the Commander and the Government. Captain Waddell complained of the insulting tone of the correspondence, and has intimated his intention of bringing the whole matter before the Richmond Government. It is declared by the Commander and officers that the men arrested were stowaways, and that their presence on board was unknown to anyone, they being only discovered after a third search. The four men were brought before the Williamstown Police Court charged with committing a breach of the Foreign Enlistment Act. Three of them were committed for trial, the fourth, being an American, was discharged. It is said that the Government of Victoria intend laying the case before the Imperial Government. The public sympathy is all with Captain Waddell. The Shenandoah sailed from Hobson's Bay on the morning of the 18th inst., with, it is well known, a considerable addition to her crew. She is said to be lying off our coast, waiting the arrival of some Federal vessels consigned to American merchants, at whose instigation, it is alleged, the Government took the proceedings against Captain Waddell, of which such a mess has been made. The Government did either too much or too little. They ought to have been sure of their information being well founded before seizing the Shenandoah, and, if they were correct in the first step, they would have been warranted in retaining possession of her. By their conduct they have equally offended North and South.

The Land Bill has passed the Council, but so altered that it is questionable whether the Assembly will agree to the alterations.

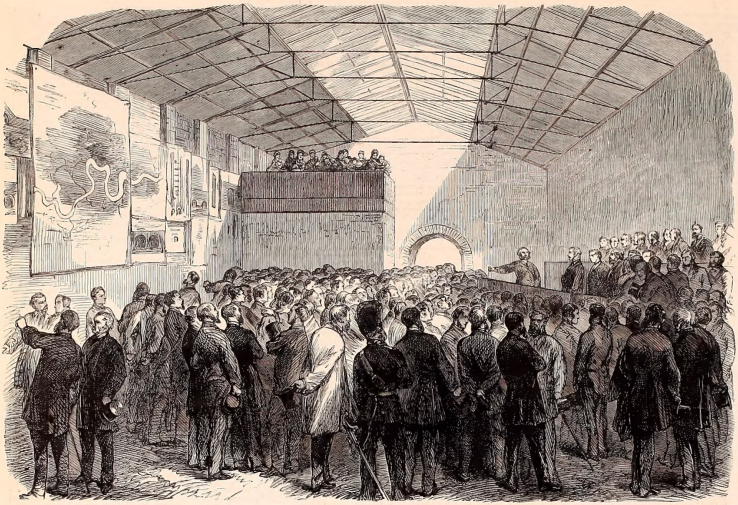
A motion for the payment of members was lost in the Assembly the other night by a minority of three.

Mining operations continue to be successfully prosecuted, the only drawback being the scarcity of water.

The Great Britain has arrived, after a fine run of sixty days; the Norfolk, sixty-nine days; the Royal Standard, seventy-four days; and the Childers, seventy days.

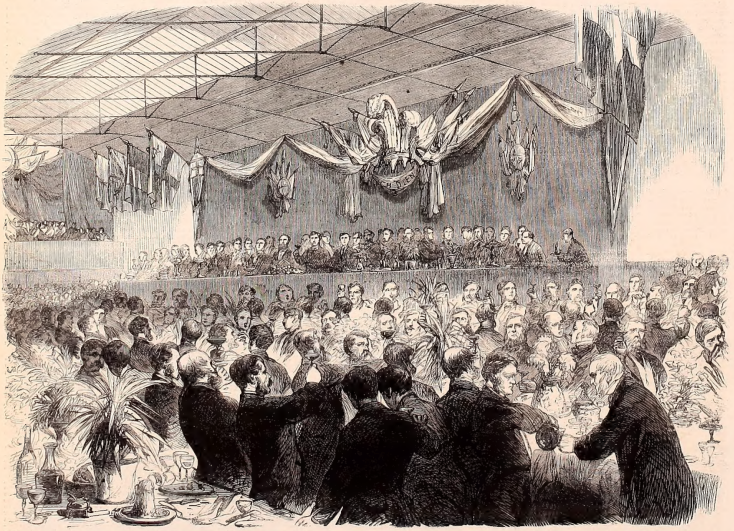
There has been another change of Ministry in New South Wales. Mr. Martin has resigned, and Mr. Cowper has resumed office, with nearly all the members of his former Ministry.

Bushranging is as prevalent as ever in New South Wales, the police proving themselves utterly powerless to arrest its progress.



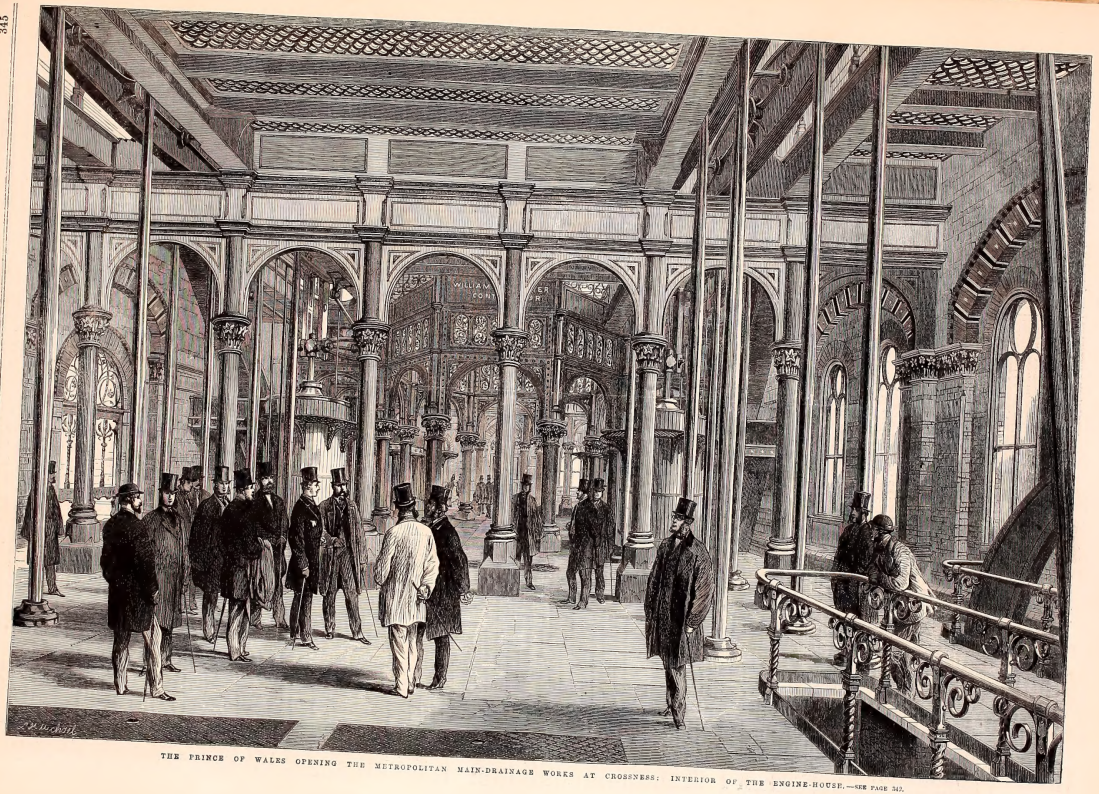
The news from New Zealand is important. William Thompson, the Chief of the Waikato tribes, and the principal person in the rebellion, has surrendered; but, while this is the case, active hostilities have broken out on the West Coast.

The contract between the Government of New Zealand, for the conveyance of their mails by the Panama route, has been concluded with the Intercolonial Royal Mail Company.



A terrible fire took place at Port-au-Prince, Hayti, on the 23rd of February. It began at the theatre, and was caused by the carelessness of a lamp-trimmer. More than 600 houses were destroyed.

The quarterly and monthly returns of the emigration from Liverpool show an enormous decrease, as compared with the corresponding period of last year. Twenty-one ships sailed, under the Act, for the United States during the last month, with 6872 passengers, of whom 1445 were English, 519 Scotch, 528 Irish, and 1053 belonging to other countries. To Victoria there were two ships, with 503 passengers, of whom 188 were English, twenty-one Scotch, 283 Irish, and four belonging to other countries. To South America there was one ship, with seventy-one passengers, sixty-eight of whom were steerage and three cabin; and, of the whole, four were English, the remainder belonged to other countries. Of "short" ships there were six to the United States, with 311 passengers; one to Victoria, with twenty-four passengers; one to the West Indies, with seven passengers; one to South America, with fifty-five passengers; and one to Africa, with fifty-five passengers. The total number of emigrants was 7878, against 14,488 in the corresponding month of last year. In the last quarter there sailed, under the Act, 14,516, while in the corresponding quarter of 1864 the number was 26,547.



THE PRINCE OF WALES OPENING THE METROPOLITAN MAIN-DRAINAGE WORKS AT CROSSNESS.

MR. BAZALGETTE EXPLAINING THE MAIN-DRAINAGE PLANS.

THE LUNCHEON IN THE WORKSHOP AT CROSSNESS.—SEE PAGE 367.

THE PRINCE OF WALES OPENING THE METROPOLITAN MAIN-DRAINAGE WORKS AT CROSSNESS: INTERIOR OF THE ENGINE-HOUSE.—SEE PAGE 347.

BIRTHS.

On the 11th inst. at 6, Pembridge-crescent, Bayswater, the wife of W. P. Teale, Esq., of a son.

On the 12th inst., at Hendre Bank, near Burnley, the wife of Wm. Robinson, Esq., Mayor of Burnley, of a daughter.

On the 9th inst., Viscountess Somerton, of a son.

On the 11th inst. at Princes-gate, Lady Victoria Buxton, of a son.

On the 11th inst. at Kilvea Castle, the Marchioness of Kildare, of a daughter.

On the 11th inst., at Grosvenor-street, Lady F. Fitzroy, of a daughter still-born.

MARRIAGES.

At Corsica, C. Mercmartin, Esq., M.D., to Mis Lottie, daughter of the Hon. H. V. Berkeley, Judge of the Supreme Court, Gibraltar.

On the 11th inst. at the British Embassy, Constantinople, Mr. Alfred Austin to her Majesty's Embassy at the Court of Russia, to Elizabeth Mary, youngest daughter of the late Captain Duncan, R.N., of Myrtenbank, N.B.

On the 4th inst., at St. Pancras Church, by the Rev. Canon Champneys, Edward de Wardt, Esq., of Elberfeld, Rhenish Prussia, to Isabella Reid, daughter of the late J. Reid, Esq., banker, Kirkcaldy, N.B.

DEATHS.

On the 4th inst., at her residence, at Strand-on-the-Green, Chiswick, Elizabeth Prescott, eldest daughter of the late Lewis Prescott, Esq., of Clapham-common, in her 80th year.

On the 7th inst., at Venice, Margaret, Lady Sneyd, relict of the late Colonel Sir Thomas Stephen Sneyd, her Majesty's Agent and Consul-General for the late Lombardo-Venetian Kingdom and the States of the Adriatic.

On Upper Seymour-street, Portman-square, the Hon. Catherine Goulburn, wife of Mr. Serjeant Goulburn.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 22.

SUNDAY, April 16.—Easter Sunday. Battle of Culloden: the Duke of Cumberland defeats Prince Charles Edward Stuart and his adherents, 1746. Death of Henry Purcell, 1695.

MONDAY, 17.—Death of Benjamin Franklin, 1790. The Horticultural Society of London incorporated by Charter, 1809.

TUESDAY, 18.—Death of John Foxe, the martyrologist, 1587. Moon's last quarter 11h. 30m. morn.

WEDNESDAY, 19.—St. Alphege, Archbishop of Canterbury, murdered by the Danes, 1012. Parliament Lincoln elected by the Short Roll of the Sheriff of Southern States of North America, 1861. Oxford Easter Term begins.

THURSDAY, 20.—Roosevelt discovers the Long Plateaux, 1741. The Emperor Napoleon III. born, 1808.

FRIDAY, 21.—St. Anselm, Archbishop, died, 1109. Day assigned for the foundation of Rome, 753 B.C. Cambridge Easter Term begins.

SATURDAY, 22.—Marriage of Henry VI. and Margaret of Anjou, 1445. Earthquake at Rhodes, 1863.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 22.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
m. h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.	h. m.
4 55	5 15	5 35	5 56	6 18	6 42	7 7
17	37	57	18	40	7 4	29

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE ROYAL OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 29′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 57″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF				THERMOMETER.		WIND.		Sun in 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours.
	Barometer reduced to 32° and Sea Level.	Dry Bulb Thermometer.	Wet Bulb Thermometer.	Relative Amount of Moisture.	Highest.	Lowest.	General Direction.	Velocity in Miles.
	Inches.	°	°	°	°	°		Miles	Inches	Inch
6	30·1787	47·8	45·9	89	49·9	39·0	SW.	292	0·24
7	30·1787	47·6	45·7	89	48·1	39·0	SW. by W.	292	0·00
8	30·1185	52·9	48·1	78	9	45·0	49·0	SW. SSW.	213	0·00
9	29·7161	54·7	48·4	73	9	49·2	60·0	SW.	292	0·00
10	29·7161	56·1	49·3	73	9	49·2	59·8	SW.	292	0·00
11	29·7161	57·6	44·5	58	0	40·7	67·0	WSW. SSW.	147	0·00
12	29·7161	59·0	42·8	47	1	39·3	67·6	SSE. E.	117	0·00

The Readings are the readings of the corrected instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past one p.m. :—

Barometer (corrected)	30·1787	30·1185	30·1161	30·1161
Temperature of air	49·6°	54·9°	54·5°	56·6°
Temperature of evaporation	49·6°	48·9°	51·7°	44·9°
Direction of Wind	SW.	SW.	CALM.	NW.
	29·7161	29·7161	29·7161	29·7161
	57·6°	59·0°	59·0°	59·0°
	44·5°	42·8°	42·8°	42·8°
	WSW.	SSE.	SSE.	SSE.

"LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD,"

PRINTED IN COLOURS,

FROM A PICTURE BY J. SANT.

In order to meet the great demand for this popular Picture, originally published with the Christmas Number of this Journal in 1863, it has been RE-ENGRAVED, and is NOW ON SALE. PRICE SIXPENCE.

To ensure a supply, orders should be given at once to Newsagents or at the Office, 198, Strand, London.

DOUBLE NUMBER.

A DOUBLE NUMBER of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS will be issued on SATURDAY, the 29th inst., consisting of a PICTURE PRINTED IN COLOURS, entitled

HAPPINESS,

FROM A PAINTING BY J. J. HILL;

a Large Bird's-eye View of

LIVERPOOL FROM THE MERSEY;

and Two Sheets of News and Fine-Art Illustrations.

Price of the Whole, Tenpence; Stamped, to go free through the Post, One Shilling.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

LONDON: SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1865.

SHORTLY before Parliament rose for the Easter holidays, Lord Palmerston was interrogated as to the intentions of Government in regard to the Pope. He replied with a compliment to his Holiness, but there is a general impression, both here and abroad, that before long he will find it necessary to retire from the Chair of St. Peter. Not into the catacombs, as he formerly intended, but into some comfortable palace, to be provided for him either by Roman Catholic devotion or Protestant respect. Mr. Newdegate and some other easily-frightened persons thought that, when compelled to leave Rome, the Pope might come to England—the usual asylum for Sovereigns out of work—and they apprehended very dreadful things. We suppose, from the Papal presence. However, Lord Palmerston did not encourage that idea, and rather thought that the Pope in England would be an anachronism. The Italians do not appear to consider it unlikely that his Holiness will take refuge among us, and the lighter journals of Italy are full of caricatures of Pope Pius dressed in English clothes and adopting English manners. He will, of course, do as he pleases. Should he come, we shall all treat him with the utmost respect, and we do not suppose that there would be any George Gordon riots if a quadrangle of Cardinal Wolsey's palace at Hampton Court should be appropriated to the Pope; we believe, indeed, that the venerable and pleasant-looking Sovereign would be received when he arrived with considerable good-feeling, though he could not increase the Church of Rome by a single proselyte. But it seems that, should his faithful children in Rome urgently demand his departure, a residence in Malta will, as heretofore, be at his command. We owe much that is good to Rome, and have sufficiently conquered the evils we also owe to her, to be able to show gentlemanly courtesy and hospitality for a time long in exile.

But there are some facts in the history of the Pope which are not generally known, and which may tend to place his character in a new light. We are accustomed to think of him only as the aged man who had long been an obscure Cardinal, and we think nothing of his earlier history. But he will certainly be more interesting in the eyes even of the most Protestant young ladies when they are told that a love affair conducted to his becoming Pope in his own youth is as that Gospel light first dawned from Bolsey's eyes.

Is there no poet to tell of the romance of the Vatican? For romance there certainly was. The Pope, when quite a young man, actually went to Paris, and, disguised as a Capuchin, ridiculously elegant in costume, and greatly addicted to what is termed "falling in love." He was not intended for the Church, but wanted to be a soldier, chiefly, it may be thought, for the sake of the irresistible uniform. He was persuaded out of this view, and also in another. His effections were placed high, but not hopelessly, and for a long time he indulged himself in the belief that he should make the love-match he aimed at. But the lady in the case married a rival who had rather more advantageously, and the Pope was thrown over. He was then about twenty-four, and, though we do not die of such afflictions, at twenty-four they make us rather more miserable than at a later age. The Pope was miserable, and watched indeed, and at length a friend, who was highly placed in the Church, invited him to cure himself once for all of all earthly troubles by entering the priesthood. He did so, and the rest of his history is well known.

Surely all this, though it happened a very long time ago (for his Holiness was born on the 13th of May, 1792) must give the Pope a new interest in the eyes of many who are not in the least afraid of him as a religious party, and may at least soften the hearts of the stern persons who never name him without some epithet or accent of hate. Let us think, not of the venerable old man, with a "fine" smile, and a noble voice which can be heard at will, but of the young man who could not get his inferiors fail to scatter a sound beyond the circle round them, but of the elegant young Italian casting pensive glances at a window, and looking something like Mario when he is palpitating, with a handful of flowers, to the window of a gay lover. Who will find in his, or in, at least in her, heart to say anything unkind of a gentleman who was really driven to become a Pope because cruel parents would not let him become a husband. Such a fate is very hard upon a young man, indeed, and is it not pleasant to believe that, when he has dismissed all his priests, and taken leave of the wily Antonelli, the aged Pius becomes in heart the young Giovanni, and perhaps keeps in some cherished corner of his memory a love-letter and a lock of a faded glove in it? These are the things which the Roman Catholics should tell us, if they want to make their Sovereign popular. The English are intensely sentimental, and delight in romance and love-stories. They will, we do not frighten us. Thunder at us with your cannons, and we answer you with a seven-fold roar. Thunder at us with your commissions, and we set them to Ethiopian airs, and set you up as a fool. Tell us of a leader gashed with a sword or axe, and give you a bandage and a testimonial. But the Roman Catholics have no tact. They scold, and threaten, and call us heretics, and then we use strong language about the Pope, and declare that he is not to be considered sacred like. The little history which we, Protestant to the marrow, as the Spanish say, have just given, is calculated to do the Pope more good, in case he should ever be driven to leave us, and the shrieks of indignation which his admirers pour out, or all the indignation which is lavished upon us for not seeing the sense of the encyclical.

Perhaps this is the last Holy Week which the Pope will spend in Rome. It is clear that on the Continent that idea prevails. It has been significant that the Court of Rome cannot make an army capable of defending his Holiness against his people. The French are not to be trusted, and the Austrians are hated. The subject is one which is appropriate to the present season, when ecclesiastical observances occupy the entire Christian world. Whether Pope Pius IX. will take refuge in Spain, or whether he will be driven to Constantinople, or whether, as part of his unfilial children, remains to be seen; but we are glad of an opportunity of disabusing Continental writers of two ideas which they have lately been rather busily diffusing—namely, that we are afraid to receive the Pope here, and that the Pope ought to be afraid to come.

A supplement to the London Gazette was issued on Wednesday night, containing a despatch, with inclosures, from Lieutenant-General Sir D. A. Cameron, K.C.B., commanding the troops in New Zealand, Lieutenant-Colonel Carey, 65th Regiment, Deputy Adjutant-General, and Captain Mair, Military Train were very gallantly led by Captain Mitchell, and it was their steady and well-executed charge that put the rebels to flight on their left attack. Colonel Mould, C.B., commanding Royal Engineers, was present; and Lieutenant-Colonel Williams, commanding Royal Artillery, directed the movements of the two Armstrong guns. Colonel Carey, C.B., Deputy Adjutant-General; Lieutenant-Colonel Gamble, C.B., Deputy Quartermaster-General; Major Hall, Assistant Military Secretary; and my two Aides-de-Camp, Lieutenant-Colonel M'Neill and Lieutenant St. Hill, were also present, and were active in conveying orders."

THE COURT.

THE Queen, accompanied by Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, and Princess Beatrice, and attended by Viscountess Jocelyn, the Hon. Mrs. Bruce, Major General Seymour, and Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat, returned to Windsor Castle at a quarter before seven on Thursday week from Buckingham Palace. Prince Leopold, attended by Mr. Bull, also arrived at the castle. Earlier in the day her Majesty, accompanied by Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, and Princess Louisa, visited the Horticultural Gardens at South Kensington, and the South Kensington Museum. The Queen afterwards honoured Mr. C. W. Cope with a visit at his studio. Her Majesty held a Court at Buckingham Palace on Saturday afternoon, at which Princess Helena and Princess Louisa, attended by Lady Caroline Barrington and Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat, received and visited the Friends Meeting-House, Hall-mall.

Yesterday week the Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, walked in the castle grounds. Later in the day her Majesty accompanied by Princess Louisa, drove out. The Queen, attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Haig, went hunting. This was the twelfth anniversary of the birthday of Prince Leopold, in the evening the Queen gave a juvenile party in honour of the event. In her royal Highness's birthday, to which the children of General Grey and of other members of the royal household were invited. A concert was given by Messrs. Carpenter and Westley in the presence chamber of the State apartments, which had been fitted up for the purpose. The amusements consisted of a series of dissolving views and phantasmagorias, accompanied by appropriate music, terminating with artificial fireworks and chromotropes, beautifully designed.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Prince Alfred, walked in the grounds of the castle. Subsequently her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, drove out. Prince Louisa, Princess Helena rode in the Home Park. Princess Louisa, attended by Viscountess Jocelyn, drove out. Prince Leopold and Princess Beatrice rode in the Home Park. Viscount and Viscountess Palmerston arrived at the castle, and had the honour of dining with her Majesty.

On Tuesday her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice attended Divine service in the private chapel in the castle. The Rev. F. C. Cook, Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen, officiated. Lieutenant-General Sir H. and Lady Bernard were also present at dinner, having with her Majesty.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena, drove in the castle grounds. Later in the day her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice and attended by Viscountess Jocelyn, drove in the Home Park. Prince Leopold and Princess Beatrice rode in the Home Park. Her Majesty walked out. Princess Helena, attended by Lady Caroline Barrington, drove out. Princess Louisa rode in the Home Park. Prince Leopold, attended by Lieutenant-Col. Du Plat, Bernhard, went to London. Prince Leopold, attended by Mr. Bull, walked in the grounds. Viscount and Viscountess Palmerston left the castle for London.

On Tuesday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa, walked and drove in the grounds of the castle. Princess Helena rode in the Home Park. Her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice drove in the castle grounds. Her Majesty honoured Mr. Theed with a sitting for the new statue of Hengo-Jones.

During the week the Queen invited to the castle a number of the children of the pages and footmen of the Royal household. Her Majesty conversed with them, and presented each child with a mug taken of her favour. One little child, upon taking leave of the Queen, exclaimed "I love you." Such was the manner of those interviews.

Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint Lieutenant Arthur Balfour Begg of the Royal Regiment to be Ensign in attendance upon Prince Alfred.

THE QUEEN'S COURT.

The Queen held a fourth Court on Thursday week, at Buckingham Palace. The Prince of Wales, attended by Lord Alfred Hervey, Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel, Major Grey, and Mr. C. L. Wood, and escorted by a detachment of the Royal Horse Guards, arrived at the palace at four o'clock from Marlborough House. Princess Mary of Cambridge was presented attending the Court, being absent from Court.

Her Majesty's body-guard of the Hon. Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms was on duty at the Court, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Sir William Gomm, K.C.B., and a detachment of Yeomen of the Guard was on duty, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel J. Udny Udny. Lieutenant and Lieutenant-Colonel Gamble commanded in the court of the palace. The Queen, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary of Cambridge, Princess Louisa, entered the White Drawing-room soon after three o'clock.

A numerous circle of nobility were the Duchess of Wellington, Lady Caroline Barrington, Viscountess Jocelyn, the Hon. Mrs. A. Gordon, the Hon. Mrs. Bruce, Lady Caroline Cavendish, the Hon. Florence Seymour, Viscount Sydney, the Earl of St. Germains, the Marquis of Aleshury, Viscount Castlerosse, Viscount Bury, Colonel Sir T. M. Biddulph, K.C.B., Major Carrington, Lieutenant-General Sir H. Bentinck, the Earl of Lucan, the Earl of Desie, Lord Foley, Colonel Kennedy, Colonel Sir A. Cockburn, Bart., C.B. Phipps, K.C.B.; Major-General Seymour, and Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat.

The Queen wore a dress of white glace, trimmed with crape and jet; a Mary Queen of Scots cap, with long veil, the cap ornamented with diamonds; her Majesty wore also the collar of the Garter, and a breast ornament of a large sapphire set in diamonds, the ribbon and the star of the order of the Garter, the Victoria and Albert order, and the order of Prince of Prussia.

Princess Helena wore a dress of greenalue over white silk; train of white silk, with green satin ribbon; cap, wreath of rose and thistle of the valley, feathers and veil: ornaments, pearls and diamonds, Victoria and Albert order, and the order of Prussia.

Princess Louisa wore a similar dress and similar ornaments.

The following distinguished personages had the honour of receiving invitations to attend the Court :—

The Princess Mary of Cambridge, the Duke of St. Albans, the Duke of Devonshire and Lady Louisa Cavendish, the Duke and Duchess of Manchester, the Duke and Duchess of Montrose, the Duke and Duchess of Richmond, the Duchess of Inverness, the Marquis and Marchioness of Winchester, the Marquis and Marchioness of Lansdowne, the Marquis and Marchioness of Aylesbury, the Marchioness of Ormonde and Lady Mary Butler, the Marquis and Marchioness of Westminster and Lady Constance Grosvenor, the Marquis and Marchioness of Normanby and Lady Lucy Phipps, the Marquis and Marchioness of Bath and Lady Harriet Thynne, Lady Mary Stanhope, Earl and Countess Cowley, Lord Viscount and Lady Fitzwilliam, Lord and Lady Frances Fitzwilliam, Countess Dowager Spencer and Lady Sarah Spencer, the Earl and Countess of Clarendon and Countess Flahery, the Earl of Powis, the Earl of Harewood, Earl and Countess Somers, the Earl and Countess of Crawford and Lady Victoria Campbell; the Earl and Countess of Litchfield, the Countess Dowager of Litchfield and Lady Georgiana Anson, the Earl and Countess of Durham, the Earl and Countess of Strafford and Lady Victoria Byng, Lord and Lady Burghley, the Earl and Countess of Jersey, Viscount and Viscountess Ebrington, Lord and Lady Dudley Leferre, Viscount and Viscountess Enfield, Lord and Lady Ashburton, Lord and Lady Aveland, Lord and Lady Londesborough, Lord and Lady Leighton, Lord and Lady Wenlock, Lord and Lady Sondes, Lord and Lady Hatherton, Lord Kingsdown, Lord and Lady Trenton and the Hon. Miss Labouchere, Lady Alfred Hervey, Lady Lyttelton, Lady Frances Russell, the Hon. Mrs. Grey and Mrs. Reed and Miss Bruce, the Right Hon. and Hon. Mary-Colonel Cecil and Mrs. Forester, the Right Hon. Sir Fitzroy and Frances Coventry Kelly, the Right Hon. and Hon. Mrs. Stuart Wortley, the Right Hon. Lord and Lady Hay, Lord Curry and Miss Curry, the Right Hon. Sir Hamilton and the Hon. Lady Dalrymple Hamilton, the Right Hon. Sir Edward and Lady Ryan, Mrs. Adderley and Miss Adderley, Sir Charles Lemon, Bart., Admiral Sir W. Parker, Lady Parker and Miss Parker; Sir Charles Lyell, Bart., and Lady Lyell; Admiral Sir Thomas and Lady Symonds, Admiral Sir Bernard, Admiral Sir Thomas and Lady Cochrane, General Sir Alexander and Lady Woodford, Major-General Sir Frederick and Lady Stovin, Sir Hardinge and Lady Giffard, Sir John and Lady Pennefather, Lady Bentinck, Lieutenant-General Wylde, Major-General Sir Henry and Lady Storks, Major-General and Mrs. Tidedell, Sir Frederick and Lady Murchison, Colonel and Lady Catherine Vernon Harcourt, Mr. George and Lady Charlotte Russell, and Mr. Thomas Baring, M.P.

Of the above some were prevented by unavoidable circumstances from attending the Court.

COURT ARRANGEMENTS.

Princess Helena will, by command of the Queen, hold a Drawing-room at St. James's Palace, on behalf of her Majesty, on Tuesday, the 16th of May next, at two o'clock.

It is the Queen's pleasure that presentations to her Royal Highness at this Drawing-room shall be considered as equivalent to presentations to her Majesty. It is not expected that gentlemen will present themselves at the Drawingroom except in attendance upon the ladies of their families.

The Prince of Wales will, by command of the Queen, hold a Levée at St. James's Palace, on behalf of her Majesty, on Saturday, the 20th of May next.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

On Thursday week the Prince of Wales, attended by Major Grey, rode out. His Royal Highness visited Mr. Brierly's studio, in Lidlington-place. The Princess, attended by Countess De Grey, took a drive. In the evening their Royal Highnesses had a dinner party. The company included Earl Cadogan, the Earl of Clanwilliam, The Earl and Countess of Bessborough, the Earl and Countess of Wilton, Countess de Grey, Major-General Lord Henry Percy, Viscountess Stratford De Redcliffe, Viscount Chelsea, Lord Alfred Paget, Lord and Lady Foley, Lord and Lady Chelmsford, Lord Dufferin, Vice-Admiral the Hon. Sir Henry Keppel, the Hon. Frederick Byng, Lieutenant-General the Hon. Sir James Scarlett, Lieutenant-General Knollys, and Major Grey.

Yesterday week the Prince, attended by Major Grey and Lieutenant-Colonel Kingscote, hunted with the Queen's stag-hounds at Bracknell. His Royal Highness travelled by the South-Western Railway to Bracknell, where he was met by Prince Alfred. The Princes rode to the meet at the Golden Ball Inn, Bingfield. The field numbered 200 equestrians. The animal selected for the chase was "Doctor." The stag was uncarted near the Shoulder of Mutton Inn, and the pack was soon afterwards laid on. Taking a course towards the South-Western Railway, the stag hung about the spot for some little time and then crossed the line, doubling round near the Bracknell station, and afterwards made away for Swinleys Ascot, the forest, and on to Cumberland Lodge. The chase was then again through Windsor Forest, across the Long Walk, and away to the Sheet-street-road gate, Windsor. The stag was taken after a run of upwards of two hours. The Princes were present at the capture. The Prince returned to town by the twenty minutes past four train from Windsor viâ the Great Western Railway. Prince Alfred returned to Windsor Castle. The Princess, attended by the Hon. Mrs. Stonor, drove out. In the evening the Prince, attended by Lord Alfred Hervey, Major Grey, and Mr. Holtzmann, was present at Dr. Hofmann's lecture at the Royal Institution, Albemarle-street.

On Saturday last the Prince and Princess, accompanied by Prince Albert Victor, the Bishop of Oxford, Earl De Grey, and Viscount Goderich, and attended by the Countess De Grey, Major Grey, and Mr. Holtzmann, left Marlborough House for Sandringham. Their Royal Highnesses arrived at the Bishopsgate terminus of the Great Eastern Railway at two o'clock, and were received by Mr. J. Goodson, chairman; Mr. Lightly Simpson, chairman of the Lynn and Hunstanton Railway; by Mr. J. B. Owen, secretary; and by several of the directors of the Great Eastern Company. The Prince and Princess travelled in a saloon carriage, by a special train. Their Royal Highnesses were heartily cheered by those assembled to witness their departure. The first halt was made at Cambridge. At Lynn junction the engines were changed. A number of the inhabitants had assembled to greet the Prince and Princess. Wolferton was reached at five o'clock. At the station there was an assemblage of the principal residents of the neighbourhood, and of the tenantry. The school children, dressed in scarlet capes and straw bonnets, were drawn up in line. Their Royal Highnesses drove at once to Sandringham House, arriving at twenty minutes past five.

On Sunday the Prince and Princess, Earl De Grey and Ripon, and Viscount Goderich, attended Divine service at Sandringham Church. The Rev. G. B. Moxon, B.A., and the Bishop of Oxford officiated.

The Prince has had a powerful fire-engine, "The Sandringham," sent to Sandringham House, from the establishment of Messrs. Merryweather and Co., of Lambeth.

Queen Marie Amélie, accompanied by the members of the Orleans Royal family, arrived at Starkey's Royal Victoria Hotel, St. Leonards-on-Sea, on Thursday, from Claremont.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Cambridge and Princess Mary arrived at Cambridge Cottage, Kew, on Saturday last, from visiting the Duke of Rutland, at Belvoir Castle.

The Prussian Ambassador and Countess Bernstorff have left town for St. Leonards-on-Sea.

The Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe have left the Clarendon Hotel for Floors Castle, N.B.

The Duke of Newcastle has left town for a fishing excursion in Wales.

The Duke of Leinster has left town on a visit to Mr. Repton, M.P., and Lady Jane Repton, at their seat in Bedfordshire.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Ailesbury, after visiting Earl and Countess Spencer at Althorp, have gone to their seat in Wiltshire.

Earl Russell, accompanied by the Countess and Lady Georgiana Russell, has gone to his seat near Stroud, Gloucestershire.

Earl and Countess Amherst have left town for Montreal, the family seat, near Sevenoaks.

The Earl and Countess of Essex have left town for Cassiobury Park, their seat in Hertfordshire.

The Earl and Countess of Cawdor have left town for Stackpole Court, Wales.

The Earl and Countess of Bessborough have left town for Bessborough House, Kilkenny.

Countess Cowper and Lady Florence Cowper have arrived at Panshanger, from visiting Earl and Countess Spencer at Althorp Hall.

Countess (Frances) Waldegrave and the Right Hon. Chichester Fortescue, M.P., left their residence in Carlton-gardens on Saturday last, for her Ladyship's seat in Somersetshire.

The Earl of Dudley has arrived at Dudley House, Park-lane, from Witley Court, Worcestershire.

Viscount and Viscountess Palmerston have left town for Brocket Hall, Herts.

Viscountess (Dowager) Combermere and the Hon. Mrs. Hunter have arrived at St. Leonards-on-Sea.

Viscount Castlerosse has left town for his seat, Killarney, Ireland.

Lord and Lady Stanley of Alderley have left town for their seat in Cheshire.

The Right Hon. B. Disraeli and Mrs. Disraeli have left Grosvenor-gate for Hughenden Manor, Bucks.

The Right Hon. Sir Robert Peel, Bart., M.P., and Lady Emily Peel have left town for their villa on the borders of the Lake of Como, where they intend to remain until May.

The Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stonor left town, on Monday, for Stonor Park, Oxfordshire.

The Treaty of Commerce between Austria and the Zollverein was signed on Tuesday.

Senor de Arrannoiz, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Emperor of Mexico in this country and in Belgium, has, it is stated, tendered his resignation of both these posts.

There were ten public and three local acts passed yesterday week, when Parliament adjourned, making sixteen public and three local statutes in the Session, which commenced on the 7th of February.

On Wednesday evening the twentieth anniversary of the Royal General Theatrical Fund was held at the Freemasons' Tavern—Mr. Wilkie Collins in the chair. There was a pretty numerous company, and the receipts amounted to £350.

Among the passengers by the Delta, which arrived at Southampton on Tuesday, with the Bombay mail, was Ghohelshree Pratabsingh, one of the rajahs of Western India, with his suite. The Rajah and his chief followers were gorgeously dressed, and were rich in golden ornaments of exquisite workmanship and precious stones. The object of his visit is to prefer some complaint to the British Government.

With reference to the revised rules of the inland pattern and sample post, which were published on the 27th ultimo, it has now been decided to modify the rule No. 6, and to permit the transmission of samples of seeds, &c., intended for delivery within the United Kingdom, in bags entirely closed, provided that such bags be transparent, so that the officers of the department may be able to satisfy themselves as to the nature of the contents. This modification relates only to the inland pattern and sample post.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

There is a bill in Parliament for doing away with metropolitan destitution and, at the same time, utterly abolishing street mendicancy. The portals of our workhouses are no longer to present the spectacle, so shockingly familiar to Londoners, of dozens of poor, ragged, hungry creatures waiting—and often waiting in vain—for admission to the casual wards. Tramps, vagrants, "casuals," and the really destitute are to be caught up by the police and relieved, whether they like it or not. Moreover, the plague of beggars is to be swept away; and it is to be hoped that the long-disturbed mind of Sir Robert W. Carden will be relieved thereby. Acts of Parliament are not, however, usually very discriminating; the coaches and six which are proverbially said to be driven through them oftentimes crush very inoffensive people under their wheels; and it is to be feared that, in this Houseless Poor Bill, an act of harshness verging on needless cruelty may be committed. The blind are menaced with expulsion from the streets. "Pity the poor blind!" is to be an appeal no longer heard; and I think that "pity 'tis" that such a measure should be contemplated. They do no harm, those poor, sightless creatures. They can be scarcely said to beg; they merely demonstrate their utterly helpless and forlorn condition. Little dog Tray is not a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour. It is to be hoped that a clause saving the innocuous privileges of the blind will be introduced into the bill in Committee. Could not a certain number, well ascertained by the police not to be impostors, be licensed and empowered to wear badges. Let not Belisarius be robbed of his obolus. Let us remember that none of us are so high and mighty and wealthy but that this most awful affliction may come upon us with lightning suddenness. Ponder over those wonderful lines in an early number of Punch, on George III.:—

> The rescued Kings came touch my garment's hem
> The rescued Kings, I never heeded them.
> What care had I for pomp, or fame, or power—
> A crazy, old, blind man in Windsor Tower?

At all events, if the blind are to be banished, something ought to be done for little dog Tray in the way of compensation The instinct of these little animals is wonderful. The other morning, passing through Cavendish-square, I met a blind man with his dog. A charitable lady put a sixpence into the basket, and little dog Tray thanked her as usual by wagging his tail. I declare that I heard the blind man say to the dog, "What is it?" Now, did he expect his four-footed conductor to reply, in actual parlance, "a silver sixpence," or was there some other masonic mode of communication between man and brute enabling the former to know to what extent he had been relieved? Be it as it may, I heard the blind man utter the precise words I have quoted. Perhaps those who live with dumb creatures of highly-developed instinct grow at last to meet them on equal terms and to impute to them the power of reasoning. Mr. Jesse has not a better story in his whole collection than that told of Sir Edwin Landseer, to whom a bull-dog was sitting for his portrait, and who, when his day's work was over, said in an authoritative tone to the dog, "That will do. Come to-morrow at two o'clock." The bull-dog skulked away as though he had perfectly understood the order; but just as he reached the door Sir Edwin called him back. "Stop," said he; "at a quarter past two." Whereupon Jowler agitated the stump of his caudal appendage and trotted down stairs. And I am given to understand that he came the next day at two-fifteen, punctually.

M. Jules Janin has again been disappointed in obtaining one of those forty famous arm-chairs for which he has been so many years ahungered:—at the which, I take it, Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton will not be immoderately displeased. The author of "Pelham" has never, it is said, forgiven M. Janin's criticism on his favourite novel, written just seven-and-thirty years since; nor is the author of "L'âne mort et la femme guillotinée" likely to forget Sir Edward's opinion of M. Janin as an offspring of the revolution of July. Poor J. J.! He may paraphrase Piron's epitaph on himself—

> Ci gît Piron, qui ne fut rien :
> Pas même Académicien.

M. Camille Doucet has been elected to fill the fauteuil left vacant by the death of M. Alfred de Vigny; and M. Prevost-Paradol succeeds M. Ampère, who, by-the-way, was not only a savant, but one of the most observant and vivacious of tourists. His "Promenades en Amerique" is not surpassed by any book of Transatlantic travel for veracity and graphic power.

M. Camille Doucet is a lettered Mandarin, and nothing more; but the election of M. Prevost-Paradol, a young man under thirty, is an event of much significance. He is the enfant terrible of French politics. He has made for himself under the Second Empire a name only inferior to that achieved by Benjamin Constant under the First. He has written in the Journal des Débats more damaging articles against the policy of the existing Government than the party eulogies of a hundred La Guerronnières or De Césénas could retrieve. Thus, authority is said to be very irate indeed at the elevation to academic honours of M. Prevost-Paradol. The Times correspondent in Paris writes that when M. Sainte Beuve, as director of the Academy, waited on the Emperor to announce the choice of the Forty, his Majesty asked, pointedly, "what M. Paradol had written?" He is, of course, best known as the author of Opposition leading articles in the Débats. One is loth to believe this, for Napoleon III. is too great a man to say spiteful things. The story, therefore, must be taken for what it is worth, as likewise the reply imputed (not by the Times correspondent) to M. Sainte Beuve—"What has M. Prevost-Paradol written, Sire?" repeated the sarcastic director, "His handwriting is on the wall!" Than which, I think, nothing spitefuller could have been said since Talleyrand's "Déja?"

There is another literary French item which concerns us nearer home. Mr. Henry Reeve, the accomplished scholar, linguist, and critic, who translated Alexis de Tocqueville's "Democracy in America," has been chosen a corresponding member of the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences. Is not Mr. Reeve editor of the Edinburgh Review? I ask, in doubt and deference; for the affairs of the Quarterly and Edinburgh are so far exalted above the comprehension of us meaner mortals that we know little more about their hierarchical changes than about the Grand Lamas of Thibet. I asked a dozen men of letters the other day who edited the Quarterly, and not one of them could tell me. He is a Scotch gentleman, I believe.

A bust of the lamented Richard Cobden has been commanded, as all the world knows by this time, for the Imperial Museum at Versailles. The act is a graceful and generous one, and worthy of Cæsar. Nor is this the first time that our rivals in civilisation, and our stanch allies in all else, have been beforehand with us in noble courtesy. Let it not be forgotten that when the famous discoverer of vaccination wished to visit Paris, and we were in the midst of a furious war with France, Napoleon I. ordered a passport to be made out for him, in which "Dr. Jenner, benefactor of the human species"—bienfaiteur du genre humain—was authorised to enter the Empire. Nor let us also forget that forty years earlier, when war, too, was raging between the two great nations of the west, the French Minister, M. de Vergennes, issuing a decree of reprisals against English vessels on the high seas, expressly exempted from molestation or capture any vessel commanded by the "illustrious Captain Cook." Without these amenities would war be tolerable? I think it is for the very reason that the American war has been destitute of such amenities that the strife across the Atlantic has grown to us intolerable.

A plenitude of statues of the great free-trader will doubtless crop up during the next two years. The Reform Club have already opened a subscription for a colossal bust of one of their most illustrious members. Surely Westminster Abbey and the corridor of the Commons House will not be left without monumental effigies of Richard Cobden. And what a subject for a domestic painter would be that which not so very long since has been witnessed in truth at Mr. Cobden's quiet home—the orator, statesman, and economist playing croquet with his children on the lawn at Midhurst! I hope the Americans will be good to the memory of this great man, for they had no faster friend than he.

The Pope threatens, it is said, to take refuge at Constantinople, if Catholic Europe persists in turning a deaf ear to the warnings of the Encyclical. Several members of the Sacred College are reported to be of opinion that his Holiness would be better off among friendly foes than among hostile friends; and it is certain that the Turks, with a creed theoretically the most intolerant in the world, have for centuries been most tolerant of the practice of other religions. The Amuraths, and Selims, and Mahmouds have permitted Roman Catholics, Greeks, Armenians, Copts, and Jews the fullest liberty of worship. I was reading lately, in "The Sufferings of the People called Quakers," a curious illustration of Turkish toleration. More than two hundred years ago, a poor little Quaker maiden, who had wandered from England to America, from America to the West Indies, and from the West Indies to Italy, on the "peculiar concerns" of Quakerism—who had lain in Inquisition dungeons, in gaols, houses of correction, and bridewells innumerable—who had been scourged over and over again at the post and at the cart's tail—who had been set in the stocks, branded, and shackled innumerable times—took it into her head to visit the East and essay to convert the Great Turk. After almost incredible hardships, she contrived to reach Adrianople, which the Sultan was then besieging. She was ushered into his presence—she harangued him—she prayed for him, and it is on record that the Commander of the Faithful treated her with the utmost deference, and, after hearing her out, entertained her most hospitably, and caused her to be conducted with a guard of honour to Constantinople. From which it would seem that the Turks are not, after all, such very bad folk.

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

Ordinations are announced to be held on Trinity Sunday, June 11, by the Archbishop of York, the Bishops of London, Lichfield, Oxford, Manchester, Hereford, Chester, Lincoln, Salisbury, Bath and Wells, Norwich, Bangor, Worcester, Gloucester and Bristol, Ely, and Peterborough. The Bishops of Winchester and Rochester will hold ordinations on July 9.

The Bishop of Lincoln is going, in Easter week, to hold confirmations for the Bishop of London at Paris and Brussels, and will be absent from England till the end of the month.

The Bishop of Worcester will hold his triennial visitation at Worcester, June 15; Pershore, 16; Bromsgrove, 19; Birmingham, 20; Coventry, 21; Southam, 22; Stratford-on-Avon, 23.

The occasional confirmations to be held by the Bishop of Rochester in Hertfordshire this spring are fixed for Wednesday, May 8, at Hitchin, three o'clock; Tuesday, May 9, at St. Albans, three o'clock; Wednesday, May 10, at Cheshunt, eleven o'clock, and Ware at three o'clock; and at Totteridge by Barnet on Friday, May 19, at three o'clock. Early in July there will also be a confirmation at Haileybury College.

The sermon at the children's anniversary at St. Paul's, on Thursday, June 1, will be preached by the Bishop of Bangor.

The annual festival of the Vale of Aylesbury Church Choral Association will be held on Thursday, June 15. The preacher will be the Very Rev. Dr. Hook, Dean of Chichester.

The Rev. W. J. G. Bluett having accepted an incumbency in the diocese of Christchurch, New Zealand, and being, therefore, about to resign the curacy of Stibbard, a handsome piece of plate has been presented to Mr. and Mrs. Bluett jointly, as an expression of the grateful regard entertained for them by the patron, the Rector, and the inhabitants of the parish.

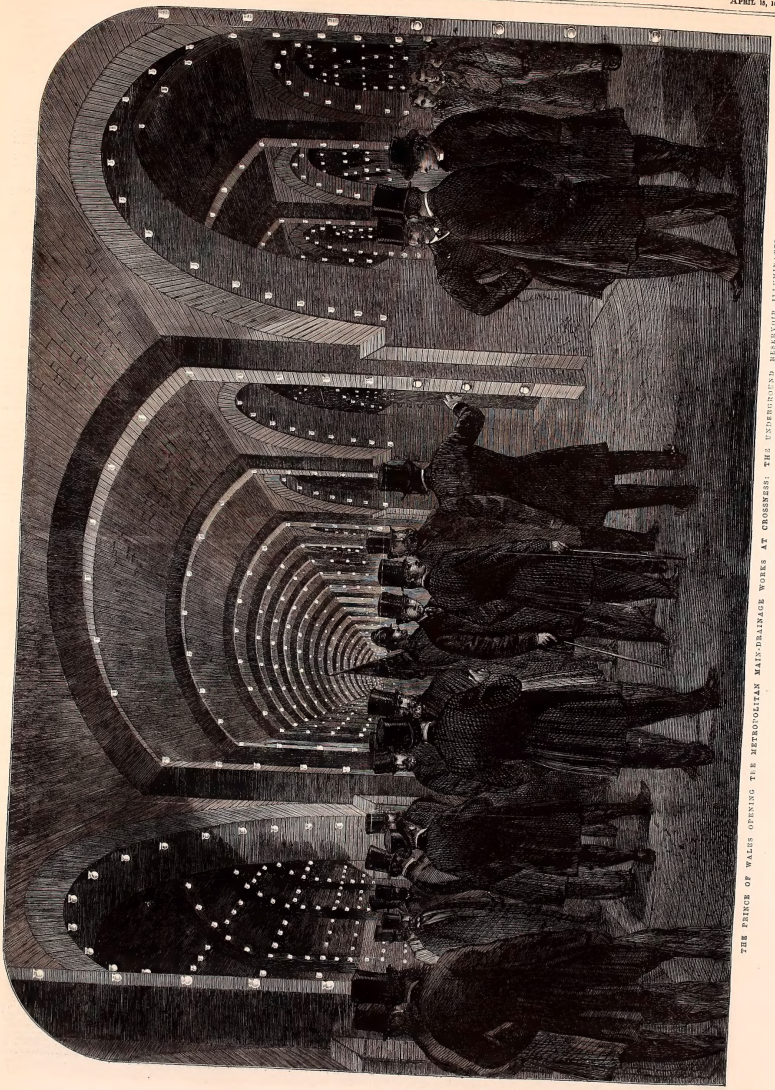
In the Court of Arches, on Monday, Dr. Robertson, the Surrogate, granted an application made on behalf of the Bishop of Norwich in connection with the proceedings at the Norwich monastery. At his Lordship's request a monition, requiring the Rev. Mr. Drury to refrain from taking part in the services at the monastery was filed.

The special Sunday evening services in St. Paul's Cathedral will come to a close for this season on Easter Sunday, with a sermon from Canon Selwyn. On the following Sunday evening, April 22, at seven p.m., the special Sunday evening services will begin in the nave of Westminster Abbey, when the Very Rev. Dr. Stanley, Dean of Westminster, will preach the opening sermon. The following are the other preachers for April and May:—April 30, the Rev. T. Carter, Rector of Clewer; May 7, the Rev. Daniel Moore, Golden Lecturer; May 14, the Rev. Canon Conway; May 21, the Bishop of Oxford; May 28, the Archbishop of Dublin.

Preferments and Appointments.—The Rev. Prebendary Freeman to be Archdeacon of Exeter. Rectories: Rev. T. A. C. Armbrister to St. Thomas, Middle Island, St. Kitts, West Indies; Rev. Thomas Charles Brown to Exhall with Chapel of Wixford, Warwick; Rev. H. C. Brewster to South Kelsey; Rev. L. S. Bruce to Barton-in-Fabis; Rev. W. Hildebrand to Little and Castle Carlton, Lincolnshire; Rev. G. S. Master to West Dean, with the Chapelry of East Grinstead attached, Wilts; Rev. C. C. Wood to Broxholme, Lincolnshire. Vicarages: Rev. W. W. Blackwell to Cloford, Somerset; Rev. W. Bare to Owersby with Kirkby and Osgarby annexed, Lincolnshire. Incumbencies: Rev. A. Armitage to St. John's, Cheltenham; Rev. S. Fellows to Zeal's Green, Wilts; Rev. Evan Jenkins to Flint. Perpetual Curacies: Rev. E. Giles to All Saints', Nottingham; Rev. T. P. L. Yewens to Colcford, Somerset. Curacies: Rev. R. Allen to All Saints', Newcastle-on-Tyne; Rev. J. C. Barnwell to Holford and Lilstock; Rev. I. Bowman to Burneside, Kendal, Westmorland; Rev. F. Brindley to All Saints', Nottingham; Rev. W. H. Chapman to Weldon, Northamptonshire; Rev. W. H. Cleveland to Tathwell, Lincolnshire; Rev. J. Cornwall to North Curry, Somerset; Rev. H. G. Cranmer to Bothal, Northumberland; Rev. T. M. Dixon to St. Mark, Nottingham; Rev. J. C. Erck to the Octagon Chapel, Bath; Rev. G. Forrester, to Selworthy; Rev. H. W. Gayer to Cucklington-cum-Stoke, Trister; Rev. H. P. James to St. John's, Bathwick, Somerset; Rev. J. R. Lane to Aynhoe, Northants; Rev. A. Langdon to Sedgefield, Durham; Rev. W. W. Martin to St. Mary Magdalene, Taunton; Rev. E. W. May to Allington, Dorset; Rev. W. S. E. Maynard to South Perrott-cum-Mosterton, Dorset; Rev. R. B. Poole to Banwell, Somerset; Rev. J. P. Roberts to Blyton, Lincolnshire; Rev. S. Rogers to Clayworth, Notts; Rev. H. W. Smith to Welton St. Mary, Lincolnshire; Rev. J. Smith to Linton, Yorkshire; Rev. J. Steel to Monk Hesleden, Durham; Rev. O. R. Wintle to Bridgewater.

The Universities and Public Schools.—In a Convocation at Oxford, on Saturday last, the names of the public examiners and moderators, which had been previously approved in Congregation, were submitted to the house and approved. In a Congregation holden at the same time the name of Mr. Riddell, Balliol, was approved as a Moderator in Literis Græcis et Latinis. The election of scholars and exhibitioners at Queen's (for which there were thirty candidates) has terminated as follows:—Classical Scholars—Mr. A. H. Sayce (Commoner), Brasenose; and Mr. C. W. A. Tait, Rugby School. Mathematical Scholar—Mr. P. B. Lambert, Hastings Exhibitioner, Queen's. Hastings Exhibitioners—Mr C. D. Haig, Leeds School; and Mr. W. W. Taylor, Wakefield School. Holmes Exhibitioner—Mr. H. G. Sharp, Scholar of Queen's.

At Cambridge, at a Congregation on Thursday week, the Grace proposing to give the Syndicate appointed to consider the examinations for the ordinary degree of B.A. and the improvement of theological education in the University, together with the regulations of the previous examination as it affects all classes of students, an extension of time (to report) up to the 1st of June, passed nem. con. The examination for open scholarships at Emmanuel has resulted as follows:—Mathematical—Godfrey, scholar; Hensman, exhibitioner. Classical—Rodwell, scholar; Chevalier, exhibitioner. The following have been nominated to open scholarships at Christ's:—J. S. Reid, City of London School, £70 a year; R. T. Wright, Owen's College, Manchester, £70 a year; A. Nixon, Tunbridge School, £60 a year; G. C. W. Warr, Royal Institution School, Liverpool, £60 a year; H. Smith, Loughborough Grammar School, £50 a year; J. Sharpe, Merchant Taylor's School, £30 a year. The open classical scholarship of £60 a year at Caius College, Cambridge, was awarded, on the 3rd of April, to E. S. Roberts, of Boston Grammar School. J. S. Fell, from Windermere College, has been elected to an exhibition of £50 at Trinity Hall.



The professorship of English law and Indian jurisprudence in King's College has been conferred upon Mr. John Cutler, of the Chancery Bar.

The results of the examination for the Newcastle scholarship were made known yesterday week at Eton, and are as follow:—Lord F. Hervey, scholar; Kennedy, K.S., medallist; Durnford, K.S.; Everard, K.S.; Harris, K.S.; Huddleston, K.S. (alphabetical order). Buckland, Greenwood, Hardy, Lee; Lock, K.S.; Lee, K.S.; Radcliffe, K.S. (alphabetical order). The examiners were the Rev. J. J. Hornby, Fellow of Brasenose, Oxford, and Tutor in Durham University; and Mr. F. C. Hodgson, Fellow of King's, Cambridge. The latter was Newcastle Scholar in 1856. The competitors this year numbered about fifty. The school closed the same day for the Easter vacation, which will last about four weeks, the scholars returning to the college on the 3rd, 4th, and 5th of May.

Sir William Dunbar, Bart., M.P. for Wigton, one of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, is appointed Chairman of the Audit Board, vice Edward Romilly, who retires. The vacancy at the Treasury will be filled by Mr. W. P. Adam, the member for Clackmannanshire.

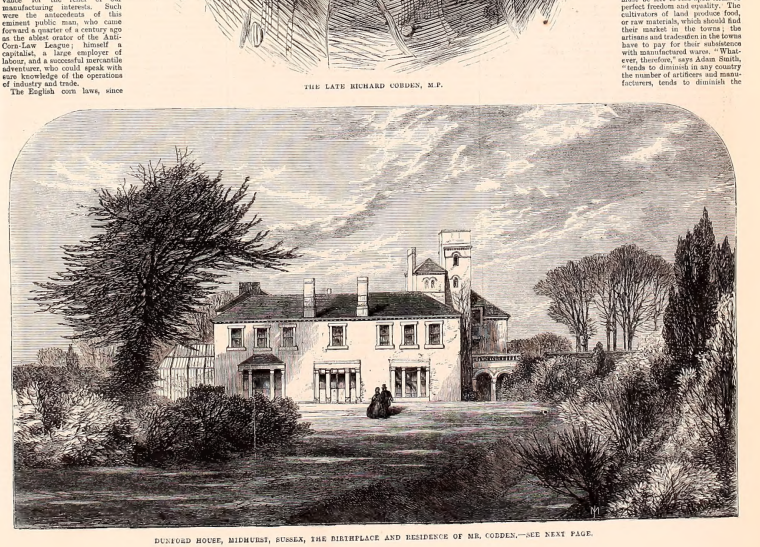
The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland has promised to visit Drogheda on Thursday, the 4th of May, to open the new Townhall and to turn the first turf of the Drogheda Waterworks. Drogheda owes this Townhall to the munificence of Mr. Whitworth, a distinguished inhabitant.

The Government emigrant-ship, Oceanica, 1673 tons, belonging to Messrs. James Baines and Co., Liverpool, sailed from the Mersey, on the 3rd inst., for Melbourne, Victoria, having on board thirty-two married people, 155 single women, and sixteen children under twelve years of age, under the care of Mr. Thomas Scard, surgeon superintendent.——The Peeress, 777 tons, belonging to Messrs. Lachlans and M'Leod, London, sailed from Plymouth on the 8th inst. for Adelaide, South Australia, having on board 335 Government emigrants, consisting of 139 married people, ninety-one single men, forty-six single women, twenty-four boys, and twenty girls between one and twelve years of age, and fifteen infants, under the care of Mr. Arthur D. White, M.D., surgeon superintendent, assisted by Mrs. Grace Treginnig, matron, and Mr. Richmond Baker, schoolmaster.——The Emigration Commissioners have chartered the Cornwallis, belonging to Messrs. Thomas and William Smith, London, for the conveyance of emigrants to Adelaide, South Australia, at £12 7s. 9d. per statute adult. The Cornwallis is appointed to receive her passengers at Plymouth on the 29th of May next.

THE PRINCE OF WALES OPENING THE METROPOLITAN MAIN-DRAINAGE WORKS AT CROSSNESS: THE UNDERGROUND RESERVOIR ILLUMINATED.—SEE PAGE 361

THE LATE

RICHARD COBDEN, M.P.



THE son of a small farmer in Sussex, having learnt the business of a salesman in the service of a City warehouse in the Manchester trade, Richard Cobden, early removing to Lancashire, set up there for himself as a printer of calicoes, and by his skill in suiting the markets and by his fine taste in patterns, became, in a very few years, one of the most thriving manufacturers of that district. He was still a young man. He had made up for the want of a University education by his studies of political economy, which he recommended in after life as providing a better intellectual exercise and discipline than the exact sciences. His accomplishments were, an excellent faculty of logical exposition, with a rare talent of finding the readiest and happiest illustrations of his argument, and a perfect mastery of clear and forcible language in writing or speaking. He was familiar with the condition of the industrious middle and lower classes of England, both north and south. Foreign trade and foreign travel soon made him acquainted with the different countries of Europe and the United States of America. His political opinions were early formed. He disliked the foreign policy of Lord Palmerston, thinking it was dangerous to the peace of the world, and he deplored the increase of our naval and military expenditure, thinking it might be saved by a more amicable behaviour towards foreign Powers. He enlarged upon this topic in several pamphlets, by which he sought to prove that Russia and America were never likely to be enemies of Britain. It was not, however, upon any of these questions that he was to be called to achieve the greatest victory of political persuasion recorded in the history of our age. His task was to become one of the leading political executors of that legacy of economic science which the Scottish philosophers of the last century had bequeathed. The laws which regulate the production, distribution, and consumption of wealth appeared to his mind as the laws of bodily health—laws of Nature, ordinances of Divine authority—which it was no less impious than foolish to withstand. He took up, therefore, the vindication of those principles, almost with the zeal of an apostle, and for the sake of truth, while he demanded their practical observance for the relief of our manufacturing interests. Such were the antecedents of this eminent public man, who came forward a quarter of a century ago as the ablest orator of the Anti-Corn-Law League; himself a capitalist, a large employer of labour, and a successful mercantile adventurer, who could speak with sure knowledge of the operations of industry and trade.

The English corn laws, since their first invention in the reign of Charles II., had passed through several modifications. But in those years when the League of Manchester began to lay siege to the cereal monopoly of the English landlords, the established modification was the sliding-scale of 1828. By this contrivance, whenever there was a tolerable harvest which would yield sufficient wheat at the price of 66s. a quarter, the importation of foreign corn was virtually prohibited by a tax of 20s.; but when English wheat became scarce, the import duty was reduced, having an inverse ratio to the actual price of corn in the English market, until, when this price had risen to 73s. a quarter, foreign corn was admitted at the nominal duty of 1s. The object of this legislation being that the English people should have just enough to eat, and not too much, paying the farmers or landlords a fair price of about 60s. a quarter, it was thought that everybody ought to be content. But the scheme worked most inconveniently for all parties concerned. One of its worst evils, probably, was that it tempted the speculators in the corn market to aggravate the pressure of every period of scarcity, with a view to running up the price to that point at which they might import free of duty; having done which there would be a sudden fall, ruinous to those who held corn in stock. These violent oscillations were certainly not beneficial to the interests of the British farmer, while they caused the greatest disturbance to all branches of our manufacturing and commercial enterprise. It was not merely that the restrictions upon the import of a foreign commodity tended to shut the foreign markets against the English manufacturers; but the home market, especially in the agricultural districts, was incessantly deranged by severe crises of distress, resulting from the capricious variations of prices.

These effects were notorious; yet those who called for the repeal of the corn law were accused of seeking to force an extension of foreign trade at the expense of native agriculture. Mr. Cobden then undertook to convince the whole people of England, and even the landed gentry who sat in the House of Commons, that the interests of town and country were identical in this matter. Here was the occasion for proclaiming the doctrine of Adam Smith, that the commerce between town and country, the easiest and safest, the most natural and the most essential commerce, must be left to rest upon terms of perfect freedom and equality. The cultivators of land produce food, or raw materials, which should find their market in the towns; the artizans and tradesmen in the towns have to pay for their subsistence with manufactured wares. "Whatever, therefore," says Adam Smith, "tends to diminish in any country the number of artificers and manufacturers, tends to diminish the most important of all markets for the rude produce of the land, and thereby still further to discourage agriculture." It may provoke a smile to remember that the truth of this very obvious proposition was fiercely contested by Mr. Cobden's opponents previously to 1846. They denounced the extension of the factory system as a nuisance and almost a crime. They accepted with greedy hatred the wildest fables which were told by Mr. Ferrand and others respecting the "abominable cruelties" practised in the Lancashire and Yorkshire cotton mills. The farmers throughout the country were bidden to resist a selfish conspiracy of Manchester men, who would destroy the value of rural property and throw the soil of England out of cultivation for the sake of pushing their trade in flimsy calicoes among the serfs and savages of the remotest parts of the earth. Such was the ignorance, such was the prejudice, with which Mr. Cobden and his associates had to contend when they perambulated nearly all the counties of England and held meetings in every important place to explain the objects of the Anti-Corn-Law League.

THE LATE RICHARD COBDEN, M.P.

DUNFORD HOUSE, MIDHURST, SUSSEX, THE BIRTHPLACE AND RESIDENCE OF MR. COBDEN.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

By this time Mr. Cobden had also taken his seat in Parliament, and joined Mr. Villiers in the attempt, renewed session after session, to obtain a favourable hearing from the House of Commons. Some progress was, indeed, already made there in 1841, when Mr. Cobden entered the house. The 8s. fixed duty proposed by the Whigs, and Sir Robert Peel's new modification of the sliding scale, with the large admission of free-trade principles in his tariff of 1842, were manifestly the precursors of an entire revolution in the commercial policy of Great Britain. The corn-law debates, however, assumed in those years a very bitter and menacing tone, on account of the extreme distress of a large part of the population and the spread of the Chartist sedition amongst them. It really looked as though the aristocracy, having put themselves in the odious position of maintaining a tax upon the bread and toil of the starving millions, apparently for the sake of augmenting their own rent-rolls, would have to bear the responsibility of provoking a serious conflict. On the other hand, many of the moderate politicians, who might not have been disposed to refuse their assent to free trade, even though it were attended with a sacrifice of class interests, were scandalised by the rise of an organised democratic agitation in the North of England which threatened to be no less formidable than that of O'Connell in Ireland. The announcement of still larger sums of money, from £50,000 up to £250,000, which the Anti-Corn-Law League was prepared to spend in hiring platforms, sending forth lecturers, printing journals and tracts and purchasing estates to be divided into forty-shilling freeholds for the creation of county votes, gave increased offence to the Conservative party. It is the more glorious for the memory of Sir Robert Peel that he discerned and had the courage to perform the great duty which was laid upon him by the circumstances of that most painful and perilous time at the approach of the Irish famine. The passing of the "Corn and Customs Bill," in the Session of 1846, may have saved the British Constitution from a shock equal to those which befel the Continental monarchies in 1848. It has certainly bestowed a long lease of extraordinary social and domestic prosperity upon this country. All classes of the population, the agriculturists and owners of land as much as any, have profited immensely by the enactment of free trade in corn. Mr. Cobden, to whom, above all other men, Sir Robert Peel ascribed the merit of that beneficent achievement, has lived to know that there is not, probably, a single person in all England who now regrets the abolition of the corn laws, or who would consent to restore them. Never was a triumph of reason and truth more splendidly justified by its practical results.

The legislation commenced by Sir Robert Peel on free-trade principles has been carried forward by Mr. Gladstone, and its most conspicuous feature, the tariff connected with the French Treaty of Commerce in 1860, is due again in a great measure to Mr. Cobden. The praise of that negotiation on the other side of the Channel must be shared with the Emperor Napoleon and his Minister, while it was M. Michel Chevalier who first invited Mr. Cobden to discuss the plan and put him in communication with the French Government. But the "great and memorable service" of Mr. Cobden upon that occasion was acknowledged by the Chancellor of the Exchequer as freely as his share in obtaining the repeal of the corn laws had been acknowledged by Sir Robert Peel. It was, indeed, the proper complement of the former part of his life's work, as the apostle of free trade and true economic doctrine, to procure admission into the French market for the English manufactures which were before excluded from it and to support the measures by which reciprocal advantages were conceded to French produce in the market of this country. In procuring this arrangement, the mutual benefits of which are realised every year more fully, Mr. Cobden was at the same time enabled to provide both countries with a most substantial pledge for the preservation of peace and friendship between them. He was always desirous that the moral blessings of Peace, as well as its material comforts and profits, should be secured to England and to all mankind.

We have purposely refrained from commenting upon any of those objects or occasions of Mr. Cobden's public advocacy in which he cannot be said to have prevailed with the same success that rewarded his labours in the cause of Free Trade. It is more pleasing just now to deal only with his most finished and admirable work. Take him for all in all, "he was, perhaps, the greatest political character that the pure middle class of the English people has produced in our time." He was, moreover, in all the relations of life an honourable and amiable man, upright and unselfish, willing to spend himself for the happiness of others, "seeking not his own," hating every kind of injustice, and "rejoicing in the truth."

The Portrait of Mr. Cobden which we present this week is engraved from a photograph by Messrs. Downey, of Newcastle-on-Tyne.

DUNFORD HOUSE, THE BIRTHPLACE AND RESIDENCE OF MR. COBDEN.

On the same page with our Engraving of Mr. Cobden's Portrait is a view of the house which he built for himself upon the site of the house in which he was born, upon that estate of Dunford which his father, the plain Sussex yeoman, had occupied before him and which was purchased with the fund raised by a national subscription to make good some part of the large pecuniary loss which the once prosperous Manchester manufacturer had voluntarily incurred when he turned from his private business to redress the wrongs of England. A contemporary has noticed the characteristic scenery of "that beautiful quiet rural district in which Mr. Cobden was born, in which he had hoped to enjoy many years of life's mellow autumn, but in which it was God's will he should be buried long before that autumn had passed into winter. There is not, perhaps, in England a lovelier country than that part of Sussex in which the now historic village of Midhurst is situated. Hills covered with foliage, valleys bright with verdure or teeming with fertility, alternate with dark, sombre-looking heaths, sandy patches, and trim, silent, old-fashioned villages, and isolated farmhouses, built in the days of the Tudors. The "Manchester man" had fixed for his retreat a spot from which a factory chimney could not be seen even with a telescope, where edges of laurel, and flowers, and fruit attested the mildness of the climate, and where the hum of the bees would replace the busy hum of industry in the regions in which his youth and manhood had been passed. Midhurst itself is the homeliest, stillest, most old-fashioned of English villages. Once a week a corn market imparts some life and bustle into its clean, quaint, zigzag streets, but at other times one might pass from one end of it to the other at high noon without meeting half a dozen people. Pleasant green country lanes, however, lead out of it in every direction, and perhaps the prettiest and most rural of them all winds up to West Lavington Church, in a vault of which was to be laid the mortal part of the great free-trader."

The challenge which has been given by the Royal Agricultural Society to the gardens of the Sovereigns of Europe for a competitive exhibition of fruits and vegetables has been favourably received by France, Russia, Italy, Turkey, Hanover, Greece, Belgium, &c., and further answers are being daily received.

An interesting statistical table has been published by Mr. Gisborne, secretary to the Anglo-Australian and China Telegraph Company, showing the actual results of all the different experiments yet made in laying submarine telegraph cables from 1850, when the first Dover and Calais line was laid, to the laying of the Persian Gulf line in 1864. It appears that only the heavy cables, weighing two tons or more per statute mile, when laid at a depth of from twenty to a hundred fathoms, have as yet proved permanently successful and efficient; and these, when broken occasionally by some accidental violence, have been easily and speedily repaired.

FINE ARTS.

EXHIBITION OF THE FRENCH AND FLEMISH SCHOOLS.

The exhibitions of foreign pictures at the gallery, 120, Pall-mall, are always of peculiar interest and value. Persons of taste, or possessed of real art-knowledge, will hardly neglect to visit them. The comparisons, however, which they inevitably compel with some of our English exhibitions, are often made, as we have before taken occasion to remark, under unfair conditions. Yet, after every allowance has been made for the selective influences which give us only the choicer works of Continental art in this gallery, one must come to the conclusion that English artists, generally, labour under great disadvantages from lack of means for systematic art-education under eminent masters in this country, as compared with the facilities afforded at Paris, Brussels, Dusseldorf, Munich, Rome, and other Continental art-centres.

The present exhibition is, perhaps, not so generally interesting as some of its predecessors; but, on the other hand, one of the most remarkable phases of foreign art is excellently well exemplified. The eminent Belgian painter, Baron Henri Leys, and several of his scholars are fully or fairly represented. By M. Leys there is a large and very elaborate picture—a finished oil study, for one of the great series of wall-paintings which he has been commissioned to execute in the Hôtel de Ville of Antwerp. The subject, though not coming very familiarly home to an English audience, is well suited to its destination. It recalls one of the most memorable of many instances in which the sturdy Flemish burghers have evinced that public spirit and jealous regard for municipal rights and privileges which distinguish them to this day. The picture represents Launcelot van Ursel, in his robes and chain as Burgomaster of Antwerp, addressing the armed members of the various guilds collected in the great place in front of the Town-hall of Antwerp, and confiding to their care the safety of the city when attacked by the Guelders under Martin van Rossen in 1542. In front of the martial populace, and attended by a page bearing his shield and helmet, stands Town Councillor van Spranghen, whom the Burgomaster is investing with the command. Thronging round these on all sides, waiting and listening, or by various emphatic gestures dedicating themselves and their weapons to the defence of their great city, then at the height of its corporate power and commercial prosperity, are the great crowd of volunteer swordsmen, pikemen, and crossbow-men, representing by their various arms and diversity of costumes the numerous guilds of the city. Conspicuous by his showy civic livery is a kind of town-crier or factotum, unfurling a large yellow standard emblazoned with the black double eagle of Austria, and behind this floats the proper municipal flag of Antwerp. We may here remark that the peculiar patriotic significance of the event represented in this picture, and which is especially indicated by these flags, consists in the assertion on the part of the guilds of Antwerp of the right and power of defending themselves against the neighbouring Guelders without the intervention of the Imperial troops, while yet, at the same time, duly acknowledging their allegiance to the Imperial house.

Of the antiquarian knowledge here displayed, and of the graphic power exhibited in bringing before us so vividly the quaint old buildings as well as the grotesque old costumes, there can be no doubt. Equally evident is it that the modern Belgian painters retain the fine system of colouring and the general technical mastery which has for centuries distinguished the Flemish schools. But, most palpable of all, if we were to judge only by the works of Leys and his school, is the continued existence of those other peculiarities of northern art—incapability of elevated conception of even the grandest themes, and utter insensibility to the beauty, grace, and dignity which constitute the glory of the Italian schools. It may be that M. Leys paints (as we are told) from the descendants of these Flemish heroes; but, to us, the drawing and exaggerated character seem slavishly transferred from the early Flemish paintings. As for expression, no one face in the picture betrays emotion quite worthy of the occasion.

M. Lagye is, it need not be said, a pupil of Leys; and the scholar, in his fine colour, as equally in his ultra-prosaic realism, proves himself a faithful disciple in all things: witness his "Christening at Antwerp" (fifteenth century) and "Marguerite in the Chapel of our Lady of Sorrow." But the most singular, and in various ways remarkable, attempts at resuscitating the remote past are made by another of Leys's pupils, M. Alma-Tadema, who (without, however, the master's affectation of archaic ugliness) has been at infinite pains to procure authorities from ancient Assyrian and Egyptian antiquities in order to represent "An Evening Party at Nineveh"! and an "Egyptian Game"—that is to say, a quiet little match—about the Twelfth Dynasty—at the game of chess of the period!

Other artists appear to have come under the influence of Leys, without, however, at all partaking of his peculiarities. Foremost among them are Messrs. Koller and Lies. M. Koller, whose picture of "Philippa Welseren and Ferdinand I." we recently engraved, has another very fine picture of the "First Interview of Faust and Marguerite" (73). The drawing and painting of this work have rare thoroughness and solidity, while the tender colour and exquisite texture of the face of Marguerite deserve all praise. Yet where is the painter who has produced embodiments of the Faust and Margaret of Goethe's tragedy which have proved perfectly satisfactory to all? The conception of the characters here seem to us highly refined and unvulgar, but, at the same time, negative and cold. Without knowing the title one would hardly suppose either possessed of capabilities to take the principal parts in a drama of immeasurable pathos and passion. By M. Joseph Lies, whose funeral the other day all Antwerp went to see, there are two beautiful works, "Children Playing by the River Side," very silver-sweet in tone, yet, somewhat strange to say, a little wanting in atmospheric gradation; and a more ambitious work, representing a terror-stricken "Netherlandish Protestant Family" seeking refuge in a wood from the sanguinary emissaries of the Duke of Alva.

To the general principles of M. Gallait the great rival of Leys, we must give our adhesion, because those principles link art with the intellect and imagination, and aim at securing its more lovely aspects and ennobling influences. Unhappily, however, M. Gallait is sometimes rather mannered in style and theatrical (or sensational) in conception. These faults are not entirely absent from the otherwise fine picture of "Désillusion" (to retain the original French title)—an aged man manacled and in prison, looking in mournful reverie as the iron eats into his soul. The character was intended, we are informed, for Columbus, imprisoned by Bobadilla, though the picture does not present any direct clue to such intention. No character has been designated for what might be a companion work, bearing the apposite title of "Illusion," and which represents a young genius improvising on the violin, and whose aspirations for "Arte e Libertà" are revealed by the papers at his side. This is a highly refined work, free from the objections first hinted.

Turning to the French school, we have several notable works by well-known masters. Three Meissonniers, two of them "Soldiers Playing at Cards in the Guard-room," with many figures in each, are, notwithstanding some little excess of oleaginous richness, marvels of microscopic painting, baffling description and needing no eulogy. Gerome, with the opposite drawback of opacity of colour and rather less precision of drawing than usual, sends a picture which is, nevertheless, very remarkable. It represents a Mohammedan calling the hour of prayer on the top of a minaret overlooking the mosques, housetops, and minarets of Cairo, as the evening sun declines and a flight of storks streams away in Indian file to their far-off roost. We are disposed to ask, should not the shadows be longer at the time indicated? A pair of Frères will scarcely add to the painter's reputation; though "Bedtime—Cottage in Auvergne," with the children saying their evening prayers at the knees of their aged, poor, and miserable-looking grandam is very touching. M. Duverger, another genre painter of similar subjects, is best represented in the picture entitled "La Fontaine's Fable of 'The Hidden Treasure.'" For extreme finesse and felicity in the rendering of expression, we specially commend the reader to two pictures by M. Heilbuth—a name not, we believe, before represented in this gallery. One depicts the meeting of a couple of Cardinals on the promenade of Monte Pincio at Rome; and nothing can be more slily humorous than the unctuous and garrulous courtesy on each side, or than the stolid importance of their respective braces of flunkeys. The other is no less subtle in characterisation. We are introduced inside a roomy Cardinal's carriage, cushioned, padded, and crimson lined. His Eminence sits in the corner; by his side is a young, intelligent-looking priest, and on the opposite seat a boy acolyte. This is all; and yet the scene is full of suggestiveness—in the argumentative gestures of a too avancé, inexperienced, or over-zealous curé; in the bland yet dignified impassivity of the Cardinal, and the awe of the juvenile novice. Mdlle. Rosa Bonheur has a charming little picture of "Deer in the Forest of Fontainebleau," and Mdlle. Henrietta Browne (the painter of the well-known "Sisters of Charity Tending a Sick Child") sends a slight study of a "Young Turkish Girl." M. Gleyre, the painter of the famous "Illusions Perdues" in the Luxembourg, is represented by a mythological subject but little calculated to please English tastes. At the head of the room hangs a large picture of much merit, by M. van Hove, representing a boat, with mourners, crossing the Scheldt to place immortelles on a recently-made grave. Below this are some clever, sketchy Eastern subjects by M. Schreyer. "Gleaners Returning Home," by M. Langee, is a picture of unaffected and simple rusticity very broadly painted.

M. A. Stevens, the Belgian painter, whose single-figure studies in the International Exhibition were so greatly admired for their technical perfection, does not fully sustain his reputation in "The Disappointed," though parts are very beautiful. Portions, also, of "The Convalescent" by M. Willems, another distinguished Belgian painter, are charmingly painted, but the faces are not equal to the accessories, and the texture is too satiny.

Among other noteworthy works by French and Belgian artists—there being, bien entendu, hardly one bad or even mediocre picture in the collection—may be mentioned the "Taking Tea in the Suburbs of Brussels (sixteenth century)" by M. Serrure; "A Brittany Wedding," by M. Weber, remarkable for its breadth of light and shade; the "Interior of St. Jacques, at Antwerp," by M. De Braekeleer (the influence of Leys being evident both in the forcible colour and the ugly faces); clever pictures, similar in subject and scale to Meissonnier, by his pupil, M. Ruiperez; genre pictures, showing a great technical advance, by M. F. Baugniet, an artist long known in London for his lithographic drawings of musical and other professional celebrities; animal pieces by M. Verboekhoven (rather hard and mannered), by M. E. T. Schaggeny, and by Van Kuyck (capital stable interiors); landscapes by Lambinet and Lamorinière—those by the latter singularly powerful; an interior by M. Dyckmans (not a little laboured); and the ignoble candle-light subjects by M. van Schendel, of which it may truly be said, when you have seen one you have seen all.

COUNTRY NEWS.

A communication has been received from the Prince of Wales accepting the invitation of the Lord Mayor of Dublin to be present at a ball, at the Mansion House, on Tuesday evening, May 9.

On Sunday a new pier in course of construction at New Brighton, Cheshire, gave way, and over forty people were precipitated on to the shore. Fortunately the tide was out, and no person was severely injured.

At a public meeting held at Southsea, on Thursday week, a splendid épergne and centrepiece, of the value of £150, were presented to Mr. W. G. Chambers, the late Mayor of Portsmouth, in appreciation of his services during his two years of office.

The Wexford People announces a discovery of treasure-trove. Some children, playing on the sands at Saline, coast of Wexford, found an earthenware vessel which contained about 600 silver coins, said to be Roman. The vessel was embedded in a small declivity about a stone's throw from the ancient ruins of Kilgorman Church.

A unique attraction is likely to be lent to the Dublin International Exhibition by the King of Italy. A letter from Turin, dated the 31st ult., states that the Royal Treasury will most probably send a topaz, weighing several pounds, and 8 in. or 9 in. long, having on it a beautiful engraving of "The Last Supper." The committee are expected to provide, at their own expense, a suitable show-case, plate glass, and an iron safe, with iron railings.

At a meeting of the Liverpool Local Marine Board, on Thursday week, a silver medal was presented, on behalf of the Danish Government, to Daniel James, second officer of the ship Thornhill, as an acknowledgment of his services in rescuing the crew of the Danish schooner Anne Elizabeth, in October last, when that vessel was waterlogged and sinking. The captain of the Thornhill has received a gold medal for the same rescue.

The Suffolk Albert Memorial Middle-class College, at Framlingham, was formally opened on Monday. The college has accommodation for 300 boys, 150 of whom were admitted at the opening, and 150 more will enter on Monday next. Next July the public opening of the college will be celebrated, when a statue of the late Prince Consort will be placed in a niche in front of the building. The Prince of Wales is expected to take part in the opening ceremony. The villagers of Framlingham kept holiday on Monday in honour of the occasion.

A meeting in connection with the representation of Rochdale was held in that town on Monday evening. The Liberal electors and non-electors were called together, and upwards of 4000 responded to the appeal. A resolution approving of the candidature of Mr. T. B. Potter, of Manchester, having been proposed, Mr. Bright addressed the meeting in an eloquent speech, urging Mr. Potter's claims upon the goodwill of the constituency. The resolution having been unanimously adopted, Mr. Potter himself addressed the meeting amid repeated manifestations of approval. The Rochdale Reform Association were anxious to bring Mr. Bright forward, but he declined. Mr. Brett, Q.C., is the Conservative candidate.

The proposed bridge which is to carry the South Wales and Great Western Direct Railway across the River Severn, near Chepstow, is, according to the design of Messrs. Fowler and Fulton, the engineers, to be two miles and a quarter in length, and is to have sufficient headway to permit masts of ships of 122 ft. in length to pass under when the surface of the river is at the level of mean tide, so as in no way to impede the navigation. The principal opening which is to cross the low-water channel is to be 600 ft. span, being the total width of the Thames at Southwark Bridge, or 150 ft. wider than the span of the Menai Bridge. Messrs. Fowler and Fulton estimate the probable cost of this bridge at £980,000, for which sum Messrs. Cochrane, Grove, and Co. have undertaken to complete the work.

On Saturday evening the exhibition of fine arts, which since Tuesday has been held in the Townhall, Windsor (to which, as stated last week, the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Dean of Windsor, the Provost of Eton, the Council of the South Kensington Museum, and a host of the nobility and gentry were contributors), was formally closed by Mr. W. R. Harris, the Mayor, in the presence of a distinguished assemblage of visitors. The proceedings on Saturday, the last evening of the exhibition, were very agreeably enlivened by a conversazione, at which Messrs. H. Barnby, Adams, and other gentlemen of the Chapel Royal of St. George, Mr. Durant, and Miss Neighbour, of the Royal Academy of Music, assisted, a number of choice musical morceaux being very admirably executed. During the five days' exhibition about 2000 persons have visited the Townhall, and the committee have found themselves about £100 in pocket, which will go towards the funds of the Windsor and Eton Literary Institution.

A young woman, named Ann Mein or Mahan, knocked up the keeper of a railway tavern at Chelmsford at an early hour on the morning of Sunday week, praying earnestly for breakfast, and stating that she had "escaped" from New Hall, a Roman Catholic convent, in the night, by making a rope of some sashlines and window curtains, and letting herself down from the window upon feather beds previously thrown out. She charged the inmates with cruelty, and threatened to be "another Maria Monk to them." To the good innkeeper's wife she offered for sale a pair of stays, as being too small for her. All of which was believed, and turned out to be correct so far as the fact of the escape goes; but it appears, from a letter sent by the Lady Prioress to the local papers, that the runaway was a servant, and no nun, that she had been detected in theft, and escaped, when she did go, with a quantity of wearing apparel either upon or with her which belonged to other inmates of the convent, and which fully accounted for her stays being too small for her. She made for London.

The Registrar-General of Ireland has completed his quarterly reports for 1864, the first year of civil registration of births, deaths, and marriages in Ireland. 136,643 births were registered in the year, affording a ratio of 1 in 41·89 of the estimated population at the beginning of the year, which is stated at 5,723,516, calculated on the assumption that the birth-rate and death-rate since the Census have been the same as in England. This ratio of one birth to 41·89 persons is about one third less than the birth-rate of Great Britain in the same year. To a certain extent, emigration since the Census will account for this; but it is owing still more to this being the first year of registration in Ireland and many persons failing to comply with the Act of Parliament. The deaths registered were 94,075—a ratio of 1 in 60·84 of the estimated population—again about a third less than the English and Scottish death-rate of the year. The excess of births over deaths, therefore, so far as the registrar has recorded them, was 42,568; but 114,169 persons left the ports of Ireland in the year, stating to the enumerators that it was not their intention to return. In Great Britain the excess of births over deaths in 1864 was 282,385; and the total emigration from the United Kingdom to America and the colonies was, if we include 17,347 foreigners, 208,900. The return of marriages in Ireland is at present complete for the first three quarters of the year only, and gives but 21,021, or not quite one person married in the year out of a hundred. The register would imply a much higher ratio of mortality on the eastern coast than on the western; the deaths registered in Connaught were but 1 in 79·1 of the population as enumerated in 1861; but in Leinster they were 1 in 55·6. As in Great Britain so in Ireland, typhus fever prevailed. Civil registration is now established in the whole of the United Kingdom; it began in England in 1837, in Scotland in 1855, and in Ireland in 1864.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

Another Mr. Walker, a jeweller in Holborn, has had his shop plundered. It is the metropolitan and not the City police whose watchfulness has this time been evaded. More than 3600 articles of jewellery were taken. The particulars of the robbery have not been given to the public by the police. In this case the shopkeeper lives on the premises.

On Saturday the second spring exhibition of flowers took place at the Botanic Society's Gardens, Regent's Park. The show was remarkably good. As the distinctive feature of the first show is hyacinthine, that of the second is azalean. But, though azaleas formed the prominent part of the exhibition, there was a brilliant contribution of hyacinths, cyclamens, tulips, cinerarias, roses, and other flowers.

At the weekly meeting of the Shipwreck Society, held at its offices, Hibernia-chambers, London Bridge, it was reported that relief during the quarter had been afforded in the time of their greatest need to 485 widows, 357 orphans, 42 aged parents, and 1890 shipwrecked persons; the outlay for which drew upon the limited resources of the society for £4369. Silver medals were awarded in several instances for services in saving life. It was stated at the last meeting that the pressure upon the funds of the society was so great that the committee felt compelled earnestly to appeal to the public for aid to meet the distress of the castaways on our coasts, their widows and orphans. orphans.

The twenty-eighth anniversary festival of the London Coffee and Eating House Keepers' Benevolent Association—established in 1837 for the purpose of affording relief to decayed members, their widows, and orphans—was held, on Wednesday evening, at the London Coffee-house, Ludgate-hill, under the presidency of Mr. Henry Rumsey Foster. Nearly 120 friends and supporters of the institution were present. The secretary announced several donations and subscriptions, including twenty guineas from the chairman, ten guineas from Messrs. Allsopp, ten guineas from the proprietors of the Morning Advertiser (being their nineteenth donation), five guineas from the Times, three guineas from the Star—making a total of close upon £200.

A general meeting of the members of the London and Middlesex Archæological Society took place, on Monday, at their rooms, Hart-street, Bloomsbury—Mr. Arthur Ashpitel, the architect, presiding. By permission of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, the original drawings made by Sir Christoper Wren for St. Paul's Cathedral were exhibited, and some remarks upon them were offered by Mr. F. C. Penrose, the cathedral surveyor. Mr. Goodchild exhibited a series of drawings of Sir Christoper's first model of St. Paul's, which was not carried out. An interesting discussion followed, in which the Rev. Thomas Hugo, M.A., Incumbent of All Saints' Church, Bishopsgate; Mr. C. J. Shoppee, Mr. Charles Bailey, Mr. George R. Trench, Mr. J. Whichcord, and other gentlemen took part.

On Tuesday morning a fire, followed by an explosion of petroleum, saltpetre, and gunpowder, took place on the premises of Mr. John Tilleard and Son, oilmen, of Great Suffolk-street, Southwark-bridge-road. The firm has two shops in the street named—one wholesale, the other retail—and just previous to the fire some of the volatile mineral oil called benzoine was being pumped in the basement of the wholesale shop, when it caught fire—it is believed by the gas evolved from it exploding—and the whole place was instantly in flames. In a few minues the saltpetre and other explosive material in the basement blew up, and very shortly after a store of gunpowder which was kept in an upper story was reached by the quickly-spreading flames, and its explosion blew off the roof of the house. The falling material injured several persons. Mr. Tilleard, jun., was much burnt about the arms; and his mother, who was thrown off a ladder while escaping from an upper story, was seriously hurt. The brigade engines were quickly on the spot, as were those of Captain Hodges and other volunteer brigades, and the fire was extinguished in about three hours.

The Royal Geographical Society held its tenth meeting for the season on Monday night, at its rooms, Burlington House. Sir R. Murchison, K.C.B., president, occupied the chair; and there was a large attendance of members and visitors. The papers read were "On the Climate of the North Pole," by W. E. Hickson, Esq.; and "On the Best Route for North Polar Exploration," by C. R. Markham, Esq. The President, on behalf of those present, returned thanks for the able paper of Mr. Markham, and expressed a hope that both the routes to the Pole would be undertaken by the Government. The President then read a letter from Lady Franklin, in which she expressed it as her opinion that the glory and advantage of exploring the North Pole ought not to be left to any other nation; that it was due to England; and that it would be much to be deplored if the fate of her husband and his companions were to be made an official objection to the proposed expedition to the Pole. Captain Inglefield said that, if he were put in command of an expedition and told to get to the Pole the best way he could, he would take the route by Spitzbergen. Captain Davis (of the Admiralty) read a short paper on the nature of the ice to be met with north of Spitzbergen. Admiral Fitzroy offered a few words in eulogy of Maury, the distinguished American geographer and meteorologist, who was now in this country lying on a bed of sickness. The navy and mercantile marine of England had derived immense advantages from the works of this illustrious foreigner, and he (Admiral Fitzroy) regretted to think that no public notice or recognition of Maury's great services had been given. The president said that Lieutenant Maury deserved the eulogy which had been pronounced upon him, but it was not strictly accurate to say that his services had received no recognition. He had been hailed by acclamation whenever he appeared in public, and was elected an honorary fellow of that society. Mr. Hickson and Mr. Markham briefly replied upon various points.

The births of 2208 children, 1113 boys and 1095 girls, were registered in London last week. In the corresponding weeks of ten years, 1855-64, the average number corrected for increase of population was 1996. The deaths in London in the same period were 1680. The average number for the fourteenth week in ten years (corrected) is 1422. Zymotic diseases proved fatal to 320 persons; 108 children died from whooping-cough, 70 deaths occurred from typhus, 11 from smallpox, 26 from scarlatina, 9 from diphtheria, and 14 from measles. Four hundred and forty-seven deaths were caused by diseases of the respiratory organs (exclusive of phthisis); 257 persons died from bronchitis, 121 from pneumonia, and 28 from asthma. From phthisis 186 persons died. Diseases of the heart proved fatal to 60 persons, and 201 deaths occurred from diseases of the brain.——In the week that ended last Saturday the births in London and nine other towns of the United Kingdom were 4076; the deaths 3200. The annual rate of mortality in the week in those ten large towns was 30 per 1000 persons living, and less than in the previous week, when it was 32. The rate of mortality was 29 per 1000 in London, 35 in Edinburgh, and 25 in Dublin; 37 in Liverpool, 30 in Manchester, 24 in Salford, 24 in Birmingham, 30 in Leeds, 28 in Bristol, and 36 in Glasgow. There is no trace of any new disease in English cities, but the mortality has been high; fever in its various forms is still fatal to considerable numbers, for no means are taken in many places to carry out effectual sanitary measures. Great waterworks and great drains appeal to the imagination, but they are of no more use than the pyramids of Egypt in preventing pestilence, unless they carry sweet water into all the people's dwellings, and remove from our cities every impurity back to the land, by which it is required. Houses are crowded to an inconceivable extent, and the lodgings of the workmen in our large towns destroy their health.

Law and Police.—The Lord Chancellor will to-day, being the first day of Easter Term, give his customary reception to the Judges and other dignitaries learned in the law.

The case of Captain Colborne, who was charged with publishing a libel on Mr. James Phineas Davis—denouncing him as a money-lender, and in that capacity entrapping thoughtless young men into his power and then ruining their prospects for life—was disposed of in the Central Criminal Court on Tuesday. Mr. Coleridge said that the defendant's object was to assail a system, but admitted that the prosecutor's name had been improperly introduced. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, coupled with a strong and special recommendation to mercy. The Recorder sentenced Captain Colborne to pay a fine of £20 to the Queen.

At Bow-street Police Court, on Tuesday, Robert Ellesden Martin, a stamper in the General Post Office, was charged with having used on a certain letter a defaced threepenny stamp, with intent to defraud her Majesty. Mr. Flowers, being convinced that the defendant had a guilty knowledge that he was using an old stamp, fined him £5.

Privilege of embassy was pleaded at the Marlborough-street Police Court, last week, on the occasion of a charge against Giuseppe Isarus, servant at the French Ambassador's, of assault. The case was dismissed unheard, it being stated that the French Minister, "with all respect to the Court, wished to assert his privilege."

Frederick Beaver, an occasional reporter for the daily papers at the Westminster Police Court, was prosecuted last week by Mdme. Rachel, the notorious dealer in cosmetics, for obtaining money from her on promise of suppressing an article commenting upon her and her doings, which Beaver said he was about to send to the Daily Telegraph. The Jewess was too much for her persecutor. She gave him the money and had him apprehended for the extortion. He was committed for trial.

An elderly man, named Samuelson, was committed for trial, on Wednesday, on a charge of stealing bank notes to the value of £750 from the Bank of England. Samuelson had been for many years a porter at the bank. Last October one of the tellers in the bank left a number of notes in his case on his desk for a few minutes. When he returned they were gone. The prisoner, who was in the room, was questioned as to them, but he denied all knowledge of their whereabouts. Within the last few days it was found that he had been dealing with some of the notes at Hull, and he was apprehended, on Wednesday, with the remainder of the notes in his possession.

At the Central Criminal Court, on Wednesday, the prisoners charged with the great jewel robberies in the City were put on their trial. They were all defended except Caseley, the "Counsellor Kelly" of the Judge and Jury Club, who made a rambling speech in his own defence. The female prisoners were discharged from the dock, as it was proved they were all married women, and the presumption of law was applied in their favour that they acted under the coercion of their husbands. The male prisoners were all found guilty.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

The new Tattersalls' was opened on Monday last, and 115 lots were put up for sale. The first of them was a dun pony, which began at 10 gs. and was knocked down at 13 gs.; and the lot of the day was Mr. Chaplin's Emperor, the winner of the Grand National, who was bought in at 650 gs., and will, we trust, run again for it, near Crewkerne in the west, next spring. The effect of the galleries was very good, but under a mid-day sun the place grew very hot. The partners made it hotter still for the outsiders, who were not allowed to carry on their pencil practice in the interior, and were told to "Move on!" when they got outside. Their separation from the subscribers by a thick palisade of ground glass, instead of some friendly bars, is a great bar to their operations. Rooms of their own never prosper, as layers can thrive as little without backers as dogfish without mackerel. It will be some time before the subscribers are reconciled to the loss of their tree, their cow (so highly suggestive of "milking a favourite"), and their cool verandah, in the contemplation of the Byzantine floor, the Italian marble chimneypieces, the green-and-gold panelings, the morocco seats, and the Louis Quinze clock of the new rooms. The operations of the day seemed to make the starting of Breadalbane for the Guineas a certainty; but Liddington's position was unshaken by the metallic faith in the chestnut.

The banquet to Messrs. Tattersall at Willis's Rooms was worthy of the occasion. It lacked the pleasant speech and presence of Lord Derby, but Admiral Rous was a very appropriate chairman. The Duke of Beaufort returned thanks for the Chase, and Mr. Hawkins, Q.C., for the Bar. He expressed his fears that, although the lawyers were about to change their place of business from Westminster to Carey-street, a kind and discerning public would not invite them to a splendid banquet, or wish them success and prosperity in their future career. Mr. Richard Tattersall gave a neat and succinct account of the history of The Corner, and compared the days when his father's ex-laundry was big enough to accommodate the subscribers with the present, when betting had extended "to persons in humbler ranks, who years since would as soon have thought of keeping a tame elephant as making a book." His cousin, Mr. Edmund Tattersall, also spoke well to the point, and humorously stated that he was "under orders from the Admiral" to make a long speech if his cousin made a short one, and vice versâ. About 250 noblemen and gentlemen sat down, and there were eighty race cups on the table.

For five years in succession the Cambridge men have lost the toss, and the race as well, and the account stands thus, for 1829-'65, twelve for Oxford and ten for Cambridge. We believe that this is the first time that a crew, which held the lead so long, ever got beaten at the finish. The terrific Cambridge spurts only took the steam out of the men, and Mr. Chitty, who has "been umpire for nine years and had nothing to do," said most decisively at the dinner that two or three of their crew were only half trained. Their own captain fell back more upon their only having "a ditch" to practice on. As it was, their more flashy style availed them nothing against that long, steady Oxford stroke which, as the boating men say of Bob Chambers and the trainers said of Partisan, "meant vengeance." The steamers were very troublesome as usual, though Mr. Morrison considered that the people on board were more in fault than the captains. But for the river police there would have been no race. Year after year we hear the threat of taking the race to another locality, but the "Citizens" and the Midges feel a sort of security that it will never be carried out: and hence, at one time, they gave the umpire the go-by, and Oxford the full benefit of their wash. No good will be done till it is clearly understood that no start will be made till every steamer but the umpire's has retired to a certain distance.

By the result the Cambridge success in the athletic sports is quite wiped out. In the steeplechase at Aylesbury the hope of Cambridge came to grief, and Oxford was first and second. In the four-handed billiard match, 500 up, Oxford won by fourteen points; and Mr. A. G. Payne, of Peterhouse, won the single match for Cambridge by twenty. In rackets, thanks to Mr. Rudd's fine play, Cambridge won both the four-handed and the single-handed match.

Ruff has been again enabled to give us as good a prospect for the turf year as Mr. Gladstone will do for the financial. It contains all the entries to the first Wednesday in March, inclusive; and we see by its jockey list that Boyce, Custance, E. Sharpe, and Daley can still ride 8 st.; and Fordham and Challoner, 7 st. 12 lb. H. Grimshaw declares 7 st. 7 lb.; Osborne, 8 st. 4 lb.; Job Marson, 6 st. 12 lb.; and Snowden, 7 st. 10 lb.

THE CENTRAL RELIEF FUND.

A meeting of the Central Executive Committee was held on Monday afternoon in the Manchester Townhall, Sir J. P. Kay-Shuttleworth in the chair.

The hon. secretary reported that £1392 had been received during the past four weeks, and that the balance in the bank was £47,308. He also presented his monthly report, by which it appears that the increase of employment during the past month was small, there being only 7327 operatives more than the previous month in full work.

Mr. Farnall presented his report, showing a decrease of persons seeking relief in the twenty-seven unions of the manufacturing districts on the 1st inst., as compared with the number relieved on the 4th ult., of 10,553.

The Lord Mayor of London and the Lord Mayor of Dublin were introduced to the committee by the Mayor of Manchester, and remained in the room for a short time. Before leaving, the Lord Mayor of London stated that he and other gentlemen occupying the same position had been most happy to find accommodation in the Mansion House for the transaction of business connected with the Lancashire distress fund. He had only one regret to express, which was, that the balance remaining of the Mansion-house fund was only £12,000 or £13,000. The chairman said he could not allow his Lordship to withdraw without saying that the whole district had felt that the Mansion-house fund had greatly contributed to the relief of the operatives of Lancashire. Mr. Ross (President of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce) said, he desired to convey the thanks of this committee to the people of Dublin. There had been no more generous response to the wants of this district than had proceeded from the Irish capital. He was glad to find, from a list that was to be presented to the committee that day, that whilst there were outstanding subscriptions amounting to £60,000 in England, and £404 in Scotland, not one shilling of arrears was due from Ireland. The Lord Mayor of Dublin said it afforded him great pleasure to hear the statement just made in favour of the people of Dublin. Their Lordships then retired.

The following grants were made from the general fund, each extending over four weeks:—Ashton, £800; Dukinfield, £300; Hurst, £200; Lees and district, £200; Mossley, £100; Newton Moor, £60; Stalybridge, £600; Tintwistle, £150; Rishton, £20; Padiham, £100; Bury and Elton, £150; Heywood, £400; Hulme, £100; Sabden, £10; Rimmington, £10; Glossop and Hadfield, £250; Crawshay Booth, £60; Bacup, £250; Edenfield, £20; Newchurch, £20; Rawtenstall, £60; Stacksteads, £60; Crompton, £120; Middleton and Tonge, £20; Oldham, £400; Royton, £120; Preston, £400; Salford, £200; Wigan, £300; Higham, £20; and Tockholes, £10.

The annual cricket-match between the old Rugbeians and the school will be played on the 20th and 21st inst.

The blockade of Montevideo was raised on the 21st of February.

Mr. Hennessy, M.P., lectured, on Monday evening, at the Hanover-square Rooms, on Cardinal Wiseman. There was a very numerous attendance. The O'Donoghue, M.P., presided.

The election for South Shropshire took place on Wednesday, at Shrewsbury, when the Hon. Colonel Percy Herbert, brother of the Earl of Powis, was elected in the Conservative interest without opposition. The vacancy was created by the removal of Lord Newport to the House of Lords on the death of his father, the Earl of Bradford.

Mr. Consul Pakenham has transmitted to the Foreign Office an account of Madagascar and its trade. This island, in area somewhat larger than France, has a population estimated at 5,000,000, of whom about 5000 profess Christianity. Madagascar is traversed longitudinally by two principal chains of mountains; the climate on the table-lands is generally healthy; the interior is well watered, but by streams navigable only for piroques. The capital, Antananarivo, is situate about the centre of the island, and is the residence of the Sovereign; it is supposed to contain about 80,000 inhabitants. Owing to an idea that the best means of preserving the country from foreign invasion is to have no roads, none have ever been made, and travellers as well as merchandise for the interior have to be conveyed over extensive tracts on men's shoulders. There is an ancient law in force which prohibits people on pain of death from digging up the earth in search of precious metals; but copper, mercury, iron, and coal mines are known to exist, and gold and silver are found in some parts of the island. The soil is very fertile, producing, almost without cultivation, indigo, tobacco, rice, sugar-cane, manioc, yams, potatoes, and beans. Coffee grows well in some parts, but so little attention has hitherto been paid to its culture that the greater part of that consumed is imported. The Consul reported that experiments made to grow cotton had not as yet proved successful. There is no direct trade between Great Britain and Madagascar. The imports on the west coast of the island consist chiefly of cotton cloths and articles of hardware, brought in Arab dhows from Zanzibar and Bombay, which take as return cargo paddy, hides, ebony, and orchilla weed, as well as bullocks in small numbers for the Comoro Islands. The trade with the east coast is almost exclusively in the hands of a few merchants at the Mauritius and Réunion, and is principally carried on by British vessels belonging to the former colony and one steamer belonging to Réunion. Tamatave, on the east coast of Madagascar, is the chief emporium of trade with the Mauritius; there are about 250 foreign settlers in this town. The customs' duties are 20 per cent on exports (except animals, which pay a fixed duty) and 10 per cent on imports, but the import duty on liquor is one third. The import duties are levied in kind. The British trade with this vast island is quite in its infancy. Nine tenths of the imports consist of clothing and liquors, and nine tenths of the exports of oxen and other animals and rice. The exports from Madagascar into the Mauritius in the year 1863 were of the value of £103,126; in 1859 they amounted only to £56,015. But the imports from the Mauritius into Madagascar, in 1863, fell to only £23,654, owing to political causes and the high price of cotton goods, the convulsion of the American continent thus shaking the trade of this distant and retired island. But a larger trade could not fairly be expected, considering the previous rigid exclusion of the people from exterior communication under the rule of Queen Ranovalo.

"OUT OF AN ENGAGEMENT."

Few visitors to the last year's exhibition of the British Institution will forget a very striking little picture, which we engraved, representing a dissolute-looking cavalier waiting, as the title informed us, at "The Time and Place" appointed for a duel. The picture now engraved is by the same painter—an artist who, though he has only quite recently attracted public notice, presents many indications of having entered upon a successful career.

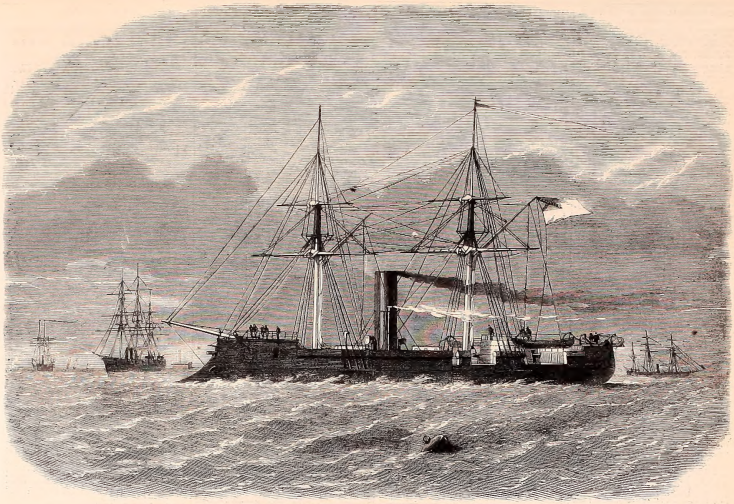
As we have already remarked in our review of this picture, when noticing the exhibition of the British Institution, where it is to be seen, such appeals as this to our compassion for the secret distress of those who minister to our amusement have often been made by Thackeray, Bulwer, and Dickens. The painter has his own proper language for touching our sympathies; and Mr. Pettie shows us that appeals of this kind may be appropriately conveyed by the artist in colours as well as the artist in words. By the destruction of the Surrey Theatre of London and the theatre of the same name at Sheffield, and by the burning of Saville House, this subject has acquired an opportune or occasional interest upon which the artist could not have calculated when he commenced the picture. By the pile of playbills on the floor and the plate of a dancing girl against the wall, it is evident that this is a poor violin player of a theatrical orchestra. His muddy boots, as well as the number of playbills, seem to testify to his having sought an engagement in every direction. Failing of success, he has come back to the bare garret which is his home. No meal is there spread for his return; and little comfort of any kind can there await him. His daughters are probably dependent for support upon his finding an engagement or themselves obtaining the occasional employment we may suppose they sometimes have in pantomime, ballet, or extravaganza. Well, the poor man has no other resource, so he takes up his cherished violin; and may we not hope that, in playing overture, air, accompaniment, or what not, he will find solace and forgetfulness? and can we help being moved to compassion by the sight of his present audience, patient, uncomplaining, even pleased, and who regard him with looks so tearfully fraught with pitying love?

THE CONFEDERATE STEAM-RAM STONEWALL IN LISBON HARBOUR.

It has been mentioned that the Portuguese fort of Belem, at the entrance of Lisbon Harbour, fired upon the American Federal ships of war Niagara and Sacramento, when the Governor of the fort believed that they were about to break the neutrality of the harbour by going out in pursuit of the Confederate vessel Stonewall. The Portuguese Government has since apologised, and dismissed the Governor from his post. We have received from a Lisbon correspondent, Mr. Henry Jauncey, the drawing which we have engraved, and it is accompanied with the following letter:—

"Lisbon, March 28, 1865.

"The Confederate steam-ram Stonewall having come into this port on the 26th, and thinking a likeness of her might prove acceptable to you, I take the liberty of forwarding one, which I flatter myself is a faithful one. The Stonewall is a steam-ram of about 1200 tons measurement, brig-rigged, and of 500-horse power, capable of working up as high as 1700. She carries three guns mounted—two 70-pounder Armstrong guns in the turret abaft the mainmast, and one 300-pounder Armstrong gun in the forecastle, just over the "ram;" this gun can also be trained as a broadside gun, and is a most formidable piece of artillery. The turret is not a movable one, but the guns can be trained to bear either fore or aft, or as broadside guns likewise. She is plated with 5½ in. iron plates, and 6 in. forward. The "ram" projects about 18 ft. under the water line, and is very sharp; it gradually rounds off to the deck, and is surmounted by the 300-pounder. She steams very fast, the officers say thirteen knots at sea. The Stonewall was built, at Bordeaux, for the Danish navy; but, not being finished in time, was rejected by the Danes, and then was bought by the Confederates. She has just come down from Ferrol, where she had been repairing; and the Niagara and Sacramento, who have been on the look out for her, arrived last evening. They cannot leave the port now till twenty-four hours after the sailing of the Stonewall, and are both off Belem, with steam up, as are also the Portuguese corvettes Sagres and Mindello. The Stonewall is commanded by Captain T. J. Page, of the Confederate navy, and has a strong company of officers and men. They show every attention to the numerous visitors who have gone on board. She has been ordered by the Portuguese Government to leave in twenty four hours, and is now going out, and the Niagara and Sacramento cannot leave till twenty-four hours after. I show in the sketch, besides the Stonewall, the Portuguese corvette Sagres and the Federals Niagara and Sacramento, and, in the distance, Fort St. Julian's and the Bugio Lighthouse."



On reference to our Illustration, it should be observed that the Sacramento and Niagara are seen to the left hand, the Niagara being the nearer of the two; while the Bugio Lighthouse is seen in the distance, between the Niagara and the Stonewall; the Portuguese corvette and Fort St. Julian are shown to the right hand of the View.

THE ERUPTION OF MOUNT ETNA.

A small map of the vicinity of Mount Etna, showing the course of the lava streams and position of the crater during the present eruption, was engraved in our Number of Feb. 25, from a drawing by Mr. J. Jeans, the British Consul at Catania. We have to thank the same gentleman for the sketch, taken by him on the 20th of March, engraved for this week's publication. The view, looking in a northerly direction, is taken from the immediate vicinity of the great crater. To the extreme right is Etna itself towering above Monte Frumento, and stretching away to the left are the several craters (at present four in number) formed by the actual eruption. The foreground consists of a forest of pine-trees, and between it and the craters lies a sea of red-hot lava. On its surface are to be seen the carbonised trunks of fallen trees. Mr. Jeans says, "The explosions were something quite appalling, and, whilst sketching, we had to look out for and dodge the falling stones, some of which came down within a few yards of where we were seated. On our return we witnessed a singular sight. A lava stream, some 50 ft. in width, was rolling down a deep and precipitous ravine, on the brink of which we stood watching its progress. Just beneath us there happened to be a fall of some 20 ft., down which, into a sort of reservoir below, poured a cascade of melted snow converted into boiling water, and emitting volumes of steam. When the lava had reached the edge of the fall and the red-hot stones began to topple over, the scene was most curious. It was literally a cascade of fire and water intermingled. The former element carried the day, and in the course of a few minutes the water was all turned into steam. The eruption shows no symptoms of ceasing as yet. The streams of lava which at first threatened the villages to the eastward are now stationary, and the lava is merely accumulating upon itself; but there are several new streams running in a northerly direction towards Linguaglossa; these are causing great havoc among the pine woods, and, at their present rate of progression, will soon enter upon the cultivated region."

"OUT OF AN ENGAGEMENT," BY J. PETTIE, IN THE EXHIBITION OF THE BRITISH INSTITUTION.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

THE CONFEDERATE STEAM-RAM STONEWALL LEAVING THE HARBOUR OF LISBON.—SEE PAGE 381.

THE ERUPTION OF MOUNT ETNA.—SEE PAGE 381.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

ALTHOUGH the quantity of Stock actually absorbed by the public has not been to say extensive, the market for nearly all Home Securities has been somewhat active, and the quotations have had an upward tendency. Consols, for Transfer, have been done at 91⅛ ¼; Ditto, for Time, 91⅛ ⅜; Reduced and New Three per Cents, 89⅞ ⅛; Exchequer Bills, 3s. to 6s. prem. Bank Stock has marked 240 to 242.

There has been a steady business doing in Indian Stocks, &c., on rather higher terms. India Stock, 215; Ditto, Five per Cents, 107; Ditto, Five-and-a-Half per Cent Rupee Paper, 109; Ditto, Debentures, 99¾; Ditto, Bonds, 12s. to 16s. prem.

The arrivals of bullion from all quarters have been very moderate. The export inquiry is still heavy, the steamer for the East taking out only £2430.

The demand for Spanish Securities has ruled steady, and prices have been on the advance. Danubian Stock has commanded more attention. Most other Foreign Stocks may be considered firm in price.

Only a moderate business has been transacted in the market for Joint-stock Bank shares. Agra and United Service have sold at 120; Ditto, New, 60; Alliance, 34; Anglo-Austrian, 7¼; Anglo-Italian, 12¾; Bank of Egypt, 31½; Bank of Queensland, 22½; Bank of New Zealand, 16½; British and Californian, 5½; Chartered of India, Australia, and China, 30½; Consolidated, 10⅞; East London, 5¾; European, 13½; Imperial, 30¾; Imperial Ottoman, 17¾; Land Mortgage of India, 4⅜; London and Brazilian, 50; London, Buenos Ayres, and River Plate, 49½; London and County, 76½; London and Westminster, 95½; Merchant, 27½; Metropolitan, 17; Oriental, 54½; Provincial of Ireland, 87½; South Australia, 35½; Union of Australia, 55½; and Union of London, 54¾.

Colonial Government Securities have been in moderate request; and the market for Miscellaneous Securities has been rather quiet.

The transactions in the Railway Share Market have been moderately extensive, and prices have tended upwards. Annexed are the leading official quotations:—

Ordinary Shares and Stocks.—Bristol and Exeter, 97; Caledonian, 130½; Cornwall, 6; Edinburgh and Glasgow, 89½; Great Eastern, 47⅝; Great Northern, 132; Great Western, 76; Ditto, South Wales, 67; Ditto, Hereford, 100; Lancashire and Yorkshire, 120; London and Blackwall, 86½; London and Brighton, 108; London, Chatham, and Dover, 43; London and North-Western, 123; London and South-Western, 97; Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, 62; Metropolitan, 129¼; Midland, 137¼; North British 55; North-Eastern—Berwick, 111⅜; Ditto, Leeds, 70; Ditto, York, 103¾; South Devon, 55; South-Eastern, 87; Taff Vale, 157½; and West Hartlepool, 76½.

THE MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE, April 10.—There was a full average supply of English wheat here to-day, and all kinds moved off heavily, at 1s. to 2s. per quarter less money. In foreign wheat the transactions were on a very moderate scale, and in some instances prices had a drooping tendency. In floating cargoes of grain very little was passing, on former terms. Fine barley was steady, but grinding and distilling sorts were a heavy inquiry, at barely late rates. Malt was in full average supply and sluggish request, at previous currencies. The oat trade was firm, but no quotable change took place in prices. Both beans and peas commanded extreme rates, with only limited supplies on offer. The flour trade was far from active.

April 12.—Nearly all kinds of produce were very inactive to-day. Compared with Monday, however, no change took place in the quotations.

English.—Wheat, Essex and Kent, red, 38s. to 43s.; ditto, white, 40s. to 48s.; Norfolk and Suffolk, red, 38s. to 42s.; rye, 26s. to 27s.; grinding barley, 23s. to 24s.; distilling ditto, 25s. to 28s.; malting ditto, 27s. to 34s.; Lincoln and Norfolk malt, 54s. to 61s.; brown ditto, 47s. to 51s.; Kingston and Ware, 54s. to 61s.; chevalier, 58s. to 62s.; Yorkshire and Lincolnshire feed oats, 19s. to 23s.; potato ditto, 23s. to 27s.; Youghal and Cork, black, 18s. to 23s.; ditto, white, 19s. to 24s.; tick beans, 33s. to 35s.; grey peas, 34s. to 36s.; maple, 36s. to 39s.; white, 34s. to 36s.; boilers, 37s. to 38s. per quarter.

Arrivals this Week.—English and Scotch: Wheat, 1180; barley, 1370; malt, 1590; oats, 2810; flour, 370. Foreign: Wheat 260; barley, 790; oats, 9260; flour, 170 sacks.

Seeds.—All agricultural seeds are in fair request, at full prices. Linseed, rapeseed, and cakes, however, are a dull inquiry, on former terms.

Linseed, English, crushing, 56s. to 62s.; Calcutta, 57s. to 58s.; hempseed, 42s. to 43s. per quarter; coriander, 22s. to 24s. per cwt.; brown mustard seed, 10s. to 12s.; white ditto, 8s. to 10s.; tares, 9s. to 10s. per bushel; English rapeseed, 64s. to 72s. per quarter; linseed cakes, English, £10 15s. to £11; ditto, foreign, £11 0s. to £11 5s.; rape cakes, £6 0s. to £6 10s. per ton; red clover seed, 64s. to 120s.; white ditto, 66s. to 88s. per cwt.

Bread.—The prices of wheaten bread in the metropolis are from 6½d. to 7d.; of household ditto, 5d. to 6d. per 4 lb. loaf.

Averages of Grain.—Wheat, 39s. 8d.; barley, 29s. 5d.; oats, 21s. 8d.

English Grain Sold Last Week.—Wheat, 75,137; barley, 31,291; oats, 4483 quarters.

Tea.—The demand for most kinds is steady, at full quotations. The supply on offer is very large.

Sugar.—There is about an average business doing in this market, at late rates. Stock, 89,322 tons, against 62,458 tons last year. Refined goods are firm, at 43s. per cwt. for common brown lumps.

Coffee.—Most descriptions are in improved request, at previous currencies. The stock amounts to 11,155 tons, against 7959 tons in 1864.

Rice.—Sales progress freely, at very full prices. The stock amounts to 45,277 tons, against 48,601 tons last year.

Provisions.—The butter market is in a sluggish state, and in some instances the quotations are rather lower. Bacon moves off freely, at 68s. to 69s. per cwt. for Waterford on board. Hams are 2s. per cwt. dearer. Lard and most other provisions are a slow inquiry.

Tallow.—Prices are still drooping, with a heavy market. P.Y.C., on the spot, 39s. 3d. per cwt. Stock, 38,781 casks, against 53,078 casks last year. Rough fat, 2s. 0½d. per 8 lb.

Hay and Straw.—Meadow hay, £4 10s. to £5 10s.; clover, £5 10s. to £6 10s.; and straw, £1 8s. to £1 11s. per load.

Coals.—Newcastle, 16s. 9d. to 17s. 3d.; Sunderland, 17s. 3d. to 20s.; other kinds, 18s. to 22s. per ton.

Hops.—Selected qualities move off steadily, at full quotations. Other kinds are very dull. Prices range from 100s. to 200s. per cwt.

Wool.—The stock of colonial wool in London is now about 70,000 bales. All kinds are a dull inquiry, at barely late rates.

Potatoes.—The supplies are moderate, and the demand is steady, at from 60s. to 15s. per ton.

Cattle.—The supplies of stock have been moderate, and the trade has ruled heavy, as follows:—Beef, from 3s. 4d. to 4s. 10d.; mutton, 4s. 4d. to 6s. 6d.; lamb, 6s. 4d. to 7s. 8d.; veal, 4s. 2d. to 5s. 4d.; pork, 3s. 4d. to 4s. 8d. per 8 lb. to sink the offal.

Newgate and Leadenhall.—Generally speaking, the demand is very inactive, at our quotations. Beef, from 3s. to 4s. 4d.; mutton, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 8d.; veal, 3s. 10d. to 4s. 8d.; pork, 3s. 4d. to 4s. 10d. per 8 lb. by the carcass. ROBERT HERBERT.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7.

BANKRUPTS.

W. T. BUCKLAND, Clapham-rise, auctioneer.—C. ROSENBERG, Camberwell New-road, engraver.—G. BALLARD, Wilderness-row, cabinetmaker.—H. GILL, Union-place, Newington.—G. LING, Kingston, pigdealer.—J. BOOTHAM, Rushden, Northampton, baker.—G. WATERWORTH, jun., and W. WATERWORTH, Great St. Helens, City, East India merchants.—H. HORMER, Tottenham.—H. D. PARAMORE, Woolwich, assistant paymaster, R.N.—F. A. JONES, Camden-passage, Islington, shoe manufacturer.—S. D. COLLINS, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, builder.—C. RAMPTON, Alton, watchmaker.—W. KNIGHT, Emerson-terrace, Southwark.—W. SHEEN, Syro-street, Bermondsey, cloth-japanner.—D. HARDING, Eastbourne, builder.—J. F. STEVENS, Herne Bay, Lieutenant-Colonel.—F. WOODBRIDGE, Paradise-place, Hackney.—W. P. ROGERS, St. Paul's-terrace, Camden Town, builder.—D. BERNSTEIN, Sydney-square, Commercial-road East, dealer in fancy goods.—T. FORD, York-terrace, Fulham, clerk.—E. M. TAYLOR, St. Mary-at-Hill, Eastcheap, and Lorrimore-road, Walworth, wine merchant.—H. KEMP, Brixton-road, auctioneer.—J. CAMERON, Sand-court, St. George's-in-the-East.—W. HOLDOM, Ashwell-road, Old Ford, cabinetmaker.—O. A. HUSTLER, Radwinter, Essex, farmer.—G. CARTER, Brick-lane, Kingston, yeast merchant.—J. H. JAQUES, Watling-street, carman.—C. H. DANCHELL, Mincing-lane, merchant.—T. COOPER, Strand, publisher.

TUESDAY, APRIL 11.

BANKRUPTS.

B. RICE, Suffolk, farmer.—E. SKELTON, Bloomsbury, land agent.—W. HALL, West Smithfield, grocer.—J. B. MOLLOY, St. Mary Axe, oilman.—G. W. LOCK, Mile-end, Minories, coal agent.—T. MARGRIE, Blackfriars-road, timber-dealer.—N. NORMAN, Brighton, bootdealer.—C. BROAD, Whitechapel, eating-house keeper.—R. DRURY, Chelsea, dentist.—E. KIMICK, Hemel Hempstead, watchmaker.—G. NEWMAN, Whitechapel, milkman.—L. and J. LEVY, Whitechapel, drapers.—R. ERBY, Harley-mews, cab proprietor.—A. GILLOT, City, stockbroker.—H. G. EVANS, Old Broad-street, victualler.—A. BATEMAN, Walworth, pianoforte-maker.—J. PERRY, Blackfriars-road, cornchandler.—A. and I. E. COTTERILL, Wellington, Salop, licensed victuallers.—J. GOSLING, Leek, innkeeper.—A. JACKSON, Birmingham, tobacconist.—H. BALL, Birmingham, rifle-sight maker.—J. KING, Grantham, seedsman.—F. BRUFORD, Bristol, general merchant.—J. P. LEWIS, Cardiff, shipbroker.—J. D. PRITCHARD, Bristol, oxalic acid manufacturer.—J. HEXT, Ilminster, Somersetshire, auctioneer.—H. and R. HOUSE, Bradford, waste-dealers.—J. KIRBY, Willitoft, Yorkshire, farmer.—J. NOLAN, Liverpool, boot manufacturer.—G. BORST, Liverpool, commission merchant.—J. M'GHEE, St. Helens, draper.—S. HAMER and J. PARKINSON, Ramsbottom, manufacturers.—J. WATERMAN, Ramsgate, shoemaker.—M. and E. H. BOLLAND, Middleton, machine-makers.—S. B. OPPENHEIM, Manchester, cap manufacturer.—W. A. BILLINGHAM, Wilton Park, plate-shearer.—T. CHARLTON, Sunderland, ship-chandler.—J. CROUDACE, Sunderland, timber merchant.—H. DIXON, Morley, near Leeds, cloth manufacturer.—T. HALL, Birmingham, boot-maker.—J. W. R. BURR, Gloucester, accountant.—I. SIMPSON, Bradford, worsted-spinner.—R. REDMAN, Bradford, grocer.—J. BALL, Leek, silk manufacturer.—B. CRACKNELL, Suffolk, farmer.—W. HORSLEY, Fakenham, blacksmith.—G. TINDALL, Scarborough, painter.—J. SIMPSON, Westgate, coal agent.—H. PARKER, Nailsea, Somersetshire, innkeeper.—S. GIBBS, Banbury, fishmonger.—J. WATTS, Northampton, innkeeper.—W. N. ARCHER, Sunderland, chemist.—J. HICKIN, Wednesbury, shingler.—W. TUNSTALL, Hulme, packing-case maker.—B. COLE, Darlaston, victualler.—J. O'SULLIVAN, Cardiff, boarding-house keeper.—P. BAINBRIDGE, Salford, gunsmith.—W. GREENWOOD, Abberley, omnibus proprietor.—T. MATTHEWS, Cardiff, wharfinger.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE. Managers, Messrs. E. FALCONER and F. B. CHATTERTON. On EASTER MONDAY, APRIL 17, 1865, and during the Week, will be presented Milton's Mask of COMUS. All the vast and complete Stage Appliances and Art-resources of the Theatre will be called into requisition to render this presentation a noble revival of a beautiful English Classic, and altogether in keeping with the poetical loveliness and excellence of the conception and the great fame of the Author of "Paradise Lost." The Scenical and Spectacular Effects will be designed and painted by Mr. William Beverley, and will consist of the Depths of a Wild Wood, the Tangled Brake, the Hall of Revelry in the Enchanter's Palace, and its mystical change to the Water-nymph's Retreat, and Sabrina's Translucent Home. The General Action of the Mask will be directed by Mr. Robert Roxby. The Cast of the Characters will include some of the principal members of the Company, of whom may be named Mr. Walter Lacy and Mrs. Herman Vezin. To give due effect to the Lyrical and Musical portions of the Mask, engagements have been formed with Mr. Wilbye Cooper, Mr. Henri Drayton, Miss Poole, and Miss Augusta Thomson (of the Conservatoire, Paris, and Bouffe's Parisiennes), who will be supported by a Choir of Fifty Voices and an Increased Orchestra, to be conducted by Mr. Barnard. Harp Accompaniments arranged and performed by Mr. Frederick Chatterton. The Masks and Decorative Furniture and Symbols will be designed from classical authorities by Mr. R. W. Keene. The Beautiful and Characteristic Dresses, from designs by the same artist, will be supplied by Mr. S. May and Mrs. Lawler. The Bacchanalian Dances and Revel-Rout will be arranged and directed by Mr. Cormack. Machinist, Mr. Tucker. Property-maker, Mr. Needham. Preceded by, on Monday, April 17, Wednesday, April 19, and Friday, April 21, Tom Taylor's Play of THE FOOL'S REVENGE—Bertuccio, Mr. Phelps. On Tuesday, April 18, Thursday, April 20, and Saturday, April 22, Shakspeare's Play of HENRY THE EIGHTH; terminating with the Fall of Wolsey—Cardinal Wolsey, Mr. Phelps, supported by the entire strength of the company. Doors open at Half-past Six; the performances to commence at Seven. Box Office open from Ten till Five daily.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—EASTER HOLIDAYS. Monday to Friday, Great Holiday Attractions and Amusements, under the direction of Mr. Nelson Lee. Also, Professor Anderson, the Wizard of the North, and his Daughters.
Easter Monday.—Open at Nine; other days at Ten. Come early. Extra Trains from London Bridge, Victoria, Blackfriars, Kensington, and all Intermediate Stations.
One Shilling; Children, Sixpence. Charge to the Wizard of the North's Performance, Sixpence.
Saturday, April 22.—Concert and Afternoon Promenade. Beethoven's Choral Symphony. Half-a-Crown; Guinea Season-Tickets free.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—EASTER HOLIDAYS.—Greatest variety of Attractions, under the direction of Mr. Nelson Lee, from morning till night.
Alabama Minstrels—French Brothers—Little Grimaldi—Pantomimic Ballet by the Lauri Family—Martinetto Brothers—Gymnasium Extraordinary—Quakers' Ball.
Skating Hall—Chinese Collection—Chimpanzee—Bowls, Archery, Cricket, Boats, &c.
Doors Open at Nine. Palace lighted up at dusk. One Shilling; Children, Sixpence.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—EASTER HOLIDAYS.—The Wizard of the North and Miss Anderson in their "World of Magic" and "Second Sight," in the Concert-room at intervals daily.
Additional admission to the Concert-room, Sixpence.

CRYSTAL PALACE. — EXCURSIONS. — Societies and other large parties of Excursionists desirous of visiting the Palace during the excursion season are requested to make early application for dates; as, from the increasing number of appointments, it is difficult, late in the season, to select open days. G. GROVE, Secretary.
Excursionists in large parties, during August, will be admitted at an excursion rate of One Shilling each Adult.

ROYAL POLYTECHNIC.—Patron, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.—EASTER HOLIDAYS—"PROTEUS; or, We Are Here, But Not Here." This startling Illusion (J. H. Pepper and Thomas Tobin, joint inventors) Daily at 2.30 and 7.30. Captain Richard Burton's Pilgrimage to Mecca and Medinah, illustrated by novel effects, under the direct superintendence of the above distinguished traveller.—Engagement of George Buckland, Esq., for his new Musical Entertainment, entitled, "An Old Picture in a (n)ice New Frame; or, Mont Blanc Remounted and Varnished." Mr. G. W. Jester's Ventriloquial Frankenstein.—Mr. James Matthews's Curiosities of Manual Magic.—Exhibition of Inventions for Saving Life in Railway Travelling, and Lecture by J. L. King, Esq.

MADAME TUSSAUD'S EXHIBITION. Established Thirty Years at the Bazaar, Baker-street. A full-length Portrait Model, lifesize, of the late RICHARD COBDEN, M.P., taken during the Anti-Corn-Law agitation, can be seen.
NEW ADDITIONS:—Models of the KING OF GREECE and of MURRAY, Regent of Scotland.
Open from 11 a.m. till 10 p.m. Admittance, 1s.; Extra Rooms, 6d.

MR. and Mrs. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will reappear on EASTER MONDAY in their NEW ENTERTAINMENT. Every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight. Wednesday and Saturday afternoons at Three. ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street. Opera di Camera every Tuesday and Thursday at Three. Saturday at Eight.

FRENCH GALLERY, 120, PALL-MALL. THE TWELFTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF PICTURES—the Contributions of Artists of the French and Flemish Schools—is NOW OPEN. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d.

THE GREAT FYCHOW GIANT, whose appearance in Shanghai and Hong-Kong has created such wonder, is expected in England by an early mail from China.

THURTON'S "ODD FOLKS," with a New Piece of Extravaganza, termed "GOING TO COURT," Japanese Dandy, Idle Josh, and other Novelties, at SWANSEA, TO-NIGHT (Saturday) and Monday next; Merthyr Tydvil, 18th and 19th; Abergavenny, 20th; Hereford, 21st. Manager, Mr. J. MORFEY.

MUSICAL UNION. — Members having nominations to send name and address to the Director, and pay their subscriptions before Easter, at the usual places. The eight Matinées take place Tuesdays, April 25, May 9 and 23; June 6, 13, 20, 27; and July 4. Joachim, Auer, Piatti, Hallé, Jaell, Lubeck, and Mdme. Schumann are engaged. J. ELLA, 18, Hanover-square.

CONSERVATOIRE DE LA HARPE, 76, HARLEY-STREET, CAVENDISH-SQUARE.—APTOMMAS'S HARP RECITALS.—TUESDAY EVENING, April 25th, has been fixed upon for the CONVERSAZIONE. Prospectuses (with Terms of Instruction, &c.) may be obtained on application.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL. — MORNING PERFORMANCES on SATURDAYS, April 29, May 13 and 27, to commence at 3 and finish at 5. On SATURDAY, April 29, the Programme will include Mendelssohn's Quintet for stringed instruments in B flat, op. 87; Beethoven, Sonata in A flat, with the Funeral March, for pianoforte solo; Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Quartet in B minor. Pianoforte, Mdme. Arabella Goddard; Violin, Herr Joachim; Violoncello, Signor Piatti. Vocalist, Mr. Cummings. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Sofa Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets and Programmes at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

ROYAL BOTANIC SOCIETY, REGENT'S PARK.—EXHIBITIONS of PLANTS, FLOWERS, and FRUIT, WEDNESDAYS, MAY 24, JUNE 14, and JULY 5; AMERICAN PLANTS, MONDAYS, JUNE 5 and 12. Tickets to be obtained at the Gardens, on vouchers from Fellows of the Society, price, on or before May 13, 4s.; after that day, 5s.; or, on the exhibition days, 7s. 6d., each.—THE LAST SPRING EXHIBITION will take place on SATURDAY, APRIL 29. Tickets, 2s. 6d. each.

HYDE PARK in 1864.—Mr. GEORGE DOLBY begs to announce that Mr. BARRAUD'S NATIONAL PICTURE, containing 220 Portraits of the Frequenters of Rotten-row (under the patronage of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales), IS NOW ON VIEW at 230, Regent-street, from Ten till Dusk. Admission 1s.

£4 10s. PER CENT DEBENTURE STOCK.
THE GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY are now issuing this Stock.
Applications to be made to J. B. OWEN, Bishopsgate Terminus, Secretary.
April 13, 1865.

SIX PER CENT DEBENTURES.—RECIFE and SAN FRANCISCO PERNAMBUCO RAILWAY COMPANY (Limited).—The Directors are prepared to RECEIVE APPLICATIONS for a limited amount of DEBENTURES, in sums of not less than £100 each, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable half-yearly.
Full particulars may be obtained at the Company's Offices, 15, Old Jewry Chambers, London. By order of the Board, Feb. 28, 1865. W. H. BELLAMY, Secretary.

EDUCATION IN FRANCE.—IMPERIAL COLLEGE OF DIEPPE.—English Pupils prepared for the Learned Professions and Commerce. Classics, French, English, German, Philosophy, Mathematics, Experimental Sciences, History, Geography, Bookkeeping, Drawing, Gymnastics, taught by twenty-six Professors, graduate of Imperial University of France. Religious Instruction by the Rev. British Consular Chaplain. Terms, inclusive, 42 guineas per annum. For particulars and references, address Rev. M. GUERITEAU, M.A., who is now in London, 9, Elizabeth-street, Hans-place.

DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1865.
Under the Special Patronage of HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
THE EXHIBITION WILL BE OPENED ON TUESDAY, 9TH OF MAY, BY HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES.
The State Ceremonial to be observed on this occasion will include a Grand Musical Performance, with a Band and Chorus of a Thousand Performers.
On the Opening Day Season-ticket Holders only can be admitted. Season Tickets are now on Sale at the Office, 112, Grafton-street.
Lady's or Gentleman's Ticket £2 2 0
Child's, under 12 Years 1 1 0
April 10, 1865. HENRY PARKINSON, Comptroller.
Arrangements for Return and Excursion Tickets on all the railways to the Exhibition, at reduced rates, are in progress.

NAVAL CADETSHIPS.—EASTMAN'S R.N. ESTABLISHMENT, Eastern-parade, Southsea.—At the April Examination Pupils passed as Naval Cadets 1st, 2nd, 3rd, &c., among thirty-five candidates.

ACCLIMATISATION SOCIETY OF GREAT BRITAIN.
3, Duke-street, Adelphi, London, W.C., 10th April, 1865.
The Council of the Acclimatisation Society give notice that, in accordance with No. 3 of the Society's rules, they hereby summon a SPECIAL GENERAL MEETING, to be held in the Council-room of the Royal Horticultural Society, at South Kensington, on MONDAY, the 24th day of APRIL, at Three o'Clock p.m., to elect his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as President of the Society, in the room of their late President, his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, deceased. By order of the Council, B. WATERHOUSE HAWKINS, Hon. Secretary.

£2000 on ACCIDENTAL DEATH for £3 a year. At the ACCIDENTAL DEATH INSURANCE COMPANY, corner of Old Jewry, London. J. W. ORAM, Secretary.

SMART'S SOLE WRITING INSTITUTION, corner of Swallow-street, Quadrant, Regent-street. Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received (privately) and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in Eight to Twelve Easy Lessons. Separate Rooms for Ladies, to which department (if preferred) Mrs. Smart will attend. For prospectuses, terms, &c., apply to Mr. Smart, as above.
N.B.—Agent to the West of England Insurance Company.

OPOPONAX.—MAY 1.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office, established 25 years) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d. for stamps. Arms painted and quartered and engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Book Plate of Arms, 21s.; Pedigrees of Families, 21s.—PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn. Manual of Heraldry, 3s.

CORPORATE and OFFICIAL SEALS and PRESSES, Hatchments, Monumental Brasses, &c.; Diplomas, Cheques, and Votes of Thanks; Bookplates, Wedding and other Cards.—PUGH BROTHERS, Artists, Gt. Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

UNIVERSAL MICROSCOPE. Price £5 5s.—SMITH, BECK, and BECK, 31, Cornhill, E.C. (late 6, Coleman-street). Catalogues sent on receipt of six postage-stamps.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA. — OPERA GLASSES in every variety of form and mounting, matchless for their great magnifying power and sharpness of definition, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23A, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street), W. Sole Agent for the celebrated Field and Opera Glasses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

SALOM'S NEW OPERA and FIELD GLASS, and THE RECONNOITERER GLASS, price 10s. 10d., sent free. This "Tourist's Favourite," through extraordinary division of labour, distinctly shows small windows 10 miles off, landscape at 30 miles, Jupiter's Moons, &c.—The Marquis of Carmarthen: "The reconnoiterer is very good."—Rev. Lord Scarsdale "approves of it."—Lord Gifford, of Ampney: "Most useful."—Lord Garvagh: "Remarkably good."—Sir Digby Cayley, of Brompton: "It gives me complete satisfaction, and is wonderfully good."—Capt. Sidney, Royal Small Arms Factory, Enfield Lock, "Presents his compliments to Messrs. Salom and Co., and begs to inclose 10s. 10d. for a reconnoiterer glass, having just tried that sent to Lieut. Hopkins, and found it effective at the 1000-yards range."—F. H. Fawkes, of Farnley Hall, Esq.: "I never before met an article that so completely answered the recommendation of its maker, nor, although I have tried many a glass, combining so much power for its size with so much clearness."—"The Field": "We have carefully tried it at an 800-yard rifle range against all the glasses possessed by members of the corps, and found it fully equal to any of those present, although they had cost more than four times its price."—"Notes and Queries": "What intending tourist will now start without such an indispensable companion to a pleasure trip?" The celebrated "HYTHE" GLASS shows bullet marks at 1200 yards, a man at 3½ miles, price 31s. 6d. All the above Glasses, respectively bearing the registered trade marks, "Salom," "Reconnoiterer," and "Hythe," are only to be had direct from Salom and Co., 98, Princes-street, Edinburgh.
No Agents of any kind anywhere.

MAGIC LANTERNS and DISSOLVING VIEWS. The £5 Set of Magic, Microscopic, and Phanta Apparatus comprises a 3½ in. improved Achromatic Lantern, producing 12 ft. figures; a microscope, throwing upon a screen animalculæ; ten slides, containing forty subjects; eight movable comic slides; one panorama, with shipping in motion; one photograph; and one chromotrope, with view and revolving watermill. S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

THE £5 DAY and ASTRONOMICAL TELESCOPE.—From F. Dundas, Esq., M.P., 21, Brunswick-square, Brighton, Oct. 13, 1864:—"Gentlemen,—Since my interview with you on the subject of the telescope I have heard from Lord Rosse, and will thank you to send one similar to that supplied to his Lordship."—S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians to the Government, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly. Persons are invited to apply for a diagram, with other particulars, and eight sheets of testimonials from scientific and other gentlemen, including Lord Rosse. Sent free by book post. High-power pocket telescopes, opera, race, field, and general outdoor glasses.

A NEW High-power BINOCULAR GLASS, the cheapest, lightest, most powerful, and portable ever produced. Weighs three ounces, and occupies less room than a card-case. Price 21s., sent post-free. This glass is especially arranged for the combined purposes of the opera, race, and general outdoor use.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

SPECTACLES.—TINTED SPECTACLES are patronised by the majority of the nobility, including Viscount Palmerston. They give extraordinary relief to weak, dim, and defective vision. The adaptation of spectacles to imperfect vision by experienced persons is, indeed, of vital importance. One of the Firm, who has had great experience and practice, attends to this branch only.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-st., Piccadilly.

DEAFNESS.—The SOUND MAGNIFIER and INVISIBLE VOICE CONDUCTOR, for Deafness. It fits into the ear not perceptible, removes singing noises in the head, and enables deaf persons to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

NOTICE.—THOMAS TAPLING, BEALL, and CO., formerly "Thomas Tapling and Co.," Carpet Warehousemen, &c., have REMOVED from 44A, Gresham-street, and 74, Aldermanbury, to their restored Premises, 1 to 8, GRESHAM-STREET WEST, City.

GARDEN EDGING TILES in great variety. Garden Vases, Fountains, &c., in artificial stone.—F. and G. ROSHER, Manufacturers, Queen's-road West, Chelsea; Upper Ground-street, Blackfriars, S. Illustrated Price-lists by post.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL, prescribed by the most eminent medical men throughout the world as the safest, speediest, and most effectual remedy for
CONSUMPTION, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, is incomparably superior to every other variety.
SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
DR. LETHEBY,
Medical Officer of Health to the City of London.
"It is, I believe, universally acknowledged that Dr. de Jongh's Light-brown Cod-liver Oil has great therapeutic power; and, from my investigations, I have no doubt of its being a pure and unadulterated article."
DR. LAWRANCE.
Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.
"I invariably prescribe Dr. de Jongh's Cod-liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article, and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."
DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, 2s. 6d.; pints, 4s. 9d.; quarts, 9s.; labelled with his stamp and signature, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE, by respectable Chemists and Druggists.
Sole Consignees,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

NEW BOOKS.

Just published, price 5s.,
Dedicated, by special permission, to the Right Hon. Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton, Bart., M.P.,
SONGS OF LOVE AND DEATH. By GEORGE ERIC MACKAY.
London: CHAPMAN and HALL, 193, Piccadilly.

ELEGANT GIFT-BOOK. Second Edition, now ready, with Frontispiece by F. Gilbert, toned paper, crown 8vo, price 6s.,
BEAUTIES OF TROPICAL SCENERY, LYRICAL SKETCHES, AND LOVE-SONGS. With Notes. By R. N. DUNBAR.
"This is a charming volume; the poems are full of vitality, and rich, varied beauties."—Morning Post.
"The love-songs are worthy of Thomas Moore."—Critic.
"It is adorned with a delicious frontispiece."—Illustrated Times.
London: ROBERT HARDWICKE, 192, Piccadilly.

DR. CHARLES WEST'S WORK ON NURSING.
Third Edition, in fcap 8vo, price Eighteenpence,
HOW to NURSE SICK CHILDREN: Intended especially as a Help to the Nurses at the Hospital for Sick Children; but containing Directions which may be found of service to all who have the Charge of the Young. By CHARLES WEST, M.D. &c., Physician to the Hospital for Sick Children.
"An admirable little book, which we are sure may be usefully studied by every mother of young children."—Athenæum.
London: LONGMAN, GREEN, and CO., Paternoster-row.

MISS ACTON'S MODERN COOKERY-BOOK. Price 7s. 6d. Seventy-sixth Thousand, revised and enlarged, and fully illustrated. "The best book of its class yet produced."—Illustrated London News.
London: LONGMAN and CO.

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS.—CASSELL'S EDITION. Order No. 1 as a Specimen. Price 1d.

Ninth Edition, with 26 Plates, price 1s., postage-free,
STAINED GLASS, by the Improved Transfer Process of Diaphanie; easily performed by any person, at small cost.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

New Edition, with Drawings in Colour, price 2s. 6d.; post-free, 2s. 10d.,
A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON LANDSCAPE PAINTING AND SKETCHING FROM NATURE. By JOHN CHASE, M.W.C.I. Edited by the Rev. J. Harris, M.A.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st.

Price 1s., postage-free, 1s. 2d., with 14 Plates,
MONOGRAMS and CYPHERS, Modern and Gothic (Handbooks of), by VICTOR TOUCHE,
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Third Edition, price 1s., postage-free, 1s. 2d., with 14 Plates,
ALPHABETS and DESIGNS of DIFFERENT PERIODS, for the Use of Illuminators and Decorators, by F. C. WOOD.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Price 6d., postage-free,
PHOTO-CHROMOGRAPHY; an Easy Method of Colouring Photographs (producing a beautifully enamelled appearance), which may be practised by any person unaccustomed to drawing and ignorant of art. By M. C. C.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, W.

Fifth Edition, with 12 Diagrams printed in colours, price 2s.,
PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAITS, Draperies, Backgrounds, &c. A guide to Painting in Water Colours; to which is added Instructions for Painting in Oil Colours. By A. N. RINTOUL.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st. W.

CAPTAIN MASTERS'S CHILDREN, the new novel by TOM HOOD; "A Splendid Fortune," by the Author of "The Gentle Life;" and "A Mere Story," by the Author of "Twice Lost." A full supply of these new and popular novels may be obtained at all the libraries in the kingdom.—London: SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, Ludgate-hill, April 13, 1865.

Fifth Edition, price One Guinea, post-free,
THE ART OF BREWING, FERMENTING, AND MAKING OF MALT. By JOHN LEVESQUE, late of the Anchor Brewery. Wherein will be found full directions for the prevention of acetous fermentation, correct tables of mashing heats, and all other necessary directions, the result of forty years' practice in the above art.—JAMES LEATH, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard.

Ready, the People's Edition, price 1s.,
HOW TO GET FAT. Leanness, its Connection with Indigestion and Nervous Disease. By a London Physician.—London: DEAN and SON, 11, Ludgate-hill.

Nineteenth Edition, 8vo, cloth, 16s., post-free,
HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. No medicine is prescribed without the indications for its selection and the dose to be administered, free from all technicalities, and specially adapted to the use of clergymen, emigrants, and missionaries. Also, just published, an Epitome of the above, Twenty-fourth Edition, price 5s. The Case of Medicines, adapted to the former work, price 50s.; and to the latter, price 30s. LEATH and ROSS, 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st., and 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yard.

POSTAGE-STAMPS.—A priced Catalogue of Foreign Postage-Stamps sent post-free for 2 stamps, by W. LINCOLN, jun., 462, New Oxford-street, London, W.C. Large Magenta Stamp of British Guiana, 4s. 6d.

THREEPENNY PACKET of STATIONERY, containing 12 sheets good thick cream-laid note-paper, 12 envelopes to match, and a sheet (8vo) of best thick blotting paper.—WARREN HALL and CO., Home and Export Stationers, 88, Camden-road, N.W. Price 3d.; by post, 4d.; or five, post-free, for 18 stamps.

THE FIVE-SHILLING ILLUMINATING COLOUR BOX contains twelve superfine Colours, body, white, gold, aluminium, and brushes.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st., London; and all Artists' Colourmen, &c.

THE PHOTOCHROMATIC COLOUR BOX, enabling any person, without a knowledge of painting or drawing, to colour photographs, producing a beautiful enamelled appearance, with twelve colours, all materials, specimen, and full directions, price 10s. 6d.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street; and all Artists' Colourmen, Stationers, &c.

PERMANENT PHOTOGRAPHS are obtained by the new patent process of WOTHLYTYPE on Ivory. Those interested in the advance of the art are invited to view the specimens. Full information and card of prices by post.
"The pictures are printed with wonderful delicacy."—Times.
The UNITED ASSOCIATION of PHOTOGRAPHY (Limited), 213, Regent-street, W.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—G. HOOPER, Artist in Hair.—Solid Gold Lockets for Hair, from 5s. each; Hair Rings, from 6s. 6d.; Hair Alberts, from 25s. each, &c. Illustrated Catalogues sent free.—213, Regent-street, London.

A. FORRER, Hair Jeweller to the Queen, 3, Hanover-street, Hanover-square, W.

DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker, by special appointment, to her Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and Maker of the Great Clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand (adjoining Coutts's Bank), and 34 and 35, Royal Exchange.

WATCHES AND CLOCKS.—FREDC. HAWLEY (successor to Thomas Hawley), many years watchmaker by special appointment to his late Majesty George IV., invites inspection of his carefully-finished Stock, at 148, Regent-street, W. Elegant Gold Watches, £2 15s. to £35; Silver Watches, £1 5s. to £12 12s. Eight-day Timepieces, 12s. 6d. Clocks, striking hours and half-hours, £2 15s. and upwards.—Frederic Hawley, Watchmaker, 148, Regent-street, W. (from the Strand and Coventry-street). Established nearly a century. Merchants and Shippers supplied.

DIAMOND HAIR DUST. PIESSE and LUBIN'S. Price 3s. 6d. box; by post, 6d. extra. Sprinkling Diamond Dust on the hair is now la mode. It produces the most charming effect.
Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond-street, London.

THE CONGRESS OF FLOWERS. PIESSE and LUBIN'S NEW PERFUME, made only at the Laboratory, 2, New Bond-street.

NAPOLEON PRICE'S REGISTERED GOLDEN OIL is the only article that really possesses nutritious virtues for promoting a luxuriant growth of the human hair. Beware of an imitation. The genuine is sold by the Sole Proprietors, Price and Co., 27, Old Bond-st., 3s. 6d., 5s., 7s., and 10s.

COOL and REFRESHING TOILET REQUISITE.—OLDRIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA is the most certain remedy for restoring and strengthening the hair. Price 3s. 6d., 6s., and 11s.
C. and A. Oldridge, 22, Wellington-street, Strand.

NEW MUSIC.

ROSE LEAVES.—Ballad without Words. By E. L. HIME, Composer of "Parfait Amour" (sent for fifteen stamps). A melody full of beauty and refinement.—Vide Press.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

PARFAIT AMOUR. Romance for Piano. By E. L. HIME. Played by Master Willie Pape before the Prince and Princess of Wales at Marlborough House. "One of the most exquisite romances we have ever heard."—Review. Sent for 15 stamps.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

THE GOOD-BYE AT THE DOOR. Ballad by S. GLOVER.—This truly beautiful song is now established as one of the leading favourites of the season. Mr. Glover has lately made a transcription of it for the Pianoforte. Sent by post for 18 stamps each.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

THE BROOK.—Nocturne for Piano. By E. L. HIME. Composer of "Parfait Amour," "Rose Leaves," "Reverie in F," &c. Sent for 18 stamps. A charming piece.
DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S NEW MUSIC.
ABT'S SONG—KATHLEEN AROON. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
ABT'S SONG—GOOD-MORNING. Sung by Mdlle. Liebhardt. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
ABT'S SONG—THE CUCKOO. Sung by Mdlle. Liebhardt. 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
THE MOUNTAIN WANDERER. By GEORGE LINLEY. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
O YE TEARS! O YE TEARS! Ballad. Sung with wonderful applause by Mdme. Lemmens-Sherrington. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
JENNY OF THE MILL. Song. Sung by Mdme. Lemmens-Sherrington. 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
THE LIQUID GEM. Ballad. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps. Sung by Mdme. Lemmens-Sherrington.
MDLLE. LIEBHART will Sing Franz Abt's celebrated CUCKOO SONG, and his admired Ballad, "Good-Morning," at Mdme. Tennant's Evening Concert at St. James's Hall, on the 17th inst. Free for 16 and 19 stamps.
ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S, New Burlington-street. Agents for India, Messrs. BURKINYOUNG and Co., Calcutta.

AWAY WITH MELANCHOLY. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on the Scales. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

AULD LANG SYNE. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Repeated Notes. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

2s.—London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

HOME, SWEET HOME. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Arpeggios. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price

DU, DU, LIEGST MIR IM HERZEN. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on the Turn. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

LONG, LONG AGO.—For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on the Shake. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

KELVIN GROVE. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Octaves. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

HOPE TOLD A FLATTERING TALE. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Reversed Positions. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

THE SWISS BOY. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Grace Notes. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.—London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

CEASE YOUR FUNNING. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise for Strengthening the Fingers. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

'TWERE VAIN TO TELL. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Style—The Cantabile. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

WITHIN A MILE OF EDINBURGH TOWN. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Style—The Scherzo. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

THE BRITISH GRENADIERS. For the Pianoforte. An Exercise on Style—The Brillante. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Price 2s.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

ELLIE.—"This most successful Ballad, by J. Pridham, was sung by Miss Eleonora Wilkinson, the great Contralto, and vociferously encored, at the Assembly Room, Taunton, on March 11, 1865."—Vide Somerset County Gazette.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

SPARKLING STREAMLET. Composed by J. PRIDHAM.—"A charming little Ballad, with an admirable accompaniment. Rapidly gaining popularity." Illustrated. Price 2s. 6d.—London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

PIANOS (TOLKIEN'S) on EASY TERMS of PURCHASE, by small Payments, extending over a term of two to three years.—Tolkien, Manufacturer, 27, King William-street, London Bridge. Drawings free.

PIANOS.—TOLKIEN'S EXHIBITION MODEL COTTAGE PIANO, seven octaves, the cheapest and best in Europe.—Tolkien, Manufacturer, 27, King William-street, London Bridge. Established 30 years.

PIANOS.—TOLKIEN'S 35-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, seven octaves, fine tone. Most elegant and durable Piano ever made.—Tolkien, Manufacturer, 27, King William-street, London Bridge. Established 30 years.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 32, Ludgate-hill, and 56, Cheapside.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, £1 per air; Snuffboxes, 7s. to 10s. per tune. Catalogues of tunes and prices gratis and post-free on application to WALES and CO., as above.

CROQUET and SUMMER GAMES. An Illustrated Catalogue post-free.
ASSER and SHERWIN, 81, Strand, London.

CROQUET, 15s., 18s., 21s., 25s., 30s., 40s., 60s., 80s., complete.
ASSER and SHERWIN, 81, Strand, London.

CROQUET.—An elegantly-bound illustrated Treatise on the Game presented with every set by ASSER and SHERWIN, 81, Strand, London.

WEDDING PRESENTS.—A Variety of Useful Elegances, at prices from 5s. to £50.
ASSER and SHERWIN, 81, Strand, London.

THE MAGIC DONKEYS.—Roars of Laughter.—These wonderful animals go through their extraordinary evolutions at 252, Strand, from Ten till Four. The pair sent post-free for 14 stamps.—H. G. CLARKE and CO., 252, Strand.

GROVER and BAKER'S, 150, Regent-street, London, W., 59, Bold-street, Liverpool, celebrated ELASTIC-STITCH SEWING-MACHINES, with all the latest improvements, are the best and simplest ever offered. For Family Use or Dress and Mantle Making they are positively unrivalled, doing plain and ornamental work with equal facility. They stitch, hem, fell, tuck, gather, braid, quilt, cord, bind, and embroider, are very easily managed, and not liable to derangement. One hundred thousand now in use in all parts of the world. Every machine guaranteed. Instruction gratis. Illustrated Prospectus and samples of work gratis and post-free.—Grover and Baker, 150, Regent-street, W.

W. F. THOMAS and CO.'S PATENT SEWING-MACHINES.—Prize Medal, 1862.—These Machines, made by the original Patentees and Introducers of the Invention, stand foremost and unrivalled for all practical purposes. They are guaranteed to perform their work efficiently, with exceeding rapidity, regularity, and durability, and give no trouble. The stitching (alike on both sides of the material) is without cord or ridge, and the thread cannot be pulled out.
66, Newgate-street, and Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PRINTER.—The People's Printing Press, price from 25s. to £4 4s., for Letterpress, Copperplate, or Lithographic Printing. "Art of Printing," "Art of Lithography," 1s., or forwarded for 13 stamps each.—D. G. BERRI, Engraver and Stampmaker to her Majesty's Post Office, 36, High Holborn, London, W.C.

TO LADIES.—GREEN TISSUE IVY LEAVES, for ornamenting Chimney-glasses. 18 stamps per set of 72 slips. Tissue for Stove Aprons, 8 stamps per packet; 0 for 40 stamps.—R. PETERS, Tovil, Maidstone.

LYONS LEVANTINE, a perfectly new Twilled Silk, made expressly to our order, and very suitable for Ladies' Morning Costumes, in most brilliant colours, £2 6s. 6d. the Full Dress, 14 yards, 24 in. wide; or any length cut.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

LYONS FOULARDS of the most improved manufacture, the wear of which cannot be surpassed. The most fashionable article for the present season for ladies' morning suits, including great variety of style.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

FOR SPRING COSTUMES. Irish Poplins in perfectly new colours, £2 15s. 6d. Full Dress, 14 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street, W.

RICH FIGURED MOIRE ANTIQUES, 3½ and 4½ guineas the Full Dress of 14 yards. 27 inches wide. Check Silks, £1 7s. 6d. Full Dress 14 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

SILKS FOR SPRING. New Colours in Rich Plain Silks, including our well-known make of Glacés, Poult de Soies, and Drap de Lyons, from £2 19s. 6d. to 5 guineas extra Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

JUST IMPORTED,
5000 SILK DRESSES, made expressly to our order for this season, including every style for present fashion, from £1 15s. 6d. to 10 guineas extra Full Dress. Many of the above have been produced in new designs expressly for young ladies' wear.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

RICH CORDED SILKS (Both Sides Alike), including the Royal Italian, Gros de Londres, Jasper Bar, and the Alexandra Cord, from 2½ to 3½ gs. Full Dress 14 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

PLAIN STRIPED OR BROCHE
RICH SILK GRENADINES, adapted for Dinner, Evening, or Ball Dresses, 18s. 6d., 25s. 6d., 31s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Some very superb designs, extra quality, from 2 to 3 guineas.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALL THE CHOICE DESIGNS IN
NEW ORGANDIE MUSLINS. British, French, and Swiss Printing, 8s. 9d., 10s. 9d., 12s. 6d. to 35s. the extra full Dress. An immense variety of patterns post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALSO SEVERAL HUNDRED PIECES OF
LAST YEAR'S PRINTED MUSLINS. Finest Quality and Designs, equal to new. An endless variety of patterns (at the reduced price) post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Now ready, all the New Patterns in
PRINTS, BRILLIANTS, and PIQUES, for Ladies' Morning Dresses. An endless variety of patterns post-free.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

EVERY NEW COLOUR IN THE
ARABIAN GLACÉS, for Ladies' Dresses and Jackets complete. A most useful and desirable fabric either for Walking or Travelling Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

JUST PURCHASED, UPWARDS OF
2000 RICHLY-BRAIDED ROBES, and are now being sold at from 18s. 9d. to 23s. 9d., being less than half their value. These Robes are all full length, and contain ample trimming for Bodice. A set of Engravings, showing the principal designs made in the most fashionable style, post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

AN UNUSUALLY LARGE COLLECTION OF
NEW SPRING DRESSES. Rich Broché Silk Poplins (new colours), 2½ guineas Full Dress. Paris Spring Poplins (Corded), 35s. Full Dress. The Honeycomb Poplinette, 35s. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

THE MOST DECIDED NOVELTY FOR THIS SPRING IS THE
SILK CREPE MEXICAN, a most elegant and useful fabric. In all the new colours, 28s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

A SELECTED VARIETY OF
CHEAP SPRING DRESSES. A new series of colours in the Plain Mexican Cloth, 14s. 6d. Full Dress. Also Striped, Checked, and Chené ditto, 12s. 6d. to 18s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING PETTICOATS. A choice assortment made, unmade, and by the yard. New French and Sicilian Lawns, for Morning Dresses, in Plain, Striped, and Checked, all colours, 14s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

JAMES LOCKE and CO., the SCOTCH WAREHOUSES, by appointment to her Majesty the Queen and her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, 117, 119, and 127, Regent-street, London, W.
Waterproof Tweed Cloaks, Walking and Yachting Jackets, Shawls, Rugs, and Wrappers of every description. Shetland Shawls, Veils, and Hose. Serges, Fine Tweeds, and Linsey Woolseys for Ladies' Travelling and Seaside Dresses.
Patterns forwarded free.

NEW SILKS, DRESS FABRICS, &c.
GRANT and GASK invite an inspection of their large collection of new French Fancy SILKS, rich Silk Robes, Court Trains, Satins in all the new colours, Moire Antiques, made-up Skirts, Mantles, Shawls, Evening Dresses, Organdie Muslins, &c.
Several very cheap lots of rich Silk Robes and Fancy Silks, from 2¼ to 4½ guineas Full Dress of 14 yards; greatly under value.
Richest Moire Antiques, at 4½ guineas the Full Dress.
The Made-up Skirt Department contains a beautiful collection of Novelties for the Season.
Odd dress lengths of rich French Silks, very cheap, from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 9d. per yard, full width.
Several hundred pieces of French Brilliantines and Printed Cambrics much below the usual prices.
PATTERNS FORWARDED FREE.
58, 59, 60, 61, 62, Oxford-street; 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street, London.

CHEAP SILKS at BAKER and CRISP'S. Patterns free.
The New Spring Dresses at Baker and Crisp's. Patterns free.
The New Spring Cambrics at Baker and Crisp's. Patterns free.
The New Norwich Poplinettes at Baker and Crisp's. Patterns free.
Extraordinarily good and cheap Black Silks at Baker and Crisp's. Patterns free.
The new Arabian Glacé, all Colours, at Baker and Crisp's. Patterns free.
The New Petticoatings at Baker and Crisp's. Patterns free.
Black Lace Shawls, 15s. 6d., worth 25s. Baker and Crisp's. Sample free.
Last year's Muslins, Barèges, Grenadines, &c., Half price.
Baker and Crisp's, 198, Regent-street (nearly opposite Conduit-street), London.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
15,000 YARDS, all at 10½d. per yard. BEAUTIFUL ARABIAN GLACÉ ALPACAS. This is the cheapest lot of Dress Fabrics that will be seen this season, and well worth the attention of the heads of families.
Patterns free.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

SANSFLECTUM JUPONS, 17s. 6d. "Wear admirably well."—Court Journal.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

EMPRESS JUPONS, 15s. 6d. "Beautiful shapes."—Court Circular.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

ONDINA or WAVED JUPONS, 18s. 6d. "The dress falls in graceful folds."—Morning Post.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

ROYAL SCOTCH WAREHOUSE, London.
SCOTT ADIE, 115, Regent-street.
Entrance at the Corner of Vigo-street only.

SPRING SEASON, 1865.
KING and CO. SILKMERCERS, &c., 243, Regent-street, beg to announce that they are now showing their first delivery of NEW SPRING and BLACK SILKS, ordered before the late advance in prices, and 30 per cent under the present market value. Ladies who wish to avoid paying the advance price should make their Spring purchases this month.
Patterns sent post-free to all parts of the world.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.
NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
First Delivery.
Striped Silks, £1 1s. the Full Dress of 14 yards.
Checked Silks, £1 5s. 6d.
Tartan Silks, £1 7s. 6d.
Corded Silks, £1 10s. 6d.
Gros Grains, £1 15s. 6d.
Broché Reversible Silks, £1 17s. 6d.
New Crossbar Silks, £2 2s. 0d.
Corded Drap de France, £2 10s. 6d.
Richest Moire Antiques, £3 13s. 6d.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.
£35,763 BLACK SILKS, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Black Glacé Silks, £1 5s. 6d. the Full Dress of 14 yards.

Black Ducapes	£1 7s. 6d.	the Full Dress.
Black Gros Grains	1 10s. 6d.	"
Black Corded Silks	1 15s. 6d.	"
Black Reversible Broché Silks	1 17s. 6d.	"
Black Drap de France	2 2s. 6d.	"
Black Drap de Lyon	2 5s. 6d.	"
Widows' Silks	2 10s. 6d.	"
Richest Black Moire Antiques	£3 3s. 6d.	"

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.
LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street, equal to any produced this year.

Finest Jaconet Muslins	5s. 6d.	the Full Dress.
Finest Organdie Muslins	7s. 6d.	"

Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.
NEW SPRING FABRICS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street,

Marlé Glacés	8s. 9d.	the Full Dress.
Chené Cashmeres	8s. 9d.	"
Shepherd's Plaid Challis	12s. 6d.	"
Chené Mexican Cloth	12s. 6d.	"
French Lawns	12s. 6d.	"
Chené Satin Cloth	13s. 9d.	"
French Poplinettes	13s. 9d.	"
French Camlets	13s. 9d.	"
Marle Poplinettes	17s. 6d.	"
Chené Poplinettes	19s. 6d.	"
Silk Warp Serges	£1 10s. 6d.	"

Patterns post-free to all parts of the world.
Address to King and Co., 243, Regent-street, London.

NICHOLSON and CO., Silkmercers, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard, London, beg to announce that they have just received their NEW SILKS for SPRING. Messrs. N. and Co. have also bought in Lyons several lots of last year's patterns at about half their original prices. 300 Patterns post-free. Established 22 years. No connection with any other firm.

OWING to the facilities now afforded by the Postmaster-General, Messrs. NICHOLSON beg to state that they have greatly improved their system of sending patterns of Silks, &c., by post. Instead of the small pieces and necessarily limited variety which, from the expense of postage, could formerly be sent, they now undertake to forward, post-free, 300 PATTERNS of SILKS, each piece 3½ in. by 2½ in. in size.
These patterns comprise every colour and design now fashionable in London and Paris, and represent a stock of £20,000 in value.
NICHOLSONS',
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Coloured Glacés, 30 shades, from 1s. 4½d. per yard. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Checks and Stripes, from 1 guinea a Dress. Reversible. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Broché and Chéné Silks, from 1½ guinea. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Moire Antiques and Corded Silks, from 2 guineas. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S BLACK SILKS. Black Glacés, Gros Grains, Drap de Lyon, Drap de Paris, &c., from 1 guinea a Dress. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED?—Boys' Knickerbocker Suits in Cloth, from 15s. 9d. Useful School Suits, from 12s. 9d. Patterns of the Cloths, directions for measurement, and 45 Engravings of New Dresses, post-free.—NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE OF PARIS FASHIONS, containing Twenty Illustrations of New Mantles, Dresses, and Juvenile Attire for the present season, is just published, and will be forwarded, gratis and post-free, to any part of the world on application.—Nicholson and Co., 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

MILLINERY for MOURNING.—PARIS FASHIONS.—The novelties from Paris are now ready for inspection, at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

PARIS FASHIONS.
MANTLES and JACKETS for MOURNING and otherwise.—The New Shapes, in elegant and graceful novelties, are now ready for inspection, at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.—PARIS FASHIONS. The New and Beautiful Novelties are now ready for inspection at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

JUST RECEIVED FROM FRANCE,
HALF-MOURNING SILKS of New and very recherché character, at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

BLACK SILKS.—Patterns free. Good useful Black Silks, from 35s. to 50s. the Dress. Superior and most enduring qualities, from 3 to 6 guineas. At PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

A NEW FABRIC.—The ROYAL BLACK CASHMERE.—Ladies requiring a new and useful Black Dress are invited to write for patterns of this excellent material, which is exactly alike on both sides, to PETER ROBINSON, of Regent-street.

FOR FAMILY MOURNING, PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street, will be found the most advantageous and economical Warehouse in England. Goods may be obtained made up ready for instant wear, or can be purchased by the yard. Goods sent free for inspection.
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse, 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.

UNTEARABLE
WIRE-GROUND BLACK GRENADINES and BAREGES. The improved makes introduced by PETER ROBINSON, of Regent-street, excel all others for strength and beauty of finish. Patterns free.
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse, 256 to 262, Regent-street.

REDMAYNE and CO. have the honour to announce the Completion of their ALTERATIONS and of their arrangements for the Spring Trade. Every department is now supplied with the latest novelties. R. and Co. further respectfully call attention to the new departments they have added—viz., General Mourning and Family and Household Linen.
19 and 20, New Bond-street; and 35, Conduit-street.

THIS SEASON'S FASHIONS IN DRESS. LADIES and the PUBLIC visiting London are respectfully invited to inspect our STOCK of SPRING PURCHASES, consisting of all the LATEST NOVELTIES IN DRESS, of British and Foreign Manufacture.
RICH BLACK GLACES, GRO GRAINS, and DUCAPES, of the Best Manufactures.
FANCY SILKS in all the new Styles and Colours.
BONNET GLACES, SATINS, and TERRYS, in the newest Shades.
All the LATEST FASHIONS in JACKETS and MANTLES for Spring Wear.
Paisley, Cashmere, and Lace SHAWLS in all the latest Designs.
NEW POPELINES, Plain and Checked, 10s. 9d. and 12s. 9d. (much under the usual price).
Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings, Haberdashery, Parasols, Ties, &c.
FAMILY AND COMPLIMENTARY MOURNING.
Drapers, Milliners, and Dressmakers supplied with cut lengths at Trade Price.
Matching Orders carefully and promptly attended to.
Patterns post-free.
Close on Saturdays at Five o'Clock.
JAMES SPENCE and CO., Wholesale and Retail Silkmercers, Drapers, &c., 77 and 78, St. Paul's-churchyard.

FORD'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LIST, post-free.—Intending purchasers, who cannot favour us with a call, will find it of great assistance. It contains over forty drawings of shirts, shirt-collars, &c. All the new fashions are to be found in it.—R. Ford and Co., 38, Poultry, E.C.

FORD'S COLOURED EUREKA SHIRTS, Six for 39s. Superior quality, and made expressly to measure; the new patterns sent to select from on receipt of three stamps.—R. Ford and Co., 38, Poultry, E.C.

MANTLES, SHAWLS, and DRESSES. FARMER and ROGERS are now prepared with their New Fashions, and request attention to several exclusive and elegant novelties. 171, 173, 175, 179, Regent-street.

ATTENTION is REQUESTED to a choice assortment of Paris Cashmere Shawls, suitable for wedding presents, at 20 guineas; usual price, 40 guineas.
FARMER and ROGERS, 171, 173, 175, 179, Regent-street.

THOS. FORD and CO. respectfully intimate to their patrons and the public that in consequence of the great increase of their business, they have REMOVED to more extensive premises, at 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S JACKETS FOR INDOOR WEAR. A large assortment of decidedly new shapes to select from. Velvet, 42s. and upwards; silk, 31s.; cashmere and cloth, 16s. 6d. to 42s.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-st. (opposite the Pantheon), W.

FORD'S NEW SILK MANTLES for the SPRING, at very moderate prices. Also, Waterproof Cloaks, warranted to resist rain, 21s. and upwards.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S GLACÉ SILK SKIRTS, in various styles, ready for immediate wear. A full handsome Skirt for 3½ guineas. Also, Seaside Dresses, with Jacket complete, 2½ guineas.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S RIDING-HABITS, 3 to 8 guineas. Quality and fit guaranteed. Riding-trousers, 21s per pair. Illustrations of the new Riding-jacket, with Patterns of Cloth and Directions for Self-measurement, post-free.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

GOOD TASTE NOT INCOMPATIBLE WITH ECONOMY.
UNIQUE and ELEGANT CABINET FURNITURE for Dining-room, Drawing-room, Bed-room, and Library.
CARPETS—FELT, KIDDER, BRUSSELS, VELVET, and TURKEY—adapted for cottage and mansion.
For nearly half a century the house has been famous for BLANKETS, SHEETINGS, and HOUSEHOLD LINENS.
BEDS and MATTRESSES of the best materials, manufactured on the premises, and under special supervision.
CURTAINS of every description in DAMASK, REP, and PEKIN CLOTHS.
MUSLINS, LACE, and LENO CURTAINS for the Season.
SILKS, SHAWLS, MANTLES, and every variety of GENERAL and FANCY DRAPERY.
Estimates given. Contracts taken.
Illustrated Catalogues free.
ATKINSON and CO.,
WESTMINSTER-BRIDGE-ROAD,
Nos. 198, 200, 202, 204, 206, 208, and 210.

CRETONNE CHINTZ, requring no calendering, is peculiarly adapted for curtains or furniture-coverings, being durable, elegant, and inexpensive. HOWARD and SONS, 26 and 27, Berners-street, have all the new patterns.

CHALET CHAIRS.—HOWARD and SONS, 26 and 27, Berners-street, solicit the gentry to inspect their new Chalet Chairs, varied in form, and adapted to all reception-rooms. An indispensable luxury to every lady's boudoir.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, DINING ROOM, consisting of vases, figures, groups, candlesticks, inkstands, obelisks, inlaid tables, &c., in Alabaster, Marble, Bronze, Derbyshire Spar, &c. Imported and Manufactured by J. TENNANT (late Mawe), 149, Strand, W.C.

THE PATENT CARRIAGE-SPRING MATTRESS.—This novel invention is perfectly elastic, portable, easily adjusted, and economical.—Price-lists free by post. THE GENERAL FURNISHING AND UPHOLSTERY COMPANY, LIMITED (F. J. ACRES, Manager), 24 and 25, Baker-street, W.—N.B. Shippers and the Trade supplied.

BEDSTEADS, BEDDING, and BED-ROOM FURNITURE.—An ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, with Prices, of 1000 articles, sent (free by post) on application to T. H. FILMER and SON, 31, 32, and 34, Berners-street, London, W.

THE NEW SHUTTER WARDROBES Ladies should see these before deciding, at A. SEDLEY and CO.'S, Patentee of the Equilibrium Chairs, so celebrated for comfort and economy, of which more than 3000 have been sold.—The Burlington Furniture Galleries, 38, Conduit-street, Bond-street, W.

J. MAPLE and CO.'s CHIMNEY-GLASSES, in best French Plates and double gilt. The following is a list of prices:—

Size of Plate.	Outside Measure of Frame.	Price.
40 by 30 inches	50 inches wide by 39 inches high	£2 12s.
40 by 30 inches	50 inches high by 45 inches wide	3 15s.
50 by 40 inches	63 inches high by 52 inches wide	4 15s.
60 by 50 inches	74 inches high by 66 inches wide	8 8s.

Larger sizes in proportion. Among which are several handsome pairs, 7 ft. 6 in. by 6 ft., price 15 guineas each; girandoles, from 14s. 9d. An Illustrated Catalogue post-free.
Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.
Families who study economy with durability and elegance should visit this establishment before giving their orders; it will save them much time, trouble, and expense. A ten-roomed house furnished complete in twenty-four hours. An illustrated priced catalogue sent post-free on application.
Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.
The next house, although in the same trade, is not connected.

CRETONNE, the French Chintz, requires no calendering, is both elegant and serviceable.—J. MAPLE and CO. have an immense stock of this fashionable material, suitable for Curtains or Covering for Sofas, Chairs, &c., at moderate prices.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the PRINCE of WALES, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post-paid. It contains upwards of 600 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-plate, Nickel Silver, and Britannia-metal Goods, Dish Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimneypieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers; Tea Trays, Urns, and Kettles; Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed-room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with lists of prices, and plans of the twenty large Show-rooms, at 39, Oxford-street, W.; 1, 1A, 2, 3, and 4, Newman-street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's-place; and 1, Newman-yard.

PURVEYOR TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.
GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, used in the Royal Laundry, and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

ALL afflicted with WEAK EYES may obtain instant relief by using Dr. WARNER'S EYE-WATER; it removes all inflammation arising from cold, dust, or constitutional causes.—Sold in bottles, 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., by Sanger, Oxford-st.; Prout, Strand; Butler, Cheapside; Hooper, London Bridge.

DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS immediately relieve the most violent fit of Coughing. They have a pleasant taste.
At 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. per box; by all Druggists.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.—Corns cured in one day, by using ALEX. ROSS'S CHIROPO. This preparation gradually dissolves the corn—removing the very root. 4s. Sent post for 60 stamps.—248, High Holborn, London.

NEW MUSIC.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "JESSAMINE." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "TWO BUDS." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S "ROLAND." A celebrated French War Song. Transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S TWO HUNGARIAN MELODIES for the Pianoforte.
No. 1. ELEGY. Price 2s. 6d.
No. 2. THE GIPSIES' MARCH. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S LA SERA. Venetian Gondola Song, for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

J. F. BARNETT'S PASTORAL SCENE. A characteristic Piece for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE LOST STAR. New Song. Words by Henry Farnie. Music by W. VINCENT WALLACE. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

A NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGANIST'S PORTFOLIO: A selection of opening and concluding voluntaries, by the most celebrated composers, ancient and modern. Adapted chiefly for the use of amateurs, by Dr. RIMBAULT. Each number contains from seven to twelve favourite voluntaries, including one arranged expressly with pedal obligato. Nos. 1 to 6 are now ready, price 3s. each; or the six numbers in one volume, bound in cloth, 12s. A thematic list of contents may be had on application to
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

DUSSEK'S INVOCATION SONATA.—A New and Revised Edition of this celebrated Sonata, as performed by Mdme. Arabella Goddard at the Monday Popular Concerts, is now published, price 6s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S BELLAGIO. Morceau for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S MEMORIES OF HOME. Just published, a new Fantasia for the Pianoforte, played by the Composer with immense success. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW DRAWING-ROOM MUSIC.

KUHE'S GUARDS' WALTZ. A brilliant arrangement of Godfrey's celebrated Guards' Waltz, for the Pianoforte. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S ORPHÉE AUX ENFERS. Now ready, a Fantasia on favourite airs from Offenbach's charming Opera. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S LE CHANT D'ONDINE. Popular Song by Mrs. MURRAY GARTSHORE. Arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S CUJUS ANIMAM (from the "Stabat Mater"). Arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50 New Bond-street.

KUHE'S O RUDDIER THAN THE CHERRY—Handel's celebrated Song, sung by Santley—transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S FIDELIO. Just published, a Fantasia on Airs from Beethoven's "Fidelio." For the Pianoforte. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

G. A. OSBORNE'S NEW COMPOSITIONS. FLEURETTE. Morceau de Salon for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d.
MARION. Nocturne for the Pianoforte. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW AND POPULAR DANCE MUSIC.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE VALSE. On Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE QUADRILLE. A new and charming Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE POLKA. On Airs from Offenbach's Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

MABEL WALTZ. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. A new and beautiful Set of Waltzes, which will eventually become as popular as the celebrated "Guards' Waltz," by the same Composer. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. Illustrated by Lynch. Orchestra, 3s.; Septet, 2s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ROYAL ALFRED QUADRILLE. A new Quadrille on favourite Nautical Melodies. Arranged by D. GODFREY, Composer of the "Guards'" and "Mabel" Waltzes. Illustrated. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE MILL-GROVE WALTZ. A new Waltz by GERALD STANLEY (Composer of the "Woodland Whispers Waltz"). Illustrated. Price 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

MARGUERITE WALTZ. On favourite Airs from Gounod's "Faust." By A. F. GODFREY, B. M. Coldstream Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS QUADRILLES. A new Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's popular Opera, "Orphée aux Enfers." By D. GODFREY. Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 4s. Illustrated.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS GALOP. A capital Galop, from Offenbach's "Orphée aux Enfers." By the Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 3s. Illustrated. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' QUADRILLE. By the Composer of The Guards' Waltz. Just published, a new Quadrille on Popular Marches of the Brigade of Guards. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' WALTZ. By D. GODFREY. Played everywhere with the greatest success. Price (Solo or Duet) 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s.; Military Band, 15s.; Brass Band, 7s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NAAMAN. By COSTA. The Subscription Lists close on APRIL 15. Vocal Score, 21s.; Full Score, 63s.
ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, W.

Sacred Song for Easter, Eight Hundred years old.

MAGDALENA, CEASE THY WEEPING (PONE LUCTUM MAGDALENA). Words by Peter the Venerable. Music by C. G. HAMILTON. In F and A flat. "The most beautiful and interesting sacred song ever published." Post-free, 1s. 6d.; Quartet, 3d.; Pianoforte Piece, 1s. 6d.
OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

MUSIC HALF PRICE and Post-free. The High Price of Music. All full-price Music of every publisher forwarded immediately on publication to any part of the kingdom, on receipt of stamps to half the price. Catalogues gratis. The profession and trade supplied to sell at half price.
OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-square, London.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE, 14s. per Month. Seven octaves. No hire charged if purchased in six months. The most economical and judicious mode of obtaining a really good pianoforte is to hire one (with the option of purchasing it if approved) of the Manufacturers, OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-square, opposite Mdme. Tussaud's.

NEW MUSIC.

MELVIL CASTLE. Old Scotch Ballad. Newly arranged by Mr. CAMPBELL, of Drimnamuchloch.
"Willie's gane to Melvil Castle, boots and spurs, an a',
To bid farewell to the leddies fair, afore he gaed awa."
Price 2s. 6d. BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

NEW EDITION OF

MARION'S SONG by CLARIBEL. This highly-popular Song will in future be published exclusively by BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

GOUNOD'S NEW SONG.

THE MESSAGE OF LOVE. Valse Ariette. 3s. Also, with Italian words, "La Messaggier a d'Amore." 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

GOUNOD'S NEW VALSE ARIETTE, arranged for the Pianoforte. A very brilliant and thoroughly original composition. By no means difficult. 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

ARDITI'S L'OROLOGIO, New Scherzo, with Italian words, 3s., or English words, "Tic tic," 3s. This charming polka movement promises to become as popular as "Il Bacio." It has been sung (with unfailing encores) by Mdlle. Volpini and Mdlle. Carlotta Patti.—BOOSEY and CO.

ARDITI'S L'OROLOGIO, arranged for the Pianoforte, 3s., and as a Polka, 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

WINIFRED and MARGUERITE. Two new Pieces. By ADOLPH GOLLMICK, Author of "The Dripping Well," "A Happy Thought," &c. Published this day, 3s. each, by BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

Fourth Edition of

CAPRERA, by FORBES. Chanson Napolitaine for Pianoforte, Mr. Forbes's most popular piece.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

Second Edition of

CASTELLUCIA. By FORBES. Second Chanson Napolitaine, and companion piece to "Caprera."
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

ROSAMUNDA NOCTURNE, by FORBES, in the style of Cramer's "Le Desir" and "Les Regrets," is one of the best pieces of the popular author of "Rappelle toi," "Caprera," &c. Price 3s.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

GIOJOSO GALOP. By FORBES. A very showy piece, by the Author of "Caprera." Price 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

LINDSAY SLOPER'S MIRELLA. Played by Mdme. Arabella Goddard with great success. Price 5s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

Third Edition of

MDME. OURY'S SOUVENIRS D'EDINBOURG. New Scotch Fantasia, the most successful of all her recent pieces, 4s. Also, sixth Edition of "Auld Robin Grey" and "Bonnie Dundee," by the same brilliant writer.
BOOSEY and CO.

THE NEW BARITONE SONG,

I ALWAYS FEARED A MARRIED LIFE. By J. L. HATTON. Sung by Mr. Weiss, Mr. Winn, and Mr. Lambert, with immense success.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

VIRGINIA GABRIEL.

I DO NOT ASK TO PRESS THAT CHEEK. New Ballad. By Miss GABRIEL, Author of "The Skipper and his Boy." Price 3s.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

TAKE BACK THE HEART. A New Song, but already an immense success. By CLARIBEL. Price 3s.
BOOSEY and CO.

GOLDEN DAYS. By CLARIBEL. New Song in the author's best style. Price 3s.
BOOSEY and CO.

BOOSEYS' NATIONAL GLEE-BOOK contains Sixty of the most celebrated Glees, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 2s. 6d.; or, in crimson cloth, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

HENRY SMART'S IMPERIAL MASS of HAYDN (No. 3, in D), arranged in a complete form for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Published this day.
Also, uniform with the above,
HENRY SMART'S STABAT MATER (of Rossini). 3s.
HENRY SMART'S TWELFTH MASS (of Mozart). 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

MENDELSSOHN'S 26 FOUR-PART SONGS (Op. 41, 48, 49, 50), with English words complete, price 1s., cloth. Also, for Choral Societies, in 12 Numbers, One Penny each.—Published this day by BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street

SIX EASTER HYMNS, 6d. SIX GOOD-FRIDAY HYMNS, 6d. The two together, 1s. For Four Voices and Organ or Piano Accompaniment.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

MOZART'S SONATAS, 10s. 6d. — Just published, BOOSEY and CO.'S new and complete edition of Mozart's Pianoforte Sonatas, printed from newly-engraved plates, and edited by W. Dorrell, Esq., of the Royal Academy of Music. In one vol., paper cover, price 10s. 6d. Also, the same work, with Memoir and Portrait of Mozart, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, price 16s.; or, half morocco, gilt edges, price 18s. Uniform with Boosey and Co.'s guinea edition of Beethoven's Sonatas. This edition will be found second to none in point of correctness or elegance of appearance.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MUSICAL LIBRARY. Subscribers to this Library paying Two Guineas per annum have the use of twelve pieces of music at the time in town, or twenty pieces in the country, besides receiving gratuitously a Guinea Illustrated Album at Christmas, or the same amount in New Music. All the newest Music is added to the Library, which comprises also a complete collection of the best Standard Works. Particulars, post-free, from BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street, London.

NOTICE.—HALF PRICE.—All Music and the best Editions, at half the published price, sent post-free for postage-stamps or Post Office order (bound works excepted).
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

A GEM FOR THE PIANO.

FLEETING THOUGHTS, by IUCHO, price 3s., is charming, and daily acquiring popularity.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A PRETTY DRAWING-ROOM PIECE.

MOUNTAIN ROSE. Reverie. By MULLER. Price 4s. This piece is exceedingly graceful, without being difficult.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.

COOTE'S ECLIPSE GALOP. Price 3s. This celebrated Galop eclipses all the others, and is the reigning favourite.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW VALSE.

COOTE'S ORPHÉE VALSE, price 4s., on Airs from Offenbach's beautiful Opera.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET EVER COMPOSED

COOTE'S POLLY PERKINS QUADRILLE. Price 4s. Introducing Clifton's celebrated Songs, "Isabella," "Watercresses," "Have you seen the Ghost?" "Polly Perkins," &c.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW CALEDONIANS, with the Figures. Price 4s. One of the best quadrilles ever published by this popular dance composer, and will be sure to take its place with the celebrated Cure Lancers by the same Composer.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

COOTE'S INNOCENCE VALSE. Price 4s. "This simple and beautiful Valse has become quite the rage of the season."—Review.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

VERY DANSANTE.

COOTE'S KINGFISHER POLKA. Price 3s. The best Polka ever written.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE LAST SUCCESS.

COOTE'S CROQUET GALOP. Price 3s. With a beautiful Illustration of the Game in colours.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.

COOTE'S PAUL-Y-TOOLE-Y-TECHNIC QUADRILLE on the popular Songs sung by Messrs. J. L. Toole and Paul Bedford, comprising "He, She, and the Postman," "Jolly Nose," "The Whistling Song," "Married on Wed-nes-day," and "A Norrible Tale." Price 4s.
"Enthusiastically received at Alfred Mellon's Concerts, and proved a most brilliant success."—Vide Times.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PERFORMED AT THE STATE BALL.

COOTE'S HUMMING-BIRD VALSE. 4s. Considered the best set of Valses by this popular Composer.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET OF LANCERS ARE

COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s. Introducing "The Pilgrim of Love," "My Pretty Page," "So Early in de Morning," "The Cure," and other popular Airs. A real merry set. No dance programme complete without them. Always redemanded.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED EVERYWHERE.

COOTE'S EXTRAVAGANZA GALOP. 3s. The greatest hit of the season.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW SONG FOR CONTRALTO,

MY THOUGHTS ARE OF THEE ONLY, price 2s. 6d., by SHIRLEY, is greatly admired.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW CHRISTY SONG,

THE BEAUTIFUL DAISY, by SHIRLEY, price 2s. 6d. "This song is full of melody, and has the most charming chorus we have ever listened to."—Review.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

HARRY CLIFTON'S NEW SONG,

THE WEEPIN' WILLER; or, The Miller's Daughter, price 2s. 6d., is the best comic song published.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A MOST AMUSING COMIC SONG.

HAVE YOU SEEN HER LATELY. Price 2s. 6d. Sung by Albert Steele.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

IMMENSE SUCCESS AT THE ADELPHI.

J. L. TOOLE'S NEW SONGS.
Bob Simmons's Courtship .. .. .. 3s.
He, She, and the Postman .. .. .. 3s.
A Norrible Tale .. .. 3s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE FUNNIEST SONG OF ALL.

MATILDA TOOTS. Price 2s. 6d. "You should have seen her boots."
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Music Warehouse, 201, Regent-street.
Pianoforte Gallery, 207, Regent-street.

MESSRS. CRAMER and CO. (Limited) have lately published the following Compositions:—

I.—FOR VOICE.

GOUNOD—"For lack of gold he left me." Song by Titiens. In A and G .. .. 3s. 0d.
" "Hero to Leander." An exquisite Song .. 3s. 0d.
" "The Lark Song." Vocal Waltz .. .. 3s. 0d.
ARDITI—"Oh, touch the ivory keys again!" .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Beauty Sleep (L'Ardita) .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Dream of Home (Bacio) .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Gondolier's Last Good-night .. .. 3s. 0d.
WALLACE—Bird of the Wild Wing .. .. 3s. 0d.
V. GABRIEL—Little Golden Hair .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Breeze and the Harp .. .. 3s. 0d.
BALFE—She sleeps! though not a star .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Ah, could I but re-live the past! .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
ASCHER—The Cavalier's Steed. In E and C .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
BENEDICT—My Home in Cloudland. In D and B .. .. 3s. 0d.
MORI—Sunshine of love .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Maid of the silver mail .. .. 3s. 0d.
NICOLAI—The Happy Dawn of Day .. .. 3s. 0d.
RANDEGGER—"Round with her, boys! Yo-ho!" In C, B, and G .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Innamorata d'una stella. Aria .. .. .. 2s. 6d.
" La luna è bella. Aria .. .. 2s. 6d.
DELAMERE—My Lady's glove .. .. 3s. 0d.
LEVEY—Coo! says the gentle dove. In G and F .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Hurrah for the Bombardier! In A and F .. .. 3s. 0d.
BRINLEY RICHARDS—The celebrated "Leah's Song." In E, D, and C .. .. 3s. 0d.
" "The Chieftain's Wife," .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" "In the hour of my distress." Sacred Song .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
PERRING—Beware! .. .. 2s. 6d.
MACFARREN—I've watched him .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Wear this flow'r .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Duet: Ne'er yield thy soul .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
ROBERTI—Duet: Faintly flow .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Child's Vision. Duet. S.C. .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
VERDI—"Swiftly thro' the West." Boat Song. .. .. 3s. 0d.
LOCHIEL—The Covenanter's Bridal .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Heather Bell .. .. 3s. 0d.
FARNIE—A Happy Song .. .. 3s. 0d.
ARTHUR SKETCHLEY (as sung by)—The Twin Brothers. A Song of Mystery. With Portrait. .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
MAGAZZARI—Taci non d'irmi. Arietta .. .. .. 2s. 6d.

II.—PIANOFORTE PIECES.

WALLACE—Prelude and scherzo .. .. 5s. 0d.
GOUNOD—Four songs without words, each .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
ASCHER—Chant des Naiades .. .. 5s. 0d.
BLUMENTHAL—La Stella .. .. 3s. 6d.
" Téré, Téré .. .. 3s. 6d.
" Les Ailes .. .. 4s. 0d.
BRINLEY RICHARDS—"Wear this flower" (Helvellyn) 2s. 6d.
" Cujus animam. Solo, 4s.; Duet .. 4s. 0d.
" "Leah." Transcription .. .. 3s. 0d.
FAVARGER—Stradella Fantaisie .. .. 3s. 6d.
" Masaniello ditto .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Pandora. Bluette de Salon .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
MRS JOSEPH ROBINSON—Elf-Land .. .. 4s. 0d.
" A Dream .. .. 3s. 0d.

III.—DANCE MUSIC.

MONTGOMERY—Starry Night Mazurka .. .. 3s. 0d.
DE VILLIERS—Donato Galop .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Donato Quadrille .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Poppies Red Valse .. .. 4s. 0d.
CLARKE—Witches' Own Galop .. .. 3s. 0d.
COOTE—Merry Wives' Quadrille .. .. 4s. 0d.
" She Stoops to Conquer, ditto .. .. .. 4s. 0d.
MARRIOTT—Helvellyn Galop .. .. 4s. 0d.
" " Waltzes .. .. 4s. 0d.
" " Quadrille .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Dark Eyes Valse .. .. 3s. 0d.
GIORZA—Limited Liability Galop .. .. 4s. 0d.
GODFREY—Coldstream Guards Quadrille .. .. .. 4s. 0d.
WARREN—River Sprite Quadrille .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Sleeping Queen Quadrille .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
D'ALEMBERT—Woman in Mauve. Waltz .. .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Wild Irish Girl. Galop .. .. .. 4s. 0d.

Specially prepared Lists of Vocal and Instrumental Music on application.

ALL NEW MUSIC SENT AT HALF-PRICE.

CRAMER and Co. (Limited), 201, Regent-street.

For the Pianoforte Department, see other advertisements.

ENGLISH CONCERTINAS, by LACHENAL, Full compass, with all the latest Improvements, warranted for hot climates, and to keep well in tune, from Two guineas, with case, lock and key, &c.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

BOOSEY AND CO.'S HARMONIUMS (English) of the best description, at prices from 6 to 140 guineas, in every possible variety. The Cottage Harmonium, with full compass, 6 guineas. The School Harmonium at 10 guineas. Church Harmoniums at 20, 25, and 40 guineas. Catalogues gratis.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street, W.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MINIATURE PIANO, price 17 guineas, in a walnut case, full compass. This instrument is confidently recommended as the best cheap piano before the public. The touch and tone are alike excellent, and the workmanship is of the best description.
Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 25-GUINEA PIANO has the Check Action, and is in a highly-finished elegant walnut case, with every modern improvement. The touch is elastic, and the tone of that pure rich quality that especially distinguishes first-class English pianos.
Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 35-GUINEA PIANO is a model Cottage English Piano, and no better can be desired. It is in a richly ornamented case, has the registered keyboard, as well as the new grand compass of seven octaves.
Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

MUSICAL BOXES.—BOOSEY and CO. beg to announce the arrival of a large supply of MUSICAL BOXES from the celebrated Nicole, of Geneva, made expressly to their order, and containing all the newest and most popular music of the day, including selections from "Faust," "Mirella," &c. Lists upon application.—24, Holles-street, W.

HARMONIUMS FOR HIRE at CHAPPELL'S.—ALEXANDRE'S best Instruments:—

		Per Month.
No. 1 and 2.	One Stop	10s. 6d.
3.	Three Stops	12s. 0d.
4.	Five Stops	15s. 0d.
5.	Ten Stops	21s. 0d.
6.	Fourteen Stops	25s. 0d.
9.	Ten Stops, Percussion Action ..	25s. 0d.
10.	Fourteen Stops	31s. 6d.
11.	Fourteen Stops	35s. 0d.
12.	Fifteen Stops	42s. 0d.
13.	Eight Stops, Two Keyboards ..	35s. 0d.
14.	Twenty-two Stops	42s. 0d.
	DRAWING-ROOM MODELS.
No. 1.	Three Stops, Percussion and Knee Swells ..	21s. 0d.
2.	Eight Stops	31s. 6d.
3.	Sixteen Stops	42s. 0d.

N.B. A considerable reduction from the above charges on Instruments taken by the year.
In the case of parties purchasing and paying for an Instrument within six months from the time of hiring, the amount due for hire will be given up in lieu of discount for ready money.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Pianino to which the Prize Medal was awarded).—A very elegant Pianoforte, of small size, the full compass, check action, and most perfect touch, admirably adapted to Small Rooms, Yachts, Boudoirs, &c. Warranted to keep in tune and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte, with check action and all the latest improvements.
Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 25 and 26 guineas. A great variety may be seen at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTES.—To amateurs preferring the pure English tone of the Broadwood or Collard quality, the English Model will be found the most perfectly satisfactory instrument, at a moderate price. The action is of the same simple description as the above makers', and therefore especially adapted to the country, where the more complicated actions are objectionable to many of the tuners. In elegant rosewood case, with full fret, similar in every respect to other instruments at 50 guineas, price 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the newest kinds by those celebrated makers, may be tried side by side (and hired with option of purchase) at the new Show-rooms of
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, in solid mahogany or plain walnut, the best English manufacture, with perfect check action, the full compass, and all the latest improvements. Messrs. Chappell strongly recommend this instrument as superior to any other pianoforte at or about the same price, whether new or secondhand.
50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas; other varieties at 25 and 35 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues and Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM, by ALEXANDRE, with five octaves, two footboards, and in oak case. These instruments are lower in price and superior to all other cheap Harmoniums. Descriptive lists on application to
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDRE, nearly (if not quite) as good as new, at greatly-reduced prices, at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION MODEL HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, 13 stops, 4 rows of vibrators, and Venetian swell, worked by the heel of the right foot, in oak case, 32 guineas. A large assortment may be always seen at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited) LET on HIRE the following PIANOFORTES for three years, after which, and without any further payment whatever, the instrument becomes the property of the hirer:—
28-guinea Pianette, in rosewood or walnut. 10 guineas per annum.
40-guinea Drawing-room Model Cottage, rosewood or walnut .. .. 15 guineas per annum.
60-guinea Semi-oblique, rosewood or walnut 20 guineas per annum.
Every instrument is warranted of the very best manufacture, inferior Pianofortes being entirely excluded from the stock.
Quarterly payments are required.

PIANOFORTE GALLERY
(the Largest in Europe),
207 and 209, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited) Let on Hire the following Harmoniums for three years, after which, and without any further payment whatever, the Instrument becomes the property of the hirer:—
24-guinea, 7-stop, in oak, rosewood, or walnut .. } 2 guineas per quarter.
36-guinea, 11-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. } 3 guineas per quarter.
48-guinea, 13-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. } 4 guineas per quarter.
60-guinea, 19-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. } 5 guineas per quarter.
Every instrument is warranted, by Debain, of Paris, and of the very best manufacture.
Quarterly payments are required.

HARMONIUM GALLERY,
201, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM, as above detailed, is extended to all parts of the United Kingdom.

CRAMER'S ENGLISH PIANETTE.—22 guineas in polished ash, 26 and 28 guineas in rosewood or walnut. Double, or Check, Action, agreeable tone, solid touch; rendering it far superior to old instruments, loose in the key and worn in the hammer.—Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-st.

BROADWOODS' NEW DRAWING-ROOM GRAND, 135 guineas in rosewood, and 165 in walnut. These extremely elegant and much-admired Instruments are sold at the manufacturer's prices, and are selected with the greatest care. They may be bought on the three-years' system.
Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

COLLARDS' NEW BOUDOIR GRAND, 135 guineas in rosewood, and 150 in walnut. These powerful and remarkably effective pianofortes may be bought on the three-years' system.—Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

COLLARDS' NEW SEMI-GRAND, 110 guineas. The largest selection in town at the Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street, London.

PLEYEL and CO., of Paris, have appointed CRAMER and CO. (Limited) their Sole Agents for England. PIANOFORTES by this eminent firm may now be had for Sale or Hire. Prices, from 50 to 200 guineas.
Pianoforte Gallery (the largest in Europe), 207 and 209, Regent-st.

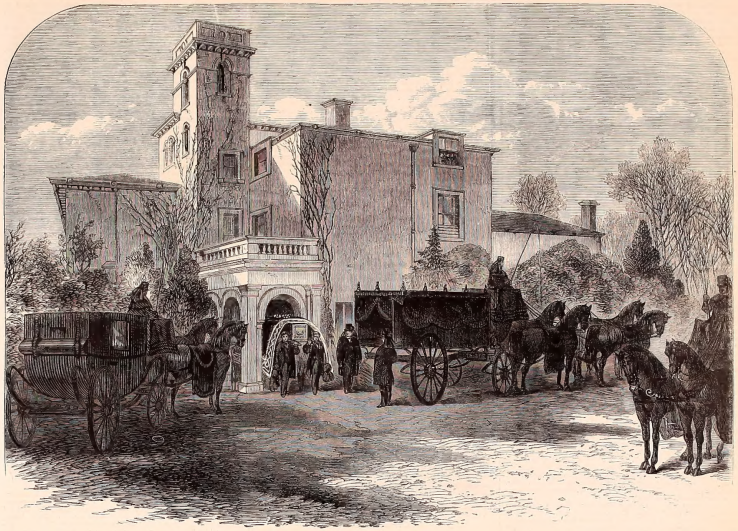
ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRANDS, 135 guineas in rosewood, 155 in walnut. Perfect specimens of these celebrated instruments—almost equal in power to the largest grand—in stock, and may be purchased on the three-years' system.
Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES of every class and size, from the smallest pianette to the most elaborate oblique, and by all the best makers, constantly in stock, and may be purchased on the three-years' system.
Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

BROADWOODS' at CRAMER'S.

COLLARDS' at CRAMER'S.

ERARD'S at CRAMER'S.



KIRKMAN'S at CRAMER'S.

PLEYEL'S at CRAMER'S.

70 TO 80 GRANDS by the above eminent makers, at prices from 105 to 280 guineas, always on stock at the Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

INDIAN PIANOFORTE.—A superior upright Pianoforte, in solid mahogany, especially made with metallic bracings, &c., for extreme climates, delivered free on board, packed in zinc, for 50 guineas.
Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

THE FUNERAL OF MR. COBDEN.

THE DEPARTURE FROM DUNFORD HOUSE.

THE PROCESSION AT COCKING CAUSEWAY.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

FUNERAL OF MR. COBDEN.

On Friday week the mortal remains of Richard Cobden were buried in the churchyard of West Lavington, Sussex, about a mile from his home at Dunsford. There was no pomp in his funeral, but it was attended by a long train of personal and political friends, amongst whom were some of the most distinguished members of the Legislature. Many deputations from the most important towns in the manufacturing districts having arrived in London in the course of Thursday for a similar purpose, it was arranged that a special train should start from the Waterloo station of the London and South-Western Railway on Friday morning at 9.40, so as to reach Midhurst about an hour before the time fixed for the funeral. The train consisted of one of the new first-class carriages, and two first-class carriages, unpainted, and a composite carriage, with a break-van at each end. The train left Waterloo at 9.40, punctually to the minute, and reached Midhurst about 600 gentlemen. Mr. A. Scott, Mr. Godson, and Mr. Verenden were in attendance on the part of the late statesman's executors. Mr. Inspector, driver, firemen, and guards were supplied with the compli mentary passes, and free of coge has-found room for himself. Seats in the train was occupied so early as nine o'clock. Among the first who appeared on the departure platform of the station, at which where the carriages were so placed so as not to interfere with the ordinary traffic, he seen two two-four-wheeled vehicles which took a prominent part with Mr. Cobden in the successful opposition to the Anti-Corn-Law League—Mr. George Gibson and Mr. Villiers. They were almost immediately joined by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. George Wilson, the Chairman of the Corn-Law League, Lord Clarence Paget, and Lord Alfred Paget, all of whom arrived in one carriage. When this train started from Waterloo Station, at a quarter to ten o'clock, it was discovered, on inspection, to have been filled to overflowing from various municipalities and other public bodies, some private persons who knew Mr. Cobden intimately, and others who only admired him for the work that he did and the way in which he did it. Manchester deputed Mr. George Wilson, chairman of the Anti-Corn-Law League; its hon. secretary, Mr. S. P. Watson; and its treasurer, Mr. J. Bickey; Mr. Mark Phillips, formerly M.P. for Manchester; Mr. J. Heywood, M.P.; Mr. T. B. Potter, M.P.; Mr. W. Evans, Mr. R. Armitage, Mr. A. Heywood, Mr. H. Ashworth, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. R. Hoss, Mr. R. Pilkington, Mr. J. Watmore, Mr. S. Pope, and Mr. Fox Turner. Rochdale, Mr. Cobden's last constituency, sent the Mayor, Mr. J. W. Taylor, Mr. Alderman Mr. Ashworth, Mr. Councillor Fagan, and Mr. T. Hoyle. The Reform Association of the borough chose Mr. Thomas Sutton, Mr. T. Bright, Mr. R. Hurst; Aldermen Heape and Moore; Councillors J. Bright, Robinson, Beal, Mannell, and Knowles; and Messrs. Willans, J. Ashworth, D. Whittaker, W. Petrie, R. Mills, and J. Ashworth, Salford sent Mr. Wright Turner, the Mayor; and Alderman J. W. Weston. Blackburn, Messrs. R. Standish, and Mr. Councillor Edinburgh, Mr. Duncan M'Laren, President of the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. R. Thomson, one of the secretaries under Mr. Cobden's will; and Mr. T. Thomasson, jun. Oldham, its Mayor, Mr. Josiah Bates; Mr. Beckett, its Mayor, Mr. Councillor Joseph Walmsley; and Mr. H. Coppock, Town Clerk. Liverpool, Mr. T. G. Oldsdings; and Alderman Langton. Leeds, Mr. John Carbutt, among the members of Parliament and other gentlemen present were Mr. M. Pete, Bart., M.P.; Mr. Mitchell, M.P.; Sir Patrick O'Brien, Bart., M.P.; Mr. A. J. Otway, M.P.; Mr. Morrison, M.P.; Mr. J. G. Smith, M.P.; Sir J. Robert Clifton, Bart., M.P.; Mr. Charles Westerton, Mr. Samuel Morley, Mr. Apsella, M.P.; Mr. Cheethem, M.P.; Mr. Brown-Westhead, M.P.; Mr. Potter, M.P.; Mr. Barnes, M.P.; Mr. Scholefield, M.P.; Mr. Ellis, M.P.; Mr. Pilkington, M.P.; Mr. Lewson, M.P.; Mr. Shaw Lefevre, M.P.; Mr. P. A. Taylor, M.P.; Sir C. W. Dilke, Bart.; Mr. Bright, M.P.; Mr. J. B. Smith, M.P.; Mr. Edward M.P.; the Rev. Newman Hall, Professor Fawcett, Mr. James Beal, Mr. H. Miller, Mr. Mansfield, M.P.; Mr. John Bright, M.P.; Mr. W. E. Forster, M.P.; the Rev. W. Brock; Sir P. Cunliffe Owen, Mr. Colman G'Loughlin, and Clarence Paget, M.P.; Mr. E. Baines, M.P.; Dr. Hook, Dean of Chichester; Mr. Bryce, Rector of Bingham; Mr. Alderm G. Grant, from Ohio; Mr. Phillips, from Wisconsin; Mr. Adams, the American Minister; and Mr. J. Chesson, hon. secretary of the Emancipation Society.

The inhabitants of Castlegate Causeway, about a mile from Midhurst, a mile from Dunford House, and half a mile from West Lavington Church. The party which left the London terminus by the Causeway through rural lanes, where the green buds were opening under the influence of a warm sun and the kindly rain of spring. Soon after noon the funeral, under the direction of Mr. Garstin, of Wilbeck street, left Dunford House, as shown in one of our illustrations. Here it consisted of only a close hearse, mourning coaches, and private carriages containing Mr. Charles Cobden, brother of Mr. Cobden; Mr. William Sale, Manchester; Mr. John Williams, Mrs. Cobden's brother-in-law; Mr. Prof. Rogers, cousin of Mr. Cobden; Mr. Charles F. Kirk and Mr. W. Kirk, his relatives; Mr. Rhodes, Mr. Fisher, sen., and Mr. Fisher, jun.

At Castlegate Causeway a deputation of the inhabitants of Midhurst, all wearing crape, and here the procession was reconstituted in the following order:—

The Undertaker and his Assistants.
The Labourers on the Estate.
The Deputation from Midhurst.
THE HEARSE.
Twelve Pallbearers.
Four Mourning Coaches.
Private Carriages.
Members of Parliament.
The various Deputations.
The Visitors.

The repect of the procession at this part of the road is shown in our second illustration. It moved slowly and quietly and reached the gate of the churchyard, which is beautifully situated on the crown of a planted knoll, from which, in whatever direction the eye is turned, can be seen some of the rich, well-wooded scenery of Mid-Sussex.

The procession was followed by some of the county police under Captain Montgomerie, chief constable; and here the mourning coaches and the hearse and plumes on the bier, which caused a little delay; and then, borne by the labourers employed on Mr. Cobden's estate, and followed and worshipped their kind master, the coffin was taken to the church porch—

THE MOURNERS.—Mr. Sutton, M.P.; J. Bright, M.P.; Mr. T. M. Gibson, M.P.; H. Ashurst; T. Bailey, M.P.; A. W. Paulton, T. Potter; Thomasson, sen., G. Wilson, M.P., Chancellor of the Exchequer, M.P., all wearing crape anklets and hatbands, being pallbearers. It was received at the church gate by the Rev. Thomas Curtis, M.A., of University College, Oxford, Vicar of West Lavington; and the Rev. Dr. Thorold Rogers, M.A., Professor of Political Economy at Oxford; the Rev. Walter Francis Elgee, M.A., of Merton College, Oxford, Assistant Curate of West Lavington; and the Rev. Chell Collins, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge, Rector of Stedham, a parish adjoining Midhurst, whose church Mr. Cobden was in the habit, when at home, of attending. The clergymen, by their invitation, the pallbearers preceded the coffin to the chancel, accompanied by several other clergymen in the neighbourhood, and by the mourners. The church of Lavington is a small structure in the Early English style, and capable of holding perhaps 800 persons. The open seats are of unpolished oak; there is an oak pulpit on the north side of the chancel arch; a font of Caen stone; and a small organ. Some of the windows are west end; there is an oak lectern near the pulpit, and the roof, which divides the chancel from the nave is of Perwoith marble, with wrought-iron gates in the centre. Some of the windows are filled with the plates and the brackets is very beautiful, representing the force of the district. Oaken rails are placed round the chancel, and the floor is laid with encaustic tiles. The roof is of open oak, and the simple wooden communion rail is inlaid wood, or parquetry. The altar-cloth, lectern, and the altar, which is raised on four steps, were vested in hangings of violet and white, with crosses—violet being the colour employed by a portion of the High Church party during Lent. The stained glass in the east window represents the Resurrection of our Lord, and the other windows are likewise filled with painted glass. When the coffin was carried under the chancel arch, over which remains the Christmas inscription "Glory to God in the highest," and was placed on the bier in the choir, the pallbearers and mourners, members of Parliament and gentlemen of the deputations, passed in and nearly filled the little church. The coffin, decked with a wreath of immortelles and with an abundance of spring flowers, was placed on trestles in the centre of the chancel, the clergy taking their seats in the choir. The proper psalm for the day was read by the Rev. Mr. Collins; and the proper Lesson for the day (1 Cor. xv.) by the Rev. Mr. Curtis. We believe that the service by the Rev. Mr. Curtis and Mr. Collins performed the main portion of the service was, that Mr. Cobden's House (Dunford) is situate in his parish, that of Heyhrop, adjoining West Lavington. Mr. Cobden, who was therefore a parishioner of his, had often expressed a wish to be buried in the church. In West Lavington churchyard, beside his son, who was buried there a few years ago. Those clergymen whose names we have indicated appeared in their surplices, as all ecclesiastics who officiate at funerals and in other churches do. The Rev. Mr. Rowlandson, the Rev. Mr. Bull, the Rev. Mr. Joyce, and many other clergymen of the neighbourhood who had not time to perform, but who were at the same time anxious to mark their respect for him, were in the church. The choir had in their academical gowns. There was not room in the church for a tenth part of the people who had assembled, and those who could not gain access to the sacred edifice stood on the slopes of the churchyard and on the adjoining portions of the land. Many of the mourners left their carriages and walked to the church.

The service during the procession moved from the nave to the south-eastern angle of the churchyard, where the Rev. Mr. Collins to whom devolved the reading of the remainder of the service for the burial of the dead, took his place. The coffin was partly lowered into the family vault, the hollow rattle of the earth upon the lid was audible as those words were uttered by the clergyman which consign earth to earth, ashes to ashes, and dust to dust. The mourners and the spectators uncovered their heads as the interment of the vault, taking it last glance at the coffin, and gradually dispersed.

BRIDAL GIFT FROM THE PROVINCE OF VICTORIA.

TO THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

Scott of the working classes in the most populous of our Australian colonies, the Province of Victoria, have provided, by a sliding subscription, the very tasteful wedding gift which we illustrate this week for Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales. It consists, as shown in our illustration, of a flower vase of charming design, and is made of materials the choicest in Victoria. From a stand composed of polished black wood, supported by three Macedon rams, a massive gold spread stem streaked with gold obtained from Wood's Point, Castlemaine, and Sandhurst, and with black nuggets obtained from Castlereef. Supported by this is a base of St. Arnaud silver, exhibiting specimens of Australian ore. Mr. Ludwig Becker, Professor of Victoria, has designed two golden stems of the oak, which symbolise England and Denmark, and the tree fern, which symbolises Victoria. The whole is surmounted by a fluted silver bowl for flowers, round the border of which are grapes and frosted vine-leaves. The cost of the whole was 300 guineas.

THE FARM.

The report on agricultural education formed the staple of discussion at the Royal Agricultural Council on Wednesday week. It was carried by 16 to 12, that the report of Professor Voelcker should be added to the committee. A protest against the report was entered on the minutes, and signed by Mr. Pusey, Lord Coleraine, Lord Ducie, Mr. Randell, and Mr. J. Wilson. The privileges of the press, which Mr. Owen, M.P., proposed to extend to the monthly council, were decided by 17 to 5; and a committee, consisting of the Duke of Richmond, Mr. Sutton Sharpe, Mr. Randell, and Mr. Pusey, were appointed to inspect the 66 acres at Bury St. Edmunds, Ipswich, King's Lynn, and Norwich. They report to the council on May 9, on which day a new councillor will be elected in the room of the late Mr. Hudson. The Duke of Ducie's favourite colours of the prize animals have been changed to red, yellow, and blue.

We regret to hear that Mr. Hogan of Dawpool, who bought the Duchess Dodona, 3rd Duke of Oxford, 1863, and Duchess 4th, 1864, has lost her at Ita. Van Tromp, the well-known Highland Society winner, was sold for £9 5s., at Mr. Fawcett's sale. Prince George, whose red horn on the heights above Mr. Bruere's farm, must have been taken to many a wake for years past in Middlesex Moor, has been slaughtered at last, at thirteen. Prince Alfred, by the same, younger is at Wrinkle, where lies Rose is still in the flesh, but a mere ruin. Ravensdale, British Crown Prince, have all gone, have to Ireland; and Campdoftower calves in May. The Duchess Dowager of Aboleyn keeps up the character of her family well this week, and included a son of the celebrated Colly Hill. Six queys averaged £18 16s. 2d. The Duchess of Aboleyn's produce was sold by the butcher's price. Its once celebrated whites have ceased for some years to attract.

Messrs. Wetherell sell, on May 2, the entire shorthorn herd of Mr. Jeremy of Dunsford, recently known to be pretty successful when he showed at the Highland Society. On May 25 Mr. Trafford will sell his entire herd at Dalton Hall, Dodleaf, near Penshurst, as well as a small herd of Mr. E. W. M. Waldo, at Hollingbourne, Kent. Mr. Thomas Bellard for the day. The sale of the Tathwell ram and ewe hogs is fixed for May 2, and that of the shearling rams at least, for the present.

Professor Voelcker, in his recent lecture before the Central Farmers' Club, "On the Management of Grass Land," dealt very ably with the prevailing cry that in these days of low corn farmers should lay down their land in grass. "The change from arable to grass," he observed, "is a slow and expensive process, and very little return can be obtained for some years; and in many cases a man who undertakes he would be entitled to or giving up his occupation. I cannot help giving the testimony of a celebrated shorthorn breeder, whose farm consists of two thirds pasture. He told me, if he had double the arable land he could winter a greatly increased stock. As it was, he gave his neighbours £2 an acre for barley-straw, and carted it, and could not get enough, and hence it was utterly ridiculous to talk of laying down more land in grass. It certainly would be in his case, as he had too much already; but there may be instances of land broken up from pasture, in consequence of the high price of corn, that may advantageously go back in grass. Except in the case of very rich land, as the alluvial soils resting on clay, such as the grazing lands of Leicestershire, accompanied, as they often are, with flooded meadows that produce a great bulk of coarse hay, grass land cannot be worked with advantage without at least an equal quantity, and more often two thirds, of arable to grow the manufactures. The opinions of practical men on sewage may be summed up in effect: that it is more suitable for the development of strong coarse grasses, such as Italian rye-grass and cocksfoot, than for natural grasses; that it is more suitable for grass than arable cultivation; that the larger the application the greater the result; and that, after all, its success is very much dependent on the rainfall of a district, as in its application to good feeding pastures, with a beautiful carpet of mixed herbage, it is necessary to avoid applying but sparingly as recommends making manure, not in a way which necessitates the separation of solid and liquid excrement. Many of the observations upon sewage, subjects which touch their own way. There are four, perhaps five, and each has its intenchment of members thrown up in its face, on each flags, which are the progressive stages of the progress of the town. There was a nice little bit of strategy practised the other day by Mr. Villiers, by which he got his Bill through with a bill through which the Bill which was dogged at every step and hampered by Lord Robert Cecil, Mr. Arkwright, and Mr. Whiteside (the Irish mission) for North Warwickshire. By good luck, the Metropolitan Sewage Utilisation Bill became a dropped one, and was read a "no house" on the Tuesday, and so appeared at the end of the list on the Wednesday, and on the morning sitting there was no attendance to speak of, the opponents, or, rather, the supporters of the Bill were absent, and Mr. Villiers quietly passed it through Committee, adopting their alterations with modifications, and got it reported and read a third time by nine o'clock in the morning on at least one more occasion. It was a little sharp in point of practice, but the measure was one that the House above passed, who believe themselves to be chartered arbitrators of all questions Parliamentary, and who are in no way ungentle and so irritating that one is always glad when they are "done." Mr. Villiers had played his game well.

It is probably not within the memory of many experienced Parliamentarians that the Army and Navy Estimates have been left unfinished at the commencement as regards the debate. Usually the debate has arisen out of the singular infelicity of the votes of £30,000 for the Duke of Cambridge, which could not be put in a possible way—unless, indeed, it was intended as an artful mode of testing the sentiments of the House on the question of general policy. If that be the case, Government have had what they wanted. The House's contempt for the Duke is unmistakable, so is his popularity. Lord Richo last week, was dull in comparison with those which had preceded it, and before, although it was as full as ever of that curious Regland is wholly incapable of defending Canada. The debate was notable in another respect, as a statement that, whether it was aware of it, the country has in its midst a modern Wellington a young gentleman who has the qualifications of a modern leon commander, except that he decidedly objects to fight upon the same principles as the Duke of Wellington did, according to Lord Elcho, even such a man is to be found in the person of Major Denison member for Yorkshire East. There would be his answer to the speech which he made on a former evening, and which was the most satisfactory delivered. Major Denison is a man of sense, and Kinglake, which, as usual, was so diplomatically shaped that no one could tell in the least what it was all about, and quite heavily so that all the rest of the speakers had been equally unintelligible to those persons who had not previously supposed, most interested in knowing exactly what England will do in the event of an invasion of Canada.

The Navy Estimates were more interesting than those of the Army, and far far less good cause. It is as nearly a fact as can be that the Navy Estimates, though one night's debate on these Estimates, and returned on the next occasion when they were brought in, as would have believed that he had been dreaming before, and that now he was witnessing the reality. We should find the same speeches made at the same hours, making the same speeches, and with terrible monotony the same answers returned. There would be Sir James Elphinstone's happy drone; Sir John Hay's sharp, teeth-clicking enunciation; Mr. Corry's long-repeating half-shouting, stentorian accent; and Mr. Seeley's slow, low, indistinct moaning out of the remonstrances of the Navy, which is not yet reconciled to Parliamentary sense, the depth of that punishment which bores with unconscious and unintentional monotonies. The Secretary of the Admiralty representatives will, however, probably be over in one night more, and we shall be able to see the Navy Estimates to an end for this year.

There is a sort of covert or implied illustration of the subject in the fact that Mr. Cox brought forward his Public-houses Act Amendment Bill on Friday night, and that there was something dramatic in the circumstance that, as the bell of the tower tolled out, we should rise to the call of refreshment-time to a certain public beyond that hour. Some natural law has decreed that, if he succeeds in that object of getting the indulgence he seeks allowed to the Metropolitan Cattle Markets, spirits of unrest from the Haymarket, in those days of rapid locomotion, will attend to Holloway for the delectation of their usual hours; the distance is not greater than Cowcross. But if Covent-garden Market is to have open its confectionery for making a night of it, the change of venue from lowest Piccadilly Whether would be a great boon to the frequenters of those oysters which has been achieved would be neutralised. The feature of this Bill is the extension of the hours at which Mr. Ricardo's Act to which Mr. Cox when the letter said that his plan for relaxing the Sunday was approved by Mr. Ricardo. There are bankers and bankers, and though the hours of decorous Exhibition Lane are not to be those in the day, yet the business of the money-changers of the Cattle Market begins at two o'clock in the morning.

Talking of alarms, Mr. Disraeli was accountable for one to the House on Monday evening, when he told us how was that at the preliminary business generally culminates in a party notice of motion—when such a notice is given—and exactly at that moment, the leader of the Opposition rose with a paper in his hand, and inclined to think that the Chancellor of the Exchequer was a guilty thing for not having divined some secret machination against himself. Mr. Disraeli—a novel from Mr. Gladstone—and a hand up to his ear by Lord Palmerston—and with a meaning smile on his lip, evidently assured by the sensation he had created, Mr. Disraeli hurriedly stated his intention of drawing attention to something relative to a poor-law union in the county of Bucks. Salvantur ruin!

The John Ericsson, the first Swedish monitor, has been launched at Stockholm. She measures 207ft. long by 46ft. wide. The side planing is 5in. thick, and are of the iron, where the cannon are, 12in., as is also that which guards the rudder. The vessel will be provided with 10 steam-engines.

MUSIC.

The musical performances of this (Passion) week have been chiefly sacred. On Monday "The Messiah" was performed at Exeter Hall by the National Choral Society; on Wednesday the same oratorio was given at the same place by the Sacred Harmonic Society; and there was a grand sacred concert at the Crystal Palace on Good Friday (yesterday). On all these occasions a great amount of vocal and orchestral talent was employed, and the performances attracted, as usual, vast audiences.

The "Prophète" was produced at the Royal Italian Opera on Tuesday last, for the first time this season, when Mdme. de Edelsberg appeared in the character of Fides and Mario resumed his great part of John of Leyden. We shall notice this performance next week.

The last of Mr. Aguilar's very attractive and successful matinées of pianoforte music took place on Wednesday week. The programme included Mr. Aguilar's sonata in C major, Beethoven's sonata in A flat, Mendelssohn's caprice in E and several of his "Lieder ohne Worte;" Aguilar's romance, "Ophelia," and his fantasia on "Faust;" Field's fifth nocturne, and several other interesting pieces. The rooms, as usual, were crowded to the doors.

In this Journal of the 28th of January we mentioned the successful début, in Italy, of Mr. John Morgan, a young English tenor. We learn from recent Italian journals that he is pursuing his career with increasing éclat. A Milan paper says:—"The tenor Morganti, on the evening of his benefit at Cingoli, after appearing in "Lucia di Lammermoor," sang a romance of Mercadante, an English serenade, "Good-night, beloved," and the trio from the "Lombardi." All these pieces were received with great applause, calls before the curtain, and showers of bouquets. He especially distinguished himself in the famous malediction scene and the final air "Fra poco." We understand that Mr. Morgan wisely intends to follow up his career in Italy for two or three years before returning to England.

A new comic opera, "Le Mariage de Don Lopez," has been brought out at the Théâtre Lyrique, Paris, with much success. The composer, M. de Hartog, is a young man, and this his first essay in writing for the stage gives promise of a brilliant career.

Adelina Patti made her first appearance this season at Madrid, on the 23rd of last month. The crowd was immense, and hundreds were turned away from the doors of the theatre. The enthusiasm of the public was indescribable, and Mdlle. Patti was called for fourteen times in the course of the evening.

Mdme. Pasta died on the 1st of this month, at her villa on the Lake of Como, in her sixty-seventh year. She was the greatest dramatic singer of her day, and probably has not been rivalled by any of her successors in some of the highest qualities of an artist. As a tragic actress she has never been equalled, save by our own illustrious Mrs. Siddons. The Medea of the one was as grand and terrible as the Lady Macbeth of the other. Mdme. Pasta, moreover, was an ornament to her profession, not only by her genius and talents, but by her virtues as a woman—her purity of life, noble and generous character, and elegant accomplishments.

Mr. Edward James Loder, the distinguished composer, died in London on Wednesday, the 5th of this month, after an illness of more than six years' duration. Mr. Loder's name will be chiefly remembered by his opera, "The Night-Dancers," a work which has not been excelled by any English production of its class during the present century.

Signor Negrini, the celebrated tenor, died of apoplexy at Naples, on the 14th of March, in his thirty-eighth year.

THE THEATRES.

The theatres are now preparing to do rather than doing. They are looking forward to their Easter attractions, and are more anxious for the future than the present. Still, we have something to record even for the Passion Week. At the Olympic a new comedietta has been performed, adapted from the French by Mr. Horace Wigan, and entitled "Always Intended." The plot relates to a young couple who have been affianced from infancy, and are now to be wedded for life, as the mere result of a family arrangement. There has been no courtship, and there is no excitement. An old female friend of the family and the lawyer who has charge of the marriage settlement scarcely think that this is exactly the right state of things, and begin to suspect that there is little love at the bottom. One commences a flirtation with the bride and another with the bridegroom, and thus disturb the peaceful waters of the calm but happy life that the betrothed cousins had been living. Both are now awakened to jealousy, and thus discover that they have all along loved each other. The dialogue is neat, and the arrangement of the action sufficiently clever. Aided by some good acting, the piece obtained a favourable reception.

On Monday a new burlesque was produced at the New Adelphi. It is by Mr. Henry J. Byron, and is called an Arcadian pastoral extravaganza on the subject of "Pan; or, The Loves of Echo and Narcissus." The theme is classical, but scarcely the spirit of the piece, for Narcissus has none of the self-love ascribed to him in the old fable. He is, in fact, rather a general lover, and fights manfully both for Echo and Syrinx. However, he is spiritedly impersonated by Miss Woolgar. Mr. Byron has invented a suggestive plot, setting forth how that Pan, desirous of being loved for himself alone, visits, with Jupiter's permission, earth as a man, for the time divesting himself of divine attributes. The result may be guessed; the god is mistaken for a clown and pitched into the water for a profane attempt on his own offerings. Suddenly he makes his appearance from a temple on the rocks above, and pronounces a malediction on the crops of Arcadia. Syrinx and Echo enter into a compact for securing to each her proper lover—Pan for Echo and Narcissus for Syrinx. But Echo plays her friend false, and ultimately both are betrayed into the hands of pirates; whereupon Narcissus, disguised as a mariner, boards their vessel, and, drugging their wine, delivers out of their grasp the two nymphs. Ultimately, we find that poor Pan, who has been indulging with the satyrs and got gloriously inebriated, is forsaken by his mistress, and haunted with her voice. But the transformation reveals to him that Narcissus is happy with the nymphs, and Pan throws himself on the sympathy of the audience. This Arcadian pastoral is illustrated with some beautiful scenery by Messrs. Gates and Thompson, and obtained the approbation of the house.

Full particulars have reached us of Mr. and Mrs. C. Kean's reception in Kingston, Jamaica, where they landed from the Isthmus of Panama on Feb. 24. Their arrival appears to have produced great excitement, and one guinea a seat was easily got for admission to their readings. The wharves were crowded to witness the entrance of the mail-steamer from Colon, which, as she moved up the harbour to her moorings, was greeted with enthusiasm. The readings took place on Thursday, the 2nd, and Saturday, the 4th of March, and consisted, as usual, of scenes from "King John," "The Execution of Montrose," "We are Seven," "Horatius Cocles," selections from "Henry VIII.," "Edinburgh after Flodden," "Rain in Summer," and "Lord Ullin's Daughter." A third reading was ultimately arranged. It is stated that these distinguished artistes proceeded to Havannah (Cuba) on March 15, whence they departed for New York, on their way to England. In this manner, they may boast that, "by a professional tour, they have encircled the globe," and will, no doubt, ere long receive a hearty welcome from a London audience.

The St. Petersburg journals state that Chalil Bey, the Turkish Ambassador, has presented to the Emperor of Russia, for the Museum of the Hermitage, a magnificent collection of antiquities discovered in excavations in Egypt: among others, fifteen figures in bronze, inlaid with gold and silver; a statue of an Osiris in standing posture, and another in a sitting one; also a cat consecrated to Osiris; several statuettes of Kings, of which three belong to the period of the Ethiopian Pharaohs. There are also some remarkable pieces of the Ptolemean period, and among them a bust of Serapis, and the bust of a Queen, with the attributes of Isis. This collection, composed of about 500 objects, raises to more than 2000 the number of curiosities of the Egyptian museum of the Russian capital.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

WAR OFFICE.

Royal Horse Guards: The Hon. C. R. Carington to be Cornet.

3rd Dragoon Guards: Cornet W. Watt to be Cornet. 6th: The transfer of Lieutenant E. Corbett from 17th Lancers (notified in a previous Gazette) has been cancelled.

1st Dragoons: Lieut. A. Mesham to be Captain; Cornet J. S. Benyon to be Lieutenant; S. J. Weld to be Cornet. 2nd: Staff Surg.-Major J. Mullins to be Surgeon. 6th: Quartermaster T. Mitchell to be Quartermaster.

7th Hussars: Quartermaster W. Hodgkinson to be Quartermaster; 13th: P. B. Hamilton to be Cornet.

16th Lancers: Lieut. W. J. Wauchope to be Captain; Cornet J. C. Duke to be Lieutenant; C. E. P. Chaplin to be Cornet. 17th: Cornet A. B. Donnithorne to be Cornet.

Royal Artillery: Assist. Surg. F. A. Turton to be Assistant Surgeon.

Scots Fusilier Guards: Lieuts. and Capts. G. W. Knox and the Hon. W. R. Trefusis to be Captains and Lieutenant-Colonels; Ensigns and Lieuts. C. E Phipps and T. P. Graham to be Lieutenants and Captains; H. J. Elwes and J. Y. Buller to be Ensigns and Lieutenants; Lieut. and Capt. C. A. W. Finch to be Adjutant.

4th Foot: Major T. Martin to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. J. P. B. Foster to be Major Lieut. T. Burridge to be Captain; Ensign F. Plummer to be Lieutenant; Cadet E. R. P. Woodgate to be Ensign. 5th: Lieut. C. J. Mile to be Captain; Ensign W. Bingham to be Lieutenant; J. W. Pearse-Hobbs to be Ensign. 10th: G. H. Singer to be Ensign. 11th: Assist. Surg. W. R. Kerans to be Assistant Surgeon. 12th: Quartermaster M. Lyne to be Quartermaster. 13th: Lieut. F. J. Hort to be Lieutenant. 15th: Ensign H. E. Adams to be Lieutenant; R. E. Allen to be Ensign. 16th: Surg. W. G. Swan, M.D., to be Surgeon-Major. 18th: Ensign J. Bradley to be Lieutenant; Cadet O. A. Woodhouse to be Ensign. 19th: Quartermaster W. Maloney to be Quartermaster. 23rd: Staff Assist. Surg. R. W. Lawless to be Assistant Surgeon. 32nd: Ensign H. W. M. Cathcart to be Lieutenant; Ensign A. C. Tawke to be Ensign. 35th: Lieut. J. L. Hewson to be Lieutenant. 41st: Ensign T. H. Duncombe to be Lieutenant; J. L. M. Seymour to be Ensign. 47th: Capt. W. Thompson to be Captain. 48th: Capt. and Brev. Major H. J. Wilkin to be Captain. 49th: Capt. E. Mackay to be Captain; Paymaster W. Dring to be Paymaster. 51st: Staff Assist. Surg. G. S. Burnside to be Assistant Surgeon. 53rd: Lieut. R. Brown to be Captain; Lieut. C. C. Ross and Ensign W. Rogerson to be Lieutenants; F. C. Whitaker to be Ensign. 57th: Ensign J. T. Down to be Lieutenant; Cadet E. P. Benn to be Ensign. 59th: Major-Gen. H. Eyre to be Colonel. 62nd: Paymaster H. S. Michell to be Paymaster. 63rd: Capt. L. S. Cotton to be Captain. 68th: Lieut. J. E. Whitehead to be Lieutenant. 82nd: Lieut. W. R. Nash to be Lieutenant. 92nd: Lieut. A. C. Maxwell to be Lieutenant. 92nd: Lieut R. B. M'Ewen to be Adjutant; Cadet A. D. M'Gregor to be Ensign. 94th: Capt. and Brevet Major H. F. Brooke to be Captain; Cadet F. T. Goodridge to be Ensign. 97th: Capt. J. R. Rambottom to be Captain; Cadet J. Marshman to be Ensign. 100th: Ensign F. J. Tidy to be Lieutenant; F. Arkwright to be Ensign. 105th: Lieut. T. Kelly to be Lieutenant. 107th: J. E. Tripp to be Quartermaster.

Royal Canadian Rifle Regiment: Major F. G. Hibbert to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. J. T. Campbell to be Major; Lieut. A. B. Mitchell to be Captain; Ensign F. S. Dugmore to be Lieutenant; G. H. Lowe and Cadet G. R. M. Selby to be Ensigns.

4th West India Regiment: Ensigns F. B. P. White and T. Aked to be Lieutenants.

Ceylon Rifle Regiment: Lieut. H. K. Fenwick to be Lieutenant.

Rifle Brigade: Quartermaster J. Clarke to be Quartermaster.

UNATTACHED.—Lieut. E. Mackay to be Captain.

COMMISSARIAT DEPARTMENT.—Deputy Assist. Com.-General R. G. D. Selby to be Assistant Commissary-General; Acting Deputy Assist. Com.-General C. J. Uniacke to be Deputy Assistant Commissary-General.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.—Assist. Surg. G. T. Bourke to be Staff Assistant Surgeon.

CHAPLAINS' DEPARTMENT.—The Rev. F. Cannon and Rev. D. Somerville, M.A., Chaplains of the fourth class to be Chaplains of the third class.

HALF PAY.—Lieuts. C. G. M'Gregor Skinner and E. H. Budgen to be Captains.

BREVET.

Lieut.-Col. and Brev. Col. F. Whittingham, C.B., to have the honorary rank of Major-General; Capt. T. D. Baker to be Major.

The following promotions to take place consequent on the decease of General H. Touzel on the 8th of March, 1865:—Lieut.-Gen. Sir J. Freeth, K.C.B., to be General; Major-Gen. G. F. Viscount Templeton, G.B., to be Lieutenant-General; Brev. Col. W. C. E. Napier to be Major-General; Major E. Chippindall to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. J. S. Menzies to be Major.

In continuation of the promotions in succession to Lieutenant-General Sir S. B. Ellis, K.C.B., Royal Marines, who died on the 10th of March, 1865:—Capt. and Brev. Major A. C. Cook to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. R. Blackall to be Major.

The following promotions to take place consequent on the decease of Major-General J. Clark, Colonel of the 59th Foot, on the 22nd of March, 1865; Lieut.-Col. and Brev. Col. C. H. Ellice, C.B., to be Major-General; Capt. and Brev. Major W. E. M. Reilly, C.B., to be Lieutenant.Colonel; Capt. D. Hastings to be Major.

Lieut.-Col. V. Baker to be Colonel. Capt. H. Cole to be Major. Paymaster, with the honorary rank of Captain, F. Fitzpatrick to have the honorary rank of Major.

ADMIRALTY.

Mr. J. F. Moreton to be Acting Engineer in her Majesty's Fleet; Mr. T. Vickery, Mr. J. M'Millan, and Mr. A. Dewar, to be First-Class Assistant Engineers.

The Channel fleet is under orders to proceed to sea on the 17th inst.

The Army and Navy Gazette says Major-General Lord George Paget has come from India, and enters upon the duties of Inspector-General of Cavalry, to which he stands appointed from the 1st inst.

Lieutenant-Colonel W. Lyons, half pay, of the late 5th West India Regiment, has been appointed Assistant Adjutant-General in Canada, in succession to Major Bellairs.

Colonel C. L. Nugent, lately commanding the dépôt battalion at Stirling, has been appointed Acting Deputy Judge-Advocate-General for Ireland.

The Mersey Dock Board has decided that floating-batteries would be a better defence for Liverpool than forts. The erection of a commanding fort has been a Government project for some time past, but the Mersey Board think that ironclads placed in the channels of the river would be much more efficient.

In Tuesday's Gazette it is announced that General Sir John Fox Burgoyne, Bart., G.C.B., has been appointed Constable of the Tower of London, in the room of Field Marshal Stapleton, Viscount Combermere, deceased; and General Sir John Fox Burgoyne, Bart., G.C.B., Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the Tower Hamlets, also in the room of Viscount Combermere.

The last of the series of meetings of the members of the Association of Naval Architects was held on Saturday morning, in the rooms of the Society of Arts, John-street, Adelphi—Sir J. S. Pakington, M.P., in the chair—when papers were read by Mr. W. Froude showing the practical limits of the rolling of a ship in a seaway; by Sir Edward Belcher, upon various points to be considered in fitting her Majesty's ships; and by Captain F. H. M'Killop, R.N., describing the advantages of Walker's hydraulic ship-lift or floating dry-dock. Considerable discussion took place upon the latter paper, in the course of which Sir Edward Belcher and Mr. Bramwell claimed to have invented floating-docks similar to that patented by Mr. Walker several years ago, Admiral Belcher dating his idea as far back as 1830.

The whole of the troops in Chatham garrison were marched from their respective barracks, last Saturday afternoon, to the Great Lines, in order to perform the movements of a brigade field-day. The battery of the Royal Artillery, which is stationed here, was under the command of Major H. T. Fitzhugh; the Royal Engineers were commanded by Colonel J. F. M. Browne, C.B.; the Royal Marines by Colonel David Blyth; the 1st Dépôt Battalion by Major H. A. Welman; the 2nd Dépôt Battalion by Lieut.-Colonel W. Inglis; the 3rd Dépôt Battalion by Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. J. J. Bourke. The troops on the ground amounted to upwards of 2500 rank and file. Fifteen rounds of ammunition were served out to each man. After the troops had been formed into line, Major-General Sir Robert Walpole, K.C.B., the commandant, Colonel J. O. Travers, R.M., and the staff, arrived on the ground, and the commandant was received with a general salute. The General and his staff then took up a position at the saluting-point, and the troops, formed into columns, marched past in quick time, the Artillery leading. The force then took ground to the left, and the Engineers threw out a skirmishing party, supported on each flank by the Artillery. The troops subsequently executed a variety of movements. A great concourse of persons assembled on the breezy Lines to witness the military display.

The Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief paid a visit to Aldershott Camp on Monday morning. His Royal Highness was accompanied by Lieutenant-General Sir J. Yorke Scarlett and Sir Richard Airey; Colonel Gambier, of the Royal Artillery, &c.; and arrived at the Farnborough station of the South-Western Railway about nine o'clock, where he was received by Lieutenant-General Sir John Lysaght Pennefather, K.C.B., &c. The Royal and distinguished party first proceeded to the north camp, where they met the 75th Regiment, under Lieutenant-Colonel Gordon, proceeding to Farnborough, en route for Gosport, &c. The Duke inspected various buildings in the north camp, and, having done so, rode on to the south camp. Here his Royal Highness spent a considerable time in viewing the Royal Engineer yard, with its workshops, and subsequently several permanent stables lately erected for the Military Train Corps. The Duke also minutely inspected a number of horses lately arrived and, after partaking of luncheon at Sir John Pennefather's hut, viewed the quarters of Major-General Brook Taylor, which stand out prominently, neat and picturesque-looking, on the head of the south camp. After viewing the riding-schools of the 14th Hussars and the Scots Greys, in the cavalry barracks, his Royal Highness proceeded on an inspection of the infantry. The second brigade, consisting of the 13th Light Infantry, the first battalion 14th, and the 62nd Regiments, under Lord Mark Kerr, C.B., Brigadier, were inspected in open column of companies, in tunics, forage caps, &c. The first brigade, consisting of the 31st and 85th Regiments and 92nd Highlanders (under Major-General Taylor), and the third brigade, composed of the 39th and 83rd Regiments (under Major-General Russell, C.B.), were similarly inspected. Apparently, the most important part of his Royal Highness's visit lay in that portion devoted to an inspection of the portion of barrack devoted to the use of the Royal Horse Artillery. Here, with his Staff, he spent some time determining, it was understood, as to the site of a barracks for the Horse Artillery, with proper stabling, &c., the want of which has been long felt by the batteries of that branch of the artillery stationed at Aldershott. Under the direction of Major-General Hodge, C.B., commanding the cavalry, and Colonels Phillpotts and Michell, of the artillery, several measurements of the ground were taken in the course of the inspection.

THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.

The 48th Middlesex (Havelock) Rifle Volunteers were on Saturday last paraded in the quadrangle at Somerset House, when Lieutenant-Colonel George Cruikshank presented to Sergeant-Major John Spooner a medal which had been awarded to him by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty for "good conduct and long service."

An "all-comers' Enfield meeting" took place recently at the head-quarters of the South Middlesex Rifle Volunteers, Beaufort House, Walham-green. The prizes in the aggregate amounted to £200, divided as follows:—£81, in sixteen prizes, for the first day; £81, in sixteen prizes, for the second day; and £28 in prizes for the highest aggregate scores on the two days. On the first day, 200 yards, the three highest prizes were won by C. J. Burt, Lieutenant 1st Warwick, £17 10s.; J. Baker, Bristol, £17 10s.; C. Milner, South Middlesex, £10, twenty-three marks. On the second day, at 300 yards, the three highest prizes were won by T. Meggy, H.A.C., £20; T. B. Winser, Quartermaster-Sergeant 3rd Kent, £15; G. F. Young, private South Middlesex, £10. The highest "aggregates" were—Thomas Meggy, H.A.C., £10; T. B. Winser, 3rd Kent, £8; G. F. Young, South Middlesex, £6; Henry Radcliffe, South Middlesex, £5; Burt, 1st Warwick, £4; Ashwell, 4th Middlesex, £3; and Snelus, Sergeant 8th Cheshire, £2.

The third annual competition for the borough of Marylebone challenge cup, given by Lord Fermoy, M.P., and Mr. Harvey Lewis, M.P., to the corps raised in the borough, has been held at Wormwood-scrubbs. The following corps competed:—West Middlesex, North Middlesex, 20th Middlesex, and 36th Middlesex. The West Middlesex again proved the victors. The cup is now the absolute property of the corps, they having won it three years in succession.

A match between ten officers, ten non-commissioned officers, and ten privates of the London Scottish and the second battalion of the Queen's (Westminster) Rifles has been shot off at Wimbledon. The following summary will show the scores made by the respective ranks:—London Scottish officers, 398; Queen's ditto, 421. London Scottish non-commissioned officers, 455; Queen's ditto, 428. London Scottish privates, 487; Queen's ditto, 481. The scores of the London Scottish amounted to 1340, of the Queen's to 1330.

The range of the Woburn rifles was on Saturday last the scene of a spirited competition for an elegant silver and parcel-gilt challenge cup, which has been presented to the company by Acting Musketry-Lieutenant W. F. Green, subject to the following conditions:—That it be competed for every month, from April to November inclusive, for a period of two years. At the end of two years the cup to become the sole property of the man who shall have won it the greatest number of times, provided he has won it twice in succession. Eleven members entered the lists against Lieutenant Green, the cupholder. He proved the winner by eleven points, making a score of ninety-five in thirty rounds, consisting of ten bull's-eyes, fifteen centres, and five outers.

On Saturday last the members of the various corps comprising the 5th Battalion Cheshire Volunteers met at Haslington Park, near Crewe, for their first drill this season. The volunteers mustered 724 of all ranks, and included Congleton (two companies), Macclesfield (three companies), Sandbach, Wilmslow, Nantwich, and Crewe (two companies). Between 5000 and 6000 persons assembled to witness the review. The evolutions were gone through in a satisfactory manner, and at the close the commanding officer, Colonel Sir Charles J. Shakerley, complimented the battalion upon being 200 stronger than at the last drill. He spoke in eulogistic terms of the efficiency displayed by the members of the Crewe corps, considering that corps had only been in existence a few months.

The challenge cup, presented by Lieutenant-Colonel Mawson, for competition by marksmen only of the 2nd Manchester, was competed for last Saturday, on the range of the regiment, at Astley. Corporal John Hall won the cup.

In a notice of the meeting of the National Rifle Association, in our Paper of March 11, it was stated that 500 gs. had been subscribed by "the British residents at Hong-Kong" for "the China challenge cup," to be shot for at Wimbledon. It is the members of the four volunteer corps in China—namely, those of Hong-Kong, Shanghai, Hankow, and Canton—who have subscribed the sum, and they will be represented here by Mr. H. Webb, of Shanghai, and Major Brine, R.E., commandant of the Hong-Kong corps.

THE REVIEW AT BRIGHTON ON EASTER MONDAY.

The following are the details of the metropolitan corps proceeding from London to Brighton on Monday next, the 17th of April:—

From London-bridge station:—

At 5.20 a.m.—Honourable Artillery Company, 30; 3rd Middlesex Artillery, 344; 23rd Middlesex (Inns of Court) Rifles, 310; 2nd London Rifles, 210; 3rd ditto, 524; 5th Administrative Battalion Middlesex, and 9th Tower Hamlets Rifles, 426. Total, 1844.

At 6 a.m.—28th Middlesex (London Irish) Rifles (right wing), 305; 37th Middlesex Rifles, 228; 39th Middlesex (Finsbury) Rifles, 380; 40th Middlesex (Central London) Rifles, 346; 7th Surrey Rifles, 318; 20th Middlesex Rifles, 300. Total, 1877.

At 6.30 a.m.—1st Administrative Battalion Tower Hamlets Rifles, 559; 2nd and 8th Tower Hamlets Rifles, 452; 4th ditto, 200; 6th ditto, 450; 1st City of London Rifles, 616. Total, 2277.

At 7 a.m.—48th Middlesex (Havelock) Rifles, 311; 10th, 19th, and 23rd Surrey Rifles, 471; 2nd Administrative Battalion Essex Rifles, 450; 3rd Administrative Battalion and 4th Essex Rifles, 605; 2nd Administrative Battalion Middlesex Rifles, 488. Total, 2325.

At 7.30 a.m.—3rd Essex Artillery, 200; 1st London Artillery, 220; 1st Tower Hamlets Engineers, 90; 1st London Engineers, 140. Total, 650.

Grand total to proceed from London-bridge station, 8973.

From Victoria station:—

At 5.20 a.m.—1st Administrative Brigade Middlesex Artillery, 256; 2nd Surrey Artillery, 257; 15th Middlesex (London Scottish) Rifles, 333; 19th ditto, 400; 9th Middlesex (West) Rifles, 230; 11th Middlesex (St. George's) Rifles, 400. Total, 1876.

At 6.10 a.m.—29th Middlesex (North) Rifles, 409; 28th Middlesex (London Irish) (left wing), 200; 4th ditto, 292; 46th ditto, 303; 1st Middlesex Engineers, 305. Total, 1509.

At 6.45 a.m.—21st Middlesex (Civil Service) and 38th Middlesex Rifles, 406; 22nd Middlesex (Queen's) Rifles, 704; 2nd Middlesex (South) Rifles, 372; 1st Middlesex (Victoria) and 36th ditto, 403. Total, 1885.

Grand total proceeding from Victoria station, 5270.

The following are the details of the country corps:—

1st Administrative Brigade of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Hants Artillery, 683; 1st Administrative Brigade of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Sussex Artillery, 595; 4th Cinque Ports, 164; 1st Hants Engineer Volunteer Corps, 90; 2nd South Middlesex Rifles (detachment), 100; 18th Middlesex Rifles, 100; 7th Administrative Battalion Middlesex Rifles, 298; 1st Surrey and 2nd Administrative Battalion Surrey Rifles, 719; 1st Administrative Battalion Surrey Rifles, 331; 3rd ditto, 390; 1st Sussex Rifles, 260; 1st Administrative Battalion Sussex—9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, and 15th Sussex Rifles, 301; 2nd Administrative Battalion Sussex—5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 13th, 14th, and 18th Sussex Rifles, 450; 1st Administrative Battalion and 26th Kent Rifles, 696; 14th and 17th Kent Rifles, 129; 1st Administrative Battalion Cinque Ports Rifles, 534; 2nd Hants Rifle Volunteer Corps, 153; 14th ditto, 85; 1st Administrative Battalion Hants Rifles, 229; 2nd ditto, 378; 3rd ditto, 366; 1st Administrative Battalion Isle of Wight, 299. Total, 7360.

The following general orders, with others, in reference to the volunteer review at Brighton, on Monday next, have been issued from the War Office:—

Upon arrival at Brighton the various corps will at once march (right in front) to the undermentioned rendezvous which have been appointed for them; those from London by the Montpelier-road and Rose-hill-terrace, and the corps from the east and west of the main line by Trafalgar-road, keeping always upon the western side of the Grand Parade:—Garrison Artillery, Level, north end; 1st Brigade, 1st Infantry Division, Level, north end; 2nd, Level, middle; 3rd, Level, south end; 4th, Inclosure B; 1st Brigade 2nd Infantry Division, Inclosure C; 2nd, Inclosure D, north end; 3rd, Inclosure D, south; 4th, Inclosure E; 5th, Inclosure F.

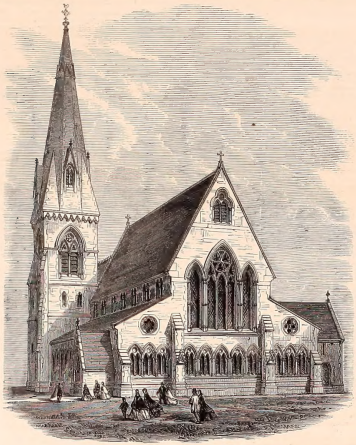
On reaching their respective rendezvous the corps will pile arms in quarter-distance columns (right in front), or in such formation as the ground will admit of.

The guns belonging to the field batteries will be parked on the space in rear of the Grand Stand, either previously to Easter Monday, or early in the morning of that day, and must be prepared to take their appointed places without delay in the line of march, when the infantry columns approach them on their way to the review ground.

At eleven a.m. the infantry, having got under arms, will file off by fours from the right of the garrison artillery, followed by the first division, proceeding by the west side of the Grand Parade, the Marine Parade, and Bedford-street, to the racecourse, where it will form a mass of quarter-distance columns right in front, and be joined by the cavalry and the field batteries of artillery.

Previously to the force marching past, one band will be sent from each brigade by the Brigadier to a spot allotted for the purpose in front of the saluting-point near the Grand Stand. The bands collected there will then be arranged by a Staff officer in consecutive order for the purpose of playing while their respective brigades pass. The remaining bands will march at the head of their own battalions without playing.

The force will march past the General in command near the Grand Stand in the following order:—1. Horse artillery, and the cavalry; 2, 1st Brigade of field batteries; 3, 2nd ditto; 4, Brigade of garrison artillery; 5, 1st division of infantry; 6, 3rd Brigade of field batteries; 7, 4th ditto; 8, 2nd division of infantry.



The cavalry will march past in column of troops, the artillery in column of divisions, and the infantry in open column of companies, the whole being right in front, and dressing by the right.

After having marched past, the force will take up ground, which will be pointed out by Staff officers.

At the conclusion of the field-day arms are to be examined and surplus small-arm ammunition collected from the pouches, in accordance with article 108 of the volunteer regulations.

The force will then return to Brighton. The 1st and 2nd brigade of field-batteries, the garrison artillery, and the 1st division of infantry by the Lewes-road; and the cavalry, the 3rd and 4th brigades of field-batteries, and the second division of infantry by Bedford-street and the Marine Parade. On reaching Brighton, the guns of those field-batteries which have to be conveyed by railway will proceed at once to the goods station, which will be appropriated for their reception, and where a party of the Royal Artillery will be in readiness to receive any gun ammunition which may not have been expended; and the garrison artillery and the several brigades of infantry will take up the exact places at the rendezvous which they occupied in the morning, and will there await their turn to move to the railway station for conveyance to their respective destinations.

THE FUNERAL OF MR. COOPER: THE INTERMENT IN WEST LAVINGTON CHURCHYARD.—SEE PAGE 356.

ST. SAVIOUR'S CHURCH, BACUP, LANCASHIRE.

BIRCHINGTON CHURCH, KENT, RESTORED.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

ST. SAVIOUR'S CHURCH, BACUP, LANCASHIRE.

THE town of Bacup is about twenty miles north of Manchester, at the head of the valley of Rossendale. From a small village it has increased, of late years, to a cotton-manufacturing town of 14,000 inhabitants. The old church, built about a century ago, has long been too small for the population, as, with galleries, it only seats about 600 persons; and, being in a very insecure state, it has been found necessary to close the galleries and shore up the south wall until funds can be raised for rebuilding it. A few years since a small church was built at the east or upper part of the town, or rather out of the town; but the inhabitants of the lower and newer portion have been for a long time without proper church accommodation. To remedy this evil a new district has been formed, and a church, parsonage, and schools have been built at the sole expense of Mr. James Maden Holt, of Stubbylea, Bacup, on his own estate—the architect employed being Mr. F. Wyndham Tarn, of Mecklenburgh-square, London. The cost of the church was £9000, the schoolhouse £1800, the parsonage £1000; and the value of the land £2000. The new church, of which a View is engraved for our Paper this week, is built, in the Early Pointed Gothic style, with stone quarried on Mr. Holt's estate. The length of the church, inside, is 120 ft.; width of nave and aisles, 58 ft. There are seats for 750 persons on the ground floor, and for nearly 300 children in a west gallery. The nave and aisles are separated by seven arches on light pillar-shafts of polished red granite. The roof of the nave is formed into a polygonal ceiling, panelled and boarded; the main ribs being semicircular and cusped, and springing from carved stone corbels. The centre panels are pierced with geometrical panels, covered with perforated zinc, for ventilation. The centre window of the nave is seen entirely above the gallery, and the portion of the church underneath is lighted by an arcade of small windows along the whole of the west end. The stairs to the gallery are placed in a south-west porch. The roof of the chancel is formed of curved timber ribs springing from stone corbels; the floor is paved with Mawes' encaustic tiles. In the centre of the floor is a baptistery for the immersion of adults (when required), covered over with iron gratings laid level with the paving. The tower stands at the north side of the chancel, and opens into it with a large arch for an organ. It is surmounted by a broached spire 120 ft. in height. The building is warmed by Haden's hot-air apparatus, which is placed in the basement of the tower. The nave and chancel are lighted by gas coronas of Hart's manufacture, and the aisles by Hammond's ventilating globe lights. The pulpit is of pitch pine, and stands on a stone base supported on verde-antique columns. The desk and other chancel fittings are also of pitch pine. The seats of the church are open and of stained deal; one third are free and the remainder let at very low rentals. On the south side there is a small transept or chapel, having an arcade on each side, supported on serpentine columns, and with panels of alabaster intended for inscriptions in memory of the members of the donor's family. The windows are filled with tinted glass, those at the west and east ends having ornamental patterns on the quarries and coloured borders.

THE NIGER EXPEDITION OF H.M.S. INVESTIGATOR: PROCESSION OF ENGLISH OFFICERS TO THE NEGRO TOWN OF BIDA.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

The architect's plans have been executed under the superintendence of Mr. Robert Mulley, the clerk of works, and the whole of the stonework has been done by the day and by the piece, no contractor having been employed.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH, BIRCHINGTON, NEAR MARGATE.

This church has lately been reopened, after undergoing a complete restoration from the designs and under the superintendence of Mr. Charles Nightingale Beazley, architect, of London. It contains nave, north and south aisles, chancel, north chancel chapel, tower and spire on the south-west side of chancel, and south chancel chapel to the east of the tower. Since the reseating, the church will accommodate 542 persons. All the sittings are free. The tower, which stands in an unusual position, forms a landmark, and is used as such by the Trinity House, who generously gave £100 towards the repair of this portion of the building. The chancel has been re-roofed and fitted with proper oak stalls for the choir; and the floors raised and paved with Minton's tiles, laid to the designs furnished by the architect. The Dean and Chapter paid the cost of these improvements. From the north chancel chapel, which extends the whole length of the chancel, an unsightly gallery has been removed and has been replaced with oak seats; a new roof and window have also been provided. This work is at the cost of H. P. Cotton, Esq., of Quex Park, to whom the chapel belongs, and who also gave the west doorway of the nave. The funds for the remainder of the work, which consists of new roof, windows, seating, &c., were provided by subscriptions from local as well as distant friends, and also by a grant of £100 from the London Church-Building Society. There is still a debt owing upon the works.

THE NIGER EXPEDITION OF H.M.S. INVESTIGATOR.

We lately announced the death of the late Dr. Baikie, the African traveller, who had for some years been residing at Lukoja, in the country of the Niger, as a diplomatic agent employed by our Foreign Office to procure the consent of the rulers of some of the negro nations to the admission of British trade. The expedition up the Niger, which was performed last autumn by H.M.S. Investigator, under Commander C. W. Knowles, was intended to relieve Dr. Baikie, that he might come to England and communicate with her Majesty's Ministers. The Investigator crossed the bar of the Nun River, one of the mouths of the Niger, on the 30th of August, taking up Bishop Crowther, the newly-elected Bishop of the Niger, and Lieutenant Bourchier, of the Royal Marines, as successor (pro tem.) to Dr. Baikie. She arrived at the confluence of the Kwara and Binue rivers on the 8th of September, and, having found Dr. Baikie at his residence of Lukoja, took him on board and proceeded up the Kwara as far as Wunagi, a village situated about forty miles up a small river called the Tchantshegga, and within eight miles of Bida, the capital of Nupe, and residence of Masaba, King of that country. Here, at Bida, the commander of the Investigator, with Dr. Baikie and Lieutenant Bourchier, remained for ten days while the vessel returned to Egga, the ivory mart of the Kwara. Having accomplished their mission at Bida, Commander Knowles and the others returned to the ship, and, again descending the river, arrived at Lukoja on the 30th of September. They remained there several days to allow of Dr. Baikie arranging his affairs previous to his return to England, and then, leaving Lieutenant Bourchier, proceeded down the Kwara on their return voyage, arriving at the Nun mouth of the Niger on the 18th of October, after an absence of fifty days, without the loss of a man, and with all the officers and ship's company in good health. King Masaba had expressed much regret at the departure of Dr. Baikie, whose friendship he had valued most highly; but he promised to entertain the same feelings towards Lieutenant Bourchier, and begged that an English trade might be established in his dominions. He wished to send a pair of camels and an ostrich as a present to Queen Victoria, but it was impossible to make room for them in the ship. He sent, however, a four-horned sheep from Bornou, a piece of very handsome native cloth made of raw silk, and other curiosities, as tokens of his regard for her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain. The Investigator, after leaving the Niger, proceeded to Lagos, where the officers and crew suffered much from fever and other sickness, while Dr. Baikie, who had gone to Sierra Leone, died there on Nov. 30. Mr. Thomas Valentine Robins, an artist who accompanied this expedition up the Niger, made a series of very interesting sketches, one of which is engraved, by permission, for our Journal.

The subject of this sketch is the procession of the officers on their way to Bida, to visit King Masaba, of Nupe, by whom the horses and an escort had been sent down to convey Lieutenant-Commander Knowles, Dr. Baikie, and their suite to the city. On the right of the view are seen some curiously-shaped mounds. These are ants'-nests, which sometimes attain the height of 12 ft. or 14 ft., and are very singular in their appearance and construction. The city of Bida is situated in a valley surrounded by table-topped hills of from 80 ft. to 150 ft. in height. It is defended by a wall of 14 ft. in height and ten miles in circumference, with nine gates of entrance. Within this large inclosure are fields and grazing spaces for cattle. The houses are built of mud, of a circular form, with conical roofs, thatched with palm-leaves. They are built in clusters, each cluster being inclosed within a mud wall, and with a courtyard belonging to each compound. The population of the city is about 50,000 to 60,000 inhabitants. The King and Chiefs are Mohammedans, while the natives are heathens, but do not practise the debasing forms of worship so prevalent on the African seacoast.

A handsome testimonial has been presented to Prince Gortschakoff by the Russian navy in memory of his diplomatic triumph over the Western Powers in 1863. The testimonial is in the shape of a Corinthian column, at the foot of which are inscribed the dates of the Prince's three famous despatches (April 14, July 1, and Aug. 26). The column rests on four rocks armed with cannon. On the pedestal is represented the Pervenetz, the first iron-plated vessel built by the Russian Government for the defence of Cronstadt.

The Consul-General for the negro republic of Liberia, Mr. Gerard Ralston, and the Portuguese Ambassador, Count Lavradio, have just signed a treaty of commerce between the two States which contains the following clause:—"Art. 10.—As, by the laws of the kingdom of Portugal and of the republic of Liberia, the slave trade is assimilated to piracy, the vessels or subjects of both the aforesaid countries that may be found employed in this infamous trade shall be tried and punished by the courts of their respective countries according to the aforesaid laws." It is remarkable that the two negro republics of Hayti and Liberia were the first States which set the example of introducing this provision into an international treaty of commerce, though England, America, and other States have long declared the slave trade to be piracy by their statute law and several of the Powers have made special treaties for the suppression of the slave trade. The Republic of Liberia, as our readers are probably aware, owed its existence to the efforts of the American Colonisation Society, which has from time to time, since it was established, some forty years ago, sent out large numbers of emancipated negroes from the United States, and settled them on the coast of Africa, to form an independent political community. The President now is Mr. Warner since the death of the late President Benson, who was an able and enlightened man. The population is about half a million, chiefly speaking English. Their little capital city, named Monrovia, is a place of some trade, and furnished with churches, schools, colleges, newspapers, and other civilised institutions, besides being the seat of Government, with a Senate and House of Representatives holding session there. This Republic has no standing army, but all its citizens, except clergymen and judges, are bound to serve in the militia, to which the Emperor of the French has presedted 1500 muskets; while the sole vessel of the Liberian navy, a schooner of five guns, is a gift from the Queen of Great Britain. It is gratifying to hear good accounts of this experiment of self-government for the negro race.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

History of Friedrich II. of Prussia, called Frederick the Great. By Thomas Carlyle. (Chapman and Hall.) The fifth and sixth volumes of Mr. Carlyle's great work have now been issued, and the biographer's toilsome but, one would say, not to him unpleasant operations have been brought to a close. Henceforth, it may be presumed, no one will dream of writing in the English language a history of Frederick the Great. It has been written for all time—in the spirit, perhaps, of a partisan, but with a frankness which common partisanship never dares to exhibit; with a scorn of concealment and palliation which would seem audacious if it were not so evidently spontaneous and honest; with a graphic power of description which is as charming as it is marvellous; with a conscientious striving after accuracy which should be an example to others; with a minuteness of detail which is less irksome than useful; and in a style which is perfectly unique, which occasionally startles the reader, and which is sometimes so grotesque and familiar that one can fancy the Muse of History blushing for the rudeness of her disciple. It will accord better with our notions of what is due to Mr. Carlyle's dignity to postpone to a more convenient season the full review which his great work demands than to squeeze what we have to say into the small space just now at our command.

An Editor off the Line; or, Wayside Musings and Reminiscences. By Edward Miall. (Arthur Miall, Bouverie-street.) This pleasant and wholesome little book is made up of the unstudied reflections which have beguiled the author's many solitary walks in the neighbourhood of his residence a few miles southward of our great city. Mr. Miall, as a brilliant and graceful writer on public affairs, and an ex-M.P., is well known to the majority of newspaper-readers, but as a moralist, in the vein of "The Country Parson," he recommends himself no less by these thoughtful essays to those who care for quiet and good-humoured discussion of the interests of private and domestic life. He has a keen faculty of observation, and tells a good story with much vivacity and graphic skill, while he is always disposed to look kindly and hopefully upon the ways of mankind, and reverentially upon the ways of Divine Providence, in which he finds reason for all that exists.

The Principal Ruins of Asia Minor; illustrated and described by Charles Texier, M.I.F., and R. Popplewell Pullan, F.R.I.B.A. (Day and Son.) This is in every respect a noble book, of which it is almost impossible to give an idea by description; it must be seen to be appreciated. The explanatory preface is well worth reading by those who take an interest in modern architecture, and is a good introduction to the series of elegant plates, engraved by the best French hands, and to the descriptive letterpress contained between the covers of the large and handsome volume. Due justice is done to the efforts of Messrs. F. C. Penrose and Watkiss Lloyd, who studied to good purpose those styles of architecture of which some poet (Darwin, we believe) wrote, > first, unadorned

> And nobly plain, the manly Doric rose;
> The Ionic, then, with decent maiden grace,
> Her airy pillar heaved; luxuriant, last,
> The rich Corinthian raised her wanton wreath, and developed the system of Greek proportion. Now proportion, it it said, is ignored in modern architecture, and the consequence is that our buildings are, in very many instances, eyesores. With the hope of restoring proportion to its proper place in public regard, M. Texier and Mr. Pullan have given everybody who cares to take advantage of it an opportunity of observing the excellent results of the system of proportion discoverable in the Grecian ruins of Asia Minor.

The Achromatic Microscope. By Richard Beck. (John Van Voorst.) Some people look upon the microscope as a sort of scientific toy, played with chiefly by misanthropes, who take a sardonic pleasure in discovering by its means disagreeable facts, and in gloating over such hideous exhibitions as that presented in plate xxiv. of Mr. Beck's book, where we are informed that fig. 1 represents "the thorax, legs, and parts of head, as seen on the upper side of demodex folliculorum, a parasite found in the follicles of the human skin, more especially about the nose." The mere engraving is sufficient to make a cynic howl with ill-natured laughter, and to cause Beauty, conscious of follicles, to hide her face for vexation. Other people regard the microscope as something similar to a magic lantern—as a machine kept for display at the Polytechnic, and other establishments where the amusements are of a sober, not to say depressing, character—as a means of impressing upon children's minds the really formidable nature of those apparently contemptible vermin whose destruction is considered in some quarters a deed so patriotic as to entitle their destroyer-in-chief to a seat in the British Parliament. But the name of Darwin alone is enough to banish all ridiculous associations which puerile misuse of the noble instrument has caused to be connected with it. What we owe to the microscope should be told by the naturalist, the anatomist, the medical practitioner. Now it is scarcely possible to think of the microscope without thinking of the firm of Smith, Beck, and Beck. And Mr. Richard Beck has with infinite pains prepared this treatise which we have before us, with the very useful purpose of giving "by a clear and concise description, combined with superior illustrations, the most complete directions for the use of achromatic microscopes and the accessory apparatus."

Stray Leaves from the Diary of an Indian Officer. (Whitfield, Green, and Son.) Readers must not expect to find here any harrowing account of the Indian mutiny, to sup their fill of horrors, to be thrilled once more by shocking tales of the Cawnpore massacre, to shudder once more at fabulous stories of highways strewn with little shoes on hewn-off little feet. For, though the author held a commission in a regiment which was amongst the first to mutiny, we are given to understand that he had served his time and retired before the mild Hindoo grew savage with biting greased cartridges. The book contains a great deal about India and a little about Australia; there is gossip, some of it lively; there are anecdotes and narratives of adventure; and there are descriptions, interspersed with quotations from received authorities, of the Temple of Juggernath and of the celebrated mausoleum called the Taj. The Taj should be seen, we are told, under the influences which give additional beauty to "fair Melrose"—that is to say, if you would see the Taj aright, you must "go visit it by the pale moonlight;" and it must then—if the coloured frontispiece may to any small extent be trusted as a fair representation—be a magnificent sight. The book may be read, on the whole, with a certain amount of gratification.

Bitter Sweets. By Joseph Hatton. (Tinsley.) The author shows descriptive power and undeniable glibness. He has a tendency, however, towards the melodramatic, and he introduces too much of the more revolting phases of life; the low music-hall and its fast frequenters of both sexes are tolerable only in small instalments; a great deal of them is quite insufferable, and gives an air of coarseness to the whole picture. Joe Whittle is occasionally amusing, especially when he talks to Harkaway, but Mr. Hatton's humour appears to us to be generally confined to misspelling. The author saves us the trouble of criticising the construction of his story, for he himself tells us what he imagines the critics will say about it, and we are able to inform him that, in our case, his imagination has not misled him. The story is desultory, and the plot is inartistically managed.

Cressy and Poictiers. By J. G. Edgar. (S. O. Beeton.) English boys lost a friend when premature death overtook Mr. J. G. Edgar. But he left behind him an addition to those works with which the young cannot fail to be delighted. "Cressy and Poictiers; or, the Story of the Plack Prince's Page" is an historical romance well adapted, both by the events with which it has to do and by the manner and language in which the events are described, to satisfy the cravings of the boyish mind. Knightly deeds, and grand phrases, and antiquated expressions, and quaint modes of address are ever charming to the majority of boys; and Mr. Edgar knew well how to mingle them. The book, moreover, is sightly and is "illustrated with numerous engravings, principally from designs by Robert Dudley and Gustave Doré."

Tales Illustrative of the Beatitudes. By Harriet Power. (Hatchard and Co.) The nature of this volume will be readily surmised. The third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth verses of the fifth chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel are taken as texts, upon each of which a sermon is not preached but a story is based. The stories are by no means of an exciting character, and they were probably not intended to be. The author's object is, of course, beyond praise; but whether it could not have been attained, if it have been attained, without killing somebody (if our memory can be trusted) in every tale, is a question which we do not feel competent to answer; but we can testify to the lowering effect upon the spirits of a succession of deaths and death-bed scenes. Som people seem to think low spirits and mourning costume indispensable concomitants of piety; but, so far as one can judge of a fellow-creature, a good man is sometimes out of mourning and even in high spirits. That there should be sweet characters in the book is a necessary consequence of the method adopted, whereby at least one person in each story must be conspicuous for at least one Christian virtue which leavens the whole lump of humanity; but it is distressing to find that, after eighteen hundred and sixty-four years of Christianity, the blessed either die young, before they can be said to have realised any part of their blessedness, or can only, by a very great effort and by subtle argument, convince themselves that, whereas they are apparently harassed by regrets and longings, they are really in the enjoyment of blessedness.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

THE EARL OF DESART.

The Right Hon. John Otway O'Connor Cuffe, third Earl of Desart, Viscount Desart, Viscount Castle Cuffe, and Baron of Desart, in the county of Kilkenny, in the Peerage of Ireland, and a Representative Peer for Ireland, was the only son of John Otway, second Earl of Desart, by his wife, Catherine, eldest daughter and coheir of Maurice Nugent O'Connor, Esq., of Mount Pleasant, King's County, and now widow (by her second marriage) of Rose Lambart Price, Esq. He was born on Oct. 12, 1818, and, on the premature death of his father, Nov. 23, 1820, succeeded to the family honours, when only two years old. He was educated at Christ Church, Oxford. He was, in June, 1842, returned to the House of Commons for the borough of Ipswich, but was unseated by a Committee in the August following. He became a member of the Upper House, in 1846, by being elected a Representative Peer of Ireland. He was, from March to December, 1852, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies. The Earl married, June 28, 1842, Lady Elizabeth Lucy Campbell, third daughter of John Frederick, first Earl Cawdor, and sister of John Frederick Vaughan, second and present Earl Cawdor (who was a Lady of the Bedchamber to the Queen nearly twenty years, from 1845 to 1864, and who survives her husband), by whom he leaves, with an only daughter, Lady Alice Mary, married to the Hon. John Major Henniker, eldest son of John, present Lord Henniker, three sons—William Ulick O'Connor, Viscount Castle Cuffe, his successor; Hamilton John Agmondesham; and Otway Frederick Seymour. The Earl died, on the 1st inst., from the effects of an accidental fall on the staircase at his town house, in Eaton-square. This sad mischance caused a general feeling of public regret, and, while the estimable nobleman still lingered, inquiries were most numerous. Her Majesty, on his death, wrote an affectionate letter of condolence to his widow. The Earl is succeeded by his eldest son, William Ulick O'Connor, Viscount Castle Cuffe, now fourth Earl of Desart, who was born July 10, 1845, was formerly a Page of Honour to the Queen, and is now a Lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards. The funeral of the deceased Earl of Desart took place, on the 7th inst., at Castleinch, near Kilkenny. All the gentry of the neighbourhood attended; and the tenantry, wearing hatbands and scarves, followed the corpse. His Lordship is greatly lamented in the county of Kilkenny, where (at Desart) the family has been seated for much over a century. The Earls of Desart are of old Northamptonshire origin. Their immediate ancestor, Hugh Cuffe, Esq., settled in Ireland temp. Elizabeth, and obtained estates there. His descendants, supporting Cromwell and afterwards King William, increased their property and position; and John Cuffe, Esq., M.P., was created Lord Desart in 1733; his grandson became Earl of Desart in 1793, and was grandfather of the Earl just deceased.

SIR WILLIAM ALEXANDER MAXWELL, BART.

Sir William Alexander Maxwell, eighth Baronet, of Calderwood, in the county of Lanark, who died, on the 4th inst., at 27, Adelaide-crescent, Brighton, was the eldest son of the distinguished General, Sir William Maxwell, the seventh Baronet, by his wife, Isabella, daughter and heiress of Henry Wilson, Esq., of Newbottle, in the county of Durham. He was born April 30, 1793, and succeeded his father as eighth Baronet on March 16, 1837. He was formerly in the Army, and served in the 1st Dragoons, and became a Colonel in 1851, and retired from the service in 1853. He married, June 15, 1847, Catherine Cameron, fifth daughter of Walter Logan, Esq., of Fingalton, Lanarkshire, and widow of Captain H. P. Gill, of the 50th Regiment, by whom he leaves no issue. He is succeeded by his next surviving brother, now Sir Hugh Bates Maxwell, the ninth Baronet, who was born Feb. 14, 1797; and married, in May, 1827, Mary Ann Barbara, only daughter of John Hunter, Esq., of Lisburne, and has a son, William, born in 1828. This family of Maxwell is one of the most ancient and noted in Scotland. It was founded by Maccus, son of Unwyn, in 1116, from whom, through a long line of historic knights and gentlemen, descended the first Baronet, Sir James Maxwell, who was so created March 28, 1627, and who was the collateral ancestor of the Baronet just dead.

GENERAL SIR J. W. GUISE, BART.

General Sir John Wright Guise, third Baronet, of Highnam, in the county of Gloucester, G.C.B., Colonel of the 85th Regiment of Foot, a distinguished military officer, who died on the 1st inst., at his seat, Elmore Court, Gloucestershire, was the second son of Sir John Guise, the first Baronet, by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Thomas Wright, Esq., brother and heir of Sir Martin Wright, Knight. He was born on July 20, 1777. He entered the British Army in 1794, and served during the campaign in Holland, and was present at the landing of the British troops in Egypt, under Sir Ralph Abercombie, and took part in the subsequent actions. Guise commanded the right battalion of the Guards in the Peninsular campaigns, and in that capacity took part in the Battle of Busaco. He subsequently commanded the rear-guard covering the retreat to the lines round Lisbon, and shared in every action in which the brigade was engaged till the conclusion of the war. At the Battle of Fuentes d'Onor his name was honourably mentioned in despatches by the Duke of Wellington. At the passage of the Adour, previous to the sortie from Bayonne, Guise, having 350 men only under his command, consisting of the Rocket Brigade and the left wing of his battalion, was separated from the main body of the army, and was attacked by an overwhelming force of the enemy. He ordered his men to reserve their fire till the French were within forty paces, when, by a well-directed volley and the skilful employment of a new arm in warfare, the enemy were driven panic-stricken from the field. At the sortie from Bayonne, Sir John Hope being made prisoner and General Stopford wounded, the command of the British forces devolved upon Guise. He received the gold medal for the battles of Fuentes d'Onor Salamanca, Vittoria, and Nive; and was made a C.B. He was subsequently raised to the rank of K.C.B.; and, in 1862, he was made a G.C.B. He was also Colonel of the 85th Regiment of Foot. By a warrant of the Queen, dated Jan. 12, 1863, "in order," as it is stated, "to give a testimony of the Royal approbation of the services of Sir John Guise," were granted, to him and to the heirs male of his body, the supporters which were assigned to him as a G.C.B. Sir John Guise succeeded, July 23, 1834, as third Baronet, his brother, Sir Berkeley William Guise (formerly M.P. for Gloucestershire). He married, on Aug. 12, 1815, Charlotte Diana, youngest daughter of the late John Vernon, Esq., of Clontarf Castle, in the county of Dublin, by whom he has left, with three other sons and a daughter, Jane Elizabeth, wife of J. Wingfield Stratford Esq., an eldest son and successor, now Sir William Vernon Guise, the fourth Baronet, who was born Aug. 9, 1816, and married, June 27, 1844, Margaret Anna Maria, eldest daughter of the Rev. D. H. Lee Warner, of Walsingham Abbey, Norfolk, and has issue. The Baronet just deceased was the senior General officer in her Majesty's Army. The family of Guise, Lords of the honour of St. Valery in Normandy before the Conquest, were of the blood of the old Dukes of Normandy. The family came to England with the Conqueror, and settled first in Bedfordshire and afterwards, tempore Henry VIII., in Gloucestershire, where it has flourished and held high position ever since, down to the present time.

COLYEAR-DAWKINS.

Mrs. Colyear-Dawkins, whose death took place on the 29th ult., was Maria, daughter of General Gordon Forbes, Colonel of the 29th Regiment, by his wife, Margaret, sister of Sir Richard Sullivan, Bart., and was married (she was his second wife) to the late James Colyear-Dawkins, eldest son of Henry Dawkins, Esq., of Over Norton, Oxon, by his wife, Lady Julia Colyear, daughter of Charles, second Earl of Portmore, K.T. Mr. James Colyear-Dawkins sat in Parliament for Chippenham many years, and assumed the additional surname of Colyear on succeeding to the estates of his relative, the last Earl of Portmore.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will of his Excellency Don Juan de Mata Sevillano Fraile, Duke de Sevillano, Marquis de Fuentes de Duero, late of the city of Madrid, was proved in her Majesty's Court of Probate, last month, under £140,000 personalty in England, by two of the executors—being his two daughters, the Countess of Goyeneche and the Countess Dowager de la Vego del Pozo. The will is translated from the Spanish, and was attested by eight witnesses. It commences by stating that, upon the decease of his late wife, the Duchess de Sevillano, he divided the property which she left into three parts, giving to each of his two daughters a third part and retaining the remaining third himself; and he appoints his two daughters the residuary legatees of his property. Availing himself of the powers conceded to him by the laws and customs of the country, it is his will that his daughter the Countess Dowager de la Vego del Pozo succeed to his title of Marquis de Fuentes de Duero. Amongst his property is the new palace of Vicalvasa, with the vineyards, estates, and land. His olive-fields, mills, and farm she leaves, in equal portions, to his nephew and niece. There are considerable sums left to the Roman Catholic Church.

The will of Lieutenant-General Sir Scudamore Winde Steel, K.C.B., of Gloucester-terrace, Hyde Park, was proved in the London Court on the 5th inst., by the executors nominated for England—viz., John Francis Holcombe Read, Esq., of Elm House, Walthamstow, and Joseph Hornsby Wright, Esq., of Abbey-road, St. John's-wood—the executors for the East Indies being Messrs. Binney and Co., of Madras. The personalty in England was sworn under £4000. The testator's property lies chiefly in India, and in the funds of that country. He was a Lieutenant-General in her Majesty's Indian Army and Colonel of the 1st European Fusiliers; was formerly in the Madras Native Infantry; has served with distinction in India and Burmah, had been Military Secretary to the Government at Madras. The gallant General, who died on the 11th of March last, attained the age of seventy-six, having executed his will in September, 1864. The legacies are liberal, and are made to his son, daughter, son-in-law, and to grandchildren, great part of which is chargeable upon his property in India, as well as an annuity for life to a pensioner in Madras. To his executors—Mr. Read, £200; and Mr. Wright, £100. The residue of his property he leaves to his son, John Steel, an officer in the Indian Army.

The will of Richard Smith, Esq., late of Whalley Range, Withington, Manchester, was proved, in the London Court, under £120,000 personalty, the executors nominated being Mrs. Anne Smith, the relict; and the testator's sons, Richard Smith and James M'Laren Smith, Esqrs. The testator died on the 13th of January last. His will bears date 1863, with three codicils. To his relict he leaves an annuity of £1000, together with the carriages, horses, furniture, and all household effects, absolutely. To his sons, Richard and James, legacies of £12,000 each, and the residue equally between them. To his grandson, William Pitcairn Knowles, jun., on his attaining twenty-five years, two legacies—£16,000 and 36,000 florins. There are several small legacies, and his pensioners are to be paid up for another year.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

Mr. Charles T. Newton's concluding lecture on the recent acquisitions to the British Museum, given on Thursday, the 6th inst., was devoted to the marbles purchased from the King of Naples' collection at the Farnese Palace at Rome, and represented on the wall of the theatre by three large spirited drawings. The first considered was a statue of a young athlete, presumed to have been victorious in the Olympic games, binding a fillet or tiara round his head. It is believed to be a Greek copy of the celebrated Diadumenos of Polykleitos, and was probably sculptured about 300 B.C. Mr. Newton regretted that, while able to contemplate the majesty of the works of Phidias in the Elgin marbles, we could only judge of the works of his contemporaries in copies, which, however, permit us to recognise the living power shown in the Discobolos of Myron, and the dignified repose and beautiful proportion of the Diadumenos of Polykleitos. Mr. Newton reminded his audience of the sacred character of the ancient games, stating that the statues of the victors, such as the one he was describing, were generally deposited in temples. The Farnese Mercury was next considered, and the peculiarities pointed out which distinguish it from the Mercury at Lansdowne House and that at the Vatican. The lecture was concluded with a notice of the equestrian statue, said to be of Caligula, which has been so very much restored as to deprive it of much of its value. Its date is probably of the time of the Antonines; and it may be considered a fair representation of the Roman sculpture of the second century, which was of a very inferior character. [Our readers will find details respecting these interesting additions to the national collection in various numbers of the Fine-Arts Quarterly Review.]

Dr. A. W. Hofmann, F.R.S., gave the Friday evening discourse on the 7th inst., his subject being "The Combining Power of the Atoms of the Elements." His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the vice-patron, was in the chair. Dr. Hofmann began by showing that the direct combination of the gases hydrogen and chlorine produced hydrochloric acid, a compound which, when saturated with either of its constituent elements, was not susceptible of further increment; but he stated that, by means under the command of chemists, it was able to receive successive additions of oxygen gas, atom by atom, producing a remarkable series of acids of an explosive character ending in perchloric acid. Other instances derived from organic chemistry were then adduced to prove this property of oxygen of being added by steps without necessitating the addition of any other element. Nitrogen gas, however, behaves differently. Ammonia gas consists of three atoms of hydrogen and one of nitrogen; but another atom of nitrogen cannot be added without entailing the simultaneous addition of an atom of hydrogen, as shown by some formulæ of the compound ammonias. After exhibiting the properties of marsh gas—a compound of four atoms of hydrogen and one of carbon—Dr. Hofmann stated that the introduction of carbon into a compound necessitated a similar addition of hydrogen or chlorine. This gives rise to other various illuminating gases and other important and interesting substances. The simplest compounds of hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, and chlorine (hydrochloric acid, HCl; water, H_2O; ammonia, H_3N; and marsh gas, H_4C) were then examined and their composition explained; whence it was deduced that the combining power of the element hydrogen is 1; of oxygen, 2; of nitrogen, 3; and of carbon, 4. This law introduces order and harmony into the vast and increasing collection of isolated facts which constitute organic chemistry. The discourse was amply illustrated by experiments exhibiting the great variety of substances, consisting of gases, essences, and flavours, brilliant dyes, alcohols, &c., resulting from the almost innumerable variety of compounds formed by modern chemists; and also by ingeniously-devised models, simplifying to the mind the method by which these complex bodies are formed.

Professor Marshall concluded his course of lectures on the nervous system on Saturday last, the 8th inst. He referred again to the correspondence between the size and complexity of the brain and the amount of intelligence; and noticed, also, the probable influence of chemical composition, evidenced by the existence of more fatty matter in the brain of the higher than in that of the lower animals, and of more phosphorus in the brain of a full-grown, healthy man than in that of an infant, or aged person. He gave a brief history of the attempts to localise organs of mental and moral faculties in the brain, from the time of Aristotle downwards, and set forth the anatomical, physiological, and metaphysical objections to the dogmas of phrenology. He next explained an elaborate diagram containing a scheme of mental processes, commencing with sensations giving rise to consciousness, which, passing through thought and emotion, issues in volition. He expressed his reasons for conjecturing that possibly the faculty of retention might be seated in the whole of the brain; that of comparison in the two cerebral hemispheres; and that of combination in the fibres connecting these two; and that the base of the brain might be the seat of consciousness. In conclusion, he expressed his own opinion that if sensation be regarded as a property of matter the notion must not necessarily be considered to favour Materialism; but the question is enveloped in mystery.

The Friday evening meetings will be resumed on the 28th inst., when Dr. Lyon Playfair, C.B., will give a discourse "On the Food of Man in Relation to his Useful Work." The succeeding discourses will probably be delivered by Professor Henry Fawcett, Mr. Frederick Field, Mr. Huggins, Dr. Bence Jones, and Professors Huxley and Frankland. On Tuesday, the 25th inst., Professor Frankland will commence a course of twelve lectures on Organic Chemistry; and on the 29th inst., Professor Bain will commence a course of three lectures on the Physical Accompaniments of Mind.

Mr. Serjeant Burke appeared before the Committee for Privileges of the House of Lords yesterday week, to support the Marquis of Lansdowne's claim to vote, as Earl of Kerry and as Earl of Shelburne, in the election of Representative Peers for Ireland. The Attorney-General appeared for the Crown. The case was adjourned to supply some slight further proof necessary.——At the same Committee, additional evidence was put in in the Wiltes and De Scales peerage cases, Mr. Fleming appearing for the claimants.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

COMTE F., Munich.—It shall be reported on next week.

THEO. E.—Look to the list in our last.

H. H. STOCKTON.—Castling is not allowed in a problem.

H. H. C. MAJOR.—The first is defective, because White may equally effect mate by 2. Kt to K Kt 4th, followed by 3. R to K B 8th, &c. The second appears to be correct, and is ingenious.

I. PHENIX.—Nos. 1 and 2 are defective still. They require complete remodelling.

TINEY.—Certainly not. A Pawn capturing a Pawn in the position described is quite a novelty.

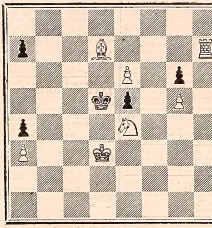
MATEO DE ZAMORA.—Received; but see the notice to "T. C. N." in our last.

C. W. T.—"Sarrott" was, of course, a typographical error for Sarratt, the well-known chess teacher of Lewis, and the founder of the modern English chess school.

PRESIDENT.—With so little space at command for chess, and with so many claims upon it, we cannot possibly undertake to publish long analytical articles. Besides, in the case you speak of, it is quite needless for us to do so, as the author of the "Mortimer" attack, in the Evans' Gambit has published, in the April number of the Chess World, a completely-exhaustive analysis of his variation.

EQUES, Cambridge.—The termination—a veritable repetition of Lucena's "smothered mate"—is interesting as occurring in an actual game. Unhappily, the play which leads up to it, on the defending side, is all too weak for publication.

SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM NO. 1101 by Egmont, D.D., M.P., Annie, Jaques, 1865, Sigma, F. P., L. M. E., Presis, Charley, Iota, Cosmos, R. D. F., Lucy, N. B., Old Joe, Box and Cox, A Swede, F. R. A., Peter, Larry, Delta, I. B. Cox, W. W. D., Derevon, E. H., B. M. K., Dolly, The Chief, A Bath Archer, Conway, Ludovic, Felix, B. C. G., Frank, Wills, Major S., Teddy, Nereus, Achaffen; H. W., Oxford; C. T. Posno, Lobro, Argus, H. T., L. S. D., Fanny, Mitre, C. B. M., Lincoln, Sandy, B. B., George Locksley, Edmund, and Delta are correct. All others are wrong.



SOLUTION OF PROBLEM NO. 1102.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. R to Q Kt 7th	Q to K 2nd (best)
2. Q to Q B 6th (ch)	R to Q B 2nd
3. R to Q Kt 8th (ch)	K takes R
4. Q mates.

PROBLEM No. 1103.

By Mr. PHENIX.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

CHESS IN WORCESTERSHIRE.

A pleasant little Game just played between two of the best players in Worcestershire, Messrs. ZACHARY and PARROTT.—(K's Bishop's Gambit.)

BLACK (Mr. P.)	WHITE (Mr. Z.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P
3. B to Q B 4th	Q to K R 5th (ch)
4. K to B sq	P to K Kt 4th
5. Kt to Q B 3rd	B to K Kt 2nd
6. P to Q 4th	Kt to K 2nd
7. P to K Kt 3rd	P takes P
8. K to Kt 2nd	P to Q 3rd
9. P takes P	Q to K Kt 5th
10. B to K 2nd
(An odd-looking but a very good move, as we shall presently find.)
10.	Q to Q 2nd
11. B takes K Kt P	P to Q R 3rd
12. Kt to Q 5th	Kt takes Kt
13. P takes Kt	Q to K B 4th
14. Kt to K B 3rd	Q takes Q P
15. P to Q B 4th	Q to Q B 3rd
16. P to Q 5th	Q to Q 2nd
(White's game is hopeless, for the Queen again at her second square effectually bars the action of all the pieces on that side, and without the assistance of those forces he is playing one man against three.)
17. Q to Q B 2nd	P to K B 3rd
18. R takes K R P
(The coup juste.)
18.	P takes B
19. Q to K Kt 6th (ch)	K to B sq
(Q to K B 2nd would have been less disastrous.)
20. Kt takes K Kt P	R takes R
21. R to K B sq (ch)	K to K 2nd
22. R to K B 7th (ch), and wins.

CHESS IN AMERICA.

An instructive Game between Mr. ELDER and Mr. H. BURY.—(Petroff's Defence.)

WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Mr. E.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd
3. Kt takes P	P to Q 3rd
4. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt takes P
5. P to Q 4th	P to Q 4th
6. B to Q 3rd	B to K 3rd
7. P to Q B 4th	P to Q B 3rd
8. Q to Q B 2nd	P to K B 4th
9. Kt to Q B 3rd	B to K 2nd
10. Castles	Castles
11. P takes P	P takes P
12. Q to Q Kt 3rd	Kt takes Kt
13. P takes Kt
(If he had taken the Q Kt Pawn, Black might have played Kt to Q R 5th; and, if White then took the Q Rook, he would be unable to extricate his Queen.)
13.	Q to Q B sq
14. R to K sq	Kt to Q B 3rd
15. B to K Kt 5th	B to Q 3rd
16. Kt to K R 4th
(He should have played Q R to Q Kt sq, first.)
16.	Q to Q 2nd
17. R to K 2nd	Q R to K sq
18. R to Q Kt sq	Kt to Q R 4th
19. B to Q Kt 5th
(A mistake, which Black adroitly turns to account.)
19.	B tks K R P (ch)
20. K to R sq	Kt takes Q
21. B takes Q	B takes B
22. R takes R	R takes R
23. P takes Kt	B to Q 3rd
24. B to Q 2nd	R to K 7th
25. B to K sq	P to K Kt 3rd
26. Kt to K B 3rd	B to Q B 3rd
27. Kt to K Kt sq	R to Q B 7th
28. Kt to K B 3rd	B to K B 5th
29. P to K Kt 3rd	R to Q B 8th
30. R takes R	B takes R
31. B to Q 2nd	B to Q Kt 7th
32. Kt to K 5th	B to K sq
33. Kt to Q 3rd	B to Q R 8th
34. K to Kt 2nd	P to Q R 4th
35. K to B 3rd	P to Q Kt 4th
36. K to B 4th	P to Q R 5th
37. P takes P	P takes P
38. K to K 5th	B to Q Kt 4th
39. Kt to Q Kt 4th	B to Q B 5th
40. Kt takes Q P	P to Q R 6th
(Very well played.)
41. Kt to Q Kt 4th	B to Q Kt 7th
42. P to Q 5th	P to Q R 7th
43. Kt takes P	B takes Kt and Black wins.

CHESS IN PARIS.

A smart Partie between Mr. KOLISCH and Mr. ST. LEON.

(King's Gambit refused.)

BLACK (Mr. K.)	WHITE (Mr. St. L.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. P to K B 4th	B to Q B 4th
3. Kt to K B 3rd	P to Q 3rd
4. P to Q B 3rd	Q to K 2nd
5. B to Q B 4th	B to K Kt 5th
6. P to Q 4th	P takes Q P
7. Castles	P takes Q B P (dis. ch)
8. K to K R sq	P takes Q Kt P
9. Q B takes P	Kt to K B 3rd
10. Q to Q Kt 3rd	B takes Kt
11. R takes B	Castles
12. Kt to Q B 3rd	P to Q B 3rd
13. P to K 5th	Kt to K Kt 5th
14. P takes Q P	Q to K R 5th
15. P to K R 3rd	Kt to Q 2nd
16. Kt to K 4th	Q R to K sq
17. R to K Kt 3rd
(A very threatening move.)
17.	R takes Kt
18. R takes Kt	R to K 8th (ch)
19. B to K B sq and Black wins.—Le Nain Jaune.

CHESS ENIGMAS.

No. 1451.—By Mr. H. TURTON.

White: K at Q 8th, Q at K Kt 2nd, Kts at K R 8th and Q 5th.
Black: K at K Kt sq, R at K Kt 2nd.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

No. 1452.—By Mr. M'G.

White: K at K Kt 4th, Q at Q R 2nd, R at Q B sq, Kt at K 7th, Ps at K R 6th and K B 2nd.
Black: K at Q 5th, Q at K R 2nd, Rs at Q 6th and Q Kt 7th, B at Q R 8th Kt at Q Kt 5th.—White, playing first, to mate in four moves.

No. 1453.—By Mr. S. A. HARRISON.

White: K at K B 6th, Q at Q B 6th, R at K R sq, B at Q R sq, Ps at K 2nd and Q B 3rd.
Black: K at K R 3rd, B at K R 4th, P at K R 2nd.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

No. 1454.—By Mr. DERMANON (Le Nain Jaune).

White: K at Q Kt 4th, Q at K R 7th, Kt at K B 7th, P at K Kt 2nd.
Black: K at Q 4th, Ps at K Kt 6th and K 3rd.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

On the 18th of January last a new and large comet, near the constellations Grus and Toucan, was discovered in the southern hemisphere by M. Soleman at the Cape, and by Professor Moesta at Santiago, in Chili. From the Cape, Sir Thomas M'Lean reports that the head of the comet was not well defined, due, probably, to the agitation of the air. The splendour he describes as being inferior to that of Donati's comet. Sir Thomas considers that no danger need be apprehended from its proximity to the earth. Professor Moesta, in the Astronomische Nachrichten, No. 1519, gives more details of daily observations. On Jan. 24 the nucleus was more defined, on Jan. 25 the head seemed to have become smaller, and on Jan. 30 the nucleus was surrounded by a fine nebula. By calculations he was enabled to ascertain that the new comet is not the one which appeared in 1843. Mr. Ellery, director of the Observatory at Melbourne, reports that the orbit of this comet bears no striking resemblance to that of any other computed comet. A slight similarity is shown to the comet of 1677 observed by Hevelius, Flamstead, and others, but not sufficient to justify an assumption of identity. Its path in space is inclined eighty-seven degrees to the ecliptic; and the comet appears to have made a pretty close approach to the sun on Jan. 14, and hence to have gained in brilliancy and in the development of the tail. Its distance from the sun's surface at six p.m., Greenwich time, on Jan. 14 was about 2,300,000 miles.

M. Coulvier-Gravier gives the following as the average number of stormy days at Paris in each month, based upon the statistics of the last twenty-five years:—January, 0·4; February, 0·6; March, 1·5; April, 2·9; May, 5·4; June, 6·7; July, 7·4; August, 7; September, 4·3; October, 1·9; November, 1; December, 0·4. The average for the year is 39·3 days.

The electric light sent through Geisler's tubes, so well known in consequence of Mr. Gassiot's brilliant experiments, has been applied as a light under water. M. Paul Gervais has informed the Academy of Sciences at Paris that M. Ruhmkorff so arranged the apparatus that it was successfully used in the port of Cette, giving light for six hours under certain conditions. M. Ruhmkorff is endeavouring at the present time to render the means of producing this portable light in a still more easy and practical manner.

In a letter in the Reader, Mr. J. Broughton, of the Royal Institution Laboratory, argues that increasing the size of a vocal orchestra beyond a certain number produces no augmentation of effect as perceived by an individual hearer. He proves that in the cases of heat and light proceeding from a surface no increase of temperature or illumination can be produced, however large the surface, beyond the intensity of the surface itself, the effect of such increase being merely to augment the distance at which such intensity can be perceived without appreciable loss. The physical laws of which this fact is the consequence are true in the case of sound, whence it follows that the large choirs which are now occasionally employed produce no greater volume of tone than a smaller choir, the only difference being that in the case of a large choir a greater number of hearers perceive the same effect at various distances. Whence it is urged that the only means by which the sound effects can be effectually increased is by employing individual voices of greater power.

The Annals of Natural History begins with an elaborate article, by Dr. J. Young, on the malacostraca of Aristotle, a section characterised by the Greek philosopher as bloodless. Dr. Young's paper is a fitting continuation of the monograph of Mr. G. H. Lewes on Aristotle, which contains analyses giving a just estimate of the value of his scientific researches. This is followed by a paper, by the Rev. Samuel Haughton, on the remarkable muscular mechanism of the leg of the ostrich, derived from details obtained by the dissection of a fine ostrich which died at the Dublin Zoological Gardens last year. We learn that the leg is to be regarded as a long rod bent at four distinct points, which attains its greatest amount of shortening or bending at the moment when the foot touches the ground, and which is suddenly straightened by the simultaneous contraction of all the muscles, the effect being to throw the body forward, as if from a catapult. The paper is illustrated by engravings. We have also a description, by Dr. J. E. Gray, of a species of African toad, which has long slender fingers to its fore feet, and very large webbed hinder feet, some of the toes of which are armed with very distinct horny black claws, a peculiarity of structure quite exceptional amongst batrachians. This is represented in a woodcut. The number contains several other interesting monographs, and continuations by eminent naturalists.

Professor Owen has described in the Geological Magazine for April portions of a jaw of a large extinct fish, probably a cycloid, which he names Stereodus Melitensis, from its having been obtained from the middle beds of the Maltese miocene. The peculiarities of the dentition are given in a woodcut. In a paper in the same number, Mr. D. Mackintosh dwells on the striking evidence of marine denudation manifested in the fantastic shapes of the Brimham rocks, in the West Riding of Yorkshire. He says that ordinary observers are very liable to err in attributing to man what is chiefly or solely due to nature, since many of the cromlechs, and most of the rock basins and rocking-stones referred to human workmanship exhibit the clearest traces of the undermining action of water. The traces of atmospheric action are comparatively trifling. Judging from the general character of these rocks, Mr. Mackintosh sees no reason to suppose that any great fractures have occurred among them since they were undermined by the sea, probably towards the close of the second glacial or ice-floe period.

At a recent meeting of the Academy of Sciences at Paris, M. Charles Ste-Claire Deville made a communication on the latest published observations of M. Coulvier-Gravier on shooting stars, with special relation to their influence in causing variations of temperature. He considers that the two swarms of meteors which appear in the middle of the months of August and November, by interposing themselves between the earth and the sun, absorb a portion of the heat transmitted by the latter, and consequently produce a sensible fall in our temperature. M. Coulvier-Gravier even attributes to these meteors an influence over the direction of the winds and the amount of rain and storms.

Mr. John Spiller has published a note "On the Oxydation of Indiarubber," in the Journal of the Chemical Society. About six years ago he purchased some waterproof felt, which is made by cementing together fibres of cotton wool by means of indiarubber solution or paste. On recent examination, he found that the material had lost its waterproof character. By the agency of benzol he succeeded in obtaining a quantity of altered indiarubber with peculiar properties. At ordinary temperatures it is brittle, highly electric, and soluble in alcohol (especially if warmed), and in chloroform, wood spirit, and benzol. Analyses by Mr. Spiller gave—Carbon, 64; hydrogen, 8·46; oxygen, 27·54. This substance he regards as an oxydation product, formed directly from caoutchouc by absorption of atmospheric oxygen, in much the same manner as resins are formed from essential oils and other hydrocarbons.

At a recent meeting of the Geological Society some further information respecting the caves of Gibraltar was supplied in a note by Lieutenant Charles Warren, in which he described the principal features of St. Michael's Cave, stating that it is a portion of a transverse cleft through the rock and probably opened to view at no very remote historical period. The cave at Poco Roco he considers to be a portion of the fissure which extends from Bell-lane in the town to the village of Catalan Bay, the noise of blasting having been heard through the apparently solid rock. A paper by the late Dr. Hugh Falconer was also read, in which he brought together the few instances on record of the occurrence of mammalian fossil remains in the valley of the Nile, and instituted a comparison between the alluvial deposits of the Nile and those which he had observed in the upper valley of the Ganges. According to certain statements, fossil human bones have been met with in both these sub-tropical valleys. Dr. Falconer considered the facts at some length, and reverted to an opinion expressed by Sir Proby Cautley and himself many years ago—namely, that the Colossochelys Atlas may have lived to an early epoch of the human period and become extinct since; and concluded with some general observations on the vexed question of the antiquity of the human race suggested by more recent discoveries.

The Philosophical Magazine for April begins with a profound mathematical paper, by Professor W. G. Adams, on the application of the principle of the screw to the floats of paddle-wheels—his object being to ascertain, by the comparison of the pressure of a fluid on a float in the form of the surface of a screw with the pressure of the ordinary flat float, so as to discover whether any advantage would be gained by having the floats of paddle-wheels made in the form of a screw surface. This application was conceived and tried by Dr. Croft, who obtained most satisfactory results in his experiments on small working models; and, in all cases, the new was found superior to the old paddle-wheel. The two kinds of floats have also been compared and tested with larger boats with equal success; and the principle is now being applied, under Dr. Croft's directions, to one of her Majesty's steamers.——In a paper "On the Mechanical Energy of Chemical Actions," Dr. Schröder van der Kolk enunciates several laws or theorems, giving the facts and reasons on which he bases them:—1. Bodies which evolve heat when decomposed by elevation of temperature are not reproduced by subsequent cooling. 2. When a body, on heating, passes from one condition to another with evolution of heat, it does not return to its first condition upon subsequent cooling. 3. If heat is absorbed in the case of decomposition caused by elevation of temperature, an action of the opposite kind will occur on subsequent cooling. Some of the statements supporting these principles are critically examined by Mr. G. C. Foster, the translator of the paper.——In the same number Professor Ramsay defends his opinions on the glacial theory of lake basins against the criticism of Sir Charles Lyell, given in his new edition of "The Elements of Geology." The Professor maintains his hypothesis, that as glacier-ice does erode the rocky floor over which it passes, and as it can under circumstances move up slopes, the nature of the erosion will be, and was, dependent upon the angle of the slopes over which it passed; also on the fact that the glaciers sometimes passed from these slopes into low grounds into which the great old glacier-valleys opened, at the mouths of which, where two or more great glaciers met, and where the downward pressure of all the accumulated ice of all the tributary valleys would be greatest, and where the grinding power of ice would be thereby increased; and, lastly, in accordance with physical laws, that as the ice melted and became thinner it must have exercised less erosive power.

NEW MUSIC.

THE QUADRILLE OF THE SEASON.

COOTE'S LARA QUADRILLE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 6s. Post-free at half price. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE VALSE OF THE SEASON.

COOTE'S LARA VALSE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 6s. Post-free at half price. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE ARAB SONG from LARA. The Poetry and Music. Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne. SHIRLEY HICKMAN'S Transcription of "The Arab Song" for the Pianoforte. Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s. Post-free at half price. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SENSATION MAD.—Mr. Sothern's Comic Song. The "Wonderful Woman" Written by J. ASPEY. Illustrated. Price 2s. Post-free for 19 stamps. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

HENRY SMART'S

BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.—A New Ballad, composed and arranged, at the Pianoforte from a new poem. Price, boxed and illustrated wrapper, 2s. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.—Favourite Duet. "Sweet bird, hasten in hearing." 3s. 6d. "Thrice more sail." 3s. "Our home shall be on the bright isle." 3s. 6d.; and the popular Ballad, "Bridge." Arranged as a Trio. 3s. All sent Post-free at half price. METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

ARTHUR LLOYD'S NEW SONGS.—IT'S A LONG WAY TO TIPPERARY and SWEET-HEARTS. Ballad Illustrated. 13 comic each. The above have created a perfect furore. LAMBORN COCK, 7, Rathbone-place, W.

£40 A YEAR. By J. E. ROE. Free for 15 stamps. An elegant drawing-room Comic Song. Easy, telling, and effective. Sung at the Polytechnic. D'ALCORN, 4, Rathbone-place, W.

THEY'VE LAID MY LITTLE DARLING DOWN. By Sung by the Christy Minstrels. Free for 15 stamps. A beautiful plaintive ballad. D'ALCORN, 4, Rathbone-place, W.

ROOTE'S JOLLY DOGS QUADRILLES, Lancers, and Waltz, on popular Melodies of the day, and played at the nobility's balls. Illustrated in colours. Solo, Duet, or Septett. 15 stamps.—D'ALCORN, Rathbone-place, W.

ROOTE'S ORPHEUS GALOP. Founded on Melodies in Offenbach's celebrated Opera. Illustrated. Price 4s. Post-free for 19 stamps. D'ALCORN, Rathbone-place, W.

THE STREETS OF LONDON. By CHARLES H. HALL. Played by the Brinsmead Quintett. Solo or Duet, 24 stamps. Illustrated with a view of the Charing-cross Frontage.—D'ALCORN, Rathbone-place, W.

JOLLY DOGS; We are all Jolly Dogs; Such Fun; Sung by the inimitable Leotard. Also the new and popular Comic Song, Sung by the great Vance at the Crystal Palace and the Strand Music Hall. Free for 15 stamps.—D'ALCORN, 4, Rathbone-place.

Will be published on the 1st of May.

MENDELSSOHN'S OPEN-AIR MUSIC.—Arranged for the Pianoforte. Solo, 16 stamps; Duet, 24 stamps. Illustrated in colours. Now ready, No. 1, Overture, Nocturno, and Wedding March, price 12s. London: NOVELLO and CO., Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S STANDARD GLEE-BOOK. Vol. 1, contains Sixty favourite Glees by English composers, including Arne's Rule Britannia, Callcott's Hail, Smiling Morn, Horsley's Come, Mighty Pan, and Stevens's Bold Archer, price 4s. 6d. London: NOVELLO and CO., 35, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S STANDARD GLEES, in Separate Parts. Parts 1 and 2, contain Glees for 3, 4, 5, 6, and 8, A, 2, T, B, and 5, A, 2, T, B, and 5, A, 2, T, B, Parts 3 and 4, for Men's Voices; each Part, 1s. London: NOVELLO and CO., 35, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S STANDARD GLEE-BOOK. Arabs in their Tents. Sunbeam, each containing Forty Glees price 4s. London: NOVELLO and CO., 35, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK (Second Series) includes Forty-four Part-Songs by J. Barnby, Sir H. Bishop, Sir G. Henry Bourt, Sir Sterndale Bennett, Dr. Blow, Dr. A. Sullivan, and others. Price 4s. 6d. London: NOVELLO and CO., 35, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

Also in cloth, 4s. 6d.; or each song singly, from 1½d. to 6d. London: NOVELLO and CO., 35, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

MUSICAL BOX DEPÔT for the Sale of Improved Musical Instruments in Metal, REMODELED from 3s 6d to 11 and 12 Cornhill, London. A large assortment of all kinds of Musical Boxes, Lists of Tunes and Prices sent free by post.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, opposite the Bank, and 47, Strand, near Charing-cross. Illustrated Price List, with Estimates, Post-free. Queen's pattern, fiddle, thread, or King's pattern.

Fiddle thread or King's pattern.	£ s. d.	Queen's Pattern.	£ s. d.
12 Table Spoons	1 9 0	12 Table Spoons	2 2 0
12 Dessert Ditto	1 1 0	12 Dessert Ditto	1 11 0
12 Tea Ditto	0 12 0	12 Tea Ditto	0 18 0
12 Dessert Ditto	0 7 6	12 Dessert Ditto	0 9 6
1 Gravy Spoon	0 5 0	1 Gravy Spoon	0 7 0
1 Soup Ladle	0 3 6	1 Soup Ladle	0 4 6
1 Sauce Ditto	0 2 6	1 Sauce Ditto	0 3 6
1 Sauce Spoon	0 2 6	1 Sauce Spoon	0 3 6
1 Fish Slice (pierced)	0 10 0	1 Fish Slice (pierced)	0 14 0
1 Fish Slice (plain)	0 10 0	1 Fish Slice (plain)	0 14 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs	0 2 6	1 Pair Sugar Tongs	0 3 6

A pamphlet is published, with 300 Engravings, as a guide in the choice of Electro-plate and Cutlery, containing also a list of prices of spoons, forks, tea and coffee services and table plate, with part-ticulars of the process of manufacture, and the method of testing the best silver-plate. Also Dressing-case, gold and silver-mounted, cutlery, and jewellery. Grists on application, and post-free to any part of the United Kingdom.

By the use of ecarnitions, a work is printed with large lithographic drawings of plans kept ready for presentation.

THE FIVE-GUINEA SERVICE of PLATE in Electro-plate, 12 spoons and forks, manufactured by MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO., 77 and 78, Oxford-street, and 4, Queen's-buildings, Cornhill, is especially suitable for University, Military, and Mercantile and naval officers, as a very useful and appropriate present. Full particulars on application. Manufactory, Sheffield.

MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO., 77 and 78, Oxford-street, City House, 71 and 72, Cornhill. Manufactory, the Royal Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

DINNER, DESSERT, BREAKFAST, TEA, and TOILET SERVICES.—A large assortment of new and elegant patterns, of the best quality, at the lowest possible prices for Ready Money. The stock is well selected, and carefully suited for parties furnishing to choose from.

Purchasers may depend upon taste, low prices.

ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill, E.C. Established 1760.

GARDNERS' LAMPS ARE THE BEST.—MODERATOR and PARAFFIN TABLE LAMPS, from 2s. 6d. each. Every description of Lamp and Gas Fitting. Richard Gardner, Charing-cross (four doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GARDNERS' DINNER-SERVICES, best quality, strong, serviceable, and pure-toned, Staffordshire. Manufactory, Factory to the Queen, 433, Strand, Charing-cross (4 doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

CASELIERS in Crystal, Glass, Ormolu, or Bronze. Mallleted Fittings, &c. A large assortment always in view. Every article marked with plain figures. D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 31 and 32, High Holborn, W.C.

EVANS'S PRIZE KITCHENER.—This well-known Kitchener obtained a prize at the Exhibition of 1862 for its superiority over the Kitchener of 1851 (£1,000 value). Its large size, for hotels, taverns, prisons and public schools, and hospitals, with steam apparatus, from £35 to £100 and upwards. Illustrations sent free. EVANS and GLASSON, Engineers, Liverpool; Manufactory, 19, Arthur-street West, adjoining.

EMIGRATION.—Persons contemplating emigration should see a very superior SHIP, NOW in the RESIDENCE in PRINCE EDWARD'S ISLAND, British North America, which is for Sale, or would be taken in part payment. Both the present owner has retired from the country for years, and expended large sums in buildings and improvements, the property is for Sale, and there is a profitable business. Terms made easy to respectable parties.—Apply, Messrs. H. MILLS, 3, Bank-buildings, E.C.

ROYAL NAVAL, MILITARY, AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (Established 1837), under Royal Patronage), 71, Waterloo-place, London, S.W. ARTHUR S. HAMILTON, Secretary.

Agents wanted in towns not already represented.

QUEEN'S COLLEGE INSTITUTION for LADIES, 47, Harley-street, Cavendish-square. The Rev. C. TEAM opens April 27. Fee for Residents in Upper School, 60 guineas per annum; for Residents in Middle School, 45 guineas per annum; fee for Residents in Elementary School, 30 guineas per annum. Prospectuses may be had on application to the Secretary, at the College. Professors and Masters attend for Music, Singing, Pianoforte and harp pedestrians, address Mrs. MORLE, Lady Principal, 47, Harley-street.

LIMPLEY STOKE, NEAR BATH.

HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT. Physician, D. B. DOBELL, M.D. Manager, Mr. C. TOMKINS. Terms and full prospectus may be had on application to the Secretary, CHARLES JUPE and SON, Proprietors.

FOR FAMILY ARMS.—Important to Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Solicitors, Authors, Artists, Army, Navy, and Notices of family every family in England, Scotland, and Ireland, with the Arms, Crests, Mottoes, Origin, Date, and Place of the first known in bearing.—A Book of Reference, containing 100,000 names, and arranged throughout the kingdom. Families desirous of knowing their Arms, Crests, &c., should send their names and address, and 5s., to the Herald's Office, 2, Inner Temple-gate, Fleet-street, fully painted, 10s. Pedigrees traced, with the origin of family name, from the Conquest to the present time; some original Manuscript, 21s. Heraldic and Genealogical Engravings, 5s. 6d.; post-free, by T. CULLETON, Herald and Genealogist, 2, Inner Temple-gate, Fleet-street, Author of the Manuscript Key to Heraldry.

CREST ENGRAVED on SEALS or RINGS, 7s. 6d.; on Steel Die, 6s.; Book-plate, with Armorial Crest, Engraved, 7s. 6d.; Arms Painted and Quartered, 12s.; Pedigree Traced, 2s. 6d. per generation. Heraldic Engravings, 5s. 6d. per line. Prices of Wax, 9d. Cranbourn-st. (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

SOLID GOLD RINGS, 18-carat, Hall-marked, Fashionable Shapes, 10s. 6d. each; Sizes for same, Chased, and Motto, 12s. 6d. The Hall mark is a guarantee for pure gold. Crests Engraved on Seals or Rings, 7s. 6d. Cranbourn-st. (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

NO CHARGE for Engraving Dies with Arms, or Crest, Monogram, or Address (as charged for by other houses) if we purchase the Seal or Ring. Crests on Rings or Seals, 7s. 6d. Cranbourn-st. (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

A VISITING CARD-PLATE ENGRAVED, and 100 Cards Printed, for 5s.; Arms Painted and Quartered for Card, 10 for 3s.—2, CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

MARK YOUR LINEN with CULLETON'S PATENT ELECTRO-SILVER PLATES. By means of this Invention any person can mark Linen with their Crest or Initials in a few minutes. Crest Plate, 5s.; Name Plate, 3s.; Set of Moveable Numbers, 2s. 6d. Cranbourn-st. (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

120 SHEETS OF NOTE-PAPER for 6d.; or 100 thick Note for 1s.; 120 Sheets Thick, Black-bordered, for 1s.; 100 Sheets Thick, Black-bordered, for 1s. Sent for 14 stamps. A. PACKHAM, 23, Cranbourn-street, Leicester-square.

STRAW WRITING-PAPER (PARKINS and GOTTO'S). Pleasanter to write upon than any other. Has a fresh smooth surface, will adapt itself to the nicest touch, and does not clog the pen. Sold by stationers, by the ream of 20 quires, 10s. 6d.; 10 quires, 5s. 3d.; 5 quires, 2s. 6d. Sample sheets free by post. PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, Oxford-street, W.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS, to last for years, to board in any manner required, from 10s. 6d. each, elegantly mounted in great variety, at moderate prices. A choice of 300.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, Oxford-street, W.

PURSES, pocket-books, cigar-cases, card-cases, wallets, opera-glasses, desk-and-letter blotters and all travelling requisites, in great variety, at PARKINS and GOTTO'S, 24, Oxford-street, W. Every article bearing their name is warranted of the best quality. Illustrated Catalogues sent free by post.

15,000 BIBLES, PRAYER-BOOKS, and TESTAMENTS, in every variety of size and binding, at PARKINS and GOTTO'S Stereo Warehouse, 24, Oxford-street.

500 DRESSING-CASES and DRESSING-BAGS, fitted with every requisite, from the most complete manner for ladies or gentlemen. DESPATCH-BOXES, INKSTANDS, WRITING-DESKS, and TRAVELLING-BAGS, in every variety. Illustrated Catalogues sent free by post. Lowest possible PRICES.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-st., London.

OS. PRIZE WRITING-CASE, fitted with Paper, Envelopes, Blotting-book, Pencil, and Pen, sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom upon receipt of 30 stamps.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, Oxford-street, London, W.

DANCE PROGRAMMES (Perfumed); Invitation and At-Home Note-paper; Bottom Tracks; Dance Programme Cards, Pencils, and Tablets. Illustrated Catalogues sent free by post.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, Oxford-st.

COLOURED STAMPING REDUCED TO 1s. per 100. No charge for plain stamping paper and envelopes with the Crest, Initials, or Address. Steel Dies Engraved. Cards of best make, PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, London.

MONOGRAM, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES.—Arms Painted and Engraved by Artists of the first eminence. No charge for plain stamping; coloured stamping reduced to 1s. per 100. Cards, Envelopes, and Note-paper of the best quality at wholesale prices.

CROQUET.—Nice Present to Children. T. PARKINS and SON, 22, Leicester-square, W.C., London, next into the nursery, carriage-paid on receipt of P. O. order for 10s. 6d. Address, T. PARKINS and SON, 22, Leicester-square, London, W.C.

CROQUET.—PARKINS and GOTTO'S.—The largest stock in London, from 1ls. to 3 guineas. Any set sent to the country carriage paid, on receipt of P.O. order. Catalogues sent free, full size, 3d.

Parkins and Gotto, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, W.

N.B. The trade and shippers supplied on liberal terms.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS, at DEBENHAM, STORR, and SONS', 27, Wigmore-street, Cavendish-square, where the Books, Tablets, and Writing-table; and a variety of useful and appropriate Presents may be selected.

RODRIGUES' DESPATCH-BOXES and the TRAVELLING DRESSING-BAGS, with silver or plated fittings, are the best quality. Elegantly-mounted Envelope Cases, Blotting-books, Writing-cases, Dressing-bags, Portfolios, &c. 42, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

RODRIGUES' DRESSING-CASES and TRAVELLING DRESSING-BAGS, with silver or plated fittings, are the best quality. Elegantly-mounted Envelope Cases, Blotting-books, Writing-cases, Dressing-bags, Portfolios, &c. 42, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

NO CHARGE MADE for STAMPING NEW PAPER and ENVELOPES with ARMS, Crest, or Monogram. Steel Dies Engraved. Cards Printed. Cheapest, 4s. per 100; Small-sized Note, Fullsize, Pre-gummed 6d. All at HODGSON'S, 24, Floralstreet, Covent-garden.

WEDDING CARDS.—THE CORRECT PRINTED FORM. The proper form observed in issuing such invitations, and a choice of the most fashionable Envelopes from which the inquiry may be obtained. A Specimen Book of Type and Information for writers sent on application, by MICHAEL BARRETT, 5, Harrison-street, W.C.

HALF-GUINEA BOX of MOIST COLOURS and HISTORICAL ILLUSTRATIONS. WINSOR and NEWTON, 38, Rathbone-place, London; and all local Artists' Colourmen, Rathbone, &c.

SELLING BY THOUSANDS.

THE INGENIOUS POCKET TIMEPIECE, with Case complete, warranted to Gentle some time correctly. Price One Guinea. Sent free by post for 21 stamps.

WALES and CO., Silver-near Barbicans.

OLD MARSALA WINE, guaranteed the finest imported, very strong and full-bodied, and much superior to low-priced sherry. One gallon per dozen. A pamphlet, ready for distribution, on the Wines of Portugal, and particularly of the Douro, sent free on application.—FRANCIS and CONTESSE, 1, Mincing-lane, London, E.C. (corner of Bloomsbury-square), London, W.C. Established 1841.

PALE SHERRY at 36s. per Dozen, fit for a gentleman's table. Bottles and Cases included. Terms Cash. Fast-driven pyramids Piccadilly.

CHARLES WARD, Sherry free of charge. CHARLES WARD and SON (Established upwards of a century), 1, Chapel-street West, Grosvenor-square, W.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY V. COGNAC BRANDY.—This celebrated Old Irish Whisky retains the first place as the finest Whisky of the day. Pale and rich as Cognac Brandy, and of the most delicate flavour. Sold by all the retail houses in London, and by the agents in the principal towns in England; or wholesale at 20, Great Windmill-street, Haymarket, W., where the red seal, plain label, and cork branded "KINAHAN'S LL Whisky."

ALLSOPP'S PALE ALE.—The MARCH BREWINGS of the above ALE are now being supplied, in Hogsheads, Barrels, Kilderkins, and Bottles, by ALLSOPP, MACKIE, and CO., 32, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

TONIC BITTERS. VETERE QUININE WINE, the most palatable and wholesome Bitter in existence; an unequalled tonic, deliciously refreshing, and a safe stimulant. Sold by Grocers, Italian Warehousemen, Wine Merchants, and Chemists, in Bottles at 24s. per dozen. Manufactured and prepared by Waters and Williams, 4, Martin's-lane, Cannon-street, London. Wholesale Agents, 3, Lewis-st. Gt., Worcester.

PEPSINE.—MORSON'S PEPSINE WINE, Morson's Pepsine Lozenges, are perfectly palatable forms for administering Pepsine, the active principle of the gastric juice. Prepared by T. MORSON and SON, 31, 32, and 33, Southampton-row, Russell-square, London, W.C. Pepsine Wine, in bottles, at 3s., 4s. 6d., 6s., 9s., and 18s. each. Pepsine Lozenges, 2s. 6d. per box. Manufactory, Southgate-road, Dalston, N.

MYTTON O GYMRU.—WELSH MUTTON Ham. Delicious Breakfast Delicacy. Lean, Relishing, and Wholesome. D. B. DOBERTON, Purveyor of Provisions, Cardiff, S.W.

Made by J. S. FRY and SONS, Bristol and London.

FRY'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA, The purity, delicacy of flavour, and easy digestibility of this Cocoa, as well as the great facility with which it is prepared, render it a standard article of GENERAL CONSUMPTION. It is equally adapted for Breakfast, Luncheon, and a highly nutritious Supper. RECOMMENDED BY MEDICAL MEN.

THE ONLY PRIZE MEDAL, 1862, awarded to any English Manufacturer of CHOCOLATE, was awarded to J. S. FRY and SONS, Bristol and London, for Prize Medals, 1851, 1862, 1855, and 1862.

Makers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

FRY'S CHOCOLATE FOR EATING is prepared with scrupulous regard to purity, and being entirely free from admixture, is suitable for Children, with whom it is a universal favourite.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.

The best ever known for Breakfast.

Yellow wrapper	...	...	1s. 6d. per ½ lb.
Chamois ditto	...	...	2s. 6d. "
Blue ditto	...	...	3s. 6d. "
Rose ditto	...	...	4s. 6d. "
Flavoured with Vanilla.
Green wrapper	...	...	2s. 6d. per ½ lb.
Lilac ditto	...	...	3s. 6d. "
Blue ditto	...	...	4s. 6d. "
Rose ditto	...	...	5s. 6d. "

Sold, in ½ lb. packets, by all respectable Houses. Wholesale Depôt, 79, Queen-street, London.

FISON'S PEARL SMOULE & Ballston, Manufacturers, Economical, and Extremely Nutritious. For the Dinner Table it is the finest of all other dishes upon it when everything else fails. Sold by Grocers, Chemists, &c. London Wholesale Depôt, 79, Queen-street, Cheapside, E.C. Sole Agent, Ballston.

2280 AGENTS.—HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA.—Chemists, Confectioners, &c., are Agents, and Sell this Tea. Terms and Price-lists sent free on application, and Wholesome. This tea therefore secures genial profession.

BROWN and POLSON'S PATENT CORN FLOUR. "JOHN BROWN" is signed by the Grocers on Packet.

BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER. Recommended by the Analyst in the "Lancet" for making Bread without Yeast, and Self for Family. Sold everywhere.

OSWEGO PREPARED CORN Puddings, Custards, Blancmanges, &c., Are pronounced by Connoisseurs to be the Finest Flavoured Corn Flour. Sold by Grocers and Oilmen, Manufactured by the Oswego Starch Factory, Oswego, State of New York.

It is the only Corn Flour that will keep in any climate, established 1848, requires no cooking, and is the most pure in the trade, and the best value to the consumer.

It is the only Corn Flour that has the imitation, has a finer grain, and is more delicious.

It is the only one the natural golden tinge, and not the chalk white usually sold.

KERN, ROBINSON, HELLYER, and CO., London.

LETTERS PATENT, 1858. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862. ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY is the most valuable preparation for making pure and delicious gruel, and for thickening soups, broths, and a vary of dietetic and culinary purposes.

ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY makes a delicious custard pudding. Directions for these and other uses have been given by Dr. Prout. It is appreciated as a non-inflammatory drink, is extensively used in the Hospitals, and is the best known remedy for relaxed sore throat, and infantile disorders.

KERN, ROBINSON, HELLYER, and CO., London.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD, Is pronounced by all who have tried it to be of more than ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY YEARS.

This well-known Mustard has been the favourite relish of the Court of Great Britain for more than a century, and is held in high estimation by the Royal Family and Nobility. The Public are therefore cautioned that no genuine Mustard can be had unless the Name and Address of the Sole Manufacturers are on the Wrapper and Label. KEEN, ROBINSON, HELLYER, and CO., London.

COLMANS' PRIZE-MEDAL MUSTARD is more than trade mark, the Bull's Head, on each package, is a guarantee of the quality of the contents. Sold by Grocers, Oilmen, &c.

For domestic purposes nothing finer can be produced. Their "Patent Groats" and "Barley superfine" are the qualities particularly recommended.

Retailed in every town throughout the United Kingdom. Purveyors to H.R.H. the PRINCE OF WALES.

COLMANS' NO. 1 INDIGO BLUE is the best article Manufactured for Laundry purposes. Sold by Grocers, Oilmen, &c.

PURVEYORS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCES OF WALES.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, used in the Royal Laundry, and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

"IT IS THE BEST I HAVE EVER USED" or pure in use," writes Mr. Hayles, Refreshment-room, Bishop's Stortford, of the Patent Self-raising FLOUR. This POWDER has been in use for last seven years. Sold in 1d. and 2d. each, by Chemists and Ironmongers; Wholesale, by Crosse and Blackwell, 21, Soho-square, W.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA, an excellent remedy for Acidity and Gastric Disorders of every kind. Prepared only by DINNEFORD and CO., Chemists to the Queen, 172, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

LUDGATE-HILL RAILWAY Now Open. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill. Manufacturers of Mackintosh Waterproof Clothing.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. New Chenbord Glacés, 14 yards, 41 the. 6d. New Checked Glacés, 14 yards 21s. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. New Striped Glacés, 14 yards, 21s. New Checked Glacés, 14 yards, 21s. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. Gros de Londres, all the new colours, 14 yards, 21s. Per 14 yards. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. Best Spitalfields Drapings, warranted to wear, 14 yards, 21s. 25s. 28s. 31s. 6d. 35s. 42s. 45s. 52s. 6d. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK FIGURED SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. A large assortment of New Patterns, 42s 6d. 52s. 6d. per 14 yards. Black Gros Grains, Black Gros de Suez. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES.—PATTERNS FREE. Double Melanie, Checks, Checked and Plain. A large variety of Patterns for Spring, from the yard. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

FAMILY LINEN DEPARTMENT. JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill. Linen and Cotton Sheetings, best making, all widths. Linen and Cotton Pillow-cases, Linen Sheets, Linen Quilts, Marseilles Quilts, Quilted Linen Petticoats, Linen Dusters.

IRISH LINENS, direct from Belfast, at Manufacturers' Prices. JAMES HENDRY and CO., with Forward, undertake to pay carriage paid on parcels of 20 and upwards, Single and Double Damask Table Cloths, Napkins, Huckaback and Diaper Towels, Glass Cloths, Dusters, Sheetings, Shirtings, Linen Drapery, Tweeds, Glass Cloths, Pocket Handkerchiefs, Linen Cambrics, Lawns, Quilts, Counterpanes, Blankets, Flannels, Furnishing Drapery, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Underclothing. Patterns and Price-lists free. James Hendry and Co., 18, Donegall-place, Belfast.

PARIS NOVELTIES in MANTLES, SHAWLS, and MILLINERY, &c., for the Spring and Summer. Mr. HAYWARD has to announce that their Buyers have personally selected from the leading houses in Paris a most unusually Extensive and Elegant Assortment of novelties in SILK MANTLES and JACKETS, richly trimmed with Lace and other fashionable Trimmings; also very rich Evening Cloaks. The prices will be found very moderate. Regent House, 307, Regent-street, W. Regent House is NEARLY OPPOSITE the Polytechnic.

MESSRS. SWAN and EDGAR beg to announce that their various departments are now replete with every novelty in Spring and Summer Fashions, including Parisian Millinery, Mantles, Fancy Dress Goods, Ribbons, Hosiery, Gloves, &c. Their Stock in each department is unusually large, and the fashions in their Mantle, Costume, Millinery, and Dress Departments will be found to be of the most recherché character. Ladies are invited to visit some few specimens of Brussels Lace, in quarter, half squares, and flounces, and Point Flamand and Valenciennes Flounces, suitable for new Bodices or Cloaks. Lace—this embroidered Silk Robes, Court Trains, Veils, Scarfs, Lappets, Barbes, Fichus, and Handkerchiefs, in great variety. Regent-circus, Piccadilly.

SEWELL and CO. beg to inform Ladies that their made-up Dress Goods, in Silk, Poplin, and Mohair, is now replete with all the Novelties for the coming Season, at THE NEW WALKING DRESS, 2½ yards wide. "Manchester." Guaranteed to wash. "Manchester." Guaranteed to wash. "Manchester." Guaranteed to wash. "Manchester." Guaranteed to wash. 15, Cornhill.

MOIRÈS ANTIQUES.—SEWELL and CO. have the choicest and most extensive Assortment of these Rich Fabrics in Black and Colours, from 2½ guineas to 5 guineas the Full Dress.—Compton House, Frith-street, Soho-square.

NEW FRENCH SILKS, in COLOURS and BLACK, Glacés, Checks, Stripes, and Figures, 19½ inches wide, with the guarantee for durability of resistant dress to Paris and London. Patterns sent free.—HARVEY and CO., 61, St. Paul's-churchyard, London, E.C. Patterns sent free.—HARVEY and CO., Lombard-house, Westminster-bridge, S.

MANTLE and JACKET CLOTHS of all kinds, 54 in. to 120 in. wide, in the newest and most washable goods, for gentlemen's and boys' wear, at very moderate prices.—CHARLES MEEKING and CO., 111, Hatton-garden, London.

LADIES' UNDERCLOTHING of best make and Material, Ready-made or to Measure. Illustrated Price-list sent free by post. Address "Ladies' Department," WHITELOCK and SON, 106, Strand.

THE Celebrated SHREWSBURY WATERPROOF CLOAKS, JACKETS, and Gentlemen's OVERCOATS. Patterns post-free. WILLIAM EVANS, 84, Pride Hill, Shrewsbury.

BONNETS.—MARKS and GAVELL returned from Paris with their elegant GUINEA BONNET, in Silk, Crape, and Tulle, and every novelty in Millinery. 4, Conduit-street, Regent-street.

SHIRTS, SEASON 1865. A large variety of new Patterns in fancy Cashmere and Oxford Shirtings, ready-made and to measure. Patterns free for Spring and Summer Shirts.—HOWARD, ARUNDEL, and CO., 7, Arundel-street, Strand, W.C. Established upwards of 30 years.

SHIRTS.—Morning and Evening Shirts of the Newest Designs. Sizing with a perfect fit guaranteed. Patterns, Illustrated Price-list, and Directions for self-measurement, post-free. Thomas Hill and Brother, 4, Queen-street, London, E.C.

IMPORTANT TO WOOLLEN BUYERS. Tailors and others desirous of saving 5 per cent every purchase, are requested to write for PATTERNS of the Stock of a Manufacturer, who is selling off at 2s. 6d. per yard, 54 in. wide. R.S.B. Foreign Orders honestly, carefully, and promptly executed.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT in ARTIFICIAL TEETH, and PAINLESS DENTISTRY. Mr. EPHRAIM MOSELEY, Surgeon Dentist, Governor-street, Bedford-square, continues to supply Sets of Teeth on his new and improved system, adapted indistinguishable from the natural, of slightly fastening set required; they are more natural, durable, and comfortable than any other system. Decayed teeth stopped and rendered sound to the adjoining teeth. Consultation free. Mr. Moseley's system may be seen at 110, Regent-street.

TEETH AND PAINLESS DENTISTRY, 61, Ludgate-hill, corner of Old Bailey, opposite the Fleet-street, and 33, Strand opposite Charing-cross Railway Terminus. Messrs. GABRIEL, Dentists by Special Appointment to the Queen, have introduced the system of fixing Artificial Teeth without pain, and guarantee success. They offer self-cleansing, first-class workmanship, perfect articulation, and success. Consultations free. Fee, one guinea. Established 1815.

WANTED.—LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, &c. By or thro A. DAVIS, 7, Orchard-st., Baker-st., W. Ladies and Gentlemen waited upon for the above. Letters punctually attended to. Parcels from the country forwarded by Railway. Established 1850.

WANTED.—Left-off Clothes, Uniforms, Furniture, Miscellaneous Property. Ladies and Gentlemen waited upon for the above. Letters punctually attended to. Parcels from the country forwarded by Railway. Mr. and Mrs. H. EVANS, 10, Bush-street, Barnsbury-road, N., or, Parcels being sent, the utmost value in cash instantly remitted. Established 1838.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies and Gentlemen waited upon for the above. Letters to Mr. and Mrs. H. EVANS, 10, Bush-street, Barnsbury-road, N., or, Parcels being sent, the utmost value in cash instantly remitted. Established 1838.

London: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE GEORGE LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, MONDAY,—SATURDAY APRIL 15, 1865.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1311.—VOL. XLVI. SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1865. WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

THE DEFEAT OF GENERAL LEE.

THE gallant Generalissimo of the Confederate forces has sustained what may fairly be regarded as his first, and what will probably prove to be his last, defeat in defensive warfare. As the ablest and most accomplished commander which the civil war has produced, the public, without distinction of parties, is at some loss whether most to admire his long and almost unbroken career of successful defence, or to commiserate him under the inevitable catastrophe that has broken his power. For General Lee's qualities were of that high order, and were so happily balanced, that he not merely won the respect, but elicited the sympathy, of the civilised world. But for the spirit which he breathed into his soldiers and the confidence in his invincibility with which he had inspired the South, the cause of Secession would, perhaps, have been a shorter one, but it is doubtful if it would have retained to the close that heroic character which has enlisted so large an amount of feeling in its favour. He put upon the contest the stamp of his nobility. Whether he would have counselled his compatriots to submit their differences with the North to the arbitrement of war may be questioned; but, that decision having been taken, his patriotism instantly prescribed for him his line of duty. Along that line he has unfalteringly marched, not, indeed, to final victory, but to highest glory; and probably, when the din of arms has ceased, and the gaping wounds through which the life-blood of the Republic still flows have been closed and healed, the one name which will be remembered with most pride and veneration in connection with this gigantic struggle will be that of General Lee.

The evacuation of Petersburg and Richmond has for some weeks past been looked upon as mainly a question of time. Sherman's march northward from Savannah and Sheridan's clearance of the Shenandoah Valley indicated clearly enough that no generalship could ultimately avail to make a single army an equal match for the three that were gathering round it. And yet the event was not foreshadowed, at least in the form in which it happened, by public expectation. Whilst it was easy to foresee that the superior numbers, the larger resources, and the untiring pertinacity of the Federals must, in the end, overbear Lee's position, in spite of the most consummate strategical skill, it was hardly anticipated that he would himself begin the fight which has had for him and for his army such a disastrous termination. The dashing assault of Fort Steadman, early on the 25th ult., which, together with twominor works, the Confederates captured, but were unable to retain, seems to have precipitated the crisis. Whether it was a desperate venture with the hope of seizing Grant's military railway at City Point, and thereby compelling him to abandon the whole of his line south of the Appomattox; or whether political reasons of which we have yet received no information prevailed upon Lee to assume the offensive, the effect appears to have been to produce conviction on Grant's mind that the time had come for him to strike with all the force he could command. This conviction, it may be assumed, was converted into a resolution at the council of war held on the 27th, at which Mr. Lincoln and General Sherman were present. On the 29th, Sheridan, after several ineffectual attempts to cut the Southside railroad, in one of which the Federals were forced back in confusion on the Boydton Plank-road, succeeded in routing the Confederates and gaining the important position at which he had aimed. His success having been reported, Grant ordered an attack along the whole line. The battle raged furiously until the evening of April 2, and during the night Petersburg and Richmond were both evacuated. The losses on both sides were great, but, as might have been expected, the vanquished suffered most severely, especially in the number of prisoners taken.

Since the commencement of the war no battle has been fought the result of which was so calculated to fill the hearts of the Confederates with dismay as the three days' conflict in the neighbourhood of Petersburg. Whilst Lee's army remained unconquered, Secessia naturally refused to give up hope. The capture of Vicksburg, of Atlanta, of Wilmington, of Charleston, successively deepened the gloom which hung over her prospects; but there was one bright spot to which she could always turn with some confidence in her forecast of her probable destiny. Other Generals might be unsuccessful, other armies might be beaten and scattered, but whilst General Lee continued at the head of those troops which he had so often led to victory it was, no doubt, difficult for the Southerners to believe that the cause for which they had made so many sacrifices, and which had lived through so many fluctuations, had become desperate. They looked wistfully towards him as the living freight of a tempest-tossed vessel might look towards the pilot who has weathered the wildest storms, and whilst he grasped the helm and maintained a cheerful countenance, trust in his marvellous sagacity and in the good fortune which had waited upon it served to give buoyancy to their courage and forbade their yielding place to despair. Lee's defeat, with the loss of perhaps half his army, is the heaviest reverse which has ever befallen them, because it throws its ominous shadow so far forward into the future. There is no visible reserve upon which he can fall back; and, although he may yet achieve brilliant military feats, it would appear most unlikely that he will be able to save from dissolution that unity of national organisation, to conserve and consolidate which his heroic energies have hitherto been devoted.

It would appear in the highest degree improbable that the Confederacy can hope to win back by a continuance of the struggle the good fortune they have lost. Late events have strongly indicated that their strength is well-nigh exhausted. For four years they have endured a strain upon their vitality far beyond reasonable expectation. Indeed, until within the last twelvemonth, it seemed that no external force could succeed in piercing the line behind which the non-combatant population was sheltered. Sherman pierced it, and found that the interior of the shell was hollow. His march through Georgia to the coast, and from the coast upward into the heart of North Carolina, demonstrated that the whole military strength of the Confederacy had been placed upon the frontier, and that no means of effectual resistance would avail it if General Lee's force were destroyed. That calamity has now befallen it. The North Virginian army, the hope and stay of the Southern States, has at last, after a most gallant resistance, been shattered and driven forth from the capital and its outpost. The defeat seems irreversible—at least, as far as visible probabilities can throw light upon it. The Legislature is scattered; the President is in flight; the organised force of the nation is disintegrated and, comparatively speaking, dispersed; and, what is worse, should its several parts once more come together, although it might obtain favourable terms, it could hardly restore to the South another momentary chance of establishing her separate independence.

LIEUTENANT-GENERAL ULYSSES S. GRANT, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE FEDERAL ARMIES.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

In truth, the most recent tidings from the scene of conflict point with more than common significance to the probability that the end is drawing nigh. Sheridan, followed by Meade, pursued Lee in his retreat with such persistency and skill, two or three days after the evacuation of Petersburg, found the Confederates at the intersection of Burkeville-station road with the road upon which they were retiring drawn up to resist him. Connecting his cavalry with the infantry of the 5th and 24th Corps, he instantly attacked them and forced them from their position, capturing six generals and making several thousand prisoners. General Lee was reported to have posted the remains of his forces a little later on the heights beyond Appomattox Creek, having previously destroyed the bridges across the stream. It may be conjectured that he will have reached Lynchburg without further serious molestation, and within its strongly-fortified lines he will have time to survey all the possibilities which late events have left him. His outlook, however, cannot but be a gloomy one, even on the supposition that matters during the next month turn out more fortunately for him than he might feel himself warranted to anticipate. No doubt, if the Southern population, instead of being paralysed by despair, should be roused by the losses they have sustained to new determination, the North would still have a task of immense difficulty before it. But if the conduct of the Congress that lately sat at Richmond can be regarded as furnishing a key to the feelings of the people they ostensibly represented, the inference seems unavoidable that no supreme effort of self-sacrifice is to be expected.

Under such circumstances, the friends of humanity can scarcely desire that the contest should be prolonged. Gallantry has ere now its best and fullest page written ahead and accept the issue? There is no lack of honourable precedents for such a course. Waste of blood is always to be deprecated; and perhaps the most brilliant courage, when unavailing, is most unlikely to act by a frank acquiescence in arrangements which it has tried its utmost to prevent. But it lies chiefly with the North to facilitate a return to peace and unity. There is no less need or honourable for magnanimity in the hour of victory. There is no generosity which can penetrate the heart like the generosity of superior power in the full flush of success. The occasion is one which devolves on President Lincoln a responsibility commensurate with the unexampled power within his reach by General Grant's triumph. That he will be indisposed to recognise it we have no present reason for suspecting. Words of conciliation will best become his lips as his position towards the South is more comprehensive. To soothe wounded pride, and to replace a hope that is crushed by another that may be gratefully welcomed.

GENERAL GRANT.

LIEUTENANT-GENERAL ULYSSES S. GRANT, the Commander-in-Chief of the Federal armies, is a native of the State of Ohio, and was born in the year 1826. He was appointed a lieutenant in the United States Military Academy at West Point, in the State of New York, after learning that institution's course of military equipment as Lieutenant in the 4th Infantry in 1845, and served with much credit throughout the Mexican War. In 1854 he became Quartermaster of his regiment, but soon afterwards left the service and settled in the State of Illinois, where he carried on the business of a tanner. When the civil war broke out, in 1861, he volunteered for active service, and obtained the command of the 21st Illinois Regiment of Illinois, but was presently advanced to the rank of Major-General in the battle of Belmont, on the Mississippi, fought in November of that year, he was opposed to General Pillow and Colonel Fulton and Polk; and, though he was compelled to retreat before a vastly superior force, he gave proof of a high degree of judgment and military skill. The capture of Fort Henry, on the Tennessee River, and of Fort Donelson, on the Cumberland River, in the course of that winter placed the whole of the State of Kentucky and a great part of that of Tennessee in the secure possession of the Federal Government; and the merit of these achievements is due to General Grant, who planned and executed them unassisted by the gun-boat squadron. On the 6th and 7th of April was fought the battle of Shiloh, near Corinth, one of the fiercest and bloodiest conflicts of the war—contested with equal obstinacy between Beauregard and Sydney Johnston, who had united their armies to crush him before he could be joined by Buell. The unexpected occasion he sustained for twenty hours the attack of their combined forces, which were at length outnumbered by more than two to one; his general until General Buell came up, when a complete victory rewarded his constancy and courage in the most unquestionable. The next great performance was the siege of Vicksburg, in the early part of 1863, the plan for the reduction of which Sherman and Sherman had in vain attempted the year before, involved a march of 150 miles through the hostile country of Mississippi State, so as to arrive at the rear of Vicksburg. The able conduct of Pemberton, the Confederate General in command of Vicksburg, and the indefatigable energy of General Johnston, who was to have raised the siege, contributed to the successful issue of Grant's bold enterprise, which has placed him in the front rank hazard. He remained in Mississippi, having the chief command of the Federal armies in the south-western States during the autumn and winter of 1863; and, as soon as the position of Chattanooga had fallen into the hands of the Federals, he succeeded to the command of Sherman, then Brigadier-General, to invade North Georgia, whence the Confederate armies were chiefly supplied with supply of munitions and matériel of war. The execution of this plan was hindered for some months, having been postponed to that of the march towards Meridian, Mississippi, with result. Meantime Grant was recalled to Washington, to take the supreme command of all the Federal armies, which, with the rank of Lieutenant-General, he performed upon him in the spring of 1864. Within eight weeks from the date of this commission he began the campaign in Virginia, having divided his army into two columns, one of which crossed the Rapidan, twenty miles from the Confederate camp, and effected a bridgehead into the midst of the intrenched positions of the enemy; while the other, having been conveyed by sea to Fortress Monroe, advanced towards Richmond along the banks of the James River. The frightful carnage which befell the first division of Grant's army in the battles of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, and Cold Harbour, from the 5th of May to the 1st of June last year, shocked all feelings of humanity, and brought some reproach upon Grant, as reckless of the lives of his soldiers. General Grant, however, disregarding these complaints, persisted in the campaign, which has been prolonged to a termination. Finding it hopeless to attack Richmond by the direct road from the north, he turned aside to the left hand, and, in spite of heavy losses, contrived to reach the banks of the James River, which have since formed his base of operations. The town of Petersburg, some twenty miles to the south of Richmond, has been the point most obstinately contested in the circuit of the Confederate defences. It is now perhaps but for the approach of Sherman's army, which has recently obliged Lee to detach from the lines before Richmond a considerable part of his force. The result, which seems likely to put an end to the war, is the evacuation of Petersburg and Richmond, which took place during the first two or three days of this month. There is little doubt of the high military genius of General Grant, and still less of the extraordinary degree of resolution and perseverance which he has displayed in the most arduous and difficult undertakings. The Portrait engraved on our front page is from a photograph by Mr. Brady, of the National Portrait Gallery, New York.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Emperor's visit to Algeria was definitively decided upon on Saturday last. His horses have been already sent to Marseilles, and the officers and aides-de-camp of his suite, numbering 30, are chosen. The Empress will assume the direction of affairs during his Majesty's absence, as regent, and will preside at the Privy Council.

On Saturday last the Corps Législatif adopted the Address in answer to the Speech from the Throne by 249 against 14 votes.

The Emperor received the deputation with the address of the Corps Législatif on Sunday, and graciously thanked them for its expressions, and added:—"Every year you defend with firmness the fundamental laws which maintain a just equilibrium between the powers of the State. The country is grateful to you for this. Under the present regime life is free and development. It must demonstrative obstacles disappear, but with the cause of the tribune and the press it feels that it is free. Thus, far from wishing to cut down what is left to us of liberty, which the mass of the labouring classes, the classes who possess property, the whole population, in short, prize so much, I have the desire to extend liberty even more than the abuse of power. Continue your labours, the object of which is the moral and material improvement of the individuals by the education and labour of the commune and the department, and the extension of their liberties. Whatever may be constantly doing to change everything, let us be content with daily bringing a fresh stone to the edifice. It must be constructed which is broad, and cannot be raised too high." His Majesty's speech was frequently interrupted by applause.

During Saturday's debate in the Corps Législatif M. Eugene Pelletan announced the news of the fall of Richmond, and endeavoured to draw a parallel between the position of the South and North. He was supported by the independent Liberals, but the impatience of the majority and the hour prevented the orator from advancing far.

The Government has not been content with the tribute spontaneously paid to the memory of Rossini by the whole French country. A singularly well-turned despatch from M. Drouyn de Lhuys to the French Ambassador at Vienna, full of official condolences, and in graceful and very unofficial terms, its appreciation of the eminent character and great career of the negotiator of the Commercial Treaty.

The Emperor has given orders that a bust of the late Rossini shall be placed in the "Pole Pasagne," or charts of the French coast.

The Government has given authority to the Emperor to obtain an order for a colossal bronze eagle, weighing 40 tons, to be placed on the top of the Vendôme Column. The sculptor is Duret. According to the project presented by M. Favey to King Louis Philippe, in 1834, and now adopted by the Emperor, when Napoleon's ashes are brought, it would measure nearly 90 ft. in breadth at the extremities of the wings.

M. Dumas has been appointed Commissioner of the Paris Cricket Club, replacing the late Duke de Morny. A cricket-ball has been erected on the Paris-like plot of ground in the Bois de Boulogne. The report of the Paris Cricket Club, which does not exist, as I said, one real Frenchman—says that the total number of members, in March last, was 1,200. Of these, 600 are Frenchmen, and the honorary members; nine monthly: total, 315. From Dec. 31, 1863, to Dec. 31, 1864, the membership numbered 1,200. Of these, 600 members, sixteen new hon. members, thirty-nine hon. members of 1863, and thirty-two monthly members of 1863. From Jan. 1, 1864, to March 2, 1865, thirty-four subscribing and sixty hon. members.

The inauguration of the Lyons and Geneva Railway—that from Gaincourg to Brest—is fixed for Tuesday next. Five to last will take place on the 26th.

The inauguration, at Ajaccio, of the monument to Napoleon I. and his family, which is to be erected in the Place Marengo, is definitely announced. will be present at the ceremony. There are to be great fêtes in Corsica on the occasion. There will also be a Corsican congress, an agricultural and fine arts exhibition, horse-races, and a banquet.

The Municipal Council of Paris has definitively decided that the work of pacification in that country is every where complete.

The new Opera House in the Rue Le Peletier is in course. There was an immense attendance. The Emperor, the Empress, the Prince Imperial, Princess Mathilde, Princess Anna Murat were present. Le Prix de la Bourse (2000f. added) was run by Count Lagrange's Zegre. Le Prix de la Grotte (2000f.) was "the good thing" of Napoleon's stable, and was won by Count Lagrange's Buchman. Calipyge; while the Prix de la Guiche (3000f.) was carried off by Rubinstein. Le Prix de Diane, for three year old entires, would, upwards, was, however, the race of the day—Bayard and Clermont. Two of the best horses at the Paris Cattle Show—Bayard, purchased by the Flying Dutchman—La Maladetta, was so liked, and was at once bought by Count Lagrange. The Count Lagrange won the Prix du Cadran (6000f.) with Bestrix; and all was over.

SPAIN.

Senor Orovio has been appointed Minister of Public Works.

During the night of the 19th inst. there was a student riot in Madrid, occasioned by the dismissal of Castelar from his professorship and the installation of his successor. The latter was driven from the premises of the University by the students, who afterwards proceeded to the Puerto del Sol, where the people made common cause with them. The summons of the authorities to disperse being disregarded, the public forces were ordered to charge. The 2nd Light Horse "energetically supressed" by a volley of musketry from the infantry and several persons in the crowd were killed. Meantime Grant the people, it seems, threw bricks and stones; the cavalry used their sabres. The disturbance lasted until two o'clock in the morning. Seven men killed by the sword; nearly twenty persons, soldiers and civilians, are known to have been wounded; about fifty other wounded persons have been lodged in gaol, some of these, it is stated, being taken from private houses. Among the killed is Don Luis Gonzalez Bravo, Minister of the Interior, was present at the Puerta del Sol, in company with Don Pedro de Valencia, and thence issued in person the orders which led to such results.

In the Senate, next day, this Minister made a statement, in which he said that the students at first received permission to surrender their dismissed Rector, but the Government found out that a political demonstration was being made in connection with it.

In the Senate, on Wednesday, Senor Calderon Collantes asked a question respecting the disturbances, and referred to the responsibility of the murders of the 10th inst. rested entirely with the Government. The Minister, for six months, had been preaching peace and order to the country, and patriotism alone should prompt them to resign. Senor Gonzalez Bravo, Minister of the Interior, said the disturbances were at once, and that they were supported by all the Moderate party.

PORTUGAL.

Contrary to general expectation, the Marquis da Sa Bandiera has proceeded in forming a Cabinet, which is composed as follows:—President of the Ministry, Minister of War, and Minister of Marine, the Marquis da Sa Bandiera; Minister of Finance and Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count d'Avila; Minister of Interior and Minister of Justice, Senor Silva Sanches; Minister of Public Works, Senor Carlos Bento da Silva.

SWITZERLAND.

The Federal Council has informed the Zollverein that Switzerland is willing, provisionally, to apply the Franco-Swiss commercial treaty to Germany from the 1st of July next, provided that the Zollverein would apply to Switzerland the provisions of the treaty of commerce lately concluded between the Zollverein and France.

ITALY.

The Committee of the Senate on the bill for the unification of the laws has rejected the proposal to abolish capital punishment, but has amended the penal code by reducing to nine the number of crimes punishable by death.

The Pope is stated to have addressed a letter to King Victor Emmanuel which contains some chance of his relenting in the "non possumus" policy. It is said that his Holiness proposes to refer to a Council of Bishops to the vacant dioceses in the Italian provinces over which his Holiness would reserve to himself the right of appointing him to the Sees when the former Bishoprics become vacant. As regards the bishoprics in Naples, Tuscany, Parma, and Modena, the Holiness is willing to enter into negotiations, and, in order to come to an arrangement, King Victor Emmanuel will send a diplomatist on a special mission to the Court of Rome.

On Easter Sunday the Pope officiated pontifically at mass, and afterwards addressed a large congregation ex cathedra. The French and Pontifical troops and an immense number of people were present. Enthusiastic cheers were raised in honour of the Pope.

The French Government has sent Dr. Catalan, a scientific gentleman, composed of a professor of chemistry, of geology, and of photography, for the object of observing the phenomena of the eruption. This commission was joined, at the request of the above-mentioned members, by Signor Silvestri, another professor of chemistry. The commission remained four days at Etna, and have returned to Catania, where, in consequence of the eruption, there has been numerous picturesque views of the outlets of the lava and the precipices it has created.

PRUSSIA.

On Tuesday the first stone of the national monument to perpetuate the memory of the campaign against Denmark last year was laid by the King, on the Konigsplatz, in front of the Brandenburg Gate. The scroll deposited with the foundation-stone expressly recognises the Austrian alliance. His Majesty has issued the subjoined Cabinet order on the subject:—

In pursuance of my order of Dec. 18, 1864, by which I decided that monuments should be erected in Berlin, Koenigsberg, and Alsen, as a mark of my thanks which I and the country owe to all those who crowned Prussia's arms with new lustre in the last campaign of the year, I hereby order that the first stones of these national monuments shall be laid at Berlin on April 18, Koenigsberg on April 22, and Alsen on April 24, in the course of the present year. I charge the Ministry of State with the publication of this decree.—Berlin, April 1, 1865.

DENMARK.

A serious Ministerial crisis would have prevailed for some days past, has come to an end. The crisis was caused by some of the Ministers resigning and the intention of the Duke to the Rigsdag the Ministerial scheme of a modification of the Constitution, which has been rejected by the Landsthing and approved by the Rigsdag. The Ministers will remain in office. The following Royal message:—

We, Christian IX., and our Royal greeting to the Reichsrath. We observe with sincere regret that, at the close of this tedious Session, the matter of the Constitutional question has not been brought to the prosperity of which we yet brought no nearer to a conclusion. It was our hope that the advance which the Government had made in the direction of the wishes expressed by the majority of the Rigsdag would prove that body to a similar step. We can, therefore only look forward with the hope that the present unsatisfactory state of affairs, which will be detrimental to the development of the Constitution question in this Session. We implore Almighty God that He may grant us wisdom to find that which might arise therefrom for the welfare of our country.—CHRISTIAN IX. Rex.

RUSSIA.

A despatch from Nice states that the Czarewitch, who had been suffering for the last few days from pains in the head, was seized with an attack of congestion of the brain early on Monday morning. Although favourable symptoms set in during the afternoon, the Prince received the last sacraments, in accordance with the wishes of the Greek Church. The Czarewitch's birthday was better on Tuesday. The Czar left St. Petersburg on Monday morning for Nice (491 miles), and reached a wish expressed by the Czarewitch, Princess Dagmar, his bride elect, arrived at Nice on Sunday last. The Crown Prince of Denmark, left Copenhagen for Nice on Tuesday night.

The Russian Government has taken steps to get the report of the Minister of the Interior to the questions addressed by the Ambassador of England to the Russian Government respecting the prevailing epidemic. It confirms in every way the less serious aspect of the circumstances. It declares the alleged ravages of the plague in the pestilence now prevailing in the Russian capital with the "Black Death," or the "Oriental Plague of the epidemic," says the Minister, "does not offer any new features of, nor, nothing unknown to science, no special features of the typhoid class, with various known modifications," which he proceeds to enumerate, and concludes with the "bubeac" characteristic, but not distinctive, of plague are not mentioned. In the Minister's opinion the Russian Government requires no doubt as to the origin of the malady:—"It may be attributed to bad hygienic conditions, the consumption of vegetables (cabbages and potatoes especially) which have been grown under unfavourable climatic conditions, and which produced a considerable increase in all articles of food; to the immoderate use of spirits made from grain by the peasantry, and to the unusual agglomeration of masses of workmen in the capital towards last autumn, which occasioned a considerable overcrowding of the population—a crowding very baneful to health, especially in the Russian climate." Nothing has been found to warrant the belief that so much stress had been laid; but an additional cause of malaria is supplied in frequent inundations of cellars infecting an epidemic character of disease.

Dr. Blanc, Director of the Privy Council, has reported on the alleged epidemic in Russia and North Germany. The disease in Russia, he says, is not the plague, but typhus fever, arising from poor and insufficient food and want of sanitary precautions. It is not new in this country, but has existed for centuries. The disease in Northern Germany, he says, is new to this country, although for twenty-eight years it has appeared extensively in successive small epidemics, both in Europe and America, throughout the entire breadth of the north temperate zone. It is a specific, nervous affection of a very painful and very dangerous kind; but Dr. Blanc does not look on the conclusion that it is not communicable from one individual to another. Dr. Blanc, in conclusion, says that the plague never leaves the Baltic in quarantine, but he urges that great care should be exercised by the authorities of the ports to detect the kind of fever which may occur on board vessels from Russian or German ports.

AMERICA.

FALL OF RICHMOND AND PETERSBURG.

RETREAT OF LEE.

We were able to announce in a part of our Town Edition last week that General Lee and his army, after a hurried defeat, had left Petersburg and Richmond had been evacuated by the Confederates and occupied by the victorious Federals, who occupied by the Federals. Richmond had also been evacuated at the same time, and was likewise occupied by General Weitzel's Federal corps on the morning of the 3rd inst. The Confederates had blown up their vessels of war at Richmond and Petersburg, had destroyed most of the bridges, and had burned large quantities of tobacco and stores. Nothing was accurately known as to the amount of the losses on each side, but on the 4th inst. General Grant estimated that his entire losses up to that date would not exceed 7000 men killed, wounded, and missing, and that on the previous day more than 2000 Confederates were made prisoners; and in a previous despatch of the 2nd inst. he had stated that up to that time his army had taken at least 12,000 prisoners. The correspondents of the New York newspapers asserted that the Confederates had lost altogether 25,000 prisoners and 15,000 killed or wounded. According to the latest news from New York (to the 8th inst.) Generals Grant, Sheridan, and Meade were in hot pursuit of the Confederates, capturing prisoners by the thousand.

DETAILS OF THE BATTLES.

The New York correspondent of the Times, writing on the 5th inst., thus describes the opening battles of the great Federal victory :—

Sheridan left in the night (of Tuesday, March 28), with his whole cavalry force, to make an attempt to reach the Southside Railroad. Most people imagined his destination was Burkesville, the point of junction between the Southside and Danville roads. He passed Dinwiddie Courthouse on Wednesday morning, all well; but it now began to leak out that he was not going to Burkesville at all, but was simply engaged in an attempt to turn Lee's right flank. On Wednesday afternoon the rain set in; the roads in two hours were converted into a quagmire, and so, of course, was the country round them. This delayed his march seriously, revealed the nature of his movement to the enemy, and, in fact, precipitated the crisis. On the same day the whole army of the Potomac moved out of its old position, except two corps left to hold the intrenchment, and pushed off in the old style to the left, and bivouacing that night on the northward side of the Vaughan-road.

It had by this time, doubtless, become apparent to Lee where Grant was, and he made his preparations to foil him with his usual energy. Pickett's division, one of the largest in his army, was sent to look after Sheridan; it found him with trains stuck in the mud, his horses in much the same fix, the men living on hard biscuits and drenched with twenty-four hours' rain. The 5th Corps, under General Warren, had been sent in support of him. It was to seize the White Oak-road and hold it, while a brigade of the cavalry pushed into the railroad at Five Forks; but the infantry did not come up, or was repulsed, some say owing to the rain; others, owing to Warren's disobedience of orders or remissness. Sheridan evidently took the latter view of it, for he relieved him of his command on the following day. As soon as it was disposed of, the enemy flung the whole of Pickett's division on Sheridan. The country was thickly wooded, most of the ground impracticable for cavalry, whose light carbines, if they were dismounted, could do little against the Confederate rifles. Sheridan was pressed hard during the day, losing, perhaps, a thousand men and a good deal of ground, and was only enabled to stop his retreat near nightfall by the arrival of Custer with two fresh brigades. So far the movement had not been very prosperous.

Thursday was a comparatively quiet day. Little was done beyond skirmishing. Lee was probably occupied in massing his troops, while the Federals were fairly mud-bound. The 5th Corps held a position between Gravelly Run and Hatcher's Run, about a mile north of the junction of the Quaker road and Boydton road.

At daylight on Friday morning a column composed of Wise's and Johnson's divisions, and one from Pickett's corps, flung itself upon it, and drove Crawford's and Ayre's division in confusion from the field for nearly two miles. They were not rallied till the afternoon, and then only south of the Boydton road. The offensive was resumed, with the assistance of the 2nd Corps, and, after a desperate conflict, the enemy was driven in, and at nightfall the Federals had advanced their position so as to hold the White Oak-road.

THE BATTLE AT THE FIVE FORKS.

On Friday night General Grant, dissatisfied, like most other observers on the Federal side, with the day's business, placed General Sheridan in the supreme command of the whole of Warren's corps and all the cavalry. The brilliant contest of Saturday is most vividly narrated in the following extract from the report furnished by the correspondent of the New York World :—

At daybreak on Saturday Sheridan fired four signal-guns to admonish Warren he was off; and his cavalry, by diverging roads, struck their camps. Just south of Culpepper is a certain Stony Creek, the tributaries to which wind northward and control the roads. Over Stony Creek went Crook, making the longest detour. Custer took a bottom called Chamberlain's Bed; and Devin advanced from Little Five Forks—the whole driving the rebels towards the left of their works on White Oak-road.

We must start with the supposition that our own men far outnumbered the rebels. The latter were widely separated from their comrades before Petersburg, and it was a part of our scheme to push them back into their intrenchments. This work was delegated to the cavalry entirely; but mounted carabineers are no match for stubborn, bayoneted infantry. So when the horsemen were close up to the rebels they were dismounted and acted as infantry. All the afternoon the cavalry pushed them hard, and the strife went on uninterruptedly and terrifically.

Through wood, and brake, and swamp; across field and trench (says the correspondent), we pushed the fighting defenders steadily. For a part of the time Sheridan himself was there, short and broad, and active, waving his hat, giving orders, seldom out of fire, but never stationary; and close by fell the long, yellow locks of Custer, sabre extended, fighting like a Viking, though he was worn and haggard with much work.

After a time Sheridan got overwhelming forces to bear upon the Southern position, and forced a crisis which is thus finely described by the same writer, whose descriptions, graphic as they are, must have been penned with extraordinary quickness and promptitude to reach us by the same mail as brings the telegraphic summary of the same news. He says :—

Little by little, Sheridan, extending his lines, drove the whole rebel force into their breastworks; then he dismounted the mass of his cavalry and charged the works, straight in front, still thundering on their flank. At last every rebel was safe behind his intrenchments. Then the signal was given, and concealed infantry, many thousand strong, sprang up and advanced by echelon to the right. Imagine a great barn-door shutting to, and you have the movement, if you can also imagine the door itself, hinge and all, moving forward also. At six o'clock the whole corps column came crash upon the full flank of the astonished rebels. Now came the pitch of the battle. We were already on the rebel right in force, and thinly in their rear. Our carabineers were making feint to charge in direct front, and our infantry, four deep, hemmed in their entire left. All this they did not for an instant note, so thorough was their confusion; but, seeing it directly, they, so far from giving up, concentrated all energy, and fought like fiends. They had a battery in position which belched incessantly, and over the breastworks their musketry made one unbroken roll, while against Sheridan's prowlers on their left, by skirmish and sortie, they stuck to their sinking fortunes so as to win unwilling applause from mouths of wisest censure.

It was just at the coming up of the infantry that Sheridan's little band was pushed the hardest. At one time, indeed, they seemed about to undergo extermination; not that they wavered, but that they were so vastly overpowered. It will remain to the latest time a matter of marvel that so paltry a cavalry force could press back 16,000 infantry; but when the infantry blew like a great barn-door—the simile best applicable—upon the enemy's left, the victory that was to come had passed the region of strategy and resolved to an affair of personal courage. We had met the enemy; were they to be ours? To expedite this consummation, every officer fought as if he were the forlorn hope. Mounted on his black pony (the same which he rode at Winchester), Sheridan galloped everywhere, his flushed face all the redder, and his plethoric but nervous figure all the more ubiquitous. He galloped once straight down the rebel front, with but a handful of his Staff. A dozen bullets whistled for him together; one grazed his arm, at which a faithful orderly rode; the black pony leaped high, in fright; and Sheridan was untouched, but the orderly lay dead in the field, and the saddle dashed away empty. The fight, as we closed upon the rebels, was singularly free from great losses on our side, though desperate as any contest ever fought on the continent. One prolonged roar of rifles shook the afternoon; we carried no artillery; and the rebel battery, until its capture, raked us like an irrepressible demon, and at every foot of the intrenchments a true man fought, in front and behind. The birds of the forest fled afar; the smoke ascended to heaven; locked in such mad frenzy, none saw the sequel of the closing day. Now Richmond rocked in her high towers to watch the impending issue, but soon the day began to look grey, and a pale moon came tremorously out to watch the meeting squadrons. Imagine along a line of a full mile thirty thousand men struggling for life and prestige; the woods gathering about them—but yesterday the home of hermit hawks and chipmonks—now ablaze with bursting shells, and showing in the dusk the curl of flames in the tangled grass, and, rising up the boles of the pine trees, the scaling, scorching tongues. Seven hours this terrible spectacle had been enacted, but the finale of it had almost come.

It was, by all accounts, in this hour of victory when the modest and brave General Wintrop, of the first brigade, Ayres division, was mortally wounded. He was riding along the breastworks, and in the act, as I am assured, of saving a friend's life, was shot through the left lung. He fell at once, and his men, who loved him, gathered round and took him tenderly to the rear, where he died before the stretcher on which he lay could be deposited beside the meeting-house door.

At seven o'clock the rebels came to the conclusion that they were outflanked and whipped. They had been so busily engaged that they were a long time finding out how desperate were their circumstances; but now, wearied with persistent assaults in front, they fell back to the left, only to see four close lines of battle waiting to drive them across the field, decimated. At the right, the horsemen charged them in their vain attempt to fight "out," and in the rear straggling foot and cavalry began also to assemble; slant fire, cross fire, and direct fire, by file and volley, rolled in perpetually, cutting down their bravest officers and strewing the fields with bleeding men; groans resounded in the intervals of exploding powder, and, to add to their terror and despair, their own artillery, captured from them, threw into their own ranks, from its old position, ungrateful grape and cannister, enfilading their breastworks, whizzing and plunging by air line and ricochet, and at last bodies of cavalry fairly mounted their intrenchments and charged down the parapet, slashing and trampling them, and producing inextricable confusion. They had no commanders—at least no orders—and looked in vain for some guiding hand to lead them out of a toil into which they had fallen so bravely and so blindly. A few more volleys, a new and irresistible charge, a shrill and warning command to die or surrender, and, with a sullen and fearful impulse, 5000 muskets are flung upon the ground, and 5000 hot, exhausted, and impotent men are Sheridan's prisoners of war. Thus ended the splendid victory of Five Forks. General Longstreet, it is thought, commanded.

THE BATTLE BEFORE PETERSBURG.

On learning of this success on the extreme left, Grant determined on a general assault along the whole line for next day. The 9th Corps held the ground from the extreme right of the whole Federal line as far as to the Weldon Railroad, opposite the middle of Petersburg. The 6th Corps, which appears to have been recalled from the left, was opposite the remaining part of the Petersburg works; next, it would seem, came the 24th, the 2nd, and the 5th, the whole forming a line of fully twenty miles in length. The assault took place at all points at four o'clock in the morning of Sunday, the 2nd of April. It was received with a terrific fire of artillery from the forts, and with the most gallant resistance on the part of their garrisons. But the Federal rush was irresistible. The 9th Corps on the right, and the 6th on the left, broke through the lines opposite them, and swept down to each flank, capturing in succession the forts by which the line was strengthened. Sheridan, on his part, had done his work with equal efficiency. From the point on the Southside Railway, which the night before he had seized, he immediately commenced his march eastward, closing in upon Petersburg. So ended the day. Its results were 12,000 prisoners and fifty guns taken, and the Federals established in overwhelming force within reach of the last line of defences of the city. But in the night Lee anticipated capture, and evacuated both Richmond and Petersburg.

OCCUPATION OF PETERSBURG AND RICHMOND BY THE FEDERALS.

On the following day, the 3rd of April, the two towns were entered by the victors, amid the shouts of the secret sympathisers, so long repressed, and of the negroes, frantic with joy, who had not yet been permitted the privilege of fighting their deliverers.

Wednesday, April 5, 10.20 p.m.

The following details respecting the evacuation of Richmond and its occupation by the Union forces were telegraphed to the War Department, Washington, from that city :—

General Wietzel learnt, at three o'clock in the morning of Monday, that Richmond was being evacuated, and at daylight moved forward, first taking care to give his men breakfast, in the expectation that they might have to fight. He met no opposition, and, on entering the city, was greeted with hearty welcome from the mass of the people. The Mayor went out to meet him and to surrender the city, but missed him on the road. General Weitzel finds much suffering and poverty among the population. The rich as well as the poor are destitute of food. He is about to issue supplies to all who take the oath. The inhabitants number about 20,000, half of them of African descent. Jefferson Davis left at seven p.m. by the Danville Railroad. All the members of Congress escaped. Hunter has gone home. Judge Campbell remains here. General Weitzel took here 1000 prisoners besides the wounded. These number 5000, in nine hospitals. He captured cannon to the number of at least 500 pieces. Five thousand muskets have been found in one lot. Thirty locomotives and 300 cars are found here. The Petersburg Railroad bridge is totally destroyed; that of the Danville-road partially, so that connection with Petersburg can easily be made. All the rebel vessels are destroyed except an unfinished ram, which has her machinery in her perfect. The Tredegar Works are unharmed and the machinery was taken to-day, under General Weitzel's orders. Libby Prison and Castle Thunder have also escaped the fire, and are filled with rebel prisoners of war. Most of the editors have fled, especially John Mitchell. The Whig appears as a Union paper, with the name of the former proprietor at the head. General Weitzel describes the reception of President Lincoln as enthusiastic in the extreme.

In St. Paul's Church, near the War Department building, President Davis was (according to one account) sitting at the time General Lee's telegram announcing the turning of the Confederate right on the White Oak-road was received. The clergyman had nearly finished his sermon when an orderly entered the church, passed straight to the President's pew, and handed to him the fatal despatch. Mr. Davis immediately proceeded to the War department, thence to the Capitol, and thence to the Richmond and Danville Railroad dépôt, where he made the necessary preparations for the conveyance of his family to a place of safety. He remained in the city until near nightfall, when he left in the 5.30 train.

A letter from Richmond, published in the New York Times, gives the following account of President Lincoln's visit to the late Confederate capital :—

Head-quarters, Army of the James, Richmond, April 4.

The most interesting fact to be recorded to-day is the visit of the President to Richmond. Mr. Lincoln, accompanied by his young son and Admiral Porter, arrived at the Rocketts at two p.m., in the Malvern, and proceeded at once to the mansion of ex-President Davis, now the head-quarters of Major-General Weitzel. The arrival of the President soon got noised abroad, and the coloured population turned out in great force, and for a time blockaded the quarters of the President, cheering vociferously. It was to be expected that a population that three days since were in slavery should evince a strong desire to look upon the man whose edict had struck for ever the manacles from their limbs. A considerable number of the white population cheered the President heartily, and but for the order of the Provost Marshal, issued yesterday, ordering them to remain within their homes quietly for a few days, without doubt there would have been a large addition to the numbers present. After a short interval the President held a levée—General Devins introducing all the officers present. The President shook hands with each and received the hearty congratulations of all. The presidential party, attended by Generals Weitzel, Devins, Shepley, and a brilliant staff of officers, then made a tour round the city, drove rapidly round the capital, stopping for a few moments to admire Crawford's magnificent statue of Washington in the grounds of the Capitol, and returned to General Weitzel's head-quarters at 5.30. The President and party left Richmond at 6.30 p.m. Admiral Farragut arrived here this morning on a flying visit, and returned to City Point this evening down the James. It is very satisfactory to be able to state that the torpedoes have been removed and that six of our gun-boats are at the present time lying off the "Rocketts." The destruction of property by the fire yesterday is enormous, and must amount to tens of millions of dollars. The dense volumes of smoke and the intense heat rendered it impossible to form an adequate idea of the extent of the property destroyed yesterday. The entire business portion of the city is a heap of smouldering ruins, and nothing but the absence of wind saved the entire city from destruction. There is but one feeling of unmitigated disgust expressed by the residents at this barbarous outrage. It is positively asserted that General Breckinridge gave the order that the tobacco and the Government workshops should be set fire to, and the close proximity of other valuable property rendered its escape from destruction almost impossible. The greater portion of the tobacco destroyed is said to have belonged to France and England. A regular mail communication between this and City Point will be established to-morrow, under the superintendence of Lieutenant Parker, who has been stationed at City Point for some time in the same capacity. Lieutenant Parker has taken possession of the old Post Office here, which is well adapted for the purpose. The publication of the Whig newspaper is resumed, under the management of one of its proprietors, who has always been opposed to secession. I inclose the first copy issued of the reformed journal, which states the circumstances under which its publication is permitted to be resumed. It is gratifying to state that the city is perfectly tranquil, and that the general behaviour of our troops is all that could be desired and has elicited the admiration of the citizens generally.

PURSUIT OF LEE'S FORCES.

The pursuit of Lee began as soon as his flight from Wilson's station, on the 4th inst., was known. General Grant telegraphed to the Secretary of War :—

The army is pushing forward in the hope of overtaking and dispersing the remainder of Lee's army. Sheridan, with his cavalry and the 5th Corps, is between this and the Appomattox; General Meade, with the 2nd and 5th, following. General Ord is following the line of the Southside Railroad. All of the enemy that retain anything like organisation have gone north of the Appomattox, and are apparently heading for Lynchburg. Their losses have been very heavy. Houses through the country are nearly all used as hospitals for wounded men. In every direction I hear of rebel soldiers pushing for home—some in large, some in small squads, and generally without arms. The cavalry have pursued so closely that the enemy have been forced to destroy probably the greater part of their transportation, caissons, and munitions of war. The number of prisoners captured yesterday will exceed 2800. From the 28th of March to the present time our loss in killed, wounded, and captured will not probably reach 7000, of whom from 1500 to 2000 were captured, and many but slightly wounded. I shall continue the pursuit as long as there appears to be any use in it.

It will be observed that Lee's precise course was not known. But it was at least certain that his only route lay westward, and General Grant lost not an hour in directing the pursuit. It seems to have been conducted in three columns. One, consisting of the cavalry, with (perhaps) the 5th Army Corps, under the command of Sheridan, was in advance, and struck the Danville Railway leading from Richmond to Burksville Junction, near Amelia Courthouse, about forty miles from Richmond and twelve from Burksville. General Meade followed on a line a little to the south, commanding the 2nd and 6th Corps. Grant himself accompanied the left wing, consisting of the 24th and part of the 25th Corps, under General Ord, on the direct Burksville road, parallel with the Southside Railway, and which passes through Nottaway Courthouse, about ten miles south-east of Burksville. But it was not till Tuesday, the 4th, when these positions were reached, that any distinct information was obtained of the whereabouts of what remained of the routed army. On the evening of that day Sheridan sent word to Meade that if he could get his column up in time he might capture or disperse Lee's army, then resting at Amelia Courthouse. On Wednesday, the 5th, Sheridan was at Jeffersville, half way between Amelia Courthouse and Burkesville, thus cutting Lee off from the junction and preventing his adopting the route to Danville; and the Federal General, pushing a brigade still further to the left, captured five guns, 200 waggons, and a number of prisoners. The 2nd Corps joined him in the forenoon, and the 6th in the afternoon; and Grant himself, leaving Ord's division, which proceeded to and captured Burkesville the same night, moved across the country, at the earness request of his cavalry lieutenant, to be present with the advance. On Thursday, the 6th, Meade received intelligence that Lee was pointing in the direction of Farmville, a point on the Lynchburg Railway, about eight miles west of Burkesville. The Federal troops were at this time proceeding in a northerly direction from Burkesville, but their route was at once changed to the north-west; the 6th Corps, which had been on the right, meantime moving along the rear to the left, to form the extreme left of the line; the 2nd forming the centre, and the 5th the right. The cavalry were on the continuation of the left flank. The 2nd Corps soon became engaged with the enemy, and drove him across Sailor's Creek, a stream which falls into the Appomattox river about eight miles north of Burkesville. The 6th Corps, with Sheridan's cavalry, came up about four p.m., and instantly charged. The result was decisive, and six Confederate Generals were captured—Ewall, Kershaw, Button, Corse, Debare, and Curtis Lee—and several thousand prisoners, fourteen guns, and many caissons fell into the hands of the victors. For two miles the road was strewn with tents, baggage, cooking utensils, and ammunition. Several times the enemy appears to have rallied, and to have attempted a stand behind intrenchments or natural obstacles; but he was successively driven from them, and only nightfall seems to have prevented his utter dispersion or surrender. At this point the narrative for the present stops.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There had been extraordinary rejoicings throughout the North; and speeches had been made by several members of the Government. In his speech, Secretary Seward said that, if the people approved, the policy of the United States would be non-interference in the domestic affairs of other nations, and that, if England were just towards the United States, Canada would be left undisturbed.

A serious accident happened to Mr. Seward, in Washington, on the 5th inst. The horses of his carriage in which he was driving with his family took fright and became unmanageable. Mr. Seward jumped from the vehicle and fell heavily on his side, fracturing his right jaw and the right arm above the elbow. The ladies in the carriage sat still and escaped unhurt. Mr. Seward's present condition is represented as favourable.

There has been fighting at Mobile, with varying success. The intelligence is, however, to the 30th ult., and probably the affair is over by this time. Both land and sea forces were engaged in the reduction of the place.

Sherman was still resting at Goldsboro' on the 4th, but was expected to move against Raleigh and into Virginia.

Two new military movements are reported of a subordinate character, but which cannot fail to harass the Confederacy, should it survive the blows already received. One, under the direction of General Wilson, is aimed as the heart of Alabama, and then to strike at Mobile; the other, commanded by General Hancock, is directed up the Shenandoah Valley, for an attack on Lynchburg.

The Herald asserts that President Lincoln has opened negotiations with Judge Campbell for a settlement with the South, and that President Davis requested the latter to remain in Richmond for that purpose.

Sir Frederick Bruce, the successor at Washington of Lord Lyons, has arrived out.

The Federal negro recruiting commission has been removed from Washington to Richmond in order to organise the negro recruiting in Virginia.

The Federal transport General Lyon, with nearly 600 troops and bands on board, has been destroyed by fire on her passage from Wilmington to Fort Monroe, when over 500 persons perished, including the captain, who, crazed with fear, was one of the first to desert the ship in a boat, which was immediately swamped.

BRITISH NORTH AMERICA.

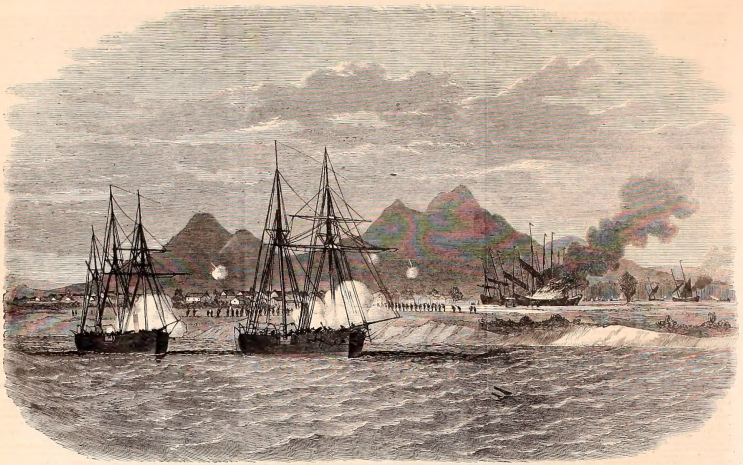
The Canadian Government seems determined to enforce their neutrality obligations, despite the action of the Montreal Court. The question of the extradition of the St. Albans raiders will be raised before the entire bench of Judges. Montreal despatches state that the raiders had been removed to Toronto, and were expected to be brought before the Judges there on the 10th inst. Their removal caused much excitement at Montreal, and it was deemed expedient to escort them to the railway station by a strong detachment of troops, lest any attempt should be made to rescue them. The Federal Government has, it is said, withdrawn its demand for the extradition of the prisoners, in consequence of the action of the Canadian Executive.

Mr. Henry Stanhope Freeman, the Governor of Lagos, died, at Tunis, on the 7th inst., in his thirtieth year.

Mr. Charles Lyster Ryan, private secretary to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, has been appointed Secretary of the Audit Board, in room of Charles Zachary Macaulay, who has retired.

A movement is in progress for the formation of a national volunteer artillery association, based on principles nearly similar to those of the National Rifle Association. One of the rules provides that a number of men from each battery will be selected each year to compete, whose expenses will be paid for them.

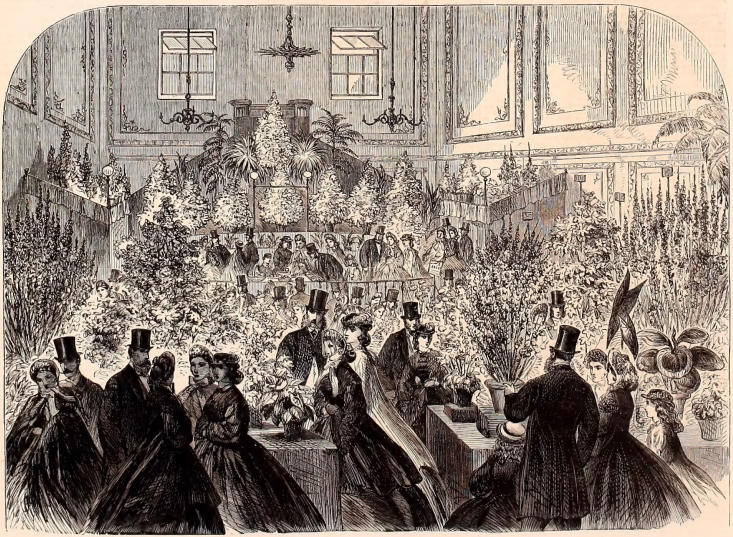
Queen Emma of Hawaii, the widowed consort of the late King, is on her way to England, which she visits for the first time. A British ship of war belonging to the Pacific squadron has been placed at Queen Emma's disposal, which will bring her to Panama. The Queen will be accompanied by Mr. W. W. Follett Synge, H.B.M.'s Commissioner and Consul-General in Hawaii, and by the Hon. Charles Gordon Hopkins, Minister of Interior, in the capacity of private secretary.



ATTACK ON THE CHINESE PIRATES NEAR AMOY.

A PART of the British squadron on the coast of China was lately employed in chastising the pirates who inhabit the village of Kwan-Tsiu, a few miles from the port of Amoy. Captain Kingston, of H.M.S. Pelorus, with the armed boats of his own ship and with a force of sailors and marines, accompanied by the gun-boats Flamer and Janus, left Amoy on Feb. 1, at nine o'clock in the morning, and arrived off this village at half-past two in the afternoon. An officer, by whom we have been favoured with the sketch this week engraved, thus relates the issue of the affair :—"The pirates came down in great numbers on the beach, waving their flags, and at once opened a sharp and heavy fire of gingals and musketry. After firing shell and rockets at them our boats made a dash for the beach, under cover of the fire of the gun-boats; while the enemy still kept up a good fire, but retired as we advanced. The marines were then thrown out in skirmishing order, covering the advance of the remainder of the force, who now pushed forward towards the junks and lorchas moored at the head of a creek in the rear of the village, which, after some opposition, were set on fire by a party of picked men. We then re-embarked and returned to Amoy. We were accompanied throughout the day by the chief military mandarins of Amoy, and have since received from the Governor of the district a letter of thanks."

A FLOWER SHOW IN THE ALBION HALL,



MOORGATE-STREET.

THE United Horticultural Society held its first monthly exhibition, on Tuesday week, in the Albion Hall, Moorgate-street. The committee of this society consists of twenty-six gentlemen, of whom seventeen are nurserymen or floriculturists and nine are gardeners to various noblemen and gentlemen. The president is Mr. William Marshall, of Clay-hill, Enfield. The objects of the society are to promote the science of horticulture by exhibitions of plants, flowers, and fruits, and by lectures, essays, and discussions on points of horticultural practice; as well as to establish means for bringing gardeners together for friendly union and mutual assistance. As the exhibitions are to be held in a central position in the city of London, it is hoped that many gentlemen who are unable to attend the West-End shows will find it convenient and agreeable to attend those of this society. The money thus raised will go to promote the formation of a benefit fund for gardeners during seasons of sickness, of calamity, and in old age. There are no substantial prizes, but honorary certificates are given for meritorious specimens. The collection on the present occasion would have been larger had more space been obtainable. Among the most prominent specimens we may mention the orchidaceous plants exhibited by Mr. Archer, gardener to William Marshall, Esq.; stove greenhouse plants, by Messrs. Fraser; azaleas (the Duke of Buccleuch), by Turner, of Slough—first-class certificate; also, by Messrs. Lane, of Berkhamstead; splendid roses, by Paul and Son, Cheshunt; ericas and miscellaneous plants, by Mr. Rose, of Sydenham Park; new plants, by Turner, of Slough; miscellaneous new plants, by Williams, of Holloway; miscellaneous new plants, by Mr. Wheeler, gardener to Mr. Philpott, of Stamford-hill; and strawberries, by Mr. Knight, gardener to the Earl of Lovelace. We give an illustration of this pleasant scene in the City.

THE CREWS OF H.M.S. PELORUS, PLAMER, AND JANUS ATTACKING THE CHINESE PIRATES AT KWANTSIU, NEAR AMOY.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

FLOWER SHOW OF THE UNITED HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY, ALDION HALL, MOORGATE-STREET.

PROGRESS OF THE THAMES EMBANKMENT: VIEW FROM WESTMINSTER BRIDGE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE THAMES EMBANKMENT AT WESTMINSTER.

The Illustrated London News of July 30, last year, contained an Engraving which represented the ceremony of laying the first stone of the Thames Embankment, in the bed of the river, 27 ft. below high-water mark, in front of Whitehall Stairs. This ceremony was performed by the First Commissioner of Public Works, the Right Hon. W. F. Cowper, in the presence of the members of the Metropolitan Board of Works and a numerous company assembled within the inclosure, resembling a cofferdam, which had been formed by sinking a row of iron caissons in close contiguity with each other along the projected outer line of the Embankment. A description of this plan, invented by Mr. Joseph Phillips, one of the engineers of the Charing-cross Railway, appeared in the Number of our Journal to which we have referred. The contractor for that portion of the Embankment between Westminster and Waterloo Bridges is Mr. George Furness; and he has proceeded so rapidly with its construction that our readers may be surprised with the view of its actual state, presented on page 369 of the present Number. This view is taken from Westminster Bridge, looking towards the Charing-cross Railway station, with Montagu House and Whitehall-gardens on the left hand. The outer wall of the proposed embankment, or rather, the outer barrier, formed of the caissons and intermediate timber piles, behind which the masonry of the wall is now being built, extends from directly beneath the spectator in a straight line through the centre of the View. Its top is overlaid with a broad flooring, upon which is a railroad for the travelling steam-engines and cranes employed to raise bricks and stone from the barges on one side of the wall and to let down the same building materials into the deep hollow space on the other. This hollow space, which is kept open by a series of horizontal or diagonal beams fixed across it, between the outer barrier and the scaffolding to the left hand, will form the site of the great Low-level Sewer and of the subway running above the sewer—two covered passages, one upon the top of the other, along the whole line of the Embankment. The subway is intended to hold the gas-pipes, water-pipes, and the other underground apparatus of a modern city, all which may thus be reached, for repairs or any other purpose, without disturbing the public roadway or terrace above. The row of tall posts and connected scaffolding which is shown rather to the left hand in our View, running parallel with the summit of the outer wall, on the other side of that deep hollow space, marks the line of the inner wall of the proposed sewer and subway. It sustains a temporary wooden platform, corresponding in its elevation to the summit of the outer wall, and likewise furnished with a railroad for the movable cranes and pumps, which are thus enabled most easily to shift their position by the aid of the locomotive steam-engines. Square openings, very similar to a theatrical trap-door, are made by removing two or three planks of this platform wherever required; and the men continually bring earth or rubbish in wheelbarrows to these openings, and there empty the wheelbarrows, casting the stuff below to augment the solid mass of new ground which is growing up within the walls of the Embankment. The extent of such new ground already made is seen by a glance at the left-hand portion of our View. Much of it has been accumulated by the simple process of discharging many successive cartloads on the spot where the ground was to be raised; but for the portion adjacent to the wall of the sewer, to be raised beneath the platform of the temporary scaffolding, the stuff is deposited by the barrowful through trapdoors in the platform, as we have just described. The woodwork may hereafter be removed; but the massive wrought-iron caissons along the outer line, which protect the foundations of the river-wall, are to remain for ever; so that the Thames Embankment, like our modern fortresses and ships of war, will be permanently an iron-clad structure. These caissons, which are almost entirely hidden in our Engraving by the level floor upon the summit of the outer wall, are huge oval cylinders placed upright in the river, sunk as deep as possible into the clay of its bed. The inside of the cylinders is filled up with concrete; and they are firmly locked together by driving piles down between them, fitted into their external grooves. Each caisson is 7 ft. or 8 ft. in diameter and built in divisions of 4 ft. 6 in. in height. The foundations of the river-wall were carried down to 20 ft. below Ordnance datum—that is, 32 ft. 6 in. below Trinity high-water level, or 14 ft. below low-water level. From this depth the trenches were filled with concrete to 12 ft. 6 in., or thereabouts, below the datum (that is, to 6 ft. 6 in. below low-water level); and a bed was dressed to the proper slope and level for the footings of the brick wall. The brickwork itself is most substantial, and will be faced with granite from 2 ft. below low-water mark upwards, with an ornamental stone parapet. The Low-level Sewer, in this part of its course, will have a clear diameter of 7 ft. 9 in., but of 8 ft. 3 in. elsewhere. The fall will be that generally adopted as the minimum, 1 in 2640, or 2 ft. per mile. The subway will be over the sewer, with an interval of about 4 ft., and it will be 9 ft. in width and 7 ft. 6 in. in height to the crown of the arch, and 3 ft. in the straight sides. The crown will be 2 ft. 1½ in. below the surface of the footway, which surface is 4 ft. above high-water line. The floor of the subway (to be gravelled) is to be about 5 ft. 6 in. below high water, and is to be on a level, except where it crosses certain overflow-chambers near to Waterloo Bridge.

A correspondent of the Times calls attention to the injuries which the gales have inflicted on the fortifications at Alderney. "Will it be credited," he asks, "that in one part upwards of 100 ft. of finished work, and 30 ft. in another, have been completely washed away, leaving some 400 ft. at the mercy of the next gales, quite isolated, to say nothing of the whole structure being more or less injured? How is it that such ravages, having taken place, have never been made public? Judge of my astonishment at finding them still continuing the work. Perhaps this may meet the eye of some member of Parliament who will move for a return of the damage done, and at what expense to the country."

The Japanese army (says the Moniteur de l'Armée) is composed of two distinct elements, comprising:—1, The troops maintained by the feudal chiefs termed daimios, for the purpose of defending their domains; and, 2, the troops maintained by the Tycoon, which constitute the Imperial army properly speaking. The number of the daimios having troops in their service is 200, and these troops form an effective of 370,000 infantry and 40,000 cavalry. These constitute the federal army, and are placed at the disposition of the Tycoon whenever the independence of the country is menaced. The Imperial army usually maintained by the Tycoon was supposed to be 100,000 infantry and 20,000 cavalry, but its effective did not in reality exceed half that number. The present Tycoon has, however, re-organised it. It will henceforth comprise 80,000 men—infantry, cavalry, artillery, and engineers. The infantry will be divided into regiments; they will manœuvre like our soldiers, and will also be armed as they are. A certain number of Japanese officers and subalterns have been instructed by us at Yokohama, and are now going to instruct their countrymen.

A meeting was held in the Townhall of Manchester, on Tuesday, to consider the best means of raising a memorial to the late Mr. Cobden. The Mayor took the chair. Letters of apology and regret for non-attendance were announced from the borough members and from the member for Salford, who was attending a meeting in his own borough. The first resolution was this:—"That, in the opinion of this meeting, a statue of the late Richard Cobden, M.P., would constitute a suitable memorial of his eminent services to the country generally, and to this locality in particular." This was moved by Mr. Henry Ashworth, who made an able speech respecting the various movements with which Mr. Cobden's name was associated and the remarkable results of his patriotic labours. Mr. Oliver Heywood seconded the motion, and quoted the touching speech of Mr. Bright in the House of Commons on the Monday following Mr. Cobden's death. The quotation was received with prolonged cheering. Mr. E. W. Watkin, M.P., in an eloquent speech, supported the motion, which was then put and carried unanimously. The second resolution, organising a committee and opening a public subscription, was moved by Mr. M. Ross and seconded by Mr. T. B. Potter, M.P., who was warmly received by the meeting. Mr. Oliver Heywood was announced as treasurer, and Dr. John Watts honorary secretary, to the fund. The latter gentleman stated that during the meeting there had been subscribed by the Mayor, £50; Alderman Mackie, £50; Messrs. Heywood Brothers, £50; Sir Benjamin Heywood, £50; Mr. T. B. Potter, M.P., £50; Mr. J. Ashton, £50; Sir Elkanah Armitage and sons, £50; Mr. Watkin, M.P., £25; Mr. J. Slagg, £20; Mr. W. R. Callender, £20; Mr. J. Fildes, £10; Messrs. Ross, Boyd, and Co., £10.——The Manchester Guardian states that "a meeting of some of the more immediate friends of the late Mr. Cobden was held a few days ago in Manchester, for the purpose of considering whether, and to what extent, it might be desirable to make additional provision for his family. The gentlemen present, some of whom were intimately acquainted with Mr. Cobden's private affairs, as well as with his own wishes, after taking all the circumstances of the case into consideration, resolved to raise a sum of not less than £10,000 as a tribute of sorrowful esteem to the memory of their illustrious friend, and as a supplemental provision for those whom he has left behind. No doubt a much larger sum might have been named without any fear of exceeding the limits of public sympathy; but there are occasions—and, in the opinion of those who are best entitled to say so, the present is one of them—when genuine respect imposes some restraint. Mr. Thomas Thomasson, of Bolton, has been appointed treasurer to the fund, and Mr. Henry Rawson honorary secretary."

BIRTHS.

At Scotney Castle, Lamberhurst, Sussex, the Hon. Mrs. Hussey, of a son.

On the 15th inst., at Edinburgh, Lady Elphinstone, of a son.

On the 12th inst., at Thurloe-square, Lady Anne Sherson, of a son.

On the 15th inst., at 26, King Henry's-road South, Hampstead, the wife of George P. Neele, Esq., of a son.

On the 13th inst., at Hammersmith, the wife of Joseph James, Esq., of a daughter.

On the 4th inst., at 50, Hamilton-terrace, St. John's-wood, the wife of John Fair, Esq., of twins—a son and daughter, the former stillborn.

MARRIAGES.

On the 18th inst., at St. James's, Piccadilly, by the Rev. Thomas Schreiber, M.A., Thomas Lewin, Esq., 13, Upper Harley-street, to Mary Emily, widow of the late George Brock, Esq., and eldest daughter of the Rev. Thomas Schreiber, M.A.

On the 19th inst., at St. Mary's, Putney, by the Rev. J. F. Collins, of Betterton, Wantage, the father, assisted by the Rev. J. F. Collins, jun., M.A., of Highworth, Wilts, the brother, of the bridegroom, Henry Collins, Esq., of Reading, to Emily Justina, youngest daughter of Charles Bischoff, Esq., of the Inner Park-road, Wimbledon. No cards.

On the 19th inst., at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, by the Rev. Lord Wriothesley Russell, assisted by the Rev. William Conway, Canon of Westminster, Captain Wyndham, of the Rifles, to Miss Clarissa Elizabeth Russell, daughter of Lord Charles Russell.

DEATHS.

On the 11th inst., at 20, Brunswick-terrace, Brighton, deeply regretted, Anna Maria, the beloved wife of J. R. Worcester, Esq., aged 47.

On the 15th inst., at Sudbury, Middlesex, Arthur William Greatorex, eldest son of William Anthony Greatorex, Esq., of Chancery-lane and Sudbury, aged 28.

On the 13th inst., at Colomberie House, Jersey, Ann Susan, widow of the late Clement Hemery, Esq., in her 81st year.

At Dunollie, Argyleshire, Vice-Admiral Sir John MacDougall, K.C.B., of MacDougall, aged 75.

On the 14th inst., at Upton Gray House, Odiham, Lady Windham, wife of Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Windham, K.C.B., in the 42nd year of her age.

At Southampton, Sir William Wake, Bart., of Courteen Hall, Northamptonshire, in the 42nd year of his age.

At The Castle, Dublin, Robert G. Williams, Esq., son of the late Sir Robert Williams, Bart., of Fryars, Anglesey, aged 54.

On the 17th inst., the Hon. Lloyd Kenyon, son of Lord Kenyon, aged 30.

On the 18th inst., in London, Viscount Uffington, eldest son of the Earl and Countess of Craven.

On the 15th inst., at Woodfield Cottage, Inverness, of consumption, Isabella Alice Park, only daughter of the late Patric Park, Esq., R.S.A., and granddaughter of Robert Carruthers, Esq., Woodfield, Inverness, aged 19.

. The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 29.

SUNDAY, April 23.—Low Sunday. St. George the Martyr. William Shakspeare born, 1564; died, 1616. Death of J. Nollekens, sculptor, 1823.

MONDAY, 24.—Death of Daniel De Foe, author of "Robinson Crusoe," 1731. Birth of Edmund Cartwright, inventor of the power-loom, 1743.

TUESDAY, 25.—St. Mark, the Evangelist and martyr. The Convention Parliament, which decreed the restoration of Charles II., met, 1660. Birth of Princess Alice of England (now of Hesse), 1843. New moon, 2h. 13m., p.m.

WEDNESDAY, 26.—Ferdinand Magellan, the great navigator, killed at Matan, 1521.

THURSDAY, 27.—Birth of Edward Gibbon, historian, 1737. Death of James Bruce, the Abyssinian traveller, 1794.

FRIDAY, 28.—Captain Cook anchored in Botany Bay, New South Wales, 1770. Death of Sir Charles Bell, the great anatomist, 1842.

SATURDAY, 29.—Siege of Orleans raised by Joan of Arc, 1429. Birth of Alexander II., Czar of Russia, 1818. Proclamation of peace between England and France and Russia, 1856.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 29.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m	M h m	A h m
—	0 7	0 34	0 57	1 22	1 45	2 8	2 32	2 54	3 18	3 40	4 3	4 25	4 47

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	Daily Means of: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Thermometer: Minimum, read at 10 A.M.	Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Wind: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours. Read at 10 A.M.
	Inches.	°	°		0-10	°	°		Miles.	Inches
April 12	30·032	52·3	34·8	·55	8	41·4	62·0	H. ESE.	228	·000
13	29·946	54·2	45·4	·74	6	43·5	64·0	SSW. SW.	151	·001
14	..	..	..	..	..	44·7	56·3	..	128	·000
15	30·137	44·1	42·6	·95	10	44·1	53·1	BNE. NNE.	239	·130
16	..	..	..	..	..	41·2	65·4	..	382	·002
17	29·916	59·9	52·1	·77	10	49·7	68·3	ESE. SSE. S.	218	·162
18	29·910	56·2	52·9	·89	10	51·8	65·1	S.	129	·025

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected	30·078	29·961	29·960	30·143	30·189	29·952	29·897
Temperature of Air	51·2°	56·8°	51·0°	46·7°	52·4°	59·8°	67·7°
Temperature of Evaporation	48·2°	49·7°	48·4°	44·9°	46·9°	56·1°	51·7°
Direction of Wind	E.	SSW.	WNW.	BNE.	B.	ESE.	S.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE.—Managers, Messrs. E. FALCONER and F. B. CHATTERTON.—Triumphant and unprecedented success of the production of Milton's Mask of COMUS (vide Public Press).—On MONDAY, APRIL 24, Wednesday, April 26, and Friday, April 28, Sir E. Lytton Bulwer's Play of RICHELIEU—Cardinal Richelieu, Mr. Phelps. On Tuesday, April 25, Thursday, April 27, and Saturday, April 29, Shakspeare's Play of HENRY THE EIGHTH—Cardinal Wolsey, Mr. Phelps; concluding with, during the Week, Milton's Mask of COMUS. All the vast and complete Stage Appliances and Art-resources of the Theatre will be called into requisition to render this presentation a noble revival of a beautiful English Classic, and altogether in keeping with the poetical loveliness and excellence of the conception and the great fame of the Author of "Paradise Lost." The Scenical and Spectacular Effects will be designed and painted by Mr. William Beverley, and will consist of the Depths of a Wild Wood, the Tangled Brake, the Hall of Revelry in the Enchanter's Palace, and its mystical change to the Water-nymph's Retreat, and Sabrina's Translucent Home. The General Action of the Mask will be directed by Mr. Robert Roxby. The Cast of the Characters will include some of the principal members of the Company, of whom at present may be named Mr. Walter Lacy and Mrs. Herman Vezin. To give due effect to the Lyrical and Musical portions of the Mask, engagements have been formed with Mr. Wilbye Cooper, Mr. Henri Drayton, Miss Poole, and Miss Augusta Thomson (of the Conservatoire, Paris, and Bouffe's Parisiennes), who will be supported by a Choir of Fifty Voices and an Increased Orchestra, to be conducted by Mr. Barnard. Harp Accompaniments arranged and performed by Mr. Frederick Chatterton. The Masks and Decorative Furniture and Symbols will be designed from classical authorities by Mr. R. W. Keene. The Beautiful and Characteristic Dresses, from designs by the same artist, will be supplied by Mr. S. May and Mrs. Lawler. The Bacchanalian Dances and Revel-Rout will be arranged and directed by Mr. Cormack. Machinist, Mr. Tucker. Property-master, Mr. Needham. Doors open at Half-past Six; the performances to commence at Seven. Box Office open from Ten till Five daily. NOTICE.—In accordance with the promise made in the prospectus issued at the commencement of the season, a new and original Play, in Five Acts, by Mr. Edmund Falconer, entitled LOVE'S ORDEAL; or, The Old and New Regime, will shortly be produced.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Mr. Sothern, on MONDAY, APRIL 24, and during the Week, in the New Sensation, THE WOMAN IN MAUVE, and LORD DUNDREARY MARRIED AND DONE FOR—Dundreary, Mr. Sothern. Mr. Buckstone as Mary Ann Beetles and Asa Trenchard. Commencing, at Seven, with THREE WEEKS AFTER MARRIAGE; after which, at Eight, THE WOMAN IN MAUVE; followed by LORD DUNDREARY; concluding with FAMILY JARS—Mr. Compton.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Under the Sole Management of Mr. FECHTER.—On MONDAY and During the Week, at Half-past Eight o'Clock, THE MOUNTEBANK—Belphegor (the Mountebank), Mr. Fechter; Paul (his son), Master Fechter; supported by Messrs. H. Widdicomb, Ryder, Emery, Fitzpatrick, E. Garden, C. Horsman, Raymond, Moreland; Miss C. Leclerq, Mrs. C. Horsman, and Mdlle. Beatrice. Doors open at Half-past Six o'Clock. Box-office open daily from Eleven till Five. Commence at Seven.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. WEBSTER.—On MONDAY, and during the Week, MASKS AND FACES—Mr. B. Webster and Mrs. Stirling. PAN; or, The Loves of Echo and Narcissus—Mr. J. L. Toole and Mrs. A. Mellon. And THE STEEPLECHASE; or, in the Pigskin—Mr. J. L. Toole. Commence at Seven.

SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.—The SIXTY-FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION will OPEN at their Gallery, 5, PALL-MALL EAST (close to the National Gallery), on MONDAY NEXT. Admittance, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. GEORGE A. FRIPP, Secretary.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS. The Thirty-first Annual Exhibition will OPEN on MONDAY, at their GALLERY, 53, PALL-MALL (near St. James's Palace). Daily from Nine till Dusk. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. JAMES FAHEY, Sec.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—Now Visit the Palace. Delightful Spring appearance of Gardens and Park. Nature in early beauty.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—The New-Season Programme, and the New Guinea Season Ticket, and sets of Stalls for Opera Concerts, now ready, at 2, Exeter Hall, and at the Crystal Palace.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—THE AMUSEMENTS provided for the EASTER HOLIDAYS having proved so attractive and amusing, particularly to Children, they will be continued from Monday to Friday, when they must terminate.
Under the direction of Mr. Nelson Lee, the Martinetto Brothers and the funny Little Grimaldi in their clever performances, and the very laughable Pantomimic Ballet by the Lauri Family will be continued daily.
The Wizard of the North and Miss Anderson, also for the above five days only, in their "World of Magic" and "Second Sight" in the Concert Room. Admission, Sixpence.
These additional Attractions cannot be continued after Friday.
Skating Hall—Chinese Collection—Chimpanzee—Bowls, Archery, Cricket, Boats, &c. Doors open at Ten. One Shilling. Children, Sixpence.

GREAT HANDEL FESTIVAL.—STALL TICKETS will be on issue at the Crystal Palace and at 2, Exeter Hall, from Ten o'Clock on Monday next.
The alterations in the corner galleries were completed and tested on Good Friday, with the most satisfactory results. Hundreds of additional excellent seats are now at disposal. The side galleries and the front rows of raised seats, S and SS, will also be on issue on Monday. Sets, Two Guineas and a Half; Single Tickets, One Guinea.
REHEARSAL.—Tickets for the Great Full Rehearsal on Friday, June 23, will be ready at the same time.
A limited number of admission tickets for the Rehearsal will be issued at Five Shillings. When these are sold, the price of tickets will be raised to 7s. 6d.; or, by payment on the day, 10s. 6d.
Centre Blocks of Reserved Seats C and CC, and G and GG, will be issued at 5s. each for this day. The seats in these blocks will be arranged the same as on the three Festival days. Early application for them is essential.
Full particulars of Excursion-trains from distant parts—including admission to this Great Rehearsal, will be duly announced.
Cheques and post-office orders payable to George Grove.

THURTON'S "ODD FOLKS," with a New Piece of Extravagance, termed "GOING TO COURT," and Portraits of the Japanese Dandy, the Model Policeman, Idle Josh, and other Novelties, at USK, MONDAY, APRIL 24; Monmouth, 25th; Newport, 26th (return visit); Tredegar, 27th.
Manager, Mr. J. Morphy.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—Conductor, Professor Sterndale Bennett.—THIRD CONCERT MONDAY EVENING, MAY 1, at Eight o'Clock. MS. Symphony by Dr. Sterndale Bennett, composed expressly for the Philharmonic Society; Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony; Mendelssohn's Overture to "Ruy Blas;" Mozart's Overture to "Die Zauberflöte." Pianist, Mr. C. Hallé.
CAMPBELL CLARKE, Sec., 24, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

DOUBLE NUMBER.

A DOUBLE NUMBER of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS will be issued on Saturday Next, the 29th inst., consisting of a Picture Printed in Colours, entitled

"HAPPINESS,"

FROM A PAINTING BY J. J. HILL;

a Large Bird's-eye View of

LIVERPOOL FROM THE MERSEY;

and Two Sheets of News and Fine-Art Illustrations, among which are the following:—

THE VOLUNTEER REVIEW AND FIELD-DAY AT BRIGHTON. (FIVE ILLUSTRATIONS.)

The War in Bhootan: the Balla Pass.

The Federal American Ironclad Monadnock towing a Disabled Gunboat off Cape Hatteras in a Heavy Gale.

The late Confederate War-steamer Tallahasse in the Port of Liverpool.

The New Fort at Sandyhook, Entrance of the Bay of New York.

Preparations for the Dublin International Exhibition; Artillerymen Placing the Armstrong Guns.

Paris Fashions for May.

The Loan Collection in the South Kensington Museum: Sir Christopher Wren's Original Model for St. Paul's; Specimens of Sculpture in Metals.

The New Chapel of the Russian Embassy in Welbeck-street.

The Royal Penguin at the Zoological Society's Gardens, Regent's Park.

A Newly-imported Species of Indian Poultry.

Wild Tribes of India Defending a Mountain Pass.

Map of the Railways under Construction in our Indian Empire.

Fine-Art Illustrations: "The Highland Piper," by J. Richardson, in the General Exhibition of Water-colour Drawings; "A Stitch in Time Saves Nine," by Miss Kate Swift, in the Exhibition of the Female Artists; &c.

Price of the Whole, Tenpence; Stamped, to go free through the Post, One Shilling.

Advertisements for the Double Number should be sent in early next week to ensure insertion.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1865.

The planet Neptune was discovered, not by its venturing into the field swept by the telescopes of the English or French Galileo, but by the subtler process of observation of other objects. Disturbing causes, affecting other planets, were noticed, and had to be accounted for. The starry detectives found that these causes were due to some large body, and an extended search gave Neptune to the celestial map.

A careful observer of political phenomena would discover, in something like the same way, that dissolution is in the political heavens. A variety of disturbances in the thought, speeches, and actions of public men may just now be noted, and there is no good cause for them, unless, by exhaustive process, we refer them to what is to take place in July. Utterances are becoming both wilder and more deep; men are drawing their friends around them, and assuming new earnestness; and journalists are labouring to instruct their pupils how to draw their robes together and take their Parliamentary fall with dignity, in order to a speedy uprising again. It is delightful to observe how first principles are being scattered broadcast, and, instead of being regarded as a bore, are thankfully gathered up for reproduction. The Constitution has several times been brought out for an airing, as will have been noticed; and so have the Spirit of the Age and the Progress of Mankind. People have been standing about anyhow, as it is said that folk do at the church in the east of London where marriages are solemnised gratis on a particular day. The crowd has been too great for regular pairing off, but after the ceremony each wedded Jack will claim the Gill for whose benefit the vows were spoken by him. Political men hear the dissolution words, and "sort themselves." All things give sign of approaching contest.

Ourselves happily permitted to regard politics in a more

THE COURT.

On Thursday week the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa, drove in the neighbourhood of Windsor. Later in the day her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Helena, drove in the Great Park. Princess Helena rode in the Home Park. Prince Alfred and Princess Louisa rode out. Princess Beatrice drove out. In the evening Prince Alfred and Princess Helena, attended by Lady Caroline Barrington, Lieutenant-Colonel De Tuyl, and Dr. Bernhard, went to London and honoured the performances of the Sacred Harmonic Society, Exeter Hall, with their presence, remaining there a couple at night.

On Good Friday the Queen, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, and Princess Louisa, attended Divine service in the private chapel of the castle. The Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor administered the sacrament of the holy communion. The Rev. E. St. John Blunt preached the sermon. Later in the day her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Helena, walked and drove in the castle grounds. Princess Louisa attended by Lady Churchill, walked out. Prince Alfred, the anniversary of the birthday of Princess Beatrice.

On Saturday her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Louisa and attended by the Hon. Mrs. Bruce, the Hon. Lucy Kerr, and Major-General Bruce, drove in the Great Park. Princess Louisa rode. Princess Helena rode out. Princess Beatrice took a drive. The Duke of Cambridge visited the castle on a visit to her Majesty.

On Sunday the Queen, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Princess Beatrice, Prince Leopold, and the Duke of Cambridge attended Divine service in the private chapel of the castle. The Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor administered the sacrament of the holy communion. Prince Alfred attended the afternoon service at St. George's Chapel.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, walked in the castle grounds. Later in the day her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Helena, drove in the Great Park. Princess Louisa walked, attended by Lady Churchill, walked out. Prince Alfred, attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat, and Dr. Bernhard, went to Eton and inspected the boys. Prince Leopold left the castle for Stockridge-hun, on a visit to the Prince and Princess of Wales. The Right Hon. Charles Villiers, M.P., arrived at the castle on a visit to her Majesty. A juvenile party was given at the castle in honour of the birthday of Princess Beatrice. About twenty children of the Queen's Own Royal household had the honour of being invited. An entertainment took place in the White Drawing-room for the amusement of the juvenile guests.

On Tuesday the Queen, accompanied by Lady Churchill, walked and drove in the castle grounds. Princess Louisa drove out. Prince Leopold, attended by Mr. Buff, took a drive. The King of the Belgians left the castle en route for Belgium.

On Wednesday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa, walked in the Great Park. Her Majesty afterwards drove out.

The Queen, accompanied by the junior members of the Royal family, left the castle for Osborne, Isle of Wight, on Thursday last.

According to present arrangements, the Court will leave Osborne on the 3rd inst. for Windsor Castle, where her Majesty will hold a Court on the 19th of May, at Buckingham Palace. Her Majesty visits the members of the Royal family, within a few days after will proceed to Balmoral.

The Queen has been graciously pleased to confer the Order of the Garter on Prince Christian of Denmark.

Mr. Friend has had the honour of submitting for the Queen's inspection the new coinage of the realm, executed under the skill of the Prince of Wales.

Prince Arthur and Princess Louisa honoured Messrs. Windsor and Dodge with sittings, on Monday, for cameo portraits.

The Queen has appointed Lieutenant-Colonel Ponsonby as Lady in Waiting to the Queen. The Hon. Lucy Kerr and the Hon. Eleanor Stanley have resigned their offices. Caroline Barrington, the Hon. Florence Seymour as Maids of Honour in Waiting to her Majesty. Lord Cornwallis and Major-General Cadell have succeeded Viscount Torrington and Lieutenant-General Sir C. Grey as Lord and Groom in Waiting to the Queen.

THE VISIT OF THE KING OF THE BELGIANS.

The King of the Belgians, attended by Lieutenant-General de Meerkerken and Dr. Kogel, left Windsor Castle on Tuesday for Dover, en route for Belgium. Major-General Bruce, C.B., Equerry, Lieutenant-General the Hon. Sir Edward Cust, and Lieutenant-Colonel The Hon. Augustus Liddell, Equerries to the Prince Consort, Princess Helena, and Princess Louisa, accompanied the King to the Windsor station of the South-Western Railway. A large throng of the inhabitants had assembled to witness the departure of his Majesty. The King took his departure via the South-Western line at three o'clock. His Majesty, via the South-Western line, at three o'clock. His Majesty, with the Queen's train, to a special train. Mr. Cochon, traffic superintendent of the South-Western Company, and Mr. Knight, of the South-Eastern Railway, were in attendance on the King at the Victoria Station. Mr. Hunter's service was charged for one belonging to the South-Eastern Company, and the officials were in attendance upon the King. The Hon. Mr. Tesdon and Mr. Bastile, directors; Mr. C. W. Eborall, general manager of the South-Eastern Railway, accompanied the conveyance the train, which resumed its route via the Charing-cross line to London Bridge, and thence via the South-Eastern Railway, arriving shortly after six o'clock. The King was received upon his arrival by Brigadier-General Elliot and a staff, and the 1st Royal Regiment of Belgian Guard. A guard of honour of the 37th Regiment lined the station and platform, and the band played the English National Anthem, while a Royal salute was fired from the battery. His Majesty proceeded to the Lord Warden Hotel, where he passed the night.

On Wednesday the King, attended by Lieutenant-General Meerkerke and Dr. Kogel, left the Lord Warden Hotel at half-past twelve o'clock, and proceeded to the Admiralty Pier, Dover, where he was conducted to the place of embarkation by the Belgian Minister and the members of the Queen's household who had accompanied his Majesty from Windsor, by Brigadier-General Elliot and several officers, and by the Belgian Consul. A guard of honour of the 1st Regiment of the Belgian Rifles lined the pier and saluted the King. The band played the English National Anthem. The Belgian Consul-General and the Belgian residents in Dover assembled spectators. The King embarked on board the Belgian Government steamer Belgique. The Sapphire followed as a convoy. At the time of embarkation the Belgian Minister and the members of the Queen's household parted from his Majesty. The Sapphire would proceed to Calais or to Ostend, his Majesty preferring to land in his own kingdom. The weather was favourable, and the passage proved preferable. Although the sky was clear and the sea calm, a stiff breeze was blowing, and the vessels' bow was accordingly turned towards Calais, where the King was expected to arrive at half-past two o'clock, and proceed thence to Brussels.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince and Princess of Wales continue at Sandringham, Dereen.

On Wednesday week the Prince and Princess, accompanied by Earl De Grey and Ripon, Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel, Captain the Hon. Lord Henry Percy, and Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. H. Byng and Mrs. Byng, attended Divine service at Sandringham Church. The Rev. G. H. Mason, B.A., officiated.

On Sunday the Prince and Princess attended Divine service at Sandringham Church.

During the absence of the Prince and Princess from Sandringham considerable progress has been made in the improvements upon the estate. The gardens, which cover an area of fifteen acres, are nearly completed. Four vineries and two hothouses, each 50 ft. long, are completed, and well stocked with vines and with peach and other choice fruit trees. Two pineries adjoin the gardens. The stables and pheasantaries are completed. Several cottages for the labourers upon the estate are in the course of erection. The Prince has given directions for the fine old ruins of Appleton Church to be partially restored and carefully preserved.

Field Marshal his Highness Prince Bariatinsky and Princess Bariatinsky have left Claridge's Hotel for Combe Royal, South Devon.

The Duke of Sutherland left town, on Wednesday, for Turin.

The Duchess (Dowager) of Leeds and the Hon. Miss Lora and Miss Lane Fox have left St. Leonards for Hornby Castle, Yorkshire.

Earl Cowper took his departure from town, on Monday, for Ireland, on his mission to present the Order of the Garter to the King of Denmark from the Queen.

The Earl of Sefton took his departure, on Monday, for Portsmouth, to embark on the steamer in Lisbon to present to the King of Portugal the Order of the Garter from her Majesty.

The Earl of Dalhousie and Lady Christian Maule have left Claridge's Hotel for Brechin Castle, Forfarshire.

Viscount Hamilton, M.P., returned to town, on Saturday last, from visiting the Prince and Princess of Wales at Sandringham.

The Bishop of Oxford, who has been unwell for some time past, left town, on Saturday last, for the south of France, by the desire of his medical attendant.

The Right Hon. Sir G. Grey returned to town yesterday (Friday) from Falloden, Northumberland.

Count Wimpffen has left the Austrian Embassy for Germany, in leave of absence for two months.

MARRIAGES IN HIGH LIFE.

The marriage of the Hon. Robert Meade, son of the Earl of Chanwilliam, with Lady Mary Lecenbie, daughter of the late and sister of the present Earl of Harewood, took place, on Wednesday, at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge.

The marriage of Lady Gwendolin Talbot, sister of the present Earl of Lichfield, with Mr. Power O'Donoghue took place, on Wednesday, at St. George's Church, Hanover-square. The bride was given away by Lord Lovaine. A wedding-breakfast was given at the residence of Lady Lovaine's grandmother, Mrs. Charles Russell, 38, Charles Russell, took place, on Wednesday, at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster.

The marriage of Mary Agnes Hallé, only child, youngest daughter of the Right Hon. Sir William George Hylton Jolliffe, Bart., M.P., took place, on Tuesday, at St. George's, Hanover-square.

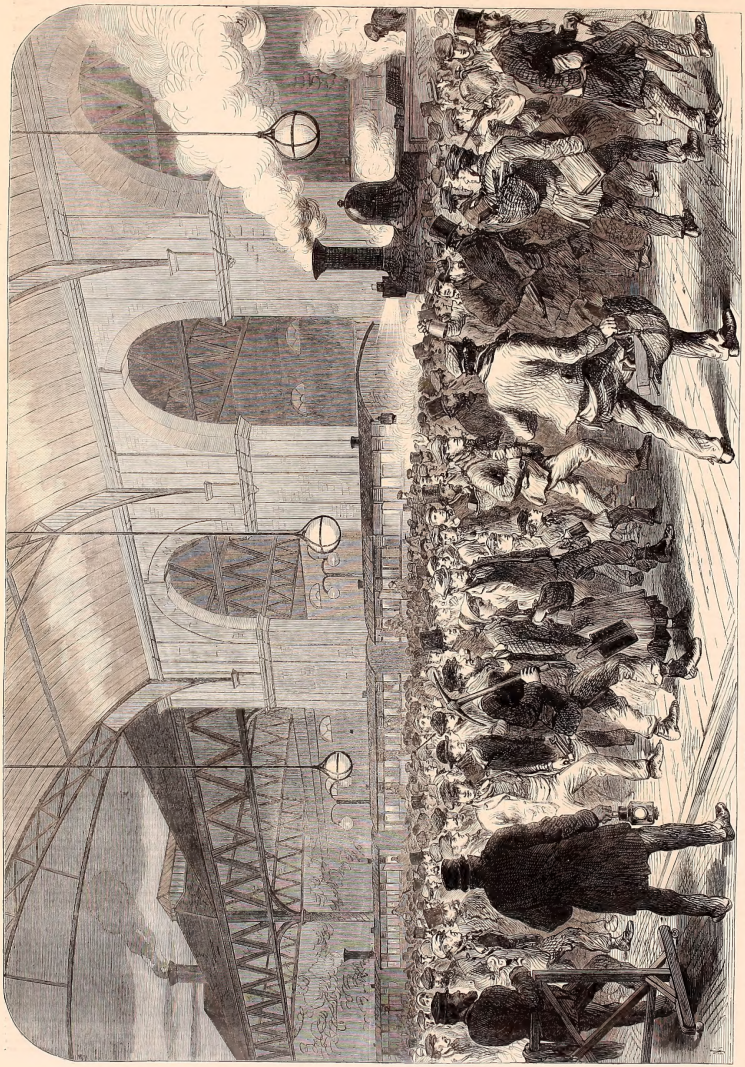
The Archbishop of Canterbury entertained a large circle at dinner, on Wednesday evening, at Lambeth Palace, in celebration of the marriage of Miss Green's son, Major Longley, B.E., to Catherine Alice, widow of the late Rev. J. Dawson, of Holderby Hall, Great Yarmouth.

We are requested to state that, by the will of George Henry Cutler, Esq., late of Hull, the charitable purposes to be benefited by the residue of Upper Brixham was £800, not £8000, as was stated in our notice of the 15th inst. The sum of £8000 was left by the will of Mr. Cutler to the four sisters of the testator, and their children, and among his nephews and nieces, not, as stated, among his grandchildren, the last of whom never having been married.

From the Pacific we have the announcement, not unusual in that quarter, of a revolution. It appears that many of the Peruvians, disgusted with the tyranny of their President, Pezet, have risen in arms, and divided the country with him. Battles have pronounced against him. The latest commenced at Arequipa, and had been followed at Moquegua, Tacna, and Arica, and had arrested the progress of the Government troops, who had met the scene of a revolution. Fortunately, there was no bloodshed, the President merely abandoning his post.

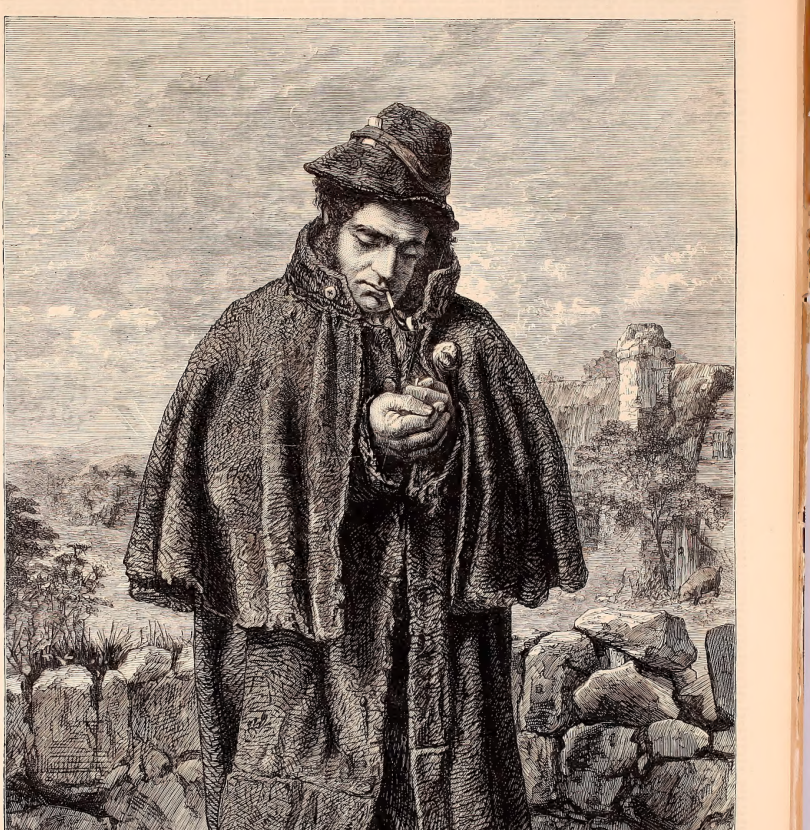
A special show of early azaleas and spring flowers, held last Saturday at the gardens of the Horticultural Society, proved a most delightful to a large number of visitors; for, although the quantity of flowers exhibited was not large, the choice did not fail. Here were fine specimens which, in colour, shape, and growth, were particularly worthy of admiration. The collection of Messrs. Veitch and Messrs. Lee were the best, of which was made realised by a remarkable display of roses, in pots and cut.

On Monday was the annual opportunity observed as a holiday among the working classes. The principal thoroughfares were thronged with family groups on foot, and the various parts of metropolitan communication and the railways, steamers, and other appliances for escaping from the smoke, dust, and London were largely patronised; while the various picture-galleries, and other exhibitions in town had their fair share of visitors. The morning opened fine, and the weather continued so until the late occasionally, not in heavy showers, though enough to damp a little the enjoyment of pedestrians.



The interest which attached to the name and works of the late John Leech during his lifetime will not cease so soon, but will be revived and strengthened by the sale of a large collection of his original drawings, which will take place next week at the rooms of Mr. Mason, Christie, Manson, and Woods. The exhibition was open to private view on Wednesday, and there was a numerous attendance. The collection comprises the original designs for the political cartoons and pictures of 19 out of the 20 which have appeared in Punch during the last 19 years, and also the designs for the comic histories, "Ingoldsby Legends," "Jorrocks's Hunt," "Mr. Mousey Thomas," and the unfinished work, "Sketches and Reminiscences." The last-mentioned is a collection of sketches made from several years back—sometimes not less than one or ten—in one frame, and presents a perfect study of character cutting and striking. The collection is certainly a most interesting one, affording as it does to the student an art an opportunity of observing the mode in which the artist worked out his humorous conceptions, and also the rapid progress he made in that art which he so long and so successfully practised. In addition to the pencil sketches there are several pictures in oil by Mr. Leech, many of which are now sent for the first time. The whole will be one of much interest not only to the connoisseur but to the general public.

THE WORKMEN'S PENNY TRAIN FROM LUDGATE-HILL TO THE VICTORIA STATION.



The Metropolitan Extension of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company, which commenced its operations on Monday last with the Victoria station at Pimlico by a line through Walworth, Camberwell, Brixton, Stockwell, and Battersea-fields, has been made the scene of an experiment of considerable interest in social economy during the last two months. On Monday, the 27th of February, commenced the running of the train which constituted the week, from the first Sessions of this line to the other, for the exclusive accommodation of "artizans, mechanics, and labourers," at the small charge of one penny for their work, or returning from work to their homes. Every passenger is required to be the holder of a weekly ticket, price one penny, to be obtained, either at Ludgate-hill or Victoria, not later than the Thursday before the week in which he proposes to be the user. To prevent any abuse of the privilege of the cheap trains, the ticket-holder must not only give his own name, address, and occupation, likewise that of his employer, but his ticket he is entitled to travel once a day, in both directions, to and from Ludgate-hill and Victoria, or either of those stations and any of the intermediate stations—namely, Blackfriars Bridge, the Borough-road, the Elephant and Castle, Camberwell-gate, Camberwell-road, Camberwell-green, Brixton, North Stockwell or Clapham, Stewart's-lane, and Battersea Bridge. The line is not allowed during the journey from one day to another, and must go over the same portion of the line daily throughout the week. The arrangements to the end of the first quarter at five minutes before five o'clock, and arrive at the other end shortly after five in the evening during the five days of the week, and at a quarter past six, but on Saturdays at half-past two in the afternoon. No luggage may be conveyed by the workmen's ticket-holder or inside the carriages of the train, not exceeding 28 lb. in weight for each passenger. The Engraving on the next page is from a sketch of the scene witnessed upon the arrival one of these trains at the Victoria station between five and six in the morning, early in the month of March, when the writer happened to keep Lent Assize. There can be no mistake about the bona-fide working-class character of the honest people who are here seen trooping out from the platform of the train, respective pieces of daily labour, having travelled from their suburban lodgings, a distance of several miles, for the small charge of one penny. The example of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company, which deserves much commendation, has been followed by the Metropolitan Railway Company upon their line (the Underground), from Paddington or Hammersmith to Farringdon-street, where daily return-tickets, price twopence, are now supplied to passengers of this class. We shall be glad to hear that the adoption of this system has been profitable, or at least remunerative, to the railway companies. It certainly promises to remedy, in a great degree, the temporary difficulty caused to the working population by the inevitable demolition of houses formerly inhabited by people of the working class,

We learn from the Levant Herald that Admiral Sir A. Slade, K.C.B. (Hoscher Pacha), has resigned his post as chief of the Limas Office.

The Greek Government has remitted to the representatives of each of the guaranteeing Powers a sum of £1000, in payment of the second year's interest on the loan of 1862 for which those Courts had become responsible. The sum in reality due was £12,000, but this amount has been reduced by £1000, which England, France, and Russia agreed to abandon in order to increase the Civil List of King George.

ARRIVAL OF THE WORKMEN'S PENNY TRAIN AT THE VICTORIA STATION.—SEE FORWARD PAGE.

"THE LAST LUCIFER MATCH," BY J. T. LUCAS, IN THE EXHIBITION OF THE BRITISH INSTITUTION.

"A CUSTOM loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs, and in the black, stinking fume thereof nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoake of the pit that is bottomlesse." So wrote against smoking tobacco the Most High and Mighty Prince James, by the Grace of God King of Great Britain, A.D. 1616. With him, however, would hardly agree another Royal author of this present year of grace—one mightier even than James I. of England, and whose "Idées" seem little obscured, though emanating from the brain of one of the most inveterate smokers in Europe. Nor, by the way, are the opinions on this point of his Royal ancestor shared by the present Heir-Apparent to the British Throne. But dont them, gentle reader, favour the prejudices (as we must think them, being smokers ourselves) of the bigoted author of "The Counter-blast"? If so, we at once despair of enlisting thy sympathies for the highly dramatic incident, the crisis of breathless interest, the fate's destiny hanging, not like Damocles' sword, by a thread, but suspended on a mere breath of air, which is so forcibly depicted in the clever and highly-characteristic little picture we have engraved. Who, we ask, but one initiated into the esoteric significance, the delights surpassing lotus-eating, the more than Eleusinian mysteries of smoking, can at all realise the pathos of the situation in coming to one's "last lucifer," out perhaps on a waste of moor or bog, away from all shelter, and maybe with a pitiless blast pursuing one like the furies of Orestes? The smoker will, of course, at once enter into the feelings of this poor Pattlander—for tobacco, mark you, is the only true leveller, the only bond of universal brotherhood. The Genius of Tobacco is no respecter of persons. As much solace and sustentation may be sucked through a cutty pipe as can be extracted from the choicest cabanas. And is there not many an unlucky son of Erin with not one friend or blessing in life besides his dear "dudeen"? Talk not to us of the unwholesomeness of the habit. How is it that the mean duration of life increases so steadily here with the increased consumption of tobacco, while the ratio coincides still more remarkably in France? Let us rather say in the words of our great philosopher Locke, "Bread or tobacco may be neglected, but reason at first recommends their trial, and custom makes them pleasant." To conclude, we should like, by way of antithesis to our opening quotation, to give a passage from Charles Lamb's address to the weed. But as there is after all an objectionable trimming spirit pervading that inimitable performance we beg leave (having duly lit a fresh pipe) to add a eulogium on tobacco by a clergyman, the Rev. Walter Cotton:—

> Thy quiet spirit lulls the lab'ring brain,
> Eases back to thought the flights of vacant mirth,
> Cancels the mourner, soothes the couch of pain,
> And breathes contentment round the humble hearth;
> While savage warriors, soften'd by thy breath,
> Unbind the captive hate had doom'd to death.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

THAT which your's faithfully has to say this week must be, with one exception, echoes, not of the roar of the British lion—or, to be less pretentious, the growl of the British bulldog—but of the bark of the poodle of France; or, to be more polite, the scream of the eagle of Imperial Gaul. I have been very near the eagle during the last seven days; have sat under the shadow of his beak, and been brushed almost by his wings. This brief apology may serve for the presentation of a few memoranda picked up during a four days' holiday in Paris.

Place aux dames. There are some ladies, it is humbly hoped, who read this column. To them a few words about the newest Paris fashions. First, bonnets are worn; but there are no longer any bonnets to wear; only fronts. The falls or curtains have been sliced away to make room for a prodigious display of "back hair." The crowns have entirely disappeared, to give way to a wonderful arrangement of jewelled daggers, and arrows, and spears, which seem to be thrust through the skull, after the curious fashion which has so long prevailed among the peasant-girls in the Italian Tyrol; and the entablature, so to speak, of the bonnet (by which I mean the architrave of tulle, the frieze of silk or velvet, and the cornice of artificial flowers) alone remains. The latest French bonnet, indeed, is like Hudibras's story of the bear and the fiddle—begun and broke off in the middle. It is a magnificent but incomplete work, like Buckle's History of Civilisation, like the Nelson monument, like Don Juan.

The bonnet is very small. It would just suit one of Mr. Cremer's two-guinea dolls; but what there is of it is gorgeous. I saw one lady, on Monday, with apparently a gold knife and fork transfixing her tresses where the crown of her chapeau should have been. Another had Titian's bunch of grapes on the top of her head. Another wore a bonnet-front all hung with Byzantine and Algerine coins, which tinkled, as she walked, prettily. And a fourth, on an exquisite elliptical structure of white lace, wore a quantity of soft, green vegetable matter, resembling spinach. It only needed a poached egg in the centre to be perfect. Bonnets are rather dear just now: they are "riz." Lucy Hocquet charges 50f. for four square inches of millinery; and Mdme. Havard won't let you look at anything under sixty. Jet ornaments, dear ladies, which have been all the rage for some time past, are falling into disuse. The run is now upon steel. The quantity of minute marine stores worn by the fair ladies of France is astounding. There are steel bonnets; and the Woman with the Iron Mask may soon rival the mysterious Man of that ilk. Steel bracelets, steel necklaces, steel collars, steel decorated fans, reticules, and parasols, steel earrings, steel brooches, fringes and tassels and trimmings of steel, glitter on the graceful forms of the gracefullest ladies in Christendom. Some say Mdme. Gallifet is the actual ruler of Parisian fashion; others would award the palm to Mdme. de Metternich. Do'nt believe it. The Empress of the Mode just now is Mdme. D'Acier. "Is that a goak?" Mr. Artemus Ward would ask.

After steel comes straw. On n'est pas sur la paille, mais la paille est sur tout le monde. The ladies appear to have unplaited their old straw bonnets and stuck them all over their dresses. A mantle or jacket tesselated with real straw in fantastic devices is much patronised, and imitation straw for fringe is becoming universal. A black lace mantle thickly semé, or powdered with tiny straw balls, very much resembling pommes de terre sautées, has attracted considerable attention. Finally, crinoline seems to be really going out, and the robes à queue, or long trains, are coming in. The latest and artfullest plan is to have a petticoat of the same shape as the robe, brief in front and elongated behind; and the dress is looped up in front to show the boots, and, it is to be presumed, to prevent the fair train-wearer tripping herself up every second pace or so. But I am reminded of the protest of the young lady in the Spectator—"Sir, what have you to do with our petticoats?"

These details were not obtained from an attentive perusal of Le Follet, or the latest feuilleton of M. Timothy Trim. They were gathered from actual observation of a spectacle affording, perhaps, the most favourable opportunity for studying Parisian fashions in all their glory. On Monday the spring meetings of the Society for the Encouragement de la Race Chevaline en France, better known as the Bois de Boulogne races, commenced. The sight was a very brilliant one indeed. The inclosure in front of the Grand Stand was a perfect parterre of female loveliness and rich and elegant toilettes. The weather was charming, and the company, although numerous, so far as its femininity was concerned, was scrupulously select; the chrysalides of the Quartier Bréda having been banishing by a rigorous decree of the Jockey Club to the opposite side of the course. So the grandes dames of the grands faubourgs had it all their own way.

The Echoist knows nothing about sporting matters; thus, he will say nothing about the series of flat races which took place—how L'Ambassadeur satisfied and Bayard transported their admirers, and how Clermont ought to have won the big stakes of 3000f., but didn't. This, however, remains to be recorded. Just before the bell for the second race had begun to ring there was a bustle in front of a certain gallery in the centre of the stand, and presently a group of ladies and gentlemen made their appearance. There was Princess Anna Murat, looking very lovely in mauve; and by her side was a pretty little boy, some ten years old, in an English sailor's hat. He took off this hat and saluted the company generally with a kind of infantile gravity very charming to behold. Anon, he trotted down the staircase leading from the reserved gallery to the inclosure; the crowd parted to allow him passage, all uncovered; and we English were pleased to see that he wore a little English round jacket, knickerbockers, scarlet stockings, and Balmoral boots, for all the world like those bright-faced British children John Leech used to draw so marvellously. He would have been quite at home in Kensington-gardens, showing his tongue to the family doctor whom he had met by accident; or in Rotten-row on his Exmoor pony, with the fat coachman on a cob as an escort. Who is that very stout gentleman, with the grey whiskers and moustache, and the hat with vast and curled brim, who is his escort now? That is Marshal Magnan. Well, this little boy in the knickerbockers strolls about for five minutes or so, receiving on all sides bows and smiles, which he very courteously returns, and then trots up stairs again to his gallery.

By-and-by the Prix du Lutece—the 8000f. event—is to be run for. They are clearing the course again, when there is a fresh stir in front of the reserved tribune. A lady in black lace—a lady whose countenance is familiar to and admired by all Europe, comes forward; then a grave gentleman—a very grave gentleman, and yet pleasant-looking withal—joins her. His chestnut hair, and moustache, and imperial are growing somewhat grizzled, and the lines on his face are more strongly marked than when I saw him last. He is dressed in the neatest and plainest fashion, and, but for the red ribbon of the Legion at his button-hole, might pass for a middle-aged member of the Junior United Service looking from his club window into Waterloo-place. He has to go through the usual amount of hat-lifting and bowing, and then he, too, descends the stairs, and takes a walk in the inclosure. Again the crowd part, and all heads are uncovered. There is no need to clear the way; all fall back quietly and easily. The French are fond of gazing upon, but they do not mob, their great folks. The grave gentleman leans on a stick, and seems to walk with some difficulty. To his disengaged hand clings his little son. The lady in black lace remains in the gallery. The little boy in the knickerbockers seems very fond of Papa. Papa and he stroll quietly through the throng, almost unattended, and quite unguarded, save, perhaps, by six terrible and mysterious Corsican Brothers, who, in citizens' dress, and one of them in female attire, are said always to be on the watch while Papa is taking his diversion. It is good to see Father and Son sauntering to the paddock and watching the high-mettled racers as, bestridden by English jockeys and led by English trainers, they are walked slowly round. Papa has a keen eye for the good points of a horse, of that you may be sure. It is good to see the Sire and the Heir in their gallery, applauding with Imperial grace the winner of the big stakes. But it is better, when the races are over, and the Prince Imperial, with his governors and governesses, is going away in his fine open carriage and four, with the dashing outriders in green and gold, to see the Emperor and Empress in the gallery above, watching him with looks full of love and tenderness. All is ready at last. The grand lacqueys close the door and jump up behind. The little boy rises, lifts his straw hat, and smiles at Papa; Papa waves his hand, with a compound interest of smiles; Mamma, with two taper fingers, wafts him a kiss, and away goes the glittering cavalcade. Then the Emperor's equipage draws up, and Napoleon III. goes home to the Tuileries to work. I wonder how he can find time even for five minutes' play. I am glad I saw him with his wife in the gallery, and the little lad in his carriage beneath. Ah me! what hopes and fears, what grandiose schemes, what abstruse calculations, what dreams of love and pride must be centred in that little boy in the knickerbockers and red stockings!

There was to be one exception, I took the liberty of remarking, to the Parisian tone of these instant Echoes. Be it remembered that on Wednesday took place, at Messrs. Christie and Manson's, the private view of the sketches and drawings left by the late admirable John Leech, and that early next week the public sale of some of the choicest productions of the pencil of this most excellent and lamented artist will begin.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

On Easter Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, 1917 persons visited the National Portrait Gallery.

An old man died at Hoxton, on Good Friday, from the effects of eating fourteen hot cross-buns at breakfast.

A committee has been formed by some influential inhabitants of South London to raise funds for the establishment of a permanent museum in that district.

It is stated semi-officially that Mr. Thwaites, chairman of the Metropolitan Board of Works, is to be knighted on the opening of the great metropolitan sewers on both banks of the Thames.

The Court of Lieutenancy of the City of London has started a proposal for a review of militia and volunteers in Hyde Park. It is suggested that the review shall take place on the 20th of May, and the Duke of Cambridge is to be asked to be the reviewing officer.

At the weekly meeting of the directors of the poor of St. Pancras, on Tuesday, the master reported that John Ball, aged seventy-five, an inmate of the workhouse since January, 1864, is likely to come into possession of property left by a daughter deceased, amounting to £400.

At the evening meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, on Monday next, the following papers will be read:—1, "On the Bayanos River, in the Isthmus of Panama," by Mr. L. Oliphant; 2, "A Journey from the foot of Chimborazo to Bogota, across the Central Andes," by Mr. R. Cross.

On Monday evening, in accordance with a time-honoured usage on Easter Monday, the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress (Miss Hale) entertained a numerous company, including several persons of consideration, at dinner at the Mansion House, which was served in the Egyptian Hall with the splendour customary on such occasions. The guests numbered about 250.

A discussion took place, on Tuesday evening, at the meeting of the Anthropological Society in reference to Christian missions in Africa. At a previous meeting of the society Mr. Winwood Reade declared that those missions were a complete failure. Mr. Burnard Owen read a paper, on Tuesday night, having for its object the controverting of Mr. Reade's statement. An animated discussion followed the reading of the paper.

On Tuesday morning the Bluecoat boys proceeded in procession, with their masters, to the Mansion House, where the Lord Mayor presented each boy with one shilling (the monitors 2s. 6d. each), a glass of wine, and a bun. The Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Aldermen, Under-Sheriffs, &c., proceeded to Christ Church, Newgate-street, where prayers were read by the Rev. M. Gibbs and a sermon was preached by the Rev. George Ferris W. Mortimer, D.D., Chaplain to the Lord Mayor.

The Microscopical Society gave a conversazione, on Wednesday, at King's College. There was a large attendance of ladies and gentlemen, who took great interest in the numerous objects selected by members of the society to illustrate the marvels of "the universe of littleness." Almost every description of microscope, from the clumsy, but not inglorious, instrument with which the philosophers of the last century were obliged to be content, to the most perfect effort of modern art, was to be found on the tables; and amongst the latest novelties may be mentioned Mr. Browning's apparatus for spectral analysis.

In London the births of 1973 children—1036 boys and 937 girls—were registered last week. In the corresponding week of ten years, 1855-64, the average number, corrected for increase of population, was 2074. The deaths in London in the same period were 1533. The average number for the fifteenth week in the years (corrected) is 1412. Whooping-cough was the most fatal in the list of zymotic diseases; it carried off 92 children, about two thirds of whom were under two years of age. Seventy-two deaths by typhus were recorded, 46 by scarlatina and diphtheria, 16 by measles, and 14 by smallpox. There were 224 deaths from bronchitis, and 99 from pneumonia—the respective averages being 155 and 98. Bronchitis was very fatal for this period of the year.——In the week that ended last Saturday the births in London and nine other towns of the United Kingdom were 3810; the deaths, 2927. The annual rate of mortality in the week in those ten large towns was 27 per 1000 persons living, and was less than in the previous week, when it was 30. In Liverpool the births were 310, the deaths 308; in Manchester—births 228, deaths 187; in Salford—births 74, deaths 60; in Birmingham—births 281, deaths 160; in Leeds—births 139, deaths 105; in Bristol—births 101, deaths 67; in Edinburgh—births 144, deaths 91; in Glasgow—births 409, deaths 262; in Dublin—births 151, deaths 154.

The usual meeting of the Royal Humane Society was held, on Wednesday, at the offices, Trafalgar-square—the treasurer, Mr. T. E. Baker, in the chair. The following cases, in which persons had risked their lives in saving others from drowning, and in each of which the bronze medal of the society was awarded, were brought under the cognisance of the committee by the secretary, Mr. Young:—Sergeant Clark, of the Black River Police, Mauritius, for saving Robert Rencastle and Thomas Strachan, whose boat upset in the River Belle Isle, Mauritius, on the 22nd of January; to Thomas Morris and Francis Cressley, able seamen, of her Majesty's ship Shannon, for saving Lieutenant Law, R.N., whose boat was swamped at sea on the 11th ult.; to Mr. J. May, gunner of her Majesty's ship Boscawen, for saving F. S. Hunt, a boy of the same vessel, who fell overboard at Southampton on the 10th inst.; to Mr. G. Vyvyan, for saving J. Ferguson, of the ship Marchioness of Londonderry, who fell overboard at sea at Ushant, on the 28th of January; to John Ennis, boatman, for saving Sarah A. Jackson, who fell into the sea in the harbour at Queenstown, on the 22nd ult.; to Mr. George Harvey, for saving Edward Adlard and A. Nicholls, who accidentally broke through the ice on a pond at Sudely Castle, on the 26th of January; and to William H. Snelling, clerk in the Civil Service, for saving George Weir, whose boat upset in the River Thames at Barnes, on the 8th ult. Thanks on parchment were given to Walter Rogers, for saving J. Kingsley, who fell overboard into the River Lea, Tottenham, on the 25th of February; and to Daniel Lynch, John Bryan, James Sullivan, and John Brassil, boatmen, of Tralee, for saving Charles O'Connor, whose boat was swamped in a gale in Tralee Bay on the 18th ult. Pecuniary rewards of various amounts were also given to Charles H. Bealey, for saving Henry Draper, who fell into the Regent's Canal, Islington, on the 5th ult.; to James Dunton, for saving William Wright, mariner, who fell into the Commercial Docks, Rotherhithe, on the 9th ult.; and to John Jenkins, coffee-stall keeper, for saving Ann Southey, who attempted suicide by jumping into the Thames, on the 29th ult. A donation of twenty guineas from the Drapers' Company was reported.

LAW AND POLICE.—Serafino Pelizzioni, the Italian lately sentenced to death for the murder by stabbing of Michael Harrington, and reprieved in consequence of another Italian, Gregorio Mogni, being found guilty of the same act, was tried last week, before Baron Channell, at the Central Criminal Court, on charge of stabbing a potman, Alfred Rebbeck, in the same disastrous brawl. The complications and contradictions which have arisen in this case made it incumbent on the jury to go very closely into it, and the trial occupied Wednesday, Thursday, and part of Saturday. The prisoner elected to be tried by a jury composed partly of foreigners; but no sufficient number of foreign jurors could be mustered, and at length, yielding apparently to the remonstrances of Mr. Negretti, the Italian optician, who has taken so prominent a part in all these proceedings, the prisoner consented to be tried by Englishmen only. In summing up, Baron Channel said:—"There were many circumstances in the case inconsistent with each other, and many which he was unable to reconcile; but he did not think it quite so clear, as had been submitted to them by the counsel for the prosecution, that the issue necessarily involved the question of actual perjury on the one side or the other. A great deal had been said about the conduct of the police on this occasion. The police were before the jury as other witnesses were. As far as they had the management of the case, there was nothing in the evidence to show they had acted with any intention to suppress any facts, nor did he see anything that involved them in any general charge of having departed from their fair line of duty in the investigation of the circumstances of the case. It was conceded on the part of the prosecution that, if the evidence of Gregorio Mogni was correct, there was an end of the case for the prosecution. It was further conceded that, if the evidence of a witness for the defence, Marazzi, was correct, there was an end to the prosecution; and it was suggested to them (the jury) that Gregorio Mogni and Marazzi were in a conspiracy to defeat, by the forms of law, a conviction that had previously and properly taken place; and that Gregorio's coming up to London and surrendering himself was not a real submission to any great or imminent peril. The jury would take into their consideration that Gregorio did not speak distinctly by name as to whom he stabbed; and it seemed to him to be deserving also of consideration at their hands that Gregorio was the person to commit the first act of violence by striking the landlord on the face. His Lordship proceeded at great length to enumerate each salient point in the testimony of the various witnesses. Two knives had been produced in the course of the present trial—one having a perfect end, and belonging to Gregorio; the other having a perfect blade, and being such a knife as might be used either as a dagger or a pocket-knife. The first-named of these knives was found by the potboy at the Bordessa public-house, and the second by the little boy Berge, a short distance from the Golden Anchor. No knife, except a small white-handled one, was found upon the prisoner, and that was not such a one as would be likely to produce such wounds as those inflicted upon Rebbeck and Harrington. It would be a question for the consideration of the jury whether the prisoner had had time to throw any knife away between the commission of the offence and the arrival of the police, and the time he was searched. When the blood upon his hands was pointed out to him by the police he had explained its presence by saying, in reference to what he had done, that 'he did it in self-defence,' whereas now he asserted that he was not there and did not interfere. On being subsequently charged with the wilful murder of Michael Harrington, by stabbing him in the belly with a knife, he denied the charge by saying, 'I never used a knife.'" In conclusion, his Lordship said that, having so far assisted the jury in coming to a decision, he would remind them that the main question to determine was whether or not the prisoner Pelizzioni stabbed Rebbeck; and as to the statement of Gregorio that he stabbed Rebbeck, it was for them to consider what amount of credence was to be attached to it. After an absence of not more than ten minutes the jury returned, and delivered a verdict of "Not guilty." This was the signal for vehement cheering from all parts of the court, principally from the Italians present. Pelizzioni, who was a short time ago so near the gallows, has since been set free on a "pardon."

The burglars who broke into Mr. Walker's shop in Cornhill have had the following sentences passed upon them:—Brown and Jefferey to twenty years' penal servitude, Caseley and Brewerton to fourteen years' each, Wilkinson and Hurley to ten years' each, and Roberts, the receiver, to seven years'. A formidable gang of thieves is thus broken up.

Thomas Foster and Joseph Gover, two privates of the first battalion of the Grenadier Guards, were charged at the Marlborough Police Court, on Thursday, with being drunk and assaulting the Marquis of Blandford and Mr. Henry Wombwell, of the Royal Horse Guards' Barracks, Knightsbridge. The prisoners were sentenced to a month's imprisonment.

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

The parishioners of Paul and Thorngumbald, near Hull, have presented the Rev. George Clifford Pease, M.A., a silver salver, on his resigning the living. A centrepiece for flowers on plateau, two fruit stands on plateau, and silver inkstand, have been presented to the Rev. W. Bradstreet by the parishioners of Lower Hardres and Nackington.

The West Connaught Church Endowment Society has just received a great accession of strength in the adhesion of the Archbishop of Dublin. Last year he could not see his way to accept the invitation of the committee to preside at its meeting and become one of its vice-presidents; but he now occupies the position which he then declined, and he declared at the meeting of the society on Monday that all his doubts and difficulties had been entirely removed.

On Saturday last the Bishop of London consecrated the new church of St. Stephen, Lewisham. The church has been built, from designs by Mr. Scott, by Messrs. Bowley, of Westminster, in the style of the thirteenth century, at a cost of £12,000, the whole of which, with the endowment of £2000 more, has been provided by the munificence of the Rev. S. R. Davies, of Lee, the patron and first Incumbent. The foundation-stone was laid in May, 1863, by Viscount Holmesdale, the ground being the gift of the Earl of St. Germans.

The Commissioners of Church Estates, in their fourteenth report, say:—"We have transferred to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, during the past year, a sum of stock equivalent to £100,000 cash in respect of the surplus proceeds of enfranchisements completed. The aggregate amount which has been paid over or transferred to the account of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners is now £1,200,207, in addition to £130,000 in respect of interest which has accrued on the surplus. We last year reported that the transactions approved by us between August, 1851, and March, 1864, were 2516 in number, and that the value in fee of the estates so agreed to be dealt with amounted to about £9,960,000. We have during this year approved the terms agreed upon in 122 cases; 107 being cases of sales of reversions and fifteen cases of purchases of leasehold interests, and the value in fee of the estates so agreed to be dealt with is approximately £350,000. The aggregate number of cases approved by us is, therefore, 2638, and the value of the property dealt with amounts to about £10,310,000."

The following preferments and appointments have recently taken place:—The Rev. J. Griffiths, Vicar of Llangunnor, to be Canon Residentiary of St. David's. Rev. F. B. Boyd to be Rector of Burghfield, Reading. Vicarages: Rev. H. R. Bayly to Ballingarry, Limerick; Rev. J. Harrison to Beckford with Aston-under-Hill; Rev. W. Pilling to Arnesby, Leicestershire; Rev. W. Rees, Incumbent of Bettws, to Llanboidy; Rev. F. Weston to Eaton, Norwich. Incumbencies: Rev. J. Badnall to Endon, Staffordshire; Rev. G. P. Keogh to the new Church of St. Paul, Stratford. Perpetual Curacy: Rev. A. D. Pringle, M.A. (late S. P. G. missionary in British Columbia), to St. James, Norwich. Curacies: Rev. G. Akers to the Mission Chapel of St. Saviour and St. Cross, St. George's-in-the-East; Rev. S. R. Anderson to Isleworth; Rev. P. J. Balchin to St. Paul, Charlton; Rev. J. G. Bulman to Chiswick; Rev. J. E. Butler to St. John, Walworth; Rev. A. K. Cherrill to Trinity Church, Greenwich; Rev. E. H. Flynn to Holy Trinity, Vauxhall Bridge-road; Rev. C. Hume to Holy Trinity, Haverstock-hill; Rev. G. D'Oyly Snow to Hanwell; Rev. J. G. Tipper to St. Paul, Lissongrove; Rev. H. Williams to St. Katharine Coleman. Rev. G. Skipworth to be Chaplain of the County Gaol at Oakham.

The Incorporated Society for Promoting the Enlargement, Building, and Repairing of Churches and Chapels held its usual monthly meeting, on Monday, at the Society's house, Whitehall—the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Oxford in the chair. Grants of money, amounting to £1010, were made in aid of the following objects:—Building churches at Haggerstone (St. Augustine's), St. Stephen's, in the parish of All Saints, Poplar; Treleigh, in the parish of Redruth, Cornwall; and Holy Trinity, in the parish of West Ham. Rebuilding the churches at Gwithian, near Hayle, Cornwall; Jarrow, Durham; and St. John's, Torquay. Enlarging or otherwise increasing the accommodation in the churches at Chobham, near Bagshot; Markfield, near Leicester; Chewton Mendip, near Bath; and Long Whatton, near Loughborough. The grants formerly made towards building the church in Thornton-road, Bradford; rebuilding the church at Coddington, near Newark; and enlarging the church at North Waltham, near Micheldever, Hants, were also increased. The reduced scale of grants adopted at the beginning of this session was again unavoidably observed, the remittances sent to the society of late being of too limited a nature to allow of any enlargement of it. The annual general court and public meeting are appointed for Monday, the 22nd of May, in the lesser hall, St. James's, Regent-street. His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury will take the chair at three o'clock.

The seventeenth report of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England was issued on Monday morning. It includes an account of their proceedings for the year preceding Nov. 1, 1864. The commissioners state that during the past year they received by direction of the Lord Chancellor, under the provisions of "The Lord Chancellor's Augmentation Act, 1863," the sum of £73,684. Of this amount £34,228 10s. have been appropriated towards the immediate augmentation of certain benefices, and the remaining sum of £39,454 10s. towards the prospective augmentation of certain benefices. The grants made by the commissioners and the steps taken in accordance with the provisions of various Acts are enumerated and given at much length in the appendix to the report. In proceeding with their general scheme for augmenting and endowing benefices during the five years succeeding 1863, which the commissioners indicated in their last report, they propose in the present and three succeeding years respectively to extend their rule as to augmentation to £300 per annum, on the sole ground of population, to benefices having populations of 6000, 5000, 4500, and 4000 respectively. The aggregate amount to be thus appropriated will, by this gradation, be divided more equally than by descending from 8000 to 4000 by equal steps of 1000, and this course will at the same time accelerate the augmentation of the benefices having respectively populations of 6000, 5000, and 4500. For the current year the commissioners have decided:—1. To provide £3500 per annum to meet benefactions of at least equal value. 2. To meet the remaining local claims in connection with the York archbishopric estates, the Peterborough bishopric estates, and the York and Peterborough capitular estates. 3. To augment to £300 a year the income of every benefice in public patronage which existed on the 4th of February, 1864, the population of which was 6000 persons. 4. To augment the income of every benefice in private patronage having a like population to £300 a year, on condition that one half the sum required to effect such augmentation be provided from non-ecclesiastical sources. 5. To appropriate the sum of £3000 per annum in perpetuity to the endowment of a limited number of new churches, to which districts shall have been legally assigned since March 1, 1864, containing in each case a population of not less than 6000 persons. The grants to be thus made during the current year would be of the capital value of about £800,000.

In fulfilment of the will of Mr. William Smith O'Brien, Mr. J. P. Smyth, editor of the Irishman, was, on Monday week, presented with a silver tea-service, "who," according to the will, "went twice to Australia for the purpose of trying to deliver me from captivity."

We are requested by Mr. Garstin, upholder, of Welbeck-street, to state that the funeral obsequies of Mr. Cobden at West Lavington were conducted, not by himself, but by Messrs. Head and Co., of Upper Baker-street; Mr. Garstin being associated with them only in the management of the same.

Two elections took place on Saturday—for Rochdale, in the room of the late Mr. Cobden; and for the Wigton burghs, in the room of Sir William Dunbar, who has been appointed chairman of the Audit Board. At Rochdale Mr. T. B. Potter beat his Conservative opponent, Mr. Brett, by 150 votes. At Wigton Mr. Young, the Solicitor-General for Scotland, was returned without opposition.——The election for the county of Louth took place on Thursday week, when Mr. Kennedy, the Liberal candidate, was elected by a majority of seventy-nine over the Conservative candidate, Mr. M'Clintock. The vacancy was caused by the appointment of Mr. Bellew to the post of Poor-Law Commissioner, vacant by the death of the late Mr. Senior.——Mr. W. P. Thornhill, who has been for a number of years one of the Liberal representatives for the northern division of Derbyshire, has issued an address to his constituency announcing his retirement on account of ill health.

THE FARM.

THE recent genial rains have sent the young grass and the blossoms well along, and again it is said that "the young wheat can hide a hare," a phrase nearly as conventional each spring as Lord Macaulay's New Zealander during the whole four seasons. From the Orkneys we hear that "the weather is really beautiful for lambing and seed. I have only had three deaths since October out of 750 ewes and ewe hoggs; great luck for such a winter." The Lowland flock-masters were only in poor spirits about the middle of March, and the rigorous weather which even forced the blackfaces down from their heights continued until Thursday, the 30th ult., when a south-west wind blew softly, and ever since then the weather throughout Scotland has been all that the sheep-farmer or husbandman could wish. Unfortunately, the great severity and long continuance of winter has fearfully reduced the condition of hill sheep, and nothing but a liberal application of mountain hay and corn has enabled the flocks to tide through. In the arable districts the lambing has gone on prosperously, but the result of that on the hills, which is just about to commence, will entirely depend on a continuance of the present favourable weather.

The wool sales of Messrs. Girdwood and the other large woolbrokers at Edinburgh have severely felt the effect of the long stagnation and depression. In order to effect sales a very considerable reduction has been submitted to. In Highlands a small trade has been doing, at fair rates; and a considerable quantity of white wools have been sold, but at prices more in favour of buyers. The value of hogg wool is at present very singular, there being only a penny per pound between it and wedder. Halfbreds may be quoted at 40s. to 44s. for hoggs; Cheviots, according to breeding and management, at 33s. to 43s.; laid Cheviots at 24s. to 34s; white Highlands, unwashed, at 20s. to 24s.; and laid Highlands at 16s. to 18s. "Oh! what a fall was there, my countrymen," from the days of 2s. 6d. the whole clip!

The hypothec commission closed in Scotland after the examination of 101 witnesses. The very last witness, who was greatly in favour of the existing law, with some modifications, thus ably stated the case of the landlords:—"The hypothec enables a tenant to tide over a bad time with his landlord. If the landlord knows there is sufficient on the farm to pay his rent, he is liberal, and allows his tenant some indulgence. The hypothec, although not put in force, operates like a cautioner for the tenant's ultimate payment of his rent, tending to prevent premature sales of produce. In the great majority of cases of sequestration in which I have acted there has been no sale. We have tided the tenant over; or, if he has given up the farm, there has been a sale by arrangement. In my district the law of hypothec has operated beneficially to the outside creditors. It has enabled many farmers to go on and pay in full; whereas, if they had been stopped at once, they would have only paid a dividend, and been out of their farms altogether." On the whole, we should say that, however much the hand-to-mouth system may be deplored, the present law has not been much shaken by the inquiry.

There is probably no season on record during which potatoes and oatmeal, the two great pig-food staples, have been so low, and yet pork so high. The only complaint in the Dumfriesshire and Galloway pork trade has been that the curers cannot get pigs enough; and Cumberland, the Lothians, and Ireland have been well scoured, besides the ever-faithful districts of Ayrshire. The quantity of pork sold in Dumfriesshire and Galloway is supposed to be about 22,050 carcases, of 313,002 imperial stones, of the value of £108,321 1s. Still, this shows, as compared with the previous season, a decrease of 1715 carcases, of 37,505 stones; and (although prices averaged 1½d. to 2d. per stone higher) of £7113 value. Well may the local papers warn the local agricultural societies that they need not lay so much stress on hoof and horn, but show more politeness to the pig!

The very unnatural shorthorn prices seem to be finding their level at last. Rose of Promise, Rose of Hope, and Almack's Belle, for which Mr. C. P. Gell paid 440 gs. at Lady Pigot's sale in the September of '63, were resold by auction last week, by Messrs. Wetherell, for 136 gs.; and two bull-calves from them for 21 gs. each. The first-named was purchased for Mr. Charlesworth by that first-rate judge Mr. Dodds, once bailiff to Mr. Ambler, and now an auctioneer and cattle commission agent in Wakefield. Mr. Douglas's prize bull, Next of Kin, was sold on the same day for 77 gs.; and this bull, with one which went recently to Mr. Dudgeon's, of Craikaig, in Sutherlandshire, were, we believe, the very last remnants of the Athelstaneford herd. The Duke of Montrose's May Morn, the first prize, but disqualified, "heifer in calf," at Battersea, has been slaughtered, and proves, on examination, to have been quite malformed.

There were 213 shorthorn entries at the Royal Dublin Society's Spring Show, which was opened on Tuesday. Of these, 161 were bulls and 52 cows and heifers, being 46 in all more than last year. The list of Challenge-Cup winners, in which Master Butterfly, Soubadar, Dr. M'Hale, and Second Dr. M'Hale have all figured in their day, is now swelled by Mr. Mulholland of Ballywalter's Defender; and the Ganly Challenge Cup for the best yearling bull has been awarded to Mr. James Anderson's Brilliant Lamp, the head of a class of ninety-eight. The Brilliant Lamp is by a son of Lamp of Lothian, from a Soubadar dam. Ravenswood, the first yearling of last year, was second in the two-year-old class; and Defender, the Farmer's Gazette cup and "large gold medal" bull of the year, and straining back to old Bonnet, was head of the three-year-old class, with Mr. Robert Tennant's Young Prince next to him. Grey Friar, bred by Mr. Barnes, was second to Lord Clyde in the old-bull class. There was a good demand for yearling bulls, and the Moynalty and Kingsfort stock went off early, at good prices. Mr. Tennant was first with his shorthorn yearling heifer, a daughter of Grand Duke of Wetherby and Frederick's Farewell, and bought at the Towneley sale. Wood Belle, bred by the late Mr. Ball, was second in the two-year-old heifer class; and Mr. Tennant's Frederick's Farewell (another Towneley purchase) was first in the cow class. Master Harbinger's stock won two firsts and two seconds. There were nine Hereford, five Angus, and thirteen Devon entries.

NEWMARKET CRAVEN MEETING.—MONDAY.

Craven Stakes.—Pirate, 1. Sir Roger, 2. Wingrave, 3.
Sweepstakes of 50 sovs.—Grinder, 1. Mongrel, 2.
Handicap Plate of £50.—Pantaloon, 1. Viceroy, 2. Disappointment, 3.
Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Cobweb, 1. Fury, 2. Kinghorn, 3.
Sweepstakes of 25 sovs.—Catalogue, 1. Puritan, 2. Bramah, 3.
Handicap Sweepstakes of 15 sovs.—Verdant, 1. Golden Dust, 2. Guardsman, 3.
Fifty-first Riddlesworth Stakes.—Jack o'Lantern, 1. Cantata, 2.

TUESDAY.

Sweepstakes of 100 sovs.—Olmar walked over.
Sweepstakes of 100 sovs.—Siberia, 1. Klarinska, 2. Sister to Queen of the Vale, 3.
Renewal of the Sweepstakes of 50 sovs.—Mœstissima f., 1. Puritan, 2. Sir Charles, 3.
Plate of £50.—Mazeppa, 1. Henbane, 2. Venturous, 3.
Seventh Newmarket Biennial Stakes.—Kangaroo, 1. Kœnig, 2. King Charming, 3.
Newmarket Handicap.—Accident, 1. Dollar, 2. Wandering Minstrel, 3.

WEDNESDAY.

Sweepstakes of 50 sovs.—Peeress, 1. Venus, 2.
Subscription Plate of £50.—The Warrior, 1. Gemma, 2. Catalogue, 3.
Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Thais, 1. Roarer, 2. Salliet, 3.
Handicap Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Brahma, 1. Gem of the Sea, 2. Quarantine, 3.
Column Stakes.—Jack o' Lantern, 1. Salpinctes 2. Sydmonton, 3.
Derby Trial Stakes.—Fille de l'Air, 1. Mœstissima f., 2. Lord Zetland, 3.

THURSDAY.

Sixth Biennial Stakes.—Cambuscan, 1. Ely, 2. Signalman, 3.
Claret Stakes.—Fille de l'Air, 1. General Peel, 2. Planet, 3.
Sweepstakes of 25 sovs.—Macdonald, 1. Emma, 2. Fleurette, 3.
£50 Handicap Plate.—Prince Plausible, 1. Camball, 2. Oberon, 3.
Sweepstakes.—Brahma walked over.
Aske Produce.—Jack o' Lantern, 1. St. Magnus, 2. Celorrima, 3.
Subscription Plate.—Canzonette, 1. Balornock, 2. Sister to Evelina, 3.
Sweepstakes.—Missionary, 1. Salpinctes, 2.

BLACKHEATH AND WOOLWICH RACES.—MONDAY.

Tradesmen's Plate.—Done Brown, 1. Sophia, 2. B. m. by Eryx, 3.
Selling Stakes.—Xurullo, 1. Roulette, 2.
Kent Welter Cup.—Xurullo, 1. Lady Wilson f., 2.
Blackheath Plate.—Tom Sayers, 1. Generalissimo, 2. Lady Warwick, 3.
Handicap Hurdle Race.—Water Lily, 1. Simpleton, 2.

TUESDAY.

Scurry Stakes.—Lady Wilson f. walked over.
Hunters' Stakes.—Bay Gelding, 1. Done Brown, 2. Villeggiatura, 3.
West Kent Handicap.—Vision, 1. Warwick, 2. Spitfire Kitty, 3.
Woolwich Plate.—Xurullo, 1. Walpole, 2. Annington, 3.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Dr. Brown, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Kilmore, died at Cavan, on Tuesday week, aged eighty-seven.

The Queen has approved of Mr. Charles Cammell as Consul at Sheffield for the Republic of Liberia.

The annual meeting of the North Hants Agricultural Society will be held at Winchester on the 1st of June next.

There is great mortality among swine in Dorsetshire and Hampshire at the present time, owing to pneumonia.

Earl De Grey and Ripon, on Wednesday, laid the foundation-stone of a new mechanics' hall, at Lockwood, Huddersfield.

A sturgeon was caught in the River Severn, last week, measuring upwards of 7 ft. in length and weighing 2 cwt.

The friends of the Permissive Bill movement had a banquet at Manchester on Wednesday evening. More than 700 gentlemen were present. Sir Walter Trevelyan presided.

A Dorset paper last week contained an advertisement for a cook, in which it was stated that "one who can neither read nor write will be preferred."

Mr. John Rust has just completed, in cork, a representation of Boston Church. The extraordinary number of 15,000 corks has been used in the construction, and upwards of 3000 hours.

The adjourned inquiry consequent on an application by the Bradford Corporation to the magistrates of the district for the certificate of completion of the Doe Park Reservoir was resumed on Tuesday, at Bradford, and the magistrates determined to grant the certificate of completion.

A special meeting of the Nottingham Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday for the purpose of expressing sympathy with the widow and family of the late Mr. Cobden, and a resolution to that effect was adopted.

On Monday the new pier at Lytham, Lancashire, was opened by Mrs. Clifton, wife of Colonel Clifton, lord of the manor. The pier has been erected at a cost of upwards of £5000. The weather was very propitious, and there was a large number of visitors brought by special train from Manchester, Preston, Rossall, and other places.

The difficulty between the masters and ironworkers in the Wolverhampton district has been got over. On Saturday the masters met a deputation from the men, and a resolution was agreed to that some system of arbitration for the prevention of strikes and lock-outs should, as early as possible be prepared. The works are opened.

A return was issued on Saturday giving the names and other details concerning the 871 parishes in agricultural districts throughout the kingdom said to have decreased in houses and increased in population. The greatest number of parishes in which this change is said to have taken place are stated in the return to be in Yorkshire, Somersetshire, Northumberland, Lincolnshire, Herefordshire, and Cheshire.

On Wednesday the foundation-stone of a new theatre was laid at Hull, on the site of the late Theatre Royal, which was destroyed by fire on the 13th of October, 1859. The stone was laid by Lord Londesborough, in the presence of a large concourse of ladies and gentlemen. The new theatre will be in the Italian style of architecture, the block of buildings to be 146 ft. by 72 ft. It will be approached by five distinct entrances. The design is by Mr. R. J. Smith, of Hull.

On Wednesday a large meeting was held in the Council Chamber, at Salisbury, for the purpose of establishing a School of Science and Art for the city and neighbourhood. The Mayor occupied the chair. The Bishop of the diocese moved the first resolution, and speeches were made by the Reverend the Dean, Earl Nelson, Lieutenant-General Buckley, M.P.; Mr. Danby Seymour, M.P.; Mr. W. H. Marsh, M.P.; Lieutenant-Colonel Bathurst, M.P.; Mr. Buckmaster, from the Kensington Museum, the Hon. and Rev. S. Best, Mr. E. Chadwick, and others.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

ALTHOUGH the supply of money in the general discount market is very extensive, and a further fall of fully 1 per cent has taken place in the rates at which the Council for India have disposed of bills on the various Presidencies, very little business has been transacted in Home Securities, and the quotations have had a drooping tendency.

The demand for accommodation has not increased, and the best bills are discounted as follow:—

Thirty days' bills	3½ per cent.	Four months'	4 per cent.
Sixty days'	3¾ "	Six months'	4¼ "
Three months'	3¾ "

On most parts of the Continent money is in but moderate request. We annex the rates in the leading cities:—

	Bank rate per cent.	Open market per cent.		Bank rate per cent.	Open market per cent.
Paris	3½	3½ ¼	Turin	5	4¾ 5
Vienna	5	5¼	Brussels	3½	3¼
Berlin	4	3½	Madrid	9	10
Frankfort	4	3	Hamburg	—	2
Amsterdam	3½	3½	St. Petersburg ..	6	7

A new Mexican Loan for £10,000,000 has been opened in Paris. The bonds will be redeemed by drawings, to which a certain number of prizes are to be attached.

Several parcels of gold have arrived from New York and Alexandria. The export demand is unusually limited. Bar silver has been sold for Holland at 60⅝d., and Mexican dollars are held at 59½d. per ounce.

It is stated that the Greek Government have paid to the protecting Powers the sum of £600,000 in discharge of the interest due on the Guarantee Loan of 1832.

No business was transacted in the Stock Exchange on Monday. On Tuesday the market for Home Stocks was flat. Consols, for Money, left off at 91 to ⅛; Ditto, for Time, 91⅛ ¼; Reduced and New Three per Cents, 89¼ ⅜; Bank Stock, 240 to 242; India Stock, 215 to 218; India Five per Cents, 107 to ½; Rupee Paper, 102 to 103, and 109 to 111; India Bonds 14s. to 18s. prem.; Exchequer Bills, 4s. to 7s. prem. Prices were drooping on Wednesday. Consols, for Transfer, closed at 90⅞ 91; Ditto, for Account, 91 to ⅛; Bank Stock, 240 to 242; Reduced and New Three per Cents, 89⅛ ¼; India Stock, 215 to 218; Ditto, Five per Cents, 107 to ½; India Bonds, 12s. to 18s. prem.; Exchequer Bills, 4s. to 7s. prem. On Thursday the market was quiet. Consols, for Money, sold at 90⅝ ¾; for Account, 90¾ ⅞; Reduced and New Three per Cents, 88⅞ 89; India Five per Cents, 106⅞ 107⅛; India Bonds, 15s. prem.; and Exchequer Bills, 4s. to 7s. prem.

Owing to the recent Federal victories, the market for Confederate Loan has ruled heavy in the extreme, and considerable reduction has taken place in its value, the quotation being 17 to 18. In other Foreign Securities the alterations are unimportant, but they are mostly in an unfavourable direction. Brazilian Five per Cents have realised 100½ ex div.; Ditto Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 83½; Chilian Six per Cents, 101⅝ ex div.; Colombian Six per Cents, 79 ex div.; Danubian, 86½; Egyptian Seven per Cents, 97½; Ditto, 1864, 94⅞ ex div.; Greek, 21½; Mexican Three per Cents, 27; Ditto, 1864, 26½; Moorish, 95; Portuguese Three per Cents, 48½; Russian Five per Cents, 1822, 90½; Ditto, 1862, 92½; Ditto, 1864, 92 ex div.; Ditto Three per Cents, 55¾; Sardinian Five per Cents, 79; Spanish Three per Cents, 48½; Ditto, Deferred, 41½; Ditto, Passive, 31⅞; Ditto, Certificates, 16½; Turkish Old Six per Cents, 1854, 90½ ex div.; Ditto, 1858, 72½; Ditto, 1862, 74¾; Venezuela Six per Cents, 1861, 40 ex div.; Austrian Five per Cents, 67⅛; and French Three per Cents, 67f. 62½c.

In some instances Joint-stock Bank Shares have declined in value, and the market, generally speaking, has ruled quiet:—Agra and Masterman's, 119½; Ditto, New, 60; Alliance, 33¾; Brazilian and Portuguese, 11; Chartered of India, Australia, and China, 28 ex div.; Chartered Mercantile of India, London, and China, 54½; Consolidated, 10¾; Imperial Ottoman, 17½; London and Brazilian, 50½; London Joint-stock, 50; London and South African, 22½; London and Westminster, 95¼; National Provincial of England, Second Issue, 40½; Oriental, 54½; Scinde, Punjaub, and Delhi, 10; South Australia, 35½; Union of Australia, 55½; and Union of London, 55¾.

Only a moderate business has been transacted in Colonial Government Securities:—Canada Six per Cents have realised 91¼; Ditto Five per Cents, 79½; Ceylon Six per Cents, 104½; Mauritius Six per Cents, 1895, 105½; New South Wales Five per Cents, 92⅞; and Victoria Six per Cents, 107⅛.

The Miscellaneous Market has been rather quiet. Australian Mortgage, Land, and Finance, 3; Berlin Waterworks, 10⅝; City of London Real Property, 3⅝; City Offices, 4¾; Credit Foncier and Mobilier of England, 10½; Ditto, New, 9½; Crystal Palace, 37¼; Discount Corporation, 15⅜; Egyptian Commercial and Trading, 3½; Financial Corporation, ½; Hudson's Bay, 15⅜; International Financial, 6¾; Joint-stock Discount, 7¼; London Financial, 22½; London General Omnibus, 3¼; National Discount, 15¼; National Financial, 8; Oriental Financial, 4; Telegraph Construction and Maintenance, 8½; and Universal Marine Insurance, 6½.

Rather a large business has been passing in Federal Securities, at a considerable rise in the quotations. United States Five per Cents, 65; Illinois, 68½; and Erie, 43¾.

The Railway Share Market has been inactive, and, in some instances, the quotations have tended downwards. Annexed are Thursday's official closing prices:—

Ordinary Shares and Stocks.—Bristol and Exeter, 95; Edinburgh and Glasgow, 89½; Great Eastern, 47⅜; Great Northern 132¾; Ditto, A Stock, 147¾; Ditto, B Stock, 131¼; Great Western, 74½; Ditto, South Wales, 65; Ditto, West Midland—Oxford, 53; Lancashire and Yorkshire, 120; London and Brighton, 107½; London and North-Western, 122¾; London and South-Western, 96¾; Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, 60¾; Metropolitan, 133; Midland, 135⅜; Ditto, Birmingham and Derby, 107; North-Eastern—Berwick, 110⅞; Ditto, Leeds, 69½; Ditto, York, 103; Ditto, Stockton and Darlington, 37⅞; North London, 116½; South-Eastern, 86¼; Vale of Neath, 107¼.

British Possessions.—Bombay, Baroda, and Central India, 102⅞; East Indian, 104½; Grand Trunk of Canada, First Preference, 62; Great Indian Peninsula, 104¼; Ditto, New, 6⅝ ex div.; Madras Five per Cent, 102½; Scinde, 101½; Ditto, Punjaub, 102½.

Foreign.—Antwerp and Rotterdam, 10¾; Bahia and San Francisco, 14¾ ex div.; Great Luxembourg, 13.

The return of the Bank of England for the week ending April 19 shows the following results when compared with the preceding statement:—

A decrease of circulation of ..	£322,124	An increase of bullion of	£36,631
An increase of public deposits of ..	194,655	An increase of rest of	10,916
A decrease of other deposits of ..	714,280	An increase of reserve of	209,151
A decrease of securities of	867,493

The total circulation is £21,428,510. Public deposits amount to £6,020,989, and private deposits to £14,700,220. Securities are £30,358,910. The stock of bullion is £14,974,010; and the reserve of notes and coin, £8,607,950.

THE MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE, April 17.—There was only a limited supply of English wheat on sale here to-day; nevertheless, all kinds moved off slowly, at last week's prices. In foreign wheat—the show of which was moderate—very little business was transacted, on former terms. Floating cargoes of grain commanded very little attention. Malting barley was steady in price; but grinding and distilling sorts moved off slowly, at late currencies. The malt trade was in a sluggish state; the quotations, however, were steady. Oats were firm, although the supply of foreign was on the increase. Both beans and peas were held for more money. The flour trade was inactive.

April 19.—The transactions in most kinds of produce to-day were only moderate. Compared with Monday, no change took place in the quotations.

English.—Wheat, Essex and Kent, red, 38s. to 43s.; ditto, white, 40s. to 48s.; Norfolk and Suffolk, red, 38s., to 42s.; rye, 26s. to 27s.; grinding barley, 23s. to 21s.; distilling ditto, 25s. to 28s.; malting ditto, 27s. to 34s.; Lincoln and Norfolk malt, 54s. to 61s.; brown ditto, 47s. to 51s.; Kingston and Ware, 54s. to 61s.; chevalier, 58s. to 62s.; Yorkshire and Lincolnshire food oats, 19s. to 23s.; potato ditto, 23s. to 27s.; Youghal and Cork, black, 18s. to 23s.; ditto, white, 19s. to 24s.; tick beans, 33s. to 35s.; grey peas, 34s. to 36s.; maple, 36s. to 39s.; white, 34s. to 36s.; boilers, 37s. to 38s. per quarter.

Arrivals this Week.—English and Scotch: Wheat, 1860; barley, 240; malt, 1530; oats, 650; flour, 680. Irish: Oats, 830. Foreign: Wheat, 1680; barley, 3390; oats, 25,310; flour, 750 sacks.

Seeds.—Agricultural seeds continue steady in price, with a good demand. Linseed, rapeseed, and cakes command very little attention.

Linseed, English, crushing, 56s. to 62s.; Calcutta, 57s. to 58s.; hempseed, 42s. to 43s. per quarter; coriander, 22s. to 24s. per cwt.; brown mustard seed, 10s. to 12s.; white ditto, 8s. to 10s.; tares, 9s. to 10s. per bushel; English rapeseed, 61s. to 72s. per quarter; linseed cakes, English, £10 15s. to £11 0s.; ditto, foreign, £11 0s. to £11 5s.; rape cakes, £6 0s. to £6 10s. per ton; red clover seed, 64s. to 120s.; white ditto, 66s. to 88s. per cwt.

Averages of Grain.—Wheat, 40s. 1d.; barley, 29s. 6d.; oats, 22s. 1d. per quarter.

English Grain sold last Week.—Wheat, 61,605; barley, 22,977; oats, 5358 quarters.

Tea.—Only a limited business is doing in this market, at about last week's quotations.

Sugar.—The demand is very inactive; nevertheless, prices are well supported. Stock, 87,627 tons, against 65,613 tons last year. Refined goods are dull, but not cheaper.

Coffee.—The demand is far from active, yet prices are freely supported. Stock, 10,082 tons, against 8203 tons in 1864.

Rice.—Sales progress steadily, at full quotations. The stock consists of 41,127 tons against 48,973 tons last year.

Provisions.—Irish butter moves off heavily, at barely last week's prices. Foreign parcels are giving way. Bacon is active, at 69s. to 70s. per cwt. for Waterford, on board. In other provisions about an average business is doing, at late rates.

Tallow.—The demand is steady, at 39s. 9d. per cwt. for P.Y.C., on the spot. The stock is 37,005 casks, against 52,116 ditto last year. Rough fat, 2s. 0½d. per 8 lb.

Oils.—Linseed oil is selling at £31 5s. to £31 10s. per ton. Rape is quoted at £41 to £43; olive, £47 to £51; fine palm, £36 5s.; and sperm, £90. French turpentine, 64s. 6d. per cwt.

Spirits.—The transactions in rum are only moderate, at about previous quotations. Brandy and grain spirits rule about stationary.

Hay and Straw.—Meadow hay, £4 10s. to £5 10s.; clover, £5 10s. to £6 10s.; and straw, £1 7s. to £1 14s. per load.

Coals.—Newcastle, 12s. 9d. to 17s.; Sunderland, 15s. 3d. to 19s.; other qualities, 17s. 6d. to 22s. per ton.

Hops.—Good and fine qualities command a steady inquiry, at full prices. Other kinds move off slowly, at late rates.

Wool.—The demand is heavy, at barely stationary prices. The stock of colonial wool in London is now about 85,000 bales.

Potatoes.—The supplies are moderate, and the demand is steady, at from 65s. to 140s. per ton.

Metropolitan Cattle Market (Thursday, April 20).—Only a limited supply of beasts was on offer in our market to-day, yet all breeds moved off slowly, at barely Monday's currency. The best Scots realized 5s. per 8 lb. We had a good demand for sheep, the show of which was very moderate, at extreme rates. Prime Downs and half-breds out of the wool sold at 5s. 10d. to 6s. per 8 lb. Our quotations now refer solely to shorn sheep, which formed at least seven eighths of the supply. Lambs were in demand, at full prices—viz., from 6s. 4d. to 8s. per 8 lb. Calves advanced 2d. per 8 lb., with a steady inquiry. The pork trade was firm, on rather higher terms. Milch cows ranged from £13 to £21 each.

Per 8 lb. to sink the offal:—Coarse and inferior beasts, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d.; second quality ditto, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d.; prime large oxen, 4s. 6d. to 4s. 8d.; prime Scots, &c., 4s. 10d. to 5s. 0d.; coarse and inferior sheep, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 8d.; second quality ditto, 4s. 10d. to 5s. 2d.; prime coarse-woolled sheep, 5s. 4d. to 5s. 8d.; prime Southdown ditto, 5s. 10d. to 6s. 0d.; large coarse calves, 4s. 4d. to 5s. 0d.; prime small ditto, 5s. 2d. to 5s. 6d.; large hogs, 3s. 4d. to 4s. 0d.; neat small porkers, 4s. 2d. to 5s. 0d.; lamb, 6s. 4d. to 8s. 0d.; sucking calves, 18s. to 21s.; and quarter-old store pigs, 20s. to 25s. each. Total supply: Beasts, 930; cows, 142; sheep and lambs, 4700; calves, 150; pigs, 210. Foreign: Beasts, 420; sheep and lambs, 1150; calves, 137.

Newgate and Leadenhall.—The trade is brisk, and prices are on the advance, owing to the short supplies of meat on offer. ROBERT HERBERT.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 14.

BANKRUPTCIES ANNULLED.

T. B. HUBBLE, Aldermanbury, merchant.—B. WARR, Steeple Claydon, Bucks, farmer. J. and L. J. NATHAN, Houndsditch, clothiers.

BANKRUPTS.

C. WEATHERLEY, Kensington and Kentish Town, draper.—A. LAY, Oxford, baker.—J. ADAMS, William-street, Hampstead-road, bootmaker.—C. BROWN, Brixton-road, victualler.—E. D. JOHNSON, Kentish Town, solicitor.—J. H. S. BLAIN, St. Mary-axe, rope-agent.—H. TAYLER, Upper East Smithfield, City, shipping grocer.—J. HARDING, Hammersmith, teacher of music.—W. H. PRESTON, Lambeth, draper.—W. ADAMS, Chelsea, hairdresser. — J. W. ATKINSON, Finsbury, ginger-beer manufacturer. — F. J. MULLER, Queenhithe, importer of fancy goods.—T. JAMES, Ramsey, Hunts, attorney.—A. LOKE, Leighton Buzzard, Beds, horsedealer.—W. L. HURRY, Kingston-on-Thames, house decorator.—G. HUNT, Soho, commission agent.—J. K. BOWDEN, Kingsland-road, tailor.—W. HOPE, Henley-on-Thames, engineer.—J. H. SAUNDERS, Upper Norwood, confectioner.—R. CIOCCI, Strand, marble merchant.—E. WATKINS, Norton Folgate, milliner.—W. KIRBY, jun., Oxford, baker.—J. B. SADLER, Tamworth, printer. J. WORSEY, Whitford Mill, Worcestershire, miller.—J. WOOD, Leicester, pawnbroker.—J. ROBINSON, Wakefield, coal proprietor.—W. F. SCOWBY, Wakefield, wine merchant. J. and H. FLETCHER, Hassop, coaldealers.—D. SNEAD, Llanidloes, flannel merchant.—J. FLETCHER, Liverpool, lamp manufacturer.—M. JONES, Llandudno, paperhanger.—H. BRODIE, Manchester, manufacturer.—T. TAYLOR, Wigan, grocer.—M. ASPINALL, Middleton, auctioneer.—D. STUART, Wigan, stationer.—J. WILSON, Windermere.—J. S. WATT, Sunderland, draper.—J. RAVENSCROFT, Everton, tailor.—W. HODGKINSON, Basford, miller.—E. JONES, Swyddyfynon, draper.—J. MARSDEN, Tong, cattle-dealer.—G. COOK, Crondall, plumber.—W. GERSON, Manchester, jeweller.—H. LEWIS, West Cowes, grocer.—L. MORRIS, Rhyl, grocer.—J. SEDDON, Bolton, machine joiner.—J. BORTOFT, Manchester, butcher.—W. OLDHAM, Blackburn, beerseller.—A. A. BABBS, Bristol, grocer.—A. CROOK, Burnley, bootdealer.—I. HENN, Birmingham, firelron-maker, F. GRIFFITHS, Birmingham, fruit-salesman.—E. MILLER, Birmingham, carter.—A. BENNETT, Hanley.—J. DAILEY, Burslem, joiner.—R. KNIGHT, East Dean, collier.—T. OWEN, Aberffraw, carrier.—W. H. HICK, York, innkeeper.—R. JONES, Ashley, bootmaker.—H. MANDERS, Bongate.—H. GEARING, Lindfield, builder.—W. HUNTER, Middlesborough, tailor.—S. HIGGINSON, Wrexham, commission agent.—J. PERRY, Tean, butcher.—H. G. POULTON, Bristol, grocer.

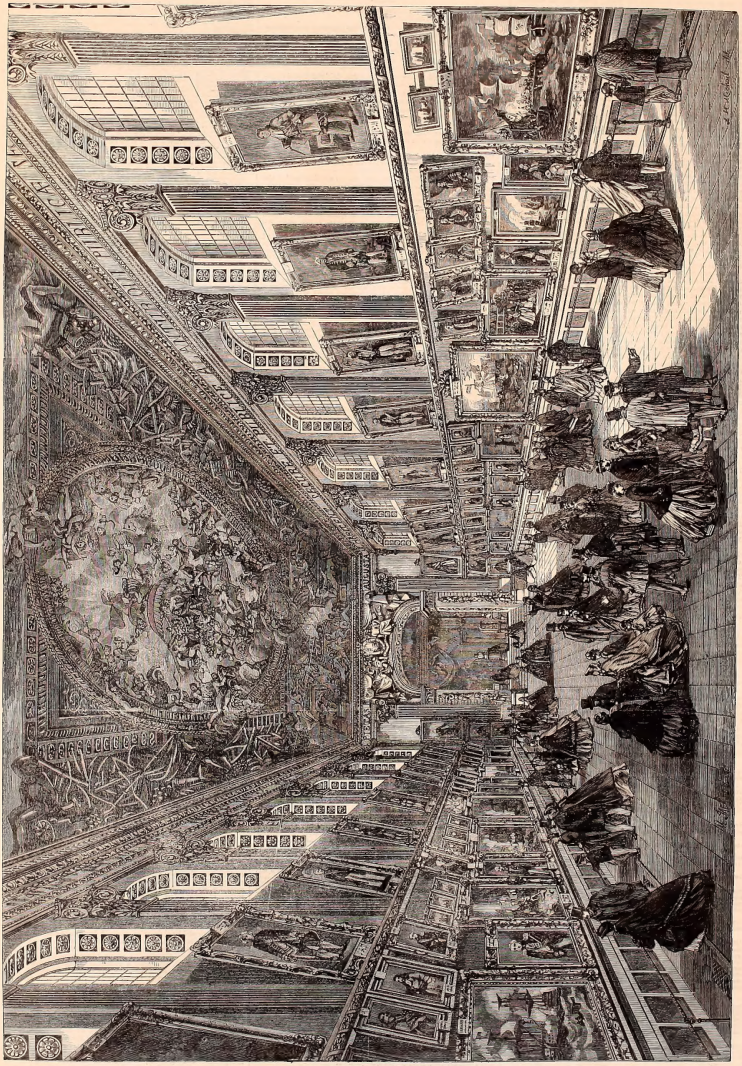
SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

C. DUNCAN, Securingburn, Dundee, stationer.—S. D. WILLIAMSON, Edinburgh.—J. GILCHRIST, Banff, merchant.

TUESDAY, APRIL 18.

BANKRUPTS.

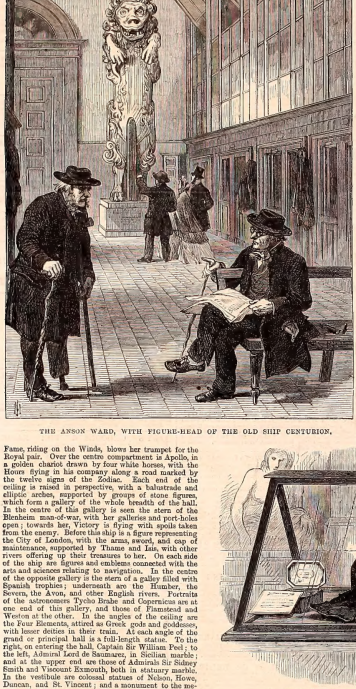
E. LLOYD, Shoreditch, linendraper. — J. ALLEN, Lisson-grove.—W. J. BAKER, Stoke Newington, draper.—W. COLLINS, Kentish Town, stonemason.—N. WELTON, Greenwich, timber-dealer.—T. BOOKER, Chichester, butcher.—J. HEYWOOD, Manchester, joiner.—F. PERKINS, Kensworth, publican.—W. F. BURLING, Great Yarmouth, tailor.—J. and G. WILLIAMS, Ropley, Hampshire, tailors. — L. CLARKE, Peterborough, cattle-dealer.—J. JONES, Merthyr Tydvil, draper.—R. M. BAYLEY, Abbots Bromley, grocer.—E. J. WHITE, Bristol, furniture-broker.—I. GLOVER, Wednesbury, coalmaster.—I. SIMM, Fairfield, builder.—J. AINSCOUGH, Wigan, publican.—J. and W. OLIVER, Choppington Guide Post, drapers.—H. G. HANDYSIDE, Hawkwell Brewery, draper.—J. DALZELL, Milnthorp, grocer.—R. LEE, Kirkstall.—W. RUCK, St. Woonard's, farmer.—E. JONES, Congresbury, corndealer.—W. HEATH, Dartmouth, shoedealer.—J. CUTLIFFE, Marwood, miller.—C. MUNDEN, Northampton, machine boot-top closer.—A. WILLIAMSON, Ashton-under-Lyne, letterpress-printer.—S. ROSCOE, jun., Ashton-under-Lyne, small-ware-dealer.—J. WILSON, Manchester, warehouseman.—R. WILLIAMS, Lower Tranmere, joiner.—B. B. BINGLEY, Kingston-on-Hull, stationer.—G. PENTON, Streatley, draper.—A. SLADE, Charlton Mackrell, innkeeper.—J. A. ALDRED, Hulme, feltdealer.—R. INCH, Bideford, tallow-chandler.—F. C. MARSH, Cardiff, iron-dealer.—W. MABE, Swansea, butcher.—W. C. MAYES, Middlesborough, grocer.—G. GREEN, Gainsborough, stonemason.—J. SMITH, Great Grimsby, joiner.—W. SHIRTCLIFFE, Goole, plumber.—J. ELLISON, Manchester, spindle-maker.—W. W. PITFIELD, Haugh, mechanic.—P. M'CARTHY, Manchester, commission agent.—M. PEED, Whittlesey.



SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

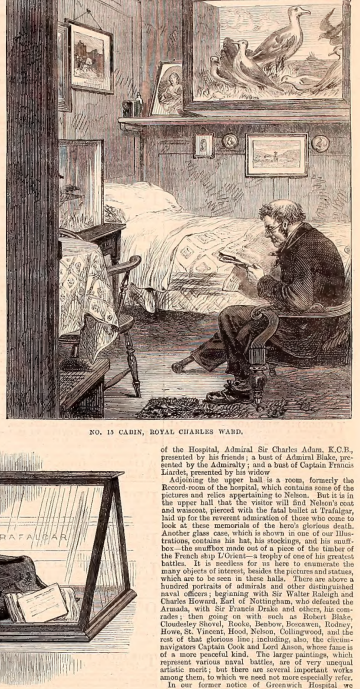
R. SMITH, Dumfries, grocer.—D. MACLEOD, Inverness, wine merchant.—J. PURVES, Glasgow, fruiterer.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF GREENWICH HOSPITAL.



A VISIT to the Royal Hospital for Seamen at Greenwich, and, of course, to Greenwich Park, is one of the favourite excursions of Londoners in holiday time. We will therefore take the opportunity this week to add a few more Illustrations to those we lately published of the familiar aspects of that truly national institution. They will, perhaps, call up some pleasant and kindly recollections of home in the minds of many of our countrymen abroad, who may open these pages in Canada or Australia, in India or China, or wherever else the English colonist or the English traveller is to be found. Greenwich Hospital is a place of thoroughly English associations, and much endeared to the Englishman's heart. It has not, indeed, been the fortune of this generation—thanks to our peace with France and the United States of America since 1815—to witness anything like those grand demonstrations of British naval power which distinguished the old French and Spanish wars in the times of our fathers and of their fathers and grandfathers before them. Yet we have no reason to believe that the traditional pride and fondness with which all classes of the English people were accustomed to look upon this department of the public service have suffered any abatement in the last half century from the absence of such tremendous proofs of the national prowess at sea. While the mechanical conditions and instruments of maritime warfare have been thoroughly changed—by the substitution of steam-ships for sailing-ships, by the introduction of a more powerful artillery, and, lastly, by the application of plate-armour to the sides of our men-of-war—the British Navy has kept pace with all these improvements. There is, doubtless, a higher degree of average intelligence, with as much sturdy valour and loyal devotion as of old, both among the officers and the crews. With this conviction, and therefore with a sincere regard for the existing service, which we esteem not inferior to that of any former age, we would invite the visitor to enter the Painted Hall of Greenwich Hospital, containing a gallery of paintings illustrative of the most famous personages and events in the naval history of Great Britain. The interior of this noble building, of which the architect was Sir Christopher Wren, is shown in our large Engraving.

The principal hall, which contains most of the pictures, is 106 ft. long, 56 ft. wide, and 50 ft. high. It is ornamented with a lofty range of Corinthian pilasters, which are partly hidden by the crimson hangings and by the pictures themselves. The ceiling is painted, by Sir James Thornhill, with a profusion of allegorical fancies. The figures of King William and Queen Mary, as the founders of the hospital, appear within an oval frame in the centre, upheld by gigantic slaves and attended by Cupid, Concord, Peace, and Liberty; whilst a few other Virtues and Graces, triumphing over the antagonistic evil qualities, are seen in different compartments.



A VISIT TO GREENWICH HOSPITAL: THE PAINTED HALL.

A VISIT TO GREENWICH HOSPITAL.

THE ANSON WARD, WITH FIGURE-HEAD OF THE OLD SHIP CENTURION.

NO. 13 CABIN, ROYAL CHARLES WARD.

Fame, riding on the Winds, blows her trumpet for the Royal pair. Over the centre compartment is Apollo, in a golden chariot drawn by four white horses, with the Hours flying in his company along a road marked by the twelve signs of the Zodiac. Each end of the ceiling is raised in perspective, with a balustrade and elliptic arches, supported by groups of stone figures, which form a gallery of the whole breadth of the hall. In the centre of this gallery is seen the stern of the Blenheim man-of-war, with her galleries and port-holes open; towards her, Victory is flying with spoils taken from the enemy. Before this ship is a figure representing the City of London, with the arms, sword, and cap of maintenance, supported by Thame and Isis, with other rivers offering up their treasures to her. On each side of the ship are figures and emblems connected with the arts and sciences relating to navigation. In the centre of the opposite gallery is the stern of a galley filled with Spanish trophies; underneath are the Humber, the Severn, the Avon, and other English rivers. Portraits of the astronomers Tycho Brahe and Copernicus are at one end of this gallery, and those of Flamsteed and Weston at the other. In the angles of the ceiling are the Four Elements, attired as Greek gods and goddesses, with lesser deities in their train. At each angle of the grand or principal hall is a full-length statue. To the right, on entering the hall, Captain Sir William Peel; to the left, Admiral Lord de Saumarez, in Sicilian marble; and at the upper end are those of Admirals Sir Sidney Smith and Viscount Exmouth, both in statuary marble. In the vestibule are colossal statues of Nelson, Howe, Duncan, and St. Vincent; and a monument to the memory of the Arctic voyager Sir John Franklin, and his companions, presented by the Admiralty in 1858.

From the principal hall a flight of steps leads into the upper hall. In the centre of the ceiling here are represented Queen Anne and Prince George of Denmark, accompanied by various allegorical figures. In the four corners are the arms of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, and between these the four quarters of the world, Europe, Asia, Africa, and America, with their several emblems and productions. To the left is a painting in imitation of basso-relievo, representing the landing of the Prince of Orange, afterwards King William III. To the right, over the chimney-piece, is the landing of King George I. at Greenwich; and on the wall, facing the entrance, are portraits of that monarch and two generations of his family, surrounded by the tutelary virtues; in the background appears the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral. On the right and left of the entrance are allegorical paintings, representing the Public Weal and Public Safety. In the centre, upon a marble pedestal, presented by the late Queen Dowager, stands a splendid bust of his late Majesty King William IV., by Chantrey; and a colossal bust of Nelson, in bronze, by the same artist, presented by his relict, Lady Chantrey, is placed on the northern side of the hall; also a bust of the late Governor of the Hospital, Admiral Sir Charles Adam, K.C.B., presented by his friends; a bust of Admiral Blake, presented by the Admiralty; and a bust of Captain Francis Lauder, presented by his widow.

Adjoining the upper hall is a room, formerly the Record-room of the hospital, which contains some of the pictures and relics appertaining to Nelson. But it is in the upper hall that the visitor will find Nelson's coat and waistcoat, pierced with the fatal bullet at Trafalgar, laid up for the reverent admiration of those who come to look at these memorials of the hero's glorious death. Another glass case, which is shown in one of our Illustrations, contains his hat, his stockings, and his snuff-box—the snuff-box made out of a piece of the timber of the French ship L'Orient—a trophy of one of his greatest battles. It is needless for us here to enumerate the many objects of interest, besides the pictures and statues, which are to be seen in these halls. There are above a hundred portraits of admirals and other distinguished naval officers; beginning with Sir Walter Raleigh and Charles Howard, Earl of Nottingham, who defeated the Armada, with Sir Francis Drake and others, his comrades; then going on with such as Robert Blake, Clousesley Shovel, Rooke, Benbow, Boscawen, Rodney, Howe, St. Vincent, Hood, Nelson, Collingwood, and the rest of that glorious line; including also the circumnavigators Captain Cook and Lord Anson, whose fame is of a more peaceful kind. The larger paintings, which represent various naval battles, are of very unequal artistic merit; but there are several important works among them, to which we need not more especially refer.

NELSON'S HAT, SNUFF-BOX, AND STOCKINGS.

In our former notice of Greenwich Hospital we gave some account of the pensioners, their treatment and manner of living, with views of the West Dining-room and Kitchen, situated beneath the Painted Hall. The comfort and good order of the whole establishment may be seen to no less advantage in the wards, of which we present two Illustrations—namely, a view of the Anson Ward and one of Cabin No. 16, in the Royal Charles Ward. These wards are spacious, well-ventilated, and lighted with gas. Each man has a separate cabin, or at least a separate berth, well furnished with horsehair mattresses, bedding, and other conveniences. Each ward is in charge of a boatswain or mate, the whole being under the supervision of the officers of the hospital. In case of sickness, the men are immediately removed to the infirmary, where every comfort and aid that can contribute to their ease and recovery is liberally and kindly dispensed.

Our last Illustration is a View of the Piazza, on the western side of the building, commonly called Chalk-walk, dedicated to the innocent enjoyment of smoking, which Sir Walter Raleigh, himself a sailor, was the first to introduce when Greenwich Palace was the residence of Queen Elizabeth—though it is not to be supposed that the ever-jubilant courtier ever took the liberty of lighting his pipe within the precincts of the Queen's palace.

THE SMOKING-GALLERY, CHALK-WALK.

MR. and Mrs. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will honour in their NEW ENTERTAINMENT, at the Gallery of Illustration, 14, Regent-street, EVERY EVENING (except Saturday) at Eight, and Tuesday and Thursday Afternoons at Three. ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street. Open 12 o'clock. Stalls, 3s.; Tuesday and Thursday at Three. Saturday at Eight.

MR. ARTHUR SKETCHLEY, Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly, every Evening during the Week, at Eight o'Clock (except Saturday), Saturday Morning at Three o'Clock. PARIS PUNCH AND JUDY. MR. SKEET AT THE PIANO. Box-office open from 11 to 5.

CONSERVATOIRE DE LA HARPE, 76, Charles-street, Cavendish-square.—APPOMAZ'S FIRST RECITAL—TUESDAY EVENING, April 25, at Eight o'Clock, for the CONVERSAZIONE. Perspectives (with Terms of Invitation), to be obtained on application.

MME. CLARA SCHUMANN.—This Evening (Saturday), at Half-past 3, the MATINÉE MUSICALE, at 28, Hanover-square. Vocalists, Piatti, Rice, and Weiss. Robert Schumann's Pianoforte Pieces. Tickets, Half-a-Guinea.

MR. DEACON BEGS to announce that THREE MATINÉES of CLASSICAL MUSIC to take place at the QUEEN'S CONCERT ROOM, HANOVER-SQUARE, by the following ENGAGING, MAY 4, JUNE 1 and 29, to commence at Three o'Clock. Mr. Deacon will be assisted by Mr. Charles Hallé and Herr Pauer, who will play a selection of Pianoforte Music by a single Master, one pianist, Single Ticket, half-a-guinea. To be had of Messrs. Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street; the principal Musicsellers, at the Rooms; and of Mr. Deacon, 39, Wimpole-street, Cavendish-square.

FRENCH GALLERY, 120, Pall-Mall.—THE FIFTY-FIFTH EXHIBITION (for the benefit of the Continuation of Artists of the French and Flemish Schools) is NOW OPEN.—CHARLES GIRAUD, Secretary.

HYDE PARK in 1865, by HENRY BARRADA. Sec, containing 200 Portraits from the Pencil of Mr. Barrada, now ON VIEW, at 270, Regent-street (Polytechnic Institution). Admission, 1s. Open from 10 to 10.

ROYAL BOTANIC SOCIETY, REGENT'S PARK.—EXHIBITION of PLANTS, FLOWERS, and FRUIT, WEDNESDAY, MAY 24, JUNE 14, and JULY 5; Gates open at 12 o'clock. TUESDAY, JUNE 13, a Special Exhibition of Roses, when Prizes will be given from Fellows of the Society, price 10s. or before May 13, 21s. Fellows can obtain Tickets for themselves and friends at 3s. each.—THE LAST SPECIAL EXHIBITION will take place on SATURDAY NEXT, APRIL 29. Tickets, 5s. each.

PRACTICAL GEOLOGY. KING'S COLLEGE, LONDON.—PROFESSOR TENNANT, F.G.S., WILL COMMENCE A COURSE OF LECTURES on FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 28, at Nine o'clock, and continue them on every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday Morning at the same hour, at the Museum of Economic Geology, Jermyn-street. The Lectures will be illustrated by specimens. Fee for the course, £2 2s. Lectures commence on Tuesday next, April 25, at Nine o'clock.—By order of the Council, E. W. HILT, D.D., Principal.

DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1865.

Under the Special Patronage of
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

THE EXHIBITION
WILL BE OPENED
ON TUESDAY, 9TH OF MAY,
BY HIS EXCELLENCY
THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF CARLISLE, K.P., G.C.B., Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

The Main Centre will be observed on this occasion will include
Statuary, Pictures, Architecture, with a Band and Chorus of Thousand Performers.
On the Opening Day Season-ticket Holders only can be admitted.
Season Tickets are now on Sale at the Office, 112, Grafton-street,
Lady's or Gentleman's Tickets ... £2 2 0
April 10, 1865. By Order, PERCY FARRINGTON, Secretary.

Arrangements for Return and Excursion Tickets on all the railways in the United Kingdom, and for steamers, to be announced.

LONDON RIFLE BRIGADE.—The ANNUAL BALL will take place, WITH TABLE D'HÔTE SUPPER, in the ROOMS on THURSDAY, MAY 11, under the patronage of H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, K.G., K.T., G.C.B., Honorary Colonel of the Brigade.

TO PARENTS and GUARDIANS.—MR. WHEELER, Bookseller and Stationer, Weymouth, has a Vacancy for a well-educated YOUTH as APPRENTICE. Premium required.

WESTMINSTER ELECTION.
MR. J. STUART MILL for WESTMINSTER.
Gentlemen who are willing to form Committees to promote the election of Mr. Stuart Mill and to obtain the Electoral Franchise for the Men of expense, are invited to communicate with the undersigned.
JOHN STUART MILL, Blackheath Park, Kent. Saturday, April 22, 1865.

OPOPONAX—MAY I.

CRYSTAL PALACE, BOHEMIAN COURT.—The Directors have the honour to announce that they will open some of the Courts of the Sydenham Palace to the Public on THURSDAY, APRIL 27, and 27, 6 Days each day, and will open the remainder of the BOHEMIAN COURT, comprising handsome Glass Chandeliers, Vases, Mirrors, Table Glass, Cabinets, and other Bohemian Glass, Articles from Berlin, Meissen Porcelain, Bronzes on pedestals; handsome Cloisonné glass columns, and painted vases, large glass fountains, specially for the conservatories; and other rare articles of art for contemplation or table, dessert services, toilet requisites, &c., &c. The Court will be open from 10 to 6 daily. Valuable catalogues, 6d. each. May be ordered, and delivered at the place of sale, and at the offices of the Auctioneer, No. Bear Road-street, S.

QUEEN'S COLLEGE INSTITUTION for LADIES, 47, Harley-street, Cavendish-square, London.—TERM opens April 27. Fee for Residents in Upper School, 10 guineas per annum. Fee for Residents in Junior School, 8 guineas per annum. Fee for Non-Residents in Secondary School, 20 guineas per annum. Private lectures for Pupils in Upper School, at moderate charges. Prospectuses, &c., for exemptions, with list of Professors and lady governesses, address MR. MORELL, Lady Principal at the College.

ROYAL NAVAL, MILITARY, AND CIVIL SERVICES BENEVOLENT SOCIETY (Established A.D. 1817, under Royal Patronage), 17, Waterloo-place, London, S.W. ARTHUR H. HALLAM-CLIFTON, Secretary.
Agents wanted in towns not yet represented.

BANK of NEW ZEALAND.
Bankers to the General Government of New Zealand, the Provincial Governments of Auckland, Canterbury, Otago, &c.
CAPITAL £500,000. RESERVED FUND £62,500.
Auckland ... Hokianga ... Russell ... Wellington
Nelson ... Wanganui ... Taranaki ... Christchurch
Dunedin ... Invercargill ... Oamaru ... Picton
Onehunga ... Napier ... Clarence ... Blenheim
Drafts granted on the Bank's Agents in Australia, India, China, and the United States.
Bills discounted and advances made on approved security.
Deposits received at interest.
No. 30, Old Broad-street, London, E.C. F. LARKWORTHY, Manager at London.

ACCIDENTS to LIFE or LIMB—£1000 A year of death, or £6 per week while half or by injury, may be secured by an Annual Payment of £3 to £5 5s. according to age. RAILWAY PASSENGERS ASSURANCE COMPANY, 64, Cornhill, and 10, Regent-street, London. W. J. VIAN, Secretary.

LOANS ON DEBENTURES.
THE GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY are prepared to receive money to repay Loans on Debentures falling due on the 1st of May.
Bishopsgate Station, April 18, 1865. J. B. OWEN, Secretary.

SMART'S SOLE WRITING INSTITUTION, 70, corner of Basinghall-street, Cheapside, Regent-street, Open Daily from 9 to 9. Mr. Smart's system of writing is unrivalled for speed, and taught in the shortest time. Lessons, 10s. 6d. per month, or one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in Eight to Twelve Lessons. Separate Superior Rooms for Ladies, with experienced Professors. Mr. Smart will attend. See prospectus, with opinions of the Press, &c., gratis and post-free.

N.B.—Agents in the West of England Secretaries Company.

LIMPLEY STOKE, NEAR BATH.
HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT.
Physician, Dr. J. Bell Dalzell, Sen., M.D.
Manager, Mr. J. Prentice. Terms, £2 2s. per week.
CHARLES LUPTON and SON, Proprietors.

HOSPITAL for CONSUMPTION and DISEASES of the CHEST, BROMPTON.—The Governors of this Hospital most respectfully APPEAL for FUNDS. The Wards are now occupied. Liberal and Continuous SUPPORT IS REQUIRED to maintain the present extensive scale of this Charity.
PHILIP BOSE, Hon. Sec.; HENRY DOBBIN, Sec.

NEW BOOKS.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS

ISABEL'S LOVE STORY. By the Author of "Ada Vernham," "Jessie's Error," &c.
VIOLET GRENVILLE. By LADY EMILY PONSONBY.
CARA'S CONFESSION. By the Author of "High Church," "Rome," "Mattie: A Story."
CHRISTIAN'S MISTAKE. By the Author of "Mary Powell," "Miss Tommy," &c.
"A more charming story has rarely been published."—Athenæum.
THE CURATE'S DAUGHTER. By Mrs. GRAY.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

HISTORIC PICTURES. By A. BAILLIE COCHRANE, M.P.
WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE. By Cyrilnal WHISMAN.
HAUNTED HOUSES. By WALTER THORNBURY.
LYRICAL SKETCHES, AND LOVE-SONGS. With Notes. By ALEXANDER SMITH.
"This is a charming volume; the poems are full of vitality, and it will assuredly find many readers."—Spectator.
"Mr. Smith's poetry is full of beauty."—Times.
"Full of thought and delicate breathings."—Illustrated Times.
London: JAMES HOGG and SONS, 113, Fleet-street.

This day, in fcap 8vo, price 3s., cloth,

DAPHNE. A Drama.
SAUL MEREDITH, Author of "Gerard Ellis."
London: CHAPMAN and HALL, 193, Piccadilly.

ELEGANT GIFT-BOOK. Second Edition, now ready, with Frontispiece by F. Gilbert, toned paper, crown 8vo, price 5s.,
TEARS, IDLE TEARS: a Book for Sad Hours. By CYRIL HARCOURT.
"LYRICAL SKETCHES, AND LOVE-SONGS. With Notes. By ALEXANDER SMITH.
"This is a charming volume; the poems are full of vitality, and will assuredly find many readers."—Spectator.
"Mr. Smith's poetry is full of beauty."—Times.
"Full of thought and delicate breathings."—Illustrated Times.
London: JAMES HOGG and SONS, 113, Fleet-street.

This day, in fcap 8vo, price 3s., cloth,

DAPHNE. A Drama.
SAUL MEREDITH, Author of "Gerard Ellis."
London: CHAPMAN and HALL, 193, Piccadilly.

TO TABULARIANTS AND STUDENTS OF THE INSTITUTIONS OF THE BRITISH CONSTITUTION.
Just published, price 2s. 6d.,
POLITIA; or, An Analysis of Government.
By the Author of "Ecce Homo."
Part I. and Nos. II. North-street, David-street, Edinburgh. 32 pp. each, price 1s. each, sewed. Part II. will be ready in May. Part III. will complete the work. Agents wanted in all the provinces. Single copies post-free on receipt of Post-office Order.

MISS ACTON'S MODERN COOKERY. New Edition, with Directions for Carving, Tables of Expenses, and Fifty Additional Receipts. The best book of the class yet published.—London: JOHN CHURCHILL and SON.

CAPTAIN MASTERS'S CHILDREN, the new novel by TOM HOOD: "A Splendid Fortune," by the Author of "Lost Sir Massingberd," "Sunshine and Roses," "Twice Dead," &c., and all the New Books and Magazines may be obtained at all the libraries in the kingdom.—London: ALFRED LOW and SON, 188, Fleet-street, Lockyer-court, E.C.

Ninth Edition, with 30 Plates, price 1s., postage-free, SCIATICA: Its Cure by the Improved Transfer System of Diagnosis, and by Medicines. By Dr. DE MARIE, Physician, Author of "Consumption," &c. 30, Sackville-street, Piccadilly, London.

New Edition, with Directions to Colour, price 2s. 6d., post-free,
A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON LANDSCAPE PAINTING AND SKETCHING FROM NATURE. By ALFRED HUNT, Author of "Rambles in Search of Scenery," &c. London: JAMES HOGG and SONS, 113, Fleet-street.

Price 1s., postage-free, 1s. 2d., with 2 Plates,
MONOGRAMS and CYPHERS, Modern and Mediæval. By JAMES GREENWOOD, F.S.A.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 329, Oxford-street.

This day, in fcap 8vo, price 1s. 6d., with 2 Plates,
ALPHABETS and DESIGNS of DIFFERENT CENTURIES. By JAMES GREENWOOD, F.S.A., and F. C. WOOD.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 329, Oxford-street.

Price 5s., with 2 Plates,
PHOTO-CHROMOGRAPHY: an Easy Method of Colouring Photographs (producing a beautiful and permanent picture), and Directions for Mounting and Framing. By JAMES GREENWOOD, F.S.A., and F. C. WOOD.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 329, Oxford-street, W.

Fifth Edition, with 2 Plates, price 1s. 6d.,
PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAITS, Draperies, and Backgrounds, &c. A guide to Painting in Water Colours the Portraits produced by the Camera. By JAMES GREENWOOD, F.S.A., and F. C. WOOD.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 329, Oxford-street, W.

LATEST FASHIONS.—LE BEAU MONDE and LES MODES PARISIENNES for MAY, price 1s. each, contain Coloured Fashions, Full-size Patterns, Novelties in Millinery, Lace Work, Embroidery, Knitting, Crochet, Needlework, Letters of Instruction, Sheet of Monthly Fashions, &c. KITT and CO., 247, Regent-street, W.

ONLY CORRECT SUMMER FASHIONS for LADIES and CHILDREN are published on early terms (each) on the 1st of the month. LE BEAU MONDE, 1s. Coloured Fashions, Full-size Patterns, Novelties in Millinery, Lace Work, Embroidery, Knitting, Crochet, Needlework, Letters of Instruction, Sheet of Monthly Fashions, &c. KITT and CO., 247, Regent-street, W.

MAGIC AND MYSTERY: a Handy-book for the Amateur Conjurer. 6d.; by post, 7d. extra. ARTHUR HARVEY, 177, Strand, and 4, Northumberland-street, W.C.

THE LATEST EXPERIENCES and APPLIANCES of HOMŒOPATHIC PRACTICE.
THE HOMŒOPATHIC FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. By Dr. DRYSDALE. Fifth Edition, revised by the Author and Dr. Epps. Wherein will be found full directions for the treatment of all acute and chronic diseases, with the latest experiences and improvements in the administration of the remedies now practised in the above art.—JAMES LEATH, 7, St. Paul's-churchyard.

MAGIC AND MYSTERY: a Handy-book for the Amateur Conjurer. 6d.; by post, 7d. extra. ARTHUR HARVEY, 177, Strand, and 4, Northumberland-street, W.C.

THE ART OF BREWING, FERMENTING, and BOTTLING. By a Practical Brewer, Author of the Author Brewery. Wherein will be found full directions for the brewing of Ale, Porter, Table Beer, and Wines, with the latest practice in the above art.—JAMES LEATH, 7, St. Paul's-churchyard.

THE HOMŒOPATHIC FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. By Dr. DRYSDALE. Fifth Edition, revised by the Author and Dr. Epps. Wherein will be found full directions for the treatment of all acute and chronic diseases, with the latest experiences and improvements in the administration of the remedies now practised in the above art.—JAMES LEATH, 7, St. Paul's-churchyard.

THE LATEST EXPERIENCES and APPLIANCES of HOMŒOPATHIC PRACTICE.
AN APPENDIX FOR THE BRITISH POSSESSIONS, containing the Latest Experiences and Improvements in the Treatment of the special diseases of India, China, Africa, and West Indies. By Dr. DRYSDALE. Price 1s. 6d.; by post, 1s. 8d.—JAMES LEATH, 7, St. Paul's-churchyard.

An extra-sized Colonial Medicine Chest for the continual work, price £5 5s.

THE HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By Dr. DRYSDALE. Fifth Edition, revised by the Author and Dr. EPPS. This work comprises such medical information as is necessary for the use of families and others, and prescribing the remedy and dose applicable in each case. Sent post-free for 30 postage-stamps, or 30 penny stamps, or Post-office Order for 28. 6d.

A detail of my supplies sent on application.

JAMES LEATH, 7, St. Paul's-churchyard, Chandos, 113, Crossstreet, Islington, and 4, Northumberland-street, Strand.

Nineteenth Edition, free, with illus., post-free,
HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. EPPS, M.D. Containing plain and concise directions for the selection of the remedies and the dose to be administered, with the treatment of the various diseases to which the human frame is subject, including the most successful modern discoveries. In addition to the above, Twenty-fourth Edition, price 1s. The Guide to Health, adapted to the latest work, price 28., post 2s. 6d. Arnica, price 2s. 6d. LEATH and ROSS, 7, Vere-st., Oxford-st., and 4, St. Paul's-ch.-yard.

POSTAGE-STAMPS.—A priced Catalogue of Foreign Postage-Stamps sent post-free for 4 stamps. W. LINCOLN, Jun., 66, New Oxford-street, London, W.C. Large Illustrated Stamp of British Guiana, 6s. 6d.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PRINTER.—The Cheapest Complete Printing Machine for all purposes. Carriage free to any Railway Station. Specimens of Printing, &c., by the Inventor, W. H. SMITH, 192, Aldersgate-street, London, E.C.

NEW MUSIC.

THE GOOD-BYE AT THE DOOR. Ballad. By S. GLOVER. Sung with great success by Miss Poole. "A beautiful Song, most unlikely to be out of fashion for many years to come, and may be had in the key of C for contralto voices, and in F for tenor."—DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

E. L. HIME'S PARFAIT AMOUR. Valse. Performed by Mme. Arabella Goddard, Mme. Sainton-Dolby, and the Princess and Prince of Wales' Private Band. Price 4s. Also the Quadrille on the same Melody. Price 4s. Just published.—DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

E. L. HIME'S RINGDOVE. For Pianoforte. Price 4s. "Mr. Hime has written a charming Valse, entitled 'Ringdove.'"—Illustrated London News. "Mr. Hime's Transcription of 'The Bride's Daughter' is a pleasing arrangement for the Drawing-room."—Athenæum.
DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

ONE GUINEA per YEAR, MUSIC FOR LIBRARIES.—Six Months, 12s.; Three Months, 7s.; or, for three subscriptions, £3 3s. per annum.—CHAPPELL, 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry. A New Half Guinea Catalogue, just published, gratis.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPÔT for the SALE of NICOLE'S celebrated Musical Instruments is REMOVED from 265, Strand, to 33, Haymarket, where the largest assortment of Boxes from Eight Airs, has arrived. Lists of Tunes and Prices gratis and postage-free.

MUSICAL BOX DEPÔTS, 56, Cheapside, 265, Strand (removed), Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, 8 airs, 20s.; small-sized, 3s. to 8s. per tune. Catalogues of tunes and prices, gratis and post-free. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street, London.

ARCHERY PRIZES, Fancy-Fair and Bazaar Novelties.—EDWARDS and JONES beg to call the attention of the Nobility and Gentry to their extensive and varied stock of Archery Goods, suitable for the above purpose, and to which fresh novelties are being daily added.
Manufactory, 4, Piccadilly, Regent-circus.

ARCHERY.—Great Reduction in Price. No. 1 Match Bow, 30s.; No. 2, 20s. Send for an illustrated list, gratis.—E. ALLSEBROOK, Manufacturer, 174, Piccadilly, opposite Bond-street. Established 1820.

UNIVERSAL MICROSCOPE.
Price £2 2s., SIEBERT, BECK, and BECK,
Opticians to the Queen and Royal Family,
Obtained the Prize Medal at the Exhibition.

A FACT.—An ELEGANT POCKET-BALL, with Gold Appendage, warranted to denote correct time, 10s. 6d.—Address, JAMES WILLIAMS, Watch and Clock Maker, 3, Brunswick-square, Hagginton, London, E.N.

THE MAGIC DONKEY and other Tales of Laughter.—These wonderful animals go through their extraordinary manœuvres at the Strand, from Ten till Five. The most pet-free for 14 stamps.—H. G. CLARKE and CO., 324, Strand.

PERMANENT PHOTOGRAPHS are now added to the Pictures in the Illustrated London News. Thanks to the advance of the Photographic Art to the specimens. Full information and set of prices by post. Address, PHOTOGRAPHIC EDITOR, Illustrated London News, 198, Strand.
The UNITED ASSOCIATION of PHOTOGRAPHY (Limited), Incorporated.

PICTURE-FRAMES for RED RIPING Pictures, Engravings, Photographs, &c., in every fashionable wood style, 4s. 6d.; with Maple and Gilt, 8s. Catalogues of Mouldings and Pictures sent post-free.—ROBERT WALKER, 29, Strand, W.C.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Seal), Crest, Monogram, Address, Steel Die, and Illuminated Sketch, 5s. 6d. for stamps. Arms painted and quartered and engraved on Seals, Rings, Dies, &c. Book-plates, with Arms, Crest, and Address, 100 for 21s. HERALDIC OFFICE, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn. Manual of Heraldry, 5s.

CORPORATE and OFFICIAL SEALS and CRESTS engraved on Steel, Brass, Seals, Rings, Dies, Presses, Stamps, and Wax of Thunder. Bookplates, Wedding and other Cards, Monograms, Arms, Heraldic Office, 23, Cranbourn-street, Leicester-square.

FAMILY ARMS.—Notice.—Just complete, a New Edition of Burke's Extinct Baronetage, containing nearly all the Dignities, the result of 20 years' labour, entirely rewritten and brought down to the present time. Price 42s., in a large 8vo volume, half-bound. Also, Burke's Peerage, 1s. 4d. per page, or a large size arms, crest, and motto, beautifully painted and emblazoned on vellum, 21s. Arms painted and engraved and emblazoned; Index to Arms, and Surname events registered. Book-plates, with arms, crest, and motto, 100 for 21s. Seals, Dies, Rings, Presses, &c., engraved. Pedigrees compiled, copied, and illuminated. Crests, Dies, very moderate, for arms, crest, and motto, 14s. 6d. The Manual of Heraldry, 5s. Arms and Crests painted and emblazoned on vellum, 21s. Arms and Crests painted and emblazoned on carriages, 42s. Arms painted in colours, price 4s. 6d. By CULLETON, Son-in-law and successor to the late Thomas Culleton, Genealogist, 25, Cranbourn-street, Leicester-square.

NO CHARGE for ENGRAVING DIE with CREST, Monogram, or Address as charged for by other houses. Steel Die Sinking, Seals, Rings, Presses, Stamps, Embossing Dies, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Initials, Addresses, Wax, and all stamped goods, free of charge: If stamped in colours, 1s. 6d. per colour extra. Steel Pens, embossing bows for future orders. Illustrated price-list, No. 64, by post, 1½d. Ivory Tablets, 1s. per dozen. Ivory Visiting Cards, 1s. per dozen. Wedding Cards, 2s. per dozen. Copper-plate Engraving, 2s. 6d. per dozen. Gold Pens, 2s. 6d. each. Cheapest street-door in St. Martin's-lane.

CULLETON'S PLATES for MARKING LINEN. Name or address cost. Initial 1s. Set of Numbers, 2s. 6d. CULLETON'S Crest and Name Plates for Marking Linen, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

OAK FURNITURE, at the BELGRAVE HOUSE, Victoria-street, Pimlico.—Registered Sideboard, Register Stove, Gentlemen's Dressing-table, Easy-chair, Couch, Chiffonier, Wardrobe, Bookcase, Chimney-glass, Pier-glass, Overmantel, and other furniture. The above is in admirable condition, and such a bargain as is seldom offered. Also, a very large Stock of Modern Furniture, Bedding, and Carpets.

FURNITURE, Carpets, and Bedding. HOWARD'S Show-rooms are the largest in London. HOWARD'S and CO., 25 and 26, Broughton-road, Knightsbridge.

SEE OUR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE, containing Prices and Plans of 50 Illustrations. Post-free. Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed-hangings, Furniture, Stoves, Fenders, Fire-irons, Lamps, Gasoliers, Tea Trays, Urns, and Kettles; Electro Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Culinary Utensils, Copper Coal-scuttles, Clocks, Table Glass, Lists free.—WILLIAM S. BURTON, 39, Oxford-street, W.; 1, 1a, 2, 3, and 4, Newman-yard, and 4 and 5, Perry's-place, Oxford-street, W.

SLACKS' FENDERS and FIRE-IRONS.
Show-Room Illustrations, post-free.
Black Fenders, 3s. 6d. to 3l.
Bright Fenders, 5s. 6d. to 5l.
Bronzed Fenders, with Standards, 9s. to 18s.
Bed-room Fireirons, 2s. to 3s. 9d.
Drawing-room Fireirons, 5s. to 10s.
Improved Coalscuttles, 2s. to 3l.
Kitchen Fenders, 1s. 6d. to 3s.
Catalogues, containing 300 Engravings and Prices, gratis, or sent post-free. Orders above £2 sent carriage-free, per rail.
Richard and John Slack, 336, Strand, London.

GARDEN EDGING TILES in great variety, for Flower-beds, Borders, &c., in artificial stone.—F. and C. ROGERS, Manufacturers, Queen's-road West, Chelsea, S.W.; Upper Thames-street Wharf, Upper Thames-street, City, E.C.

SUPERB FLOWER SEEDS, post-free, at the lowest possible rate for handy Parcels.—No. 1, 20 kinds, 2s. 6d.; No. 2, 40 kinds, 5s.; No. 3, 64 kinds, 10s. 6d. Catalogues, with many packets, 2d. JOHN B. M. KNIGHT, Florist, High-street, Battle, Sussex.

PURVEYORS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.
GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, used in the Royal Laundry, and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

A CLIMATISATION SOCIETY OF LONDON.
3, Duke-street, Adelphi, London, W.C., 18th April, 1865.
The Council of the above Society have the honour to call the attention of the Public to the Society's claims, their humble position is SPECIAL GENERAL MEETING, to be held at the Council-room of the Society, 3, Duke-street, Adelphi, on TUESDAY, the 25th inst., at NOON, further day of APRIL, at Three o'Clock in the afternoon, Sir Bernal Hathorne the Prince of Wales as President of the Society, and the election of their late President, further steps will be taken to promote the objects of the Society.
B. WATSON-CROSS, Secretary.

EMIGRATION.—Persons contemplating EMIGRATION to any part of the world should consult the PRINCE EDWARD'S ISLAND, British North America, by reason of the salubrity of its climate, the fertility of its soil, and the facilities it has enjoyed for the speedy transport and unbroken home markets, and the liberal terms on which land is granted to settlers. Further information may be obtained at 3, Duke-street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

PALE SHERRY at 36s. per Dozen, fit for a gentleman's table. Bottles and cases included. Terms Cash. Post-free orders punctually attended to.
CHARLES WARD and SON
(Established upwards of a century), Chapel-street, West, Mayfair, W., London.

OLD MARSALA WINE, guaranteed the finest imported, free from acidity. A pale, delicate, and dry wine, 36s. per dozen. Terms cash. Carriage paid, only for a full Post, 36s. per dozen. Terms cash. These dozen, rail paid. Sherry, 24s., 30s., 36s., 42s., 48s., 54s., 60s., 72s. per dozen. Terms cash.—H. BRINSMEAD, 123, Edgware-road, London, W. 1865.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY. COGNAC BRANDY.—This celebrated old Irish Whisky stands the first rank for purity, mild, mellow, delicious, and very wholesome. Sold in bottles, 3s. 6d., at the retail Stores in London; and at the Wholesale Stores, 20, Great Marlborough-street, Regent-street, London. Observe the red seal, pink label, and each branded "KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY."

PALE ALE.—THE MARCH BREWINGS of this Ale are now in prime condition, and supplied by JOHN BURGESS and SONS' Stores at 36s. per dozen, 18s. per half-barrel, 9s. per kilderkin.—Barclay-street, Stonehouse, Devonport.

SAUCE.
LEA and PERRINS'
WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE,
Pronounced by Connoisseurs
THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE.
Now genuine without Signature on Wrapper, Label, and stopper.
LEA and PERRINS, Worcester; CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Soho-square, London; Grocers and Oilmen universally.

CHLORODYNE.
The Discovery for Bronchitis.
Yellow wrapper ... ... 1s. 6d. per lb.
Chamois fibre ... ... 2s. 6d. "
Pink ... ... 3s. 6d. "
Blue ... ... 5s. 6d. "
Flavoured with Vanilla.
Yellow wrapper ... ... 2s. 6d. per lb.
Lilac fibre ... ... 3s. 6d. "
Chamois fibre ... ... 4s. 6d. "
White fibre ... ... 6s. 6d. "
Sold, in 1½ packets, by all respectable Chemists throughout the United Kingdom.

FISON'S PEARL SEMOULE
Is delicious, Wholesome, Nourishing, Economical,
and Extremely Nutritious.
For the Dinner Table it gives a variety to Puddings.
For Invalids it is very delicate, light, and digestible.
For Children it is the best food in the world.
Sold by Grocers, Oilmen, &c., in 1lb. packets, at 6d. each, upon the wrapper, which see before you buy.
Manufactured by Fisons, Cheshire, &c. London Wholesale Agents, Messrs. Sanders, Sons, and Co., Cannon-street.

FRY'S CHOCOLATE FOR EATING,
In Sticks and Drops, &c.
The increasing popularity of J. S. Fry and Sons' Chocolate is the best proof of its superiority over other kinds of sweetmeats.
Sold by Grocers, Oilmen, &c., in packets and boxes.
Fry's Chocolate Lozenges are delicious, refreshing, and in this peculiarly adapted for persons who require light sweetmeats.

FRY'S PORTABLE and CONVENIENT FOOD.
Sold by Grocers, Oilmen, &c., in packets and boxes.

FRY'S CHOCOLATE CREAMS,
AT WHOLESALE MANUFACTORY, BRISTOL, rapidly increasing in public favour.
Made by J. S. Fry and Sons, Manufacturers to the Queen, London.

FRY'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA,
The purity, delicacy of flavour, and nutritious properties of this Cocoa have obtained for it the highest rank in the list of made, has rendered it a standard article of
DIETARY FOR THE INVALID.
It is equally adapted for the healthy and sick, and is highly approved and strongly RECOMMENDED BY THE FACULTY.
Sold by Grocers, Oilmen, &c.

SAVORY and MOORE'S NEW FOOD for INFANTS, 16, New Bond-street.
"JOHN POLSON."
is signed on the Genuine Matchless Brandy.
KEEN, Robinson's Patent Barley, London.

LETTERS PATENT, 1826. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862.
ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS is the most nutritious, valuable, and delicious food for infants and children. Modern chemistry has shown that this food is easy of digestion and highly nutritious.
ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY makes a delicious custard-powder, and is the best thickening for soups, broths, &c. Prescribed by the most eminent physicians and surgeons as a perfect farinaceous nourishing, and has long been used with great success in cases of dysentery, diarrhœa, &c.
ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD.
First Manufactured A.D. 1742.
Purity and Excellence of Quality.
ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY YEARS
The well-earned reputation which this Mustard has for the last century obtained for its superior pungency, delicacy of flavour, and wholesome qualities for purity and excellence of flavour. The qualities that have rendered it famous for so long a period are guaranteed to be genuine, and may be obtained of all Grocers, Oilmen, and Druggists, in canisters of 1lb. and 2lb. each.
KEEN, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

PURITY and EXCELLENCE of QUALITY.
COLMAN'S PRIZE MEDAL MUSTARD
Is the only Mustard which obtained a Prize Medal in 1862.
It is the only Mustard which obtained a Prize Medal at the Great Exhibition, 1862.
Purchasers will observe nothing finer can be produced. Their "genuine" and "double superfine" are the qualities particularly recommended.
J. and J. COLMAN, 26, Dorset-street, London.

COLMAN'S STARCH obtained Prize Medals,
International Exhibition, 1862, and Paris, 1855.
Report—"Superior Quality, with large Production."

PURVEYORS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.
GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, used by the Royal Laundry, and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

"IT IS THE BEST I HAVE EVER USED" as soon as the Glenfield Patent Starch, Prize Medal, 1862, Flour of Lorne, whose FLOWERS NON-MEMORIAL PLATE-POWDER, and Sold by Grocers, Oilmen, and Chemists. Wholesale, 6, Aldermanbury, London; and Manchester, 31, Soho-square, W.

PLAIN STRIPED OR BROCHE

RICH SILK GRENADINES,
adapted for Dinner, Evening, or Ball Dresses,
18s. 6d., 25s. 6d., 31s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Some very superb designs, extra quality, from 2 to 3 guineas.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALL THE CHOICE DESIGNS IN

NEW ORGANDIE MUSLINS.
British, French, and Swiss Printing,
8s. 9d., 10s. 9d., 12s. 6d. to 35s. the extra Full Dress.
An immense variety of patterns post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALSO SEVERAL HUNDRED PIECES OF

LAST YEAR'S PRINTED MUSLINS.
Finest Quality and Designs, equal to new.
An endless variety of patterns (at the reduced prices) post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Now ready, all the New Patterns in

PRINTS, BRILLIANTS, and PIQUES, for Ladies' Morning Dresses.
An endless variety of patterns post-free.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

EVERY NEW COLOUR IN THE

ARABIAN GLACÉS,
for Ladies' Dresses and Jackets complete.
A most useful and desirable fabric either for Walking or Travelling Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

JUST PURCHASED, UPWARDS OF

2000 RICHLY-BRAIDED ROBES, and are now being sold at from 18s. 9d. to 23s. 9d., being less than half their value.
These Robes are all full length, and contain ample trimming for Bodice.
A set of Engravings, showing the principal designs made in the most fashionable style, post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

AN UNUSUALLY LARGE COLLECTION OF

NEW SPRING DRESSES.
Rich Broché Silk Poplins (new colours), 2½ guineas Full Dress.
Paris Spring Poplins (Corded), 35s. Full Dress.
The Honeycomb Poplinette, 33s. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

THE MOST DECIDED NOVELTY FOR THIS SPRING IS THE

SILK CREPE MEXICAN,
a most elegant and useful fabric.
In all the new colours, 28s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

A CAREFULLY SELECTED VARIETY OF

CHEAP SPRING DRESSES.
A new series of colours in the Plain Mexican Cloth,
14s. 6d. Full Dress.
Also Striped, Checked, and Chéné ditto, 12s. 6d. to 18s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING PETTICOATS.
A choice assortment made, unmade, and by the yard.
New French and Sicilian Lawns, for Morning Dresses,
in Plain, Striped, and Checked, all colours, 14s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

LYONS LEVANTINE,
a perfectly new Twilled Silk, made expressly to our order, and very suitable for Ladies' Morning Costumes, in most brilliant colours, £2 6s. 6d. the Full Dress, 14 yards, 25 in. wide; or any length cut.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

LYONS FOULARDS
of the most improved manufacture, the wear of which cannot be surpassed. The most fashionable article for the present season for ladies' morning suits, including great variety of style.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

FOR SPRING COSTUMES.
Irish Poplins in perfectly new colours,
£2 15s. 6d. Full Dress, 14 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street, W.

RICH FIGURED MOIRE ANTIQUES,
3½ and 4½ guineas the Full Dress of 14 yards. 27 inches wide.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

SILKS FOR SPRING.
New Colours in Rich Plain Silks, including our well-known make of Glacés, Poult de Soies, and Drap de Lyons,
from £2 19s. 6d. to 5 guineas extra Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

JUST IMPORTED,

5000 SILK DRESSES, made expressly to our order for this season, including every style for present fashion, from £1 15s. 6d. to 10 guineas extra Full Dress. Many of the above have been produced in new designs expressly for young ladies' wear.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

RICH CORDED SILKS
(Both Sides Alike),
including the Royal Italian, Gros de Londres, Jasper Bar, and the Alexandra Cord, from 2½ to 3½ gs. Full Dress 14 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

THIS SEASON'S FASHIONS IN DRESS.
LADIES and the PUBLIC visiting London are respectfully invited to inspect our STOCK of SPRING PURCHASES, consisting of all the LATEST NOVELTIES IN DRESS, of British and Foreign Manufacture.
RICH BLACK GLACES, GRO GRAINS, and DUCAPES, of the Best Manufactures.
FANCY SILKS in all the new Styles and Colours.
BONNET GLACES, SATINS, and TERRYS, in the newest Shades.
All the LATEST FASHIONS in JACKETS and MANTLES for Spring Wear.
Paisley, Cashmere, and Lace SHAWLS in all the latest Designs.
NEW POPELINES, Plain and Checked, 10s. 9d. and 12s. 9d. (much under the usual price).
Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings, Haberdashery, Parasols, Ties, &c.
FAMILY AND COMPLIMENTARY MOURNING.
Drapers, Milliners, and Dressmakers supplied with cut lengths at Trade Price.
Matching Orders carefully and promptly attended to.
Patterns post-free.
Close on Saturdays at Five o'Clock.
JAMES SPENCE and CO., Wholesale and Retail Silkmercers, Drapers, &c., 77 and 78, St. Paul's-churchyard.

MANTLES, SHAWLS, and DRESSES.
FARMER and ROGERS are now prepared with their New Fashions, and request attention to several exclusive and elegant novelties. 171, 173, 175, 179, Regent-street.

ATTENTION is REQUESTED to a choice assortment of Paris Cashmere Shawls, suitable for wedding presents, at 20 guineas; usual price, 40 guineas.
FARMER and ROGERS, 171, 173, 175, 179, Regent-street.

NEW SILKS, DRESS FABRICS, &c.

GRANT and GASK invite an inspection of their large collection of new French Fancy SILKS, rich Silk Robes, Court Trains, Satins in all the new colours, Moire Antiques, made-up Skirts, Mantles, Shawls, Evening Dresses, Organdie Muslins, &c.
Several very cheap lots of rich Silk Robes and Fancy Silks, from 2½ to 4½ guineas Full Dress of 14 yards; greatly under value.
Very superior Lyons Foulard Silks, 39s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Richest Moire Antiques, at 4½ guineas the Full Dress.
The Made-up Skirt Department contains a beautiful collection of Novelties for the Season.
Several hundred pieces of French Brilliantines and Printed Cambrics much below the usual prices.
PATTERNS FORWARDED FREE.
58, 59, 60, 61, 62, Oxford-street; 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street, London.

JAMES LOCKE and CO., the SCOTCH WAREHOUSES,
by appointment to her Majesty the Queen and her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales.
117, 119, and 127, Regent-street, London, W.
Waterproof Tweed Cloaks, Walking and Yachting Jackets, Shawls, Rugs, and Wrappers of every description. Shetland Shawls, Veils, and Hose. Serges, Fine Tweeds, and Linsey Woolseys for Ladies' Travelling and Seaside Dresses.
Patterns forwarded free.

THE Celebrated SHREWSBURY
WATERPROOF TWEED CLOAKS, JACKETS, and Gentlemen's OVERCOATS. Patterns post-free.
I. E. and W. PHILLIPS, 37, High-street, Shrewsbury.

MESSRS. SWAN and EDGAR beg to announce that the following departments are now replete with every novelty adapted to the present season—viz., Silks, shawls, mantles, fancy dresses, made-up skirts, robes, and costumes, printed muslins, cambrics, piques, drapery, household linen, lace, hose, gloves, ribbons, haberdashery, trimmings, underlinen, outfitting. Family mourning, wedding trousseaux, and Court trains. Patterns for inspection free.—Piccadilly and Regent-street.

CHEAP SILKS at BAKER and CRISP'S.
Patterns free.

Last year's Striped, Checked, and Fancy Silks at	£1 5s. 6d. Full Dress.
The New Spring Silks	£1 13s. 6d. ,,
The New Rich Fancy French Silks	£2 2s. 6d. ,,

Neat, useful, and recherché Silks for Young Ladies, from £1 7s. 6d. Full Dress.
198, Regent-street, London.

CHEAP SILKS at BAKER and CRISP'S.
Patterns free.
Rich Corded Silks (same both sides), £1 13s. 6d. Full Dress, or 2s. 9½d. the yard.—198, Regent-street.

BLACK SILKS! BLACK SILKS!
Rich, bright, wide, and durable,
from 1 guinea the Full Dress.
free.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

THE most Ladylike DRESSES for the present and coming Season are the NEW ROYAL SILK CORDS, in black and all colours, obtainable only at BAKER and CRISP'S, at 35s. 6d. Full Dress. Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

MOHAIRS, Camlets, Mexican Glacés, &c.
Patterns free.
The New Spring Mohairs, and Camlets, 8s. 9d. to 15s. 6d.;
Mexican Cloths, Poplinettes, &c., 12s. 6d. to 1 guinea, Full Dress.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

WOOL EMBROIDERED MUSLINS, 8s. 9d.
Full Dress.—BAKER and CRISP are now selling a Manufacturer's Stock of White and Coloured Embroidered Muslin Dresses at the above price; every Dress worth double. Patterns free.
198, Regent-street.

THE NEW ARABIAN ALPACAS.
1 yard and 1½ yard wide, in all the new Colours for the Season.
Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

THE NEW MOHAIRS, 8s. 9d.
Full Dress. 50,000 yards of the new Spring Camlets, Genappes, Grenadines, Barèges, Mexican Cloths, &c., from 8s. 9d. to 1 guinea Full Dress. The best makes. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

AS FINE AS HUMAN HAIR, Three for 1s., post-free, Invisible HAIR NETS, in any colour; the new Floss Silk Hair Nets, 1s. 6d.; Chenille ditto, 1s. 6d., 2s. Post-free for stamps.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

1s. 6d. LADIES', 1s. 11½d. GENTLEMEN'S,
Delafosse's Alpine Kid Gloves.
Very best Paris—Ladies', 2s. 9d.; Gentlemen's, 3s. 3d.
Every pair warranted. Free for two extra stamps.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

BAKER AND CRISP'S

BLACK SILKS of extraordinary brightness and durability. Patterns free.
Good Black Gros de Naples (the old make), 29s. 6d. Full Dress; Spitalfields Gros Grains (wear warranted), 39s. 6d. to 55s. Bright Lyons Glacés, 2 guineas to £5.—198, Regent-street.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS,
Barèges, Balzarines, Grenadines, Mohairs, &c.,
at half the original cost. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

BAKER and CRISP'S CAMBRICS,
Brilliants, Piqués, and Muslins of last year.
All the best goods. Prettier, better, and half the price of the new goods. Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

CURTAINS! CURTAINS! CURTAINS!
Samples free.
BAKER and CRISP have the cheapest stock of Muslin, Lace, and Leno Curtains in London, measuring from 3½ to 4½ yards long, from 6s. 9d. to 2 guineas the Pair.

THE NEW PETTICOATINGS.
Patterns free.
Camlet, Linen, and Madapolams, all washing, from 1s. 6d. to 3s. 3d. a yard, at BAKER and CRISP'S.

2 YARDS WIDE, THE UNTEARABLE

BLACK GRENADINES, Barèges,
Tamatavas; also the New White and Black Llamas, 2 yards wide, for Shawls, Mantles, or Dresses, very cheap. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP.

SILK GRENADINES. Patterns free.
Plain, Striped, Checked, and Embroidered, for Dinner, Evening, or Walking Dresses, from 12s. 6d. to 1 guinea Full Dress.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

1500 BLACK LACE SHAWLS
at Half Price.
During April we shall sell Black Lace Shawls that are worth 1, 2, and 3 guineas for 12s. 6d., 19s. 6d., and 25s. 6d.
Samples free.
BAKER and CRISP.

THE NEW CORDED SILKS,
both sides alike,
in all colours,
£1 13s. 6d. to £2 15s. the Full Dress.
Patterns free.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

BAKER AND CRISP'S

NEW CHÉNÉ MEXICAN CLOTHS.
Patterns free.
The largest variety in the kingdom, 15s. 6d. Full Dress.

MOURNING.—Untearable Black Barèges,
Grenadines, &c., 12s. 6d. Full Dress. The New Crape Laine, Tamataves, Muslins, Mohairs, &c., from 8s. 6d. Full Dress. Patterns free.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

15,000 YARDS PURE ALPACAS,
all at 1s. 0½d. yard; worth 1s. 6d. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

SPECIAL.

RUMCHUNDER and TUSSORE SILKS, for Ladies Dresses, Suits, &c.,; any length cut; from 25s. 6d. to 2½ guineas the Full Dress. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

MUSLINS! MUSLINS! MUSLINS!
The best Selection, the finest goods, and the cheapest in London. Patterns Free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

MUSLIN JACKETS, 4s. 9d.
BAKER and CRISP'S new Muslin Jackets are now ready in great Variety, from 4s. 9d. to 10s. 6d. each.
198, Regent-street.

FOULARDS! FOULARDS! FOULARDS!
PATTERNS FREE.
We have just purchased from Lyons 20,000 yards of the best Silk Foulards, and are now selling them considerably under the regular prices. Very best goods 35s. 6d. extra Full Dress.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

THOS. FORD and CO. respectfully intimate to their patrons and the public that, in consequence of the great increase of their business, they have REMOVED to more extensive premises, at 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S JACKETS FOR INDOOR WEAR.
A large assortment of decidedly new shapes to select from. Velvet, 42s. and upwards; silk, 31s.; cashmere and cloth, 16s. 6d. to 42s.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-st. (opposite the Pantheon), W.

FORD'S NEW SILK MANTLES for the SPRING, at very moderate prices. Also, Waterproof Cloaks, warranted to resist rain, 21s. and upwards.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S GLACÉ SILK SKIRTS, in various styles, ready for immediate wear. A full handsome Skirt for 3½ guineas. Also, Seaside Dresses, with Jacket complete, 2½ guineas.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S RIDING-HABITS, 3 to 8 guineas,
Quality and fit guaranteed. Riding-trousers, 21s. per pair. Illustrations of the new Riding-jacket, with Patterns of Cloth and Directions for Self-measurement, post-free.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

JOSEPH ROBINSON (late Howells'), not having succeeded in disposing of the Premises, begs to announce that he has purchased an entire NEW STOCK of SILKS, Shawls, Mantles, Fancy Dress Materials, Parasols, &c., adapted to the present Season. J. R. solicits an inspection of a large lot of Black Lace Shawls at 1 guinea, worth 35s. Also, a very cheap lot of French Organdie Muslin, at 12s. 6d. the Full Dress of 12 yards. Patterns post-free.
79, Gracechurch-street, City, E.C.

KING and CO., SILKMERCERS, &c., 243,
Regent-street, have the Largest and Cheapest Stock of the NEW SPRING SILKS, NEW SPRING and SUMMER FABRICS, SHAWLS, MANTLES, &c., all bought previous to the late advance.
Patterns sent post-free to all parts of the World.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S,
243, Regent-street.
First Delivery.
Striped Silks, £1 1s. the Full Dress of 14 yards.
Checked Silks,
£1 5s. 6d.
Tartan Silks,
£1 7s. 6d.
Corded Silks,
£1 10s. 6d.
Gros Grains,
£1 15s. 6d.
Broché Reversible Silks,
£1 17s. 6d.
New Crossbar Silks,
£2 2s. 6d.
Corded Drap de France,
£2 10s. 6d.
Richest Moire Antiques,
£3 13s. 6d.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

£35,763 BLACK SILKS, at KING'S,
243, Regent-street.
Black Glacé Silks, £1 5s. 6d. the Full Dress of 14 yards.

Black Ducapes	£1 7s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Black Gros Grains	1 10s. 6d. ,,
Black Corded Silks	1 15s. 6d. ,,
Black Reversible Broché Silks	1 17s. 6d. ,,
Black Drap de France	2 2s. 6d. ,,
Black Drap de Lyon	2 5s. 6d. ,,
Widows' Silks	2 10s. 6d. ,,
Richest Black Moire Antiques	£3 3s. 6d. ,,

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

NEW SPRING and SUMMER DRESSES
at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

Spring Cashmeres	8s. 9d. the Full Dress.
Marle Glacés	10s. 6d. ,,
French Glacé Lawns	12s. 6d. ,,
New French Camlets	12s. 9d. ,,
Wool Grenadines	13s. 9d. ,,
Marle Poplinettes	16s. 6d. ,,
Broché Silk Grenadines	17s. 6d. ,,
The New Cameleon Cloth	£1 5s. 6d. ,,
Real Irish Poplins	£1 15s. 6d. ,,
N.B.—A large Lot of Last Year's Muslins	5s. 0d. ,,
The New Organdie Muslins	10s. 6d. ,,

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

MADE-UP DEPARTMENT.
An elegant variety of Trimmed Dresses in all the latest designs, commencing at 16s. 9d., with materials and trimming for bodice.

MANTLE DEPARTMENT.
Silk Mantles, Jackets, and Paletots in great variety, commencing at 1 guinea.
Light and fancy Summer Cloth Jackets and Paletots, in the newest shapes, commencing at 15s. 9d.
Opera Mantles in all the new summer fabrics.
Address to KING and CO., Regent-street, London.

MILLINERY for MOURNING.—PARIS
FASHIONS.—The novelties from Paris are now ready for inspection, at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

PARIS FASHIONS.

MANTLES and JACKETS for MOURNING and otherwise.—The New Shapes, in elegant and graceful novelties, are now ready for inspection, at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.—PARIS
FASHIONS.
The New and Beautiful Novelties
are now ready for inspection
at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

JUST RECEIVED FROM FRANCE,

HALF-MOURNING SILKS of New and very recherché character,
at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

BLACK SILKS.—Patterns free.
Good useful Black Silks, from 35s. to 50s. the Dress.
Superior and most enduring qualities, from 3 to 6 guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

A NEW FABRIC.—The ROYAL BLACK
CASHMERE.—Ladies requiring a new and useful Black Dress are invited to write for patterns of this excellent material, which is exactly alike on both sides, to PETER ROBINSON, of Regent-street.

FOR FAMILY MOURNING,
PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street, will be found the most advantageous and economical Warehouse in England. Goods may be obtained made up ready for instant wear, or can be purchased by the yard. Goods sent free for inspection.
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
256 to 262, Regent-street, London.

UNTEARABLE

WIRE-GROUND BLACK GRENADINES and BAREGES. The improved makes introduced by PETER ROBINSON, of Regent-street, excel all others for strength and beauty of finish.
Patterns free.
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
256 to 262, Regent-street.

NEW SILKS for APRIL.
Patterns post-free for Comparison.
Quality and Style are the Test of Cheapness.
£5000 worth of Rich Black Silks,
bought cheap under peculiar circumstances.
Good Black Glacé Silks, 18s.
Rich Black Gros Grains, £1 5s. 6d., worth 2 guineas.
Rich Black Lyons Silks, 1½ guinea.
AMOTT and COMPANY, Crystal Warehouses, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

BLACK SILKS EXTRAORDINARY.
Rich, Bright, Wide, and Durable,
for one sovereign.
AMOTT and COMPANY, Crystal Warehouses.

NEW SILKS for APRIL.
Rich Black Poult de Soies, £1 15s. 6d.
Rich Black Drap de Lyons, £1 19s. 6d.
Hundreds of Moire Antiques, all Silk, £1 19s. 6d., worth 4 guineas.
A lot of rich Waters, very handsome, 3 guineas, unequalled under £6.
Rich Lyons Taffeta and Black Brochés,
£1 18s. 6d. to 3½ guineas.
AMOTT and COMPANY, Crystal Warehouses.

NEW SILKS for APRIL.
Thousands of Wedding Silks, very new,
£1 5s. 6d. to 5 guineas.
500 pieces Fancy Silks, last year's patterns, are selling from 1 to 2 guineas, worth double.
Hundreds of New Checks, for young ladies,
£1 5s. 6d., £1 7s. 6d., and £1 9s. 6d.
Rich Coloured Ottoman Corded Silks
1½ guinea; in appearance worth £5.
AMOTT and COMPANY, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NEW SILKS for APRIL.
The New and Pretty Patterns for Spring.
Also, the New Colours in Glacé, Taffetas, and Cords,
£1 13s. 6d., £1 18s. 6d., and £2 5s.
Plain Glacés, in 30 new shades, 2s. 6½d. per yard.
Fashionable French Silks, very elegant,
2½ guineas and 3 guineas.
Hundreds of rich Plain and Figured Moire Antiques, 2½ guineas to 5 guineas.
AMOTT and COMPANY, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

FORD'S EUREKA COLOURED SHIRTS
reduced to Six for 34s. 6d. Superior quality, and made expressly to measure; the new patterns to select from sent post-free.—R. Ford and Co., 38, Poultry, E.C.

FORD'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LIST,
post-free.—Intending purchasers, who cannot favour us with a call, will find it of great assistance. It contains over forty drawings of shirts, shirt-collars, &c. All the new fashions are to be found in it.—R. Ford and Co., 38, Poultry, E.C.

COST'S PATENT ELASTIC CALISTHENIC
CHEST EXPANDER, used by the Royal Family, produces symmetry of figure, ease and elegance of deportment, a healthy development of the frame, and promotes vigorous action of the organs of respiration. List of prices, testimonials, &c., forwarded on application to Messrs. Cost, 65A, Baker-street, Portman-square, W.

SANSFLECTUM JUPONS,
17s. 6d.
"Wear admirably well."—Court Journal.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

EMPRESS JUPONS,
15s. 6d.
"Beautiful shapes."—Court Circular.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

ONDINA or WAVED JUPONS,
18s. 6d.
"The dress falls in graceful folds."—Morning Post.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

CRINOLINES AND CORSETS.
Illustrations of all the New Shapes, with some useful "REMARKS," as a guide. Gratis and post-free.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

ROYAL SCOTCH WAREHOUSE,
London.
SCOTT ADIE, 115, Regent-street.
Entrance at the Corner of Vigo-street only.

IMPORTANT TO WOOLLEN BUYERS.
Tailors and others desirous of saving 5 per cent every purchase, should go to JAMES PLATT and CO., 78, St. Martin's-lane, and 28 and 29, Cranbourn-st., who return to Cash Buyers 1s. out of 20s. N.B. Foreign Orders honestly, carefully, and promptly executed.

NOTICE.—Professor BROWNE respectfully invites ladies and gentlemen to an inspection of his Stock of Head-dresses, Perukes, Scalps, and Ornamental Hair of every design, suited to the present fashion, at his well-known Establishment, 47, Fenchurch-street, City. Material and workmanship guaranteed of the first quality. For self-measurement see "Punch." Hair brushed by machinery.

By Appointment to the Royal Family.

W. and J. SANGSTER beg respectfully to solicit an inspection of their new Parasol, the "Florentine;" also of their extensive assortment of Sunshades and Parasols, comprising Poult de Soie, Brocaded and Embroidered Silks, French, Maltese, and Brussels Lace, of the newest and most elegant designs. Parasols adapted for mourning in great variety.
140, Regent-street. 10, Royal Exchange.
94, Fleet-street. 75, Cheapside.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—G. HOOPER,
Artist in Hair.—Solid Gold Lockets for Hair, from 5s. each; Hair Rings, from 6s. 6d.; Hair Alberts, from 25s. each, &c. Illustrated Catalogues sent free.—213, Regent-street, London.

A. FORRER, Hair Jeweller to the Queen,
2, Hanover-street, Hanover-square, W.

M. F. DENT, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street,
Charing-cross, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen and to the principal Courts of Europe.
M. F. Dent, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, London.

THE PRETTIEST GIFT FOR A LADY is one of JONES'S LEVER WATCHES, at £11 11s.; for a Gentleman, at £10 10s. Rewarded at the Exhibition for cheapness of production. Manufactory, 338, Strand, opposite Somerset House.

WATCHES.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS,
WATCHMAKERS, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London (opposite the Bank). First-class Patent Detached Lever Watches, with the latest improvements and maintaining power to continue going whilst being wound, recommended for accuracy and durability.

PRICES OF SILVER WATCHES.

Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	£4 14 6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes and capped	6 6 0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes	8 8 0

Silver Watches, in Hunting Cases, 10s. 6d. extra.

GOLD WATCHES—SIZE FOR LADIES.

Patent Lever Watch, with gold dial, jewelled	11 11 0
Ditto, with richly-engraved case	12 12 0
Ditto, with very strong case, and jewelled in four holes	14 14 0

GOLD WATCHES—SIZE FOR GENTLEMEN.

Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, seconds, and capped	13 13 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance	19 19 0

Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, £3 3s. extra.
List of prices with remarks on Watches, gratis and post-free.

DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock
Maker, by special appointment, to her Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and Maker of the Great Clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand (adjoining Coutts's Bank), and 34 and 35, Royal Exchange.

GOLD CHAINS and FINE
JEWELLERY.—A very elegant STOCK of GOLD CHAINS, 18s. to 20 gs.; Gentlemen's Albert Chains, 21s. to 18 gs.; Gold Brooches, 20s. to 15 gs.; Gold Bracelets, 55s. to £20; Wedding and Keeper Rings, 10s., 15s., and 20s.; Gem ditto, 12s. 6d. to 20 gs.; Gold Earrings, 12s. 6d. to 5 gs. per pair; Gold Lockets, 10s. to 16 gs.; Gold Scarf Pins, 5s. to 10 gs.—FREDC. HAWLEY, Goldsmith, 148, Regent-street. Old Chains, Jewellery, Diamonds, and other Precious Stones purchased or taken in Exchange. Jewellery repaired and Diamonds reset. List of Prices free. Shippers supplied.

WHITE and SOUND TEETH are indispensable to personal attraction, and to health and longevity, by the proper mastication of food.
ROWLANDS' ODONTO, OR PEARL DENTIFRICE, preserves and imparts a pearl-like whiteness to the Teeth, eradicates tartar and spots of incipient decay, strengthens the gums, and gives a pleasing fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 9d. per box. Sold at 20, Hatton-garden; and by Chemists and Perfumers.
Ask for ROWLANDS' ODONTO.

NAPOLEON PRICE'S REGISTERED
GOLDEN OIL is the only article that really possesses nutritious virtues for promoting a luxuriant growth of the human hair. Beware of an imitation. The genuine is sold by the Sole Proprietors, Price and Co., 27, Old Bond-st., 3s. 6d., 5s., 7s., and 10s.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT in ARTIFICIAL TEETH, and great Reduction in Prices.
Mr. EPHRAIM MOSELY, Surgeon Dentist, 9, Grosvenor-street, Grosvenor-square, sole inventor of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, on a soft, elastic, chemically-prepared indiarubber gum. No wires or unsightly fastenings are required; they are more natural, durable, and comfortable than any yet introduced. They are self-adhesive, and render support to the adjoining teeth. Consultation free. Observe—No connection with anyone of the same name.

TO MOTHERS AND INVALIDS.
ELAM'S ABDOMINAL SUPPORTERS, for debility, corpulency, pregnancy, &c. Directions for self-measurement and prices sent by post free.—Elam, 196, Oxford-street.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,
prescribed by the most eminent medical men throughout the world as the safest, speediest, and most effectual remedy for
CONSUMPTION, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, is incomparably superior to every other variety.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
DR. LETHEBY,
Medical Officer of Health to the City of London.
"It is, I believe, universally acknowledged that Dr. de Jongh's Light-brown Cod-liver Oil has great therapeutic power; and, from my investigations, I have no doubt of its being a pure and unadulterated article."

DR. LAWRANCE.
Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.
"I invariably prescribe Dr. de Jongh's Cod-liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article, and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, 2s. 6d.; pints, 4s. 9d.; quarts, 9s.; labelled with his stamp and signature, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE, by respectable Chemists and Druggists.
Sole Consignees,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA, an excellent remedy for Gout and Stomachic Disorders of every kind, and as a mild aperient for delicate constitutions.—172, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

CONSUMPTION.—DR. CHURCHILL'S
Successful Treatment of Consumption, Diseases of the Chest, Chronic Cough, General Debility, Loss of Appetite, &c., by Hypophosphites, prepared by H. H. Swann, of Paris. Full prospectuses, testimonials, and medicines, of DINNEFORD and CO., Chemists, 172, New Bond-street, W., wholesale and retail agents.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF of the most Violent COUGHS is given by
DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS.
Price 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. per box, of all Druggists.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms,
Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. G. HYAM, 10, Beak-street, Regent-street, W.; or, Parcels being sent, the utmost value in cash instantly remitted. Established 1820.

NEW MUSIC.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "JESSAMINE." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "TWO BUDS." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S "ROLAND." A celebrated French War Song. Transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S TWO HUNGARIAN MELODIES for the Pianoforte.
No. 1. ELEGY. Price 2s. 6d.
No. 2. THE GIPSIES' MARCH. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S LA SERA. Venetian Gondola Song, for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

J. F. BARNETT'S PASTORAL SCENE. A characteristic Piece for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE LOST STAR. New Song. Words by Henry Farnie. Music by W. VINCENT WALLACE. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

A NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGANIST'S PORTFOLIO: A selection of opening and concluding voluntaries, by the most celebrated composers, ancient and modern. Adapted chiefly for the use of amateurs, by Dr. RIMBAULT. Each number contains from seven to twelve favourite voluntaries, including one arranged expressly with pedal obligato. Nos. 1 to 6 are now ready, price 3s. each; or the six numbers in one volume, bound in cloth, 12s. A thematic list of contents may be had on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S BELLAGIO. Morceau for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S MEMORIES OF HOME. Just published, a new Fantasia for the Pianoforte, played by the Composer with immense success. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW DRAWING-ROOM MUSIC.

KUHE'S GUARDS' WALTZ. A brilliant arrangement of Godfrey's celebrated Guards' Waltz, for the Pianoforte. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S ORPHÉE AUX ENFERS. Now ready, a Fantasia on favourite airs from Offenbach's charming Opera. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S LE CHANT D'ONDINE. Popular Song by Mrs. MURRAY GARTSHORE. Arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S CUJUS ANIMAM (from the "Stabat Mater"). Arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50 New Bond-street.

KUHE'S O RUDDIER THAN THE CHERRY—Handel's celebrated Song, sung by Santley—transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S FIDELIO. Just published, a Fantasia on Airs from Beethoven's "Fidelio." For the Pianoforte. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

G. A. OSBORNE'S NEW COMPOSITIONS. FLEURETTE. Morceau de Salon for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. MARION. Nocturne for the Pianoforte. Price 2s. 6d. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW AND POPULAR DANCE MUSIC.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE VALSE. On Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE QUADRILLE. A new and charming Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE POLKA. On Airs from Offenbach's Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MABEL WALTZ. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. A new and beautiful Set of Waltzes, which will eventually become as popular as the celebrated "Guards' Waltz," by the same Composer. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. Illustrated by Lynch. Orchestra, 3s.; Septet, 2s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ROYAL ALFRED QUADRILLE. A new Quadrille on favourite Nautical Melodies. Arranged by D. GODFREY, Composer of the "Guards'" and "Mabel" Waltzes. Illustrated. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE MILL-GROVE WALTZ. A new Waltz by GERALD STANLEY (Composer of the "Woodland Whispers Waltz"). Illustrated. Price 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MARGUERITE WALTZ. On favourite Airs from Gounod's "Faust." By A. F. GODFREY, B. M. Coldstream Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS QUADRILLES. A new Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's popular Opera, "Orphée aux Enfers." By D. GODFREY. Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 4s. Illustrated. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS GALOP. A capital Galop, from Offenbach's "Orphée aux Enfers." By the Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 3s. Illustrated. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' QUADRILLE. By the Composer of The Guards' Waltz. Just published, a new Quadrille on Popular Marches of the Brigade of Guards. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' WALTZ. By D. GODFREY. Played everywhere with the greatest success. Price (Solo or Duet) 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s.; Military Band, 15s.; Brass Band, 7s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

Will be published on the 1st of May,

MENDELSSOHN'S OPEN-AIR MUSIC.—Twenty-four Part-songs, Op. 41, 48, 50, and 59. With English words, translated by Sabilla Novello. Now generally used. In one book, octavo size, price 8d. London: NOVELLO and Co., 69, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S STANDARD GLEE-BOOK, vol. 1, contains Sixty favourite Glees by English composers. Edited, with (ad lib.) Accompaniment for Piano, by J. Barnby; handsomely bound in cloth, with gilt edges, price 4s. 6d. London: NOVELLO and Co., 69, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S STANDARD GLEES, in Five Sixpenny Parts. Parts 1 and 2 contain Glees for SS, A, T, B, and S, A, T, B; Part 3, for SS, B and TT, B; Part 4, for Men's Voices; and Part 5, for various voices. London: NOVELLO and Co., 69, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S STANDARD GLEE-BOOK, in Thirty Penny Numbers, each containing Two Glees. Lists gratis. London: NOVELLO and Co., 69, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK (Second Series) contains Six Four-part Songs by J. Benedict, Six ditto by Henry Smart, Six ditto by J. L. Hatton, Six ditto by C. A. Macirone, Six ditto by G. A. Macfarren, and Seven Shakspeare Songs by G. A. Macfarren. Price of each set, 1s. 4d.; or each song singly, from 1½d. to 4d. each. London: NOVELLO and Co., 69, Dean-street, Soho; and 35, Poultry.

NEW MUSIC.

MELVIL CASTLE. Old Scotch Ballad. Newly arranged by Mrs. CAMPBELL, of Drimnamuchloch.
"Willie's gane to Melvil Castle, boots and spurs, an a',
To bid farewell to the leddies fair, afore he gaed awa."
Price 2s. 6d. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

New Edition of

MARION'S SONG by CLARIBEL. This highly-popular Song will in future be published exclusively by BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

GOUNOD'S NEW SONG.

THE MESSAGE OF LOVE. Valse Ariette. 3s. Also, with Italian words, "La Messaggier a d'Amore." 3s. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

GOUNOD'S NEW VALSE ARIETTE, arranged for the Pianoforte. A very brilliant and thoroughly original composition. By no means difficult. 3s. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

ARDITI'S L'OROLOGIO, New Scherzo, with Italian words, 3s., or English words, "Tic tic," 3s.; also for the Pianoforte, 3s. This charming polka movement promises to become as popular as "Il Bacio." It has been sung (with unfailing encores) by Mdlle. Volpini and Mdlle. Carlotta Patti. BOOSEY and Co.

FOR OPEN AIR SINGING.

MENDELSSOHN'S 26 FOUR-PART SONGS (Op. 41, 48, 49, 50), with English words complete, price 1s., cloth. Also, for Choral Societies, in 12 Numbers, One Penny each.—Published this day by BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

MDME. RUDERSDORFF'S NEW SONG.

SIGNOR GUGLIELMO'S IL BALLO. Song, in Polka time, introduced with invariable success by Mdme. Rudersdorff. Price 3s. Also arranged for the Pianoforte by the Author, 3s.—BOOSEY and Co.

Third Edition of

MDME. OURY'S SOUVENIRS D'EDINBOURG. New Scotch Fantasia, the most successful of all her recent pieces, 4s. Also, sixth Edition of "Auld Robin Grey" and "Bonnie Dundee," by the same brilliant writer, price 3s.; and third Edition of "Annie Laurie," transcription, 3s. BOOSEY and Co.

STEPHEN HELLER'S PROMENADES D'AU SOLITAIRE, complete, price 1s. "(Booseys' Musical Cabinet," No. 85). Also, STEPHEN HELLER'S Twelve Short Pieces, 1s. ("Musical Cabinet," No. 80). Holles-street.

WINIFRED and MARGUERITE. Two new Pieces. By ADOLPH GOLLMICK, Author of "The Dripping Well," "A Happy Thought," &c. Published this day, 3s. each, by BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

Fourth Edition of

CAPRERA, by FORBES. Chanson Napolitaine for Pianoforte, Mr. Forbes's most popular piece. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

Second Edition of

CASTELLUCIA. By FORBES. Second Chanson Napolitaine, and companion piece to "Caprera." BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

LINDSAY SLOPER'S MIRELLA. Played by Mdme. Arabella Goddard with great success. Price 5s. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

TAKE BACK THE HEART. A New Song, but already an immense success. By CLARIBEL, Author of "Maggie's Secret," "Janet's Choice," &c. Price 3s. BOOSEY and Co.

THE NEW BARITONE SONG,

I ALWAYS FEARED A MARRIED LIFE. By J. L. HATTON. Sung by Mr. Weiss, Mr. Winn, and Mr. Lambert, with immense success.—BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

NEW MUSIC FOR VIOLIN.

OFFENBACH'S ORPHÉE AUX ENFERS, Opera complete, arranged for the Violin, 1s., just ready. Also, CLARIBEL'S 40 SONGS FOR THE VIOLIN, 1s. (This day.) BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

MOZART'S SONATAS, 10s. 6d. — Just published, BOOSEY and CO.'S new and complete edition of Mozart's Pianoforte Sonatas, printed from newly-engraved plates, and edited by W. Dorrell, Esq., of the Royal Academy of Music. In one vol., paper cover, price 10s. 6d. Also, the same work, with Memoir and Portrait of Mozart, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, price 16s.; or, half morocco, gilt edges, price 18s. Uniform with Boosey and Co.'s guinea edition of Beethoven's Sonatas. This edition will be found second to none in point of correctness or elegance of appearance.—BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' NATIONAL GLEE-BOOK contains Sixty of the most celebrated Glees, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 2s. 6d.; or, in crimson cloth, gilt edges, 4s. 6d. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

HENRY SMART'S IMPERIAL MASS of HAYDN (No. 3, in D), arranged in a complete form for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Published this day.
Also, uniform with the above,
HENRY SMART'S STABAT MATER (of Rossini). 3s.
HENRY SMART'S TWELFTH MASS (of Mozart). 3s.
BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MUSICAL PRESENTATION LIBRARY, Holles-street.

NOTICE.—HALF PRICE.—All Music and the best Editions, at half the published price, sent post-free for postage-stamps or Post Office order (bound works excepted). HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

A GEM FOR THE PIANO.

FLEETING THOUGHTS, by IUCHO, price 3s., is charming, and daily acquiring popularity. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A PRETTY DRAWING-ROOM PIECE.

MOUNTAIN ROSE. Reverie. By MULLER. Price 4s. This piece is exceedingly graceful, without being difficult.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.

COOTE'S ECLIPSE GALOP. Price 3s. This celebrated Galop eclipses all the others, and is the reigning favourite.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW VALSE.

COOTE'S ORPHÉE VALSE, price 4s., on Airs from Offenbach's beautiful Opera. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET EVER COMPOSED

COOTE'S POLLY PERKINS QUADRILLE. Price 4s. Introducing Clifton's celebrated Songs, "Isabella," "Watercresses," "Have you seen the Ghost?" "Polly Perkins," &c. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW CALEDONIANS, with the Figures. Price 4s. One of the best quadrilles ever published by this popular dance composer, and will be sure to take its place with the celebrated Cure Lancers by the same Composer. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

COOTE'S INNOCENCE VALSE. Price 4s. "This simple and beautiful Valse has become quite the rage of the season."—Review. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

VERY DANSANTE.

COOTE'S KINGFISHER POLKA. Price 3s. The best Polka ever written. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE LAST SUCCESS.

COOTE'S CROQUET GALOP. Price 3s. With a beautiful Illustration of the Game in colours. HOPWOOD and CREW. 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.

COOTE'S PAUL-Y-TOOLE-Y-TECHNIC QUADRILLE on the popular Songs sung by Messrs. J. L. Toole and Paul Bedford, comprising "He, She, and the Postman," "Jolly Nose," "The Whistling Song," "Married on Wed-nes-day," and "A Norrible Tale." Price 4s. "Enthusiastically received at Alfred Mellon's Concerts, and proved a most brilliant success."—Vide Times. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

PERFORMED AT THE STATE BALL.

COOTE'S HUMMING-BIRD VALSE. 4s. Considered the best set of Valses by this popular Composer. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET OF LANCERS ARE

COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s. Introducing "The Pilgrim of Love," "My Pretty Page," "So Early in de Morning," "The Cure," and other popular Airs. A real merry set. No dance programme complete without them. Always redemanded.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED EVERYWHERE.

COOTE'S EXTRAVAGANZA GALOP. 3s. The greatest hit of the season. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW SONG FOR CONTRALTO,

MY THOUGHTS ARE OF THEE ONLY, price 2s. 6d., by SHIRLEY, is greatly admired. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW CHRISTY SONG,

THE BEAUTIFUL DAISY, by SHIRLEY, price 2s. 6d. "This song is full of melody, and has the most charming chorus we have ever listened to."—Review. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

HARRY CLIFTON'S NEW SONG,

THE WEEPIN' WILLER; or, The Miller's Daughter, price 2s. 6d., is the best comic song published. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A MOST AMUSING COMIC SONG.

HAVE YOU SEEN HER LATELY. Price 2s. 6d. Sung by Albert Steele. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

IMMENSE SUCCESS AT THE ADELPHI.

J. L. TOOLE'S NEW SONGS.
Bob Simmons's Courtship .. .. .. 3s.
He, She, and the Postman .. .. .. 3s.
A Norrible Tale .. .. 3s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE FUNNIEST SONG OF ALL.

MATILDA TOOTS. Price 2s. 6d. "You should have seen her boots." HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

Music Warehouse, 201, Regent-street.
Pianoforte Gallery, 207, Regent-street.

MESSRS. CRAMER and CO. (Limited) have lately published the following Compositions:—

I.—FOR VOICE.
GOUNOD—"For lack of gold he left me." Sung by Titiens. In A and G .. .. 3s. 0d.
" "Hero to Leander." An exquisite Song .. 3s. 0d.
" "The Lark Song." Vocal Waltz .. .. 3s. 0d.
ARDITI—"Oh, touch the ivory keys again!" .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Beauty Sleep (L'Ardita) .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Dream of Home (Bacio) .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Gondolier's Last Good-night .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
WALLACE—Bird of the Wild Wing .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
V. GABRIEL—Little Golden Hair .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Breeze and the Harp .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
BALFE—She sleeps! though not a star .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Ah, could I but re-live the past! .. .. 3s. 0d.
ASCHER—The Cavalier's Steed. In E and C .. .. 3s. 0d.
BENEDICT—My Home in Cloudland. In D and B .. .. 3s. 0d.
MORI—Sunshine of love .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Maid of the silver mail .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
NICOLAI—The Happy Dawn of Day .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
RANDEGGER—"Round with her, boys! Yo-ho!" In C, B, and G .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Innamorata d'una stella. Aria .. .. 2s. 6d.
" La luna è bella. Aria .. .. .. 2s. 6d.
DELAMERE—My Lady's glove .. .. 3s. 0d.
LEVEY—Coo! says the gentle dove. In G and F .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Hurrah for the Bombardier! In A and F .. 3s. 0d.
BRINLEY RICHARDS—The celebrated "Leah's Song," In E, D, and C .. .. 3s. 0d.
" "The Chieftain's Wife," .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" "In the hour of my distress." Sacred Song .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
PERRING—Beware! .. .. 2s. 6d.
MACFARREN—I've watched him .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Wear this flow'r .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Duet: Ne'er yield thy soul .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
ROBERTI—Duet: Faintly flow .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Child's Vision. Duet. S.C. .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
VERDI—"Swiftly thro' the West." Boat Song. .. .. 3s. 0d.
LOCHIEL—The Covenanter's Bridal .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Heather Bell .. .. 3s. 0d.
FARNIE—A Happy Song .. .. 3s. 0d.
ARTHUR SKETCHLEY (as sung by)—The Twin Brothers. A Song of Mystery. With Portrait .. .. 3s. 0d.
MAGAZZARI—Taci non d'irml. Arietta .. .. .. 2s. 6d.
CAPT. COLOMB—"Up the Alma's Height" .. .. .. 3s. 0d.

II.—PIANOFORTE PIECES.
WALLACE—Prelude and scherzo .. .. 5s. 0d.
GOUNOD—Four songs without words, each .. .. 3s. 0d.
ASCHER—Chant des Naiades .. .. 5s. 0d.
BLUMENTHAL—La Stella .. .. 3s. 6d.
" Téré, Téré .. .. 3s. 6d.
" Les Ailes .. .. 4s. 0d.
BRINLEY RICHARDS—"Wear this flower" (Helvellyn) .. 2s. 6d.
" Cujus animam. Solo, 4s.; Duet .. 4s. 0d.
" "Leah." Transcription .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
FAVARGER—Stradella Fantaisie .. .. 3s. 6d.
" Masaniello ditto .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Pandora. Bluette de Salon .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
MRS JOSEPH ROBINSON—Elf-Land .. .. 4s. 0d.
" A Dream .. .. 3s. 0d.

III.—DANCE MUSIC.
MONTGOMERY—Starry Night Mazurka .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
DE VILLIERS—Donato Galop .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Donato Quadrille .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Poppies Red Valse .. .. 4s. 0d.
CLARKE—Witches' Own Galop .. .. 3s. 0d.
COOTE—Merry Wives' Quadrille .. .. 4s. 0d.
" She Stoops to Conquer, ditto .. .. .. 4s. 0d.
MARRIOTT—Helvellyn Galop .. .. 4s. 0d.
" " Waltzes .. .. 4s. 0d.
" " Quadrille .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Dark Eyes Valse .. .. 3s. 0d.
GIORZA—Limited Liability Galop .. .. 4s. 0d.
GODFREY—Coldstream Guards Quadrille .. .. .. 4s. 0d.
WARREN—River Sprite Quadrille .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Sleeping Queen Quadrille .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
D'ALEMBERT—Woman in Mauve. Waltz .. .. .. 4s. 0d.
" Wild Irish Girl. Galop .. .. .. 4s. 0d.

Specially prepared Lists of Vocal and Instrumental Music on application.

ALL NEW MUSIC SENT AT HALF-PRICE.

CRAMER and Co. (Limited), 201, Regent-street.

For the Pianoforte Department, see other advertisements.

HARMONIUMS FOR HIRE at CHAPPELL'S.—ALEXANDRE'S best Instruments:—

		Per Month.
No. 1 and 2.	One Stop	10s. 6d.
3.	Three Stops	12s. 0d.
4.	Five Stops	15s. 0d.
5.	Ten Stops	21s. 0d.
6.	Fourteen Stops	25s. 0d.
9.	Ten Stops, Percussion Action	25s. 0d.
10.	Fourteen Stops	31s. 6d.
11.	Fourteen Stops	35s. 0d.
12.	Fifteen Stops	42s. 0d.
13.	Eight Stops, Two Keyboards	35s. 0d.
14.	Twenty-two Stops	42s. 0d.
	DRAWING-ROOM MODELS.
No. 1.	Three Stops, Percussion and Knee Swells	21s. 0d.
2.	Eight Stops	31s. 6d.
3.	Sixteen Stops	42s. 0d.

N.B. A considerable reduction from the above charges on Instruments taken by the year.
In the case of parties purchasing and paying for an Instrument within six months from the time of hiring, the amount due for hire will be given up in lieu of discount for ready money.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Pianino to which the Prize Medal was awarded).—A very elegant Pianoforte, of small size, the full compass, check action, and most perfect touch, admirably adapted to Small Rooms, Yachts, Boudoirs, &c. Warranted to keep in tune and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte, with check action and all the latest improvements.
Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 25 and 26 guineas. A great variety may be seen at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTES.—To amateurs preferring the pure English tone of the Broadwood or Collard quality, the English Model will be found the most perfectly satisfactory instrument, at a moderate price. The action is of the same simple description as the above makers', and therefore especially adapted to the country, where the more complicated actions are objectionable to many of the tuners. In elegant rosewood case, with full fret, similar in every respect to other instruments at 50 guineas, price 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the newest kinds by those celebrated makers, may be tried side by side (and hired with option of purchase) at the new Show-rooms of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, in solid mahogany or plain walnut, the best English manufacture, with perfect check action, the full compass, and all the latest improvements. Messrs. Chappell strongly recommend this instrument as superior to any other pianoforte at or about the same price, whether new or secondhand. 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas; other varieties at 25 and 35 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues and Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM, by ALEXANDRE, with five octaves, two footboards, and in oak case. These instruments are lower in price and superior to all other cheap Harmoniums. Descriptive lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDRE, nearly (if not quite) as good as new, at greatly-reduced prices, at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION MODEL HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, 13 stops, 4 rows of vibrators, and Venetian swell, worked by the heel of the right foot, in oak case, 32 guineas. A large assortment may be always seen at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited) LET on HIRE the following PIANOFORTES for three years, after which, and without any further payment whatever, the instrument becomes the property of the hirer:—
28-guinea Pianette, in rosewood or walnut. 10 guineas per annum.
40-guinea Drawing-room Model Cottage, rosewood or walnut .. .. .. 15 guineas per annum.
60-guinea Semi-oblique, rosewood or walnut 20 guineas per annum.
Every instrument is warranted of the very best manufacture, inferior Pianofortes being entirely excluded from the stock.
Quarterly payments are required.

PIANOFORTE GALLERY
(the Largest in Europe),
207 and 209, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited) Let on Hire the following Harmoniums for three years, after which, and without any further payment whatever, the Instrument becomes the property of the hirer:—
24-guinea, 7-stop, in oak, rosewood, or walnut .. .. 2 guineas per quarter.
36-guinea, 11-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. .. 3 guineas per quarter.
48-guinea, 13-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. .. 4 guineas per quarter.
60-guinea, 19-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. .. 5 guineas per quarter.
Every instrument is warranted, by Debain, of Paris, and of the very best manufacture.
Quarterly payments are required.

HARMONIUM GALLERY,
201, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM, as above detailed, is extended to all parts of the United Kingdom.

CRAMER'S ENGLISH PIANETTE.—22 guineas in polished ash, 26 and 28 guineas in rosewood or walnut. Double, or Check, Action, agreeable tone, solid touch; rendering it far superior to old instruments, loose in the key and worn in the hammer.—Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-st.

BROADWOODS' NEW DRAWING-ROOM GRAND, 135 guineas in rosewood, and 165 in walnut. These extremely elegant and much-admired Instruments are sold at the manufacturer's prices, and are selected with the greatest care. They may be bought on the three-years' system. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

COLLARDS' NEW BOUDOIR GRAND, 135 guineas in rosewood, and 150 in walnut. These powerful and remarkably effective pianofortes may be bought on the three-years' system.—Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

COLLARDS' NEW SEMI-GRAND, 110 guineas. The largest selection in town at the Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street, London.

PLEYEL and CO., of Paris, have appointed CRAMER and CO. (Limited) their Sole Agents for England. PIANOFORTES by this eminent firm may now be had for Sale or Hire. Prices, from 50 to 200 guineas. Pianoforte Gallery (the largest in Europe), 207 and 209, Regent-st.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRANDS, 135 guineas in rosewood, 155 in walnut. Perfect specimens of these celebrated instruments—almost equal in power to the largest grand—in stock, and may be purchased on the three-years' system. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES of every class and size, from the smallest pianette to the most elaborate oblique, and by all the best makers, constantly in stock, and may be purchased on the three-years' system. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

BROADWOODS' at CRAMER'S.

COLLARDS' at CRAMER'S.

ERARD'S at CRAMER'S.

KIRKMAN'S at CRAMER'S.

PLEYEL'S at CRAMER'S.

70 TO 80 GRANDS by the above eminent makers, at prices from 105 to 280 guineas, always on stock at the Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

INDIAN PIANOFORTE.—A superior upright Pianoforte, in solid mahogany, especially made with metallic bracings, &c., for extreme climates, delivered free on board, packed in zinc, for 50 guineas. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

CRAMER and CO.'S NEW ARTISTS' CONCERTINAS, selected by Mr. Richard Blagrove, 48 Keys, 12 gs.; 55 Keys, 16 gs.—201, Regent-street.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited) have a large Stock of secondhand ENGLISH CONCERTINAS, by the most eminent Makers, at greatly reduced prices.—201, Regent-street.

BOOSEY AND CO.'S HARMONIUMS (English) of the best description, at prices from 6 to 140 guineas, in every possible variety. The Cottage Harmonium, with full compass, 6 guineas. The School Harmonium at 10 guineas. Church Harmoniums at 20, 25, and 40 guineas. Catalogues gratis.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street, W.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MINIATURE PIANO, price 17 guineas, in a walnut case, full compass. This instrument is confidently recommended as the best cheap piano before the public. The touch and tone are alike excellent, and the workmanship is of the best description. Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 25-GUINEA PIANO has the Check Action, and is in a highly-finished elegant walnut case, with every modern improvement. The touch is elastic, and the tone of that pure rich quality that especially distinguishes first-class English pianos. Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 35-GUINEA PIANO is a model Cottage English Piano, and no better can be desired. It is in a richly ornamented case, has the registered keyboard, as well as the new grand compass of seven octaves. Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

ENGLISH CONCERTINAS, by LACHENAL, Full compass, with all the latest Improvements, warranted for hot climates, and to keep well in tune, from Two guineas, with case, lock and key, &c. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE OXFORD CREW, WINNERS IN THE UNIVERSITY BOAT-RACE.

THE WINNERS OF THE UNIVERSITY BOAT-RACE.

THE result of the annual contest on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake between the boating champions of the two great English Universities was duly recorded last week. The following are the names of both crews, with the weight of each man:—

	st. lb.
OXFORD.
1. Mr. B. T. Raikes, Merton	11 1
2. Mr. H. P. Senhouse, Christ Church	11 2
3. Mr. E. F. Henley, Oriel	12 12
4. Mr. G. G. Coventry, Pembroke	11 13
5. Mr. A. Morrison, Balliol	12 6
6. Mr. T. Wood, Pembroke	12 3
7. Mr. H. Schneider, Trinity	11 11
8. Mr. M. Brown, Trinity	11 8
Mr. C. W. Tottenham, Christ Church (coxswain)	7 13
CAMBRIDGE.
1. Mr. H. Watney, St. John's	11 1
2. Mr. M. H. Bedoe, St. John's	11 0
3. Mr. E. V. Pigott, Corpus	11 13
4. Mr. S. A. Kinglake, Trinity	12 6
5. Mr. D. P. Stevenson, Trinity Hall	12 0
6. Mr. G. L. Bentley, Trinity	11 6
7. Mr. W. H. Griffiths, Trinity	11 6
8. Mr. C. D. Marsden, Trinity	11 7
Mr. F. H. Archer, Corpus (coxswain)	7 3

The course was from off the Star and Garter, at Putney, to a flag two hundred yards above the Ship at Mortlake. The umpire was Mr. J. W. Chitty, of Exeter College, Oxford; Mr. E. Searle, boatbuilder, was the starter; and Mr. John Phelps was judge at the end of the course. The winning boat accomplished the whole distance in 21 min. 22 sec. The race was won by three boat's-lengths. It may be interesting to compare this contest with those of former years:—

Year.	Place.	Winner.	Time.	Won by
1829	Henley (4¼ miles) ..	Oxford ..	14 min. 30 sec. ..	1 minute.
1836	Westminster to Putney	Cambridge ..	34 min. ..	Easily.
1839	,, ,,	Cambridge ..	31 min. ..	1 length.
1840	,, ,,	Cambridge ..	32 min. 30 sec. ..	¼ length.
1841	,, ,,	Cambridge ..	27 min. 40 sec. ..	Easily.
1842	,, ,,	Oxford ..	29 min. 45 sec. ..	4 lengths.
1845	Putney to Mortlake ..	Cambridge ..	23 min. 30 sec. ..	10 lengths.
1846	Mortlake to Putney ..	Cambridge ..	27 min. 5 sec. ..	3 lengths.
1849	Putney to Mortlake ..	Cambridge ..	22 min. 2 sec. ..	10 lengths.
1849	,, ,,	Oxford ..	,, ..	A foul.
1852	,, ,,	Oxford ..	21 min. 56 sec. ..	8 lengths.
1854	,, ,,	Oxford ..	25 min. 20 sec. ..	4 lengths.
1856	Mortlake to Putney ..	Cambridge ..	26 min. 45 sec. ..	¼ a length.
1857	Putney to Mortlake ..	Oxford ..	22 min. 50 sec. ..	30 sec.
1858	,, ,,	Cambridge ..	21 min. 53 sec. ..	24 sec.
1859	,, ,,	Oxford ..	24 min. 30 sec. ..	Sank.
1860	,, ,,	Cambridge ..	21 min. ..	1 length.
1861	,, ,,	Oxford ..	24 min. 37 sec. ..	48 sec.
1862	,, ,,	Oxford ..	21 min. 49 sec. ..	36 sec.
1863	Mortlake to Putney ..	Oxford ..	23 min. 6 sec. ..	42 sec.
1864	Putney to Mortlake ..	Oxford ..	21 min. 48 sec. ..	20 sec.

The portraits of the Oxford crew for 1865 were photographed by Mr. J. Guggenheim, High-street, Oxford.

THE OPENING OF THE NEW TATTERSALLS'.

THE regulars may cast a lingering look at the little passage through which for so many years they have reached the room with the original portrait of Eclipse, the verandah, the shady tree, and the lawn; but, still, they must be hard to satisfy if they cannot settle into their new home. It is nearly half a mile nearer Brompton, and was once well known as the site of the London house of the Regent's friend, Sir John Ladd. The melon-house and the vinery of this thriftless Baronet occupied the present sale-hall, which is nearly three times as large as the old. In the centre of it stands the old pump, with the fox, and the Prince Regent's bust, all burnished up. The "churchwarden's paint" has been robbed off the Portland stone cupola, and the palisades of the gallery and the girders of the roof have been coloured, with a strict eye to airiness and general effect. The long trot extends the whole length of the sixteen-stall stable, which forms one side of the yard. There are ninety-five stalls in all, and twenty boxes (14 ft. by 12 ft.), of which eight are made with half doors to accommodate mares and foals. Very little wood is used throughout. The stall-posts are of iron, and so are the mangers and roof girders, and the front part of the stalls is lined with polished grey marble. The back part of the galleries is given up to carriages, which are hoisted up and down by an hydraulic press at the house of the head man, Carter, and the corn stores are on the right hand as you enter, beyond the office, above which are two rooms for Jockey Club and committee-room consultations. The betting-saloon is 66 ft. in length, and most elegantly embellished. Those old boxes are also portals once more, but they only look on to a small flagged court, instead of the springy turf. Still, if ever man had reason "to rest and be thankful" for his accommodation, it is the turtle of '65.

The new yard was opened, on April 10, in a most matter-of-fact way, in the presence of a fairly-filled ground floor and a few spectators in the galleries, by Mr. Richard Tattersall calling up lot 1, a dun pony, and receiving a first bid of 10 gs., and the cause of "sport" was then, rather more than half way down the 115 lots, was Mr. Claphan's chestnut steeplechaser Emperor, who was run up to 60 gs., and returned to the place whence he came. Later in the afternoon the two large rooms were filled, and the week went round that Breadalbane was very firm for the Derby, that Mr. Merry's two chestnuts may therefore be said to have borne the most important part in the inauguration of the New Tattersall's.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

THE plot thickens as the race for "The Guineas" draws nigh; and on Tuesday "the once wise" saw the pen pat through the name of Breadalbane, as they had backed it for the last as well as the odds at 5 to 1, from their belief in "the undoubted fact" that he had won his trial gallop, and from the uncertainty attaching to the trial the Manchester Two-Thousand quotations about him on Tuesday night were 7 to 2, and the Newmarket 3 to 1; while the Derby betting about Leddington, who was down at 100 to 60, and no Mr. Merry in the race, varied five points and a half. Since the success of his stable companion, Wild Charley, on Northumberland, the minds of his Derby backers had been a good deal shaken, and at twelve o'clock on Wednesday the latter, having come down from the room, Breadalbane, 7 and 6ugton is scratched for the Derby." Congress is said to have broken a similar blood vessel, and to have sent another telegram to the same end; and the way in which Chattanooga breasts the Bury Hill in his gallops has made many wise men who were ready to lay their all upon him to be a rearer. The position of The Duke at the head of the Derby betting was most fallacious, and merely owing to the great run of money for Dunchay stable. The July finish and the frantic efforts to explain it away have nearly made the old adage about the Derby pretensions of him and his conquerors on tour occasion.

Feltham had a great day at Newmarket on Tuesday, where Catalogue got very easily rid of the cur from Mr. and Brabazon into the bargain. In the Biennial, the next day, he was on Kuruig, who had been tucked away overnight for the Two Thousand, and who, though he polished off eighteen, twelve of them Derby horses, and beat all the public found but the Dunsbury stable representative, Mr. Merry's 2nd Gnomishaw, came away with Kangaroo down the Rushes Hill, and rattled him in the Members, and Kuruig in the Ditch, and by Robinson at Mr. Blenkiron's sale, for 370 gs., and was beaten in the Champagne Stakes, and then claimed in a selling race at Newmarket Houghton; but he had won so cleverly at Chelmsford and Newmarket season that he had many fanciers at 10 to 1. For a "sensational" season, the present is, so far, without parallel, and the Derby will require more distance than he had on Tuesday; but the field, with its defender and favourite, is, we no doubt, a representative one. Gladstone of Type, and bought, as a yearling, for 800 gs., kept up the Blenkiron platform for winner-breeding: and Lord Lyon, the Cambridgeshire Handicap, found it impossible to give away 20 lb. to Accident, of the same year, bred at Mr. Meinhert's, and Lecturer, by Lecturer out of Minstrel, the favourite, had no effort left in him when he was called upon.

Lord Exeter's Newmarket premises have been sold—the house to Mr. Greenwood, the dog, the owner of Tadmor, Vedette, and Promised Land; and the stables to Mr. William Day, the trainer of Lord Clifden and Golden Pledge is in the market, and Tim Whiffler's subscription is full. Enclosure is still in the old-established hands of Mr. Wilson, of Stevens up, she beat a baker's dozen, with some well-known horses amongst them, at the Old Cheltenham Steeplechases, on Thursday last, and owner were received with true Kentish fire after the victory. Owing to the wet, the ground was very heavy at the end, and only nine carried her 12 st. 7 lb. in quite the Lottery style.

The Northern meetings have tried sixteen events "by," under Grundy, on Easter Monday, and Wootton took seventeen of their wickets. Among the sixty-six 5,000 which will be competed for on the Knavesmire and such a good haul should be followed. As a means of increasing and strengthening the genuine love of the noble pastime among the kingdom nothing could be devised better; and the central position of the town leaves no excuse as to distance. Let the English packs should make a point of meeting the Scottish, and tryst Reynard and the hounds which Lord Wemyss's and The Fife plucked from them at Guisboro' and Redcar.

A British Archæological Society has been formed at Rome, with Lord Talbot De Malahide as president.

An international agricultural exhibition is to be held by the "Horn Industrial Society, at Cologne, in the month of September next. The exhibition will be opened on the 2nd of June by the Crown Prince of Prussia.

The Globe reckons that Mr. Gladstone will have a surplus of £3,892,000 to deal with in his forthcoming Budget.

Lady Martin, widow of the late Sir Henry Martin, has sent to the National Life-boat Institution £100, in memory of her brother, the late Admiral Sir Thomas Martin, K.C.B.

A correspondent of the Scientific American says that common bran could be used as a substitute for wood in the manufacture "Rough as this treatment may appear," he says, "it works well; and I have for many years used it with the most satisfactory results in the construction of dust or a thickening of oil upon the private. They should be boiled in pure or rain water, and dried on a wire sieve in the sun."

The Boston Traveller states that Professor Agassiz is about to undertake a deep-sea dredging expedition to the coast of Peru, of eight gentlemen—the most numerous and effective scientific corps that ever went forth—for the purpose of testing the problem, "Select your animals, which, if correct, would confute the observer to mark, so upon a thermometer, any change in temperature the curbs has undergone." The expense will be defrayed by the spontaneous liberality of a gentleman of Boston, Mr. Nathaniel Thayer, who has also, on the present occasion, generously organised your expedition, proceed to your work, and send your bills to me."

The sailing regulations of the Royal Yacht Squadron have finally arranged that there shall be an ocean-race of the club for schooners, yachts, cutters, and yawls, to take place on Saturday, July 15, next, from the Lower Hope to Harwich Harbour. Two prizes will be offered—£50 for the first vessel home, and £40 for entries. The course will be from the Swin Channel, round the Goodwin Sands and Light, the West Rocks and Cork Light-ship on the port hand, and the Galloper Light-ship, Harwich, and the Pewterer light-ship on the starboard hand. Vidal schooner, Mr. Andrew Arcedeckne, commodore, a gentleman well known in yachting circles, has offered the use of his screw-yacht on the occasion.

The memorial to the memory of David Herbert Llewellyn, late surgeon of the Confederate Alabama, was last week erected in the parish church, Euston, Wilts. It may be remembered that this gallant man refused to imperil the safety of the wounded when the Alabama was sinking by taking a seat in the boat with them, and was drowned in a ship amid the hails of the Federal Kearsarge. The monument consists of a handsome black marble slab of pyramidal form, upon which is placed a Latin cross of white marble, of pronounced size. At the foot rests a naval anchor and cable, with shot of varying size. Leaning against the side of the cross is the wand of Æsculapius, and beneath is an entablature with the inscription.

THE VOLUNTEER REVIEW AT BRIGHTON.

THE grand field-day for metropolitan volunteers at Brighton on Easter Monday passed off with great success. It is satisfactory to find that there were more volunteers at this the fourth Brighton review than there were at any of its predecessors. The review in 1861 had only being out quite 9,000 men; but dissensions then existed among the commanders, and, while one body of metropolitans went to Brighton, another went to Wimbledon. Happily, harmony was restored, the War Office took the matter in hand, and on the next occasion more than 19,000 men, under Lord Clyde, mustered on the Brighton Downs. The number of volunteers who assembled on the Downs on Monday rose to above 20,000, a fact showing that, after five years of service, the volunteers are not found to be what they so readily undertook.

ARRIVAL OF THE CORPS AT BRIGHTON.

The trains began to run from the metropolitan stations soon after five o'clock, and continued throughout the forenoon at a rapid rate, which reflected equal credit on the discipline of the volunteers and the administrative power of the railway authorities.

The London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway station they marched to their place of temporary encampment in the inclosure fronting the Pavilion, and the other thoroughfares through which they passed were lined with men, women, and children. Early as the hour was, the windows of every house on the route were filled with ladies, who waved their handkerchiefs, and otherwise testified their pleasure upon seeing the London volunteers once more on their way to Brighton on review. Soon several of the houseboys flags floated over the heads of the marching regiments, and the firing of guns was the signal for a renewal of the cheering by the dense crowds who stood along the streets. Every regiment was received in the same manner in the inclosures, where they were to rest until eleven. This place is nothing but a piece of turf, and was chosen as the site for the field of operations, and giving them an opportunity of taking a meal while waiting for the hour of review arrived.

THE VOLUNTEER REVIEW.

At twenty minutes past eleven the troops simultaneously with the firing of the signal-gun, Major-General Sir R. W. Walpole, K.C.B., the General commanding, surrounded by his staff, left his quarters, and rode along the line of march to the review-ground. On the road to the review-ground, from Ditchling, Hassocks, Patcham, Preston, Moulscom, Rife Brighton, Ovingdean, Rottingdean, Falmer, Kemp Town, Hove, Portslade, and Shoreham, were—Colonel G. Erskine, Inspector General of Volunteers; Colonel W. Jervis, C.B., Assistant-Inspector; Lieutenant-Colonel C. P. Ibbetson, Lieutenant-Colonel Rowley-Conwell, Lieutenant-Colonel Hamilton, Lieutenant-Colonel Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. W. J. Colville, Major Saville, Bristol Light Infantry, Major Hamilton, Major Hamilton, Volunteers, acted as extra aides-de-camp.

The pathway from the ground had scarcely passed up to the reserve when the volunteers set out. The pavements and roadway on their line of review were densely crowded, and from these there was nearly more than enough room for the troops to march in the centre. The windows of the houses and the roofs of all the mansions along the Grand and the Marine Parades were filled with ladies and gentlemen occupied every inch of the balconies in front of those fine houses. People also were to be seen in crowds along from the Chain Pier to Bedford-street, and the greatest enthusiasm was manifested on all sides. It is estimated that the number of persons who assembled on the Old Steine to the turning up Bedford-street; and from this turning up to the ground on which the review took place was a distance of about a mile and a half up a rather steep ascent. Triumphal arches spanned Bedford-street, and were decorated with the volunteers from every window; and once the open road was reached the regiments passed through double lines of spectators.

THE MARCH PAST.

Before the march past commenced, one band from each brigade was divided by the side of the road, and played a short but exhilarating-point, for the purpose of playing while the brigades which they were attached were defiling. The review was accompanied by the Earl of Chichester, Lord Lieutenant of the county of Sussex, who occupied a carriage in which had been placed directly opposite the standhouse on the Brighton race-course, and which was surrounded for a distance of fully a mile on each side, commencing about a quarter of a mile to the north of the windmill, and terminating about half a mile to the south of the windmill, near the scene of the sham fight. For a considerable portion of the distance the ground was undulating, and a person standing at every inch of room was occupied on the stand.

At Lookup Farm, on the ground behind, the troops as they arrived were seen massing on its northern side, the artillery being assembled a little further to the left, the columns were formed for the march past.

The first troops of volunteers to arrive were the Hon. Artillery Company, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Gosset, and they were on the same number of horses—a very martial-looking battery, and like most of the corps, they had a full band with them on the field of defile. Then came the various field batteries. All the guns of the artillery corps were drawn by six horses, and were the finest in the artillery of any regular forces in Europe. The horses which drew the light guns were of a smaller description, and the guns—twenty 18 and 24 pounders were drawn by farm horses, led by men in smock frocks. As the artillery marched past the batteries which were then put at the service of the volunteers by the farmers of the county, and which they had belonged could scarcely be matched out of England. All were large, fine animals, and the harness and the gun-rails were plaited and tied with ribbons of the colour adopted by the corps, and like most of the other arrangements made by the farmers, it elicited and repeated rounds of cheering were given as this portion of the force passed the flagstaff.

The infantry were headed by the 38th Middlesex, or London Irish, which marched in front of the Duke of Cambridge, who was also announced in the House of Commons as a party time. It is to be hoped that it was proud of its disloyalty on Monday last. Then followed the 2nd London, and the fine body of volunteers enrolled from her Majesty's Customs House and Docks. These corps are battalioned one or two companies raised in the St. Katharine's and London Docks, together forming the 5th Middlesex Administrative Battalion, and the 9th Tower Hamlets. The 2nd Middlesex, or Victoria Rifles, marched with Colonel M'Murdo, C.B., at their head. The rest of the corps followed in order of seniority, and the marching past took about an hour and a half at a very rapid pace. The London Irish got a hearty welcome from the spectators, and the appearance of the regiment's regiment quite an ovation. The Inns of Court were also well received; but the greatest enthusiasm was manifested for the corps selected by the various engineer corps, which are principally composed of working men. The 20th Middlesex, or Civil Service Rifles, preserved their line unbroken all along the course, to the immense delight of the spectators.

The marked improvement in the marching of most of the corps was a subject of general remark. Without an exception, all the uniforms were in a soldierlike condition, and the regiments presented a smart and military appearance. Such has been the effect of constant drilling during the last few months that many of the volunteers did the men of the force generally look so soldier-like and so much at their ease in the field.

THE SHAM FIGHT.

The marching past having been effected, General Walpole and his Staff rode off in the direction where the sham fight was to take place. The rest of the vast assemblage of spectators, swarming under or over the narrow, set themselves in motion towards the same point of attraction. A singular effect was produced by the instantaneous change from a carpet of green sward trodden only by men who had to pass the flagstaff in review order, and who were now disappearing at the double over the brow of the nearest hill, to a perfect gangway between the double line of rails, through which every one walked as fast as possible, and where it was all but impossible to catch sight of the grass for the multitude of feet that were treading it down. This break up of the crowd and the hasty entry of the majority between the lines of posts and rails was the first thing conveying anything like an adequate idea of the magnitude of the numbers on the Downs. As far as the eye could reach, backwards or forwards, there was the same multitude, of all ages and sizes, streaming in the direction of Bevendean. Many, of course, diverged from the line of course, and struck out what they conceived to be short cuts for themselves. The great mass, however, adhered to this line, and the air along their route felt heated as with a furnace-blast, and that on the Sussex Downs.

The area within which the conflict took place was as nearly as possible circular, rising at the side furthest from the windmill to a considerable eminence, and sinking from the centre so as to form a valley surrounded the Bevendean Valley, which for a time defied every accurately to estimate the movements of the combatants. The defensive force, 7800 strong, under General Russell, was drawn up on the top of the slope of the valley, facing its bottom, and with its left on a knoll, from which it was a long time impossible to dislodge it. The second force, consisting of the attacking army, some 12,000 strong, held the slopes nearest the windmill, with each wing resting upon a flank. A battery of heavy guns was posted at each side of the windmill, and the residue of the ordnance was distributed along the front of the line. The artillery, numbering some 3000, were proportionately disposed, and made up the total of 22,000 volunteers on the field.

The engagement opened by a heavy fire from the defenders, who saw themselves approached on one flank nearer than they thought desirable, and, after a short but heavy fusillade, withdrew their troops out on each side, and some spirited movements took place among the guns and limbers of the artillery. But little was to be seen of the circle. When the firing began there was little or no wind, and the smoke from the guns did not break from the heavy pieces of ordnance hung motionless about the spot where the discharge had taken place, and the combatants could scarcely look at each other. Soon, however, a light and hard as bugs of breezes just rose in upper air, and the smoke from the guns spread, and the combatants could see the extent of the heath and grove had been set on fire by the shells, which, numbering some 3000, were projected with great rapidity from the guns in the field.

A considerable proportion of the defending troops were scarce uniforms, while the attacking party presented a very good show in lightish grey. The distinction in point of colour lent a wonderful air of reality to the scene, and the greatest interest was expressed at the manner in which the artillery was served during the day. The guns were fired with great rapidity, smartness and such a continued fire kept up from them as to show that in this important arm of the service the volunteers, if ever called upon, will be qualified to render effectual service.

During ceased shortly after four o'clock, and the united and reconciled divisions encamped on the ground held by the rookie regiments.

So, briefly told, was brought to a termination the most numerously attended, and one of the most interesting and successful of the volunteer gatherings that have been held since the present noble force was enrolled.

The return of the volunteers to London was a work of many hours, and it was past midnight before the last of the trains arrived.

The official returns made by the brigadiers of the various brigades engaged on Monday last at Brighton show the actual field state of the force to be as follows:—Cavalry, 300; Royal Horse Artillery, 200; Field artillery, 1427; garrison artillery, 1800; total artillery, 3227, Engineers, 1000; Royal Marines, 1000; Infantry, 14,000; total, 20,227; 1st brigade, 1426; 2nd brigade, 1426; 4th brigade, 1959; total infantry first division, 4811; second division, under command of Major-General Romley—1st brigade, 2095; 2nd brigade, 2238; 3rd brigade, 1882; 4th brigade, 1881; total second division, 8096; total infantry, second division, 10,296—making a gross total of 20,236.

VOLUNTEER REVIEW IN HAGLEY PARK.—The volunteers of the counties of Worcester, Salford, and Worcester, combined for the purpose, had their annual review, on Saturday last, in Hagley Park, the seat of Lord Lyttelton, by whom the corps were received at the review, and of Worcestershire, and the Lord Lieutenant of the latter county. The manœuvres under the practised eye of General Sir Edward Fitzgerald Chatterton, K.C.B., Inspector-General of Volunteers, and of the late Colonel Chesshyre, were between 1600 and 2000 spectators assembled in the park. The Warwickshire battalion, under the command of Major Lowndes, got into the right, and the Worcestershire the left. The brigade advanced in open column of companies to the left, extended in line, and the Worcestershire volunteers, from the time they changed front to fix right, on its right battalion, the skirmishers accompanying the flanks. The attack was then made, and the movement was developed by the right wing of the Worcestershire battalion being detached to protect the left flank, and the left wing moving along the road to Hagley Church, after this had been carried in that direction, passed through the shrubberies, halted, and opened a rapid and continuous fire. The rifle corps directed at the left wing of the enemy, and the Worcestershire battalion portioned a strong body of flankers endeavouring to make the attack. After evolutions more afterwards were carried out, in which the bands of the corps came on, which drove the spectators pell-mell wherever . . . better offered, and the volunteers were marched past the General and the Colonel at the close, the drenching torrent. Discipline, of course, conquered inclination, and, having marched past, the volunteers were able to sign their names in the marriage register in Scotland as men in England.

The title of Lord Lurgan in Ireland shows no sign of ebbing. Last week hundreds of people, from the grey-headed grandfather to the child of tender years, were assembled in the Conciliation in the Lurgan Union, to receive from Liverpool per New York. Hundreds were sent by the landlords, emigration from Ireland, and the Lurgan Union is no exception to the rule. The Cork Herald says that "when the tender leaves the pier with its human freight, it will be the last time for emigrants, which is a blessing to be responded to on shore, and a moist eye or sorrowful face is seldom seen among the throng."

On Good Friday the Rev. Mr. Abbis, the Rector of Old St. Bartholomew's, preached a sermon to several hundred children, and the sixpences some hundred years ago bequeathed by a lady, by dropping them upon her grave, to be distributed by the rector and their friends object to bring grave particulars of some curious bequests:—On Good Friday morning, at the Church of St. Bartholomew the Less, Lombard-street, a sermon is preached a yet more curious gift. It is, we believe, in the shape of a rent-charge on certain property, to be applied to the destruction of the sparrows in the church. The epic would appear to have been intended with those insects more especially in view; hence a provision for their annihilation being given. At Allhallows-the-Great, in addition to the gifts to the blue boys, &c. each was given to the children of the Longborn Ward Schools who attended the service, and a shilling each was given to the children of the Longborn Ward Schools who attended the service, and a shilling each to the churchwarden, Mr. E. B. Rigby.

MUSIC.

THE production of the "Prophète" at the Royal Italian Opera, on Tuesday last week, for the first time this season, was eminently successful. Mario achieved a splendid triumph in the character of John of Leyden; not only sustaining the part with a degree of grandeur which no other performer has been able to rival, but singing with all the vocal power of his most high and palmy days. He was received with unbounded enthusiasm. Miss de Hesdin made a satisfactory début in the arduous character of Fides, and was much and discreetly applauded. The opera was got up with the magnificence usual at this theatre.

The opening of Her Majesty's Theatre, announced for this evening, has been postponed till Saturday next. Meanwhile, the principal members of the company have been giving operatic performances in the provinces. Verdi's "Ernani" was performed at Manchester on the 5th of this month. Mille. Titiens, Mr. Santley, M. Joalim, and Signor Bossi (secretary to the Philharmonic Society, and an Italian) were included in the cast, and this fine work proved highly effective. Our musical readers will remember with pleasure Signor Giuglini, of whose long and severe illness so much has been said, is in a state of convalescence. His vocal powers have not been impaired by his malady, and it is expected that he will shortly be able to appear early in the season.

There are few concerts in London during the Easter holidays, most of the principal performers enjoying an interval of repose or being occupied with provincial engagements. The only concert of any note during the past week has been that of Mrs. Tennant, at St. James's Hall, on Monday evening last. On this lady, it is understood, a bereaved, is the sister of Mr. Sims Reeves and the wife of Mr. Tennant, a young and rising singer of much merit, who was rapidly rising to eminence when his prospects were blighted by a malady which it is feared will disable him from resuming his profession. On this occasion Mrs. Tennant had the assistance of some well known and distinguished vocal and instrumental performers, including Mdme. Parepa, Mdme. Sainton-Dolby, Miss Florence Lindsay, Mille. Rosenhain, Mr. Stabbach, Miss Emily Soldene, Mr. Charles Hallé, and Herr Strauss. Unfortunately, Mr. Sims Reeves was disabled, apparently by a violent cold and hoarseness. There was an excellent programme, and the various performances were warmly and deservedly applauded.

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

As we are in the custom of doing from time to time, we have selected, from among the most recently published musical works and works connected with music, a few of those which appear especially remarkable and worthy of the attention of lovers of the art.

Carl Maria Von Weber: the Life of an Artist, from the German of his Son, Baron Max Maria von Weber. Translated by JOHN PALGRAVE SIMPSON, M.A. (published by Messrs. Chapman and Hall), is a most valuable contribution to musical biography. The life of Weber is a splendid one, one of his children left orphans in infancy by his untimely death, who rose at once by his own efforts to the first rank of the musical element of Saxony, and is evidently a man of ability and accomplishments. His narrative of the struggles and triumphs of the artist and of his private and domestic life is full of information to the musical student, and will be read with interest by the deep and even romantic interest. Without any parade of artistic criticism, it gives a sufficiently ample account of Weber's various works and the circumstances under which they were written and produced, with the paints with a loving but candid and discriminating pencil the singularly original and interesting character of the man and relates the incidents of his brief but eventful history. We think, decorated Baron Max Maria von Weber has inherited, from his youth upward, to struggle with adversity; and, when he had fought the battle of life with a brilliant success, to devote himself to competency, station, and fame, he had to continue the struggle with that fatal disease which at last laid him in the grave. Yet, with all his misfortunes and sorrows, Weber was not an unhappy man. On the contrary, he enjoyed the full measure of that which is the full success in his art; and, happier still, his domestic life was one of cloudless peace which the cares and troubles of the world were never able to darken. Like Mozart, the most of his musical works were derived from his marriage. Mozart had his Constance, and Weber had his Caroline, and of these two gentle creatures each was the idol and cult to say which was the more beautiful exemplar of what an artist's wife ought to be. Those portions of the work which more directly relate to Caroline Brandt have all the attraction of the most touching romance. This work has been translated into English by JOHN PALGRAVE SIMPSON with great ability. His version is elegant, and he has judiciously abridged the book by omitting matter not interesting to English than to German readers.

Another valuable contribution to our stock of musical literature is The Music of the most Ancient Nations, particularly of the Assyrians, Egyptians, and Hebrews, by Carl Engel (published by Murray). The subject of this work is ground which has been frequently wrought. The principal historians of music, including our own Burney and Hawkins, have endeavoured themselves to the task. The Assyrians, Greeks, and Hebrews, leaving it to be inferred that nothing was known of the music of nations still more ancient, or that nothing of them really was the case. But much light has been thrown upon the subject by the researches and discoveries made in the course of the present century. "No only," says Mr. Engel, "have we become better acquainted, by means of original monuments, with ancient musical instruments, but in some instances have the actual instruments been discovered." One of these, an Egyptian harp found at Thebes, had catgut strings, and when restrung and tuned has been silent for three thousand years! Mr. Engel's inquiries relate chiefly to the music of the Assyrians, which he has derived his materials chiefly from the discoveries of modern travellers. Of these materials so much has been brought to light that Mr. Layard from the ruins of Nineveh and Nimroud; and their amount has been increased by the labours of Mr. Rich, Mr. Botta, Mr. Loftus, and other explorers. We have representations not only of all the Assyrian musical instruments, but of the manner in which they were used. We see them played upon by single performers and by bands of various religious, warlike, and festive occasions. We can discover, from their construction and from their sculptures, the musical instruments of our own day, what were their powers, what were the sounds of their various scales, and what was the character of the music they were calculated to produce. All this has been done by our author with the ability of a learned and accomplished man, and he has established the fact that, long before the period which previous researches had fixed, there was in Assyria a system of music that attained a high degree of cultivation, and from which the music of the Egyptians was derived. Greece, in its turn, drew its musical system from the Assyrian music is the root of all the music of the East, and that its feeblest shoot had traced even in the Western nations of modern Europe. Mr. Engel's book is abundantly illustrated with engravings of Assyrian, Egyptian, and other musical instruments, copied from the pictures in the British Museum, and with specimens of the Assyrian music of various countries. Though the author is a German, there is nothing foreign about the work, which is written in English with the well educated Englishman.

Germany is also a delightful species of music—the "Lied," or popular song or ballad. This class of music has at all times occupied a large share of the attention of the most eminent composers, and the "Lieder" of Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Spohr, Mendelssohn, and Weber display in a small compass the highest degree of imagination, expression, and refinement, which we find in their greatest and most magnificent productions. In Germany, too, there are many poets who have devoted themselves wholly or chiefly to this description of music; and one of these, Schubert, by his songs and ballads alone, has gained an enduring and world-wide celebrity. Among the living German composers who are earning a similar reputation and whose feder are popular, not only in their own country but throughout Europe, the highest place may, perhaps, be assigned to two—Rücken and Abt—many of whose songs, by means of English versions of the words, are as popular among us as those of our own countrymen. Their melodies have a plaintiness and simplicity very congenial to our English popular taste, while their effect is heightened by the musicianlike skill displayed in their accompaniments. Numerous volumes of late years great numbers of these German "Lieder" have appeared in an English dress; but many of them have been spoiled by the clumsy and indelicate manner in which the words have been translated. More attention, however, is paid now than formerly to this important particular; and we find many of the English versions of German words not only perfectly fitted to the music, but even superior to the original verses in grace and poetical beauty of language. This is remarkably the case with a set of "Lieder by Abt, with English versions of the words by Mr. William Hills, just published by Messrs. Cocks and Co. Mr. Hills has already done good service in this way; witness his beautiful edition of the songs of Beethoven published two or three years ago, and well known to the lovers of the "mighty master's" genius. In the new newly-published set of Abt we find the English versions of the words executed with similar felicity. Mr. Hills is both a poet and a musician, and he has only produced verses fully equal to the beauty of the original music. These songs, now before us, are of the most various kind. The English Lied, "The Voice of Night," "Youthful Dreams," "The thrushes sound us are singing," "Love's First Dream," "Love's Dream," "Sweet is Rest," and "The swallows come;" the last a vocal duet. They are all charming things, equal in genius and simplicity to any of the previous works of the composer. As a specimen of Mr. Hills's English versions, we transcribe the words of "The Voice of Night":—

Hear ye the voice of night, so calm and still,
Across the sky his rosy mantle flinging,
While all around the earth is hushed in rest,
And from the grove the nightingale is singing;
Then, gentle maiden, hasten to the hill,
Where I will wait to praise of pure delight.

The one fair star in heav'n is beaming,
While all on earth is peaceful rest are sleeping,
Then, gentle maiden, hasten to the hill,
Breathe forth a psalm of pure delight.

A new and beautiful edition (the fourth) of Signor Ferrari's treatise The Formation and Cultivation of the Voice for Singing, has just been published by Messrs. Addison and Hollier. Already a work of valuable work, we have little to add to the opinion we have expressed on its merits in a former notice of the second edition, the first that it is not a mere reprint, but contains important additions and improvements. There is, indeed, a paragraph for the contralto or baritone, which is not only an admirable example of those two voices, but which is the best beauty of an Italian song. Signor Ferrari, too, has added to the treasures of the "Lied" by the beautiful Italian air which he bases his instructions to, that every voice is capable of musical cultivation, and that the possessor of a fine voice can speak may sing"; to which he now adds—"Provided they have the necessary intelligence, perseverance, and proper control correction and severe discipline which every teacher, who professes to impart instruction, should be prepared to exercise and enforce." And in the same spirit he concludes his "Rules for Practice" by a paragraph addressed to pupils, which thoughtless pupils are apt to indulge. "All bad habits," he says, "such as singing out of tune, singing after the exercise may be doing in the room instead of attending to their teacher, playing with the piano, looking about—in short, allowing their minds in any way to wander from their lesson, should be immediately checked." The whole treatise of Signor Ferrari's work that it is not, like almost all the numberless books of the kind, a mere compilation from the works of previous writers, but is altogether new and original, consisting of the fruits of the author's experience and genius.

Two pieces for the pianoforte, by Mr. Brinley Richards, a Caprice (forming part of his "Musical Sketches") and a Barcarolle (Mahn, Paris, and Williams, London), are among the most pleasing we have seen published for some time. The Barcarolle con moto is especially beautiful, reminding us, in its graceful swing, of the "Gondola Song" in the Work of Mendelssohn.

There is another new pianoforte piece which is worthy of particular notice—L'Espérance, by Miss Marian Buels (Schott and Co.) The composer is a young girl of fifteen, who is beginning to show a surprising amount of talent. It is a charming little production, full of the spirit of youthful hope. It has already been called "The West London Theatre." One of Douglas Jerrold's plays—"The Bothelstone"—is at this moment being performed at the Princess's Theatre. Lemaître, as the member of a French company, made his first bow to an English audience, at the Princess's Theatre, in the character which had at management. The theatre again changed its name on the accession of William IV., when it was called "The Queen's;" and, in 1833, underwent a further mutation, under the management of Mr. Bunn, when Mr. Mayhew assumed the direction, and Henry Mayhew and Gilbert Abbot à Beckett contributed the dramatic pieces for the opening night. "The Wandering Minstrel" was originally produced here. In 1835 Miss Nelson was concerned in the management, and changed it to the title of "The Queen's." For the last twenty-six years it has been under the management of Mr. Charles Kean, who, during that time, has called in to his aid Mr. Byron and Miss Wilton. The experiment is likely to prove a failure. The performance of the French gentleman was scarcely possible. The prices are, however, on an aristocratic scale, and those who can afford to pay them are assembled at the doors. The interior of the house has been entirely reconstructed, and fitted up in the most luxurious style, under the direction of Mr. E. W. Bradwell, of Great Portland-street. The front of the house is of white stone, with bronze and gold trellis picked out with blue; and the ceiling is divided into six panels, with gold mouldings and arabesques. In the centre the proscenium is framed with white enamelled scroll, the panels in blue, and the Prince of Wales's feathers and motto surmounting the whole. The stalls, which with an ornamental stand of flowers graces each side of the proscenium—are covered with crimson velvet, as are the boxes of Miss Wilton. There are four commodious rows of stalls, consisting of fifty-four in number, and the whole of the seats are covered with crimson velvet leather and white enamelled studs. The box seats, entirely new, are similarly adapted, and are provided with cushions of crimson velvet, mounted, is lined with rose-bud chintz. The saloon has been entirely reconstructed, and is provided with panel ornament embellished with appropriate statues. The extra accommodation prepared by Mr. J. F. Clarke's management for the new venture is founded on and entitled, "La Jeunesse de Richelieu," and is from the pen of Mr. Charles Reade. The text of the opera is closely followed, but heightened and relieved with pun, jest, and repartee, and interlarded with "gags" introduced by Miss Marie Wilton is that of the Swiss Boy, and in that she delivered the prologue in the character of a Swiss peasant girl. Mr. Rowe, as Count Rodolphe, was ludicrously obstreperous, and exaggerated the inattentions with considerable success. Mr. Harry Cox, who appeared in the action by the introduction of Mr. Harry Cox from Brighton, who, as "a virtuous peasant," provoked great excitement by his eccentric dancing. But the great hit of the burlesque was, of course, Mr. J. Clarke's Amina, and this was surpassingly grotesque. The scenery of the piece, painted by Mr. C. S. James, was beautiful, and the transformation, representing Dreamland, was both elaborate and brilliant. The burlesque, was preceded by a new conceitetta, by Mr. J. F. Nicholl, entitled "The Winning Hazard," and succeeded by Mr. Troughton's farce of "Vandyke Brown."

Easter Monday was solemnised at Drury Lane by the production of Gounod's "Faust," for the first time since 1846, when it was presented by Mr. Macready. On this occasion the celebrated enchantry was personated by Mr. Walter Lacy, whose fine elocution and person were both appropriate to the character. The Lady was competently represented by Mrs. Herman Vezin, who pronounced the lines with a significant grace and a pathetic emphasis which carried their meaning to every heart. The exquisite poetry of Milton was not unchangingly rendered, and the enjoyment of the audience in such melodious diction was visibly evident." Mr. Drayton, Mr. Willoye Cooper, Miss Poole, and Miss Augusta Thomson, sang the various songs and choruses with the greatest effect. The first scene, the revels of Comus and his crew, was magnificently rendered, but is nevertheless exceeded by the splendour and picturesque accessories of the hall in the enchanter's palace, with the Lady spellbound in the chair—altogether a picture of supernatural grandeur. The management have done themselves infinite credit by their revival, and we trust that its presence it will receive will show that it is properly estimated by the public.

At Drury Lane Theatre, on Monday last, the New Adelphi the Easter piece has been anticipated. "A Row Acquaintance," "Paul Pry," "Perfection," "Box and Cox" are respectively its representatives. Nevertheless, Mr. Buckstone is understood to attempt something like a new piece. Accordingly, Mr. Fechter has adopted, adapted, and altered Mr. Charles Webb's novel, "The Woodgrangers," as that of Mr. Charles Dillon, and, under the name of "The Mountebank," mounted it afresh and surrounded it with a stage accessories of no ordinary magnificence. We do not approve of all the alterations made in this adaptation. Many little bits of pathos are missing of which Mr. Dillon made so much, and, particularly in the last act, the most touching situation is omitted. Mr. Fechter, however, sustained the part in very effective style of acting. He was very clever in the first act, and managed his juggling tricks with considerable success. In the second act, which now consists of the cottage scene, we recognised the same thoughtful, good-hearted actor. His delight at his faithful and nobly displayed in the scraping of the carrot, the momentary jealousy the promotion of the sharp, and the surprise at his wife's sudden departure; but the excellent acting of Mr. Dillon's masterly interpretation of the situation. Mr. Fechter's dancing and grotesque divertissement introduced, consisting of an Arlequinade at Galopade des Lanternes, in the midst of which he performed his extraordinary and his comic arts. The former tells the story of the death of his overworked and underfed wife, and the latter is the effect we cannot help being aided by the natural manner in which Master Feehter, the son of the manager, acted his part of Harlequin. Altogether Mr. Fechter's piece will have been well taught, and is evidently docile. The rôle of Belphegor's wife, Fatpuss, was admirably impersonated by Mr. H. Widdicomb, as Madame Vestris performed the part with the utmost grace; but she has little variety or opportunity of feeling, and little power and animation.

A new burlesque has been produced at the St. James's. The Honeric hero, Ulysses, forms the subject and the title. The piece has been produced by Mr. Leonard, who has travestied the throne in his most audacious manner. Of the wild it is not to be expected that Ulysses, with Miss Charlotte Saunders for Jupiter, but much more like Miss Caroline Parkes as Napoleon I. in "Love and Honour," with young Mr. Frederick Robson (the son of him who made the Surrey Theatre famous) as Cupid. Mr. Leonard has made candidate for popular favour soon justified his claims and his paternal name—Byron. Mr. Leonard is a boy, and in many respects a big capacity for becoming a really excellent actor. Here Miss Saunders gets the worst of it, as Penelope. The character is scarcely indicated. Ulysses is dragged to the siege of Troy, and immediately after in a very good scene, Penelope, a shipwrecked mariner in the presence of Queen Calypso, dancing on the top of a rock. Penelope, in the act of departing, seeking Penelope, who, among her suitors, has Olympian Jove in his disguise as Napoleon I. The arrival of the lady triumphs. In the end, pun, music, and all the verbal and Terpsichorean resources of Mr. Leonard seem to well bow to use, are exhausted, and in the end a blaze of splendour brings the curtain down on the whole. This entertainment is of classic story will prove immensely successful.

A new piece has also been produced at the Strand. It is named "One-Tree Hill," and is from the pen of Mr. H. T. Craven, a man sustains his principal part—that of an old Greenwich pensioner, aged seventy-three—with a degree of skill which astonishes audiences. Nor is Mr. Stoyle far behind in the character of a mulatto, his fellow-pensioner, Dr. Black Salt, and the Doctor's wife, Mrs. Black White—his inseparable companion, whose visits to Salt's granddaughter are not the most welcome to Salt's son-in-law, Mr. Bellamy Blue, a lawyer, who has dissipated a sum of five hundred pounds, trust-money, to which Jack Salt has a right. Confession has to be made of this dalication, when Dick White turns out to be the inheritor of West Indian property to the amount of seventy thousand money. This condition of affairs gives birth to an effective situation or two; and the whole drama is written in a terse, quaint, pointed style, which will add to its attractiveness.

Mr. Burnand has also brought out a new burlesque at the New Royalty—that of "Ixion; or, The Man at the Wheel." Ixion are not proverbial for being successful; but this flirtation of Phrithous with Perpetuum mobile is one of the best of the class, is likely to be favourably received. It is splendidly got up, and includes a capital ballet-scene.

The Social Science Congress, which was held last year at Amsterdam, will meet in London this year, in August next.

The library of the Brothers Grimm, which contains 7862 separate publications, has been sold to the Royal Library of the Berlin University Library. Many of the books are enriched with MS. notes by the brothers.

On the 18th ult. an entertainment was given, at Alexandria, to his Excellency Nubar Pasha, the Egyptian Ambassador, by Henry Bulkley, Esq., at his residence, in Rankie, Regent's Park, to the Egyptian Consul-General, Mr. Bay, the Chevalier Bey, the Bench, the Bar, the medical and commercial professions were present.

The Times says:—"We are informed that the University of Chicago possesses the largest, and it is believed the finest, refractor in the world. Hitherto that honour has been claimed for the telescope of Chicago is to the Harvard as 24 to 18. The object glass of the Chicago instrument cost 18,000 dols. for the tube and mounting. The focal length of the telescope is 22 ft.

The Russian Government has contracted with Messrs. Collins and Sibley, two American gentlemen, for the construction of 100 miles of the country of the Amoor, in Eastern Siberia, during the present year. The line is to be opened on the 1st of April, 1870, the period fixed for the completion of the enterprise. Messrs. Collins and Sibley are to be allowed for their services in territories, and every assistance promised by the three Cabinets concerned.

A great conference of horticulturists, and an international flower show, for which great preparations are being made, is shortly to be held at Amsterdam, in the month of May. Botanists from all parts of Europe were present. The horticultural exhibition will be open to the world, and the following are the principal rules:—1. The Royal Society of Horticulture of Amsterdam, in connection with the Royal Society of Horticulture of Haarlem, will hold a grand exhibition of flowers, which place obtained every year in May. Next year the exhibition will take place in London, in April, and the following year in St. Petersburg.

The Royal Academy of Arts and the Wesleyan Missionary Society, read at the meeting of the Manchester and Bolton auxiliary which was held in Manchester on Thursday week, a report to show that the number of members, in round numbers, to £154,000; and it was stated that the expenditure during the year exceeded the receipts by nearly £4000. Contributions from certain benevolent and other sources, however, the actual deficiency of the year to £2000. Towards the reduction of this debt the Manchester and Bolton district had contributed £7620. The society, it appears, is actively engaged in missionary work in various parts of the world, for instance, India, Ceylon, the West Indian Islands, Abbeokuta, Australasia, and Polynesia—the principal scene of its labours in these days.

A meeting of German singers on a scale of magnitude unprecedented even in Fatherland will be held during the approaching summer at Dresden. The hall for the accommodation of the large number of people that will be drawn together is being built: it is intended to hold 20,000 people besides the singers. For the support and nourishment of this enormous host of visitors, provisions and other comforts will have then to be obtained, and other departments for the sale of wine and confectionery, all annexed to the main building, which will cover 2000 square feet of ground, entrance and exit. From the middle of May a journal, devoted to information respecting the festival, will be published regularly, and will be the official organ of the committee. The programme will also be issued at the end of the festival hall and in the city, and thus the losses incurred by the variety in value of German coins and the large discount on exchange will be avoided.

THE FIRST SALE AT MESSRS. TATTERSALL'S NEW BUILDINGS.—SEE PAGE 381.

THE DUBLIN EXHIBITION: ARRIVAL OF THE ARMSTRONG GUNS.—SEE PAGE 396.

THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

An Illustration of the bustling scenes of laborious preparation which may be witnessed in these days at the Dublin Exhibition Palace, is displayed on another page. It represents the arrival of one of the great Armstrong guns, when a long train of waggons belonging to the Royal Artillery brought to the building the contributions from the War Office. They consist of a great variety of models of warlike inventions and apparatus, ordnance, rifles, shot, shells, and projectiles of all sorts, with illustrations of the principles of construction. The Mansion House is being repainted and richly decorated for the reception of the Prince of Wales at the Banquet to be given on the 20th inst. The Exhibition committee are making the greatest possible exertions to have the arrangements complete by the day of inauguration, and it will tax their energies to the utmost, for there is very much still to be done. Hundreds of men are employed, but all will be in done with prodigious rapidity. Some portions of the Exhibition will take weeks after the opening to be in complete working order; but there will be nothing visible on that day to mar the grand effect.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

The New Testament. Illustrated. Edited by Edward Churton, M.A., Archdeacon of Cleveland and Prebendary of York, and Alfred Rowland Jones, M.A., Prebendary of York and of St. David's. (John Murray.) An old writer aptly likened the four Gospels to the four rivers of Paradise, flowing from the holy mount of God;" and, in the first of the two elegant volumes before us, Archdeacon Churton has undertaken the task of rendering the navigation of the streams more easy to the inexperienced, or timid, or misinformed voyager, by means of explanatory and suggestive notes. Prebendary Jones, in the second volume, has furnished for the rest of the New Testament a commentary "designed for the educated persons, the scholars, whose leading results of modern scholarship in a condensed and popular form." His remarks, therefore, as those of Archdeacon Churton, are "neither critical nor argumentative; explanatory, not hortatory or devotional." It will be obvious, then, to have to give our readers a general notion of what it would be clearly beyond our province, not to say our strength, even if space and time should be expended in the attempt, to form a judgment on the results which the editors have attained. The first volume contains a very useful "Table of Gospel Parallels," and the second an equally useful "Table of Events." What can be done with the pen and ink may be seen fully done; and of the pictorial illustrations (drawn on wood by Pearson, Green, Hunt, and Read, and cut by Dalziel), we have profusely adorned, the whole are, in our judgment, commendable, and some of extraordinary merit. They are, with the exception of a few historical subjects, true and accurate views of the places which they represent, or of those places exist at the present time, unaccompanied up or artistically beautified. They are chiefly from sketches made on the spot by the gifted pencil-artist who visited the Rev. S. C. Malan, and from photographs by Mr. James Graham." To these volumes will be added those of Messrs. Overbeck, L. de Laborde, Ch. Texier, W. H. Bartlett, and Mr. J. Wilkinson. It is, of course, a great advantage that engravings taken from sketches made upon the spot; but should not judgment be had as to result in obscuring important features of the subject upon one's feelings, and mixes the ridiculous with the sublime, when one's reading of the parable wherein the Saviour of the world is said to be going down from Jerusalem to Jericho is told is interrupted by a picture—not making, no doubt, as the two travellers were said to be carried, but in which the thieves are represented distinctly, unless our eyesight deceives us, most evidently armed, to be provided with firearms. It would have been better, we think, to have left the robbers' attitude as a sketch something more appropriate to the time of the incident. However, this sort of criticism may be thought to savour hypercriticism; and it will be properly concluded from the general observation that we have been made, from the perusal of these, by far more efficient Christians a New Testament which, though cumbersome for church purposes, is eminently suitable for the library, the study, the boudoir, and drawing-room.

History of a Dictatorship in Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand. By William Howitt. (Longmans.) Not much of these two readable volumes belongs to New Zealand; but the small portion devoted thereto derives a melancholy interest from the fact that a second edition of New Zealand was fatal to one of the author's sons. The author's other son was "the author of the best pamphlet on the subject," Mr. Howitt, and the "Tracks of M'Kinlay," and other narratives which it is difficult in a moment's notice to call to mind. The "Dictatorship" is meant for Mr. Howitt's, who does, as it seems to us, all the justice in his power to one of the most explorer, who examines his history with many anecdotes, and who has enriched his work with numerous illustrations.

History of the Sect of Mohairgis. (Trübner and Co.) More than half these volumes is taken up in which are contained the report of the evidence in the Abhairki libel case given before the Supreme (now High) Court of Bombay, "the judgment of the Supreme Court of Bombay in the Mahairki libel case," and comments of "the Indian press on the Mahairki libel case." There can be no question that the people of Devasángari and Persian character, which may be useful exercises (for they are undoubtedly translated in the Mahairki libel case) for the acuteness of their Sanskrit and their Persian; but, in any other respect, we cannot see that the work is likely to do any good. We perfectly believe that "it is put forward in the interests of religion and purity;" but it is dangerous to place revelations so extraordinary in the hands of children within reach of the public, and especially of the prurient. The revelations are certainly disgusting; but experience teaches us that imaginary or exaggerated evils are prurience delighted even by that which should cause simple disgust. The case of the most extraordinary kind which the Supreme Court could not present a picture of such loathsome lewdness as is to be found in the Mahairki libel case; and the mere reports of divorce cases would scarcely be recommended for general perusal. We sincerely wish, for the sake of our Hindoo fellow-subjects, that we could assert that we have no reason to doubt the author's part to too rapid generalisation from sparse facts; but, alas! for our fellow-subjects, we have diligently sought for such, and but too good reason to stigmatise as utterly abominable "the sect of Vallabhácharya."

Gerry's Confession. By the Author of "High Church," &c. (Hurst and Blackett.) In many respects this is a remarkable and a very readable three-volume novel. There is in it much originality, though no one may trace in the characters occasionally a family likeness to other characters drawn by the same author; considerable power; many an exquisite scene; and, above all, a current of humour which it so spontaneous as to be heart and soul with the reader, and to palate and stomach. On the whole, however, the story is painful; it is true enough, we have no doubt, as to the facts; but we see no reason why one layit down rather with a sigh of relief than a moment of regret. It would require one, moreover, to be a reader of no small stamp of a work, the woman who "wouldn't tell a lie to save her life" (we are told) losing her lie so naturally at the end of the second volume, and of strong mind and inflexible justice perjuring himself against his will and against rage to overwhelming extent. The consequences of how things happen in life—everybody's strength becomes weakness at the critical moment; but it is extremely provoking when you are reading a novel to have to be reminded of the fact. Gerry himself does not be prolonged so as to be interesting to the extent of three volumes without something of the kind; and the end of the story is very interesting.

A Rose Story. By the Author of "Twice Lost," &c. (Sampson Low, Son, and Marston.) A three-volume novel of no small merit. It is easily and attractively written; it abounds with pretty scenes and pleasant surprises; it contains lifelike and piquant sketches of character; it wears a refreshing air of originality; and it is surrounded by a wholesome atmosphere. The eccentric, philanthropic, spasmodic old lady is charming; the equally eccentric and scientific old gentleman is naturally and amusingly described; the fast young lady is, we should say, true to the life; and Eva, away from her sister, is delightful. The sisters, when together, are sometimes tiresome and insipid; and the gallant but selfish captain is, we should hope, and we do think, untrue to nature, and certainly so unfitable here. The loves of the young doctor and Eva are well and touchingly told; but we are much afraid that, in real life, the amiable young doctor would have found his attentions to deserted beauty fatal to his practice. The contrast between marriage which results from heartfelt, earnest, soul-born love and that which arises from mere stimulation of external beauty, or from a still more conventional and hollow affection, may not have been intended, but it is to be found in the book we have at present before us, and is one of worldly arrangements, not at all violated by giving us two of the latter for one of the former. The reader must look for sensational incidents or for subtle plot.

Mary Seymour and their Friends. (Hatchard and Co.) The Montgomerys and their friends belong to the class of society of which squires and rectors, and their families, form the staple. They are for the most part of the languidly-religious order, and behave just as much as they have occasion for that they perhaps mingle rather more serious talk with worldly affairs than is customary among the squirearchy and profane, in conversation than is usual, and that they partake of the high common-sense which immediately strikes them. The descriptions of school-life are truthful and sometimes lively; the dialogue is very often simple and natural; the scenes are domestic and real; and the whole story is suited to quiet persons who desire nothing very new or very startling, or very unnatural, in the novel of the day as it appeared.

Molly Scanlan's Experience, &c. By Mrs. S. C. Hall. (T. Nelson and Sons.) A nick-looking little book, nicely illustrated. It chiefly deals the cause of an Irish maid-servant; it attempts to show the injustice that cruel notice, "No Irish need apply," and the Irish (or Erasmus) Nolan, or Nowlan, as she is called indifferently (v. pp. 1, 36, 107), it certainly a model of a lady's maid and unobtrusive experience which may be read without any fear of synopsis from over-excitement, and which do not end in anything worse than a healthy tear in connected. She is left in the midst of her experiences, and whether she remains a domestic servant to the end of her days or whether she overcomes her objections to matrimony and becomes the mother of Irish Irish member is left to the reader's fancy to be educated to an extent which is really remarkable; she tells her experience in her sent in letters of a rather obvious length, containing dialogue after the approved dramatic and novelistic style, which is somewhat new in the pen of Mrs. S. Hall.

The Inferno of Dante, translated in the Metre of the Original. By the Rev. James Ford, Prebendary of Exeter Cathedral. (Smith, Elder, and Co.) A new translation of Dante's "Inferno" is published in this volume, published very opportunely on the eve of the six-centenary celebration of the poet's birth. The task is one of considerable difficulty, and has rather been evaded than accomplished by the best of our English translators. Mr. Ford has attempted it on the system of versification adopted in the "Divina Commedia" requires such an abundant supply of rhymes to sustain the alternative triplets which ring through the whole composition, and has succeeded in a manner with success in any other language than the Italian. Prebendary Ford, however, is not without merit in his attempt, painstaking, and, although his version is stiff and inelegant, it keeps pretty well to the terms of the original. The notes are copious, and, if they are not explanatory notes, we are afraid, may render this volume unserviceable to the ordinary reader. We cannot be expected to enter into the local and personal gossip of Florence in the thirteenth century, to which Dante is the only authority.

The Rambling Grounds of the Old World. By H. A. L., "the Old Shekarry." Third Edition. (Longmans.) This popular book of sporting adventures in Southern India, Ceylon, and Thibet, and Circassia has received some valuable additions since its appearance in print. The author has been content with providing an abundant store of exciting incidents for the entertainment of his readers, but has not attempted to give them instruction. The concluding chapters, which contain a treatise upon firearms, with "Hints to Sportsmen," observing "rules-of-the-road," and practical hints on the use of the rifle. Since the date of these hunting exploits Captain Hall has become "the Old Shekarry" has pursued all kinds in game in the forests and deserts of Southern India, and has collected materials for another volume of similar narrative, which is announced for immediate publication.

FINE ARTS.

PICTURES FOR THE ROYAL ACADEMY EXHIBITION.

THERE were many pictures in the Royal Academy Exhibition of private views together this day (Saturday) without the usual interval of a week. Many of the best pictures were sold before the private views, not only in bringing their annual displays together, but also in leaving the interval of one week before the opening of the Royal Academy. This is considered a great advantage by many of the best-colour painters, inasmuch as the number of their visitors is generally diminished by one half. This is the case with the exhibitions of water-colour paintings in Trafalgar-square.

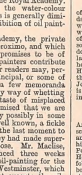
The Thirty-second Exhibition of the Royal Academy, the private view of which takes place on Friday, the 27th proximo, and which will open to the public on the following Monday, contains by far more than ordinary interest. Many of our best painters contribute pictures and many others will follow their example. Readers may, perhaps, like to hear what may be expected as the principal features of the principal, contributions. We will, then, give a few memoranda respecting the most striking pictures already in the hands of the printer, the appetite than to take off its edge by a foretaste of misplaced curiosity. We shall have, however, to be brief, because we are necessarily in part indebted to reports which may possibly in some slight instance prove incorrect. Mr. Millais is well known to be a diligent painter; and we have often found them declining at the last moment to send pictures to the Academy, because they were not in the opinion of human exertions to get ready for that very purpose. Mr. Maclise, R.A., has painted a picture of "The Marriage of Strongbow and Eva," which, we are informed, is one of the most elaborate and finished works of the great wall-picture of "The Death of Nelson" at Westminster, which we have recently described. Mr. Maclise did not intend to paint a picture for exhibition, and it was, of course, finished two years since.

Mr. Millais, R.A., has also completed, we hear, but a few days ago, a large picture, one of two contributions, by Mr. Phillip, to the ensuing exhibition. The subject is "Blind Man's Buff," and is taken from "Don Quixote." The composition includes, besides the great artist on one side, the Spanish knight and squire, and a host of other figures. The numerous highly-characteristic Spanish figures, such as he has taken from books, and not made up wholly from his own models-place. All who have seen this picture will agree that it is one of the finest works of the recent British school.

Mr. Watts, R.A., has, we hear, finished, if years exhibited a picture illustrating history with such dramatic insight, or that has been so completely thought out, as his "Battle of Dorking" or "A Nation Denounced by Lord Ruthven." Mr. Millais has, we understand, not finished his picture of "Autumn Leaves," which is to be a companion with Aaron and Hur upholding the hands of Moses. But he is represented by a large picture of "The Rescue." The subject is taken from Britain." The scene is the seashore, and the leading incident is the rescuing of a female from the waves. A second picture, smaller than the preceding, is "The Devil Sowing Tares," being a more complete realisation of a design which has already appeared among "The Illustrations to the Parables" published by Messrs. Sampson Low, and are three other less important works by the same artist. Another of the most important pictures is Mr. F. Goodall's "Arrival of the Nile," a noble illustration of Egyptian character and scenery. Mr. Elmore has drawn the subject of a very striking and pathetic composition picture from the gambling scenes at Baden. Outside the brilliantly-lighted Kursaal, in the moonlight, is seen a mother appealing to a young woman who has just lost her all, perhaps, at the ruinous tables. We are promised a gracefully-conceived picture in "The Child Queen," by Mr. Calderon—a little one of eight receiving the homage of her court in a stately cortège. Another large and important work is Mr. Leighton's "Helen going to the Scæan Gate," to witness the proposed combat between Menelaus and Paris; and the recently-elected Associate contributes four other works of less consequence. Mr. T. Faed has cast an excellent example, and Mr. Cooke several landscapes.

Mr. Arndell has a very effective representation of corn-threshing in Spain, which is performed by the heels of horses driven at a furious gallop; also an immense gunekeeper's mantiff attacking a poacher, which book takes an interesting glance at manners and falsuerage of outwald ancient kinsmen in Brittany. Cocaneuse, on the south-west coast of the French provinces, has, we understand, been his head-quarters; and the most remarkable of four pictures, the materials of which he derived from that neighbourhood, represents a group of Breton girls making nets. One of two landscapes by Mr. J. C. Stanfield is a large view of the Bass Rock in the Firth of Forth, with Tantallon Castle in the distance. Mr. Armitage has a large work, and Mr. Watts has two subjects, entitled "Esau" and "Amor." Mr. Bankley will be represented by another highly effective piggy scene.

By Mr. H. S. Marks there may be "The Beggars Coming to Town," and "A Jay" or "A Jackdaw," a picture mentioned in Punch, the Woman's Tailor," measuring a lusty lass for a pair of stays; by Mr. F. Smallfield, an elaborately-finished picture of a young girl dressed in white, with flowers in her lap; and by Mr. Wallis "Fast Asleep." Valentine Bromley, Esq., of Stoneleigh Park, and a supposed visit of Spenser to Shakspeare just after the return of the former from Ireland. We may expect to see many other of the younger artists to advantage this year.



OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

SIR WILLIAM WAKE, BART.

Sir William Wake, eighth Baronet, of Courteen Hall, in the county of Northampton, whose unexpected death occurred on board his yacht, in Southampton Water, on the 11th inst., was the eldest son of Sir Charles Wake, the tenth Baronet, by his second wife, Caroline, second daughter of Cranford Tait, Esq., of Harviestoun, in the county of Clackmannan, and sister of the Right Rev. Dr. Tait, Bishop of London. He was born in 1812, and was educated at Rugby and Oxford, and entered for some time in the Army, and was elected M.P. for the city of Peterborough in 1841, which he represented for many years. He was well known for his contributions to literature, and published "Memorials of the Civil War, as Illustrated by the Parkyns Correspondence," which appeared in Once a Week. He was also a keen sportsman, a lover of temperance reform, and was very charitable. He succeeded his father as Baronet, December 9, 1862. He married, on April 21, 1844, Margaret Anne, eldest daughter of Thomas Parker, Esq., of Saunderton, by whom he left two sons and three daughters. He married, secondly, in 1865, Mary Anne Smith, daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Smith of this family of Wake is of Saxon origin; and the cause of the name of Courteen Hall, the family seat, is derived from the name of one of the baron who came over to invite the Conqueror over from Normandy. Since that time the family has continued to hold the estate, which is now, we believe, the first Baronet, having been so created in 1621. His son and successor, Sir John Wake, was created a Knight Baronet, and his estate is said to have been for Charles I. He was the direct ancestor of the Baronet just dead. The Most Rev. Hugh Wake, Archbishop of Canterbury, died in 1716, and, distinguished Prelate—was a scion of this line. He wrote a learned history of the Wake family.

SIR DAVID HOCHE, BART.

Sir David Hoche, of Castle in the county of Limerick, and of Burnville, in the county of Clare, J.P. and D.L., who died on the 28th ult., at his seat, Castle Garna, Tipperary, after a long illness, was the scion and representative of an ancient family which has been settled in Ireland for nearly two centuries has frequently Mayors of and Sheriffs of the county of Limerick. He was the eldest son of David Hoche, Esq., and his only son by his first wife, Frances, daughter of William Westmoth; and Frances Blenkhorn, Esq., of Ballingarry, in the county of Limerick, where he was born June 19, 1791. He was a considerable milliner and landed proprietor. He took an active part in Liberal politics, and was M.P., from 1852 to 1841, for his native borough of Limerick, and in 1818, created a Baronet. He married first, Feb. 14, 1815, Mary Anne, eldest daughter of Thomas John Ormsby Vandeleur, of Middlethorn, in the county of Clare, Esq., by whom he had issue two sons and three daughters, two of whom died young. Sir David married, secondly, in 1847, Frances Elizabeth, daughter of Rockview, in the county of Limerick, Esq., by whom he had issue two sons and three daughters, two of whom died young. Sir David married, thirdly, in 1862, Mary Anne, daughter of Stephen Sorel, an officer distinguished for his eminent career in the Peninsular War, and subsequently in the Spanish service. Her only child by this union four children, Mary Anne Sophia, who alone survives her, and who is married to the Austrian statesman and Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Richard Belcredi. Lady Hoche died in 1847. Thomas, the Imperial Austrian Baron, who died in 1859, and Louise Agnes Alvey, who married Colonel Poole, C.B., Governor, C.M., K.C.T.S., &c.; and died in 1855. Lady Hoche was also the last royal survivor of the ancient marriage of De Faudoas; and it is somewhat remarkable that her husband, Sir Thomas, was the grandson of Count Stephen Sorel de Beaulieu, the celebrated Huguenot leader, who so energetically but unsuccessfully, on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, resisted that mon-the Baron de Breatane; Charles Frederick, Captain in the Austrian service, died in 1847; Thomas, in the Imperial Austrian Hussars, who died in 1859; and Louise Agnes Alvey, who married Colonel Poole, Governor, C.M., K.C.T.S., &c.; and died in 1855. Lady Hoche was also the last royal survivor of the ancient marriage of De Faudoas; and it is somewhat remarkable that her husband, Sir Thomas, was the grandson of Count Stephen Sorel de Beaulieu, the celebrated Huguenot leader, who so energetically but unsuccessfully, on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, resisted that mon-sure to the last, and who, on being attainted and his estates confiscated, died in exile in England. The three old and distinguished titles, Sorel, D'Averton, and Faudoas, of frequent note in French history, are now extinct.

GENERAL BOYD.

General Mossom Boyd, whose death occurred on the 8th inst., entered the Hon. East India Company's service in 1795, and went through a distinguished military career. He served as Lieutenant with the army under General Sir James Craig, in 1798. In 1803 he marched with the army under General (afterwards Lord) Lake, and was at the capture of the fortresses of Sarsney, Bajeeghur, and Cutchwarra. In August, 1803, having been brigaded with the grand army under Lord Lake, he was in the Battle of Coel, storming of the Fort of Allighur, the Battle of Delhi, storming of the ravines of the Fort of Agra, and the Battle of Suswarree. He, in 1804, was appointed to Colonel Greslier's brigade, and detached against the forts of Imlanee and Cammonah: he was wounded in action against the former fort. He was, as Captain, with the 1st Volunteer Battalion, and was present at the capture of Port Louis, Isle of France, in November, 1810, under General Abercrombie. In 1816 he, as Major, commanded the first battalion, 25th Regt. N.I. After further service he was, in 1823, promoted to be a Lieutenant-Colonel, and was appointed to raise the 65th Regt. N.I. for general service, and sent in command of it to Penang. He became a Colonel in 1826, and was Commandant at Barrackpore; he was, in 1827, made Brigadier-General, and commanded at Delhi; in 1838 he was made a Major-General; and in 1839 appointed to command the Sirhind Division. He became a General in 1856. General Boyd was married, and leaves a large family.

MAJOR ROSE.

The Indian obituary of the 6th of March records the demise, at Calcutta, of Major George Ernest Rose, of the Rifle Brigade, the young and gallant nephew and Aide-de-Camp of the late Commander-in-Chief in India, Sir Hugh Rose. Major Rose's military career, though brief, was distinguished. He entered, at the age of seventeen, the Coldstream Guards, and accompanied his battalion to the Crimea, where he obtained the Order of the Medjidie for his conduct in the trenches. He, shortly after his return to England, went out with his uncle, Sir H. Rose, to India as his Aide-de-Camp, and by his side he fought throughout the famous Central India campaigns. He was on more than one occasion warmly noticed in Sir Hugh's despatches. After escaping the dangers of the battle-field, the Major fell a victim to the climate. He died when on the eve of his embarkation, invalided, for this country. Major Rose married, in 1862, Maria Theresa, eldest daughter of C. Crosbie, Esq., of Northlands, Sussex.

WILLIAM FREDERICK WITHERINGTON, R.A.

The death of Mr. Witherington, on the 10th inst., at his residence, in Mornington-crescent, tends to raise that rate of mortality in the ranks of the Royal Academicians which has been so greatly elevated of late. Although Mr. Witherington's reputation in recent years waned somewhat before a host of younger candidates for popular favour, he had in his day done a vast amount of good work and true; and even down to the last (for he exhibited in 1863) his landscapes had an unpretending, thoroughly English freshness—a sunny, genial spring or summer brightness that none would have attributed to any artist in the vale of years. Mr. Witherington was born in 1786, and studied in the schools of the Royal Academy. In 1830 he was elected an Associate, and in 1840 a full member of that body. We have called Mr. Witherington a landscape-painter; but he often introduced figures in many of his rustic subjects so prominently and so well that he must also be esteemed as a figure-painter, to a greater extent, at least, than can be allowed to the class of landscapists generally. A pupil of this painter, Mr. N. O. Lupton, gained the first Turner medal awarded for "An English Landscape" in 1858. The South Kensington Museum (Vernon Collection) contains two examples of Witherington's pencil, "The Stepping Stones," engraved by E. Brandard, and "The Hop Garland," exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1843, and engraved by H. Browne. In the same museum there is also a somewhat similar subject by the deceased painter, "The Hop Garden," painted in 1834, and exhibited at the British Institution the following year.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will of the Dowager Countess of Abingdon (Frederica Augusta), of Warwick-square, was proved in London on the 20th ult. Her sisters, the Right Hon. Lady Caroline Pechell and the Right Hon. Lady Emily Frances Macnaghton, are the executrixes. Lady Abingdon was the daughter of the Countess of Antrim (in her own right), and of Vice-Admiral Lord Kerr, second son of the fifth Marquis of Lothian; and married, in 1841, as second wife, the fifth Earl of Abingdon, who died in 1854. Her Ladyship executed her will in 1855 (though without date), which was attested by Sir George Osborn, Bart., and the Rev. W. Read, M.A., of Worthing. Her Ladyship has made many specific bequests, and has been very particular in the disposal of her jewels, as they were the gifts of her husband, and she has considered it right that they should be in the possession of his eldest daughter, Lady Charlotte. Some emeralds and diamonds are to be given to that daughter or son's wife of the present Earl to whom they may be acceptable.

The will of Major-General Sir Charles Hopkinson, C.B., of King-street, St. James's-square, was proved in London, on the 27th ult., by the executors, Lieutenant-Colonel Frederick Samuel Sotheby, C.B., and Hans William Sotheby, Esq., his nephew. The personalty was sworn under £45,000. The will bears date Jan. 16, 1864, and there are four codicils. The gallant General was an officer in the Indian army (retired), and had served in India from 1799 to 1829. He had attained the age of eighty-two. The principal legatee in his will is his said nephew, Hans W. Sotheby, to whom he has devised his real estates in England, the East Indies, and elsewhere, and has appointed him residuary legatee of the personalty. There are many legacies by the codicils to nephews, nieces, and to personal friends. To Colonel Sotheby, his executor, £500; to a man-servant, £500; a maid-servant, £250; and £50 to a late gamekeeper, now residing in Canada; all to be paid free of duty. To the Charing-cross Hospital, £500. He especially directed that his body should be opened before being placed in a coffin, the surgeon performing the operation to receive £50.

The will of Captain Sir Henry Vere Huntley, R.N., her Majesty's Consul at Santos, Brazil, where he died, in May last, at the age of sixty-eight, was proved in London by the executor, according to the tenor of a testamentary document, being a letter dated April 17, 1864, about three weeks before his death, addressed to his agent, Octavius Ommanney, Esq. (firm of Hallett and Ommanney, Navy Agents, Great George-street, Westminster), with directions, in the event of his decease, entirely confined to the members of his family. Sir Henry was knighted in 1843. He married, in 1832, Anne, daughter of General Skinner (she died in 1855). He had been Governor of Prince Edward Island and of colonies on the Gambia; had served in the American War; and was present at the capture of Washington.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

WAR OFFICE.

21st Hussars: Capt. and Brevet Major E. A. Hardy to be Major.

Military Train: Assist. Surgs. F. H. Macfadin and W. White to be Assistant Surgeons; Staff Assist. Surgs. E. L. Low and R. Storey to be Assistant Surgeons.

1st Foot: Staff Assist. Surg. W. S. Hedley to be Assistant Surgeon. 2nd: Staff Assist. Surg. B. J. Finegan to be Assistant Surgeon. 4th: Quartermaster C. Godfrey to be Quartermaster. 11th: Capt. A. Gordon to be Captain. 13th: Lieut. A. E. Donelan to be Lieutenant. 14th: Capt. and Brevet Major C. M. Foster and Capt. A. F. De B. Dixon to be Captains. 26th: Lieut. C. H. Dougherty to be Lieutenant. 28th: Major and Brevet Lieut.-Col. C. F. T. Daniell to be Major. 32nd: Capt. A. Perry to be Captain; Ensign the Hon. J. V. Ogilvy to be Lieutenant; W. H. Iremonger to be Ensign. 25th: Quartermaster J. Robertson to be Quartermaster; 50th: Staff Assist. Surg. O. Owen to be Assistant Surgeon. 53rd: Major-Gen. C. W. Ridley to be Colonel. 60th: A. Pepys to be Ensign. 73rd: Staff Assist. Surg. W. S. M. Price to be Assistant Surgeon. 74th: Lieut. S. H. Hardy to be Lieutenant. 85th: Lieut.-Gen. F. Maunsell to be Colonel.

2nd West India Regiment: Ensign W. E. Last to be Lieutenant.

DEPOT BATTALION.—Capt. D. Reid to be Adjutant.

HALF PAY.—Capt. W. E. Wallace to be Major.

UNATTACHED.—Ensigns J. Bray, T. Doyle, J. M'Nally, T. Kinahan, J. Milrick, T. Hardy, J. P. Stevens, J. M'Kay Macdonald, J. Kelly, and P. Murray to be Lieutenants.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.—Surgeons D. P. Barry, A. M. Macbeth, R. Menzies, and O. B ller to be Staff Surgeons; Assist.-Surgs. W. J. Wilson, W. H. Jameson, J. H. C. Whipple, W. Tomlinson, W. S. M. Price, G. F. Duffy, T. F. O'Dwyer, J. P. H. Boileau, W. rpenter, G. M. Campbell, J. F. Foster, R. A. Farquharson, W. Keir, L. Corban, F. Tuite, W. Taylor, P. Smith, J. M. M'Lean, P. G. Power, P. Shepherd, W. S. Hedley, T. A. Purcell, R. D. Kemp, S. W. Handy, E. O'Sullivan, A. E. Hale, J. M'Creery, H. C. Gillespie, C. Spurway, W. M'Connell, J. Hector, W. L. Eames, C. E. M. Shaw, A. Dunn, V. Stone, K. Macaw, W. E. Riordan, I. Bourke, J. Murray, J. B. Kelly, J. W. Jones, S. E. Walker, J. F. Blake, A. B. Robinson, D. A. S. Thorburn, E. R. O'Brien, J. M'Cully, W. H. Jagoe, W. Blake, C. Smith, J. Duhy, E. P. Haward, D. C. Grosse, F. F. Dickinson, S. Doak, S. Flood, G. B. West, D. J. Canny, E. Vallance, J. Candy, J. B. Ryan, C. F. Hutchinson, E. Eustace, T. J. Peatfield, J. R. R. Coulter, C. Backhouse, E. Ward, J. Maturin, D. Renton, D. C. G. Bourns, J. H. Hughes, and C. Healy, to be Staff Assistant Surgeons.

BREVET.—Lieut.-Col. and Brevet Col. R. Waddy, C.B., to have the temporary rank of Brigadier-General in New Zealand. Major G. B. Harman, Paymaster J. G. H. Holmes, and Major H. R. Grindlay to have the honorary rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. Second Capt. J. Bonus to be Major. Quartermaster M. M'Loughlin to have the honorary rank of Captain.

The Duke of Cambridge, on Wednesday week, reviewed the troops at Woolwich, and inspected various departments of the garrison. On Tuesday last his Royal Highness reviewed the troops at Plymouth garrison, and afterwards inspected the new fortifications.

Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Talbot, K.C.B., commanding at Sheerness, arrived at Chatham dockyard, on Wednesday week, to inspect the Plover, 5, screw gun-vessel, 426 tons, 80-horse power. The inspection proved satisfactory. The Plover has been paid off. She will be placed in the third-class steam reserve.

A number of armour-plates have been placed on the sides of the Lord Warden, 24, iron-cased ram, 4067 tons, 1000-horse power, now building in No. 7 slip at Chatham. The plates have been heavily bolted. The vessel will be launched with a portion of her armour-plates fixed in position.

Another brigade field-drill took place on the Great Lines, at Chatham, on Wednesday week, under Major-General Sir R. Walpole, K.C.B. The whole of the infantry in the garrison was assembled. Each man was supplied with fifteen rounds of blank ammunition. A long series of movements was executed. The weather was fine, and a considerable number of spectators witnessed the military display.

A court-martial took place on Feb. 1, at Yokohama, on Commander Boxer, Mr. Thompson, and the crew of the late Racehorse. The Court adjudged the Commander to be slightly reprimanded, as the Court was of opinion that sufficient allowance had not been made for the current between Cape Coa and Cheefoo; at the same time highly complimenting him on his exertions and the measures adopted to save his ship after her getting ashore. The wreck of the Racehorse has been sold at Cheefoo for a trifling sum.

The Victoria cross was presented to Lieutenant Arthur F. Pickard last week, on the esplanade fronting the Royal barracks, Dublin, in presence of the garrison in full uniform. He was recommended for this honour on account of his gallant conduct in New Zealand on Nov. 20, 1863, when, exposed to a cross fire, he passed and re-passed a pah to assist the wounded by supplying them with water, and to carry off a brother officer, Captain Mercer. Major-General Ridley and General Napier were present, with a brilliant staff.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

SUBSCRIBER.—The collection of "I. B., of Bridport's" charming stratagems is at length in course of issue. We received a copy too late for notice this week, and for the moment must be content to commend the following passage from the preface to the thousands who have been delighted and instructed by the ingenuity of this accomplished composer:—"A volume of chess problems so meritorious as these of Mr. Brown carries its own recommendation, and can hardly fail of a welcome wherever the game which it serves so beautifully to illustrate is known. This posthumous collection has, however, another claim to consideration, and one which will be irresistible to chess-players of generous sympathies. It is published solely for the benefit of the widow and orphans of its estimable author."

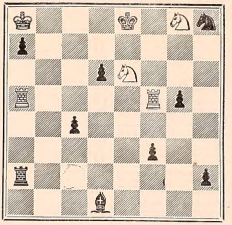
C. W. E., ALONZO.—The reported secession of Mr. Journoud from the editorship of "Le Palamède" is confirmed. Mr. Journoud has left that magazine, and has began the publication of another, solely devoted to chess, on his own account. The new periodical is entitled "Le Sphinx," and is to appear on the 15th of each month.

JULIO, A. M.—Yes; perfectly correct.

LI CALSI.—We cannot inform you. No copy of such a publication has reached us.

D. C. L.—1. If you would kindly furnish us with a literatim copy of the passage mentioned it would be thought a great favour.—2. It is possible, but far from probable, that there are unpublished games of La Bourdonnais in existence. Many years since one of our finest players took down no less than eighty games played by him with the great French master; but the MSS. were mislaid, and now, it is feared, are irretrievably lost.

SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM NO. 1102 by Mentor, S. W. P., E. D., Wyley, Cosmopolitan, Ernest, P. C. K., Larry, M. P., D. C. L., Charley, Viator, J. D., Egmond, F. S. R., R. A., Medicus, Try-again, Box and Cox, I. P., Histrion, P. P., Lucy, Old Kentucky, V. E. R., F. C. S., N. B., 1865, Henry, Annette, Nereus, A Bath Archer, Sigma, Presle, D. D., Peregrino, S. S., Nimrod, Civis, A Clerk, I. Moore, T. B. G., Clericus, Alpine Stock, I. H. L., Volunteer, Harrovian; B. A., Cambridge; Felix, Adelphi, True Blue, Marian, Subscriber, Nemo, J. C. E., A Swede, Manfred and Man Friday, Lex, Oxoniensis, R. B., Rector, Panglos, E. H., W. D., Conrad, E. P. M., Crokorniensis, Tiney, Gavino, Julio, A. M., Dion, I. Danby, C. M. B., A. F., Laura, Fidele, R. T. C., Willy, Sandy; C., of Bruges; L. M. D., Lobro; R. S., of Malines; Addey, Dereven, Liverpool, S. W. B., Trial, Glasgow, H. Frau, Lyons, Lionel, Delta, G. W. E., N. C., Boston Stump, F. R. S., T. P. C., E. B. K., Omega, Norwegian; M. G., of Mons; C., Peckham, J. M. S., Punch, Betsy Prig, Leonard, A Rugbeian, Violet, H. S., Mandeville; E. T. R., Dorking; Rifleman, Wellwisher, Stella, A Spiritualist, C. T. N., Observer, Templar, Snooks, Griffin, Harry, Dr. Fould, Cæsar, H. W. B., I. N. are correct. All others are wrong.



SOLUTION OF PROBLEM NO. 1103.

WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.	BLACK.
1. R to K B 7th	P to Q R 3rd, or (a)	4. B mates.
2. R to K B 3rd	P to Q R 4th	(a) 1.	P to Q R 4th
3. K to Q B 3rd	K takes Kt	2. B to Q Kt 5th	K takes P
		3. B mates.

PROBLEM NO. 1104.

From the recently-published Collection of Problems by J. B., of Bridport.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS IN LONDON.

The two following Games were played between Mr. ANDERSSEN, the German Chess Champion, and the very able English amateur the Rev. G. M'DONNELL. (Evans's Gambit.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th
4. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes Kt P
5. P to Q B 3rd	B to Q B 4th
6. Castles	P to Q 3rd
7. P to Q 4th	P takes P
8. P takes P	B to Q Kt 3rd
9. Kt to Q B 3rd	B to K Kt 5th
10. B to Q Kt 5th

(A very efficient mode of sustaining the attack; but for some time, perhaps for all time, the "Mortimer" variation will supersede it.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
10.	B takes Kt
11. P takes B	K to B sq
12. Kt to K 2nd	Q Kt to K 2nd
13. P to K B 4th	P to Q 4th
14. P to K 5th	K Kt to K R 3rd
15. K to R sq

(Mr. M'Donnell plays the opening with great care and judgment.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
15.	K Kt to K B 4th
16. R to K Kt sq	P to K Kt 3rd
17. B to Q R 3rd	P to Q B 3rd
18. B to Q R 4th	K to K Kt 2nd
19. B to Q B 2nd	Q to Q 2nd
20. Q to Q 3rd	P to K R 4th
21. Q to K R 3rd

(This greatly strengthens Black's attack.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
21.	Q to K 3rd
22. Q B takes Q Kt	Kt takes B
23. P to K B 5th

(The attack now, with ordinary prudence, must prove irresistible.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
23.	Q to Q B sq
24. P to K B 6th (ch)	K to Kt sq
25. P to K 6th	Q takes P
26. Q takes Q	P takes Q
27. P takes Kt	K to B 2nd
28. R takes P	K takes P
29. R to K Kt 7th (ch)	K to Q 3rd
30. Q R to K Kt sq	P to Q B 4th
31. P takes P (ch)	B takes P
32. K R takes Q Kt P	B takes K B P
33. Q R to K Kt 7th	B to Q Kt 3rd
34. K R to Q 7th (ch)	K to K 4th
35. Q R to K Kt 5 (ch)	K to K B 3rd
36. Q R to Kt 6th (ch)	K to K 4th
37. R to K 7th

and White resigned.

Another Game, in which the first eleven moves were the same as in the foregoing game.

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
12. Kt to K 2nd	Q to K B 3rd

(Stronger, apparently, than the line of action adopted in the preceding game; but White has always an uncomfortable game.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
13. B takes Kt	P takes B
14. P to K B 4th	P to K R 4th
15. K to R sq	Q to K R 5th
16. P to K 5th	Kt to K R 3rd
17. Q to Q 3rd	Kt to K Kt 5th
18. Q to K Kt 3rd	Q takes Q

(After this exchange of Queens, Black has no advantage of position sufficient to compensate for the lost Pawn, and his prospects are anything but cheerful.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
19. B P takes Q	P to K R 5th
20. K to Kt 2nd	K R P takes P
21. K R P takes P	R to K R 7th (ch)
22. K to B 3rd	P to K B 4th
23. B to Q R 3rd	K to B 2nd
24. Q R to Q B sq	P to Q B 4th
25. P to K 6th (ch)

(This was ingenious, and might have been troublesome to White but for his masterly retort.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
25.	K takes P
26. P takes Q B P	K to B 2nd

(A line of play as unexpected as beautiful.)

BLACK (Mr. M'D.)	WHITE (Mr. A.)
27. P takes B	Q R to K sq
28. R takes P (ch)	K to Kt 3rd
29. B to Q B 5th	P takes P

and Black abandons the game.

CHESS ENIGMAS.

No. 1455.—By C. W., of Sunbury.

White: K at K Kt 5th, Q at K Kt 2nd, B at K R sq, Kt at Q 8th, P at Q Kt 4th.

Black: K at K 4th, B at K sq, Kts at K Kt 2nd and Q B 2nd; Ps at K R 5th, K Kt 5th, K 3rd and 6th, and Q 5th.

White, playing first, to mate in three moves.

The remains of an ancient city have been discovered in the south of Chili. It is supposed to be either the rich mining city of Ponzuelos or Los Cesares, both fabulous for their wealth.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

M. Weyl has succeeded in combining ammonia and the oxide of mercury at a low temperature and under strong pressure, thus obtaining an ammonio-mercurial base containing four equivalents of mercury and one of ammonia, analogous to the ammonio-mercurial base discovered by M. Millon. If prepared under protection from light it presents the yellow colour of oxide of mercury. Under the influence of light it decomposes with the elimination of mercury; when exposed to air it rapidly attracts carbonic acid and gives up ammonia; and when heated quickly on a plate of platinum it becomes brown and detonates with violence. M. Weyl has published in "Poggendorff's Annalen" a description of other interesting metallic ammoniums, formed by combinations of the gas ammonia under pressure with potassium and sodium.

The formation of a chemical tree by crystals of sulphate of copper in a very diluted solution of silicate of potash is described by M. Jules Faivre. On the bottom of the vase, covered with well-washed sand, should be placed some pieces of bichromate of potash, and the sulphate of copper should be sprinkled over the sand. The tree rises vertically, and gives out branches, inclining towards the horizon, at an angle common to all, and more acute in proportion as the solution is more concentrated.

M. Payen has analysed the water of oysters, which is about equal in weight with the flesh. He states that it is not simply sea water, as it contains less salt and more organic matter. Agitated with ether it deposits a substance analogous to albumin, containing 8·75 per cent of nitrogen. The liquid, when analysed, gave 95·888 water, 3·022 salts, 0·560 nitrogenous matters, and 0·529 non-nitrogenous matters. M. Payen considers that the water of the oyster is important in its alimentation.

An abstract of a paper by Mr. Charles Darwin, F.R.S., on the movements and habits of climbing plants, was read at a meeting of the Linnean Society, and appears in the Natural History Review. He described the peculiarities of these plants as divided into three groups—viz., twining plants, leaf-climbers, and tendril-bearers. He presumes that plants become climbers in order to reach the light, and to expose a larger surface of leaves to its action and to that of the free air. This is effected by them with wonderfully little expenditure of organised matter in comparison with trees, which have to support a load of heavy branches by a massive trunk. Twining plants are furnished with revolving nodes; leaf-climbers possess the power of clasping an object with their petioles or sensitive tips, associated with revolving internodes; and tendril-bearing plants Mr. Darwin considers to have been primordially twiners, or descendants of plants having this power and habit. "The perfection of the organisation of plants," says Mr. Darwin, "is forced on our minds by the study of the many kinds that climb."

In a paper on Indian meteorology recently communicated to the Royal Society, M. H. von Schlagintweit reports the results of his observations on insolation and its connection with atmospheric moisture, which, he says, confirm the experiments of Professor Tyndall in regard to the gain of heat which the thermometer experiences by direct radiation from the sun, and its loss of heat by radiation to the surrounding air. He states that he finds the opacity of the air for the invisible heat radiating from the thermometer rapidly increases with the amount of watery vapour which the air contains, while its transparency for the heat directly radiated from the sun is comparatively little affected.——Commander Frederick John Evans and Mr. Archibald Smith have also reported to the society the results of their investigations of the magnetic character of the armour-plated ships of the Royal Navy. The introduction of iron into ships of war has given importance to sources of error, especially to the diminution of the directive force. Messrs. Evans and Smith find that the effect of these sources of error may be increased or diminished by altering the shape and position of the masses of iron employed.

A paper by Mr. Pliny E. Chase appears in the American Journal of Science on "Terrestrial Magnetism as a Mode of Motion," in which he states that all his meteorological views rest upon the hypothesis that the atmospheric changes, whether of humidity, temperature, pressure, electricity, or magnetism, are purely mechanical, and that being controlled by the laws of motion their proper explanation does not require the assumption of any peculiar magnetic or electric fluid, but that a single homogeneous, elastic, and all-pervading ether may be both the source and the receptacle of all the various forms of force. He then applies this hypothesis especially to magnetism, dwelling particularly on the researches of General Sabine and Mr. G. B. Airy.

A white whale, or white fish, was captured in the Gulf of St. Lawrence a few years ago, and kept on public exhibition in a water-tank for nearly two years. It was 10 ft. long, and weighed almost 700 lb., and was of an ashy grey colour, nearly uniformly distributed. During his confinement he showed some capacity for education. He was sufficiently well trained to allow himself to be harnessed to a car, in which he drew a young lady around the tank; he learned to recognise his keeper, and would allow himself to be handled by him, and at the proper time would come and put his head out of the water to receive the harness or take food. At times he showed a playful disposition, and amused himself with splashing about in the water; and at other times with tossing stones with his mouth. He often took in his mouth a sturgeon and a small shark which was confined in the same tank, and after playing with them for awhile, allowed them to go unharmed. An anatomical description of this animal, illustrated by plates, has been contributed to the Boston Society of Natural History, by Dr. Jeffreys Wyman, professor of anatomy at Howard College, U.S. The stomach contained a collection of stones, nails, pieces of glass, stones of fruits, half-digested fragments of the flesh, and a few vertebræ of fishes; also other substances, which had been, doubtless, swallowed after entering the tank. The heart, when compared with the size of the animal, was remarkable for its volume and capacity. It was injected, and required thirteen pounds of tallow to fill its cavities.

Mr. Daniel Hanbury has contributed to the Linnean Society a paper on the species of Garcinia, which affords gamboge, in Siam. We learn that, above two centuries ago, one of the Dutch voyagers, returning from India, first brought to the notice of his countrymen a gumlike substance, of an orange colour, to which various important medicinal properties were ascribed. In 1677 Hermann announced that this drug was derived from two trees, since ascertained to belong to the order Guttiferæ, and of which one is known as the Garcinia cambogia; the other being, in all probability, the Garcinia morella. Desirous of settling the question as to the origin of gamboge, Mr. Hanbury procured from Messrs. D'Almeida, of Singapore, a jar of specimens from trees on their plantations. These gentlemen state that they have twenty-eight of these trees, varying from 35 ft. to 50 ft. in height; the largest with a circumference of about 3 ft. They grow on the slope of a low hillock, with very little attention, and are asserted to be "the real gamboge-tree." Mr. Hanbury gives the botanical details of the specimens, and proposes to name them "Garcinia morella, variety pedicellata."

At a recent meeting of the Academy of Sciences at Paris M. Faye made some remarks on a revived hypothesis of M. Erman, which attributes the darkening of the sun on certain occasions related in history (such as at the Battle of Mühlberg, in April, 1547, when the stars were visible at mid-day) to the interposition of shooting-stars. M. Faye considers that the appearance of a mass of opaque bodies so great as to produce the phenomena of an eclipse ought to resemble it in its approach and departure and other circumstances. He considers that the hypothesis fails for want of corroborating evidence. M. Le Verrier, speaking on the same subject, regretted that authors who had occupied their minds with the subjects relating to meteorites had not, in their statistics, distinguished the causes which might have influenced the phenomena. At the same meeting a paper by the eminent Italian electrician Matteucci was read, "On the Action of Sulphur on the Voltaic Battery." He arrives at the following conclusions:—1. That sulphur in powder placed in contact with the electro-negative metal of a battery formed of zinc, copper, and a solution of sea-salt, notably increases the electro-motive power, constancy, and duration of the battery; and we may consequently hope to obtain, by the use of sulphur, a more valuable voltaic combination for industrial purposes. 2. The sulphur, although insoluble and isolated, enters into combination with the sodium rendered free by the electric action. The influence possessed by a very small quantity of sulphate of copper—an action proved by experiment to be indispensable—remains to be explained.

Professor Voelcker's annual report to the Royal Agricultural Society of England appears in the new number of the society's journal. Amongst other interesting subjects which are noticed is the chemical composition and properties of water, of which he received a large number of specimens for analysis. He finds the drinking-water of towns to be superior to that used in the country, the latter being injured by surface-wells and defective drainage. He says that water which smells in the least disagreeably, or which holds in suspension light flocculent matter, or does not become perfectly bright after standing for six hours, or which is distinctly yellow in appearance, should be carefully examined before it is employed for domestic use. His experiments on the effect of salt as a fertiliser for mangolds, oats, barley, and clover seeds failed in consequence of the unusually dry summer. In a separate paper "On some of the causes of Unproductiveness in Soils," Professor Voelcker treats the subject under seven divisions:—1, when the soils contain something inimical to vegetation (either an excess of organic acid or small quantities of green vitris, common salt, nitrates, &c.); 2, when soils are deficient in one or more of the constituents found in the ashes of our cultivated plants (such as phosphoric acid, potash, or soda); 3, when soils contain a large preponderance of organic matter, or of lime, sand, or even of pure clay; 4, when soils rest on impervious or extensive clay subsoils, which are not easily drained efficiently; 5, when their drainage is ineffective; 6, when their physical characters are bad; and, 7, when they are affected by a bad climate. Professor Voelcker supports his views on these causes and their results by reference to examples and analytical experiments. In the same number of the journal Mr. C. E. Amos gives a description of the Newcastle dynamometer (an apparatus constructed for testing the force required to work the steam-plough), elucidated by engravings based upon photographs. In another paper on Mr. Hooibrenk's "Artificial Fecundation of Wheat," Mr. J. B. Lawes gives an account of his experiments, and concludes by saying, "Our neighbours, the French agriculturists, are now going through a stage which in this country was passed some years ago. The artificial application of electricity, seed-steeping, and other marvels, which were to double the produce of our fields, have had their day with us; but the British farmer is still toiling on as formerly, earning his bread by the sweat of his brow and the liberal use of manure, without which he does not find his crops increase."

NEW MUSIC.

THE QUADRILLE OF THE SEASON.

COOTE'S LARA QUADRILLE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s. Post-free at half price.
METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE VALSE OF THE SEASON.

COOTE'S LARA VALSE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s. Post-free at half price.
METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE ARAB SONG from LARA. "The gem of the opera." Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne.
BRINLEY RICHARDS'S Transcription of "The Arab Song" for the Pianoforte. "One of his best pieces." Price 3s. each. Half price.
METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SENSATION MAD.—Mr. Sothern's Comic Song in "The Woman in Mauve." Written by H. J. Byron. Illustrated. Price 3s. Post-free for 19 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

HENRY SMART'S

BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.—A New Edition, corrected and revised, of the Pianoforte Score is now ready. Price 18s., bound and illustrated.
METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.—Favourite Songs:—"The full moon is beaming," 2s. 6d.; "The sea rules all," 3s.; "Our home shall be on this bright isle," 2s. 6d.; and the popular "Sea-maidens' chorus," arranged as a Trio, 3s. All sent post-free at half price.
METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SUNG BY MDME. SAINTON-DOLBY.

SWEET KILKENNY TOWN. Price 4s. THE COUNTESS OF GIFFORD'S NEW SONG, in answer to KATEY'S LETTER. Price 3s. Can be had of all Musicsellers throughout the United Kingdom; and of the Publishers, HUTCHINGS and ROMER, Music-publishers and Pianoforte-sellers, 9, Conduit-street, Regent-street, W.

NEW SONG and DUET by GOUNOD.
A DAUGHTER'S APPEAL. Song. Price 2s. 6d.
RING, YE FAIRY BELLS. Duet. Price 2s. 6d.
HUTCHINGS and ROMER, 9, Conduit-street, Regent-street, W.

Just published,

THE FAVOURITE AIRS from GOUNOD'S Opera SAPPHO, arranged, in two books, as Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s., by W. HUTCHINS CALLCOTT.
HUTCHINGS and ROMER, 9, Conduit-street, Regent-street, W.

HUTCHINGS and ROMER'S LIST of Signor TITO MATTEI'S NEW PIANOFORTE WORKS, as played by him at the Crystal Palace and the principal Concerts in London:—

	Price.
Grande Valse	5s.
Una notte d'Estate (Nocturne)	4s.
Un Sogno d'Amore	4s.
Il folletto (Galop de Concert)	4s.
Addio dell Passato (transcription)	4s.

Can be had of all Musicsellers throughout the country or of the Publishers.
HUTCHINGS and ROMER, 9, Conduit-street, Regent-street, W.

EXTRAORDINARY SUCCESS OF

HARVEY'S CELEBRATED IRISH AIRS Fantasia, for Piano, containing "Love's Young Dream," "Garry Owen," &c. Free for 25 stamps, from
EVANS and Co., 77, Baker-street, Portman-square, W.

MISS GABRIEL'S LATEST SONG.

THE GARDEN OF ROSES, by VIRGINIA GABRIEL, is the most popular of all her compositions. Free for 19 stamps, from EVANS and Co., 77, Baker-st., Portman-sq., W.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S LIST of NEW MUSIC.
BEATRICE. Mazurka Mélodie pour Piano. Par G. F. WEST. 4s.; free for 25 stamps.
THE WREATH (Mazzinghi). For Piano. By G. F. WEST. 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
O YE TEARS! O YE TEARS! Sung by Mdme. Sherrington. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
THE LIQUID GEM. Sung by Mdme. Sherrington. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
THE CUCKOO. Sung by Mdlle. Liebhardt. 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
GOOD-MORNING. Sung by Mdlle. Liebhardt. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
TWO NEW COMIC SONGS—TICK! TICK! TICK! by Vance; and THE POSTMAN OF MAYFAIR, by Randall. Each 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps each.
G. F. WEST.—Just published, The Chough and Crow, 3s.; Fair Agnes, Beauteous Flower, 3s.; Lebewohl (Proch), 3s. Transcribed for Piano by G. F. West. Each free by post for 19 stamps.
BRINLEY RICHARDS.—Just published, The Liquid Gem, 3s.; Snow Flakes (Melody by Klicken), 3s.; Summer Clouds, 3s. For Piano, by Brinley Richards. Each free by post for 19 stamps.
HAMILTON'S MODERN INSTRUCTIONS FOR PIANO. 4s.; free for 26 stamps. 469th Edition.
PIANO MUSIC.—Just issued, A NEW ADDENDUM to ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S CATALOGUE OF PIANOFORTE MUSIC, &c., embracing about a Thousand Recent Publications. Gratis and post-free.
Gratis and postage free, THEMATIC CATALOGUE OF NEW VOCAL MUSIC, just published by ROBERT COCKS and Co., 6, New Burlington-street, London, W. Agents for India, Messrs. BURKINYOUNG and Co., Calcutta.

NEW PIANOFORTE MUSIC
The following are some of the most popular Pianoforte Pieces lately published by EWER and CO.

BLUMNER, S.—Am Meer. Fantasiestück (dedicated to her Royal Highness the Princess Mary of Cambridge)	4s. 0d.
COENEN, W.—Chant du Barde. Morceau de Concert	4s. 0d.
,, Le Papillon au reveil. Fantasie	4s. 0d.
HARDISTY, J. R.—Abendroth. 3s.; Sonnenaufgang	3s. 0d.
KORNATZKY, F.—Le reveil des oiseaux. Improvisation brillante	4s. 0d.
LEUPOLD, F.—Soleil couchant. Nocturno	3s. 0d.
LISZT, F.—Ave Maria (d'Arcadelt)	3s. 0d.
,, Hallelujah (d'Arcadelt)	4s. 0d.
O'LEARY, ARTHUR.—L'Adieu. Chanson allemande	3s. 0d.
,, Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," transcribed	3s. 0d.
,, Schumann's "Fröhlicher Landmann," transcribed	3s. 0d.
SCHULTHES, W.—La Regata, 4s.; Esmeralda	4s. 0d.

SPINDLER, F.—Chanson populaire, 4s.; Le Carillon, 3s.; Une feuille de rose, 3s.; Un conte de fées, 3s.; Valse aerienne, 3s.; Une rose sans épines, 4s.
WOLLENHAUPT, H. A.—Marche hongroise, 3s.; Valse héroïque, 4s.; Caprice aérien, 4s.; Un fil de perles, 4s.; Valse gracieuse, 4s.
Sold by all Musicsellers in town or country.
London: EWER and Co., Musical Library, 87, Regent-street.

THE SOLDIER'S LEGACY: OPERA DA CAMERA.
The Libretto by John Oxenford; the Music by G. A. MACFARREN, as performed at Mr. German Reed's Gallery of Illustration, by Miss Robertine Henderson, Miss Emily Pitt, Mr. Whiffin, and Mr. Shaw.
"It is impossible to enumerate the many beauties of this operetta."—Musical Times.
"Fresh, pretty, and harmonious, this work will give greater pleasure than many a grand opera."—Punch.
"This operetta will gratify the most refined taste, and may be agreeably represented even by a party of four amateurs in a drawing-room."—Daily News.
Price of the complete Opera, Six Shillings net.
The following Ballads are also published separately:—"O, Welcome, Young Soldier!" "I never knew, my heart held fast;" "A simple tune sometimes we hear;" "You promised to come with the dawn of day." Half price, 1s. 3d. each.
London: EWER and Co., Musical Library, 87, Regent-street.

HATTON'S MOST SUCCESSFUL NEW SONG.

FAIR AND FALSE. 2s. 6d. Post-free for sixteen stamps.
EWER and Co.'s Musical Library, 87, Regent-street, London.

Sacred Song, Eight Hundred years old.

MAGDALENA, CEASE THY WEEPING (PONE LUCTUM MAGDALENA). Words by Peter the Venerable. Music by C. G. HAMILTON. In F and A flat. "The most beautiful and interesting sacred song ever published." Post-free, 1s. 6d.; Quartet, 3d.; Pianoforte Piece, 1s. 6d.
OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, W.

MUSIC HALF PRICE and Post-free. The High Price of Music. All full-price Music of every publisher forwarded immediately on publication to any part of the kingdom, on receipt of stamps to half the price. Catalogues gratis. The profession and trade supplied to sell at half price.
OETZMANN and Co., 27, Baker-street, Portman-square, London.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE, 14s. per Month. Seven octaves. No hire charged if purchased in six months. The most economical and judicious mode of obtaining a really good pianoforte is to hire one (with the option of purchasing it if approved) of the Manufacturers, OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-square, opposite Mdme. Tussaud's.

THE GLORIES of the HEAVENS seen by a NEW TELESCOPE for £5, which will also distinguish the features of a man four miles, and time by a church clock ten miles. Persons are invited to apply for a diagram, with other particulars, and eight sheets of testimonials from scientific and other gentlemen, including Lord Rosse. Sent free by book post. S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly. High-power Pocket Telescopes, Opera, Race, Field, and general Outdoor Glasses.

POCKET BAROMETER, COMPASS, and THERMOMETER, all in one, the size of a watch, for telling the weather, the heights of mountains, direction of winds, and temperature of the air. Guaranteed for twelve months. Price £4 15s., sent free.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-st., Piccadilly.

THE MESSRS. SOLOMONS' NEWLY- INVENTED TINTED SPECTACLES are patronised by the majority of the nobility, including Viscount Palmerston. They give by day and night extraordinary relief to weak, dim, and defective vision.—39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

DEAFNESS.—The SOUND MAGNIFIER and INVISIBLE VOICE CONDUCTOR, for Deafness. It fits into the ear not perceptible, removes singing noises in the head, and enables deaf persons to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

SALOM'S NEW OPERA and FIELD GLASS, and THE RECONNOITERER GLASS, price 10s. 10d., sent free. This "Tourist's Favourite," through extraordinary division of labour, distinctly shows small windows 10 miles off, landscape at 30 miles, Jupiter's Moons, &c.—The Marquis of Carmarthen: "The reconnoiterer is very good."—Rev. Lord Scarsdale "approves of it."—Lord Gifford, of Ampney: "Most useful."—Lord Garvagh: "Remarkably good."—Sir Digby Cayley, of Brompton: "It gives me complete satisfaction, and is wonderfully good."—Capt. Sidney, Royal Small Arms Factory, Enfield Lock, "Presents his compliments to Messrs. Salom and Co., and begs to inclose 10s. 10d. for a reconnoiterer glass, having just tried that sent to Lieut. Hopkins, and found it effective at the 1000-yards range."—F. H. Fawkes, of Farnley Hall, Esq.: "I never before met an article that so completely answered the recommendation of its maker, nor, although I have tried many a glass, combining so much power for its size with so much clearness."—"The Field": "We have carefully tried it at an 800-yard rifle range against all the glasses possessed by members of the corps, and found it fully equal to any of those present, although they had cost more than four times its price."—"Notes and Queries": "What intending tourist will now start without such an indispensable companion to a pleasure trip?" The celebrated "HYTHE" GLASS shows bullet marks at 1200 yards, a man at 3½ miles, price 31s. 6d. All the above Glasses, respectively bearing the registered trade marks, "Salom," "Reconnoiterer," and "Hythe," are only to be had direct from Salom and Co., 98, Princes-street, Edinburgh.
No Agents of any kind anywhere.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA. — OPERA GLASSES in every variety of form and mounting, matchless for their great magnifying power and sharpness of definition, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23A, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street), W. Sole Agent for the celebrated Field and Opera Glasses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

TATTERSALLS'.—The Picture of THE LAWN, at "THE CORNER," on the Monday before the Derby, with more than One Hundred Portraits of Noblemen and Gentlemen who have given Mr. Joy sittings, will be exhibited, with Messrs. Tattersalls' permission, in the OLD SUBSCRIPTION-ROOM, at Hyde Park-corner, on and after TUESDAY, APRIL 25. Admission, One Shilling; on Saturdays, 2s. 6d. Open from Twelve till Six.

THREE HUNDRED BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS for ALBUMS, SCREENS, PRESENTS, &c., comprising fine Steel-engravings, Photographs, rich Chromo-lithographs, &c., post-free for 7s. 6d., stamps.—J. REYNOLDS, 174, Strand.

THIRTY-TWO CHARMING COLOURED SCRAPS (Fourth series), just published, printed in oil colours, something in the style of Baxter's celebrated pictures, are now sent post-free for 2s. 10d. in stamps. The subjects are as follow:—Flowers of the Field, The Sisters, Waiting for Father, The Golden Age, The Draught-Players, The Performing Dog, A Good Opportunity, Rustic Civility, Spaniel and Wild Duck, A Brace of Pheasants, The Peacock, A Basket of Fruit, &c.; altogether forming one of the cheapest sets for scrap-books ever submitted to the public. Address, JOHN JERRARD, 172, Fleet-street, London, where the sets are open for inspection.

THE FIVE-SHILLING ILLUMINATING COLOUR BOX contains twelve superfine Colours, body, white, gold, aluminium, and brushes.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st., London; and all Artists' Colourmen, &c.

THE PHOTOCHROMATIC COLOUR BOX, enabling any person, without a knowledge of painting or drawing, to colour photographs, producing a beautiful enamelled appearance, with twelve colours, all materials, specimen, and full directions, price 10s. 6d.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street; and all Artists' Colourmen, Stationers, &c.

120 SHEETS OF NOTE-PAPER for 6d.; 120 thick ditto for 1s.; 120 sheets ditto, black-bordered, for 1s.; 250 useful Envelopes for 9d.; 1000 extra large ditto for 4s. 6d.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, W.

STRAW WRITING-PAPER (PARKINS and GOTTO'S). Pleasanter to write upon than any other. Has a hard, smooth surface, well adapted for the steel pen, and cheaper than any other writing-paper, being only 3s. the ream of 20 quires. Parkins and Gotto, Paper and Envelope Makers, 25, Oxford-street.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS, to last for years, bound in a superior manner with leather joints, plain and elegantly mounted, in great variety, at moderate prices. A choice of 3000.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-street, W.

PURSES, pocket-books, cigar-cases, card-cases, wallets, opera-glasses, scent-bottles (double and single); pencil-cases; fans, note-cases, &c., the largest Stock in London. N.B. Choice articles selected and sent post-free to the country upon prepayment.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-st.

15,000 BIBLES, PRAYER-BOOKS, and CHURCH SERVICES, in every variety of type and binding. Suitable for presents.
PARKINS and GOTTO'S Bible Warehouse, 25, Oxford-street.

500 DRESSING-CASES and DRESSING- BAGS, of the best manufacture, and fitted in the most complete manner for ladies or gentlemen. DESPATCH-BOXES, INK-STANDS, ENVELOPE-CASES, BOOK-SLIDES, RETICULES, PURSES, BLOTTING-BOOKS, &c. The public supplied at TRADE PRICES.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-st., London.

2s. PRIZE WRITING-CASE, fitted with Paper, Envelopes, Blotting-book, Pen-case, &c., can be sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom upon receipt of 28 stamps to PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London.

DANCE PROGRAMMES (Perfumed); Invitation and At-Home Note-paper; Return Thanks; Bordered Note-papers; Dinner Lists; Dish and Dessert Papers; Household Papers.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-street.

COLOURED STAMPING REDUCED TO 1s. per 100. No charge for plain stamping paper and envelopes from parties own dies. Monogram, Crest, and Address Dies cut at half price.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, W.

MONOGRAM, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES cut at half price, and remain the property of the customer. No charge for plain stamping; coloured stamping reduced to 1s. per 100. Writing-paper and Envelopes supplied to the public at wholesale prices.
PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, W.

CROQUET.—Nice Present to Children. PARKINS and GOTTO'S 15s. set of Croquet, the cheapest in London, sent into the country, carriage-paid, on receipt of P. O. order.—Parkins and Gotto, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, London, W.

CROQUET.—PARKINS and GOTTO'S.—The largest stock in London, from 15s. to 5 guineas. Any set sent into the country, carriage paid, on receipt of the amount. A first-rate set, full size, 30s.
Price-list on application post-free.
Parkins and Gotto, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, London, W.
N.B. The trade and shippers supplied on liberal terms.

RODRIGUES' CARTE de VISITE ALBUMS, in handsome antique morocco and russia bindings; also in ormolu, walnut, and coromandel. Albums for monograms, crests, and postage-stamps.—At Henry Rodrigues', 42, Piccadilly, W.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS and HERALDIC DEVICES, designed and engraved as gems of art. Note-paper and envelopes stamped in colour relief, and illuminated in the most elegant style. At Rodrigues', 42, Piccadilly, W.

A VISITING CARD-PLATE ENGRAVED, and 100 CARDS PRINTED, for 4s. 6d. Wedding Cards and Envelopes, Ball Programmes and Bills of Fare printed and stamped with Crest or Address at HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

NOTICE.—THOMAS TAPLING, BEALL, and CO., formerly "Thomas Tapling and Co.," Carpet Warehousemen, &c., have REMOVED from 44A, Gresham-street, and 74, Aldermanbury, to their restored Premises, 1 to 8 GRESHAM-STREET WEST, City.

STAINED-GLASS WINDOWS for CHURCHES and DWELLINGS.
HEATON, BUTLER, and BAYNE'S New Catalogue, containing 18 pages of Illustrations, including completed Windows of the highest character, also Church Decorations and Memorial Brasses, now publishing, 3s. 6d., post-free.—Heaton, Butler, and Bayne, New King-street, Covent-garden, W.C.

MARBLE CHIMNEYPIECES. — EVANS, SON, and CO. respectfully invite the attention of purchasers to their extensive Stock of the above, as well as of Stoves, Grates, and Fenders, en suite, adapted to every style of decoration, and to apartments of all descriptions.
Show-rooms, 33 and 34, King William-street, London Bridge.

MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO.,
pre-eminent for their
Silver Cups and Tankards,
Electro-Silver Plate,
Volunteer Rifle and Boating Prizes,
Strongly-plated Spoons and Forks,
Officers' Canteen-Cases,
Family Plate-Chests,
Table and other Cutlery,
Vast Show-rooms and Galleries.
Illustrated Catalogues post-free.
West-End House, 77 and 78, Oxford-street.
City House, 71 and 72, Cornhill.
Manufactory—The Royal Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

ORNAMENTS for the MANTELPIECE, &c. Large and Choice Selection, including, among other articles, Groups, Statuettes, Vases, &c., in Parian and English and foreign Porcelain; Clocks (bronze, marble, and gilt), first-class Bronzes, Lustres, Candelabra, Candlesticks, and Bohemian Glass.
Novelty, Beauty, and Art.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 23, Ludgate-hill, E.C. Established 1760.

GARDNERS' LAMPS ARE THE BEST.— MODERATOR and PARAFFIN TABLE LAMPS, from 5s. 6d. each. Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (four doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GARDNERS' DINNER-SERVICES, best quality. Illustrated Catalogues post-free.—Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (4 doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GASELIERS in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze. Mediæval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures.
D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 55 and 56, High Holborn, W.C.

CRETONNE CHINTZ, requring no calendering, is peculiarly adapted for curtains or furniture-coverings, being durable, elegant, and inexpensive. HOWARD and SONS, 26 and 27, Berners-street, have all the new patterns.

CHALET CHAIRS.—HOWARD and SONS, 26 and 27, Berners-street, solicit the gentry to inspect their new Chalet Chairs, varied in form, and adapted to all reception-rooms. An indispensable luxury to every lady's boudoir.

FILMER and SON'S UPHOLSTERY and CABINET FURNITURE SHOW-ROOMS, 31, 32, and 34, Berners-street, W. Attention is requested to these spacious Show-rooms, which are among the largest in London.

DRAWING and DINING ROOM FURNITURE.—A walnut suite in velvet, 13 guineas; a walnut suite in rich figured silk satin, 20 guineas; a Spanish mahogany suite, 28 guineas; a suite in solid oak, 33 to 37 guineas; bed-room suite in polished white deal, for £8 14s. 6d.—N.B. Chimney-glasses, plate 50 by 40 inches, 4 guineas to 5 guineas.—ROBERT FISHER and CO., Wholesale and Retail Cabinetmakers, 32, Finsbury-place North, two doors from Finsbury-square.

OAK FURNITURE, at R. GREEN and CO.'S, 24, Mortimer-street, Regent-street, W.—To Clergymen and Professional Gentlemen.—A complete SUITE of DARK OAK DINING-ROOM FURNITURE, consisting of a handsome 6 ft. Gothic sideboard, with plate-glass back, eight handsome and massive chairs, a telescope dining-table with patent screw, to dine ten or twelve. The price only 34 guineas. N.B. Also a massive Antique Suite of Carved Oak Dining-room Furniture, suitable for a nobleman's or gentleman's mansion, 55 guineas.

DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE.—A suite of beautiful walnutwood furniture, covered in rich silk brocatelle, same as used in English and foreign Courts—consisting of fine oval loo and occasional tables, handsome marqueterie cabinet, large-size chimney-glass, in gilt frame; an elegant settee, easy-chair, and six small chairs fitted with chintz loose covers; the price, 41 guineas. Also a Spanish mahogany dining-room suite; the price, 28 guineas. At R. GREEN and CO.'S, 24, Mortimer-street, Regent-street, W.

J. MAPLE and CO.'s CHIMNEY-GLASSES, in best French Plates and double gilt. The following is a list of prices:—

Size of Plate.	Outside Measure of Frame.	Price.
40 by 30 inches	50 inches wide by 39 inches high	£2 12s.
40 by 36 inches	50 inches high by 45 inches wide	3 15s.
50 by 40 inches	63 inches high by 52 inches wide	4 15s.
60 by 50 inches	74 inches high by 66 inches wide	8 8s.

Larger sizes in proportion. Among which are several handsome pairs, 7 ft. 6 in. by 6 ft., price 15 guineas each; girandoles, from 14s. 9d. An Illustrated Catalogue post-free.
Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.
Families who study economy with durability and elegance should visit this establishment before giving their orders; it will save them much time, trouble, and expense. A ten-roomed house furnished complete in twenty-four hours. An illustrated priced catalogue sent post-free on application.
Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.
The next house, although in the same trade, is not connected.

CRETONNE, the French Chintz, requires no calendering, is both elegant and serviceable.—J. MAPLE and CO. have an immense stock of this fashionable material, suitable for Curtains or Covering for Sofas, Chairs, &c., at moderate prices.

LONDON CARPET WAREHOUSE. WAUGH and SON, Carpet Manufacturers, beg respectfully to acquaint the nobility, clergy, and gentry that their Show-rooms contain a choice assortment of Axminster, Velvet-pile, Brussels, and other CARPETS, in designs of Alhambra, Greek, Mediæval, and other styles, for reception-rooms, dining-rooms, halls, staircases, &c., and of superior fabrics, by which their reputation has been established. Tasteful designs for Bed-room Carpets of a cheaper description, Silk Damasks, Reps, Cretonne Chintzes, and other materials for window curtains and portières. Gilt Cornices, Looking-glasses, and other gilt decorations of elegant designs.—3 and 4, Goodge-street, and 65 and 66, Tottenham-court-road. Entrance in Goodge-street.

PATENT SPRING PILLOWS.—These Pillows are strongly recommended by the Medical Profession to Invalids for affording great ease and comfort, especially when travelling. They are alike adapted for the bed, couch, or carriage. To be had of W. H. BATSON and CO., 1, Maddox-street, Regent-street. Eiderdown Quilts of every colour and size.

FURNISH your HOUSE with the best ARTICLES: they are the cheapest in the end.—DEANE and CO.'S priced FURNISHING LIST, gratis and post-free, enumerates the leading articles from all the various departments of their establishment, and is arranged to facilitate purchasers in the selection of goods. It comprises table cutlery, electro-plate lamps, baths, fenders, fireirons, iron bedsteads, bedding; Britannia metal, copper, tin, and brass goods; culinary utensils, turnery, brushes, mats, &c. Deane and Co., 46, King William-street, London Bridge.—Established A.D. 1700.

TO LADIES.—GREEN TISSUE IVY LEAVES, for ornamenting Chimney-glasses. 18 stamps per set of 72 slips. Tissue for Stove Aprons, 8 stamps per packet; 6 for 40 stamps.—R. PETERS, Tovil, Maidstone.

GROVER and BAKER'S, 150, Regent-street, London, W., 59, Bold-street, Liverpool, celebrated ELASTIC-STITCH SEWING-MACHINES, with all the latest improvements, are the best and simplest ever offered. For Family Use or Dress and Mantle Making they are positively unrivalled, doing plain and ornamental work with equal facility. They stitch, hem, fell, tuck, gather, braid, quilt, cord, bind, and embroider, are very easily managed, and not liable to derangement. One hundred thousand now in use in all parts of the world. Every machine guaranteed. Instruction gratis. Illustrated Prospectus and samples of work gratis and post-free.—Grover and Baker, 150, Regent-street, W.

TEETH AND PAINLESS DENTISTRY. Messrs. LEWIN, MOSELY, and SONS, 30, Berners-street, Oxford-street, and 448, Strand (opposite Charing-cross Railway Station). These Teeth are cheaper, more durable, natural, and comfortable, than any yet produced. Consultation Free. For the efficacy, utility, and success of this system, vide "Lancet."
No connection with anyone of the same name.

NICHOLSON and CO., Silkmercers, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard, London, beg to announce that they have just received their NEW SILKS for SPRING. Messrs. N. and Co. have also bought in Lyons several lots of last year's patterns at about half their original prices. 300 Patterns post-free. Established 22 years. No connection with any other firm.

OWING to the facilities now afforded by the Postmaster-General, Messrs. NICHOLSON beg to state that they have greatly improved their system of sending patterns of Silks, &c., by post. Instead of the small pieces and necessarily limited variety which, from the expense of postage, could formerly be sent, they now undertake to forward, post-free, 300 PATTERNS of SILKS, each piece 3½ in. by 2½ in. in size.
These patterns comprise every colour and design now fashionable in London and Paris, and represent a stock of £20,000 in value.
NICHOLSONS',
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Coloured Glacés, 30 shades, from 1s. 4½d. per yard. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Checks and Stripes, from 1 guinea a Dress. Reversible. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Broché and Chéné Silks, from 1½ guinea. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS. Moire Antiques and Corded Silks, from 2 guineas. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S BLACK SILKS. Black Glacés, Gros Grains, Drap de Lyon, Drap de Paris, &c., from 1 guinea a Dress. 300 Patterns post-free.
50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED?—Boys' Knickerbocker Suits in Cloth, from 15s. 9d. Useful School Suits, from 12s. 9d. Patterns of the Cloths, directions for measurement, and 45 Engravings of New Dresses, post-free.—NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE OF PARIS FASHIONS, containing Twenty Illustrations of New Mantles, Dresses, and Juvenile Attire for the present season, is just published, and will be forwarded, gratis and post-free, to any part of the world on application.—Nicholson and Co., 50 to 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

MANTLE and JACKET CLOTHS of all kinds, from 1s. 11½d. per yard. Also a large assortment of woollen goods, for gentlemen's and boys' wear, at very moderate prices; also Fancy Flannels for Shirts.
CHARLES MEEKING and CO., 111, Hatton-garden, London.

LUDGATE-HILL RAILWAY
(now opened).
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.
SILKS, DRESSES, MANTLES, FAMILY LINENS.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
New Checked Glacés, 14 yards, £1 15s. 6d.
Patterns of Rich Silks.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
New Striped Glacés, 14 yards, £2 2s.
Patterns of New Ribbed Silks.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
Gros de Suez, all the new colours,
£3 9s. for 14 yards.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
Best Spitalfields Ducapes, warranted to wear,
2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., 3s. 11d., 4s. 6d., 4s. 11d. per yard.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK FIGURED SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
A large assortment of New Patterns, £2 5s. 6d. for 14 yards.
Black Gros Grains, Black Gros de Suez.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES.—PATTERNS FREE.
Double Mohairs, Challis, Checked and Plain.
A large variety of useful Dresses cut by the yard.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

FAMILY LINEN DEPARTMENT.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.
Linen and Cotton Sheetings, best makes, all widths.
Irish and Scotch Table Linen, Napkins, and Slips.
Made and Marked with Crest or Initial, and Warranted for Wear.

IRISH LINENS, direct from Belfast, at Manufacturers' Prices.
JAMES LINDSAY and CO.
will forward, carriage paid on parcels of £5 and upwards, Single and Double Damask Table Cloths, Napkins, Diapers, Family Linens, Sheetings, Pillow Linens, Tickings, Huckaback and Diaper Towellings, Glass Cloths, Pastry Towels, &c., &c.; Ladies' and Gentlemen's Lawn and Cambric Handkerchiefs.
Patterns and Price-list post-free.
James Lindsay and Co., 18, Donegall-place, Belfast.

MARRIAGE TROUSSEAUX and LAYETTES.—CHRISTIAN and RATHBONE respectfully solicit an inspection of their extensive and recherché Stock, combining Parisian taste with the excellence and durability of material for which their House has been noted for upwards of seventy years.
Christian and Rathbone, 11, Wigmore-street, W.

SEWELL and CO.
beg to inform Ladies that their made-up
ROBE DEPARTMENT is now replete with all the Novelties for the coming Season, including
THE NEW SILK WARP CORAIL CLOTH
(Warranted to wear),
"Mexicaine" Lustre, and Glacé Cloths in great variety.
COMPTON HOUSE, Frith-street, Soho-square.

MOIRES ANTIQUES.—SEWELL and CO. have the largest selection of Spitalfields Moires Antiques, in White, Black, and all the New Colours, at 4½ guineas the Full Dress.—Compton House, Frith-street, Soho-square, W.

REDMAYNE and CO. have the honour to announce the Completion of their ALTERATIONS and of their arrangements for the Spring Trade. Every department is now supplied with the latest novelties. R. and Co. further respectfully call attention to the new departments they have added—viz., General Mourning and Family and Household Linen.
19 and 20, New Bond-street; and 35, Conduit-street.

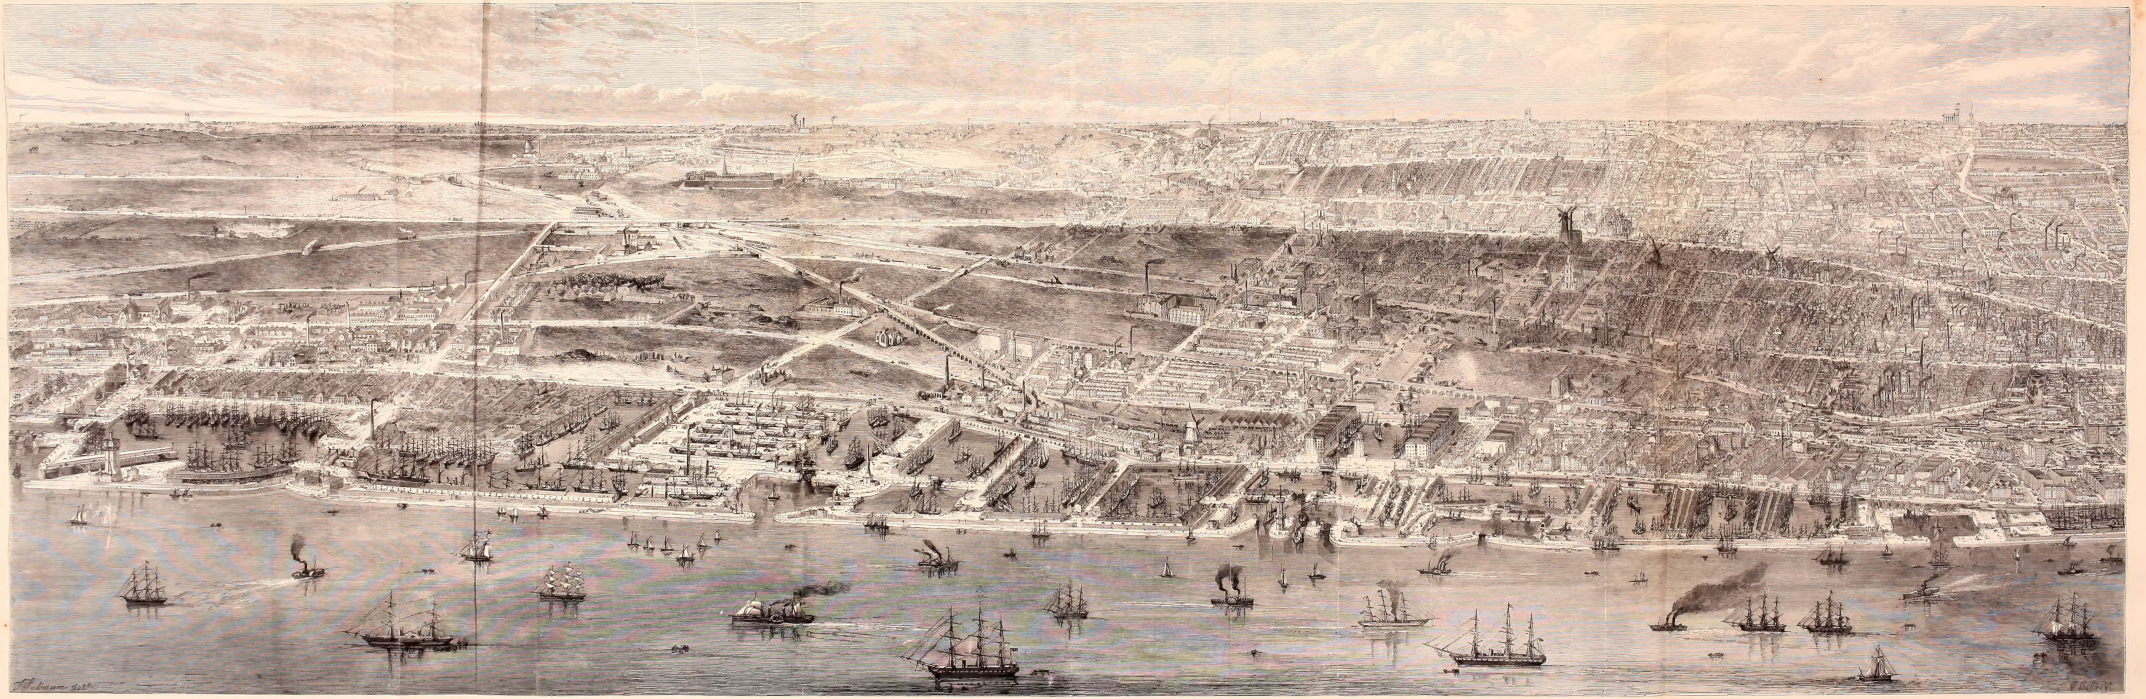
LADIES' UNDERCLOTHING of best make at moderate prices. A stock always on hand of Chemises, Nightdresses, Petticoats, Morning Robes, &c. Price-books by post. Address "Ladies' Department," WHITELOCK and SON, 166, Strand.

NEW FRENCH SILKS, in COLOURS and BLACK, at 2s. 6½d. the yard, made of bright Italian silk, with the guarantee for durability of eminent firms in Paris and Lyons. The Silk Department includes all the richest and most costly productions. Patterns sent free.—HARVEY and CO., Lambeth House, Westminster-bridge, S.

BONNETS.—MARKS and GAVELL returned from Paris with their elegant GUINEA BONNET, in Silk, Crape, French Straw, &c. Show-rooms (no shop), 61, Regent-street, four doors from Swan and Edgar's.

SHIRTS, SEASON 1865. A large variety of new Patterns in fancy Cashmere and Cambric Shirtings, made from the finest materials, adapted for Spring and Summer Shirts.—BOWRING, ARUNDEL, and CO., 11 and 50, Fenchurch-street, E.C.; 11, Old Bond-street, W., London.

SHIRTS.—Morning and Evening Shirts of every description, fitting with precision and ease, at moderate prices. Flannel Shirts and Dressing-gowns.
CAPPER and WATERS, 26, Regent-street, London, S.W.



LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1865.

LIVERPOOL.

From the River Mersey.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

NOS. 1312, 1313.—VOL. XLVI. SATURDAY, APRIL 29, 1865. TWO NUMBERS, COLOURED PICTURE, AND LARGE VIEW OF LIVERPOOL } TENPENCE

THE RUSSIAN EPIDEMIC.

It is hardly a month since alarm almost amounting to panic seized upon the educated classes of this country lest this huge metropolis should once more be smitten by that direst of scourges—the Oriental plague. Mysterious rumours had found their way hither from St. Petersburg to the effect that a fearful disease, generated no one knew exactly where or how, had slowly swept over the Ural Mountains, had committed frightful ravages in the villages through which it had passed, and was decimating the population of the Imperial city. Worse still, it was steadily pursuing a south-western course, and had already made its appearance, though in a somewhat mitigated form, in several districts of North Germany. People who could recollect the first invasion of the cholera ruefully fancied that the Black Death was advancing by nearly the same route, and inferred—not without plausible reason—that, before the sultry heat of summer should set in, the germs of pestilence would be deposited in our midst, destined, perhaps, to develop into a calamity too awful for contemplation.

THE BRIGHTON RAILWAY STATION ON THE SATURDAY NIGHT BEFORE THE VOLUNTEER REVIEW.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

When men are ushered unexpectedly into the presence of an appalling danger, conscience generally wakes up and marshals before them a throng of neglected duties. It did so in this case. We began to reckon seriously with ourselves as to the state of preparation we were in to meet the insidiously-approaching foe. We took some comfort in the thought that we had completed four-fifths of the magnificent work undertaken to prevent the pollution of the Thames, and that we had organised, in a rude and imperfect way, a system of sanitary inspection. But we also began to be feelingly conscious that we had been guilty of a sufficient number of sins of omission to invite severest penalties. What about the domiciles of the lowest classes of the population? Were they or were they not overcrowded? Was it or was it not true that the labouring poor of the metropolis were compelled to shelter themselves from the weather under conditions directly and flagrantly opposed to all the known laws which Nature has laid down for the preservation of health? Were there not extensive districts, the inhabitants of which pressed so closely one upon another, and knew so little of the commonest conveniences of social life, that their physical energies always remained below par, and thus provided fuel for any epidemic that might lay hold of them? Were there not thousands upon thousands in the slums of London who scarcely knew what it was to get a breath of pure air, and whose nights were passed in close, rotting, narrow chambers, surcharged with the miasma of their own respirations, and the very walls of which were crusted with a leprous poison? What had society done to see these myriads better housed? What effectual steps had been taken, or were in progress, to cleanse out these fever-breeding dens; to give light, air, water, where they were most needed; and to render it impossible for the greed of gain to prey upon and add to the miseries of the helpless? If we had not been wholly unmindful of our responsibility in these matters, and had even tried to touch the surface of the evil by legislation, had we not also aggravated what was bad enough before by allowing the poor to be edged out by all sorts of improvements, and by driving them from acres upon acres of space without concerning ourselves as to whither they could betake themselves? All these and numberless more disagreeable questions started up at the first thought of a possible revisitation of the plague, and extorted from us not a few candid and humiliating confessions.

More recently, however, we have learned that our first apprehensions were nearly groundless. Closer investigation of the Russian epidemic has proved that neither is it an unknown form of disease, nor has it any characteristic which will justify our identifying it with what was once known in this country as the Black Death. There is no connection between the sickness prevailing at St. Petersburg and the terrible malady which afflicts, and for more than twenty years has frequently afflicted, North Germany and the Lower Vistula. The reports of the medical gentlemen dispatched by her Majesty's Government for the purpose of reconnoitring the advancing enemy, ascertaining its true character, and observing its mode of treatment, are such as may at once and completely dissipate public alarm.

Two forms of fever prevail at St. Petersburg. Both of them are well known in this country. The one is the relapsing fever vulgarly called the "famine fever." Between the years 1846 and 1848 we had large experience of it, both in Liverpool and in Ireland, as one of the secondary consequences of the sudden and total failure of the potato crop. Whenever the relapsing fever becomes epidemic typhus co-exists with it. It did so in Liverpool in 1847—it does so now in St. Petersburg. This is the whole or nearly the whole substratum of fact upon which the apprehensions of our fellow-countrymen were raised. "The mixed epidemic," says the report, "wherever it occurs, testifies to the miserable state of a starving and overcrowded proletariat; and there seems reason to believe that if the St. Petersburg epidemic is of more than common severity, this is only in result of extremely aggravated conditions of privation, overcrowding, filth, and district unwholesomeness, operating on large masses of the lowest population." Of the two diseases, typhus is by far the more dangerous, and is fatal in seven or eight cases where relapsing fever is fatal in only one; but the latter is notably attended in Russia, where it is causing more than its usual proportion of deaths, with those inflammatory swellings which are known by the name of buboes. Hence, probably, originated the rumour that the disease which was creeping towards us was the Oriental plague. Both typhus and relapsing fever are infectious — the malady prevalent in North Germany is not, or if it be, it is so only in a very low degree, and our danger of importing the disease "is apparently nothing, or next to nothing." As to the risk we run in communicating with the metropolis of Russia, we are told that "it is only the same sort of danger as the several parts of the United Kingdom have often occasioned to one another, and are, even at the present time, as regards the worst known forms of fever, daily and abundantly occasioning."

Thus far, then, the facts may relieve us of anxiety. It is matter for thankfulness that they are not so alarming as they seemed to be when magnified by the haze of uncertain rumour. Possibly, typhus sweeps off every year as large a proportion of the population of England as would be destroyed by the plague, were it really to revisit us. But the plague terrifies the imagination beyond most known forms of disease. We shrink from anticipating what might be the effect of it should it ever again get a footing in London. The extent to which the fear of it would dissolve the coherence of society—the cruel isolation and abandonment of the sick—the general mistrust and suspicion—the relaxation of police vigilance—and the audacity of large numbers of the criminal class hardened into desperation by the awful proximity of death: these, the usual social and moral concomitants of the Black Death, are infinitely more to be dreaded than its ratio of fatality. But to these evils another would probably be superadded. It is not by any means certain that the appearance of that frightful pestilence in London would not, during its continuance, materially derange, if it did not entirely stop, the complex machinery of commerce, and act as a paralysis on the industry of the entire kingdom.

The real danger seems to be lest, with our release from all apprehension about the Russian epidemic, we should fall into our old state of comparative apathy in regard to the fever-nests which we have allowed to remain in our midst. We, too, like St. Petersburg, have a large proletariat, unwholesomely fed, frightfully over-crowded, barely vegetating in the centres of pollution into which it is driven by necessity, and presenting broad masses of susceptibility to epidemical diseases. We have had a salutary and merciful warning. It is to be hoped that it will not be dismissed with indifference because it has turned out to be only a warning. The whole question of the housing of the poor, especially in the metropolis, demands searching investigation, not for their sake only, but for the sake also of the rest of the community. A thoroughly competent Government Commission might at least collect, arrange, and publish all requisite information on the subject; and, when the full extent and danger of the mischief to be grappled with are authentically exposed, our very interests may engage us to devise remedial processes for diminishing it. Every year adds enormously to its pressure and tends to make it more unmanageable; and, if the fright occasioned by the Russian epidemic should turn public attention to the imperative necessity of getting our labouring poor more decently lodged, it will have effected a most beneficial revolution, and one in which all classes will find cause for gratitude.

THE VOLUNTEER REVIEW AT BRIGHTON.

The grand volunteer review and sham fight upon the Downs at Brighton, on Monday week, was described in our last Number. We now give a series of illustrations, which show some of the most picturesque and imposing movements of this very successful field-day. The Engraving on our front page represents the scene in front of the Brighton Railway station on the Saturday night before the review, when several entire London corps, besides many small parties of gentlemen belonging to other corps, had already arrived, so as to pass the Sunday by the seaside. They were met with cordial acclamations by a large assemblage of the townspeople of Brighton, and found, we believe, very comfortable lodgings in the various hotels and other houses open for the accommodation of visitors. The greater part, however, of the volunteer forces which took part in the military display of Easter Monday was conveyed from London to Brighton on the Monday morning, when there were eleven special trains from London Bridge, six from Victoria, two from Clapham Junction, and one from Kensington, between half-past five and nine o'clock. Each corps, having reached Brighton, marched to the inclosures near the Pavilion, where they all rested till half-past eleven, and then followed Major-General Sir R. Walpole to the review-ground near the racecourse, about two miles from the centre of the town. One of our Illustrations shows the appearance of the troops when thus mustered and beginning their march. At the flag-staff, directly opposite the Grand Stand of the racecourse, the General commanding, accompanied by the Earl of Chichester, Lord Lieutenant of Sussex, took up his position to witness the "march past." The total number of the officers and rank and file was 20,336, of whom 2957 were artillery and 300 cavalry. They were formed, as usual for the proceedings of a field-day, into two divisions; the first, under Major-General Russell, to play the part of the defence, and the second, under Major-General Rumley, to perform the attack in the sham fight which took place during the afternoon in Bevendean Valley. The general plan of the battle, as we observed last week, was that, under cover of a feigned attack on the right of the defending force, the attacking party extended their lines so far to the right as first to throw back and eventually to overlap the left wing of the defending army. The latter took up a new position, but only to find the original assault on its right wing renewed with increased vigour, so that, a general advance of the attacking force having commenced, the defenders retreated from the ground in the direction of Brighton. This explanation will be sufficient for two of the Views we have engraved. The remaining one is a View of Sheepcote Valley, in the vicinity of the scene of action, at the hour when subscription targets erected there for rifle and carbine shooting were beset with numerous competitors for the prizes for the best marksmen.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL INTELLIGENCE.

FRANCE.

In consequence of the death of the Czarewitch the Emperor's departure for Algiers is, it is stated, postponed to Monday next. The Czar arrived at Paris yesterday week (as stated in our town edition last week), and had a conference with the Emperor, after which his Russian Majesty proceeded to Nice, to see his dying son.

The Empress has accepted the title of patroness of the Central Society for the Protection of Shipwrecked Sailors, founded at Paris.

La France states that Count Walewski will be appointed President of the Corps Législatif.

On Sunday Mr. Bigelow had a public audience of the Emperor to present his credentials as Minister of the United States. His Excellency was afterwards received by the Empress.

The preparations for the opening of the annual exhibition of pictures in the Palais de l'Industrie are finished, and the Emperor inspected the works on Saturday.

On Monday afternoon a man went to the Russian Embassy, and, having obtained admission, stabbed the Secretary of the Legation, inflicting not less than five wounds. The murderer, who tried to escape, was arrested, but not till he had wounded two persons concerned in his capture. It is hoped that the Secretary will recover.

A confirmation was held yesterday week at the church of the Rue d'Aguesseau, Paris, when 130 young persons received the rite from the hands of the Bishop of Lincoln. His Lordship preached to crowded congregations on Sunday morning in the above church, and on Sunday afternoon in the Marbœuf Chapel.

The second Spring Meeting came off on Sunday, at the Bois de Boulogne. The Imperial party was represented at the stand-house by Princess Lucien Murat and her daughter, Princess Anna Murat.

The ball in favour of the British Charitable Fund of Paris, which took place on Tuesday week, at the Grand Hotel, was well attended by both English and foreign residents and visitors. The proceeds realised amounted to about £800.——Lady Cowley gave a splendid ball on Thursday week, at the British Embassy, the company comprising the Diplomatic Corps, several of the Ministers, members of the Privy Council, high functionaries, and the élite of the fashionable world, both Parisian and English.

The Minister of the Interior has issued a circular to the prefects, impressing on them the paramount necessity of a more frequent intercourse with the inhabitants of their respective departments and more frequent visits to the different towns. These instructions apply equally to the sub-prefects.

BELGIUM.

King Leopold, who returned to his own capital from London on Thursday week, fell ill upon arrival. An official bulletin, issued on Saturday by the Royal physicians, stated that his Majesty was suffering from a severe attack of bronchitis, accompanied by great physical prostration. According to latest accounts, his Majesty was mending.

ITALY.

The Senate has rejected the proposal for the complete abolition of capital punishment.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed, by a large majority, the bill relative to the suppression of religious corporations, and approved the bill for reducing the salaries of the prefects.

King Victor Emmanuel has appointed a commission especially charged to revise and unify the artistic and literary legislation of the kingdom of Italy. Count Manzoni, author of the "Promessi Sposi," is president. The commission comprises among its members the composer Verdi, who is a deputy in the Italian Parliament.

AMERICA.

MURDER OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN AND ATTEMPT ON THE LIFE OF MR. SEWARD.

The war news, important as it is, containing notice of the surrender of General Lee, pales before the painful interest of the intelligence brought by the Nova Scotia on Wednesday. President Lincoln has been shot dead in a theatre at Washington, and Mr. Seward stabbed, it is feared mortally, while lying on a sick bed. The murderer of Mr. Lincoln—Wilkes Booth, the brother of the well-known actor Edwin Booth, and himself an actor—has been arrested; but his accomplice, who made the attack on Mr. Seward, has for the time escaped. The whole of New York is draped in black, and there is general mourning throughout the country.

The following official telegram from Mr. Secretary Stanton has been received by the United States Legation in London:—

Sir,—It has become my distressing duty to announce to you that last night (the 14th inst.) his Excellency Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, was assassinated, about the hour of half-past ten o'clock, in his private box at Ford's Theatre, in the city (Washington.) The President, about eight o'clock, accompanied Mrs. Lincoln to the theatre. Another lady and gentleman were with them in the box. About half-past ten, during a pause in the performance, the assassin entered the box, the door of which was unguarded, hastily approached the President from behind, and discharged a pistol at his head. The bullet entered the back of his head, and penetrated nearly through. The assassin then leaped from the box upon the stage, brandishing a large knife or dagger, and exclaiming, "Sic semper tyrannis," and escaped in the rear of the theatre. Immediately upon the discharge the President fell to the floor insensible, and continued in that state until twenty minutes past seven o'clock this morning, when he breathed his last.

About the same time the murder was being committed at the theatre, another assassin presented himself at the door of Mr. Seward's residence, gained admission by representing he had a prescription from Mr. Seward's physician which he was directed to see administered, and hurried up to the third story chamber, where Mr. Seward was lying. He here discovered Mr. Frederick Seward, struck him over the head, inflicting several wounds, and fracturing the skull in two places, inflicting, it is feared, mortal wounds. He then rushed into the room where Mr. Seward was in bed, attended by a young daughter and a male nurse. The male attendant was stabbed through the lungs, and it is believed will die. The assassin then struck Mr. Seward with a knife or dagger twice in the throat and twice in the face, inflicting terrible wounds. By this time Major Seward, eldest son of the Secretary, and another attendant reached the room, and rushed to the rescue of the Secretary; they were also wounded in the conflict, and the assassin escaped. No artery or important blood vessel was severed by any of the wounds inflicted upon him, but he was for a long time insensible from the loss of blood. Some hope of his recovery is entertained.

Immediately upon the death of the President notice was given to Vice-President Johnson, who happened to be in the city, and upon whom the office of President now devolves. He will take the office and assume the functions of President to-day.

The murderer of the President has been discovered and evidence obtained that these horrible crimes were committed in execution of a conspiracy deliberately planned and set on foot by rebels under pretence of avenging the South and aiding the rebel cause; but it is hoped that the immediate perpetrators will be caught.

The feeling occasioned by these atrocious crimes is so great, sudden, and overwhelming, that I cannot at present do more than communicate them to you.

Yesterday morning (the 14th inst.) the President called a Cabinet meeting, at which General Grant was present. He was more cheerful and happy than I had ever seen him, rejoiced at the near prospect of firm and durable peace at home and abroad, manifested in a marked degree the kindness and humanity of his disposition and the tender and forgiving spirit that so eminently distinguished him. Public notice had been given that he and General Grant would be present at the theatre, and the opportunity of adding the Lieutenant-General to the number of victims to be murdered was, no doubt, seized for the fitting occasion of executing the plans that appear to have been in preparation for some weeks; but General Grant was compelled to be absent, and thus escaped the designs upon him.

It is needless for me to say anything in regard of the influence which this atrocious murder of the President may exercise upon the affairs of this country; but I will only add that, horrible as are the atrocities that have been resorted to by the enemies of the country, they are not likely in any degree to impair the public spirit or postpone the complete final overthrow of the rebellion. In profound grief for the events which it has become my duty to communicate to you, I have the honour to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Edwin M. Stanton.

In accordance with the requirements of the Constitution, Mr. Andrew Johnson, the Vice-President, was, on Saturday, sworn in as President. He said:—"The duties are at present mine—I shall perform them; the consequences are with God. Gentlemen, I shall lean upon you; I feel I shall need your support. I am deeply impressed with the solemnity of the occasion and the responsibility of the duties of the office I am assuming." Mr. Johnson appeared remarkably well, and his manner created a favourable impression. The new President has announced that he will make no changes in the Cabinet.

Mr. Hunter has been appointed acting Secretary of State during Mr. Seward's illness.

WAR NEWS.—SURRENDER OF GENERAL LEE.

The taking of Petersburg and Richmond was quickly followed by the surrender of General Lee. On the 9th inst. he yielded up his whole force (estimated at 25,000 men), to General Grant. The two Generals had been in communication from the 7th as to the terms. Grant pointed out that nothing but surrender was left. Lee, while not agreeing with this, thought it best to stop further effusion of blood, and asked for terms. The terms granted were generous. All officers and men were to go free, on parole not to take arms again until duly exchanged. The officers were to keep their side-arms and luggage; but all public property and munitions of war were to be handed over to the Federal authorities. Lee at once accepted the terms, and his army is disbanded.

The joy in the North was, naturally enough, very great. The thanks of the Government were telegraphed to General Grant, and salutes of guns were fired.

The Northern newspapers assert that Lee's troops had, for the most part, deserted him before his surrender. He will, it is said, do all in his power to promote peace.

Mr. Jefferson Davis may, perhaps, be of the same mind now; but on the 6th of April he issued a proclamation from Danville declaring that the war would be continued. To all appearance, he will have little support in such a course.

The Federal armies are closing in on Johnston's force, which is the only Confederate army east of the Mississippi. Johnston had evacuated Raleigh, and gone, it was said, to Greensborough. It is not likely, however, that he would be able to hold out there or anywhere else. The report of Federal successes in Alabama is confirmed, and the siege of Mobile is rapidly progressing. Lynchburg, so long the objective point of Federal armies, has surrendered to a scouting party.

President Lincoln, in a speech which he made at Washington, said that recent successes gave hopes of a righteous and speedy peace. Reconstruction would be fraught with great difficulties, which would be increased by any differences of opinion among loyal people. It was "immaterial whether the rebellious States were considered in or out of the Union;" and "all should join in the acts necessary to restore proper practical relations between the rebellious States and the Union." He added that the "adoption of an exclusive and inflexible plan for all the States would become one of entanglement."

The general tone of the Northern press is very conciliatory. The New York Times, however, recommends "the extreme sentence of the law" against Jefferson Davis. The Tribune, on the contrary, advises that the utmost moderation should be exercised towards the Southern leaders.

Several members of the Virginia Legislature, with the assent of the Federal authorities, who promised safe-conducts to the Governor and members of the State Legislature, had issued a summons for an extraordinary session to learn and consider the terms upon which Virginia may be received back into the Union.

President Lincoln had issued a proclamation closing all the Southern ports, with a few exceptions; and another threatening retaliation on the vessels of war of foreign nations if the restrictions on American war-ships consequent on the recognition of the Southern Confederacy as belligerents are not withdrawn.

Secretary Stanton, after consultation with Grant, has decided to stop all draughting and recruiting; to curtail all purchases of arms, ammunition, and supplies; to reduce the expenses of the military establishments and the number of general and staff officers to the actual necessities of the situation; and to remove all military restrictions.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

A Shanghai telegram, dated March 9, states that it was reported that Taeping had been captured. Hang-Chow and Ying-Chow had revolted against the Imperial Government.

From Japan the only news is that a port, spelt in the telegram Hiogo, had been opened for foreign trade.

COUNTRY NEWS.

The state apartments at Windsor Castle are open to the public, under the usual regulations.

The Lancaster Exhibition has been formally closed by the Mayor. It has been visited by upwards of 12,000 persons, exclusive of those admitted by railway ticket.

The Llewellyn memorial in Easton Church, Wilts, referred to in our last Number, consists of an altar-window, executed by Lavers and Barraud, as well as a marble tablet sculptured by W. T. Hale.

Mr. Adam, the newly-appointed Lord of the Treasury, was, on Thursday week, re-elected member of Parliament for the united counties of Clackmannan and Kinross. There was no opposition.

In the neighbourhood of Chelmsford, on Good Friday, a girl of sixteen was frightened out of her mind by some boys placing two snakes upon her. She is now raving mad in a lunatic asylum.

There is a remarkable peculiarity in the Scottish people, says the Registrar-General—their fondness for marrying on the last day of the year. There are more marriages in Scotland on that day than in any week of the year, except, of course, the week in which that day occurs.

At a private meeting held, yesterday week, in Salford Town-hall, the Mayor in the chair, it was resolved to erect a marble statue to Mr. Cobden in Peel Park—£750 were subscribed in the room; and at a public meeting held at Stockport, on Tuesday last, it was decided to erect a statue to the late Mr. Cobden in that town.

Sir C. B. Phipps has sent a letter to the corporate authorities of Belfast stating that "her Majesty is deeply gratified by the mark of respect which is proposed to be paid to the memory of the Prince Consort by its loyal citizens." They have raised funds to erect a splendid fountain and clock-tower in a conspicuous position in the town.

Earl Spencer gave a grand entertainment to his principal tenants, yesterday week, at Althorp Hall, Northamptonshire. The dinner took place in the noble picture-gallery. The Earl presided, and 110 of his Lordship's tenants were present. The band of the 4th Northampton Volunteer Rifle Corps attended and played on the lawn during the dinner.

A new railway between Chichester and Midhurst, to be eventually extended to Haslemere, and which promises to be of great local value, was begun to be constructed on Saturday on a spot about two miles from Midhurst, and Lord Henry Lennox, M.P. for Chichester, attended, and was assigned the honour of cutting the first turf. We intend to illustrate the ceremony next week.

Cock-fighting has its patrons in the country as well as in town. At a petty sessions of Cheshire magistrates, held on Monday, in Delamere Forest, two dozen officers, squires, and sportsmen of less degree, were summoned, at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for taking part in a cock-fighting match at the Peel Hall farm, near Tarvin, on the 28th ult. They all pleaded guilty to one of the charges made against them, and were fined sums varying from £5 to £2 10s.

The arrangements for the next triennial festival of the three choirs of Worcester, Hereford, and Gloucester have been made. The festival will be held this year at Gloucester, and the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th of September have been fixed for holding this meeting, which has now stood the test of over a century and a quarter, and has of late years increased immensely in popularity. Dr. Wesley, the recently-elected organist of Gloucester Cathedral, has been unanimously chosen by the stewards as conductor of the festival.

There is a strong probability of the immediate termination of the dispute in the Scotch iron trade. At a conference of the representatives of the masters and workmen, held at Glasgow on Monday, a compromise was agreed to—the reduction of wages being restricted to 6d. instead of 1s. per ton in the case of the puddlers, and 5 instead of 10 per cent in the case of the millmen. The workmen of the Glasgow district have ratified this compromise, and no serious opposition is anticipated in the other districts.

Miss Constance Emily Kent, who stands charged upon her own confession with having murdered her brother, Francis Saville Kent, at Road-hill House, on the 29th of June, 1860, was placed, on Wednesday, before the magistrates assembled in petty sessions at Trowbridge. The evidence taken at Bow-street was read. During the reading of her written confession of the murder, the firm composure which she had previously sustained broke down, and, sinking into the arms of Miss Green, the superior of the religious home at Brighton, where Miss Kent has been located for some time past, she wept bitterly for a considerable period. The prisoner was remanded for eight days, and was afterwards taken to Devizes gaol, where she will remain until the next examination, which will take place on Thursday next.

In the abstract given last week of the late Sir Charles Hopkinson's will it was stated that he had devised his real estates to H. W. Sotheby. We are requested by the executors to correct this error. The testator, we are assured, had no real estates, and none such are devised by his will. The amount of the legacy to Charing-cross Hospital is £50, not £500, as was stated.

The private view of the Royal Academy Exhibition took place yesterday. The banquet takes place to-day (Saturday). The hangers—Messrs. E. M. Ward, Millais, and E. O. Cooke—have finished their work more expeditiously than any of their predecessors for years. By the misconception of a correspondent, from whom we heard, at the moment of going to press last week, that some difficulty had occurred in regard to the exhibition of Mr. Frith's Royal marriage picture, we were unable to state positively in our list of the paintings that might be expected at the Royal Academy Exhibition that it would be there. We are glad to say it is in Trafalgar-square, in the place of honour it deserves.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The Duke of Buccleuch has fixed upon Wednesday, May 17, for the first conversazione of the Royal Horticultural Society.

The general meeting of the Athenæum Club will take place on Monday, May 8, when business of importance will be transacted.

A movement is on foot in the parish of St. Pancras for the erection of a memorial statue in that district to the late Mr. Cobden.

Shakspeare's birthday was celebrated on Saturday at the Dramatic College and by the Urban Club. At the Dramatic College, at Maybury (Mr. Webster, the Master, in the chair), a large company dined together, and some excellent speeches were made. The Urban Club (presided over by Mr. Herand) had a most genial gathering. Many literary men were present, and the speeches were widely removed in tone and character from usual after-dinner orations.

The annual meeting of the friends of the Aged Pilgrims' Friend Society was held in the London Tavern on Monday. In the treasurer's accounts it appeared that the receipts for the year had been £3348, and the expenditure £2738.——On Tuesday the anniversary festival of the British Orphan Asylum was held in the Freemasons' Tavern—Lord Enfield in the chair—when £2300 was subscribed.——On the same day the anniversary festival of St. Mark's Hospital was celebrated at the London Tavern. Donations to the amount of £700 were announced. Mr. Lane, the honorary surgeon, and Mr. Carter, the house surgeon, had respectively a clock and a gold chronometer presented to them by the patients of the hospital.——The annual court of the Orphan Working School, Haverstock-hill, was held in the London Tavern on Thursday week, to receive the reports (which were satisfactory) and to elect thirty-five children. The receipts last year were £9076, and the expenditure £8576.——The annual meeting of the members and friends of the Incorporated Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts was held on Thursday, at St. James's Hall — the Archbishop of York, one of the vice-presidents, in the chair. The society has been engaged for 164 years in endeavouring to plant the Church of England amongst our countrymen abroad and among the heathen. The British possessions abroad extend over a surface of 9,000,000 square miles, and are the seat of forty-four bishoprics. The meeting was addressed by the Bishop of Quebec (Canada), the Bishop of Grahamstown (South Africa), Sir R. J. Phillimore, Mr. T. D. Ackland, M.P., and other gentlemen, affirming the claims of the society to the support of Churchmen and pledging the meeting to renewed exertions in its behalf.

The general meeting of the London Art-Union was held, on Tuesday, in the New Theatre Royal Adelphi. Mr. Charles Hill, F.S.A., a member of the council, occupied the chair, in the absence of Lord Monteagle, the president. The gathering derived more than the usual interest from the presentation to each of the honorary secretaries—Mr. George Godwin and Mr. Lewis Pocock—of a testimonial, purchased by subscription amongst the members of the society. [An Engraving of the testimonial will be given in this Journal.] The report, which was of a very encouraging nature, detailed the past doings of the union and its plans for the future. The following are the highest prizes:—Entitled to select a work of art to the value of £200—Mr. W. H. Webb, Halifax, Nova Scotia. Entitled each to select a work of art of the value of £150—Miss F. Jenkinson, Blackpool; Mr. W. S. M'Mahon, 2nd Life Guards. Entitled each to select a work of art of the value of £100—Mr. George Dadds, Basingstoke; Mr. George Holdsworth, Clapham-road; Mr. John Hutton, Thirsk.

The births of 2134 children—1076 boys and 1058 girls—were registered in London last week. In the corresponding weeks of ten years 1855-64 the average number, corrected for increase of population, was 2055. The deaths in London in the same period were 1496. The average number for the sixteenth week in ten years (corrected) is 1332. Two hundred and ninety-four deaths were caused by zymotic diseases; eighty-nine children died from whooping-cough; sixty-five deaths occurred from typhus, thirteen from smallpox, twenty-nine from scarlatina, eight from diphtheria, and fifteen from measles. Three hundred and thirty-eight persons died from diseases of the respiratory organs (exclusive of phthisis), the corrected average number being 250. Bronchitis proved fatal to 190 persons, and 108 deaths occurred from pneumonia. Phthisis caused 181 deaths. One hundred and seventy-seven deaths from diseases of the brain and nervous system, and seventy from diseases of the heart, were recorded.——In the week that ended last Saturday the births in London and nine other large towns of the United Kingdom were 4048; the deaths, 2872. The annual rate of mortality in the week in those ten towns was 27 per 1000 persons living, the same rate that prevailed in the previous week.

LAW AND POLICE.—The Lord Chancellor gave judgment, on Saturday, upon an important question of international law. The case arose out of a contract between two persons who had jointly entered into one of those blockade-running speculations which have been so common during the civil war in America. One of the Bankruptcy Commissioners decided that this contract, which had reference to munitions of war for the Confederate States, was an offence against international law, and therefore not valid. This was the point which the Lord Chancellor had to decide on Saturday. His Lordship ruled that the Commissioner was wrong in law. Belligerents, he said, had no right to impose, or require the neutral Government to impose, restrictions on commerce. A belligerent had the power to seize a neutral ship carrying contraband of war; but beyond this international law did not go—the right to trade and the right to seize being coexistent. The Queen's proclamation had been appealed to; but that document, his Lordship remarked, merely declared that the provisions of the Foreign Enlistment Act would be enforced, and warned her Majesty's subjects against the consequences of seizure.

The case of Matthews, the cabman, was again before the Bankruptcy Court on Wednesday. He proposes to pay his creditors 5s. in the pound, which offer has been accepted.

The Road murder is recalled to public recollection most unexpectedly. At the Bow-street Police Court, on Tuesday, Miss Constance Kent, sister of the child who was murdered, gave herself up, and presented a written statement in which she declared that she alone committed the crime, and that no one aided her in evading detection. She has been for some time past in a religious house at Brighton. The Perpetual Curate of St. Paul's Church there received her confession of the crime and accompanied her to town to surrender herself. Sir Thomas Henry, the magistrate, persistently and kindly urged Miss Kent to consider thoroughly what she was doing; but she insisted that she was guilty. She was handed over to Inspector Williamson to be conveyed to Trowbridge, in the county where the offence was committed. It will be seen by our country news that Miss Kent was taken before the Trowbridge magistrate on Wednesday. Her affirmation runs thus:—"I, Constance Emilie Kent, alone and unaided, on the night of the 29th of June, 1860, murdered, at Road-hill House, Wiltshire, one Francis Saville Kent. Before the deed no one knew of my intention, nor after it of my guilt. No one assisted me in the crime, nor in the evasion of its discovery." Evidence of this sort, we would observe, is, and ought to be, received with much caution, and, unless backed by confirmatory evidence, is of little weight against the prisoner. We have only to glance over the police records to observe how frequent have been self-accusations of this kind—indeed, there was one in this very case—and how, almost invariably, it has turned out that there has been no foundation for them.

At the Thames Police Court, on Saturday, Inspector Dendy, at the request of the Commissioners of Police, desired Mr. Partridge to enter upon the police-sheet his reasons for discharging a prisoner when he decided upon adopting that course. The magistrate declined to do anything of the kind, and said that the general body of London magistrates had arrived at the same decision.

Between thirty and forty persons were placed before Mr. Knox, at the Marlborough-street Police Court, yesterday week, on a charge of being present at and assisting in a main of cock-fighting at a public-house, kept by Jemmy Shaw, in Windmill-street. Some information of the intended fighting had been conveyed to the Society for Preventing Cruelty to Animals; and their officers obtained admission to the cockpit by a stratagem, where they saw enough to bring the charges home to all the prisoners. No defence was attempted, and Mr. Knox fined them £5 each.

Some more of the property stolen from the shop of Mr. Walker, the jeweller, in Cornhill, was discovered on Saturday. While again searching the premises of Brewerton, one of the prisoners, Inspector Potter noticed that the back of a picture had been recently touched. He tore off a piece of paper, and found that it contained eight brilliants, of the value of about £100, as well as the goldwork of a pin. This makes about £2000 worth of property that has been recovered.

The Toronto Court has discharged all the St. Albans raiders except Lieutenant Young, who has been committed for trial.

General Kmety, the brave Hungarian officer who was associated with Sir Fenwick Williams in the memorable defence of Kars, died in London on Tuesday.

The parish church of Clent, near Stourbridge, having undergone enlargement—indeed, having been entirely rebuilt, with the exception of the tower and chancel, from the designs of Messrs. Kirk and Parry, and the number of sittings increased from 400 to 500—was reopened for public worship last week. The cost of restoration, which is not yet complete, is about £2500, of which the Vicar and his friends gave £250, and Lord Lyttelton, who has property in the parish and is a neighbour, £50. The church, lately a deplorable specimen of neglect, is now worthy of its purpose and of the lovely scenery in which it stands.

The parish church of Middleton Cheney, having been restored, was reopened on Wednesday week. The restorations have been made from the designs of Mr. G. G. Scott, at a cost of about £3000, of which sum £150 was contributed by Brasenose College; £600 by the Rector of the parish, the Rev. W. E. Buckley; and £600 by a voluntary church rate, the remainder being made up by contributions from various friends. The roof has been painted by Mr. Cottam, of Banbury, while a memorial window at the east end (the subject being All Saints), executed by Messrs. Morris, Marshall, and Faulkner, in memory of the late Mr. William Croome, completes the ornamental portion of the work. The Lord Bishop of Peterborough preached.

MUSIC.

The twenty-first season of the Musical Union began on Tuesday, with a matinée, at St. James's Hall, which was crowded with an audience composed, as usual, of the élite of our fashionable circles. The concert began with Haydn's symphony in G minor, op. 33, one of the most fresh and beautiful works, admirably played by Messrs. Joachim, Ries, Webb, and Piatti. Then followed Schumann's quintet in E flat, for the pianoforte and stringed instruments, of which the leading part was performed by Mdme. Clara Schumann, the accomplished and celebrated widow of the composer. It will be remembered that Mdme. Schumann paid her first visit to London a few years ago, when she was received with the honours due to her talents and reputation. She is now in the prime of life and the full maturity of her powers. The performance of her husband's chef-d'œuvre was a magnificent display of finished and brilliant execution, combined with exquisite taste and expression. Her reception, we need scarcely add, was enthusiastic. Beethoven's celebrated quartet in C major, the third of the famous "Rasoumoffski" set, was then played by the performers already mentioned, with an effect we have never heard surpassed. The concert concluded with several pianoforte solos of a light description, played by Mdme. Schumann with the utmost grace and delicacy. The Musical Union, we are gratified to learn, is, thanks to Mr. Ella's admirable management, in a highly flourishing condition. The subscription of this year is greater than it has been at any former period; and Mr. Ella has provided for the entertainment of the subscribers by engaging a succession of the most celebrated performers in Europe.

THE THEATRES.

The legitimate drama has resumed its place at Sadler's Wells, and Shakspeare's great historical drama of "King John" has been mounted in a meritorious manner. The cast is good and, in many respects, effective. Mr. Mead acts the Monarch with energy; while Mr. G. Melville supports the part of Falconbridge, Mr. H. Forrester that of Hubert, and Mr. Walter Joyce that of Philip, with remarkable and conscientious diligence and power. Miss Marriott was, of course, the Lady Constance, and gave great force to the mother's sorrows. Mr. Westland Marston's play of "Pure Gold" follows, and is well acted. A new burlesque, also, by Mr. Sheridan Brookes, on the subject of Fénélon's prose epic, and entitled "Calypso and Telemachus," was produced on Easter Monday. With a fair amount of puns and parodies, songs and dances, and a prettily-arranged ballet, the piece, as a stage spectacle, aided by some good scenery, is likely to prove successful.

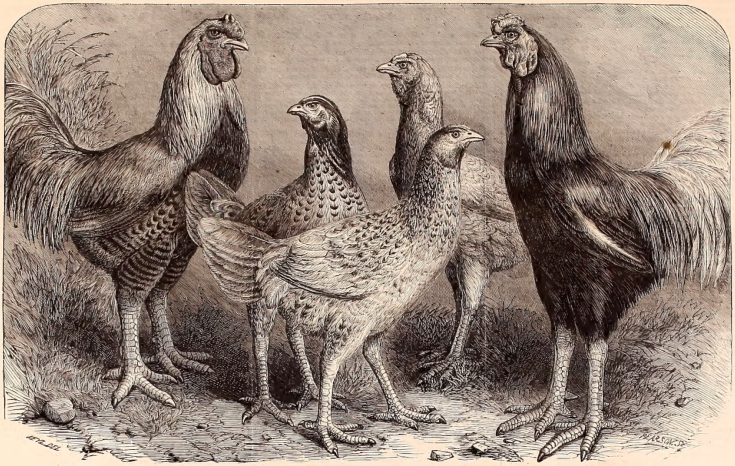
A new burlesque has also been produced at the Standard, entitled "The Brigand in a New Suit for Easter," written by Mr. John Douglass, jun. The subject is somewhat old, but it is treated with skill; and, with the dialogues well spoken and the songs well sung, the sport which it afforded was cordially accepted. Mr. Isaacson has provided for it some good music, and Mr. Richard Douglass has painted some excellent scenery. An Italian landscape, with the sun behind the mountains in the distance, is deserving of mention on account of its peculiar beauty.

The EASTER AMUSEMENTS at the different institutions are proceeding well. The Polytechnic has, as usual, distinguished itself. Mr. Pepper has added to the attractions a new and interesting lecture, on the subject of a pilgrimage to Mecca and Medinah, illustrated by sketches contributed by the intrepid traveller, Captain Richard Burton, who has superintended the arrangement of the scenes and views. But a still stronger attraction is provided in an entertainment called "Proteus; or, We are Here, but not Here," for which we are indebted to Mr. Tobin, in conjunction with the professor. The illusion is an extraordinary one. A structure is introduced, and, by a certain management of light, it appears empty when several persons are really in it. A succession of illusive phenomena, exciting the greatest surprise, is exhibited. The means adopted are yet a secret. Other exhibitions are made to follow, every one with its special interest, and all calculated to instruct as well as amuse. Mdme. Tussaud's exhibition continues to flourish, and the dresses appear as new as ever. Mr. and Mrs. German Reed, with Mr. John Parry, are still at the Royal Gallery of Illustration, and the "Peculiar Family" grows, as it deserves, in popularity. Mr. Arthur Sketchley, too, proceeds at the Egyptian Hall with "Paris Portrayed" and "Mrs. Brown at the Play," and commands numerous audiences. Tom Thumb and his suite are at the St. James's Hall. A new magician has also appeared, who now occupies Albert Smith's room at the Egyptian Hall. Colonel Stodare is an expert necromancer, and has had the apartment redecorated by Mr. Frederick Fenton. He claims attention for unassisted sleight of hand and also for ventriloquism. Some of his tricks are entirely new, and have been derived from Oriental sources. The C.C.C. Christy Minstrels are at the Polygraphic Hall, and are as amusing as ever.

The Viceroy of Egypt has given up his project of a visit to Paris—some say because the astrologers have pronounced against it.

The King of Prussia has issued a proclamation announcing that he intends to confer the Order of Louisa on all ladies who distinguished themselves during the war with Denmark by their efforts to ameliorate the lot of the soldiers engaged in the campaign, and by relieving the necessities of the widows and orphans of those who fell.

Latest advices from Port-de-France, in New Caledonia, mention the arrival there of an iron lighthouse, to be erected on Ahmet Island. The first stone of the foundation had already been laid. The lantern will be 176 ft. above high-water level, and will be visible from a distance of twenty-two miles. It will be the finest construction of the kind in the Pacific.



The Danish papers contain intelligence that the Government has resolved to hold an industrial and artistic exhibition at Copenhagen in 1866. A committee has been formed for the purpose, consisting of twenty-five members, presided over by the Crown Prince Frederick. The chairman of the Committee is Councillor Forchhammer. The exhibition is to be opened on June 1, 1866, in the riding-house of the Castle of Christiansborg, and will include raw stuffs as well as manufactured goods and objects of art.

The King of Italy has issued a decree enacting that all the colleges of the kingdom shall bear the name of some celebrated philosopher or writer of the locality in which they are situated, and that on the 17th of March of every year they shall celebrate a festival in honour of some illustrious man, to be annually fixed upon by the Provincial Council. The day itself is to be marked in the almanacks under the name of "Festival in commemoration of the illustrious writers and thinkers of Italy."

The launch of her Majesty's iron-clad frigate Bellerophon, 14, 1000-horse power, took place, on Wednesday, at Chatham Dockyard, in the presence of a large concourse of spectators. The Bellerophon has been but little more than twelve months building, the first plate having been lowered into the dock in which she was constructed in the beginning of the month of April of last year. She has been constructed from the designs and under the immediate superintendence of Mr. E. J. Reed, the Chief Constructor of the Navy. Her principal dimensions are—Length between the perpendiculars, 300 ft.: extreme breadth, 56 ft. 1 in.; burden, in tons, 4270 27-94ths; mean draught of water when laden, 23½ ft. The armour-plates are laid on a teak backing of 10 in. in thickness, the inner-skin of the vessel being formed of plates 1½-in. in thickness. It will thus be seen that the Bellerophon is covered with a total thickness of 7½ in. of iron. In the central armour-plated battery she will carry ten 300-pounder guns, additional guns being placed in her forward battery, to fire in a line with her battery, so as to enable her to adopt the "end on" system of fighting, now so much advocated. The stem is of the swan-shaped form, and projects beneath the water several feet, so as to enable the vessel to be used as a ram for running-down purposes. The whole of the decks are lofty, and are formed of iron plates, covered with the ordinary 4-in. planking, the main deck being plated throughout with steel. The engines and machinery are of 1000-horse power (nominal), but are capable of being worked up to 6000-horse power.

NEWLY-IMPORTED SPECIES OF INDIAN POULTRY.

THE remarkable birds shown in our Illustration are the Beegum Pilly Gaguzes, a species of poultry which Captain Hastings Fraser has brought from Central India, and which he intends to naturalise in Scotland. They do not, perhaps, look here to the best advantage, as the drawing from which this Engraving was made represents them just after they had suffered the debilitating effects of a long voyage. They arrived by way of Southampton. The larger cock, who stands 2 ft. 6 in. upright, is a noble bird; his thigh is so big that it can hardly be spanned with one hand; his eagle-like eye and mighty feet are also COCK. PULLETS FROM FOUR TO SIX MONTHS OLD. OLD HEN. YOUNG COCK UNDER TWO YEARS.

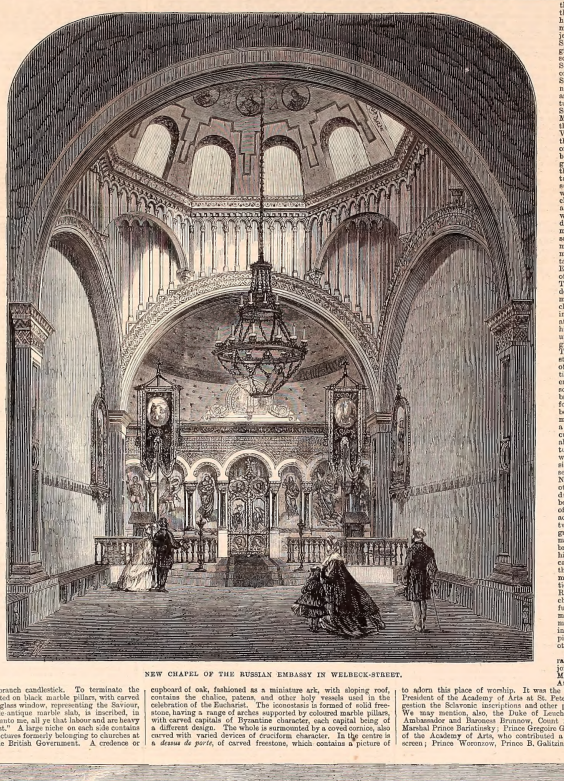
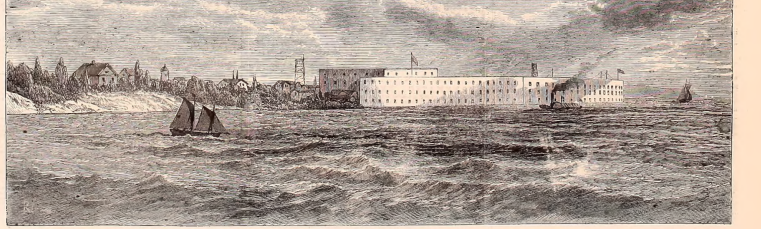
THE BEGUM PILLY GAGUZEE, A SPECIES OF INDIAN POULTRY LATELY IMPORTED INTO ENGLAND.

worthy of remark. The chickens, too, are of extraordinary size and character, though just now thin and scrubby. They are probably near relations of the Malay and Cuba fowl. We understand that, by the last mail, seventeen of these fowl left India, and, with the exception of three chickens, they all arrived safe and in good condition. The great recommendation of this species for breeding is the quantity of flesh which they carry, young birds seven and eight months old weighing as much as 8 lb. The Mohammedan Patans of India are very jealous of parting with their breed of poultry, but the native gentleman or petty chieftain, from whose family these birds take their name, presented a few of them to Captain Fraser, and that officer has brought them to England with the intention of crossing them with Dorkings.



THE ROYAL PENGUIN IN THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS, REGENT'S PARK.—SEE PAGE 405.



THE NEW CHAPEL OF THE RUSSIAN EMBASSY.

FOR several years past the religious services of the Russian Embassy had been conducted in a small room at No. 32, Welbeck-street; but a new and beautiful chapel has now been built on the same site. Its form is a parallelogram, 50 ft. in length, in the centre of which is a quadrangle of four bold piers, having moulded bases and ornamental caps. From these piers spring semi-circular arches, each 20 ft. in diameter, with scroll-work and other enrichments of a Byzantine character. From the corbels in the spandrils of these arches rise four smaller arches at a higher level, to cross the angles and bring the square figure into an octagon. The whole of this is subdivided into compartments by small pilasters, whose bases rest upon steps of progressive rise, and are terminated by moulded caps and archivolts, somewhat resembling the external ornamentation of the celebrated Baptistery of Asti. An enriched cornice surmounts this octagonal drum; and above it is a hemispherical cupola, 21 ft. in diameter, formed of wrought-iron ribs, covered with lead, and resting upon a stone base. The is divided into compartments, having twelve arched lunettes, 5 ft. high and 3 ft. wide, between which are discs to contain heads of the Apostles, on gold grounds. A gilt band encircles the upper part of the cupola, on which is inscribed, in Sclavonic characters:—"Turn Thee again, then God of hosts; look down from heaven; behold and visit this vine and the place of the vineyard which Thy right hand hath planted." At the east end is a semicircular apse, having a vaulted ceiling, painted azure and studded with gold stars, which are embossed on the surface, graduating and concentrating from the base upwards to the apex, where the monogram representing the name of Jehovah is placed. The fittings of the apse consist of the altar table, within the holy doors; the screen, or iconostasis, corresponding to the veil of the Temple; and, behind the altar, a triangular pedestal of oak, fitted with a bronze socket, to hold the seven-branch candlestick. To terminate the apse, a horseshoe arch, supported on black marble pillars, with carved capitals, contains a stained glass window, representing the Saviour, at whose feet, upon a verde-antique marble slab, is inscribed, in Greek characters:—"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." A large niche on each side contains tables and small enshrined pictures formerly belonging to churches at Bomarsund, presented by the British Government. A credence or cupboard of oak, fashioned as a miniature ark, with sloping roof, contains the chalice, paten, and other holy vessels used in the celebration of the Eucharist. The iconostasis is formed of solid fret-screen, having a range of arches supported by coloured marble pillars, with carved capitals of Byzantine character, each capital being of a different design. The whole is surmounted by a coved cornice, also carved with varied devices of cruciform character. In the centre is a deesis du parvis, of carved freestone, which contains a picture of the Last Supper, while the compartments below have pictures set in marble frames, the subjects consisting of "The Saviour" and "The Virgin" (copies on a reduced scale after Raphael), with St. George terminating one end of the screen and St. Basil the other. The north and south doors are decorated with pictures of the Archangels St. Gabriel and St. Michael. The whole of these are painted, by Mr. Varuchin, a member of the Imperial Academy of Arts at St. Petersburg, on frosted gold grounds, each having the nimbus of more transparent colour and surface. The holy doors, which are massive and elaborate both in design and execution, are of wood, carved and splendidly gilt, inlaid with metals of different hue, so as to relieve what might otherwise look monotonous. They contain small heads of the Evangelists and a picture of the Annunciation. The folding of these doors is peculiar, and managed so that, when closed, they appear as an impassable barrier, which at the proper time the high priest is able to unfold with ease, so as to give access to the altar. The base of the iconostasis has mosaic panels of marble and coloured tiles, and the sanctum is encompassed by a handsome dwarf railing, bronzed and gilt, with folding gates, the whole being capped with a gun-metal handrail, placed on a stone plinth, with circular steps leading to the altar. Two other pictures should be noticed, which are placed on the side wall, one representing St. Alexander Nevsky and the other St. Mary Magdalen; the latter figure bearing the alabaster box of precious ointment. In advance of all are placed two elegant barriers of graceful pattern and rich material, mounted on brass standards 16 ft. high, with crossleta carved and gilt; upon them are painted, in medallions, representations of the Baptism and Resurrection. The polychromy has been carefully studied in this matter, so as to produce much variety of tone, yet in harmony with the pictures, bronze, and other decorative forms.

Several persons of high rank and distinction joined the Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs in contributing to adorn this place of worship. It was the Grand Duchess Marie, President of the Academy of Arts at St. Petersburg, at whose suggestion the Sclavonic inscriptions and other parts were introduced. We may mention, also, the Duke of Leuchtenberg, the Russian Ambassador and Baroness Brunnow, Count A. Strogonow, Field-Marshal Prince Baratinsky, Prince Grégoire Gagarin, Vice-President of the Academy of Arts, who contributed a general idea for the screen; Prince Woronzow, Prince B. Galitzin, Count and Countess

NEW CHAPEL OF THE RUSSIAN EMBASSY IN WELBECK-STREET.

THE NEW FORT NEAR SANDY HOOK, AT THE ENTRANCE TO THE BAY OF NEW YORK.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

Orlow-Davidow, his Excellency D. Longuinow and Mdme. Longuinow, Mdme. Chertcow, Princess E. Kotchsubey, the Councillor of Embassy Sabourow, Prince Michel Gortchacow, Baron Frédericksz, Colonel N. Novitsky, Mr. A. Takovleff, and Mr. A. Prehn; besides some of the commercial notabilities of St. Petersburg and Moscow—such as, Messrs. Belaieff, Polėjaieff, Maliutin, Sorokosumovsky, the Russian Steam Navigation Company, and others. The whole work has been carried out under the superintendence of Mr. James Thomson, architect, except such pictures and decorations as have been presented from St. Petersburg by Mr. Gromoff.

THE NEW FORT AT SANDY HOOK IN THE BAY OF NEW YORK.

We present a View of the new fort lately erected at the entrance of the Bay of New York, near Sandy Hook. It is built with all the recent improvements, and is capable of mounting a very large number of guns. It completely commands the entrance, and would deal destruction to any vessels attempting to pass for warlike purposes. There is scarcely, perhaps, any city in the world better fortified than New York, for, independently of the fortifications, the navigation is most difficult for ships of large draught of water, so that it is doubly secured against invaders. Our Engraving is from a sketch by Dr. Henry J. Rogers, late in the medical service of the Federal army.

BIRTHS.

At Cobham Hall, Kent, the Countess of Darnley, of a son.

On the 23rd inst., at 10, Victoria-road, Kensington, London, the wife of James Farmer, Esq., of a daughter.

On the 20th inst., at 12, Osborne-terrace, Edinburgh, Mrs. Thomas Scott, of a daughter.

On the 23rd ult., at Pariaba, Brazil, the wife of Robert James Shalders, Esq., British Vice-Consul, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

At St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, George Brackenbury, Esq., her Majesty's Consul for the Philippine Islands, to Priscilla, daughter of the late Sir Henry Russell, Bart., of Swallowfield, Berks.

At Portsmouth, Donald Macleod Mackenzie, Esq., Captain R.N., son of the late Sir George S. Mackenzie, Bart., of Cowl, Ross-shire, to Dorothea, daughter of Admiral Sir Michael Seymour, G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth.

At Gresford, Lucy Mary, sister of Sir Robert A. Cunliffe, Bart., to the Rev. F. Furse Vidal, of Clewer, Windsor.

At Rochampton, George Henry Fitzroy, Esq., son of the late Sir Charles and Lady Mary Fitzroy, to Eugenia Susannah, daughter of D. B. Chapman, Esq., of Rochampton.

At St. Peter's, Eaton-square, Charles William, son of the Right Hon. Sir Thomas F. Fremantle, Bart, of Swanbourne, Bucks, to Sophia, daughter of the late A. Smith, Esq., of Woodhall Park, Herts.

At St. George's, Hanover-square, Edwofd Birkbeck, Esq., of Nutfield, Surrey, to Mary Augusta, daughter of the Right Hon. Sir William G. Hylton Joliffe, Bart., M.P.

At Glasgow, Joseph Bell, Esq., M.D., F.R.C.S., lecturer on surgery, Edinburgh, to Edith Katharine, daughter of the late Hon. James Erskine Murray.

At St. James's, Piccadilly, W. H. Fife, Esq., son of Sir John Fife, to Caroline Jane, daughter of the late Sir Thomas D. Legard, Bart., of Ganton, Yorkshire.

At St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, the Hon. Robert H. Meade, son of the Earl of Clanwilliam, to Lady Mary E. Lascelles, daughter of the late Earl of Harewood.

On the 25th inst., by the Rev. John Stansfeld, Incumbent of Coniston-Cold, assisted by the Rev. Beedam Charlesworth, late Vicar of Darfield, at the Church of the Ascension, Settle, Yorkshire, Charles H. Charlesworth, Esq., of Stackhouse, Settle, only son of Thomas Charlesworth, Esq., of Leeds, to Sarah Georgina, youngest daughter of George Stansfeld, Esq., of Ashfield, Settle.

DEATHS.

On the 17th inst., at Eton-place, Plymouth, Maria, wife of William May, Esq., late of Botus Fleming, Cornwall, in her 69th year.

On the 23rd inst., at the residence of his father, and in his 43rd year, Ralph Leigh Clare, Esq., of Claughton Range, Birkenhead, second son of William Clare, Esq., of Fairfield, Liverpool.

At Brighton, Colonel Sir W. A. Maxwell, Bart., of Calderwood Castle, Lanarkshire, N.B.

At Woodbridge, Guildford, Admiral Sir J. Stirling, Kt., in his 75th year.

At Clifton, Lady Lacon, relict of Sir E. K. Lacon, Bart., Ormesby House, Norfolk, aged 79.

* The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.*

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 6.

SUNDAY, April 30.—Second Sunday after Easter. Death of James Montgomery, poet, 1854; and of Sir Henry Bishop, musical composer, 1855.

MONDAY, May 1.—St. Philip and St. James the Less, Apostles. Birth of Arthur, Duke of Wellington, 1769; and of Prince Arthur, 1850. Opening of the two great International Exhibitions, London, 1851 and 1862.

TUESDAY, 2.—St. Athanasius, 373. Death of Leonardo da Vinci, 1520. The "stately cross" in Cheapside destroyed by order of the Parliament, 1643. Moon's first quarter 4h. 4m. p.m.

WEDNESDAY, 3.—Invention of the Holy Cross (by the Empress St. Helena), 326. Dean Swift, by his will, endows St. Patrick's Hospital for Lunatics, 1740.

THURSDAY, 4.—Death of Isaac Barrow, theologian and philosopher, 1677; of Sir Robert Kerr Porter, artist and traveller, 1842.

FRIDAY, 5.—Opening of the bazaar at Covent-garden Theatre for the benefit of the Anti-Corn Law League, 1845. Opening of the Fine-Arts Exhibition at Manchester, 1857. Death of Charles Robert Leslie, painter, 1859.

SATURDAY, 6.—St. John the Evangelist ante portam Latinam. The Constable de Bourbon captures Rome and is slain, 1527.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE
FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 6.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
5 8	5 30	5 53	6 18	6 11	7 11	7 42	8 16	8 53	9 29	10 3	10 38	11 13	11 43

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	Daily Means of: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Thermometer: Minimum, read at 10 a.m.	Maximum, read at 10 A.M.	Wind: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	Inches
April 19	30·141	51·4	49·7	·94	10	48·0	60·8	NE. N.	276	·015
20	30·169	52·9	46·9	·82	3	44·2	64·1	ENE. NNE.	305	·050
21	30·098	58·0	48·3	·72	1	43·1	71·7	NNE. ENE. ESE.	295	·000
22	30·107	61·8	36·1	·42	0	44·9	73·7	NE. E.	228	·000
23	..	..	..	..	..	41·3	73·7	..	226	·000
24	30·223	56·7	44·7	·66	0	40·1	69·0	NE. NNE. E.	254	·000
25	30·178	54·1	38·1	·47	4	36·2	66·3	NNE. NNW.	132	·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected	30·174	30·184	30·152	30·130	30·206	30·272	30·232
Temperature of Air	50·8°	48·5°	53·3°	58·3°	51·8°	50·8°	46·8°
Temperature of Evaporation	49·7°	47·0°	49·2°	52·8°	50·2°	47·3°	41·1°
Direction of Wind	NE.	ENE.	NNE.	NE.	NNE.	NE.	CALM

INTERNATIONAL REFORMATORY EXHIBITION of the PRODUCTS of INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS, Reformatories, Refuges, &c., at home and abroad.

The EXHIBITION will be held at the AGRICULTURAL HALL, ISLINGTON, and will be open to the public for one week, from FRIDAY, the 19th, to THURSDAY, the 25th of MAY.

The Institutions of the following countries will take part in the Exhibition:—

England.	Belgium.	Italy.	Saxony.
Scotland.	Canada.	Malta.	Switzerland.
Ireland.	Egypt.	Netherlands.	United States.
Austria.	France.	Portugal.	Wirtemberg.
Baden.	Hanover.	Prussia.	&c., &c.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS the PRINCE of WALES will OPEN the INTERNATIONAL REFORMATORY EXHIBITION at the AGRICULTURAL HALL, Islington; at a Public Ceremonial, on FRIDAY, the 19th of MAY, at 3 o'clock.

Tickets, 5s. each; Numbered Stalls (with right of admission to the Exhibition throughout the week), 10s. 6d. May be had at the usual agents; at the Hall; and at the Office, 29, Suffolk-street, Pall-mall East.

DRURY LANE THEATRE.—Triumphant and Unprecedented Success of the production of Milton's Mask of COMUS (vide Public Press).—On MONDAY, MAY 1, Tuesday, May 2, and Saturday, May 6, will be performed Macklin's Comedy of THE MAN OF THE WORLD—Sir Pertinax Macsycophant, Mr. Phelps. On Wednesday, May 3, Thursday, May 4, and Friday, May 5, will be produced a new and original Play, in Five Acts, by Edmund Falconer, entitled LOVE'S ORDEAL; or, The Old and New Regime.—Principal Characters by Messrs. Walter Lacy, E. Phelps, Edmund Falconer, H. Sinclair, A. Raynor, G. Belmore, Fitzjames, Mrs. Herman Vezin, Mrs. H. Vandenhoff, Miss R. Leclercq, and Miss C. Weston; concluding with, each Evening, Milton's Mask of COMUS. The Scenical and Spectacular Effects designed and painted by Mr. William Beverley. The General Action of the Mask directed by Mr. Robert Roxby. The Cast of the Characters includes some of the principal members of the Company—to wit, Mr. Walter Lacy and Mrs. Herman Vezin. To give due effect to the Lyrical and Musical portions of the Mask, engagements have been formed with Mr. Wilbye Cooper, Mr. Henri Drayton, Miss Poole, and Miss Augusta Thomson, who are supported by a Choir of Fifty Voices and an Increased Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Barnard. Harp Accompaniments arranged and performed by Mr. Frederick Chatterton. The Masks and Decorative Furniture and Symbols designed from classical authorities by Mr. R. W. Keene. The Bacchanalian Dances and Rêvel Rout arranged and directed by Mr. Cormack. Doors open at Half-past Six; performances commence at Seven. Box Office open from Ten till Five daily.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Mr. Sothern, on MONDAY, MAY 1, and during the Week, in the New Sensation, THE WOMAN IN MAUVE, and LORD DUNDREARY MARRIED AND DONE FOR—Dundreary, Mr. Sothern. Mr. Buckstone as Mary Ann Beetles and Asa Trenchard. Commencing, at Seven, with MY WIFE'S MOTHER—Mr. W. Farren, Mr. Chippendale, Miss Nelly Moore, Miss Snowdon, Miss F. Wright, &c.; after which, at Eight, THE WOMAN IN MAUVE; followed by LORD DUNDREARY; concluding with EASY SHAVING—Miss Louise Keeley.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Under the Sole Management of Mr. FECHTER.—On MONDAY and During the Week, at Half-past Eight o'Clock, THE MOUNTEBANK—Belphegor (the Mountebank), Mr. Fechter; Paul (his son), Master Fechter; supported by Messrs. H. Widdicomb, Ryder, Emery, Fitzpatrick, E. Garden, C. Horsman, Raymond, Moreland; Miss C. Leclerq, Mrs. C. Horsman, and Mdlle. Beatrice. Doors open at Half-past Six o'Clock. Box-office open daily from Eleven till Five. Commence at Seven.

BLONDIN, on MAY DAY ONLY

CRYSTAL PALACE.—MONDAY NEXT, 1st of MAY. MONS. BLONDIN being a out to depart at once for Russia, it has been arranged that he shall take a BENEFIT at the Crystal Palace, on MON DAY NEXT, when it is anticipated, from his severe monetary losses, great public sympathy will be shown toward him.—Admission, One Shilling only.

BLONDIN'S PERFORMANCES on MONDAY will include all his great feats. The Long Rope will be fixed at a moderate height in the Great Transept so that all may witness this performance with ease. Come early. Open at Nine. M. Blondin at Four.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—The New-Season Programme presents unparalleled Attractions, even for the Crystal Palace. The Season Ticket, at the uniform Guinea rate, should be had by everyone. Nowhere such combined Attractions. It will admit THIS DAY (Saturday) to the Great Concert of Beethoven's Choral Symphony. On Monday, Blondin's Benefit. Come early. On Saturday, the First of the Ten Opera Concerts.

GREAT HANDEL FESTIVAL.—FULL REHEARSAL, FRIDAY, 23rd of JUNE. Five-Shilling Stall Tickets. Five-Shilling Admission Tickets. Immediate application requisite. After the issue of the first few thousands the price of the latter will be 7s. 6d. On the day, by payment, 10s. 6d. At the Crystal Palace; and at 2, Exeter Hall.

MR. and Mrs. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will appear in their NEW ENTERTAINMENT Every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight. Wednesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three. ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street. A New Opera di Camera every Tuesday and Thursday at Three. Saturday at Eight.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—Conductor, Professor Sterndale Bennett.—THIRD CONCERT MONDAY EVENING, MAY 1, at Eight o'Clock. MS. Symphony by Dr. Sterndale Bennett, composed expressly for the Philharmonic Society; Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony; Mendelssohn's Overture to "Ruy Blas;" Mozart's Pianoforte Concerto in D Minor. Pianist, Mr. C. Hallé. Vocalists Mdlle. Sinico and Mdlle. Edenstea. CAMPBELL CLARKE, Sec., 24, Lincoln's-inn-fields, W.C.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL. MORNING PERFORMANCES on SATURDAYS, May 13 and 27, to commence at 3 and finish at 5. On SATURDAY, MAY 13, the Programme will include Beethoven's celebrated Quintet in C, for stringed instruments; Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, for pianoforte alone; Mozart's Quartet in G minor, for piano and stringed instruments. Pianoforte, Mr. Charles Hallé; Violin, Herr Joachim; Violoncello, Signor Piatti. Vocalist, Miss Banks. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Sofa Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets and Programmes at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street; Cramer and Co.'s; Keith, Prowse, and Co.'s; and at Austin's, 28, Piccadilly.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL. On MONDAY EVENING NEXT, May 1, the programme will include Mozart's Quartet in D minor, for stringed instruments; Beethoven's Trio in E flat, Op. 70, for piano, violin, and violoncello; Beethoven's Sonata in E minor, Op. 90, for pianoforte alone, &c. Violin, Herr Joachim; Violoncello, Signor Piatti; Pianoforte, Mr. Chas. Hallé. Vocalist, Miss Edith Wynne. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Programmes and Tickets at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

A BAZAAR in aid of the FUNDS for REBUILDING WESTMINSTER CHAPEL (the Rev. Samuel Martin, pastor) will be held in WILLIS'S ROOMS, KING-STREET, ST. JAMES'S, on SATURDAY, MONDAY, and TUESDAY, MAY 13, 15, and 16. Contributions of Articles for Sale will be thankfully received by the Secretaries, Mrs. Martin, 5, Eccleston-terrace South; and Mrs. Taylor, 14, Chichester-street, S.W. Tickets may be had of Messrs. Jackson, Walford, and Hodder, 27, Paternoster-row; Mr. Poulton, 352, Strand; Mr. Binge, 23, Stockbridge-terrace; Mr. Hughes, 12, King-street, St. James's; Mr. Jenner, 33, St. James's-street; Mr. Stanesby, 179, Sloane-street; Mr. Emmens, 14, Ebury-street; Mr. Collard, 96, St. Martin's-lane; Mr. Laws, 9, Queen's-row; Miss Wilson, 8, Warwick-street; or of any members of the Committee.

SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.—The SIXTY-FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION IS NOW OPEN, at their Gallery, 5, PALL-MALL EAST (close to the National Gallery), from Nine till Dusk. Admittance, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. GEORGE A. FRIPP, Secretary.

ROYAL BOTANIC SOCIETY, REGENT'S PARK. EXHIBITIONS of PLANTS, FLOWERS, and FRUIT, WEDNESDAYS, MAY 24, JUNE 14, and JULY 5; AMERICAN PLANTS, MONDAYS, JUNE 5 and 12. Tickets to be obtained at the Gardens, on vouchers from Fellows of the Society, price, on or before Saturday, May 13, 4s.; after that day, 5s.; or, on the exhibition days, 7s. 6d., each.

MR. DEACON begs to announce the FIRST of THREE MATINEES of CLASSICAL MUSIC, to take place at the QUEEN'S CONCERT-ROOM, HANOVER-SQUARE, on THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 4, to commence at Three o'Clock. Executants—Violin, Monsieur Sainton and Herr Pollitzer; Viola, Mr. H. Webb and Mr. Clementi; Violoncello, Signor Pezze; Contrabasso, Mr. Charles Severn; Pianoforte, Mr. Deacon. Vocalist, Mdlle. Enequist. Tickets (reserved and numbered) for the series, One Guinea; to admit three to a single matinée, One Guinea; Single Ticket, Half-a-Guinea. To be had of Messrs. Ollivier and Co., 19, Old Bond-street; the principal Music-sellers; at the room; and of Mr. Deacon, 10, Wimpole-street, Cavendish-square.

WILL SHORTLY CLOSE.—ST. JAMES'S HALL, Piccadilly.—General TOM THUMB and his Little Party will remain in London but for a short time longer. Those, therefore, desirous of witnessing the entertainments given by the little group had better embrace this their present opportunity. THREE GRAND ENTERTAINMENTS DAILY, at Eleven, Three, and Half-past Seven. Admission, Day entertainments, 1s., 2s., and 3s.; Evening, 1s. Children under ten half price to all parts of the house; a few reserved seats, 2s.

APTOMMAS'S RECITALS, at the CONSERVATOIRE DE LA HARPE (76, Harley-street, Cavendish-square), on the Evenings of TUESDAYS, May 9 and 23, and June 6. Prospectuses of the Conservatoire, &c. (with Terms of Instruction), may be obtained on application.

EXETER HALL.—Miss Louisa Pyne (her first appearance after her recent indisposition), Mr. Santley.—Last Performance of THE CREATION this Season. National Choral Society. Conductor, Mr. G. W. Martin. MONDAY NEXT, MAY 1. Commence at Eight. Organist, Mr. John G. Boardman. Band and Chorus, 700. Tickets, 3s.; Stalls (numbered and reserved the whole evening), 5s.; 10s. 6d.; 21s. 14, 15, Exeter Hall.

PANORAMIC VIEW of ST. JOHN'S, NEW BRUNSWICK, from a photograph by Messrs. Bowron and Cox, of St. John's.—DAY and SON (Limited), Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London, W.C. (late Day and Son, Lithographers to the Queen), beg to announce that the above View is in progress, and will be shortly issued, price £1 1s.

SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE SOCIETY. "They will not fail to take an interest in so excellent and useful a society."—Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales.

"The diffusion of its principles will prove the moral specific for our age."—The Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, M.P.

"The rival of none, the auxiliary of all.—Sir H. M. Cairns, M.P.

The ANNUAL MEETING will be held in EXETER HALL on WEDNESDAY EVENING, MAY 3. Addresses will be given on Systematic Beneficence.

Sir Francis Crossley, Bart., M.P., will take the Chair at Seven o'Clock. Rev. Robert Maguire, M.A.; Thomas Barnes, Esq., M.P.; Rev. Newman Hall, LL.B.; Rev. William Arthur, M.A.; Mason Jones, Esq.; Rev. Charles Vince and Rev. R. W. Dale, M.A., of Birmingham; Hon. Alex. Macarthur; Rev. David King, LL.D.; Rev. Ebenezer E. Jenkins, M.A.; Francis Lycett, Esq.; and other Gentlemen will take part in the proceedings.

Tickets of admission at Exeter Hall, the Illustrated London News Office, and at 7, Adam-street, Adelphi.

THE LARGE VIEW of LIVERPOOL can be HANDSOMELY MOUNTED at the following low prices:—

On Canvas, Varnished, with Rollers .. .. 3s.
*On Canvas, Varnished, no Rollers .. .. 2s.
*On Canvas, to fold into a Book Cover .. .. 2s.
*To fold without Canvas in a Cover .. .. 1s.

By EDMUND DAW, Map Mounter, 114, Fetter-lane, E.C. Established twenty years. Maps to be sent, or the price of Map.
* These can be sent through the post for 4d.

THE ROYAL SOCIETY of MUSICIANS of GREAT BRITAIN (Instituted in 1738; incorporated by Royal Charter, 1790), for the Maintenance of Aged and Indigent Musicians, their Widows and Orphans. Patroness—Her Most Gracious Majesty the QUEEN.—The ANNUAL PERFORMANCE of Handel's MESSIAH will take place, at ST. JAMES'S HALL, on FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 5. Principal Vocalists—Miss Louisa Pyne, Miss Eliza Hughes, Mdme. Berger Lascelles, Mdme. Sainton-Dolby; Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. Lewis Thomas, Mr. Wallworth, Mr. Weiss. Principal violin—Mr. J. T. Willy. Trumpet obbligato—Mr. T. Harper—Organist—Mr. E. J. Hopkins. Conductor—Professor Sterndale Bennett, Mus. D. Stalls, area or balcony, 10s. 6d.; Balcony, 5s.; Area and Gallery, 5s.; at the principal Music-sellers'; and Austin's Ticket-office, St. James's Hall.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS. The Thirty-first Annual Exhibition IS NOW OPEN, at their GALLERY, 53, PALL-MALL (near St. James's Palace). Daily from Nine till Dusk. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. JAMES FAHEY, Sec.

THURTON'S "ODD FOLKS," with a New Piece of Extravagance, termed "GOING TO COURT," and Portraits of Reuben Plant and Jonathan Horn, and other Novelties, at PONTY-POOL, MONDAY, MAY 1st; Pross, 2nd (return visit); Leominster, 3rd; Ludlow 4th; Shrewsbury, 5th (return visit). Manager, Mr. J. Morfey.

HYDE PARK in 1864, by HENRY BARRAUD, Esq., containing 290 Portraits of the Frequenters of Rotten-row, now ON VIEW, at 230, Regent-street (opposite Hanover-street). Admission 1s. Open from Ten till Dusk.

REMOVAL.—The large Picture, A DRAWINGROOM AT ST. JAMES'S PALACE IN THE REIGN OF QUEEN VICTORIA, painted by JERRY BARRETT, will be ON VIEW at Mr. HOGARTH'S, 5, HAYMARKET, on and after MONDAY, MAY 1. Admission, 1s. Invitation cards issued before the Picture's removal are available. Hours from Eleven till Six.

TO LADIES.—FRIZZETTES ON COMBS, for dressing the CHIGNON, or Back Bow, with Instructions, 2s., 2s. 6d., and 3s.; Covered, 7s. and 10s. SIDE FRIZZETTES, ON COMBS, for dressing the Small Rolls, 2s., 2s. 6d., 3s., and 3s. 6d. per pair; Covered, 5s. 6d. and 6s. 6d. Forwarded free on receipt of amount in stamps and colour of hair.—W. WALKER, Court Hairdresser, 86, Camden-road, N.W.

MAY MEETINGS.—Clergymen, Authors, and large consumers of Writing and Scribbling Papers supplied in large or small quantities at the wholesale price, at PARKINS and GOTTO'S Writing Paper and Envelope Warehouse, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London.

TO LOVERS OF MUSIC.—The choicest Stock of Musical Boxes in London, by Stauffer, at £1 per air; Snuffboxes, 7s. per tune.—At T. W. NEILSON'S, 233, Strand (four doors west of Temple Bar).

ALLSOPP'S PALE ALE.—The MARCH BREWINGS of the above ALE are now being supplied, in the finest condition, in bottles and in casks, by FINDLATER, MACKIE, and CO., 33, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY V. COGNAC BRANDY.—This celebrated old Irish Whisky rivals the finest French Brandy. It is pure, mild, mellow, delicious, and very wholesome. Sold in bottles, 3s. 8d., at the retail houses in London; by the agents in the principal towns in England; or wholesale at 8, Great Windmill-street, London, W.—Observe the red seal, pink label, and cork branded "Kinahan's LL Whisky."

PEPSINE.—MORSON'S PEPSINE WINE, Morson's Pepsine Lozenges, are perfectly palatable forms for administering this popular remedy for weak digestion. Manufactured by T. Morson and Son, 31, 33, and 124, Southampton-row, Russell-square, London, W.C. Pepsine Wine, in bottles, at 3s., 5s., and 10s. each; lozenges, in boxes, at 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. each.

WENHAM LAKE ICE delivered in Town or packed for the Country. REFRIGERATORS or ICE-SAFES from £3 10s. each. Ice-cream Machines, Saltzogenes, Freezing Powders, and everything connected with freezing, of the best, cheapest, most modern, and reliable character. Illustrated Catalogues by post free. The Company having no agents, its goods can be obtained only at the sole Office, WENHAM LAKE ICE COMPANY, 140, STRAND, W.C.

LINCOLN ASSASSINATED.—His CARTE DE VISITE, post-free, 12 stamps.—STEREOSCOPIC COMPANY, 54, Cheapside; 110, Regent-street.

RECOLLECTIONS OF BURNS. A New Pianoforte Fantasia, introducing Favourite Scottish Airs from the famous "Nichts wi' Burns." By EDWARD LAND. Free for 24 stamps from Messrs. ADDISON and LUCAS, 210, Regent-street, London.

WEST LONDON INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION, FLORAL HALL, COVENT GARDEN—To be OPENED on MONDAY NEXT, May 1, by the Right Hon. W. F. COWPER, M.P.; Chief Commissioner of Works. GRAND CONCERT of 600 Performers. Doors open at 2, chair taken at 3 o'clock. Admission 2s. 6d.; reserved seats, 2s. 6d.; from 7 till 10, One Shilling. J. A. NICHOLAY, Chairman of Committee. R. M. MORRELL, Secretary.

PICTURE FRAMES for "HAPPINESS," given with this Paper. Handsome gilt frame, glass and back, 2s.; maple and gilt, 3s.; ornamented, gold oval fame, 5s.—At GEO. REES, 57, Drury-lane; and 34, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PRINTER.—The people's printing press, price 25s. to £4 4s., for letterpress, copperplate, or lithographic printing. "Art of Printing," "Art of Lithography," 1s., or 13 stamps each.—D. G. BERRI, Engraver and Stampmaker to her Majesty's Post Office, 36, High Holborn, London, W.C.

THE DERBY.—"The best and cheapest Race-Glass is the newly-constructed one manufactured by Callaghan." Price, including sling case, 50s. Post-office orders have immediate attention.—WM. CALLAGHAN, Optician, 23A, New Bond-street, W. (corner of Conduit-street).

LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE. Established 25 years. For Family Arms send name and county. Sketch, 3s. 6d., or stamps. Arms painted and quartered and engraved on Seals, Rings, Dies, &c. Monograms designed. Pedigrees of Families, 21s.—PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, London, W.C.—Manual of Heraldry, 3s.

CORPORATE and OFFICIAL SEALS and PRESSES, Hatchments, Monumental Brasses, &c.; Diplomas, Cheques, and Votes of Thanks Bookplates, Wedding and other Cards.—PUGH BROTHERS, Artists, Great Turnstile Lincoln's-inn.

SMART'S SOLE WRITING INSTITUTION, corner of Swallow-street, Quadrant, Regent-street. Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received (privately) and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in Eight to Twelve Easy Lessons. Separate Rooms for Ladies, to which department (if preferred) Mrs. Smart will attend. For prospectuses, terms, &c., apply to Mr. Smart, as above. N.B.—Agent to the West of England Insurance Company.

DEAFNESS.—The SOUND MAGNIFIER and INVISIBLE VOICE CONDUCTOR, for Deafness. It fits into the ear not perceptible, removes singing noises in the head, and enables deaf persons to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

THE PLANET JUPITER, when magnified 250 times with the new £5 TELESCOPE, appears seven times as large as the moon is to the naked eye; and the other planetary bodies proportionately. It will also distinguish the face of a sheep and features of a man four miles, shot marks upon a target two miles, and time by a church clock ten miles. This instrument is guaranteed, in writing, to perform the whole of the above, and to be equal in the most important respects to telescopes costing £70. It has a 3-in. superior achromatic object-glass, two eyepieces, &c., with portable metal tripod stand with jointed claw feet. Persons are invited to apply for a diagram, with other particulars, and eight sheets of testimonials from scientific and other gentlemen, including Lord Rosse. Sent free by book post.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly. High-power small pocket Telescopes, opera, race, field, and general outdoor glasses.

A NEW HIGH-POWER BINOCULAR GLASS, the cheapest, lightest, most powerful, and portable ever produced. Weighs three ounces, and occupies less room than a card-case. Price 21s., sent post-free. This glass is especially arranged for the combined purposes of the opera, race, and general outdoor use. S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

SPECTACLES.—TINTED SPECTCLES are patronised by the majority of the nobility, including Viscount Palmerston. They give extraordinary relief to weak, dim, and defective vision. The adaptation of spectacles to imperfect vision by experienced persons is, indeed, of vital importance. One of the Firm, who has had great experience and practice, attends to this branch only. S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—OPERA-GLASSES in every variety of form and mounting, matchless for their great magnifying power and sharpness of definition, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23A, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street), W. Sole Agent for the celebrated Field and Opera Glasses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

SALOM'S NEW OPERA and FIELD GLASS, and THE RECONNOITERER GLASS, price 10s. 10d., sent free. This "Tourist's Favourite," through extraordinary division of labour, distinctly shows small windows 10 miles off, landscape at 30 miles, Jupiter's Moons, &c.—The Marquis of Carmarthen: "The reconnoiterer is very good."—Rev. Lord Scarsdale "approves of it."—Lord Gifford, of Ampney: "Most useful."—Lord Garvagh: "Remarkably good."—Sir Digby Cayley, of Brompton: "It gives me complete satisfaction, and is wonderfully good."—Capt. Sidney, Royal Small Arms Factory, Enfield Lock, "Presents his compliments to Messrs. Salom and Co., and begs to inclose 10s. 10d. for a reconnoiterer glass, having just tried that sent to Lieut. Hopkins, and found it effective at the 1000-yards range."—F. H. Fawkes, of Farnley Hall, Esq.: "I never before met an article that so completely answered the recommendation of its maker, nor, although I have tried many a glass, combining so much power for its size with so much clearness."—"The Field": "We have carefully tried it at an 800-yard rifle range against all the glasses possessed by members of the corps, and found it fully equal to any of those present, although they had cost more than four times its price."—"Notes and Queries": "What intending tourist will now start without such an indispensable companion to a pleasure trip?" The celebrated "HYTHE" GLASS shows bullet marks at 1200 yards, a man at 3½ miles, price 31s. 6d. All the above Glasses, respectively bearing the registered trade mark, "Salom," "Reconnoiterer," and "Hythe," are only to be had direct from Salom and Co., 98, Princes-street, Edinburgh. No Agents of any kind anywhere.

H. WALKER'S NEW NEEDLES.—The Patent Ridged Eyes are easily threaded, and work without the slightest drag. Post-free, 100 for 12 stamps, of any Dealer.—H. Walker, Alcester; and 47, Gresham-st., London.

PRACTICAL GEOLOGY, KING'S COLLEGE, London.—PROFESSOR TENNANT, F.G.S., commenced A COURSE OF LECTURES on FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 28, at Nine o'Clock, having especial reference to the application of Geology to Engineering, Mining, Architecture, and Agriculture. The Lectures will be continued on each succeeding Wednesday and Friday at the same hour. Fee, £1 11s. 6d. R. W. JELF, D.D., Principal.

ARCHERY.—Great Reduction in Price.—30s. worth of goods for 21s., cash. Send for an illustrated list, gratis.—C. ARMSTRONG, Manufacturer, 174, Oxford-street (next to Duke-street, Manchester-square).

MILK of ROSES—PIESSE and LUBIN.—This exquisite Emulsion has been a favourite preserver of beauty for many years. It is the best and simplest remedy and preventive of sunburn and freckling. Be sure to ask for Piesse and Lubin's Milk of Roses. Sold by Fashionable Druggists and Perfumers. 2s. 6d. Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond-street, London.

CHARING-CROSS HANDY-BOOK. Guide and Directory for Railway Travellers. Ready on the 1st of May, at all Booksellers and News-venders. Wholesale, A. WALKLEY and CO., Publishers, Charing-cross Railway Station.

LADIES NURSING.—ELAM'S NEW NIPPLE SHIELDS, for cracked or sore Nipples. Metallic ditto; Milk Receivers or Dress Preservers; Improved Breast Pumps; Enemas and Abdominal Belts.—196, Oxford-street.

SHIRTS, SEASON 1865.—A large variety of new Patterns in fancy Cashmere and Cambric Shirtings, made from the finest materials, adapted for Spring and Summer Shirts.—BOWRING, ARUNDEL, and CO., 11 and 50, Fenchurch-street, E.C.; 11, Old Bond-street, W., London.

MUSICAL BOX DEPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, and 56 Cheapside.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, £1 per air; Snuff-boxes, 7s. to 10s. per tune. Catalogues of tunes and prices gratis and post-free on application to WALES and CO., as above.

FORD'S NEW JACKETS FOR LADIES, at 76, Oxford-street, opposite the Pantheon, London, W., comprise a large number of beautifully braided patterns in Silk, Cashmere, Cloth, and Velvet, at various prices, all of which are arranged in sizes to fit ladies without delay.

FORD'S MARGUERITE JACKET, registered. Prints illustrative of the shape and design of this charming Jacket are prepared to send post-free. In general it is semi-fitting, may be worn open or closed, and is adapted, according to material and ornament, for Morning Wear, Dinner Dress, and Evening Home Parties. It is also specially suited to the occasional requirements of married ladies. Ready in different sizes, in Silk, from 21s. to 3 gs.; Cashmere or Cloth, 18s. to 2 gs.; Velvet, 2 gs. to 4½ gs.—Thos. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S RICH SILK MANTLES display the best taste and newest designs of the Season, in Glacé and Gros Grain Silks, from 38s. 6d. to 10 guineas. The New Grenadine Bernouses, Lace, and other thin textures, from 14s. 6d. to 5 guineas. Carriage Wraps; Waterproof Cloaks warranted to resist rain, from 21s.—Thos. Ford, 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S GUINEA JACKETS, to wear open or closed, beautifully braided; materials silk, cashmere, and fine cloth; are especially worthy of notice. Ford's New Jacket Rooms exhibit the largest and cheapest stock in Europe. Thos. Ford, 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S HALF-GUINEA JACKETS, in cloth and cashmere, in tight-fitting, Zouave, and loose shapes. Immense numbers of these are sold. Although remarkably cheap, they are good, and such as any lady may wear. Patterns and illustrations free.—Thos. Ford, 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

TEETH AND PAINLESS DENTISTRY.—Messrs. EWIN, MOSELY, and SONS, 30, Berners-street, Oxford-street, and 448, Strand (opposite Charing-cross Railway Station). These Teeth are cheaper, more durable, natural, and comfortable, than any yet produced. Consultation Free. For the efficacy, utility, and success of this system, vide "Lancet."—No connection with anyone of the same name.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the PRINCE of WALES, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post-paid. It contains upwards of 600 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-plate, Nickel Silver, and Britannia-metal Goods, Dish Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimneypieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers; Tea Trays, Urns, and Kettles; Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed-room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with lists of prices, and plans of the twenty large Show-rooms, at 39, Oxford-street, W.; 1, 1A, 2, 3, and 4, Newman-street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's-place; and 1, Newman-yard.

DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Makers, by special appointment, to her Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and Maker of the Great Clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand (adjoining Coutts's Bank), and 34 and 35, Royal Exchange.

WATCHES AND CLOCKS. — FREDC. HAWLEY (successor to Thomas Hawley), many years watchmaker by special appointment to his late Majesty George IV., invites inspection of his carefully-finished Stock, at 148, Regent-street, W. Elegant Gold Watches, £2 15s. to £35; Silver Watches, £1 5s. to £12 12s. Eight-day Timepieces, 12s. 6d. Clocks, striking hours and half-hours, £2 15s. and upwards.—Frederic Hawley, Watchmaker, 148, Regent-street, W. (from the Strand and Coventry-street). Established nearly a century. Merchants and Shippers supplied.

THE MAGIC DONKEYS. — Roars of Laughter. These wonderful animals go through their extraordinary evolutions at 252, Strand, from Ten till Six. The pair sent post-free for 14 stamps.—H. G. CLARKE and CO., 252, Strand.

"IT IS THE BEST I HAVE EVER USED or seen in use," writes Mr. Bladon, Refreshment-rooms, House of Lords, where FLOWER'S NON-MERCURIAL PLATE-POWDER has been in use the last seven years. Sold in boxes, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each, by Chemists and Ironmongers; Wholesale, by Crosse and Blackwell, 21, Soho-square, W.

BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER.—Recommended by the Analyst in the "Lancet" for making Bread without Yeast, and for Pastry. Sold everywhere.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA, an excellent remedy for Gout and Stomachic Disorders of every kind, and as a mild aperient for delicate constitutions.—172, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS immediately relieve the most violent fit of Coughing. They have a pleasant taste. At 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. per box; by all Druggists.

WANTED.—Left-off Clothes, Uniforms, Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. G. HYAM, 10, Beak-street, Regent-street, W.; or, Parcels being sent, the utmost value in cash instantly remitted. Established 1820.

WANTED.—Left-off Clothes, Uniforms, Jewellery, and Miscellaneous Property, &c. Highest price given. Ladies and Gentlemen waited on. Address Mr. or Mrs. D. DAVIS, 46, Marylebone-lane, Oxford-street, W. Parcels being sent, Post Office orders remitted. Established 1800.

WANTED.—Left-off Clothes, &c.—Mr. or Mrs. A. DAVIS, 2, Crawford-street, Baker-street, W., attends Ladies and Gentlemen privately, to purchase Wearing Apparel, Uniforms, Jewellery, Diamonds, Plate, &c.; or, Parcels being sent, Post Office orders remitted the same day. Est. 64 years. Terms cash.

CHALET CHAIRS.—HOWARD and SONS, 26 and 27, Berners-street, solicit the gentry to inspect their new Chalet Chairs, varied in form and adapted to all reception-rooms. An indispensable luxury to every lady's boudoir.

EASY-CHAIRS, COUCHES, and SOFAS, best quality. Upwards of 300 shapes constantly on view, or made to any shape.—T. H. FILMER and SON'S, 31, 32, and 34, Berners-street, W. An Illustrated Catalogue sent post-free.

LIST OF PRICES for ENGRAVING CREST on SEALS, RINGS, or DIES, 7s. 6d.; initials, 1s. 6d. each; fancy initials, 2s. 6d. each; livery-button dies, book-plate, arms, crest, and motto, 21s.; elegantly finished, the arms of man and wife blended together. Metal Seals, with ebony handle, 4s.; ivory handles, 7s. 6d.; Agate and Cornelian Seals, from 4s. 6d. to 12s. 6d.; Stone Seals, silver mounted, from 10s. each. Gold Watch Seals, from 12s. to £4 4s. each.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver to her Majesty, by appointment, April 30, 1852; May 21, 1854; and again May 18, 1858. To their R.H.H. the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, and Princess Mary, the Archbishops of Canterbury, York, and Armagh, and Official Diesinker to the Board of Trade, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.)

CULLETON'S PATENT LEVER EMBOSSING PRESSES, 21s., for stamping paper with crest, arms, or address. Any person can use them. Carriage-paid.—T. Culleton, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

SOLID GOLD SIGNET RINGS, 42s., 63s., 70s., 84s., 105s., Seven Guineas and Ten Guineas each. All 18-carat, Hall marked, warranted. The Hall mark is the only guarantee for pure gold. Send size of finger by fitting a piece of thread, and mention the price Ring required.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

NO CHARGE FOR ENGRAVING DIE WITH CREST, MONOGRAM, or ADDRESS (as charged for by other Houses) if an order be given for a Guinea Box of Stationery, containing a Ream of the very best Paper and Five Hundred Envelopes to match, all stamped free of charge.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS.—A card plate engraved, and 50 cards printed, 2s. post-free. 50 black-bordered cards, 2s. Wedding cards, 50 each for lady and gentleman, 50 best embossed envelopes, maiden name printed inside, all complete, 13s. 6d. Any of the above post-free.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.)

CULLETON'S PLATES for MARKING LINEN. Never washes out. Initial plate, 1s.; name, 2s. 6d.; set of numbers, 2s. 6d.; crest, 5s.; with directions post-free.—T. Culleton, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

ACCLIMATISATION SOCIETY OF GREAT BRITAIN, 3, Duke-street, Adelphi, London, W.C., April 22, 1865. The Council hereby give notice that the ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING of the Members of this Society will be held in the Great-room of the Society of Arts, 18, John-street, Adelphi, on FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1865, at Three o'Clock p.m., to receive the Report of the Council, the audited Balance-sheets of the Treasurer, and to elect officers.
By order of the Council, B. WATERHOUSE HAWKINS, Hon. Sec.

£4 10s. PER CENT DEBENTURE STOCK.
THE GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY are now issuing this Stock. Applications to be made to Bishopsgate Terminus, April 27, 1865. J. B. OWEN, Secretary.

LIMPLEY STOKE, NEAR BATH.
HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT.—Physician. D. B. Dalsell, Esq., M.D. Manager, Mr. T. Preston. Terms, £2 2s. per week. CHARLES JUPE and SON, Proprietors.

PIMPLE REMOVER. — All Diseases of the Skin are improved by one dose of ALEX. ROSS'S VEGETABLE SKIN PILLS. They remove redness, sallowness, &c. 2s. 9d.; or post for 40 stamps.—ALEX. ROSS, 248, High Holborn, London.

ALL afflicted with WEAK EYES may obtain instant relief by using Dr. WARNER'S EYE-WATER; it removes all inflammation arising from cold, dust, or constitutional causes.—Sold in bottles, 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., by Sanger, Oxford-street; Prout, Strand; Butler, Cheapside; Hooper, London Bridge.

ROYAL NAVAL, MILITARY, AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (Established A.D. 1837, under Royal Patronage), 17, Waterloo-place, London, S.W. ARTHUR B. HAMILTON, Secretary. Agents wanted in towns not yet represented.

TOILET VINEGAR.—VINAIGRE DE TOILETTE DE JEAN VINCENT BULLY.—This celebrated article may be obtained of all Chemists and Perfumers in the United Kingdom. Its well-known superiority over Eau de Cologne has obtained for it a universal reputation. Its hygienic properties render it invaluable as a disinfectant and an exquisite adjunct to the ball-room. A small quantity poured into the water before washing neutralises any impurities and renders the skin white and soft. In the bath it is remarkable, invigorates the body, and imparts to it a most agreeable perfume. It is an admirable lotion for the mouth, preserving the gums and teeth. To smokers it is invaluable, imparting a delicious perfume to the breath. In hot countries and the Colonies this production is invaluable. Sole wholesale Agents, R. HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C., London.

IMPORTANT TO EVERY ONE.—JUST COMPLETED.
A VALUABLE INDEX, containing the ARMS of nearly every Family in England, Ireland, and Scotland. The result of thirty years' labour, extracted from public and private records, church windows, monumental brasses, county histories, and other sources throughout the kingdom. Families desirous of knowing their Proper Crest or Coat of Arms are requested to send name and county. Mr. Culleton having devoted many years to the study of heraldry is enabled to answer all questions connected with that beautiful science, explaining how Arms should be borne by the head of each family, and all the different branches thereof—how the Arms of man and wife should be blended together—the various marks of cadency to be placed on each coat—the proper heraldic colours for servants' liveries—what buttons to be used—and how the carriage should be painted, according to the rules of heraldic etiquette. Plain sketch of any person's Arms, 3s. 6d.; coloured ditto, 6s.; Arms, crest, and family motto, 12s.; Arms of man and wife blended together, 18s. Arms quartered and emblazoned in the most elegant style. Family pedigrees traced from authentic records at the College of Arms, British Museum, Record Office, and other places. Correct information how to obtain a new grant of Arms; the cost of same, and how to add or change one's name. Pedigrees illuminated on parchment. Wills searched, and every kind of genealogical information obtained from parish records. "The Manual of Heraldry," Four Hundred Engravings, 3s. 6d., post-free, by T. CULLETON, Genealogist, and Lecturer on Heraldry at the Mechanics' Institute, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), London, W.C.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, APRIL 29, 1865.

THE twice-chosen Chief Magistrate of the United States of America has died by the hand of an assassin. From castle and from cottage, from the halls of the Legislature, from the mart of commerce, from the hearthstones of English homes has gone forth one shout of execration of the deed, and the first ship from our shores goes forth bearing every form of our condolence with the American nation and with those dearest to him who has fallen. It is no idle phrase to say that the news of Wednesday sent a shudder to the great heart of our people. That news came at a moment when we were awaiting tidings of amnesty, peace, and conciliation. The supreme efforts of the Confederacy had been made, and the tidings of the fall of Richmond and Petersburg had been followed rapidly by the information that the gallant Lee had laid down his arms and was using his best endeavours to terminate a struggle that had become hopeless. We knew that the President had resolved upon a policy of mercy, and we believed that he was encouraged to it by the re-awakened good feeling of the victorious party. At this instant, when the thoughts of all men were upon the restoration of peace and the healing of the rankling wounds of four terrible years, came the fatal tidings that the man in whose honest hands the good work lay had been basely murdered by a mountebank. While we write, the excitement of the news is strong upon our thousands; and, as the lion lays his head to the ground when he would have the thunder of his voice roll the furthest, the indignant cry grows deeper and deeper as the utterance comes from the masses of the people. Their leaders have spoken for them, nobly and well; but they will also speak for themselves; and if America ever doubted the brotherly heart of England, the doubt will be done away for ever by the messages now hastening across the Atlantic.

It is not now the time to record that Abraham Lincoln, who had to make his difficult way to the confidence of a large portion of his own countrymen, had also received justice from all save an angry section of the English people. The proof that he had done so may be seen in the mode in which his latest acts and speeches had been received here. We fully recognised the honesty, courage, and perseverance of the chosen of the American people; and there was something in his calm self-possession and quaint but not unkindly humour which has endeared him to the large mass among us. We, no more than our brethren in the States, all consent to be represented by sectional organs, and the real journals of England, speaking for her people, have always paid becoming tribute to the character of Mr. Lincoln. If we mention this at such a moment, it is to prevent the possibility of our present assurances of sympathy being assigned to a temporary feeling. Let the publications of the ten days previous to the arrival of the melancholy tidings be our witness in this matter.

While we have ample details of the appalling crime and of the kindred atrocity which has but too probably given Mr. Lincoln a companion in death, in the person of his ablest adviser, we have no information as to the manifest conspiracy and the supposed accomplices. That the fierce anger of the American people will hunt out all evidence of the guilt, and will deal the swiftest doom, is certain. Omnis furiis surrexit Etruria justis. The brutality which made its way, with a lie in its mouth, to the presence of an unsuspecting man, seated beside his wife and engaged in harmless relaxation from political toil, and, without warning or challenge, basely slew him, is worthily paralleled by that which sought a sick man in his bed, mutilated, in one case nearly to the death, the family around him, and stabbed him amid the screams of his little child. It is not impossible that the first mail may tell us that the assassins have already been dealt with. For the honour of human nature we will hope that they have had no accomplices, or, at least, none of higher social position than themselves. But it were rash to say what madness, generated by recent events, may not have caused. Of one thing we take leave to be certain—namely, that were the two wretches delivered over to any dozen of Confederate gentlemen, the fate of the miscreants might, perhaps, be sterner, but would certainly not be slower, than that which may have already been theirs in Washington.

At this time it is but for us to join, with all our heart, in the expression of indignation and sympathy which has gone forth, and to add our earnest prayer that the foul deeds which have been done will have no hindering influence; that it may please Providence, who had seemed to have willed that events should turn the hearts of the Americans towards peace, will permit the good work to be accomplished; and that the last sacrifice of the expiring war may be the strong, brave, good man who has died for his country in her hour of returning tranquillity.

OUR COLOURED SUPPLEMENT.

"HAPPINESS." PAINTED BY J. J. HILL.

HAPPINESS! The theme of saint, sage, and sophist—the aim of all; yet by each individual placed in the attainment of different objects. Even the philosophers differ about the chief good, the summum bonum, or happiness of man; albeit they all agree that it is the reward of virtue in this world and the next. The surest road to happiness seems to be to have as few "desires," at least of a selfish kind, as possible. Happiness is a flower we may cull at our feet; not a far-off star of unattainable ambition. It may lie in moderate possessions, or even in the satisfaction of the simplest wants of nature, with a heart tempered by religion and virtue, for the enjoyment of that which God has bestowed upon us. But, unquestionably, it differs in kind as in degree.

To the simpler and lower forms of happiness nature is a far better guide than all your philosophers. Thus we think that if the reader reflects ever so little on the nature of happiness he will admit the truth suggested in the title of the picture which forms our Coloured Supplement. What more perfect type of happiness than that loving and lovely relationship of mother and child? What quiet pride and joy of maternity—what pleased contented happiness—there is in this humble woman's healthy face as she eyes the little one she has just hushed to sleep! While pressed to his mother's bosom, and cradled to forgetfulness in her lap, what can that little chubby, rosy darling know of toil or care, or pain, more than the pretty wild-flower it unconsciously holds? The sky may well be chequered only with summer fleeces, and all nature sunny and bright with love and hope to such as these—

> Oh! happiness of sweet retir'd content,
> To be at once secure and innocent.

Of the technical qualities of the picture this is hardly the place to speak. Criticism of the works we engrave is always given in our reviews of the Exhibitions whence we select for reproduction those pictures, the subjects of which seem to us of the widest interest. But we may be permitted to remark that Mr. Hill's works are always painted with breadth and spirit; that they have good flesh-tones, and are manly and unaffected in treatment. These meritorious characteristics would be more generally appreciated if his subjects were of a less uniform character. We need scarcely add that Mr. Hill has been, for many years, one of the foremost members, in public estimation, of the Society of British Artists; and that this picture of "Happiness" was in one of that society's recent exhibitions.

THE COURT.

THE Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold, arrived at Osborne House at twenty minutes before seven o'clock, p.m., on Thursday week, from Windsor Castle. The suite in attendance consisted of Lady Churchill, Lady Caroline Barrington, the Hon. Mrs. Bruce, the Hon. Lucy Kerr, Colonel the Hon. Sir C. B. Phipps, Colonel Sir T. M. Biddulph, Major-General F. Seymour, Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat, Mr. Sahl, and Mr. Buff. The Queen travelled in a state saloon by a special train, provided by the London and South-Western Railway Company.

Yesterday week the Queen, accompanied by the members of the Royal family, walked and drove in the grounds adjacent to Osborne. Prince Alfred, attended by Major Cowell and Dr. Bernhardt, arrived at Osborne from Buckingham Palace.

On Saturday last the Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena and Princess Louisa, drove in the neighbourhood of Osborne. Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold drove out.

On Sunday the Queen, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service, performed at Osborne by the Rev. G. Prothero. Princess Beatrice attended Divine service at Whippingham Church.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena and Princess Beatrice, drove out. Prince Alfred, attended by Major Cowell and Dr. Bernhardt, went across to Portsmouth. Princess Louisa walked in the grounds of Osborne.

On Tuesday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa and attended by Lady Churchill, drove in the neighbourhood of Osborne. Princess Helena took a drive. This was the twenty-second anniversary of the birthday of the Princess Louis of Hesse.

The Court went into mourning, on Thursday last, for her late Royal Highness the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin.

Lady Waterpark has succeeded Lady Churchill as Lady in Waiting to the Queen.

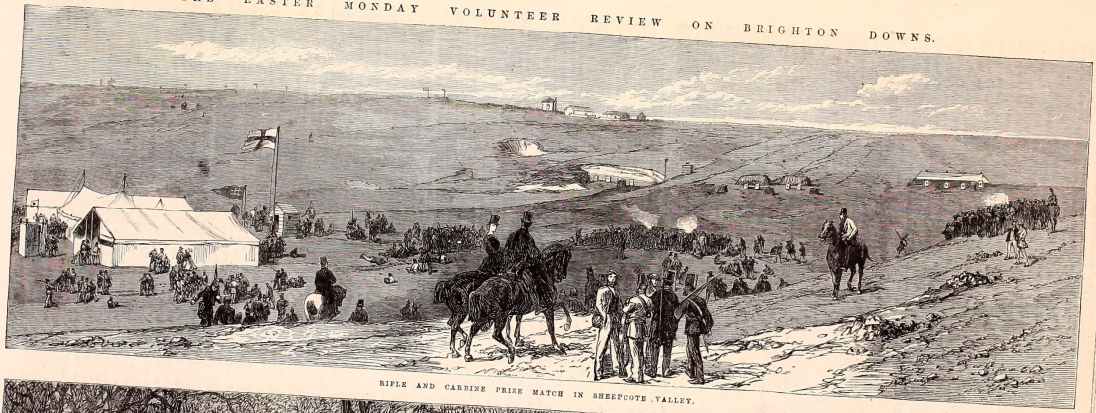
THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Prince Alfred, enjoyed some excellent sport, hawking, on Monday and Tuesday week, at Sandringham, with the hawks belonging to the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, which were brought by his Highness's keeper from Elvedon, the Maharajah's seat in Norfolk.

Prince Alfred left Sandringham House on Thursday for Buckingham Palace. The Duke and Duchess of Manchester arrived at Sandringham House, on a visit to the Prince and Princess.

On Sunday their Royal Highnesses attended Divine service at Sandringham Church.

The Prince and Princess, accompanied by Prince Albert Victor, are expected to leave Sandringham House on Tuesday next, for Marlborough House. In consequence of the death of the Czarewitch, their Royal Highnesses will seek retirement for a few weeks.

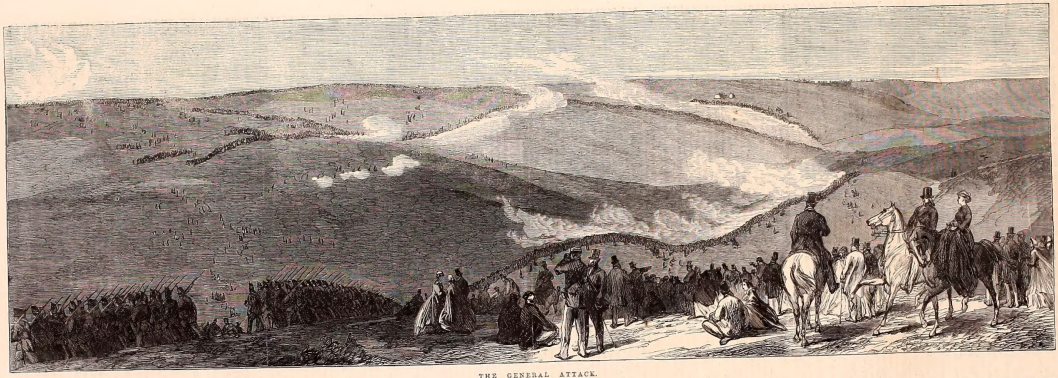


Master Willie Pape has received an invitation to appear before Lord Wodehouse at Dublin Castle during the Exhibition.

The Prince of Wales was on Monday elected President of the Acclimatisation Society of Great Britain, in the room of the Duke of Newcastle, deceased.

The Queen has approved of Mr. W. Clifford Knight as Consul at the Cape of Good Hope for the King of the Belgians. The Queen has also approved of Mr. Freeman N. Blake as Consul at Erie, Canada; and of Mr. E. Knight Sperry as Consul at Barbadoes, for the United States of America.

Mr. Bright, M.P., has received a communication from Boston, U.S., with reference to the probable supply of American cotton this year. The writer says that, after careful inquiry, there will on the termination of the war be 2,500,000 bales available for purposes of trade and manufacture, and then adds, "I regret very much the probable results. The decline in price will seriously impede the reorganisation of 'free labour and check the production in other countries, perhaps restoring tous eventually too great a monopoly of the supply of cotton."



THE EASTER MONDAY VOLUNTEER REVIEW ON BRIGHTON DOWNS.

RIFLE AND CARBINE PRIZE MATCH IN SHEEPCOTE VALLEY.

THE MUSTER ON THE LEVEL.

THE GENERAL ATTACK.

THE ATTACK OF THE LEFT WING ON THE RIGHT OF THE DEFENCE.—SEE PAGE 399.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

It is remarkable that on the very eve of a general election circumstances should occur to cause continual changes in the representation of counties and boroughs. In this Session there have been what may be called numerous elections, and several neophytes have been added to the House whose greatest privilege will be to witness its dissolution. The peculiar dulness and scantiness of the House on Monday, on its reassembling, was for a moment relieved by the appearance of new members to be sworn in and take their seats. The word "new" was not applicable to them all; for, in the first place, Mr. Adam—a lucky adherent of the Ministry, who, after a Parliamentary career coeval only with the present Parliament, has mounted the first step on the official ladder by becoming a Lord of the Treasury—was the product of the simple ceremonial of an unopposed re-election. Then, Colonel Percy Herbert, who has just been returned for Shropshire, sat for some time after 1857 for Ludlow, and was distinguished, in the sense of being prominent, as a military reformer, and was always making speeches in a hard, crackling tone, and with an expression of countenance as if he had prepared himself for every occasion by a copious draught of verjuice. The Solicitor-General for Scotland, who has stepped into Sir William Dunbar's empty seat for Wigton, is really new to the House, and by his presence there will make up four law officers of the Crown, inhabitants of the Treasury bench. Mr. Potter, whom the friends of Mr. Cobden have decided as the fittest person to occupy the vacant place at Rochdale and the still larger space in the House caused by the passing away of that gentleman, has to show whether he can fill either of them; for, until now, Parliament has not known him, although his name is familiar there, inasmuch as his brother once represented Manchester and a relative of his is the successor of Sir James Graham for Carlisle.

There was scarcely a noticeable feature in the aspect of things on the first night of reunion, unless, indeed, it occurs to anyone to think that the fact of Mr. Bernal Osborne's appearance may be taken as interesting. That honourable member has not before now condescended to show the light of his countenance on an assembly which probably regards him as the mediæval monarchs did those special attendants upon them whose individuality was marked by caps and bells. Mr. Osborne hovered about the back benches for a short while, held talk with several members, and especially with Mr. Lowe, whom he probably greeted with a sort of fraternal feeling, not only as an ex-Minister, but as one who has shown a cognate political spirit to his own by adopting the tone of a broad and bitter critic of those official proceedings in which neither is any longer participant. In truth, Mr. Lowe perches himself on that high place on the benches of the house to which ex-Ministers creep after they have tumbled off the Treasury bench with the air of a censor, and has already proved that he is in a position to give to mankind all the benefit of his ability and experience now that he is prevented by untoward circumstances from devoting them to party. The rapid steps from office to patriotism which both he and Mr. Osborne have made must necessarily tend to create a sympathy between them.

The opportunity which the first day after the holidays afforded for at length getting through the long-protracted Army and Navy Estimates was not lost; and a postponed vote for those for the Army, on which Government had promised to allow any amount of discussion, was brought on. The subject being the disorganisation of the War Office, General Peel came forward to tell his experiences of that department; but the most striking revelation which he made was that he was rather swamped by a set of too clever clerks, who, instead of contenting themselves with being mere copyists, his general idea of their function, were accustomed to indicate policy and advise administration in marginal minutes on papers which passed through their hands. The subject being clerks, of course Sir Stafford Northcote was in presence, and, by his own account, he had a grievance against a railway company for not bringing him into the house in time to hear the initiation of the discussion. On such a question this honourable gentleman ought to be an authority, and on this occasion he was mounted on his battle-horse; and if it was but a Rosinante after all, it was not to be helped. He certainly did not get beyond a jog-trot; but then the pace was steady, and the necessary space of ground was covered with undeviating persistency. Nothing could galvanise such a debate, if debate it could be called, as this; and it waned away soon, and the last votes of the Navy Estimates were got through almost before anyone perceived that the subject was changed.

The next night it was still more palpable that the House was waiting for the Budget, and not inclined to exert itself before that event; for it was but a minute before four that a House was made, and that only by the zeal of Mr. Joseph Ewart, who called the attention of the Speaker to the fact that he made the fortieth Parliamentary fraction required. Everything portended a quiet evening and an early rising, when Sir George Bowyer contrived to introduce the Church militant element, and there arose a controversy which to describe as animated would be an inadequate expression. It seemed that Mr. Bouverie had brought forward a bill to take the Archdeacon of London out of the Act by which empty City churches are removed and the funds attached to them applied to build edifices where there are worshippers to fill them, and this because, in a particular instance, the Archdeacon set at nought the united agreement of the patrons of a particular church—the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, and the Home Secretary—which was pretty well for an Archdeacon, a functionary in the Church who is indescribable even by the Bishop of Oxford, who, being once asked what were the duties of an Archdeacon, replied, "the duties of an Archdeacon are archidiaconal." The action of Sir George Bowyer on behalf of a Protestant dignitary, which may be supposed to have been influenced by feelings more personal than sacerdotal, was the signal for quite a storm of indignation on poor Mr. Bouverie from Mr. Hubbard, who had got the Archdeacon put into the Union of Benefices Act, and brought on him the saturnine humour of Mr. Henley, the heavy pounding of Mr. Darby Griffith, and the perking familiarities of Mr. Lygon; but the worst effect of all was that Mr. Ayrton was stimulated to treat the matter from a comical point of view, and to produce laughs which must have been akin to those from which the word sardonic is derived. The little, very little, House got quite heated up by this debate, and was prepared to be pettish with Mr. Hankey when, with an effort to be insidious, he endeavoured to get a tax upon charitable endowments, and Sir Morton Peto, in unexpected association with Mr. Selwyn, got up a pelting talk against the delinquent, who looked stolidly astonished at the rage he had created, and suffered his bill to be kicked into the uttermost limbo of abortive legislation without any expression of remonstrance even implied. The dulled ears of the Secretary to the Admiralty were vexed by a last attempt to revive discussion on the Navy Estimates; and Lord Clarence Paget, seeing himself just out of the wood, ventured to show that he was angry at this attempt at prolonging criticism on naval affairs to the very last moment at which prolongation was possible; and Lord Clarence in that vein was perhaps the most remarkable occurrence—speaking in an individual sense—of the Session up to that time.

The Queen has appointed Viscount Palmerston, the Right Hon. Wm. Ewart Gladstone, Edward Hugessen Knatchbull-Hugessen, Esq., Wm. Patrick Adam, Esq., and Lieutenant-Colonel Luke White to be Commissioners for executing the offices of Treasurer of the Exchequer of Great Britain and Lord High Treasurer of Ireland.

The foundation-stone of a new tower and spire for St. Mary Tower Church, Ipswich, was laid, on Monday week, by Mr. G. C. E. Bacon, who has already done so much towards the restoration of the church. The stone was laid in the south-east angle of the churchyard. The tower will be 87 ft. high and the spire 83 ft. high, the total height being 170 ft. The square at the basement will be 24½ ft. The total cost is estimated at £4000. The whole of this sum, as well as the entire cost of the work of restoration already completed, something like £10,000, will be contributed by Mr. Bacon.

It is impossible to speak with exaggeration of the intense grief and indignation with which the news of the assassination of Mr. Lincoln was received in England. In London the feeling was profound. Upwards of sixty members of Parliament signed an address of condolence, which was presented to Mr. Adams, the United States representative at our Court; and on Monday next, as will be seen by reference to our Parliamentary columns, both Houses of Parliament will formally express their sorrow and indignation at the crime. On Monday next a meeting of Americans in London will be held at St. James's Hall—Mr. Adams in the chair. In Liverpool the expressions of grief and indignation were general, and a requisition was got up to the Mayor to call a meeting to give public utterance to the general sentiments. In Norwich, too, and, indeed, in almost every town, similar feeling was shown. In Manchester steps have been taken for calling a public meeting

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Monday.

The House reassembled on Monday, after the Easter recess.

The following members took the oaths and their seats:—Colonel P. Herbert, for Shropshire, in the room of Viscount Newport; Mr. Potter, for Rochdale, in the room of Mr. Cobden, deceased; Mr. Adam, for Clackmannan (re-election); and Mr. Young, for Wigton, in the room of Sir W. Dunbar.

The report of Supply was brought up and agreed to.

The House went into Committee on the Mortgage Debentures Bill, and the various clauses were agreed to, except 18 and 19, which were postponed.

The Land Debentures Bill passed through Committee.

The Lancaster Court of Chancery Bill, the Local Government Supplemental (No. 2) Bill, the Police Superannuation Bill, and the Land Drainage Bill were read a second time.

The Metropolitan Houseless Poor Bill and the India Offices Site and Approaches Bill were read a third time and passed; as also were the following private bills:—Birmingham Water, Carnarvon New Water, Cheltenham Water, Chesterfield Water and Gas, East London Railway, Forcett Railway, Fulham Railway, Horsforth Water, Luton Water, Metropolitan Railway; North-Eastern Railway (Pelaw and other branches); Rossendale Union Gas, St. Albans Water, Tees Valley Railway, West Sussex Junction Railway, and Winchcomb Roads Bills.

ARMY AND NAVY ESTIMATES.

The House went into Committee of Supply.

On the question that £212,800 be granted for the administration of the Army, a lengthy discussion (inaugurated by General Peel) took place on the report of the War Office committee on the recent changes effected in the subordinate situations in that department. The recommendations of the committee were criticised by Sir Stafford Northcote, Colonel Dunne, Colonel Gilpin, and others, and explanations were offered by the Marquis of Hartington and the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Eventually the vote was agreed to.

The following votes were subsequently agreed to without discussion:—

£1,134,000 for naval stores for the building, repair, and outfit of the Fleet.

£654,700 for steam machinery for her Majesty's ships and vessels.

£698,195 for half pay, reserve half pay, and retiring allowances to officers of the Navy and Royal Marines.

£507,211 for military pensions and allowances.

£208,033 for civil pensions and allowances, and £320,580 for freight of ships, victualling, and conveying of troops.

The Chairman was then directed to report progress.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Tuesday.

The report of Supply was brought up, and, after some observations from Mr. Layard, Mr. Bentinck, Sir John Hay, and Lord C. Paget, was agreed to.

The second reading of the Charitable Trusts Fees Bill was negatived without a division.

The Oxford University Vinerian Foundation Bill and the Roads and Bridges (Scotland) Bill were read a second time.

The Local Government Supplemental Bill and the Mortgage Debentures Bill passed through Committee. A considerable number of amendments were introduced into the latter bill at the instance of Lord Naas.

Mr. E. P. Bouverie asked for leave to bring in a bill to amend the Union of Benefices Act by rendering the consent of the Archdeacon of London to the removal of certain City churches unnecessary. The motion led to a sharp discussion, but was agreed to without a division.

Mr. Baring obtained leave to bring in a bill to amend the Salmon Fishery Act, 1861.

Leave was given to Mr. Gibson to bring in a bill for consolidating in one Act provisions frequently inserted in Acts relating to metropolitan and other railways.

Greenwich Hospital.—Mr. Childers moved for leave to bring in a bill to provide for the better government of Greenwich Hospital and the more beneficial application of the revenues thereof. The hon. gentleman explained that for the future the hospital should be devoted exclusively to helpless and infirm seamen, and to those in want of temporary medical assistance. The income of the institution was about £154,000, and the management of this fund would be distinct from the management of the expenditure. The latter would be placed under the guardianship of the House of Commons, and a comptroller would be appointed to manage the estates, which would be vested in the Board of Admiralty. The whole expenditure on account of the establishment would be voted by the House of Commons in the usual way, and be subject to the criticism of Parliament. The number of indoor pensioners would be maintained at 600, involving an expenditure of £45,000. The whole local expenditure of the institute, including the school, would be £68,000 a year, and £48,000 a year would be required for out-pensioners. Provision would also be made for flag officers retirements and pensions to widows and children. The anticipated surplus would be £13,000 a year, which would be paid over to the credit of the Consolidated Fund.—After a few words from Mr. Lygon, Mr. Liddell, Sir J. Hay, Lord C. Paget, and Admiral Walcott, leave was given to bring in the bill.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Wednesday.

The Locomotive on Roads Bill passed through Committee, after a rather lengthy discussion; as did the Local Government Supplemental (No. 2) Bill, the Police Superannuation Bill, and the Land Drainage Supplemental Bill.

The reports of the Mortgage Debentures (Stamps) Bill and the Land Debentures (Stamps) Bill were brought up and agreed to.

The Metropolitan Toll Bridges Bill, the object of which is to give facilities for rendering free bridges over the Thames, in the metropolitan area, was read a second time, and referred to a Select Committee.

The Inns of Court.—Sir G. Bowyer moved the second reading of the Inns of Court Bill. He showed that the Benchers exercised very important judicial functions in regard to the members of the various inns of court, and said the machinery by which this was done was of a most objectionable character. By this bill he proposed to amend it by making it necessary for the Benchers to appoint judicial committees to hear cases of complaint. The Benchers might or might not refer all cases to such committees; but the exercise of high penal power should only be through the committees, which would have all the power of a court of law.—Mr. Roebuck approved of the bill, which would confer upon the inns of court an efficient judicial tribunal.—Mr. Locke believed the bill to be unnecessary, and moved its rejection.—Mr. Neate seconded the amendment.—The Attorney-General thought there was much in the bill to be approved, but wished for the concurrence of the inns of court. He supported the second reading.—The amendment was withdrawn, and the bill read a second time.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—Thursday.

On the motion of the Duke of the Duke of Marlborough, the District Church Titles Bill was read a second time.

The East India (Governor-Generals' Powers, &c.) Bill was, on the motion of Lord Dufferin, read a third time and passed.

Lord Chelmsford called the attention of the House to the imprisonment and severe treatment to which a British Consul and other British subjects have been exposed by the orders of the Emperor of Abyssinia; and asked the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs what steps had been taken to relieve our fellow-countrymen from the severities to which they had been subjected, and to which, it is believed, they are still subject.—Earl Russell said that the English prisoners were not so harshly treated as had been represented, and that regard had been paid to the remonstrances of her Majesty's Government, who would continue to use their influence to obtain fair treatment for Consul Cameron and the other British subjects.

THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

Earl Russell gave notice that on Monday next he would move that a humble address be presented to her Majesty expressing the sorrow and indignation of the House at the assasination of the President of the United States, and praying her Majesty to cause the expression of feeling to be forwarded to the Government of the United States.

The Earl of Derby hoped the noble Earl would ascertain that there was nothing informal in the motion which would render the result in any degree doubtful. With regard to the substance of the matter, he would say that the expression of regret of the nation's sorrow and indignation at the assassination would, in his opinion, not only meet with the unanimous assent of all members of this House, but that it would represent the opinion of every man, woman, and child in her Majesty's dominions (Cheers).

Earl Russell said he thought there would be nothing informal in the motion calculated to give rise to objection to it (Hear, hear).

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Thursday.

THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

Sir G. Grey said that, in order that the House might have an opportunity of expressing its feelings with reference to the assassination of the President of the United States, he wished to give notice, on the part of his noble friend at the head of the Government, that, on Monday next, he would move an humble address to her Majesty, expressing the feeling of sorrow and indignation with which the House had heard of the perpetration of that atrocious crime, and of sympathy with the Government and people of the United States.

THE BUDGET.

On the motion for going into Committee of Ways and Means,

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, who was received with much applause, said there was a great contrast between the opening and the close of the present Parliament. At the former period there had been bad harvests, and clouds were overhanging Europe; but, although they had been dissipated here, they had travelled westward and burst there with terrific vehemence. The condition of this country was, however, eminently prosperous. A revenue larger than had ever before, either in peace or war, been raised from taxation alone; and expenditure had prevailed greater than had ever before been known in time of peace. This Parliament had also enjoyed the distinction—although no Parliament ever reached its legal term—that this was the seventh time that it was called upon to provide for the financial necessities of the year. The expenditure of the year which had just expired was estimated at 66,890,000l., and the Appropriation Bill provided for an expenditure of 67,773,000l.; whereas the actual expenditure was no more than 66,462,000l. He compared the expenditure with that of previous years. The expenditure of last year was a million and a half less than in 1859-60; it was less than that of 1860-61, which was the highest ever known in time of peace, by the sum of 6,547,000l.; but as compared with the year 1858-9, the year before the extensive operations connected with the military and naval departments commenced, he arrived at a very different result, for there was an increase of no less than three million and a half; and, to go back further—to the year before the Russian War—there had taken place an increase in the annual charges of the country to the amount of no less than twelve millions and a half. The expenditure for the year ending the 31st of March, 1865, was 66,462,000l.; the actual revenue for the same period was 70,313,000l., showing a surplus of revenue over expenditure of 3,851,000l.; but if he included, as he, perhaps, ought to do, the cost of the fortifications, which were specially provided for by terminable annuities, the total expenditure of the year was 67,082,000l.; and, in this case, there was still a surplus of 3,231,000l. The revenue, as he had estimated it on the 7th of April last year, was 67,128,000l., but the actual receipts were 70,313,000l. This surplus, he was glad to say, extended over every item of the revenue, even to the miscellaneous receipts. He then pointed out that, in spite of the reduction of the sugar duties the actual yield had fully made up the loss, and that the increase in the excise was little short of marvellous. In order to show the growth of the revenue of the country, he stated that between 1840 and 1852, the year preceding the outbreak of the Russian War, the balance of taxes repealed over taxes imposed amounted to upwards of of 5,000,000l.; from 1853 to 1859 it was between six and seven millions; and from 1859 to 1865 it was 6,137,000l. Thus in the first period, from 1840 to 1852, the annual rate of increase in revenue was 1,030,000l.; in the second period, 1,240,000l.; and in the third, 1,780,000l. In the balances of the country there had also been an increase of 348,000l., and the total amount of debt paid off in the year was 5,340,000l. In 1859 the public debt was 823,934,000l., and it now stood at 808,288,000l., showing a diminution in the six years of 17,646,000l. Referring to the effect of the legislation in reference to paper, he said that the trade had not left the country, nor did it evince any intention of doing so. On the contrary, it was striking its roots deeper and deeper; while, at the same time, the consumer was supplied more largely and more cheaply than at any former period. The importation of paper from abroad had risen to nearly half a million of money, and the amount of materials imported for making British paper had increased from 17,700 tons to 20,400 tons in 1862, to 44,000 tons in 1863; and to 67,000 tons in 1864. Our trade with France continued to increase. Although, as compared with two or three years ago, the exports of British produce had slightly diminished, the total trade with France was steadily increasing in imports as well as exports. In 1859 the total amount of our trade with France was 26,431,000l.; in 1864 it was 49,797,000l., showing an increase of 23,000,000l., or nearly 90 per cent. As regarded the whole trade of the country, it had undergone a large further increase in the year just expired, and now stood as follows:—imports, 274,000,000l.; exports, 212,000,000l.: total, 487,000,000l., showing an increase of 219,000,000l., since 1864. There was an impression that, although the increase in our trade was great, it was less than the increase in the trade of foreign countries. It was quite true that the trade of France exhibited a larger relative rate of increase than ours; but that was because the trade of France since the great war, and since the crushing depopulation of the last years of that war, remained under an unnatural depression. In France, in 1864, the exports were 78,000,000l.; and in 1863, 141,000,000l., showing an increase of 81 per cent. In the United Kingdom the exports, in 1854, were 116,000,000l.; and, in 1863, 197,000,000l., showing an increase of 70 per cent. He believed that enormous—nay, boundless—advantages had resulted from the inventive spirit which had distinguished the mechanism of the age, from the improvement in the methods of locomotion. He believed that the people might be said to pay to the railway at least thirty millions sterling a year; and it was a very moderate estimate to put the benefit which they otherwise derived from their introduction at another thirty millions stirling per annum. He believed that equal, if not greater, advantages had resulted from the removal of those obstructions which the perversity of man himself had placed on the freedom of trade and industry. It was given to the United Kingdom to lead the vanguard of civilisation; or, in the words of one of our greatest poets,

> To serve a model for a mighty world,
> And be a fair beginning of the time.

Having been associated very closely with Mr. Cobden in the negotiations on account of the French treaty, he might be permitted to take this opportunity of bearing his feeble testimony to the merits of one whom it was impossible not to call to mind on this occasion. Mr. Cobden needed no eulogy at his hands, for his memory was a part of the history of his country; and the recollection of his distinguished services would be the recollection of a character so pure, so courageous, so simple, so disinterested, and so devoted that it gave as much lustre to his great talents as it received lustre from them. He had now arrived at the revenue and expenditure of the present year. The charge of the Funded and Unfunded Debt was 26,350,000l.; the Consolidated Fund, 1,900,000l.; Army, 14,348,000l.; Navy, 10,392,000l.; collection of the revenue, 4,657,000l.; packet service, 842,000l.; miscellaneous, 7,650,000l.—making the total charges for the year 66,139,000l. The revenue he estimated as follows:—Customs, 22,775,000l.; excise, 19,030,000l.; stamps, 9,550,000l.; assessed taxes, 3,350,000l.; property tax, 7,800,000l.; Post Office, 425,000l.; Crown lands, 352,000l.; miscellaneous, 2,650,000l.; China indemnity, 450,000l.; making the total revenue, 70,170,000l. Deducting from this the expenditure of 66,139,000l., it showed a probable surplus of 4,031,000l. He now came to the disposal of this surplus. He would, first of all, propose to remove the anomaly in the conveyance and transfer of shares, by which, in order to effect a small saving, two were required instead of one. He proposed to place scrip, certificates, and receipts of bonds, both home and foreign, on the same footing. He also proposed to reduce the duty on agreements for letting small tenements from sixpence to one penny. He proposed to reduce the duty on appraisements to £5, and to relieve the special pleaders and conveyancers by putting them on the same footing as attorneys, by allowing them a reduction to the extent of half the duty for the first three years. He also proposed to reduce the stamp duties on ecclesiastical licenses where the operation of the present system prevented the use of the instrument to which such licenses applied. The next change was in the stamp on charterparties, which operated very hardly upon gentlemen in the north of England. At present the charge on a charterparty was 5s., and he proposed to reduce it to 6d., subject to the condition of having a proper printed stamped paper, because the Government preferred getting a 6d. duty properly secured to them rather than a 5s. duty which they only obtained in a very few instances. The duty on re-insurance imposed last year was proposed to be removed as being burdensome, and the duty on what were termed time policies in marine insurances was also to be reduced; and, lastly, a change would be made in the stamp duty on assurances given by certain companies against accidental death, personal injury, and damage to plate glass. He now came to the subject of the malt duty—with respect to which a debate had already arisen—on which many in that house entertained strong convictions, and which, undoubtedly, deserved the serious consideration of the House, as it had obtained the very laborious and minute inquiries of the Government. He would first of all advert to the arguments made use of with respect to the pressure of the malt duties on agriculture. It had been constantly said that they had not done anything for the agricultural classes. They had, in fact, for a series of years been trying to legislate in the interests of all classes, and not of an individual class. When did Parliament consent to surrender the revenue of the country in any other interest than the broad, general interest of the country? He thought that, if any proposal had been made in the interest of any class, they had done so in the interest of the growers of hops. With respect to the allegation made in regard to the charge on beer that, the duty being only 6,000,000l., the actual cost to the consumer was 20,000,000l. a year, he denied the accuracy of the assertion altogether. The real charge imposed by the malt duty and the license in enhancing the cost of beer he would show. There was one question which had been raised in connection with this duty, which he believed they had nearly heard the last of—namely, the preparation of malt for feeding cattle. It was now proved that malt was only an exceptionally good food for cattle, the proof being that, of twenty-eight malthouses opened for the preparation of malt for feeding purposes, eleven had closed, not on account of excise restrictions, but on account of want of demand for barley malted for cattle. If it were true that the effect of the tax of 6,000,000l. on malt imposed a burden of 20,000,000l. on the consumer of beer, it was plain that it must operate vastly to the benefit of those who obtained the intermediate amount of 14,000,000l. The truth was that the abolition of the malt duty would be the death-warrant of all our system of indirect taxation; for, with malt untaxed, it would be impossible to retain the tax on tea and sugar on the one hand, and on wine and spirits on the other. The question which he had to solve, with a view to the reduction of the duty on malt, was to arrive at the actual tax if placed on beer; and he boldly stated that 12½ per cent on beer, as asserted by the President of the Board of Trade, was a rigidly accurate estimate for purposes of comparison with the duties on tea and sugar. The result of the minutest inquiry by the revenue officers had proved that, taking a barrel of beer, the price was enhanced by the malt duty and its incidents to the extent of about 20 per cent, and he defied anyone to impugn that calculation. They would not be able to touch the malt duty to the extent of giving the consumer one farthing on the quart without, in the first year, involving a loss to the revenue of 2,480,000l., and in the second year of 3,360,000l. There would not only be no increase to the revenue from the increase of consumption, but the increased consumption would further diminish the revenue by decreasing the consumption of spirits. He was quite willing to set out with his opponents on the race of philanthropy; but, at all events, they must find the money for the nation first. The fact was that it would take a consumption in malt to the extent of 8l. to give to the revenue the amount contributed to it by the consumption of 1l. worth of spirits. Moreover, there would be a further loss from the demands it would give rise to by the representatives of Ireland and Scotland. What were the grounds for this inroad on their fiscal system? Was the beer trade a declining one? Was this excellent beverage no longer national? On the contrary, the trade was increasing, and that increase was mainly attributable to the burdens placed on spirits. He quoted returns to show that, while the consumption of malt per head of the population had increased, the consumption of spirits had decreased. With twenty millions of population the consumption of beer was twenty million barrels, or exactly one barrel per head. To show the powers of consumption enjoyed by the English people, the right hon. gentleman related an anecdote of a labourer on the Thames, who, in consequence of an accident, became an inmate of one of the hospitals in the East-End of London, upon whom it was necessary to perform an operation, but whose temperate habits it was necessary to ascertain in the first instance. A good character for temperance was given to the man; but, on inquiry, it was found that his temperance consisted in never drinking more than eight quarts a day. The average consumption of an intemperate man was estimated at from twelve to sixteen quarts per day, and it was further estimated that the total amount of beer consumed gave an average of 600 quarts per annum for every adult male in England. For his own part, he could not see what the producers of malt had to complain of when it was shown that the consumption of beer had been steadily increasing, and the price of the raw material regularly and progressively going up. At present the taxation upon beer was by no means so heavy, and justly so, as upon wine and spirits; but if beer ought not to be taxed more heavily than wine and spirits, then tea ought not to be taxed more heavily than beer, yet the tax upon a barrel of beer was only twenty per cent, as compared with the price of beer, while upon tea it was not less than 44 per cent. Returning to malt, he proposed to give the malster if he thought fit, the option of having the duty charged by weight. He held out no hope of the immediate reduction of the malt duty, but the position of the Government upon the subject of indirect taxation was not so favourable as it might be some time hence. Up to the present time they had felt it a paramount consideration to award a considerable portion of the reduction of taxation to the income tax. With regard to the malt tax, it was not in their power to ask the House to absorb so very large a portion of the surplus of the present year as would be necessary, together with the future burden that would be entailed in making a partial remission of the malt tax, and they had arrived at the conclusion, as the result of that examination of the relative weight of taxation, that the best step they could ask the House to take was to do that act of justice which hitherto had remained undone, and to place the duty upon tea in just relation to the duty upon beer. They thought it best to make a proposal that would be of a decisive character and afford the consumer the benefit of a considerable reduction. Taking the price of tea, as delivered out of bond, at 2s. 6d. per lb., they felt that if they could reduce the duty on tea by so large a sum as 6d. in the lb. they would cause a reduction in the wholesale price of the article of 20 per cent. The estimated consumption of tea for 1865-6 was 42,000,000 lbs., and the loss per 6d. a lb. would amount to 2,300,000*l.*; but, as a portion of the year had already expired, the total loss of revenue during the year would be 1,868,000*l.* The next question was that of the income tax. The justification of the present Parliament for not having redeemed previous pledges with respect to this tax was the fact already mentioned, that since the Russian War an increase of twelve millions had been made to the annual expenditure of the country. Under these circumstances, he could not see, as some persons appeared to think, that he himself was personally pledged to do away with the income tax; but it was now in his power to make a proposal to the House which would bring the income tax within manageable limits, and ask the House to reduce the income tax by two thirds, or 2d. in the pound. If this proposal were agreed to the annual yield of the income tax would be reduced to 5,200,000*l.*, at which figure the income tax would be handed over to the new Parliament. The yield of the tax was so rapidly increasing that 1d. in the pound produced the sum of 1,300,000*l.*, instead of a million. The result of the reduction, therefore, would be a loss to the revenue of 2,000,000*l.*; but of this sum only 1,650,000*l.* would accrue during the current year. The only remaining question with which he had now to deal was the fire insurance duty. The reductions which he had already indicated would absorb 3,518,000*l.* of his surplus, but it would still leave a narrow margin which would enable him to carry out the express wishes of the House. He referred to the resolution which was passed on March 31, on the motion of Mr. Sheridan; and, although the returns were not yet complete, the result of the reduction of the duty on stock in trade did not make him very sanguine as to the reduction leading to any great increase in the practice of insurance. He had estimated the recovery last year at the moderate figure of 10 per cent; but the returns did not at present come up to that amount. Nevertheless, he trusted that the reduction of the duty as indicated by the resolution of the House would lead to a considerable recovery. If it did, the result would be most satisfactory; but, if it did not, the Government had the means to effect a change, which would take place under the authority of the House, and it would then be its duty to consider whether it should not place the tax on a still more free and liberal footing. The yield of the fire insurance duty for the year without any alteration would be 1,450,000*l.*, but he should propose to reduce it to a uniform duty of 1s. 6d. from the 20th of June. He should also propose a further change, not indicated by the resolution of the House, but which would meet with general approval, and reduce the duty of the policy, which acted as a great obstacle to small insurances, but which was quite distinct from the duty on the annual renewal of the policy, from one shilling to a penny. The result will be that for half the year they will receive the duty at the old rate, or the sum of 725,000*l.* The rate of the new duty for the whole year would be 930,000*l.*, or a loss of 520,000*l.* for the whole year. Taking, then, the half of these new amounts, the whole amount of the duty for the current year would be 1,190,000*l.*, or a loss of 260,000*l.*, with a further loss in the following year of 260,000*l.* more. The result of the changes which he had now proposed might be briefly summarised as follows:—The reduction of the tea duties would give a relief of 2,200,000*l.*, the income tax 2,600,000*l.*, and the fire insurance duty 620,000*l.*, making, with the minor changes, a total relief of 5,420,000*l.*; but of this amount 3,778,000*l.* would fall within the current year. There would, therefore, be left a slight surplus of 254,000*l.*, which the Government asked the House to leave in its hands. There would, however, be a further loss of 1,417,000*l.* in the following year, making the permanent loss to the revenue of 5,195,000*l.* In conclusion, he forcibly urged the House to accept his scheme, which was intended to meet the interests of the whole community, and not for any particular class. It was simple in the extreme, considering that it dealt with a larger and more elaborate reduction in the taxation than had ever before been proposed at one time; and he trusted that it would win the approval of the House and gain the verdict of the country at large.

The right hon. gentleman sat down, after a speech of two hours and a half.

The resolution reducing the tea duties was, after some discussion, agreed to.

The reception of the financial scheme appeared to be remarkably favourable.

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

A stained-glass window, the first of several contemplated memorials to the late Archbishop Whately, has been erected in Stillorgan Church, in which parish his Grace had a residence.

A new church is to be built at Shedden, near Alton, in Hants, at the expense of Mr. John Wood, of Theddon Grange. The foundation-stone was laid last week.

The annual ceremonial of graduation in Divinity, Law, and Arts at the University of Edinburgh took place, on Monday, in the hall of the General Assembly—Sir D. Brewster, Principal and Vice-Chancellor, presiding.

The Lord Bishop of St. David's has appointed Dr. Travers Twiss, D.C.L., to the office of Chancellor of the diocese. Dr. Twiss is Chancellor of three other dioceses—London, Lincoln, and Hereford.

The opening of the mission church in the district of St. Barnabas, South Lambeth, the foundation-stone of which was laid on the 5th of July, last year, took place on Sunday.

The Bishop of London held a confirmation on Wednesday, at Christ Church, Newgate-street, when a large number of young members of Christ's Hospital was confirmed.

On Easter Monday, after an appropriate service, heartily joined in by all present, the foundation-stone of Bettws Penpont Chapel, near Brecon, South Wales, which is about to be rebuilt from designs by Mr. Gilbert Scott, was laid by Mrs. Garnons Williams, of Abercamlais.

Trinity Church, Bury, was consecrated by the Bishop of Manchester on Wednesday week. It has been erected at a cost of about £5500, entirely obtained by voluntary subscriptions. The site was given by the Earl of Derby, who has also subscribed £1000 to the endowment fund.

The church at Timperley, Cheshire, which has been enlarged, was reopened on Easter Sunday. The enlargement has given 300 additional sittings, and 100 in different parts of the church have been made free. The work consists of an extended chancel, with organ-chamber and choristers' seats, transepts, and four stained-glass windows by Edmundson, of Manchester.

On Thursday week the parish church of North Kilworth, Leicestershire, was reopened, after a complete restoration and the addition of a south aisle, which was required for the accommodation of the congregation. The font and altar-cloth were presented by Miss Belgrave, the Rector's sister. The lectern was carved by Miss L. Dacres, and an almsdish was given by the Rector's wife.

On Wednesday week a new school-room was opened at Frieth, in the parish of Hambleden, Bucks. The upland population of this parish consists of about 500, scattered in several hamlets, of which the largest is Frieth, about three miles from the mother church of Hambleden. To the Rector's untiring exertions the parish is indebted for this the third school which he has built in this large and scattered parish, besides the erection of Frieth Chapel and the restoration of the now magnificent parish church at Hambleden.

At Cambridge, the Adams prize, of the value of about £110, given biennially for the best essay upon some subject of pure mathematics, astronomy, or other branch of natural philosophy, and open to all persons who have at any time been admitted to a degree in the University, has been awarded to Edward Walker, M.A., of Trinity College. Subject, "A Systematic Account of the Phenomena and Laws of Terrestrial and Cosmical Magnetism, so far as they have been hitherto ascertained by experiment." The adjudicators consider that the successful essay most completely fulfils the conditions proposed in the announcement of the subject. They are, however, of opinion that the essay with the motto "Behold, we know not anything!" was of nearly equal merit.

The parish church of Winwick, Huntingdonshire, was reopened for Divine service on Thursday last, after having undergone a complete restoration. The entire cost of the alterations has been defrayed by the patron, the Duke of Buccleuch, who has also erected the new parsonage-house adjoining the church. The cost of the church was £1600, the house and stables, £1860; the architects for both were Messrs. Slater and Carpenter.

Isleham Church, having been restored, under Mr. Street, architect, was reopened on Thursday week, when the Bishop of Ely preached. In 1862 the dilapidated tower fell down, and the church threatened to follow; but the energy of the Vicar, the Rev. T. A. Maning, prevented the catastrophe. The Vicar at his own cost restored the chancel, and some ladies in the parish provided the necessary carpets, altar-cloth, &c., the latter article being the gift and work of Mrs. G. F. Robins. The church has been reseated with low and comfortable seats of Baltic timber, a new organ has been erected, and a handsome clock, with two faces, has been placed in the tower. The elegant lectern, which is considered one of the best in England, has been carefully restored. The open roof is very good, and the five bells have been replaced in the tower, and during the day played numerous peals. The total cost of the undertaking, including the re-erection of the tower, was between £2000 and £3000. Of this amount about £300 still remains unpaid.

The Archbishop of York, on Tuesday week, consecrated the church of Welburn, near Castle Howard, which was built, about five years ago, by the late Earl of Carlisle, in memory of his mother. Yesterday week his Grace consecrated a little church to hold 100 persons at St. Helen's, Kilnsea, in Holderness. The old church—a fine building in the Early English style—was gradually undermined by the ravages of the sea, and eventually washed down in the year 1826, and but little of it was saved, with the exception of the stone pillars and the tracery of the windows. Divine service had been performed in different cottage rooms since the destruction of the old church. Mr. A. Burgess, C.E., of Blackheath, having occasionally passed the place on his professional visits to Spurn Point, struck with the poverty of the place, kindly offered plans for a church free of all expense, and gave £150 towards its completion, and, with the aid of the Diocesan Society and various subscriptions, the present building has been erected. Mr. Leonard Thompson, the patron, gave the site.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

The Two Thousand and Derby markets have calmed down considerably since "the three spasms" of last week, the scratching of Liddington, the scratching of Broomielaw, and the purchase of Kangaroo by the Marquis of Hastings for, it is said, £6000. Liddington's defeat seems to have been so decisive that no one expects to see him run for the Two Thousand. The owner of Breadalbane and Broomielaw has taken the unprecedented course of informing the public, through the press, exactly how the trial was brought off and what was the result. The bay, it seems, went quite as fast as the chestnut, and stayed better, and won by three lengths. While the horses were "jumping about" in the market, the public blamed Mr. Chaplin for lack of candour, and now his very unusual candour has made them so suspicious that, to judge from the betting, they treat the trial with contempt. Kangaroo's dam has been discovered, "a bag of bones," in a field near Barnet, and is now being made much of at Epsom. Some will maintain that Kangaroo, with two such engagements, would not have been sold unless the stable had a better horse in Longdown; and not a few hold by Wild Charley, and consider that his public trial with Ackworth at Northampton is good enough to win any Derby. And so the week looms in sight big with the fate of one of the 10,000 guinea Chaplin pair, the £6000 Kangaroo, the mysterious Chattanooga, and the dark 3000 guinea yearling Archimedes. Cambuscan and Ely met for the fourth time last week, and, although they have each won twice, there seems no question as to the chestnut's superiority and ability to try Archimedes as highly as he would seem to have done. General Peel's and Fille de l'Air's race was the finest finish of the season so far, and there has been no rush like the one with which Aldcroft wound up the remarkable Craven week on Missionary. Epsom's leading events were of a stirring kind. Old Hesper won a half mile handicap at 10 st. 10 lb.; Argonaut, another of the old ones, carried top weight and just managed to give 37 lb. and defeat The Grinder in a splendid finish for the City and Suburban; little fourteen-two Qui Vive was made to race for it in earnest at last, and barely got home a head from Valentine; and Mr. Craven had a well-deserved slice of luck in the Metropolitan, with Planet, who was second to Scamander in the Northamptonshire Stakes, after being disappointed.

Her Majesty's stag-hounds ended their season, which has been a good one, on Friday, the 21st inst., at Stonor Park. "Cranbourne" was the deer for the fourth April in succession; but, when he reached Newnham, he changed his mind about going to Oxford, as he did in 1862-4, and, bending round towards Abingdon, was taken in the goods station. For the first twenty minutes the pace was good, but the sun became too hot for scent when they sunk the Vale.

With the exception of the Duke of Beaufort's, which are still hunting four days a week, and will kill a May fox, the packs have all had their last day. Most of them did not go beyond the 13th, as there was no scent over the plough. Some of the middle-aged huntsmen declare that they do not remember a worse season. The Belvoir have been out 108 days and killed 111 foxes, and run thirty brace to ground. The Wynnstay lost thirty-two hunting days with frost, and yet killed their fifty brace. John Walker retires, after upwards of forty seasons as huntsman, eighteen of which he has spent at Wynnstay, and Charles Payne takes office on May 15. A subscription has been set on foot to secure Jem Hills £100 a year for life, and we believe that two thirds of the requisite sum has been already promised.

EPSOM SPRING MEETING.—TUESDAY.

Trial Stakes.—Twilight, 1. Birch Broom, 2.
Inkerman Plate.—Hesper, 1. Romola, 2. The Gem, 3.
City and Suburban Handicap.—Argonaut, 1. Grinder, 2. Swordsman, 3.
Two-Year-Old Stakes.—Qui Vive, 1. Valentine, 2. Cairngorm, 3.
Heathcote Plate.—Juncaton, 1. Foxholes, 2. Bittern, 3.
Lnodon Bridge Stakes.—Halifax, 1. Canzonette, 2. Roseneath, 3.

WEDNESDAY.

Sweepstakes of 200 sovs.—Viceroy, 1. Discretion, 2.
Waterloo Plate.—Nip, 1. Advance, 2. Approver, 3.
Walton Stakes.—Attaché, 1. Catalogue, 2. Plutus, 3.
Great Metropolitan Stakes.—Planet, 1. Sandal, 2. Blackdown, 3.
Balaclava Stakes.—Balornock, 1. Costrel f., 2. Shamrock, 3.
Durdans Stakes.—Lytham, 1. Idler, 2. Queen of Spain, 3.
New Two-Year-Old Stakes.—Mazeppa, 1. Fleurette, 2. Lochiel, 3.

LATEST BETTING AT TATTERSALLS'.—THURSDAY EVENING.

Two Thousand.—7 to 2 agst Breadalbane (t f), 7 to 2 agst Kangaroo (t), 100 to 15 agst Ariel (t), 11 to 1 agst Archimedes (off.), 100 to 6 agst Chattanooga (t), 100 to 8 agst Bedminster (t).

The Derby.—7 to 1 agst Breadalbane (t), 8 to 1 agst The Duke (off.), 15 to 1 agst Ariel (t), 100 to 6 agst Archimedes (t), 33 to 1 agst Chattanooga (t), 33 to 1 agst Christmas Carol (t).

Chester Cup.—9 to 1 agst Ackworth, 10 to 1 agst Victorious, 13 to 1 agst La Touques, 14 to 1 agst Lord Zetland, 25 to 1 agst Leprochaun, 25 to 1 agst Chocolate.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

The news at hand to the effect that President Lincoln has been assassinated has had a depressing influence upon the value of most national securities. The operations, both for Money and Time, have been much restricted, although the supply of stock in the hands of the jobbers is small. The Unfunded Debt has continued heavy. There is a large supply of capital on offer in the general discount market. The demand for accommodation has slightly increased.

In the Stock Exchange loans are offered at 3 to 3½ per cent.

Very little change has taken place in the value of money on the Continent. Several parcels of gold have been received from Australia and America; but over £300,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank of England for export purposes.

The first dividend of 8s. in the pound under the bankruptcy of the Leeds Banking Company has been paid.

The quantity of gold now on passage from Australia is about £320,000.

Home Stocks fluctuated in the earlier part of the week, but on Thursday the market was firmer:—Consols, for Money, sold at 90⅞ ⅞ 91; for Account, 90⅞ ⅞ 91; Reduced and New Three per Cents 88¾ 89; India Five per Cents, 106¾ to 107; and Exchequer Bills, 5s. to 8s. prem.

The market for all Foreign Securities has ruled heavy, and an almost general fall has taken place in prices; in Joint-stock Bank Shares a very moderate business has been transacted; Canada Government Securities have fluctuated to some extent in value; otherwise, the market for Colonial Government Securities has ruled steady; the Miscellaneous Market has continued quiet; and the Railway Share Market has been very inactive, and prices have not been supported.

THE MARKETS.

Corn Exchange, April 24.—There was only a moderate supply of English wheat on sale here to-day, and all kinds moved off steadily, at an advance in the quotations of 1s. per quarter. Fine foreign wheats were firm, and quite as dear as last week; but inferior kinds commanded very little attention. Floating cargoes were held for rather more money. English barley sold steadily; foreign parcels slowly, at late quotations. The inquiry for malt was in a sluggish state, on former terms. Although the imports from abroad were considerably on the increase, oats were firm, and quite as dear as last week. Beans and peas commanded extreme rates, with a steady inquiry. The flour trade was tolerably firm.

April 26.—Most kinds of produce were in fair request, to-day, at prices equal to Monday.

English.—Wheat, Essex and Kent, red, 38s. to 43s.; ditto, white, 40s. to 48s.; Norfolk and Suffolk, red, 38s. to 42s.; rye, 26s. to 27s.; grinding barley, 23s. to 24s.; distilling ditto, 25s. to 28s.; malting ditto, 27s. to 34s.; Lincoln and Norfolk malt, 54s. to 61s.; brown ditto, 47s. to 51s.; Kingston and Ware, 54s. to 61s.; Chevalier, 58s. to 62s.; Yorkshire and Lincolnshire feed oats, 19s. to 23s.; potato ditto, 23s. to 27s.; Youghal and Cork, black, 18s. to 23s.; ditto, white, 19s. to 24s.; tick beans, 33s. to 35s.; grey peas, 34s. to 36s.; maple, 36s. to 39s.; white, 34s. to 36s.; boilers, 37s. to 38s. per quarter.

Arrivals this Week.—English and Scotch: Wheat, 650; barley, 670; malt, 1760; oats, 540; flour, 590. Foreign: Wheat, 7150; barley, 2890; oats, 48,570; flour, 1410 sacks.

Seeds.—Clover seed is rather cheaper, and the demand for most other seeds is inactive. In cakes very little is passing.

Linseed, English, crushing, 56s. to 62s.; Calcutta, 57s. to 58s.; hempseed, 42s. to 43s. per quarter; coriander, 22s. to 24s. per cwt.; brown mustard seed, 10s. to 12s.; white ditto, 8s. 0d. to 10s.; tares, 9s. 0d. to 10s. 0d. per bushel; English rapeseed, 64s. to 72s. per quarter; linseed cakes, English, £10 15s. to £11 0s.; ditto, foreign, £11 0s. to £11 5s.; rapecakes, £6 0s. to £6 10s. per ton; red clover seed, 64s. to 120s.; white ditto, 66s. to 94s. per cwt.

Bread.—The prices of wheaten bread in the metropolis are from 6½d. to 7d.; of household ditto, 5d. to 6d. per 4 lb. loaf.

Averages of Grain.—Wheat, 39s. 7d.; barley, 30s. 0d.; oats, 22s. 7d. per quarter.

English Grain Sold Last Week.—Wheat, 62,003; barley, 19,049; oats, 3143 quarters.

Tea.—The demand for nearly all kinds rules steady, at full quotations. The supply on offer is very extensive.

Sugar.—An advance of 1s. per cwt. has taken place in the value of raw qualities, at which a large business has been transacted. Stock, 85,806 tons against 65,527 tons in 1864. Refined goods are in fair request, at 43s. per cwt. for common brown lumps.

Coffee.—This article is still in good request, at a further improvement in value of from 6d. to 1s. per cwt. The stock amounts to 9973 tons, against 7960 tons last year.

Rice.—Prices are firmly supported, with a steady inquiry. Stock, 43,834 tons, against 48,094 tons last year.

Provisions.—Irish butter is a slow inquiry. Some new Cork qualities have sold at 91s. to 92s. per cwt. In foreign parcels very little is doing, at late rates. Bacon is dearer, 71s. to 72s. per cwt. having been paid for Waterford on board. Hams are 2s. per cwt higher. In other provisions about an average business is doing.

Tallow.—The transactions are on a very moderate scale. P.Y.C., on the spot, is selling at 41s. 3d. per cwt. Stock, 35,656 casks, against 50,382 ditto last year. Rough fat, 2s. 0½d. per 8 lb.

Oils.—Linseed oil is a slow inquiry, at £31 15s.; rape is offering at £41 to £43; olive, £46 10s. to £52; cocoanut, £39 10s. to £43; fine palm, £36 10s.; and sperm, £92. French turpentine sells slowly, at 59s. 6d. per cwt.

Spirits.—Rum is in fair request, at fully late rates. Brandy and grain spirits are inactive, but not cheaper.

Hay and Straw.—Meadow hay, £4 10s. to £5 15s.; clover, £5 10s. to £6 10s.; and straw, £1 8s. to £1 16s. per load.

Coals.—Hetton, 19s.; Tees, 18s. 6d.; Harton, 16s. 3d.; Wylam, 16s. 6d.; Holywell, 16s. 6d.; Hough Hall, 17s.; South Kelloe, 17s.; Hartley's, 16s. 3d. per ton.

Hops.—Fine qualities are in moderate request, at full quotations. In other kinds very little is doing. Prices range from 110s. to 200s. per cwt.

Wool.—The demand may be considered steady, at previous quotations.

Potatoes.—The supplies are only moderate, and the demand is inactive, at from 60s. to 90s. per ton.

Metropolitan Cattle Market.—Thursday, April 27.—The supply of beasts on sale at our market to-day was tolerably large, and the general quality of the stock was good. For all breeds the trade was very dull, and prices declined 2d. per 8 lb. Prime Scots, crosses, &c., sold at 4s. 10d. per 8 lb. Most breeds of sheep were in moderate supply. Good and prime Downs and half-breds changed hands at full prices—viz., at 5s. 10d. to 6s. per 8 lb., out of the wool; but inferior breeds were somewhat lower in value than on Monday. All good and prime lambs sold at high prices—viz., at 7s. 8d. to 8s., to, in some instances, 8s. 4d. per 8 lb.; inferior lambs, however, moved off slowly, at late rates. Calves were in large supply and heavy request, at a decline in the prices of 6d. per 8 lb., the top figure being 5s. 2d. per 8 lb. Pigs met a slow sale, at late rates. There was a large supply of suckling calves on sale.

Per 8 lb. to sink the offal:—Coarse and inferior beasts, 3s. 4d. to 3s. 8d.; second quality ditto, 3s. 10d. to 4s. 2d.; prime large oxen, 4s. 4d. to 4s. 6d.; prime Scots, &c., 4s. 8d. to 4s. 10d.; coarse and inferior sheep, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 8d.; second quality ditto, 4s. 10d. to 5s. 2d.; prime coarse-woolled ditto, 5s. 4d. to 5s. 8d.; prime Southdown ditto, 5s. 10d. to 6s. 0d.; large coarse calves, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 8d.; prime small ditto, 4s. 10d. to 5s. 2d.; large hogs, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 4d.; neat small porkers, 4s. 6d. to 4s. 10d.; lambs, 6s. 8d. to 8s. 0d.; suckling calves, 18s. to 21s.; and quarter-old store pigs, 20s. to 25s. each. Total supply: Beasts, 1180; cows, 125; sheep and lambs, 5850; calves, 590; pigs, 210. Foreign: Beasts, 750; sheep, 1230; calves, 350.

Newgate and Leadenhall.—The supplies of meat are moderate, and sales progress slowly at barely late rates.

ROBERT HERBERT.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 21.

BANKRUPTS.

P. ROGERS, Lower Marsh, Lambeth, and London-wall, cheesemonger.—H. TYLER, Thurlow-place, Walworth.—B. MOORES, Poole, grocer.—J. WEST, High Barnet, Hertford, dairyman.—W. BOUTELL, Erith.—H. G. BUSKIN, Mark-lane, cornfactor.—E. BRET, Edward-square, Caledonian-road, football-maker.—E. BEATON, Lower Tottenham, tailor.—T. WILLSON, Hammersmith, architect.—G. TROUP, Queen Margaret-grove, Islington, journalist.—J. MILLER, New Cross.—R. MANTON, Herbert-street, New North-road.—R. JEFFREYS, jun., Langham-place, Great Portland-street, picture-dealer. M. A. FLOOD, Bedford.—T. J. E. MUDD, Ipswich, butcher.—G. BAYNTON, Tottenham. C. J. DAY, Francis-street, Islington.—J. GLANCY, Ironmonger-lane, St. Luke's.—D. MIZON, Ingrave, Essex, baker.—C. A. WERTHER, Grosvenor-place, Camberwell, agent. J. CROSBER, Hockley, grocer.—T. R. POTTER, Wymeswould, schoolmaster.—G. GILES, Northleach, baker.—J. WEBB, Lydford, Devonshire, farmer.—E. W. COSSINS, Teignmouth, dairyman.—G. WELCH, Menheniot, Cornwall, manure merchant.—P. THOMAS, Liverpool, cabinetmaker.—J. ORR, Liverpool, bricklayer.—W. BARKER, Liverpool, contractor.—W. MARQUIS, Liverpool, watchmaker.—J. BURSCOUGH, Accrington, broker.—W. BRINDLE, Bolton, baker.—T. LONSDALE, Old Accrington, cotton-spinner.—R. ASHWORTH, Manchester, spindle-maker.—J. FAIRBAIRN, Sunderland, hosier.—E. GRANT, Sunderland, stationer.—W. GATES, Wythop, miller.—J. BELL, Middle Skelgill, general dealer.—G. NOAKES, St. Leonards, blacksmith.—H. MELVILLE, Everton, timber-dealer.—E. G. CLARKE, Liverpool, hosier.—A. JORDAN, Garadiffath, shoemaker.—J. A. M'CABE, Everton, agent.—G. ROBINSON, Yeaveley, plumber.—H. MILLS, Cirencester, watchmaker.—W. CAMPBELL, Manchester, provision-dealer.—T. WILLIAMS, jun., Willenhall, miner.—M. LENNON, Wolverhampton, wheelwright.—J. W. SMITH, Huddersfield, commission agent.—W. MEDLEY, Deighton, stonemason.—T. PERRY, Kingston-on-Hull, fishmonger.—T. BEESON, jun., Manchester, agent.—W. BAMFORD, Sheffield, grocer.—C. KING, Torquay, tailor.—A. CLARKSON, Cheddleton, chemist.—G. SANDERS, Tewkesbury, victualler.—W. MATTHEWS, Dudleston, innkeeper.—C. VEAL, Cardiff, grocer.—D. EVANS, Merthyr Tydfil, smith.—J. ROBINSON, New Brighton, cotton-dealer.—J. BROOKE, Almondbury, woollen-spinner.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

J. and D. WILSON, Dumbarton, grocers.—J. CRAN, Drakemyre, Inverkeithny, farmer. J. PATERSON, Johnstone, spirit-dealer.

TUESDAY, APRIL 25.

BANKRUPTCIES ANNULLED.

J. WOOD, New Malton, Yorkshire, builder.—S. PRIESTLEY, Horton, Yorkshire, farmer.

BANKRUPTS.

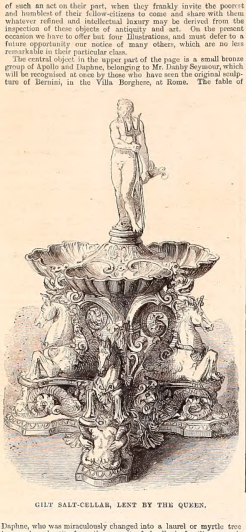
R. D. CARSLAKE, Richmond-road, Hackney, baker.—E. HOLLAND, Kensworth, Herts, grocer.—J. S. CHENHALL, Tokenhouse-yard, mining engineer.—W. GANDER, Mile-end-road, builder.—F. C. GREETHAM, Landport, tobacconist.—A. LUCAS, Hackney, shipping-agent.—I. PARASIERS, Welling, schoolmaster.—G. R. TERRY, Brighton, stonedealer.—J. SHAW, Cambridge-heath, boiler-maker.—D. FARRANCE, Mile-end Old Town, licensed victualler.—T. DIKE, Pimlico, bootmaker.—G. J. HESSING, Walworth, cheesemonger.—S. L. CURGENVEN, Woolwich, Captain in her Majesty's Military Train.—J. SURRIDGE, Lewisham, plumber.—F. J. and N. STRAHAN, Cheetham, chair-manufacturers.—H. KNIGHT, Slough, baker.—C. R. MATHEWS, St. Giles's, gasfitter.—W. HANCOCK, Birlingham, builder.—T. BROOMFIELD, Warwick, baker.—J. MOORE, Birmingham, gun-barrel manufacturer.—J. JONES, Wednesbury, haydealer.—J. M. NICHOLAS, St. George, merchant.—G. E. SILCOX, Bath, jeweller.—J. O. JENNINGS, Exeter, cattle-dealer.—H. ARMSTRONG, Mulgrave Alum-works, alum manufacturer.—J. CADDICK, Pessley Cross, grocer.—D. JONES, Wilton, builder.—J. ROBERTS, Colwyn, joiner.—J. DALE, Conway, butcher.—W. THOMASON, Manchester, cotton-dealer.—J. WOODCOCK, Sheffield, edge-tool manufacturer.—H. MECKLENBURG, Manchester, commission agent.—C. SHEARS, Exeter, innkeeper.—T. WATSON, Ainstable, joiner.—H. STRINGER, Warrington, victualler.—T. KERSHAW, near Oldham, stonemason.—W. RAWDING, Swinderby, farmer.—E. GARNER, Bournheath, farrier.—P. HARRISON, Horton, tinner. J. A. CUSHION, Southrepps, farmer.—G. WESTON, Quemerford, builder.—J. JARMAN, Bury, coachbuilder.—J. HOWARD, Burringham-on-Trent, tailor.—J. M. TEMPLE, Darlington, malster.—S. MITCHELL, High Wycombe, saddle-maker.—W. GEORGE, Chipping Wycombe, chair manufacturer.—F. K. TROTTER, Lincoln, surgeon dentist.—R. ALLEN, Barton, baker.—S. MONTGOMERY, Tranmere, schoolmaster.—J. H. CRAVEN, Heifer Law Bank, Northumberland, cattle salesman.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

J. FRASER, Paisley, printer.—A. M'LELLAN, Knockdon, Ayrshire, underwriter.—J. MAIKLEM, Glasgow, carter.—J. BACON, Dundee, grate manufacturer.—A. MILLAR, Glasgow, pawnbroker.—A. SUTHERLAND, Alloa, tailor.—W. ANDERSON, jun., Glasgow, manufacturer.—G. MACLEAN, Heynish, Tyree, farmer.—A. MACGREGOR, Forres, Elginshire, farmer.—J. YOUNG, engraver to calico printers.—F. RENNEY and A. A. F. ROSS, Dundee, manufacturers.

THE ARMSTRONG GUNS IN THE DUBLIN EXHIBITION.

The preparations for the Dublin International Exhibition are going on with the greatest possible activity; and as we gave an Illustration, last week, of the arrival and unloading of one of the great Armstrong guns, sent by the War Department from Woolwich, so the Engraving we now present shows the artillerymen employed in fixing the gun-carriage in its due position. There is something piquant, and also suggestive of interesting reflections, in the presence of these mighty implements of warfare in the midst of a great collection of the products of peaceful art and industry, contributed by most of the civilised nations of the world. It is since the Exhibition of 1851 that the greatest triumphs of mechanical ingenuity, directed to the improvement of our means of destruction, have been chiefly displayed.



THE ART LOAN COLLECTION IN THE SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM.

We shall, from time to time, present a few Engravings to illustrate the most noteworthy specimens of art and art-manufacture now opened to public view by the kindness of their private owners, who have allowed them to be placed in the temporary or loan exhibition at the South Kensington Museum. The liberality which has prompted so many of the fortunate possessors of these curious and beautiful objects to intrust them for a considerable time to the custody of the officers of the Department of Science and Art, for the gratification of the three quarters of a million of people who visit the museum in the course of a year, deserves our very best thanks. It is not a favour which costs them no personal sacrifice, for it cannot be doubted that they will miss the presence of the choicest and most precious ornaments of their own houses. Mr. Gladstone sends his classical porcelain statuettes; Mr. Beresford Hope sends his collection of jewels and church utensils; Mr. Barker and Miss Theresa Diamond their majolica and Venetian glass; Lord Chesham his antique watches, snuffboxes, and miniatures; Canon Rock, his old ecclesiastical furniture. Every one of these ladies and gentlemen, from the Queen downwards, is good enough to spare, for our pleasure and instruction, some of those things which their own personal tastes have most inclined them to study and to cherish. We cannot but feel sensible of the gracefulness of such an act on their part, when they frankly invite the poorer and humblest of their fellow-citizens to come and share with them whatever refined and intellectual luxury may be derived from the inspection of those objects of antiquity and art. On the present occasion we have to offer but four Illustrations, and must defer to a future opportunity our notice of many others, which are no less remarkable in their particular class.

THE LOAN COLLECTION AT THE SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM.

The central object in the upper part of the page is a small bronze group of Apollo and Daphne, belonging to Mr. Danby Seymour, which will be recognised at once by those who have seen the original sculpture of Bernini, in the Villa Borghese, at Rome. The fable of GILT SALT-CELLAR, LENT BY THE QUEEN.

BRONZE GROUP OF APOLLO AND DAPHNE.

Daphne, who was miraculously changed into a laurel or myrtle tree to save her chastity from the pursuit of Apollo, is familiar enough to the readers of Ovid and Lempriere. One side of this group of statuettes is a bronze vase, with its lid surmounted by a small figure of Pan holding his pipe; and with heads of satyrs and other figures on its sides. This vase, which is a work of the sixteenth century, belongs to the Queen, as well as the gilt salt-cellar, on the other side, with its figure of Neptune on the top and three sea-horses for the piperies of the shells. The wooden model of Sir Christopher Wren's original design for St. Paul's Cathedral is lent by the Dean and Chapter, who have preserved it since the year 1673. It is some 10 ft. high to the summit of the dome, and large enough for Tom Thumb to walk through the nave. The differences between this original design of the famous architect and the cathedral as it was actually built are so obvious that we need not paint them out. His colleagues in the Royal commission for this work chose rather to adhere to the conventional form of a cathedral with aisles. But he lived to see the building finished as it now stands.

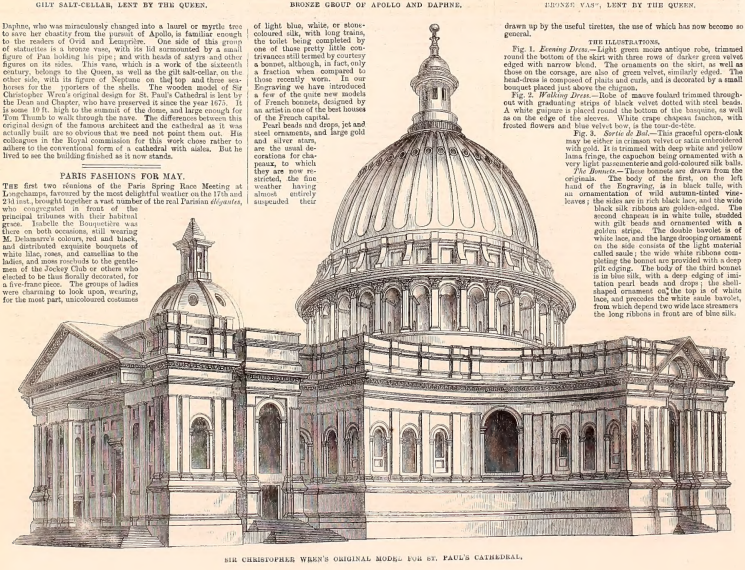
PARIS FASHIONS FOR MAY.

THE first two réunions of the Paris Spring Race Meeting at Longchamps, favoured by the most delightful weather on the 17th and 24th inst., brought together a vast number of the real Parisian élégantes, who congregated in front of the principal tribunes with their habitual grace. Isabelle the Bonquetière was there on both occasions, still wearing M. Delamarre's colours, red and black, and distributed exquisite bouquets of white lilac, roses, and camellias to the ladies, and moss rosebuds to the gentlemen of the Jockey Club or others who elected to be thus floreally decorated, for a five-franc piece. The groups of ladies were charming to look upon, wearing, for the most part, unicoloured costumes of light blue, white, or stone-coloured silk, with long trains, the toilet being completed by one of those pretty little contrivances still termed by courtesy a bonnet, although, in fact, only a fraction when compared to those recently worn. In our Engraving we have introduced a few of the quite new models of French bonnets, designed by an artist in one of the best houses of the French capital.

Pearl beads and drops, jet and steel ornaments, and large gold and silver stars, are the usual decorations for chapeaux, to which they are now restricted, the fine weather having almost entirely suspended their application to robes. The steel ornaments enjoy, indeed, a tremendous vogue just now, but persons well informed say that this mode cannot last, and that Parisian caprice will very shortly set it aside.

Our limited space obliges us to conclude with a mutinus in parvo, to the effect that the materials indicated for the month of May are, in consideration of the advanced state of the season, light plain silks, spotted muslins, and patterned foulards; and, as to the style of the dresses, they should be provided with an ornamental basquine, a high-necked corsage, and a long independent train, capable of being drawn up by the useful tirettes, the use of which has now become so general.

BRONZE VASE, LENT BY THE QUEEN.



THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

Fig. 1. Evening Dress.—Light green moiré antique robe, trimmed round the bottom of the skirt with three rows of darker green velvet edged with narrow bleud. The ornaments on the skirt, as well as those on the corsage, are also of green velvet, similarly edged. The head-dress is composed of plaits and curls, and is decorated by a small bouquet placed just above the chignon.

Fig. 2. Walking Dress.—Robe of mauve foulard trimmed throughout with graduating stripes of black velvet dotted with steel beads. A white guipure is placed round the bottom of the basquine, as well as on the edge of the sleeves. White crape chapeau fanchon, with frosted flowers and blue velvet bow, is the tour-de-tête.

Fig. 3. Sortie de Bal.—The graceful opera-cloak may be either in crimson velvet or satin embroidered with gold. It is trimmed with deep white and yellow lama fringe, the capuchon being ornamented with a very light passementerie and gold-coloured silk balls.

The Bonnets.—These bonnets are drawn from the originals. The body of the first, on the left hand of the Engraving, is in black tulle, with an ornamentation of wild autumn-tinted vine-leaves; the sides are in rich black lace, and the wide black silk ribbons are golden-edged. The second chapeau is in white tulle, studded with gilt beads and ornamented with a golden stripe. The double bavolet is of white lace, and the large drooping ornament on the side consists of the light material called saule; the wide white ribbons completing the bonnet are provided with a deep gilt edging. The body of the third bonnet is in blue silk, with a deep edging of imitation pearl beads and drops; the shell-shaped ornament on the top is of white lace, and precedes the white tulle bavolet, from which depend two wide lace streamers the long ribbons in front are of blue silk.

SIR CHRISTOPHER WREN'S ORIGINAL MODEL FOR ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

ARTILLERYMEN PLACING THE GUN-CARRIAGES AT THE DUBLIN EXHIBITION PALACE.—SEE PAGE 399.

PARIS FASHIONS FOR MAY.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

NEW BOOKS.

NEW NOVEL BY THE AUTHOR OF "LADY AUDLEY'S SECRET," &c.
On May 10, at all Libraries, in 3 vols.,

ONLY A CLOD.
JOHN MAXWELL and CO., Publishers, 122, Fleet-street.

CHEAP EDITION OF "HENRY DUNBAR."
This day, in one vol., with Frontispiece and Vignette Titlepage, in cloth, price 6s., uniform with the Author's previous Works,

HENRY DUNBAR.
By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret," &c.
JOHN MAXWELL and CO., 122, Fleet-street.

CHEAP EDITION OF "SACKVILLE CHASE."
This day, in 1 vol., Frontispiece and Vignette Titlepage, 6s.,

SACKVILLE CHASE.
JOHN MAXWELL and CO., 122, Fleet-street.

CHEAP EDITION OF "BROKEN TO HARNESS."
This day, in 1 vol., Frontispiece and Vignette Titlepage, 6s.,

BROKEN TO HARNESS.
JOHN MAXWELL and CO., 122, Fleet-street.

CHEAP EDITION OF "SIR VICTOR'S CHOICE."
This day, in 1 vol., Frontispiece and Vignette Titlepage, 6s.,

SIR VICTOR'S CHOICE.
JOHN MAXWELL and CO., 122, Fleet-street.

On Friday, April 28, price One Shilling,

THE WATCH-TOWER,
A New Monthly Magazine, Illustrated.
Contents for May :—
I. In the Vicarage. No. I.—After Work.
II. On the Watch-Tower (with an Illustration).
III. May Day. By the Rev. J. R. Vernon, M.A.
IV. The Holy Land.
V. Our Novvice.
VI. Through the Furnace (with an Illustration).
Chap. V. Laurence Annesley' Trial.
" VI. The Eve of the Wedding.
VII. Rhyme and Rhythm. By Martin F. Tupper.
VIII. Under the Limes.
IX. D. W. By Mary Brotherton.
X. Modernism.
XI. The Light-Bearers.
Office of "The Watch-Tower," 158, Fleet-street.

Now publishing, price 6d. monthly, Illustrated,

THE DAY OF REST,
A Magazine for every Home and for all Classes.
CONTENTS OF PART I. :—
The Hidden Sin. A Novel. Illustrated. Chapters I. to X.—Word Lore.—My First Patient. A "Sensation" Story.—The Waste and the Plough. A Poem.—To the Public.—Errors of Justice. No. I. : M. and Mdme. D'Englade.—Amongst Old Books.—University Education. A Dialogue.—The Whispering Gallery.—Houses on Fire.—In the Reporters' Gallery.—Meddahs, or Eastern Story-tellers.—Rest at Last. A Poem.—Last Rites.—Over the Stones. No. I. : Wayside Faces.—Alchemy.—Shadows. No. I. : Marie Antoinette.—A Working Man on the "Day of Rest."—The Americans at Home.—The Snow Shower. A Poem.—The Shepherd Lord Clifford.—The Generous Slave.—Lock-outs and Strikes.—The Bible on the Continent.—Education Bluebooks.—Faith. A Poem.—The New Atlantic Telegraph Cable.—Spring according to Shakspere. Etiquette with the Turks.—Light in the Dwelling.—Parliamentary Committees.—Horace Walton's Banking Account. A Tale.—Gaol Birds in their Cage.—A Day of Rest. A Poem.—The Golden Gate.—What we Learn at Brighton.—Habit.—Shadows. No II. : Cagliostro.
Order THE DAY OF REST. Part I., price 6d.
London : WARD, LOCK, and TYLER, 158, Fleet-street.

DEDICATED TO THE RIGHT HON. W. E. GLADSTONE.
Now ready, Vol I., 8vo, with Portrait, and upwards of 100 Illustrations, price 21s., elegantly bound,

THE LIFE OF JOSIAH WEDGWOOD. From his Private Correspondence and Family Papers in the possession of Joseph Mayer, Esq., F.S.A. ; Francis Wedgwood, Esq. ; C. Darwin, Esq., M.A., F.R.S. ; Miss Wedgwood, and other original sources ; with an Introductory Sketch of the Art of Pottery in England. By ELIZA METEYARD.
"This is 'The Life of Wedgwood,' to the expected appearance of which I referred at Burslem."—Extract from a letter to the author by the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S LIST of NEW MUSIC.
Two new Songs by Miss M. LINDSAY (Mrs. J. W. Bliss).—"The day its last good night hath said." 3s., free for 19 stamps ; and, "All, all around, is still," 2s. 6d., free for 16 stamps.
THE PILGRIM'S PATH. Sung by Miss Edith Wynne. Poetry by Bishop Heber ; music by Brinley Richards. 3s. ; free for 19 stamps.
POLKA DES ZOUAVES. By H. Prince. 2s. 6d. ; free for 16 stamps.
THE GUARDS' GALOP. By H. Prince. 2s. 6d. ; free for 16 stamps.
London : ROBERT COCKS and CO., New Burlington-street, W.
Agents for India, Messrs. BURKINYOUNG and Co., Calcutta.

PUNCH on the GREEN CATALOGUE. "Punch," in his notice of this invaluable Catalogue for Schools, has mistaken a list of pianoforte solos for drawing-room ballads. The works he humorously notices are elegant Pianoforte Studies on English, Irish, and Scotch National Airs, arranged (at the request of the Publishers) by the talented Carl Czerny (pupil of Beethoven), each study having a special object in view for the advancement of the pupil. 72 books, postage-free, for 13 stamps each. N.B. "The "Green Catalogue" may be had gratis and post-free.
London : ROBERT COCKS and CO., New Burlington-street, Regent-street, W.

---

300 BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS for ALBUMS, SCREENS, PRESENTS, &c., comprising finest Steel Engravings, picturesque Views, Flowers, rich Chromolithographs, Photographs, &c. Post-free for 7s. 6d., stamps.
J. REYNOLDS, 174, Strand.

MISS ACTON'S MODERN COOKERY-BOOK. Price 7s. 6d. Seventy-sixth Thousand, revised and enlarged, and fully illustrated. "The best book of its class yet produced."—Illustrated London News.
London : LONGMAN and Co.

Immediately will be published, price 3s. 6d. cloth,

HUNTING SKETCHES.
By ANTHONY TROLLOPE.
(Reprinted from the "Pall Mall Gazette.")
CHAPMAN and HALL, 193, Piccadilly.

With Engravings, post 8vo., cloth 5s.,

MANUAL OF THE TURKISH BATH. From Writings of Mr. Urquhart. Edited by Sir JOHN FIFE, M.D., F.R.C.S.
JOHN CHURCHILL and SONS, New Burlington-street.

GUIDE BOOKS and MAPS for Travellers to all parts of the World, the latest and best Editions, at J. GILBERT'S, 18 and 19, Gracechurch-street, E.C.

TO TOURISTS.—Tourists' Cases, from 4s. 6d. ; Travelling Desks, Passport Cases, Pocket Books, Purses, Card Cases, Letter Cases, in morocco and russia leather ; Foreign Note-paper and Envelopes, Luggage Labels, Patent Inkstands, &c. At J. GILBERT'S, 19, Gracechurch-street, E.C.

Price 1s., Monthly,

THE ENGLISHWOMAN'S DOMESTIC MAGAZINE.—Contents of No. 5, Vol. I., New Series (MAY) :—1. Gilmour's Ward, Chaps. XX. to XXIII.—2. The Laureate à la Française.—3. Petronilla's Fear. A Tale of Corsica. Chaps. I.—III.—4. Familiar Lines. "Shall I, wasting in despair?" With Full-page Illustration.—5. A Chat With Duley ; or, the Troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Shepe. Chaps. XIII. to XV.—6. "For the Benefit of the People."—7. Artificial Zephyrs.—8. Le Premier Papillon.—9. The Fashions.—10. The Englishwoman's Conversazione.—11. La Mode.—12. Operas, Plays, and Musical Entertainments.—13. "For Valour." By Thomas Hood. Chaps. IX., X.—14. The Baby of the Regiment.—15. Our Paris News-Letter.—16. Music of the Month.—17. Answers to Correspondents.—Mildred's Wedding. Pages 449 to 456.
FASHIONS AND NEEDLEWORK.—A Coloured Fashion Plate. A Coloured Design for a Round Ottoman in Appliqué and Braid on Panama Canvas. A Sheet of Designs, containing information about Fashion, Dress, and Needlework. The full-sized patterns for cutting out a new Coat Boddice and a new Collar and Pair of Cuffs, and a Cut-out Paper Pattern of the Empress Sleeve. A large Coloured Fashion Plate. Illustrations of indoor and walking toilets—embroidered cravat—fringe with crochet border—fringe with netting border—crochet handle for riding-whip—lamp-mat—wine-bottle stand—pattern in plush and plait stitch on canvas (4 illustrations)—printanier bonnet—Stella bonnet—Reine Marguérite hat—Marchioness bonnet—Montpensier hat—Cruvelli hat—Regent hat—patterns of the new spring and summer mantles—a border for a rug (2 illustrations)—toilets for the month (2 illustrations)—crochet border with grelots, &c. A new set of Quadrilles. A Specimen Number sent post-free for twelve stamps.
London : S. O. BEETON, 248, Strand, W.C.

Now ready, part I., price 6d.,

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. CASSELL'S EDITION. Uniform with Cassell's Illustrated Bunyan.

NEW BOOKS.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.

VIOLET OSBORNE. By LADY EMILY PONSONBY, Author of "The Discipline of Life," &c. 3 v.
LISABEE'S LOVE STORY. By the Author of "John and I," "Dr. Jacob," &c. 3 vols.
CARRY'S CONFESSION. By the Author of "High Church," "Owen," "Mattie," &c. 3 vols.
BEATRICE. By JULIA KAVANAGH. 3 vols.
CHRISTIAN'S MISTAKE. By Author of John Halifax.
"A more charming story has rarely been written."—Times.
THE CURATE OF SADBROOKE. 3 vols.
A FAITHFUL WOMAN. By the Author of "Cousin Geoffrey," &c. 3 vols.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

FAMILY HERALD, Part 264, Price Sixpence, contains :— Novels—
Sunshine and Shadow. Chapters I. to VII.
The Mystery of Monk's Hollow. Chapters VIII. to XIX. And other Tales.
"Its novels and tales are quite as well written as the best circulating-library stories."—Saturday Review.
Essays—
Julius Cæsar. First Article.
Julius Cæsar. Second Article.
Books, Book Love, and Book Lore.
Beautiful Necessity.
"There is a well-considered essay every week upon some subject of an instructive or thoughtful character."—British Quarterly Review.
Correspondents—
Answers to.
"The Answers to Correspondents cannot be fictitious, a romance and a life history being embodied in almost each of them. The editor is the confidant and confessor in every station of life."—Saturday Review.
Together with Poetry, Family Matters, Statistics, Scientific and Useful Information, Varieties, Random Readings, &c.
London : W. STEVENS, 421, Strand ; and all Booksellers.

This day, crown 8vo, cloth, price 10s. 6d.,

CAWNPORE, By G. O. TREVELYAN, Author of "The Competition Wallah." Illustrated with a Plan of Cawnpore and Two Engravings from Photographs of the Burial-ground and the Well. The history is drawn from authentic and, in many cases, from new sources.

NEW NOVEL.
This day is published, 3 vols., crown 8vo, cloth, price £1 11s. 6d.,

THE HILLYARS AND THE BURTONS; A Story of Two Families. By HENRY KINGSLEY, Author of "Austin Elliot," "Ravenshoe," &c.
MACMILLAN and CO., London and Cambridge.

MABEL MAY. By Author of "Twice Married." The New Tale in the FAMILY HERALD. Weekly, One Penny.
London : W. STEVENS, 421, Strand ; and all Booksellers.

Now ready,
THE AUTHORISED FASHIONS FOR MAY.
Price One Shilling ; by post, 13 stamps.

THE LONDON AND PARIS LADIES' MAGAZINE OF FASHION. The MAY Number contains superbly Coloured Plates (by English Artistes) of the Latest Fashions. Sanctioned by the highest circles, and adopted by the chief designers of Parisian and English Fashions.
A Splendid Double Plate,
Coloured, showing four of the latest and most exquisite Dresses and the Court Trains most in fashion at the last Drawingroom.
Beautifully Coloured Plates, of quite new and magnificent Parisian and English Fashions. These original designs, being taken from dresses in the private rooms of the first artistes, are exclusively confined to this Magazine.
A Finely-Engraved Plate of the Latest Mourning Fashions ; an Engraving of the latest designs in Millinery, Bonnets, Hats, &c. ; Cut Models, full descriptions of all the Plates, Parisian Fashion Intelligence, and description of some of the most beautiful Dresses, With Tales, Poetry, &c.
London : W. STEVENS, 421, Strand ; and all Booksellers.

A new Edition, with many valuable additions.
In one thick vol., the Thirteenth Edition, price 16s.,

MODERN DOMESTIC MEDICINE. Describing the Symptoms, Causes, and correct Treatment of Diseases, with a large collection of approved prescriptions, &c. Forming a comprehensive Medical Guide for the clergy, families, emigrants, &c.
By T. J. GRAHAM, M.D.,
Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh.
"Of all the medical guides that have come to our hands, this is by far the best. For fulness and completeness they all yield the palm to Dr. Graham's."—Banner.
"Far excelling every publication of its class."—British Standard.
"Popular works have been published by several medical practitioners, but none of them equal those by Dr. Graham."—Medical Circular, January, 1862.
London : Published by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and CO., Stationers'-court. Sold by all Booksellers.

IMPERFECT DIGESTION : its Causes and Treatment. By A. LEARED, M.D., Ph. Gt. N. Hosp. "It now constitutes about the best book on the subject."—Lancet. 3rd Edit. price 4s.—CHURCHILL, New Burlington-st. ; and all Booksellers.

Fifth Edition, price One Guinea, post-free,

THE ART OF BREWING, FERMENTING, AND MAKING OF MALT. By JOHN LEVESQUE, late of the Anchor Brewery. Wherein will be found full directions for the prevention of acetous fermentation, correct tables of mashing heats, and all other necessary directions, the result of forty years' practice in the above art.—JAMES LEATH, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard.

Now ready at all the Libraries,

HISTORIC PICTURES. By A. BAILLIE COCHRANE, M.P. 2 vols. 21s.
"Two entertaining volumes. They are lively reading."—Times.
WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE. By Cardinal WISEMAN.
"A noble tribute to the great poet."—John Bull.
HAUNTED LONDON. By WALTER THORNBURY. Illustrated by F. W. Fairholt, F.S.A. 2 vols. 21s.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

Ninth Edition, with 26 Plates, price 1s., postage-free,

STAINED GLASS, by the Improved Transfer Process of Diaphanie ; easily performed by any person, at small cost.—London : J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

New Edition, with Drawings in Colour, price 2s. 6d. ; post-free, 2s. 10d.,

A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON LANDSCAPE PAINTING AND SKETCHING FROM NATURE. By JOHN CHASE, M.W.C.I. Edited by the Rev. J. Harris, M.A.—London : J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st.

Price 1s., postage-free, 1s. 2d., with 14 Plates,

MONOGRAMS and CYPHERS, Modern and Gothic (Handbooks of), by VICTOR TOUCHE,
London : J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Third Edition, price 1s., postage-free, 1s. 2d., with 14 Plates,

ALPHABETS and DESIGNS of DIFFERENT PERIODS, for the Use of Illuminators and Decorators, by F. C. WOOD.—London : J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

DRESSING for the PARTY, a beautiful Picture, printed in Colours, after a Painting by W. L. Thomas, is issued with No. 17 of THE YOUNG ENGLISHWOMAN. Price of the Number and the Picture, Twopence.

DRESSING for the PARTY. Tales, Music, Poetry, Latest Fashions direct from Paris, Embroidery, Crochet, Netting, &c., with Part 5 of the THE YOUNG ENGLISHWOMAN. Price Sevenpence.

DRESSING for the PARTY, the companion Picture to "Minding Baby," is issued with Part 5 of THE YOUNG ENGLISHWOMAN. Price Sevenpence.
London : S. O. BEETON, 248, Strand.

Price 6d., postage-free,

PHOTO-CHROMOGRAPHY ; an Easy Method of Colouring Photographs (producing a beautifully enamelled appearance), which may be practised by any person unaccustomed to drawing and ignorant of art, By M. C. C.
London : J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, W.

Fifth Edition, with 12 Diagrams printed in colours, price 2s.,

PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAITS, Draperies, Backgrounds, &c. A guide to Painting in Water Colours ; to which is added Instructions for Painting in Oil Colours. By A. N. RINTOUL.—London : J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st.W.

NEW BOOKS.

Now ready, part III., price 6d, for May, of

CASSELL'S FAMILY PAPER, in which is commenced the New Tale "Shira."

Nineteenth Edition, 8vo, cloth, 16s., post-free,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. No medicine is prescribed without the indications for its selection and the dose to be administered, free from all technicalities, and specially adapted to the use of clergymen, emigrants, and missionaries. Also, just published, an Epitome of the above, Twenty-fourth Edition, price 5s. The Case of Medicines, adapted to the former work, price 50s. ; and to the latter, price 30s. LEATH and ROSS, 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st., and 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yard.

ELEGANT GIFT-BOOK. Second Edition, now ready, with Frontispiece by F. Gilbert, toned paper, crown 8vo, price 6s.,

BEAUTIES OF TROPICAL SCENERY, LYRICAL SKETCHES, AND LOVE-SONGS. With Notes. By R. N. DUNBAR.
"This is a charming volume ; the poems are full of vitality, and rich, varied beauties."—Morning Post.
"The love-songs are worthy of Thomas Moore."—Critic.
"It is adorned with a delicious frontispiece."—Illustrated Times.
London : ROBERT HARDWICKE, 192, Piccadilly.

PROTEUS ! ! !
Where is he ?
Mysterious disappearance ! !
Professor Pepper—Polytechnic—Daily, 2.30 and 7.30
T. Tobin, Esq., joint inventor.

DR. MAX PETTENKOFER'S recently- discovered PROCESS for REVIVING VARNISHED OIL-PAINTINGS, Old or Modern, without removing the old or laying on new varnish, as applied in the National Gallery, is now put into practice for the public by the only authorised agent of Dr. Pettenkofer for the United Kingdom. Proprietors of Galleries Dealers, Restorers and Auctioneers of Paintings liberally dealt with. Regarding the effects of the process see "Morning Star," Aug. 3, 1863 ; "Athenæum," Sept. 19, 1863 ; Jan. 9, 1864 ; March 12, 1864 ; Dec. 3, 1864 ; "Illustrated London News," Nov. 12, 1864. Apply to Mr. PHILIP HOYOLL, Artist and Portrait Painter 57, Euston-road, King's-cross, London, N.W.

LADIES' SCHOOL, 40 and 50 Guineas Yearly for Board and Education—Laundress, Seat in Church, Musical Pieces, Drawing Materials, and use of Books included. No extras. Masters attend daily. References, H. S., Mr. LIMBERD'S, 344, Strand, W.C.

GROVER and BAKER'S, 150, Regent-street, London, W., 59, Bold-street, Liverpool, celebrated ELASTIC-STITCH SEWING-MACHINES, with all the latest improvements, are the best and simplest ever offered. For Family Use or Dress and Mantle Making they are positively unrivalled, doing plain and ornamental work with equal facility. They stitch, hem, fell, tuck, gather, braid, quilt, cord, bind, and embroider, are very easily managed, and not liable to derangement. One hundred thousand now in use in all parts of the world. Every machine guaranteed. Instruction gratis. Illustrated Prospectus and samples of work gratis and post-free.—Grover and Baker, 150, Regent-street, W.

GOOD TASTE NOT INCOMPATIBLE WITH ECONOMY.

UNIQUE and ELEGANT CABINET FURNITURE for Dining-room, Drawing-room, Bed-room, and Library.
CARPETS—FELT, KIDDER, BRUSSELS, VELVET, and TURKEY—adapted for cottage and mansion.
For nearly half a century the house has been famous for BLANKETS, SHEETINGS, and HOUSEHOLD LINENS.
BEDS and MATTRESSES of the best materials, manufactured on the premises, and under special supervision.
CURTAINS of every description in DAMASK, REP, and PEKIN CLOTHS.
LACE, and MUSLIN LENO CURTAINS for the Season.
SILKS, SHAWLS, MANTLES, and every variety of GENERAL and FANCY DRAPERY.
Estimates given. Contracts taken. Illustrated Catalogues free.
ATKINSON and CO., WESTMINSTER-BRIDGE-ROAD, Nos. 198, 200, 202, 204, 206, 208, and 210.

A FACT.—An ELEGANT POCKET-DIAL, with Gold Appendages, warranted to denote correct time, in handsome gilt case, reduced to One Shilling ; by post 14 stamps. PAUL BANSOM, 14, Brunswick-square, Haggerstone, London, N.E.

THE PRETTIEST GIFT FOR A LADY is one of JONES'S LEVER WATCHES, at £11 11s. ; for a Gentleman, at £10 10s. Rewarded at the Exhibition for cheapness of production. Manufactory, 338, Strand, opposite Somerset House.

PALE SHERRY at 36s. per Dozen, fit for a gentleman's table. Bottles and Cases included. Terms, Cash. Post Orders payable Piccadilly.
Samples sent free of charge.
CHARLES WARD and SON
(Established upwards of a century), 1, Chapel-street West, Mayfair, W., London.

PURITY AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY.

COLMANS' PRIZE-MEDAL MUSTARD bears their trade mark, the Bull's Head, on each package.
It is the only Mustard which obtained a Prize Medal at the Great Exhibition, 1862.
For domestic purposes nothing finer can be produced. Their "genuine" and "double superfine" are the qualities particularly recommended.
Retailed in every town throughout the United Kingdom.
J. and J. Colman, 26, Cannon-street, London.

COLMANS' No. 1 INDIGO BLUE is the best article Manufactured for Laundry purposes.
26, Cannon-street, London.

PURVEYORS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH,
used in the Royal Laundry,
and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

PURVEYORS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH,
used in the Royal Laundry, and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

OSWEGO

PREPARED CORN,
for Puddings, Custards, Blancmanges, &c.,
Manufactured and Perfected by
T. KINGSFORD and SON, of Oswego, State of New York.
It is the original preparation from the farina of maize, established 1848, commands the highest price from the trade, and offers the best value to the consumer.
It is stronger than any of the imitations, has a finer grain, and is more delicate.
The Oswego has the natural golden tinge, and not the chalk white produced by artificial process.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1865.
Under the Special Patronage of
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
THE EXHIBITION
WILL BE OPENED
ON TUESDAY, 9TH OF MAY,
BY HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS
THE PRINCE OF WALES.
The State Ceremonial to be observed on this occasion will include a Grand Musical Performance, with a Band and Chorus of a Thousand Performers.
On the Opening Day Season-ticket Holders only can be admitted. Season Tickets are now on Sale at the Office, 112, Grafton-street.
Lady's or Gentleman's Ticket £2 2 0
Child's, under 12 Years 1 1 0
April 10, 1865. HENRY PARKINSON, Comptroller.
Arrangements for Return and Excursion Tickets on all the railways to the Exhibition, at reduced rates, are in progress.

LETTERS PATENT, 1823. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862.

ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS is the most valuable preparation for making pure and delicate gruel. Modern chemistry has shown that this food is easy of digestion and rich in nutriment.
ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY makes a delicious custard-pudding, directions for which have been given by Mons. C. E. Francatelli. It is appreciated as a non-inflammatory drink, is excellent for mothers nursing, and has long been used with great success for rearing children by hand.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

THE NEW CROQUET DEPARTMENT PARKINS and GOTTO'S. Prices 15s., 18s., 21s., 25s., 30s., 35s., 40s., and upwards, including Book of Rules. Warranted of the best seasoned woods, and sent carriage-paid to any railway station upon prepayment.—Parkins and Gotto, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, W.

NEW MUSIC.

THE GOOD-BYE AT THE DOOR. Ballad. By S. GLOVER. Sent for 18 stamps. This truly beautiful Song, now established as one of the leading favourites of the season, may be had in the key of C for mezzo-soprano, and in E flat for tenor.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

E. L. HIME'S PARFAIT AMOUR. Romance for Piano. Played by Master Willie Pape before the Prince and Princess of Wales. This celebrated Romance has already run through fourteen editions. Sent for 15 stamps.
DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

E. L. HIME'S ROSE LEAVES. Ballad without words. Will rival the successful Romance, "Parfait Amour." Master Willie Pape will play "Rose Leaves" at his Concert. Sent for 15 stamps.—DUFF and HODGSON, Oxford-st.

E. L. HIME'S BROOK, for Piano (suggested by Tennyson's poem), sent for 18 stamps. E. L. Hime's Transcription of "The Bailiff's Daughter of Islington" sent for 15 stamps.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

TO QUADRILLE PLAYERS.—Now ready, A. F. GODFREY'S UNITED SERVICE QUADRILLE, for Quadrille Band. Post-free for 20 stamps. Also, COOTE'S ROYAL BOUDOIR QUADRILLE, introducing "God Bless the Prince of Wales." Post-free for 20 stamps.
London : ROBERT COCKS and CO., New Burlington-street, W.

OPOPONAX.—MAY 1.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOT for the Sale of NICOLE'S celebrated Musical Instruments is REMOVED from 54 to 11 and 12, Cornhill, London. A large consignment of all sizes, from Geneva, has arrived. Lists of Tunes and Prices gratis and postage-free.

THE FIVE-SHILLING ILLUMINATING COLOUR BOX contains twelve superfine Colours, body, white, gold, aluminium, and brushes.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st., London ; and all Artists' Colourmen, &c.

THE PHOTOCHROMATIC COLOUR BOX, enabling any person, without a knowledge of painting or drawing, to colour photographs, producing a beautiful enamelled appearance, with twelve colours, all materials, specimen, and full directions, price 10s. 6d.—London : J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street ; and all Artists' Colourmen, Stationers, &c.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, opposite the Bank. The best wrought SILVER SPOONS and FORKS, fiddle pattern, 7s. 4d. per ounce. Queen's pattern, 7s. 6d. per ounce. Many other patterns recently finished, plain or highly ornamented.

Fiddle Pattern.	Oz.	£	s.	d.	Queen's Pattern.	Oz.	£	s.	d.
12 Table Spoons	30	11	0	0	12 Table Spoons	40	15	0	0
12 Dessert Ditto	20	7	6	8	12 Dessert Ditto	25	9	7	6
12 Table Forks	30	11	0	0	12 Table Forks	40	15	0	0
12 Dessert Ditto	20	7	6	8	12 Dessert Ditto	25	9	7	6
2 Gravy Spoons	10	3	13	4	2 Gravy Spoons	12	4	0	0
1 Soup Ladle	10	3	13	4	1 Soup Ladle	11	4	2	6
4 Sauce Ditto	10	3	18	4	4 Sauce Ditto	12	4	16	0
4 Sauce Spoons (gilt)		1	0	0	4 Sauce Spoons (gilt)		2	2	0
1 Fish Slice (pierced)		2	10	0	1 Fish Slice (pierced)		3	5	0
12 Tea Spoons	10	3	18	4	12 Tea Spoons	14	5	12	0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs		0	15	0	1 Pair Sugar Tongs		1	5	0

A pamphlet is published, with 300 Engravings, as a guide to the stock in the Show-rooms. It contains the weights and prices of silver spoons, forks, tea and coffee services and table plate, with particulars of ornamental plate for private use or presentation ; also, of the best silver-plated manufactures, gold and silver watches, clocks, and jewellery. Gratis on application, and post-free to any part of the British dominions.
For the use of committees, a work is printed with large lithographic drawings of plate kept ready for presentation.

FISON'S PEARL SEMOULE is Delicious, Wholesome, Economical,
and Extremely Nutritious.
For the Dinner Table it gives a variety of choice dishes.
For Invalids it is very delicate, light, and digestible.
For Children, prepared with milk, it is a perfect diet.
For Infants it is much prized ; they will often thrive upon it when everything else fails.
Sold in Packets by Grocers, Chemists, &c. London Wholesale Agents : HICKS BROS., Maiden-lane, E.C. Works, Ipswich.

Made by J. S. FRY and SONS, Bristol and London.

FRY'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA,
IN PACKETS SECURED IN TINFOIL.
The purity, delicacy of flavour, and nutritious properties of this Cocoa, as well as the great facility with which it is made, have rendered it a standard article of
GENERAL CONSUMPTION.
It is equally adapted for invalids and others, and is highly approved and strongly
RECOMMENDED BY MEDICAL MEN.

THE

ONLY PRIZE MEDAL, 1862, awarded to any English Manufacturers of CHOCOLATE and COCOA, was obtained by
J. S. FRY and SONS, Bristol and London,
Prize Medals, 1851, 1853, 1855, and 1862.

Makers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

FRY'S CHOCOLATE FOR EATING
is prepared with scrupulous regard to purity, and, being exceedingly wholesome, is much valued for Children, with whom it is a universal favourite.

MENIER'S FRENCH CHOCOLATE defies all honest competition. The healthiest and most delicious aliment for breakfast. Unadulterated ; highly nutritious. Annual consumption exceeds 4,000,000 lb. Menier, 23, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden ; and sold retail by all respectable houses.

CHOCOLAT-MENIER.
The best aliment for Breakfast.
Yellow wrapper .. .. .. 2s. 0d. per lb.
Chamois ditto .. .. .. 2s. 6d. ,,
Pink ditto .. .. .. 3s. 0d. ,,
Blue ditto .. .. .. 3s. 6d. ,,
Flavoured with Vanille.
Green wrapper .. .. .. 2s. 6d. per lb.
Lilac ditto .. .. .. 3s. 0d. ,,
Bronze ditto .. .. .. 3s. 6d. ,,
White ditto .. .. .. 4s. 0d. ,,
Sold, in ½ lb. packets, by all respectable Houses.
Wholesale, 23, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden.

2280 AGENTS.—HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA.—Chemists, Confectioners, &c., are Agents, and supply it in packets. It is choice and strong, moderate in price, and wholesome. This tea therefore secures general preference.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD
First Manufactured A.D. 1742, or more than
ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY YEARS.
This well-known brand of Mustard has been sold by the trade of Great Britain for more than a century, and is held in high estimation for its purity and pungency of flavour. The qualities that are recommended for family use are the Double Superfine and the Genuine, both of which can be obtained from most Family Grocers in canisters of 1 lb. and ½ lb. each.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL.—This elegant and fragrant Oil is universally in high repute for its unprecedented success in promoting the growth, restoring, and beautifying the Human Hair. Its invaluable properties have obtained the patronage of Royalty, the Nobility, and the Aristocracy throughout Europe. Price, 3s. 6d., 7s., 10s. 6d. (equal to four small), and 21s. per bottle. Sold at 20, Hatton-garden, and by Chemists and Perfumers.
Ask for "Rowlands' Macassar Oil."

SAVORY and MOORE'S NEW FOOD for INFANTS, 143, New Bond-street.

TONIC BITTERS,
WATERS'S QUININE WINE,
the most palatable and wholesome Bitter in existence ;
an Efficient Tonic,
an unequalled stomachic, and a gentle stimulant.
Sold by Grocers, Italian Warehousemen, Wine Merchants, Confectioners, and others, at 30s. a dozen,
Manufactured by Waters and Williams,
2, Martin's-lane, Cannon-street, London.
Wholesale Agents, E. Lewis and Co., Worcester.

THE FAVOURITE SET of CROQUET, Full Size, for 30s., including Book of Rules, in strong box. Sent carriage-paid to any railway station in England, upon receipt of P. O. order.
PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, W.

KING and CO., SILKMERCERS, &c., 243, Regent-street, W., have now ready a large assortment of NEW SPRING SILKS, NEW STRIPES and SUMMER FABRICS, SHAWLS, MANTLES, &c., all bought previous to the late advance. Patterns sent post-free to all parts of the World. Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Striped Silks, all in the Full Dress of 14 yards.
£1 5s. 6d.
£1 6s. 6d.
Tartan Silks,
£1 10s. 6d.
Check Silks,
£1 15s. 6d.
Rich Brocaded Silks,
£1 17s. 6d.
Rich Corded Silks,
£1 15s. 6d.
Rich Reversible Silks,
£1 19s. 6d.
New Crossbar Silks,
£1 19s. 6d.
Corded Drap de France,
£1 19s. 6d.
Rich Moiré Antiques,
£2 10s. 6d.
Full Dress Patterns post-free.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

£35 7s 6d BLACK SILKS, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Rich Gros Grain Silks, all in 9d. the Full Dress of 14 yards.
Black Drapes ... 9s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Black Gros Grains ... 11s. 6d. ,,
Black Corded Silks ... 11s. 6d. ,,
Black Rich Brocaded Silks ... 11s. 6d. ,,
Black Drap de France ... 9s. 6d. ,,
Black Drap de Lyons ... 9s. 6d. ,,
Black Satins ... 11s. 6d. ,,
Rich Black Moiré Antiques ... £2 10s. 6d. ,,
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

NEW SPRING and SUMMER DRESSES at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Spring Cashmeres ... 9s. 9d. the Full Dress.
Matin Cloths ... 9s. ... 19s. 6d. ,,
Matin Cloths ... 10s. 6d. ... 21s. ,,
Rich French Cords ... 11s. 6d. ... 23s. ,,
Wool Grenadines ... 13s. 6d. ... 27s. ,,
Rich Fancy Poplins ... 15s. 6d. ... 31s. ,, Brocade Silk Grenadines ... 15s. 6d. ... 31s. ,,
Rich Silk Poplin Cords ... 16s. 6d. ... 33s. ,,
Real Scotch Tartans ... £1 1s. 6d. ... £2 2s. ,,
N.B.—A large Lot of Tabi ... 5s. 6d.
Full Dress.
The New Summer Muslins ... 6d.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

MADE-UP DEPARTMENT.
An unique variety of Trousseau Dresses, in all the latest modes, commencing at 8½ Gs., with materials and trimming for bodice.

MANTLE DEPARTMENT.
Silk Mantles, Jackets, and Paletots in great variety, commencing at 1 Guinea.
Light and Elegant Cloth Jackets and Paletots, in the newest shapes, commencing at 15s. 9d.
Opera Mantles, in rich and costly fabrics.
Address to KING and CO., Regent-street.

ARCHERY PRIZES, Fancy-Fair and Bazaar Novelties.—EDWARDS and JONES beg to call the attention of the Nobility, Clergy, and Society to their well-assorted Stock at Alternative Novelties suitable for the above purposes, as well as for Wedding Presents, Birthday Gifts, &c.
Address 26, Old Bond-street, W., Regent-street.

MANTLES, SHAWLS, and DRESSES.
PARKER and ROGERS are now prepared with their New Spring and Summer Goods in various Materials and Elegant Novelties.
127, 173, 177, 179, Regent-street.

ATTENTION is REQUESTED to a choice Parcel of Rich Corded Cashmere Shawls, suitable for wedding presents, at 25 guineas; usual price, 40 guineas.
PARKER and ROGERS, 177, 179, 173, Regent-street.

SANSFLECTUM CRINOLINES.
No. 44.
"Wear admirably well."—Court Journal.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

EMPRESS CRINOLINES.
No. 66.
"Beautiful in the extreme."—Court Circular.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

ONDINA or WAVED JUPONS, No. 65.
"The form falls in graceful folds."—Morning Post.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

PUFFED HORSEHAIR JUPONS.
No. 64.
Specially adapted for the present season.—Queen.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

CRINOLINES AND CORSETS.
The Illustrations of all the New Models, with some useful REMARKS, in a pamphlet, Post-free.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

COOL and REFRESHING TOILET REQUISITE.—GOSNELL'S BALM OF COLUMBIA is the best preparation for softening, restoring and strengthening the hair. C. and A. Oldridge, 37 Wellington-street, Strand.

IRISH LINENS, direct from Belfast, at WHITELEY, LINDSAY'S, 16, Sussex-place, Hyde Park, Wholesale and Retail Warehouse for Linens, Cambrics, Sheetings, Pillow Linens, Tickings, Horkabacks and Diaper Towels, Damasks, Quilts, Blankets, &c., as supplied to the Queen's Household, Buckingham Palace.
Patterns and Price-list post-free.
James Lindsay and Co., 16, Devonshire-place, Belfast.

THIS SEASON'S FASHIONS IN DRESS.
LADIES and the PUBLIC visiting London are respectfully solicited to inspect the Stock of SILKS, DRESSES, and MANTLES at the ALTERNATIVE IN PRINCES'S, Piccadilly, Fancy Manchester.
RICH BLACK GLACES, GROS GRAINS, and DUCAPES, of the Best Manufacture.
FANCY SILKS in all the new Styles and Colours.
ROBINSON and CLEAVER, 156, 157, 158, and 159, Regent-street.

All the LATEST FASHIONS in JACKETS and MANTLES for Spring Wear.
Paisley, Cashmere, and Lace SHAWLS in all the latest Designs.
NEW DOLMAN MANTLES, in Black Silk and Lace.
Orders taken for wear after the end of May.
Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings, Haberdashery, Underclothing, and Baby Linen.
PARKINS and GOTTO (LATE HOWELL and JAMES), Drapers, Milliners, and Dressmakers supplied with cut lengths at Trade Prices.
Matching Orders carefully and promptly attended to.
Patterns sent post-free.
One door Westward of Swan and Edgar's.
JAMES SPENCE and CO., Wholesale and Retail Silkmercers, Drapers, &c., 77 and 78, St. Paul's Churchyard.

NEW SILKS, DRESS FABRICS, &c.
GRANT and GASK invite an inspection of their large selection of new French Fabrics for the present season, consisting of Rich Silks, Corded Drap de France, Satins in all the new colours, Mohair Brilliantines, Matin Cloths, Alpacas, Cashmeres, Poplins, Organdie Muslins, &c.
Several very cheap lots of rich Silk Robes and Fancy Silks, from 3 to 5 guineas the Full Dress, worth double the money.
Very superior Tartan Silks, 2½ yards wide, at 1 guinea.
Richest Moire Antiques, at 2½ guineas the Full Dress.
Patterns free by post. Also a large and beautiful collection of Novelties for Dress and Mantles.
Several hundred pieces of French Brilliantines and Printed Cambrics made Muslins, for morning dresses.
PATTERNS FORWARDED FREE.
52, 53, 54, 55, 56, and 57, Wigmore-street, 1, 2, and 3, Wells-street, London.

BONNETS.—MARKS and GAVELL returned from Paris with their annual SPRING BONNET, in Silk, Crape, French Straw, &c. Show-rooms (no charge), 65, Regent-street, first door from Oxford Circus.

LADIES UNDERCLOTHING of best make and moderate prices. A stock always on hand of Chemises, Night-dresses, Petticoats, Drawers, Corsets, Stays, Bodices, &c. Address "Lucker Inspector," 69 Fleet-street and 69, Ely-place.

SUMMER CHALLIS.—Patterns free. Checks and striped Summer Mohairs, a large variety of useful Dresses cut by the yard.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

LENO and MUSLIN CURTAINS.—Double borders, 4 yards long, 12s. 6d. per pair. A choice lot of New Patterns, 16s. 6d. per pair, just received.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

LUDGATE-HILL RAILWAY
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.
SILKS, DIAPERS, MANTLES, FAMILY LINENS.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
New Checked Checks, 14 yards, £1 15s. 6d.
New Striped Checks, 14 yards, £1 15s. 6d.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
New Striped Checks, 14 yards, £2 2s.
New Striped Checks, 14 yards, £2 2s.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK FIGURED SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
A large assortment of New Patterns, 21s. 6d. for 14 yards.
Black Gros Grains, Black Gros de Rhein.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

FAMILY LINEN DEPARTMENT.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.
Linen and Cotton Sheetings, Pillow Linens, Huckabacks, Irish and Scotch Damask Linen, Napkins and Diapers.
Made and Marked with Crest or Initial, and Warranted for Wear.

SEWELL and CO. 5, Ludgate-hill, London (late 10 and 11, Cornhill), make-up BOOK DEPARTMENT is now complete with all the novelties of the coming Season, including THE NEW SILK WAIST BOBAIL CLOTH
—"Manufacturers, Linendrapers, and Outfitters should visit SEWELL and CO.'s Establishment."—Draper's Record.

MOIRES ANTIQUES.—SEWELL and CO. have a large assortment of these fashionable Fabrics, in White, Black, and all the New Colours, at 2½ guineas the Full Dress.—Ludgate-House, Price-street, Ludgate-hill.

NICHOLSON and CO., Silkmercers, 50 to 53, St. Paul's-churchyard.
NOVELTIES in NEW SILKS for SPRING. Moires, 2½ guineas; Checks, 2 guineas; Striped Silks, 1½ guineas; Fancies at about half their original prices. 500 Patterns post-free. Established 19 years. No connection with any other house.

OWING to the facilities now afforded by the Railway Companies for conveying Goods to or from any part of the Kingdom, Messrs. BAKER and CRISP are able to state that they have greatly improved their system of sending patterns of their Dress Fabrics, and that they will now be forwarded by the fastest method, from the remotest distance, without the slightest delay. Their Stock of SILKS, for the present season, is of the most varied description. These patterns comprise every colour and design now fashionable in London and Paris, and are forwarded free of all cost to any part of the United Kingdom.
50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS, Coloured Checks, all in fashion, 1s. 6d. per yard. 500 Patterns post-free.
50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS, Checks and Stripes, from 1 guinea the Dress. 500 Patterns post-free.
50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS, Brocade and Check Silks, from 1½ guinea the Dress. 500 Patterns post-free.
50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS, Striped Silks, 1½ guinea the Dress. 500 Patterns post-free.
50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSON'S BLACK SILKS, Black Gloria, Gros Grains, Drap de Lyons, Satins, Checks, Stripes, Brocades, Figures, &c. 500 Patterns post-free.
50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED?—Boys' Knickerbocker Suits in Cloth, from 16s. 6d.; Fancy Tweed, 21s.; Velvet, 25s. 6d. Illustrations and Directions for measurement, and a Sample of New Drapery post-free.—NICHOLSON'S, 50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NICHOLSONS ILLUSTRATED
MAGAZINE OF FASHION, containing Coloured Plate and Illustration of New Mantles, Dresses, and Juvenile Attire for the present month, with full Descriptions, Directions for Measurement, and a large sheet of Diagrams for application.—Nicholson and Co., 50 to 54, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NEW FRENCH SILKS, in COLOURS and BLACK, at 2s. 6d. the yard, 24 inches wide, made with the guarantee for durability of colour from 3 years' wear. Patterns of the whole assortment, with Prices and Widths, post-free.—HARVEY and CO., Lombard-house, Westminster-bridge, S.

MANTLE and JACKET CLOTHS of all kinds, from 1s. 11½d. per yard, in every new assortment of mixture goods, for gentlemen's and boys' wear, at very moderate prices.—HARVEY and CO., Lombard-house, Westminster-bridge, S.

MESSRS. SWAN and EDGAR beg to announce that the following departments are now replete with every novelty in Spring and Summer Goods:—Silk Mercery, Dress Fabrics, Shawls, Mantles, Jackets, Paletots, Costumes, Bonnets, Hats, Flowers, Feathers, Drapery, Bonnet-shapes, Ties, Gloves, Hosiery, Parasols, Fans, Ribbons, Trimmings, Haberdashery, Millinery, Fitting, Family Mourning, ready-made Linen, and Gent's Outfitting Departments.—Piccadilly, Regent-circus, and Regent-street.

ROYAL SCOTCH WAREHOUSE, SCOTT ADIE, 115, Regent-street, Entrance at Hanover-street. Established 1838.

CRETONNE CHINTZ, requiring no washing, is peculiarly adapted for curtains or furniture. Patterns sent free by post.—HOWARD and BULLOUGH, 4 and 5, Aldgate, London, E.C.

FORD'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LIST, post-free.—Intending purchasers, who cannot invest us with full authority to select for them, are invited to write for a sketch or drawings of skirts, distinctly stating the number of hoops required, and the price they wish to pay.—FORD'S, 37, Poultry, E.C.

THOS. FORD and CO. respectfully intimate that they have just received from Paris, in consequence of the great success of their fashions, they have RENOVED to more extensive premises, in the Old-fashioned Corner of Poultry, London.

FORD'S RIDING-HABITS, 3 to 8 guineas, Cloth and Habit Flannels, Gentlemen's Riding-Jackets. Illustrations of the new Riding-jacket, with Patterns of Cloth and Directions for Measurement, post-free.—FORD'S, 37, Poultry, E.C., Corner of Queen-street.

FORD'S EUREKA COLOURED SHIRTS, 10s. 6d. to 42s. 6d. Superior quality, and made expressly to measure by our patentee in stout linen and percale.—E. Ford and Co., 38, Poultry, E.C.

By Appointment to the Royal Family.
W. and J. SANGSTER beg respectfully to call the attention of their new Fancy, the Fibrilla, a variety of the manufacture of Parasols and Sunshades, comprising Rush de Soi, Brocaded and Embroidered Grenadines, Glacés, Checks, Stripes, Plain Colours, and Black, all elegantly mounted. Parasols adapted for travelling in great variety.—140, Regent-street, 94, Royal Exchange, 10, Cheapside.

PLAIN STRIPED OR BROCHE RICH SILK GRENADINES, adapted for Dress Evening, or Full Dresses.
Rich 6s., 6d., 7s., 6d., 8s. 6d. Full Dress.
Rooms very superb display, entire quality, from 3 to 7 guineas.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALL THE CHOICE NOVELTIES IN NEW ORGANDIE MUSLINS, In British, French, and Swiss Printings.
Rich 6s., 6d., 7s., 6d., 8s. 6d. Full Dress.
An immense variety of patterns post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALSO SEVERAL HUNDRED PIECES OF LAST YEAR'S PRINTED MUSLINS.
Front Quality and Designs, equal to new
An extensive variety at about the reduced prices post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Now ready, all the New Patterns in PRINTS, BRILLIANTS, and PIQUES, for Ladies' Morning Dresses.
An immense variety of Designs post-free.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

EVERY NEW COLOUR IN THE ARABIAN GLACÉS, A most useful and decidedly fabric either for Walking or Morning Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Just produced, upwards of 2000 RICHLY-BRAIDED ROBES, and too new to be worn before the 1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd, and 29th inst., on their visit, viz.,
Three Rows of Braid, with Satin Stripe, Trimming for Robe.
A set of Engravings, showing the principal designs made in the Establishment post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

AN UNUSUALLY LARGE COLLECTION OF NEW SPRING DRESSES.
Rich Beaded Silk Poplins (new colours), 2½ guineas
Rich Checked Silks, 2 guineas
The Magyar-cord Poplinette, 2½ guineas
The Monte-cord Poplinette, 3½ guineas
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

THE MOST DECIDED NOVELTY FOR THIS SPRING IS THE SILK CRÊPE MEXICAN, Of the richest quality and most elegant finish.
To all the new colours, 26s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

A CAREFULLY SELECTED VARIETY OF CHEAP SPRING DRESSES.
Rich Striped Checked and Chined Silks, 18s. 6d. to 25s. 6d. Full Dress.
Also Striped, Checked, and Chined Silks, 12s. 6d. to 16s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING PETTICOATS.
A choice assortment in each, cambric, and by the yard.
Rich Flounced Cambric, 3 rows, 10½ yards round, 4s. 11d.
In Plain, Striped, and Checked Cambrics, from 3s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

LYONS LEVANTINE, Rich Striped Checked and Chined Silks, 18s. 6d. to 25s. 6d. Full Dress, and very suitable for Ladies' Morning Costumes, in most brilliant colours. Also, Rich Striped Silks, 14s. per yard, 24 in. wide, or any length cut.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

LYONS FOULARDS In the most elegant and novel fashion, the wear of which cannot be surpassed. The most fashionable article for the present season. Rich 6s., 6d., 7s., 6d., 8s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

FOR SPRING COSTUMES. The most fashionable novelty we can produce.
Rich Striped Silk Poplinettes, 2½ guineas.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

SILKS FOR SPRING. 50 New Colours in Rich Plain Silks, including our well-known Silver-grey and Black Glacés, 2½ guineas.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Just Imported,
5000 SILK DRESSES, made expressly to our order for this season, including every style for Spring Costumes, Full Dress, or Evening Dress, at 2 guineas.
Many of the above have been produced in new designs expressly for PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

RICH CORDED SILKS (Both Sides Alike),
Including the Royal Brilliant, Royal Victoria, Jaspar Bar, and the Alexandra Cord, from 21 to 35s. Full Dress 14 yards.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

MILLINERY for MOURNING, — PARIS FASHIONS.
MANTLES and BONNETS for MOURNING and otherwise.—The New Shapes, in elegant and graceful styles, are now ready for inspection.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.—PARIS FASHIONS.
The New and Elegant Materials for Spring Costumes are now ready for inspection.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

JUST RECEIVED FROM PARIS, HALF-MOURNING SILKS of New and very rich Designs,
At PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

BLACK SILK MANTLES, Of the richest Fabrics.
Good-quality Black Silks, from 2s. to 5s. the Dress.
Superior Qualities, from 5s. to 8s. the Dress.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

A NEW FABRIC.—The ROYAL BLACK BRILLIANTINE, Possessing a new and elegant finish. Dress are invited to write for patterns of the excellent material, which is sold by the yard, 24 inches wide.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

UNPARALLED
WIRE-GROUND BLACK GRENADINES, Of the richest quality and most elegant finish.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.
Good and cheap Grenadines, in all kinds of Silk.
May be obtained by the yard, or made up into Skirts.
At
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
103 to 108, Regent-street.

FOR FAMILY MOURNING, Of the richest Fabrics.
At the largest and most economical Mourning Warehouse in the World, PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street, where a large assortment is always kept ready for instant wear, delivered in the most correct taste. Widow, Matilda, Bonnets, and gauds of every kind are cut free of charge by an artist of England for existence (with a Dressmaker, if necessary).
Mourning Orders, for the Country, of costume and 6d and the greatest variety in price, together with expedition and punctuality, by sending their orders direct to
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
103 to 108, Regent-street, London.
Peter Robinson's.

SMYTH'S MILLINERY ROOMS, 67, Oxford-street, and 276, Regent-street, Introduce a complete Parisian Model.

MUSLIN, LACE, and LENO CURTAINS.—PATTENSON and Co. beg to announce their extensive and late patents public that they have a COMPLETED THIRD ANNUAL STOCK, the largest they have ever yet held—unequalled for variety, extent, and cheapness. Lace curtains in proportionate excellence.
Nos. 174, 176, 191, 194, 196, 198, and 200, Westbourne Bridge-road.

JAMES LOCKE and CO., the SCOTCH WAREHOUSE,
by appointment to her Majesty the Queen and her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales,
107, 108, and 109, Regent-street, London, W.
Waterproof Tweed Cloaks, Walking and Yachting Jackets, Shawls, and Wrappers of every description. Shetland Shawls, Veils, and Hose. Scarves, Plaid Tweeds, and Library Wrappers for Ladies' Travelling and Morning Costume.
Patterns free.

SILKS.—Paris taste and fashion have declared Black and White, and White and Black, to be the leading colours in dress for the present season.
Messrs. Jay have, in consequence, imported the most elegant Silks, Satins, Grenadines, Barèges, and Muslins, in these colours, and the public will be fluent understand that Messrs. Jay's are the only establishment in which either ready for choosing or to any other establishment in the kingdom.
JAY'S GENERAL FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

LEACAMELAINA DRESSES.—A novel and very attractive fabric for Morning Dresses, manufactured entirely for the establishment of Messrs. JAY, which commences six yards round the skirt, and is trimmed with three rows of Silk Braid, and Satin insertion. It is especially suited to the present season, never catching the dust, and therefore always looking fresh and new.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON QUEEN'S MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

MOURNING FABRICS OF ALL KINDS, in addition to having been long notorious for Mourning Dresses, and which they invariably sell at a less rate proportionate to the quality than any other house, JAY'S have now become the most eminent variety of other fabrics, equally adapted for mourning purpose, but at far cheaper and more economical charges.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

COSTUMES for FETES and PROMENADES.—Messrs. JAY have just received from Paris, per last night's train, from the best houses in Paris, models of the above, in the fashionable colours of the season, which they are now prepared to show.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

THE ONE-GUINEA BONNET at Mrs. JAY'S, 247, 249, 251, Regent-street, is a Model—neat, elegant, and Decorative. Wedding orders, cards, and country orders punctually attended to.

IMPORTANT TO WOOLLEN BUYERS.
Messrs. JAY have just purchased some of the most costly goods ever offered to JAMES LAST and CO., at 20 per cent below the value, and they are now selling them at 1s. 6d. per yard, 54 inches wide.
N.B. Foreign Orders instantly, carefully, and promptly executed.

100 STARTLING NOVELTIES from PARIS, Just received, in Mantles, Costumes, Bonnets, and Flowers of new Jacket Mantle, in LADIES' CLOTH OF FASHION, Nos. 1 to 6.
Address 247, 249, 251, Regent-street, Strand.

DR. DE JONGH'S (Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium, and Member of the Royal Dutch Medical College) pronounced by the most eminent medical men throughout the world to be unequalled for the speedy and effectual cure of CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, GENERAL DEBILITY, and all the PAIN, DECAY, INFANTILE WASTING AND SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, is incontrovertibly the most successful remedy ever yet introduced.
SOLE MEDICAL OPINION.
Medical Hall, 4 Heath-side, Hampstead, N.W.
"It is, I believe, universally acknowledged that Dr. de Jongh's LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is the only genuine article, and I have had many opportunities of testing its value in my investigations. I have no doubt of its being a pure and unadulterated article."
SAMUEL LAYCOCK, M.D., L.R.C.P., Edin.
Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.
"I have frequently had occasion to prescribe Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod-Liver Oil, and have invariably found it to possess the most unequivocal superiority over all other varieties, and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of the oil is destroyed by admixture."
R. LATHAM, M.D., Cantab.
Sole Consignee—
ANSAR, HARFORD, and HAMBURY, 77, Cornhill, London, E.C.

SUPERB FLOWER-SEEDS, post-free, at the annexed prices:—100 fine Hardy Annuals, 5s.; 50 ditto, 2s. 6d.; 25 ditto, 1s. 6d. Catalogues gratis and post-free.—Thomas St. Jones, The Nursery, Thame, High-street, Bedfordshire.

£2000 on ACCIDENTAL DEATH for £2 10s. per annum, by the ANNUITY and LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Corner of Old Jewry, London.
Apply to the Secretary, 1, Old Jewry, E.C.

OLD MARSALA WINE, guaranteed the purest to be imported, free from acidity or heat, and much recommended by the faculty for its purity and invigorating qualities, 24s. per dozen, bottles and case included; or sample bottle, post-paid, 2s. 6d. WATSON, Wine Merchant, 73, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, opposite the British Museum.

NAPOLEON PRICE'S REGISTERED LONDON OIL is the only article that really promotes luxuriant growth, restores grey hair to its original colour, and prevents it falling. Beware of an imitation. The genuine is sold by the Sole Proprietor, NAPOLEON PRICE, 114, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury.

W. F. THOMAS and CO.'S PATENT SAFETY PENS, manufactured by improved machinery, made by the original Patentees and Introducers of the Elastic Nibs, and warranted to write for Three Years without mending. They are guaranteed to perform their work efficiently, with ordinary care, for that period, or they will be replaced by new ones. Sold by all stationers and pen dealers throughout the world. Each pen is stamped, and the thread cannot be pulled out.—96, Newgate-street, and 37, Foster-lane, Cheapside, London.

THE NEW SHUTTER WARDROBES, 21, Leicester-square, are better fitting. At 3, Oxford-street, and 63, St. Paulchurch-yard, Manchester, Cloths are celebrated for comfort and economy. Also Dress Trousers, 14s. 6d. Frock Coats, 21s. Tweed Suits, 30s. Surtout Coats, 25s. Overcoats, 21s. Clerical Suits, 42s. Cassocks, 21s. Gentlemen's own Materials Made Up. Catalogues and Patterns free.—Address 3, Oxford-street, Manchester.

SHIRTS.—Gentlemen requiring Shirts of the very best description, fitting with perfection, and made by first-class workmen, are solicited to forward their orders to CAPTAIN and WATERS, 16, Regent-street, London, S.W.

SPRING.—WATTS'S ALKALINE SOLUTION, for the Toilet and Bath, is a most delightful, refreshing, and invigorating preparation, and, as formerly prescribed by the medical profession, is to be had of all Chemists, Perfumers, and Medicine Vendors throughout the world at 3s. 6d. per bottle. Wholesale, 3, Bow-churchyard, E.C.

HOLLOWAY'S ROYAL WAREHOUSE, 244, STRAND (CLOSE to TEMPLE-BAR), LONDON.—The Proprietor of this Establishment has the honour to announce that the Spring and Summer Importations of Rich Dress Silks, Satins, Velvets, Fancy Dress Fabrics, Shawls, Mantles, Costumes, Bonnets, Hats, Feathers, Flowers, Ornamental Needlework, Veils, &c., are NOW READY.

JOHN PARRY'S SKETCHES and DRAWINGS of the Costumes of the Principal Nations of the World, from his own Collection, are NOW OPEN, for a limited period, from WEDNESDAY, May 6, at the Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly, at Three and Eight o'clock. Stalls, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Programmes of Mr. Parry's Entertainment, 1s. Mr. Leader Near, Gallery, 1.

PORT and SHERRY, 12s. per Dozen: Claret and Sauterne, 10s. per Dozen.—VICTORIA WINE COMPANY, 65, Lower Thames-street, E.C. Two samples sent for 12 stamps.

REDMAYNE and CO. have the honour to announce the completion of their ALTERATIONS and of their arrangements for the Spring Trade. Every department is replete with the Novelties of the Season. Their Stock is unusually large and varied, and they are confident they have selected the General Mourning and Family Dress-cloth Linens, 10 and 36, Ironmonger-lane, and 31, Cheapside.

WORKS IN GENERAL LITERATURE.

BRANDE'S DICTIONARY of SCIENCE, LITERATURE, and ART. Fourth Edition, corrected and Extended by Professor W. T. BRANDE, D.C.L. (the Author), and the Rev. G. W. COX, M.A. assisted by Gentlemen of eminent Scientific and Literary Attainments. Parts I. and II. medium 8vo. price 7s. each.

URE'S DICTIONARY of ARTS, MANUFACTURES, and MINES. Re-written and enlarged by ROBERT HUNT, F.R.S. assisted by Gentlemen eminent in Science and the Arts. With 1,000 Woodcuts. 3 vols. 8vo. £4.

A DICTIONARY of CHEMISTRY and the ALLIED BRANCHES of other Sciences. By HENRY WATTS, F.C.S. assisted by eminent Contributors. In course of publication in Parts. Vol. I. 8s. 6d.; Vol. II. 36s. and Vol. III. 31s. 6d. may now be had.

HEAT CONSIDERED as a MODE of MOTION. By JOHN TYNDALL, F.R.S. &c. Prof. of Nat. Philos. in the Royal Institution. Second Edition. Crown 8vo. with Illustrations, 12s. 6d.

The ARTISAN CLUB'S TREATISE on the STEAM-ENGINE, in its various APPLICATIONS. By J. BOURNE, C.E. Sixth Edition; with 37 Plates and 160 Woodcuts. 4to. £2s.

BOURNE'S CATECHISM of the STEAM-ENGINE, in its various APPLICATIONS. Revised and enlarged Edition, with many Woodcuts. Fcp. 8vo. 9s.

BOURNE'S RECENT IMPROVEMENTS in the STEAM-ENGINE, being the Introduction to the above 'Catechism,' published separately. Fcp. 8vo. with Woodcuts, 2s. 6d.

BOURNE'S HANDBOOK of the STEAM-ENGINE, Constituting a KEY to the same Author's 'Catechism of the Steam Engine,' (as above). Fcp. 8vo. with Woodcuts, 9s.

THE CABINET LAWYER;
A Popular Digest of the Laws of England, Civil and Criminal. Twentieth Edition, including the Acts of the Session 1864. Fcp. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

LOUDON'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA of GARDENING:
Comprising the Theory and Practice of Horticulture, Floriculture, Arboriculture, and Landscape Gardening. With 1,000 Woodcuts. 8vo. 21s. 6d.

MANUAL of the DOMESTIC PRACTICE of MEDICINE. By W. B. KESTEVEN. Second Edition, revised, with Additions. Fcp. 8vo. 7s.

MODERN COOKERY for PRIVATE FAMILIES,
Reduced to a System of Easy Practice in a Series of carefully-tested Receipts. By ELIZA ACTON. With Plates and Woodcuts. Fcp. 8vo. 7s. 6d.

A PRACTICAL DICTIONARY of the FRENCH and ENGLISH LANGUAGES. By L. CONTANSEAU. Ninth Edition. Post 8vo. 6s. 6d.

CONTANSEAU'S POCKET DICTIONARY, FRENCH and ENGLISH: Being a close Abridgment of the above, by the same Author. Second Edition. 18mo. 5s.

MAUNDER'S BIOGRAPHICAL TREASURY:
Memoirs, Sketches, and Brief Notices of above 12,000 Eminent Persons of All Ages and Nations. Fcp. 8vo. 10s.

MAUNDER'S HISTORICAL TREASURY;
Comprising a General Introductory Outline of Universal History, and a Series of Separate Histories. Fcp. 8vo. 10s.

MAUNDER'S TREASURY of KNOWLEDGE and LIBRARY of REFERENCE: comprising an English Dictionary and Grammar, a Universal Gazetteer, a Classical Dictionary, a Chronology, a Law Dictionary, a Synopsis of the Peerage, useful Tables, &c. Fcp. 8vo. 10s.

MAUNDER'S TREASURY of GEOGRAPHY,
Physical, Historical, Descriptive, and Political. Edited by W. HUGHES, F.R.G.S. With 7 Maps and 16 Plates. Fcp. 8vo. 10s.

MAUNDER'S TREASURY of NATURAL HISTORY, or Popular Dictionary of Zoology. Revised and corrected by T. S. COBBOLD, M.D. Fcp. 8vo. with 900 Woodcuts, 10s.

MAUNDER'S SCIENTIFIC and LITERARY TREASURY:
a Popular Encyclopædia of Science, Literature, and Art. Fcp. 8vo. 10s.

On the same popular plan, nearly ready.

LINDLEY and MOORE'S TREASURY of BOTANY.

AYRE'S TREASURY of BIBLE KNOWLEDGE, in the press.

SIR RUTHERFORD ALCOCK'S NARRATIVE of THREE YEARS' RESIDENCE in JAPAN—the Capital of the Tycoon. With Maps and many Illustrations. 2 vols. 8vo. 42s.

VANCOUVER ISLAND AND BRITISH COLUMBIA;
their History, Resources, and Prospects. By MATTHEW MACFIE, F.R.G.S. Five Years' Resident. 8vo. with Maps and Illustrations. [In May.

TRANSYLVANIA, its PRODUCTS and its PEOPLE.
By CHARLES BONER. 8vo. with Maps and Illustrations. [Nearly ready.

THE DOLOMITE MOUNTAINS.
Excursions through Tyrol, Carinthia, Carniola, and Friuli. By J. GILBERT and G. C. CHURCHILL, F.R.G.S. With numerous Illustrations. Square crown 8vo. 21s.

LAST WINTER in ROME.
By C. R. WELD. With Portrait and several Wood Engravings. Post 8vo. 14s.

VISITS to REMARKABLE PLACES:
Old Halls, Battle-Fields, and Scenes illustrative of Striking Passages in English History and Poetry. By WILLIAM HOWITT. 2 vols. with Illustrations, 21s.

The RURAL LIFE of ENGLAND.
By the same Author. With Woodcuts by Bewick and Williams. Medium 8vo. 12s. 6d.

HOWITT'S HISTORY of DISCOVERY in our AUSTRALIAN COLONIES, AUSTRALASIA, TASMANIA, and NEW ZEALAND, from the Earliest Date to the Present Day. With 2 Maps from Official Sources. 2 vols. 8vo. 30s.

On REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT.
By JOHN STUART MILL. People's Edition, crown 8vo. 2s. Library Edition (the Third), 8vo. 9s.

On LIBERTY.
By JOHN STUART MILL. People's Edition, crown 8vo. 1s. 4d. Library Edition (the Third), post 8vo. 7s. 6d.

PRINCIPLES of POLITICAL ECONOMY.
By JOHN STUART MILL. People's Edition, crown 8vo. 5s. Library Edition (the Sixth), 2 vols. 8vo. 30s.

DISSERTATIONS and DISCUSSIONS,
Political, Philosophical, and Historical. By JOHN STUART MILL. 2 vols. 8vo. 24s.

A SYSTEM of LOGIC, RATIOCINATIVE and INDUCTIVE. By JOHN STUART MILL. Fifth Edition. 2 vols. 8vo. 25s.

An EXAMINATION of SIR WILLIAM HAMILTON'S PHILOSOPHY, and of the Principal Philosophical Questions Discussed in his Writings. By JOHN STUART MILL. 8vo. 16s.

HISTORY of ENGLAND
From the Accession of James the Second. By the Right Hon. Lord MACAULAY.
LIBRARY EDITION, with Portrait and brief Memoir, 5 vols. 8vo. 4l.
CABINET EDITION, with Portrait and brief Memoir, 8 vols. post 8vo. 48s.
PEOPLE'S EDITION, with brief Memoir, 4 vols. crown 8vo. 16s.; or in Fourteen Parts, price One Shilling each.

HISTORY of ENGLAND
From the Fall of Wolsey to the Death of Elizabeth. By JAMES ANTHONY FROUDE, M.A. late Fellow of Exeter College, Oxford.
Reign of Henry VIII. Vols. I. to IV. Third Edition, 56s.
Vols. V. and VI. Edward VI. and Mary. Second Edition, 28s.
Vols. VII. and VIII. forming Vols. I. and II. of the Reign of Elizabeth. Third Edition, 28s.

MISCELLANEOUS WRITINGS of LORD MACAULAY.
Viz. Contributions to Knight's Quarterly Magazine, Articles from the Edinburgh Review now first included in his Critical and Historical Essays, Biographies from the Encyclopædia Britannica, Miscellaneous Poems and Inscriptions.
LIBRARY EDITION, with Portrait, 2 vols. 8vo. 21s.
PEOPLE'S EDITION, in One Volume, crown 8vo. price 4s. 6d. or in 4 Parts, price One Shilling each.

CRITICAL and HISTORICAL ESSAYS
Contributed to the Edinburgh Review by the Right Honorable Lord MACAULAY. Library Edition, being the Tenth. 3 vols. 8vo. 36s.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL and HISTORICAL ESSAYS. Traveller's Edition, complete in One Volume, with Portrait and Vignette. Square crown 8vo. 12s.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL and HISTORICAL ESSAYS Contributed to the Edinburgh Review. An Edition in Volumes for the Pocket. 3 vols. Fcp. 8vo. 18s.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL and HISTORICAL ESSAYS Contributed to the Edinburgh Review. People's Edition, complete in 3 vols. crown 8vo. or in 7 Parts, price One Shilling each.

LAYS of ANCIENT ROME.
By the Right Hon. Lord MACAULAY. With Woodcut Illustrations, original and from the Antique, by GEORGE SCHARF, F.S.A. Fcp. 4to. 21s.

LORD MACAULAY'S LAYS of ANCIENT ROME,
With IVRY and the ARMADA, and a Vignette from a Design by G. SCHARF, F.S.A. 16mo. 4s. 6d.

HISTORY of the ROMANS under the EMPIRE.
By CHARLES MERIVALE, B.D. Chaplain to the Speaker. Cabinet Edition, in course of publication in Eight Monthly Volumes, price 6s. each.
LIBRARY EDITION, in 7 vols. 8vo. with MAPS and INDEX, price £5 15s.

The CONVERSION of the ROMAN EMPIRE;
The Boyle Lectures for 1864 delivered at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, by the same Author. 8vo. 8s. 6d.

An ESSAY on the HISTORY of the ENGLISH GOVERNMENT and CONSTITUTION, from the Reign of Henry VII. to the Present Time. By JOHN, Earl RUSSELL. New Edition, with a New Introduction. 8vo. 12s.

SIR JOHN ELIOT:
A Biography: 1590–1632. By JOHN FORSTER. With 2 Portraits on Steel, from the Originals at Port Eliot. 2 vols. crown 8vo. 30s.

HISTORICAL and PHILOSOPHICAL ESSAYS.
By NAMIK W. SENIOR, Esq. 1 vol. post 8vo. 10s.

HISTORICAL STUDIES.
By HERMAN MERIVALE. 8vo. 12s. 6d.
I. On Some of the Precursors of the French Revolution.
II. Studies from the History of the Seventeenth Century.
III. Leisure Hours of a Tourist.

HISTORY of CIVILISATION.
By HENRY THOMAS BUCKLE. 2 vols. 8vo. 21 17s.
Vol. I. England and France, Fourth Edition, 18s.
Vol. II. Spain and Scotland, Second Edition, 16s.

HISTORY of the RISE and INFLUENCE of the SPIRIT of RATIONALISM in EUROPE. By W. E. H. LECKY, M.A. 2 vols. 8vo. 30s.

ESSAYS on RELIGION and LITERATURE.
By Various Writers. Edited by the Right Rev. H. R. MANSEL, D.D. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

LECTURES on the SCIENCE of LANGUAGE.
By Max MÜLLER, M.A. Taylorian Professor of Modern European Languages and Literature in the University of Oxford. 2 vols. 8vo. 24 18s.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY of the late SIR B. C. BRODIE, Bart. Printed from the Author's Materials left in MS. Fcp. 8vo. 3s. 6d.

The WORKS of the late SIR B. C. BRODIE, Bart. D.C.L. Serjeant-Surgeon to the Queen, President of the Royal Society, Collected and arranged by CHARLES BRODIE, F.R.C.S.E. With Medallion and Facsimile. 3 vols. 8vo. 42s.

FATHER MATHEW:
A Biography. By JOHN FRANCIS MAGUIRE, M.P. People's Edition, complete in One Volume, crown 8vo. with Portrait, price 2s. 6d. [Now ready.

DIARIES of a LADY of QUALITY,
From 1797 to 1844. Edited, with Notes, by A. HAYWARD, Esq. Q.C. Second Edition, revised, with a few Additions. Post 8vo. 9s. 6d.

JOURNAL and CORRESPONDENCE of MISS BERRY.
Edited, with an Introduction and Notes, by Lady THERESA LEWIS. 2 vols. 8vo. [Nearly ready.

HISTORY of my RELIGIOUS OPINIONS;
Being the substance of Apologia pro Vitâ Sua. By JOHN HENRY NEWMAN, D.D. Post 8vo. [In May.

LIFE of the DUKE of WELLINGTON.
By the Rev. G. R. GLEIG, M.A. People's Edition, condensed, but with copious Additions and a Portrait. Crown 8vo. 5s.

LIFE of ROBERT STEPHENSON, F.R.S.
By J. C. JEAFFRESON and WILLIAM POLE, F.R.S. With 8 Portraits and 17 Illustrations. 2 vols. 8vo. 28s.

TALES and STORIES by AUTHOR of 'AMY HERBERT.'
Uniform Edition, each Story or Tale in a single volume—
AMY HERBERT, 2s. 6d.
GERTRUDE, 2s. 6d.
EARL'S DAUGHTER, 2s. 6d.
EXPERIENCE OF LIFE, 2s. 6d.
CLEVE HALL, 2s. 6d.
IVORS, 2s. 6d.
KATHERINE ASHTON, 3s. 6d.
MARGARET PERCIVAL, 5s.
LANETON PARSONAGE, 4s. 6d.
URSULA, 4s. 6d.

The CRITICAL ESSAYS of a COUNTRY PARSON;
A Selection from Essays contributed by A. K. H. B. to Fraser's Magazine in the Years 1858–59. Post 8vo. 9s.

The AUTUMN HOLIDAYS of a COUNTRY PARSON;
Essays selected from the Contributions of A. K. H. B. to Fraser's Magazine and to Good Words. Now and Cheaper Edition. Crown 8vo. 3s. 6d.

By the same Author, price 3s. 6d. each Work.
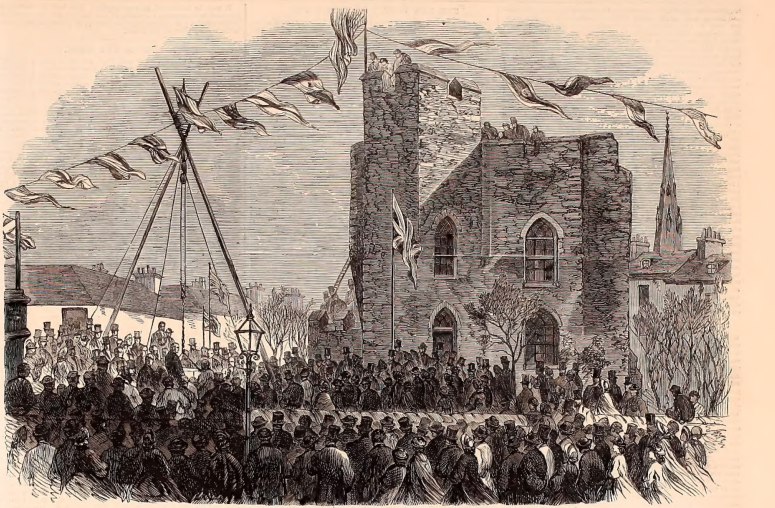
The GRAVER THOUGHTS of a COUNTRY PARSON, SECOND SERIES.
LEISURE HOURS in TOWN, Third Edition.
The RECREATIONS of a COUNTRY PARSON, SECOND SERIES.
COMMONPLACE PHILOSOPHER in TOWN and COUNTRY.

The GLADIATORS:
A Tale of Rome and Judea. By G. J. WHYTE MELVILLE. Complete in One Volume, with Frontispiece. Crown 8vo. 6s.
One-Volume Editions of Works by the same Author.
DIGBY GRAND, An Autobiography. 5s.
KATE COVENTRY, An Autobiography. 5s.
GENERAL BOUNCE, Or the Lady and the Locusts. 5s.
HOLMBY HOUSE, A Tale of Old Northamptonshire. 5s.
GOOD for NOTHING, Or All Down Hill. 6s.
The QUEEN'S MARBLES. A Romance of Holyrood. 5s.
The INTERPRETER, A Tale of the War. 5s.

The HISTORY of OUR LORD,
As exemplified in Works of Art. By Mrs. JAMESON and Lady EASTLAKE. With 31 Etchings and 187 Woodcuts. 2 vols. square crown 8vo. 42s.
In the same Series, by Mrs. JAMESON.
LEGENDS of the SAINTS and MARTYRS.
Fourth Edition, with 19 Etchings and 87 Woodcuts. 2 vols. 31s. 6d.
LEGENDS of the MONASTIC ORDERS.
Third Edition, with 11 Etchings and 88 Woodcuts. 1 vol. 21s.
LEGENDS of the MADONNA.
Third Edition, with 27 Etchings and 165 Woodcuts. 1 vol. 25s.

The NEW TESTAMENT of our LORD JESUS CHRIST:
Illustrated with numerous Engravings on Wood from the OLD MASTERS Crown 4to. 63s. cloth.

A CRITICAL and GRAMMATICAL COMMENTARY on ST. PAUL'S EPISTLES. By C. J. ELLICOTT, D.D. Lord Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol. 8vo.



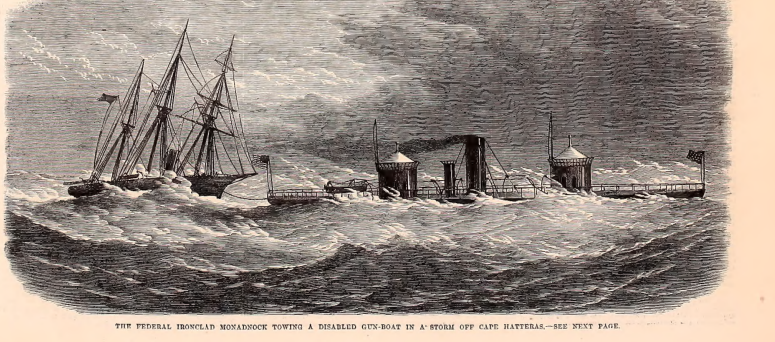
GALATIANS, Third Edition, 8s. 6d.
EPHESIANS, Third Edition, 8s. 6d.
PASTORAL EPISTLES, Third Edition, 10s. 6d.
THESSALONIANS, Second Edition, 7s. 6d.
PHILIPPIANS, COLOSSIANS, and PHILEMON, Second Edition, 10s. 6d.

HISTORICAL LECTURES on the LIFE of OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST; Being the Hulsean Lectures for 1859. By the same Author. Fourth Edition. 8vo. 10s. 6d.

The DESTINY of the CREATURE;
and other Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge. By the same Author. Post 8vo. 9s.

The BRIDGE and the NARROW WAY:
Two Sermons preached before the University of Cambridge. By the same Author. Crown 8vo. 2s.

LYRA GERMANICA,
Translated from the German by Miss C. WINKWORTH. First Series, Hymns for the Sundays and Chief Festivals; Second Series, the Christian Life. Fcp. 8vo. 5s. each Series.
HISTORICAL NOTES to the LYRA GERMANICA,
Drawn from Authentic German Sources. By THEODORE KÜNZEL. Fcp. 8vo. 5s. 6d.
LYRA GERMANICA,
First Series. Translated by Miss C. WINKWORTH. With 125 Illustrations on Wood drawn by J. Leighton, F.S.A. Fcp. 4to. 21s.
The CHORALE BOOK for ENGLAND,
The Hymns translated by Miss C. WINKWORTH; the Tunes arranged by Prof. W. S. BENNETT and OTTO GOLDSCHMIDT. Fcp. 4to. 12s. 6d.; Congregational Edition, fcp. 8vo. 2s.
CATS and FARLIE'S MORAL EMBLEMS:
Comprising 121 Illustrations on Wood by J. LEIGHTON, F.S.A. with an appropriate Text by R. PIPER. Imperial 8vo. 31s. 6d.
TUSCAN SCULPTORS, their LIVES, WORKS, & TIMES.
With 45 Etchings and 39 Engravings on Wood from Original Drawings and Photographs. By CHARLES C. PERKINS. 2 vols. imperial 8vo. 63s.



SIR GEORGE GREY LAYING THE FOUNDATION-STONE OF THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE AT NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

SIR GEORGE GREY AT THE FOUNDATION OF THE NEWCASTLE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

THE Right Hon. the Secretary of State for the Home Department laid the foundation-stone of a new building for the Mechanics' Institute of Newcastle on Wednesday week. The institute, founded under the presidency of Mr. George Stephenson in 1824, has more than a thousand members, and is in a prosperous state. The site of the proposed new building is on the line of the ancient Edwardian walls of the town, on a piece of ground in New Bridge-street, situated between the Church of the Divine Unity and the Weavers' Tower; but a large portion of the building will be hidden behind the Weavers' Tower, the frontage, which is in New Bridge-street, being only about 30 ft. On the ground floor there will be a lecture-room of a semicircular form, 30 ft. in height, and measuring 58 ft. by 37 ft. It will be capable of accommodating about 600 persons, and will be lighted by six large windows. The library will be on the first floor, above the lecture-room; and there will be class-rooms, committee-rooms, and a convenient news-room. There will be only one entrance, with a flight of four steps up to the door. The façade will present a handsome appearance. The first story will consist of rusticated ashlar, with vermiculated quoins and keystones. The doorway, which is upwards of 6 ft. wide, and the front windows, are to be deeply recessed in a concave splay. Over the first flat will be the cornice and balustrade, in the frieze of which will be cut, in prominent letters, the words "Mechanics' Institution." On the middle flat will be three handsome pedimented windows, with carved consoles and tympanum. Over these will be another tier of windows, the whole surmounted by a massive stone cornice, supported on carved trusses and terminating with a moulded parapet. Between the windows on the second and third stories there will be granite medallions, bearing carved inscriptions or representing the heads of celebrated writers. There are to be four medallions on the second story, and three of a similar size on the uppermost one. The roof of the library will be surmounted by an ornamental spired ventilator. The architect is Mr. Thomas Oliver. The building is estimated to cost about £3000, and of that sum about £2000 has been raised by subscriptions.

We give an Illustration of the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone. In the absence of the Mayor, Alderman Nichol led the Corporation and magistrates in a procession to the site of the new building, accompanied by the committee of the institution and some deputations of other societies, who had met at the Corn Exchange, and joined the municipal dignitaries in the Cloth Market. A platform had been erected on the ground in New Bridge-street, where the Deputy Mayor, Sir George Grey, Sir John Fife, and the committee and officers of the institute took their stand. Sir John Fife presented the silver trowel to the Right Hon. Baronet, inviting him to perform the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone. Sir George Grey took the silver trowel, and went down to the place where the stone was already suspended. In an aperture beneath the stone was placed a bottle containing copies of the Daily Chronicle and other local journals, a plan of the building, a history of the institution, the constitution of the society, and last year's report. When Sir George had spread the mortar the stone was lowered and, was declared to be laid. The Vicar of Newcastle then offered up a prayer, and Sir George Grey addressed the spectators in a brief but appropriate speech. The band played the National Anthem, and this part of the proceedings was brought to a close. It was followed by a dinner at the Queen's Head, and in the evening a great public meeting took place in the Townhall; the Right Hon. T. E. Headlam, M.P., occupied the chair, and the meeting was addressed by a number of gentlemen connected with the district. Mr. Joseph Cowen, jun., the secretary of the Northern Union of Mechanics' Institutions, stated that sixteen years ago there were but twenty mechanics' institutes on the banks of the Tyne, but now there were about eighty, with many thousand members. By the free contributions of these members £4000 was subscribed annually for educational purposes. These institutions also possessed 80,000 books. An address was presented to Sir George Grey, and the Right Hon. Baronet delivered a lengthened speech upon popular education. Referring to the recent lock-out, Sir George Grey said,—"In the address which has been presented to me one passage reminds me of a subject which has already been referred to, and therefore, perhaps, you will allow me to say two or three words upon it. Those from whom this address emanates congratulate me as one in authority, and for themselves gratefully acknowledge the prosperity, peace and good-will among men, which, under Divine Providence, at present reign not only in this district, but throughout our common country. Mr. Lowthian Bell has made some observations upon the subject to which I am now about to refer. Of course, I must confess that I have viewed with considerable anxiety those differences which unhappily lately arose between employers of labour and their workmen in one of the most important branches of industry with which this district is so intimately connected; but that anxiety was shortly afterwards equalled by the satisfaction with which I witnessed the good feeling which yet exists between the masters and their workmen. It was a satisfaction followed by other proofs of the good sense of the people of this district—and when I speak of the people of this district I mean the masters and their workmen—in taking the matter into their own hands; in determining not to be dictated to by those at a distance; in determining to judge for themselves, and let their own good feelings and right judgment and sense influence them in the course they were to take. I sincerely rejoice to find that the result was what might have been anticipated—a speedy termination of those differences, and the averting of that great calamity which would have arisen had the lock-out continued for any length of time, involving, as it must have done, thousands of innocent persons in misery and distress which I shrink from contemplating. I hope and trust that the example thus set in this part of England has had its effect elsewhere, and that it has also tended to bring to an end the differences now unhappily existing in another part of the country. I say, I believe that the more the influence of these mechanics' institutions is extended, the more the means of knowledge conferred by these and similar institutions pervade the mass of the people, the less chance will there be of those differences leading to consequences which we must all deprecate; and I hope and trust I am not sanguine in expressing my belief that soon, if not from this time forth, strikes and lock-outs will not only be things of the past, but when differences arise—as arise from time to time they must—a more rational, a more sensible, and a more prudent mode will be adopted for their settlement in this part of the country; one which will not disturb the harmony subsisting between each of the classes which are bound together in an indissoluble connection of interest, and which will lead men to consider their interests as identified one with the other; so that they may discuss matters calmly, temperately, and reasonably; coming to such decisions as their own mutual conference and good judgment will dictate."

THE FEDERAL IRONCLAD MONADNOCK TOWING A DISABLED GUN-BOAT IN A STORM OFF CAPE HATTERAS.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE AMERICAN IRONCLAD MONADNOCK.

We have been favoured by Commander Urmston, of H.M.S. Styx, now stationed in Hampton Roads, off Fortress Monro, with the sketch we have engraved, showing the Federal ironclad Monadnock, one of the best of the Monitor class of vessels, as she appeared when towing the Mohican gun-boat, which had broken down in a gale off Cape Hatteras, on the coast of North Carolina. The Monadnock, which is named after a picturesque mountain in New England, took a leading part in the bombardment of Fort Fisher, and was specially commended by Admiral David Porter for her services on that occasion. After the fall of Wilmington, the Monadnock was ordered up to the James River, Virginia; but a first-class gun-boat, the Mohican, was sent down to convoy her thither. When they arrived off Cape Hatteras a gale sprang up, and the Mohican broke down; but the Monadnock, which had stood the gale much better than was expected, was able to take the gun-boat in tow, and brought her along, it is said, at the rate of seven knots an hour, against a head sea, which is such a feat as no vessel of the kind has ever performed. The Monadnock is a double-turreted vessel, plated with iron 6 in. thick over the sides and 10 in. thick over the turrets. Her length is 250 ft.; breadth of beam, 53 ft.; depth of hold, apparently, 17 ft.; draught of water, 12 ft. Her engines are of about 600-horse power. She carries four guns of 15 in. calibre, throwing 600 lb. shot, with a charge of 60 lb. of powder, or 480 lb. shot, with 35 lb. of powder. She is esteemed by the Americans as a model for their future navy.

THE KING PENGUIN AT THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS.

The first live king penguin ever exhibited in this country—the first, we believe, of the larger kind of penguins ever brought alive to Europe—is now to be seen at the Zoological Society's Gardens, in the Regent's Park. We give a Portrait of this queer creature. The king penguin (Aptenodytes pennantis) is remarkable for his exquisitely-coloured skin, in which black and green hues blend with golden yellow, creamy or silvery white, and bluish grey, all most beautifully varied. This skin is often made up as a lady's muff. The bird itself is a queer-shaped mass of living blubber, capable only of voracious feeding, and fit only to be knocked on the head with a stick. Such, at least, is the popular conception of a penguin. But Commander William Fenwick, of her Majesty's ship Harrier, has brought one of these birds with him, we believe from the Falkland Islands. It is most likely the first that ever came alive to Europe, and was presented by him to the Zoological Society. It is now doing its best to dispel the unfavourable preconceived opinion we had of penguins. It is a favourite with everybody who has to do with it. There is something affectionate and trustful about this bird, which is rendered more touching by its intelligent eye and a certain dignity of demeanour. The latter made one think of the gayr fowl in Mr. Kingsley's charming book, and there is little doubt that that bird (the great auk) was one of the representatives of the penguin tribe in the northern hemisphere. Our friend is never so happy as when noticed and handled, being perfectly fearless. It could give a sharp peck with its beak, but that is only used to take food gently from the hand of its keepers. The little ridiculous flippers of the stuffed animal are now seen to be powerful propellers. Indeed they are used in extreme cases of haste on land as well as in the water. There is no occasion to use them in the Society's garden in that way, and our friend, therefore, only follows its keeper in the upright position, placing its finny feet one before the other, the heel put first on the ground. It is like the tottering walk of a baby, the bird looking the picture of mild complacency all the while. Sitting upright, the penguin rests and sleeps; upright it hatches its one egg, holding it between its legs. The bird under discussion was not caught young and at first refused to feed; but, that difficulty once overcome, it soon got sociable and especially attached to the cabin-boy who attended to it on board ship, and with whom it used to walk the deck for hours. The yellow feathers from the skin of this penguin are much prized by many of the South Sea Islanders, and are used as ornaments and marks of distinction in their feather cloaks. They form an article of trade or barter with these people. The eye of the penguin is very peculiar. The pupil is upright and oblong, the iris dark, and the lids open, as it were, by a slit like those of the eye of a seal, whose loving, languid expression it shares. Deep orange patches on the lower part of the beak heighten the picturesque effect of the colouring. The tail consists almost only of stiff quills, and helps to support the body when at rest, forming a tripod with the heels of the feet, the toes being generally off the ground, turned somewhat upwards, when the bird is quite comfortable. Mr. Darwin and Dr. Bennett give excellent accounts of this penguin. The former says that its activity on land is by no means small when it tries to get away through the tussocks of grass by the shore, using legs and flippers, looking much like a quadruped, and being easily mistaken for one. The wings have a scaly appearance; the small, broad quills of the feathers only being developed, forming a pattern on the former, and getting larger where the larger feathers would be in other sorts of birds. To a person of excited imagination a number of these birds would look much like people—soldiers especially—at a distance; and the more so as Dr. Bennett describes them as congregating in enormous numbers on certain spots in the South Pacific Ocean, where they are arranged, when on shore, with the greatest order, in as compact a manner and as regular ranks as troops; the different classes keeping their respective situations—the young birds one, the moulting birds another, sitting hens a third, and clean birds a fourth. Thousands are coming and going, and should a bird make a mistake and intrude in a wrong quarter it is immediately ejected from it.

The Emigration Commissioners have chartered the Venilia, belonging to Mr. John Baker, London, to convey emigrants to Brisbane, Queensland, at £13 14s. per statute adult. The ship is to be ready to receive her passengers, at Plymouth, on the 12th of June next.

THE NEW COURTS OF JUSTICE SITE.

It seems to be generally acknowledged that the "Carey-street site" is, take it for all in all, save for merely ornamental display, the best adapted location for the New Courts of Justice; a measure which, notwithstanding its pressing necessity, has been delayed execution some twenty years since it was agitated with anything like a practical bearing. The Lincoln's-inn-fields site has been well considered, and given up, notwithstanding the "gratuitous" gift of the garden, as too costly; added to which would be the unpopularity of blocking up one of the most beautiful open places in the metropolis. The Thames Embankment site would be still more costly but less convenient, while the period of its execution would be provokingly uncertain. We, then, return to the Carey-street site, which "lies circumjacent to the great legal haunts where the barristers are, and is in the centre of the legal district of London—for instance, Lincoln's-inn-fields, Lincoln's Inn, Bedford-row, Gray's Inn, Furnival's Inn, Staple Inn, and the other inns, and the Temple, and, on the west, New Inn, and Clement's Inn." In the zincographed plan accompanying the report of the Commissioners we see this district coloured yellow; and the courts, offices, and chambers, in other colours, shown in most convenient propinquity. It is divided from the Temple by the Strand, which inconvenience will be provided for by covered bridge-ways, by tunnels, or subways; and it has even been proposed to turn Temple Bar to more profitable account than a depository for cash-books and ledgers, by making it a passage—we hope not a "bridge of sighs"—for lawyers and their clients.

In addition to its convenience and adaptation, the Carey-street site presents other advantages. By its clearance we shall get rid of a bad neighbourhood from the centre of London, than which there are few parts worse, in a sanitary point of view. It is an old, worn-out district of streets, ways, and courts, ill-drained and unventilated; and for the most part, a black spot in the moral topography of the metropolis. Its extent is about seven acres and a half; its boundaries on the north are Horseshoe-court, Yeate's-court, and Carey-street; on the east, Bell-yard; on the south, the Strand and Pickett-street; and on the west, Clement's Inn. It is hard to imagine this blighted region, over which "Decay's effacing fingers" have swept like a pestilence, and left but little that is sound. Yet, upon this spot, two and three centuries ago, resided many persons of rank and note. Many of the houses have been rebuilt; but several remain, which formerly had tenants much above the rank of their present occupiers. Carey-street we find described by Hatton, in 1708, as "spacious and considerable:" it was named from Sir George Carey. At its west end remains a small, old inn yard, the Plough, with the usual gallery; and in the same street, continued northward, was a public-house and stable-yard, described in Sir William Davenant's "Playhouse To Be Let" as "our house inn, the Grange." It was taken down in 1853 for the site of King's College Hospital." We step out of Carey-street into New Boswell-court, described, in 1708, as "a pleasant one;" but the abodes of the quality were in Old Boswell-court, at the foot of a flight of steps southward, and adjoining Clement's-lane. The court was named from the house of a Mr. Boswell, whence, in 1589, Gilbert Talbot writes a letter of London gossip to his father, the celebrated Earl of Shrewsbury, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth (says Mr. P. Cunningham), who found in the burial register of St. Clement Danes this entry: "1611, Sept. 2.—Mr. Ewins, Esquier, from Boswell House." The rate-books show that here lived the Lord Chief Justice and Sir Edward Lyttleton, the Solicitor-General in 1635. Lady Raleigh (widow of Sir Walter) resided here 1623-5. Sir Richard and Lady Fanshawe lived here. Lady F., in her "Memoirs," writes:—"In his absence, I took a house in Boswell-court, near Temple Bar, for two years, immediately moving all my goods thereto." The Fanshawes had a house in Lincoln's-inn-fields, on the north side, where the Countess of Middlesex had lived before; and the same day that Lady F. came there was brought the body of her dear husband, who died at Madrid. After this Lady F. removed, with her five children, to the opposite side of the fields.

Both Boswell-courts will be swept away, together with Clement's-lane, "a filthy and inconvenient avenue," though once the residence of Sir John Trevor, cousin to Lord Chancellor Jefferies. At a house in the fields, beyond Clement's Inn, according to Faukes, the five conspirators first met, "where they did confer and agree upon the (Gunpowder) plot." There they took the solemn oath of secrecy; and in the same house they received the sacrament of Gerard—the Jesuit. According to the confession of Winter, he, with Catesby, Percy, Wright, and Faukes, met in one of the houses of Butcher-row, east of Clement's Inn, and there administered the oath of secrecy, and afterwards received the sacrament in the next room.

Ship-yard, another place of some note, will also disappear. It was the site of the Ship Inn, mentioned, with other grants, to Sir Christopher Hatton, in 1571. A token "at the Ship, without Temple Bar, 1649," is in the Beaufoy Collection. John Reynolds, a cook, issued a token, the device the fox stealing a goose in Ship-yard, in 1666. "The Ship Tavern, in Butcher-row, near Temple Bar," is noticed in an advertisement so late as June, 1756 (Burn's Catalogue of the Beaufoy Cabinet). Most of the houses in Ship-yard have been rebuilt or refronted; but on the west side, towards the south end, is an ancient house with overhanging storys. It is engraved in Wilkinson's "Londina Illustrata" as "supposed to have been the residence of Elias Ashmole, the celebrated antiquary." The aspect of the yard has much altered within our recollection, and there is little to remind one of the old place unless it is in the "Old Trumpet" Tavern, taken from the Trumpet in Shire-lane, hard by, at which the Tatler met his club. Returning to the Strand, we may note that Faithorne, the celebrated engraver, kept shop "next to ye signe of the Drake, without Temple Barr," according to his imprint, 1662—"The Drake" meaning the ship in which the great Sir Francis sailed round the world.

Serle's-place and Lower Serle's-place are included in the Carey-street plan. Serle's-place is named from Mr. Henry Serle, who acquired this property from the sons and the executors of Sir John Birkenhead, the writer of "Mercurius Aulicus," in the time of the Civil War, under Charles I. Serle died about 1690, much in debt, and his lands heavily mortgaged; his arms are over the Lincoln's-inn gateway, next Carey-street, Serle's Coffee-house of the days of the Spectator. Lower Serle's-place has been since 1845 the name of the notorious Shire-lane. According to Strype, the whole thoroughfare appears to have been originally called Shire-lane, which he describes as coming out of Little Lincoln's-inn-fields and falling into Fleet-street by Temple Bar—"the upper part hath good old buildings, well inhabited; but the lower part is very narrow and more ordinary." The Tatler met his club at "The Trumpet," at the upper end. Who can forget the march of the "twaddlers" from the country, down the lane across the road, to Dick's Coffee-house, in the glorious Tatler, No. 86? We remember to have seen an old drawing of the Trumpet Tavern, by Samuel Ireland. The house at which was held the Kit-Kat Club is not so well chronicled as are the members over the patronymic pies, toasting the reigning beauties out of glasses engraved with commemorative verses; and how Kneller's portraits of the club gave rise to "Kit-Kat"-sized pictures. In the lane lived Sir John Sedley; and here his son, Sir Charles Sedley, the dramatic poet and witty contemporary of Rochester, was born. Ashmole, the antiquary, lived here; and Antony à Wood records his having dined with Ashmole here; which somewhat disturbs the story of Ashmole having lived in Ship-yard. In Shire-lane was Hemp, the sheriffs' officers' dwelling and sponging house, whither Theodore Hook was taken under arrest for his Mauritius defalcation: here he staid from August till the following Easter, cheered by his new friend Dr. Maginn. The nomenclature of Shire-lane was changed in the hope of getting rid of the name and bad character together: we have now a more effective extermination in view.

The eastern boundary of the plan, Bell-yard, Pope, a century and a quarter ago, called "a filthy old place," though his friend Fortescue, to whom Pope wrote this, lived at the upper end, or best part, of the yard. It has lost much of its old appearance within memory; we especially miss its fishing-tackle shops which made this a Waltonian locality: honest Izaak lived hard by.

As part of the New Law Courts plan is to take down all the houses from Bell-yard to Pickett-street, there will still remain in the narrowest part of Fleet-street, east of Temple Bar, eight houses extending to Chancery-lane, eight ancient houses: one, No. 198, was formerly Izaak Walton's; and this, like the other seven, overhangs the pathway, and has an unsightly effect. To remove these eight houses would widen the street most conveniently, and should be early attended to by the City Improvement Committee of the Corporation.

It may be mentioned, as a curious fact, that hard by where it is proposed to concentrate our courts of law was the last place in which stocks remained in the metropolis—namely, in Portugal-street, close to the resting-place of Joe Miller.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Dear Lord Amberley, "my son, Sir," who is to inherit the full glories of his father, ay, and to carry forward the torch which he has received, like the Grecian runners in the Olympic games, is about to inaugurate his career by "going in" for, as Sydney Smith has it, "the entire lamb." 'Tis rather bold of his young Lordship, who will be hereafter dignified, should he live, as Earl Russell—dignified by the sweat of his father's brain and by the pertinacity with which his sire clung to Reform—'tis very bold of Lord Amberley to throw away Hereditaryism to the wind, to "put down his foot" for life-peerages, and to vote, as he will do, for democracy pur et simple; but this is to be "the ticket" of "my son, Sir." Upon that platform he will win or perish. Great are democratic institutions; indivisible is the Republic; nothing ever succeeded like success. Our old statesmen—so these forward cockrels have it—are effete, worn-out, passés, and done up; and so let us join in a new hosannah for the coming lights of the age—Gladstone, Stanley, Amberley, and Democracy. Such is to be the quartet in the coming struggle. The first favourites, let us confess it, have, for cleverness, strength, action, and "go," more than one winning horse amongst them.

So the French Emperor is going to Algiers. Augustus, leaving Ovid and Virgil in peace at Rome hobnobbing with Mæcenas, departs to his distant provinces, and will visit the legions in that part of the world which the Eton boy declared, too literally, was the "dry nurse of lions." Well, perhaps the misconstruction is not to be placed to Eton's account; perhaps it is Harrow or Rugby who will claim the honour of having furnished a joke to Joe Miller. There goes is the Emperor, and thereto hasten the indefatigable newspaper correspondents. Of what lion hunts shall we not hear? Of what protegés of valour (as said Mrs. Malaprop) will not Napoleon be accredited. A certain historian may tell of claws drawn and teeth filed, and of a gentle and altogether mild lion—a perfect British lion, in fact—being prepared for H.I.M. Napoleon III. in the Algerine deserts; but, if we are wise, we shall let our illusions remain. In many points it is well to remain quiet and to let our faith remain unshaken. It seems curious—remembering that entente cordiale which has been celebrated in plaster by M. Depigni, who has figured our Premier and his Emperor walking arm-in-arm—two cunning old fogies, evidently up to everything—"seems, nay, it is" curious, that in the organ of the Premier the departure of Napoleon should be significantly pointed at as caused by "something rotten in the state of Denmark." Is it so?

And so, in spite of Mosby and his mosstroopers, in spite of guerrillas and bushwhackers, all New York cries, Consummatum est! "It is finished." Panting and bleeding lies the South, victorious and exultant is the North, and, let us say it with all respect, not without some grim generosity in her triumph. Slavery will remain as it is, stabbed to the heart by an Act of Congress, and to die out slowly; a general amnesty, not even excluding Jefferson Davis and Mr. Benjamin, will pardon all. Southern officers will return to their homes with their side-arms, and bound by their parole; trade will be reassumed, and the energy of the South turned from making gunpowder and cannon to growing cotton and tobacco; but, nevertheless, does not everyone feel that the spirit of the South will be broken for ever? Alas! cry they, might is stronger than right! Louis Quatorze was right when he said that the God of Battles was always on the side of him who had the most louis d'ors; and as a conquered dependency surely that vast Confederation will never thrive. But America, too, will have her Poland, or, if she like it better, her Ireland; and it is to be hoped, having that sore in her side, will talk less about the cruelty of her "stupid old grandmother." Poor Robert E. Lee! Many a brave heart sides with the conquered rather than with the conqueror, and is of Cato's opinion regarding victory. And in Canada we must look out. Americans tell us that in New York the invasion of the British provinces is looked to as being as certain as the Presidential election, or the return of the 4th of July. By-the-way, will not Longfellow put in his claims for being a prophet? It is now two years since he wrote of those who went down with the Cumberland—

> Ho! brave land! with hearts like these,
> Thy flag, that is rent in twain,
> Shall be one again,
> And without a seam!

Dark days gloomed for the Republic then; but what he said now bids fair to come true.

The celebration of the 301st birthday of Shakspeare took place at more than one club in London, and at the Actors' College or Retreat at Maybury. Thereat was the Master, Mr. Webster, with the Deputy Master, Mr. Creswick, the Treasurer, Mr. Anson, and many good men and true. The speeches were good and sound; and after the toast of the evening the will of the late T. P. Cooke, in which, while he celebrates the day as the birthday of Shakspeare and himself, he contrives to place himself also amongst the immortals, was read. At the Urban Club, under the presidency of Mr. Heraud, author of "The Inner Life of Shakspeare," the speeches were of greater power and in very pure taste, and one speaker mentioned the fact that one of the members present, Mr. Bacon, the sculptor, has received from Nassau, in the Bahamas, a commission to execute a tercentenary statue of the poet. So that, where London and Stratford failed, an outlying, distant, and not-very-well-known colony of England has succeeded.

To carry us back in the history of the century it is curious to note that, in one of those narrow courts lying at the back of the County Fire Office and between Coventry-street and Golden-square, in a place properly designated by penny novelists as "a purlieu," the noble game of cock-fighting is still carried on, and noble marquises, "hearls, and dookes," betted upon black-hackle or ginger-pile with the same intensity as did their grandsires. Well, while these noblemen and gentlemen were at their game, the police broke in, and nearly forty of them, in spite of an energetic black bruiser, who defiled whilst he boasted the name of Plantagenet, were carried off to be bailed and subsequently fined. Two military gentlemen fairly well known gave their names, while others possessing ducal coronets, if we believe the ingenious reporters, appeared only as grocers, butchers, and gents. One or two of the lost, not to say black, sheep of the aristocracy certainly were there; but we may well believe that the greater portion of these devotees of the chief sport of Lord Clive and Indian Princes were much what they were said to be—energetic greengrocers and sporting butchers or publicans. Tastes change; hatred, we are told, is absolutely decaying, and cruelty has become unfashionable, and is driven to haunt a "purlieu" and to consort with Jemmy Shaw!

What will our chief exponent of the Beautiful and the True, the Philosophic and the Serene, say to the dressing he has from one of our chief reviews—viz., the Westminster? Yes; it is too true, in a remarkably nervous, strong, and cleverly written article the admirable Bulwer is said to write in the "ever and anon style," and to remind his readers of the Court Journal and Tradesmen's Circulars! Why, asks the world, will Bulwer call a single maid-servant a solitary domestic, and a cabman a "ministrant of Trivia." Why, indeed? Why, Sir Edward, are apples "pommarian crudities" and bed-rooms "somnambular accommodations?" and, lastly, what is the meaning of these lines which, as Thackeray pointed out, can be read in many ways without losing their beauty:—

> The love that trifles round the charms it gilds
> Oft ruins while it shines.

Put "charms," "ruins," or "trifles" first, and the sense is equally obscure. Happily, Bulwer will find a balm for his hurt mind in an equally well written and laudatory article in the Quarterly Review, wherein his claims as a poet are well sustained and his wonderful industry deservedly applauded.

Mr. G. H. Lewes is named as the editor of the new Fortnightly Review, while a certain Literary Journal of much weight and power is said to be in the market. Another new venture is spoken of—grand, and nebulous, but unnamed; and another yet, to be known as the Correspondent, with a blank side of the sheet for writing upon, thus affording the purchaser an opportunity of getting his MS. accepted in one copy at least, will come forward as a suppliant for the favour of an ever-complacent public.

THE FARM.

THE Dublin judges, whose choice of Defender as the best of all the store shorthorns does not seem to have been indorsed, spoke highly as to the excellence of the shorthorn classes which they had to judge; and certainly the improvement in the Irish cattle which come over now to the Falkirks and elsewhere fully proves what good blood has done for the Green Isle. One of the bench, however, qualified his remarks by saying that the shorthorns generally were better above than below, and that breeders should look to dairy produce as well as meat. The decision in the yearling bull class, between Brilliant Lamp and Mercury, confirms the decisions of last year at Cork and Waterford. The Booth blood came out well throughout the classes; and the cow class (in which there were three H. C.'s) is said to have been the best since the year of Stanley Rose. Frederick's Farewell and her daughter, Miss Farewell, by Duke of Wetherby, proved lucky purchases for Captain Tennant at Towneley, as he only gave 150 gs. for the one and 29 gs. for the other, then called "Duchess of Lancaster." Recherché was second to Frederick's Farewell, and was not the only instance in which the late Captain Ball's blood made itself remembered, both among the fat and store stock. All the Hereford prizes went to Mr. Kearney, and the poll to Mr. Owen, of Blesinton, while Lord Shannon and Mr. Rotherham owned the best of the Devons. Among the extras were seven yearling Portuguese bulls. Mr. Owen, of Blesinton, won with every Leicester pen he showed, and beat with one of his own breeding the ram which was Colonel Inge's first shearling at Worcester. Mr. C. Hamilton's "Shrops" were only opposed in one section, but they were considered good enough to have won even in a very strong competition. If Lord Clermont was disappointed over his Cheviots, he did well with his pigs, in which department Mr. Joyce did not exhibit so extensively as he has done.

Two more shorthorn sales are announced—one on May 11, by Mr. John Wetherell, of Mr. Dent's, of Neasham Hall, eighteen bulls, cows, and heifers; and another, on the day previous, by Mr. Carr, at Mr. Slye's, of Beaumont Grange. Mr. Guilding's herd did not make a great average; but, perhaps, with the exception of the Fawsley, all the sales this year have produced as much as the beasts were honestly worth. This is certain enough, that if "any new," or "any other man" going in for a herd of shorthorns is so green as to believe that he can lay the foundation of fashionable and paying tribes, which will hold their own with the crack herds at "as reasonable rates as he would Herefords and Devons," he will find himself wofully mistaken when he tries to buy either in private or in public.

Mr. Fisher, of Carhead, has just delivered a very important lecture, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, on the management of pigs, which bids fair to take rank with "Woods on Sheep." He maintains the good and homely axiom, that "it is a poor house which cannot keep a pig," and then proceeds to show how it may be done with most profit. Cottagers about Keighley, he observes, with all their feeding stuff to buy, do not consider they have done well unless they get £10 for their pig at ten months old; and a small dairy farmer, with skim milk to help, lately killed one of his, when it was a little over eleven months, at 491 lb., which brought more than £13 at market price. Large or middle sized he recommends, whatever be the breed or colour.

The following sketch of what a pig should be, from the hand of a man like Mr. Fisher, who has, perhaps, bred more winners than anyone of the day, has peculiar interest:—"In selecting pigs for breeding purposes," he says, "we prefer such as possess good size, combined with activity, and a general robustness of character, and consider the following to be the most desirable points for them to possess:—The forehead should be wide, and the nose moderately short; and the amount of offal small. The ears should be thin and erect, and pointed forward. When the ears hang down over the eyes they cannot so readily see objects that may approach, and are therefore more liable to accidents of various kinds. The under jaw should show an inclination to roundness, even when in low condition, as indicating a disposition to thrive well. The back should be slightly arched, and not too long, as very long pigs are unwieldy, and have great difficulty in lying down and rising; and as mothers they are very apt to overlie and kill their young before they are strong enough to take care of themselves. The loins should be strong and muscular, and the hind-quarters only slightly drooping, with the tail placed well up. The hams should be wide and well rounded, and well let down to the houghs. The flank should be placed low, and only slightly arched; and the belly deep and thick, that the flitches may cut thick in the thin parts, if I may be allowed to use the expression. The legs should be straight and small in the bone, and not sink so much at the fetlocks as to throw the weight on the heels and pasterns. The feet should be fine and small, and the gait light and nimble. A good coat of long, bright, vigorous hair, of not too soft a quality, is very desirable, not only as indicating a large proportion of lean to fat, but as a protection from the sun and the cold, as well as to the skin where there is rough usage."

The weight, if possible, in breeding pigs should not be all expended on the crest or crops, and sows especially should be wide behind and a trifle light in the neck. At twelve months old, at least, they should have their first litter, if they are to lay any claim to early maturity, and bring it in March, so that the next litter may be strong enough to stand the winter. During last winter the Carhead sows were fed on oat dust, at 3s. 6d. per sack, and damaged rice, at £3 per ton, in the proportion of one sack of rice to three of dust, and ran out in the grass-field, costing only "about 1s. 2d. per week." Mr. Fisher generally weans the litters at from seven to ten weeks, and then separates the sexes, and considers that, "with liberal treatment, the large improved sorts will make excellent pork at three to four months old, and at six or eight very superior bacon, which, if well cured and preserved, will be very fine and mild in flavour, as well as tender."

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Probate of the will of the Right Hon. George William Frederick Howard, Earl of Carlisle, K.G., P.C., of Castle Howard, Yorkshire; Naworth Castle, Cumberland; and Grosvenor-place, London, was granted by her Majesty's Court of Probate to the Duke of Devonshire and Richard Du Cane, Esq., of Grays Inn, the joint acting executors. The personalty was sworn under £140,000. The will bears date Aug. 23, 1861, and his Lordship died on the 5th of December, at the age of sixty-two, unmarried. Many liberal annuities are left by his Lordship to his brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, and other relatives and personal friends. To each of his executors, £300; to each of his agents, £100; to three of his servants, £100 each; and legacies to his other servants, free of duty. Provision is made for the support of the schools founded by his Lordship. He directs that his brother, Admiral the Hon. Edward Granville George Howard, and his wife, may select any object which might not improperly be alienated from the family estate, as memorials of affection. Books, in sets and perfect volumes, are also to be given and selected by friends who are enumerated by his Lordship in his will. The best horse in his stables is to be given to Lieutenant-Colonel Frederick Marshall, 2nd Life Guards, with right of selection. There are other specific bequests. All the furniture and effects, sculpture, paintings, books, plate, articles of virtù, &c., at Castle Howard, Naworth Castle, Grosvenor-place, and elsewhere, are to be held in trust as heirlooms for the person inheriting the title and estates. His successor thereto is his next brother, the Hon. and Rev. William Howard, now Earl of Carlisle.

The will of Lady Ashburnham, relict of Sir William Ashburnham, Bart., of Broomham, Sussex, was proved in London, on the 28th ult., by the surviving executors and trustees, Charles James Palmer, Esq., of Bedford-row, and Miss Anna Nouaille, her cousin. The personalty was sworn under £18,000. The will is dated 1860, and a codicil 1862. Her Ladyship died on Feb. 22 last, at Broomham. By her will she has devised certain estates, farms, and woodland in Guestling and Icklesham, Sussex, in trust for her nephew, Sir Anchitel Ashburnham, Bart., and his issue male; she also bequeaths to him the family jewels, plate, pictures, books, and furniture absolutely. Her Ladyship has devised other estates, houses, and land to Lawrence Ashburnham, Esq., another nephew of her late husband. Several legacies are left to nephews, nieces, and others. To her executrix a legacy of £600 and other gifts; to her bailiff, £500; to a maid-servant, £100; and legacies to her other servants. To the poor of the parishes of Guestling and Seal legacies of £50 to each parish.

The will of Ebenezer Trotman, Esq., of Park Cottages, Regent's Park, formerly of Furnival's Inn, architect, was proved in the London Court, under £12,000 personalty. The executors therein appointed are William Bennett, of New Park-road, Clapham Park, and William Perkins, of Canonbury Park, architect and surveyor. The testator died Jan. 1, 1835, a bachelor, having executed his will June 19, 1852. To his sister, Anne Trotman, he has left a life interest in the whole of his property, real and personal, and, should she not leave any lawful issue, the whole of the property at her decease is to be divided amongst the three following institutions:—The Magdalen Hospital, the Scottish Episcopal Fund, and the Incorporated National Society, and to each of them he has left a legacy of £100, free of legacy duty.

RAILWAYS IN INDIA.

IN no respect is British civilisation acting more potently and beneficially on the outer world than in providing the people of Hindostan with a network of railways. As the magnificent main-line system there laid out is approaching its completion, it is time that a knowledge of the great work, which has been so noiselessly achieved there, should be communicated to the general British public.

The first Indian railway projects were formally broached in December, 1844, by Mr., now Sir, Macdonald Stephenson, who submitted to the India House a scheme for a line from Calcutta to the north-west of India; and by Mr. W. P. Andrew, who, under the nom de guerre of an "Old Indian Postmaster," advocated a different scheme for a Gangetic line, which was ultimately adopted. Almost simultaneously Mr. Chapman submitted a scheme for a railway from Bombay towards the interior.

The East India Company at first thought that a free grant of land would be a sufficient inducement to British capitalists to invest in Indian railways; but the capitalist interest demanded a guarantee of a minimum rate of interest and other terms, which were eventually conceded to them, at the cost, however, of their liberty of action.

The financial crisis of 1847, followed, as it was, by the Revolution of 1848, aggravated the delays natural to the Circumlocution Office, so that it was not until August, 1849, that the first two contracts were made between the two companies first in the field and the East India Company; nor was it till 1853 that the first twenty-two miles of railway were actually opened in that peninsula.

The contracts then made have formed the models for all those under the terms of which the whole system of trunk lines has been laid out. Those terms are that the Government lease all the land required, free of expense, for ninety-nine years, and guarantee interest (generally at the rate of 5 per cent) for ninety-nine years upon the capital employed. The companies have the power of surrendering the works at any time after the line is opened, upon giving six months' notice; and the Government undertake to repay the whole amount that has been expended. This is equivalent to a guarantee of the capital. The Government have the power, after the expiration of twenty-five or fifty years, of purchasing the railway at the mean market value of the shares during the three previous years. The companies repay the guaranteed interest from the profits of the railway. In return for the aid and guarantee asked for, the companies submit their proceedings to the supreme control of the Government. The land costs the Indian Government about £300 per mile to purchase. The rise in value of the rupee since the date of the contracts has had the effect of compelling the Government to spend in India one rupee—now equivalent to 2s.—for every 1s. 10d. advanced by the stockholders in Britain. The sum expended in this shape amounts to about £2,700,000. It is only after the lines realise 5 per cent profits that they will be called upon to recoup to the Government the sums advanced under the guarantee, and then only half the surplus profits in excess of the 5 per cent are embargoed for this purpose, the other half being left to the shareholders.

The main considerations which influenced the Indian Government to lend its credit to the railway companies were motives of strategy and motives of economy in the transportation of troops and military stores. It has been said by no less an authority than the Governor of the Bombay Presidency, Sir Bartle Frere, that the completion of the great lines of Indian railway "quadruples the available military strength of India."

The total length of railroad track sanctioned and guaranteed by the Government as trunk lines is 4785¾ miles. This does not include the Indus Valley line, which is still in embryo, nor the proposed lines to the Bolan and Khyber Passes, nor the branch lines, of which mention will be made hereafter. Of these 4785 miles, about 3000 miles have been completed, and are in working order at the present moment.

It is apparent that the main feature in the Grand Trunk network of Hindostan is that vast arch stretching from the Mutlah Estuary of the Ganges, at the head of the Bay of Bengal, to Kurrachee, on the Arabian Sea. This arch will, when completed, be about 2400 miles in length, consisting of the following parts:—Calcutta and South-Eastern Railroad, 29 miles; Calcutta to Delhi, per East Indian Railroad, main line, 1144 miles; Delhi to Umritsir, per Delhi Railway, 320 miles; Umritsir to Mooltan, per Punjaub Railroad, 252 miles; Mooltan to Kotree, per Indus Valley line, 450 miles (now represented by the Indus flotilla, 570 miles); and, lastly, Kotree to Kurrachee, per Scinde Railroad, 108 miles. The unachieved portions of this steam arch are the bridge over the Jumna, at Allahabad, which will be finished by the end of the present year; the Delhi line, the construction of which has been commenced at both ends by local contractors, and which is to be completed by Messrs. Brassey and Co., the great contractors, by the end of 1869; and the Indus Valley line, of which the surveys are about being completed, but for which a bi-monthly line of steamers on the Indus now does duty.

The Bombay system strikes northward by the Bombay, Baroda, and Central India Railroad; eastward by the Great Indian Peninsular line, over the Thul Ghaut, which will join the Bengal system at Jubbulpore; and south-eastward by the aforesaid company's line over the Bhore Ghaut, which will join the Madras system at Raichore. The system which centres at Madras consists of two companies, the main line of one of which is the only line which, without a break, traverses the continent and connects the Bay of Bengal with the Indian Ocean—that, namely, from Madras to Beypore.

The rate at which these lines, so far as they are completed, have been opened, and at which money has been spent in their construction, appears from the following table, which gives the results down to the end of 1863:—

Year.	Miles opened during the Year.	Annual Expenditure of Capital.	Year.	Miles opened during the Year.	Annual Expenditure of Capital.
Up to 1850	..	£175,156	In 1858	145	£5,491,125
In . 1851	..	351,323	„ 1859	74½	7,162,872
„ . 1852	..	427,560	„ 1860	208	7,589,770
„ . 1853	22¾	670,649	„ 1861	759	6,558,614
„ . 1854	50¾	1,729,588	„ 1862	747	5,810,852
„ . 1855	98¾	3,371,005	„ 1863	233½	4,771,775
„ . 1856	101¾	3,517,907
„ . 1857	143	3,417,268			£51,045,464

This sum includes the expenditure made on lines not completed.

The Government Director of the India Railway Companies estimates that £21,250,000 more capital will be required for the completion of the main-line system as at present sanctioned.

Of the £51,045,464 expended, £18,396,541 were spent in Great Britain and £32,648,923 in India. The large proportion expended in this island is owing mainly to the fact that all the ironwork and much of the other matériel is made in Britain, exported to Kurrachee, Bombay, Madras, or Calcutta, and thence carried into the interior, often, as is evident, for hundreds of miles. This necessity for the transportation of vast quantities of railway matériel for long distances, by primitive means of conveyance, adds largely to the expense of construction. No less than 2,764,781 tons of railway materials, of the value of £15,128,856, have been sent out to India from this country, in 3571 ships.

From the foregoing table it is also apparent that the drain of capital from this country for Indian railways has reached its maximum, and is now steadily on the decline. It is the same with the number of miles of railway annually opened. We say drain of capital from this country because, notwithstanding the flush times at Bombay, and the consequent mania for speculation, few natives invest in railway stock. Of the 33,358 proprietors of Indian railway securities only 395 are natives of India, and these chiefly for small amounts. Ceylon can show a solitary line extending from Colombo, its maritime capital, to Kandy, its civil capital. The line, which was commenced about two years and a half ago, and will be finished in another two years, will, when completed, be seventy-two miles in length, of which twenty-five miles (from Colombo to Ragamme) are now in operation. The line is owned and built by the Government of Ceylon, and passes through a fine coffee-growing region.

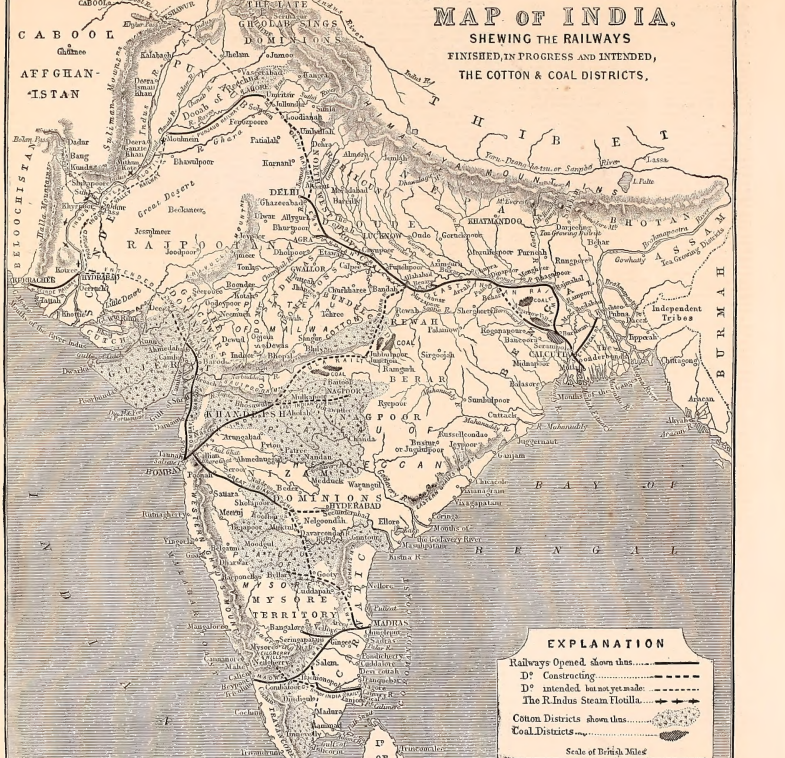
The Indian railways have not yet had a fair opportunity of showing their capabilities as purely commercial speculations. For instance, the Bombay, Baroda, and Central Indian Railroad was forced by the Government to commence working at Surat, and work thence to Ahmedabad, after which only were they permitted to work between Surat and Bombay. Consequently, the line was only made available to the people of Bombay at the end of last year, and even now has only reached the outskirts of that city, 3½ miles distant from the port and the intended terminus of the line. Notwithstanding these and other drawbacks, the Indian railways have paid back to Government £2,400,000 of the £10,592,795 advanced by it during the last fourteen years in payment of the guaranteed rate of interest.

When the subject of railways in India was first mooted, the wise-acres asserted that the natives were too conservative to travel, and would never leave their antiquas vias, bad as they were, for the tearing mode of travel by the steam-horse. Others said that the pilgrims to the holy places of India would deem it to be a religious duty to walk all the way. Others, again, insisted that one caste would not travel in company with another caste. So generally was this believed that, in deference to these opinions, several of the early promoters of Indian railways did not venture to rely on native passenger traffic as a source of revenue, and estimated only goods traffic and European passenger traffic. But what has been the fact? That native passenger traffic is the largest item in the revenue account, so that Mr. James E. Wilson, the engineer-in-chief of the Indian Branch Railway Company, in his last report, feels warranted in saying that the people "are the most locomotive in the world. I have always been at a loss to understand why common coolies travel by the railway, because, calculating it out, it is evidently much cheaper to walk. But go by the railway they do; and, when asked by me frequently to explain why they do so, they seem at a loss to give any better reason than that it is 'bohut achha' (very good). Friends of mine who have been lately in the Punjaub tell me that they found all the villages on the old road, from Lahore to Umritsir, were entirely deserted; the whole population had bodily removed their establishments, families and all, up to the different railway stations." No less than 9,242,540 passengers travelled on the railroad during the year 1863-4, of whom 8,758,642 were third-class, 386,404 second-class, and only 97,674 first-class passengers. The fares for the several classes are much lower than in Britain. The third-class charge is sometimes as low as a farthing per mile, and never more than a halfpenny. The second-class varies from under three farthings to about five farthings per mile, and the first-class from five to six farthings per mile.

The cost of construction has varied greatly, but in all cases it is considerably below the high average per mile of the United Kingdom—namely, £33,350. The most costly of Indian lines—the East Indian—is laid down at not more than £20,000 per mile; the Great Indian Peninsular at only £13,000; the Madras (850 miles in the aggregate) at the exceptional figure of £11,000 per mile.

The relative cheapness, however, is accounted for by the fact that the expenditure only includes a single line of railway, there being, in fact, no double line of railway for any distance worth mentioning in India. But the embankments, cuttings, viaducts, bridges, and culverts are all made as for a double way, leaving only the permanent-way to be added when a double line shall become necessary. That double line is already called for on portions of the East Indian Railroad, and on the Concan portion of the Great Peninsular lines. The track is laid on a uniform gauge of 5½ ft., so that the conflict of gauges that has caused considerable trouble in England, and much more in the United States, is unknown in India, where the beneficial effect of a central authority is in this respect, if in no other, indisputable.

The cost of European labour in India, considering the work done for the money, the cost of sending men out to India, and other matters, is reckoned to be as five to one in England. En revanche must be set the low cost at which native labour is obtained, and the proportion of natives to Europeans employed on the Indian railways is as fifteen to one. British carpenters, smiths, and other mechanics are imported by the companies or their contractors to instruct the native artisans. In this way, for example, the Cutch carpenters and smiths have been induced to stand up to their work instead of squatting on the ground; to discard the use of their toes and rely solely on their fingers, and to learn the use of European tools. The railway carriages now turned out by the locomotive erecting and repairing shops at Kurrachee, by the Cutch operatives, "display," in the words of Mr. Brunton, the chief engineer of the Scinde Railway, "workmanship which would be a credit to the best European manufactory." In these workshops it is only found necessary to retain two European smiths, for heavy and important work.



Not the least important effect of the expenditure of so many millions of British capital in Indian public works has been the moral change wrought in the character of the native working classes. In announcing the opening of the Bhore Ghaut incline (April 21, 1863), Sir Bartle Frere, the Governor of Bombay, spoke as follows on this point:—

I find the employment afforded by the non-official contractor almost invariably more popular than that of Government; and if we were both bent on raising an army, I doubt if Government could have more formidable rivals than Messrs. Adamson and Clowser. I know of no sight more impressive than such a visit as I lately paid to the contractors' works before they were finished. It was then easy to see how railway works taught the native labourer habits of method and punctuality, habits of truth and honesty in his work, and, above all, habits of independence. It is in this last respect that I believe these railway works will have an immense influence on the future of India. We all know what vast sums, chiefly of English capital, have of late years been spent in this country. Let us consider for one moment what has been the effect of giving a fair day's wages for a fair day's labour. I can safely say that, as a rule, this was unknown before the commencement of what I may call the railway period. Not only were wages in most parts of the country fixed by usage and authority rather than by the natural laws of supply and demand, but the privilege of labour was, in general, restricted to particular spots, and nothing like the power of taking labour to the best market practically existed. This was partly due to custom; partly to the absence of any but agricultural employment; partly to long ages of despotic and unsettled government. But the result was that the condition of the mere labourer was wretched in the extreme, and the past efforts of Government could do but little to raise him above the status of a serf of the soil. All this has now, I am happy to say, changed, mainly as a direct consequence of these vast railway works; and for the first time in history the Indian coolie finds that he has in his power of labour a valuable possession, which, if he uses it aright, will give to him and to his family something better than a mere subsistence, and that there are means open to him of rising in the world other than by the career of a fortunate soldier or the chance favouritism of princes. And what has been the result of this discovery to him? Has it mad him more indolent, less inclined to labour, more content to be satisfied with the mere existence which he can now procure with less labour than formerly? I believe there is no one who has any experience in the matter who will not bear me out in saying that this is not the case. The labourer is in a better position to make his own terms with his employer, and that is, perhaps, sometimes shown in a manner which the employer does not quite like; but, as a general rule, I believe the labourer works far harder, and acquires new and more civilised wants, in proportion to the high wages he receives. But the effect is not limited to the labourer while he is on the railway works. Follow him to his own home in some remote Deccan or Concan village, and you will find the railway labourer has carried to his own village not only new modes of working, new wants, and a new feeling of self-respect and independence, but new ideas of what Government and the laws intend to secure for him; and he is, I believe, a better and more loyal subject, as he certainly is a more useful labourer.

In the development of a continental or peninsular network of railroads there is always some great mountain barrier to be crossed, or tunneled through. In America it was the Alleghany chain, in Europe it is the Alps, in Hindustan it is the Western Ghauts. These Ghauts are crossed by the Great Indian Peninsula at two points—namely, the Bhore Ghaut on their south-eastern line, and the Thul Ghaut on their north-eastern line. The latter is not yet formally opened to the public, although the line was laid down in November last. Hitherto, therefore, all the cotton that has come down to Bombay from the cotton-fields of Central India has been transported by bullock-carts over fourteen miles of mountain pass. In March last there was such an accumulation of cotton and grain at the eastern mouth of the pass that it took thirty-seven days to clear it off.

But this spring the iron horse will change all that for ever. The Bhore Ghaut was formally opened on the 21st of April, 1863, but, in point of fact, passenger traffic did not commence over it till November of that year. At one time more than 42,000 men were employed on this pass, while for two seasons they averaged 25,000 in number. The length of the incline from the base to the summit is 15 miles 68 chains. The level of its base is 196 ft. above the sea, and of its summit 2027 ft., so that the total elevation surmounted is 1831 ft., the average gradient being one in forty-eight, and the steepest gradient one in thirty-seven, for one mile and 38½ chains.

The earthwork in cuttings and embankments executed upon the incline has amounted to 4½ millions of cubic yards, or 285,240 cubic yards per mile. Several of the embankments exceed 60 ft. in height, and many of the outer slopes are 150 ft. in length, and some of them as much as 300 ft. The greatest depth in the centre line of cuttings is 74 ft., and in one cutting the excavation on the upper side is nearly 150 ft. deep, through solid rock. The total length of tunnels is more than two miles and a quarter. There are more than two miles of retaining walls, and the total length of the viaducts and vaulting arches is about three quarters of a mile. The principal viaducts are No. 1, of eight 50 ft. arches, and 129 ft. from the surface of the ground; and No. 5, of similar arches, and 143 ft. from the surface. The other viaducts range from 100 ft. to 50 ft. in height. The works on the Thul Ghaut incline are almost as stupendous as those in the Bhore Ghaut. In both, a reversing station and zigzag model of ascent are employed, an expedient first adopted, we believe, in the passage of the Alleghanies by the Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania Central Railways.

Where so many titanic rivers are to be crossed, the construction of mammoth bridges must necessarily be a prominent feature of Indian lines. We will, however, mention only one—that over the River Soane, on the East Indian line, between Patna and Benares. It is about twice the length of the railway bridge over the Thames at Charing-cross, and consists of twenty-seven iron girders of 150 ft. each, supported on brick foundations. All this immense mass of ironwork was sent out from Britain. The last lamented Lord Elgin crossed over it in the early part of 1863, and stated that "it is exceeded in magnitude by only one bridge in the world," alluding, we presume, to the Victoria Bridge over the St. Lawrence, at Montreal.

Our Map includes only the main-line network, for the branch-line system has hardly been commenced. An experimental line, twenty-seven miles in length, from the Nulhattee station, on the East Indian line, to Azimgunge—constructed by the Indian Branch Railway Company—was opened in December, 1863. It is made on a 4 ft. gauge, with rails only 30 lb. per yard. It earned profits to the extent of £127 per mile during the first three months of its operation. The rate of travel on this extraordinarily cheap and light line, made at an expense of less than £2000 per mile, does not exceed sixteen miles per hour. 796 miles of branch lines in Oude and Rohilcund have also been conceded to this company, whose engineer (Mr. J. B. Wilson) is sure that in the "light" system he can construct them at an expense of £4000 per mile. These branch lines are not included in the guarantee system, but they are subsidised by the Government in this way—the Government provide the necessary land free of expense, and grant £100 a mile annually for twenty years. They also pay an additional £100 for twenty years on every £10,000 expended on the bridges, which are estimated to cost more than £10,000. This system of subsidies will henceforth be adopted by the Government for all lines, of whatever kind, main or branch, not yet sanctioned under the old system, in lieu of the guarantees of interest and capital, as inaugurated in August, 1849. This important resolution of the Government is the latest phase in the history of Indian railways.

In opening up the valley of the Indus by means of steam communication the Indian Government has laid the bases of a great commercial revolution. A glance at our Map will show that the Indus and the Ganges are the two great natural water-ways of Northern Hindostan, of which one is the "Father of Waters" for Eastern India, and the other for Western India. It is said that a line drawn between Delhi and Agra represents the approximate boundary between the countries dependent on either river, had both been able to offer equal facilities to commerce. But until the new railroad and steam-boat era this had not been the case. The navigation of the Indus was dangerous and difficult in the extreme, and the port of Kurrachee remained sand-choked and unimproved. Moreover, political obstacles came to the aid of physical ones. The Ameers of Scinde exacted exorbitant tolls from merchants, and were wont to devastate the country bordering on the river banks. Hence the Ganges route acquired a great superiority over that of the Indus, and Bombay as well as Calcutta throve at the expense of Kurrachee. The British conquest of Scinde, in 1844, swept away the political obstacles; and the eagle eye of the conqueror, Sir Charles Napier, at once perceived the commercial and military importance of Kurrachee. He exclaimed, "Kurrachee, you will yet be the glory of the East! Would that I could come alive again to see you, Kurrachee, in your grandeur!" Now, the bar of the harbour has been deepened, wharves and quays constructed, and the Scinde line of railway connecting Kurrachee with Kotree, the port of Hyderabad (opened in May, 1861) relieved commerce from the dangers of the creek navigation of the river and the swell of the open sea between the mouth of the Indus and Kurrachee. The recently-completed Punjaub line in connection with the Indus steam-flotilla will restore the Indus to that commercial importance which it once held, but from which it has long ago fallen.

The Indus channel of trade is also the natural gate of Central Asia. Hitherto the trade of India with Central Asia has amounted only to about £1,000,000 sterling per annum, transported by camels, mules, and ponies, and crossing the Brahooic chain at the Bolan Pass, and the Hindoo Koosh at the Khyber Pass. This trade admits of great and immediate expansion. Hitherto the supply of Central Asia has been almost monopolised by Russia by means of her Volga and Caspian route. Russian manufactures had even competed successfully with ours at Lahore and everywhere throughout the Punjaub. Under the present circumstances, we may hope to be able not only to supersede Russian manufactures by British in India itself, but by introducing British and Indian manufactures along the valleys of Afghanistan as far as Herat, and into Balkh, Khiva, and Bokhara, wrest from Russian merchants a large portion of their trade. A railroad to Peshawur, at the foot of the Khyber Pass, would thus serve the twofold purpose of guarding the Indian frontier against the aggression of Russian arms and combating the influential position which Russian commerce has attained in Central Asia.

The commercial revolution here indicated is already making itself apparent in the trade returns of Kurrachee. The aggregate exports and imports at that port, which, in 1844, were only £227,000, and in 1854 £1,223,000, had risen in 1863 to £6,662,810, of which sum the exports stood for £4,188,673. It is the eastern terminus of the great Indo-European line of telegraph which connects Constantinople with Hindostan, and whose eastern link is the Persian Gulf submarine line of telegraph. It is also connected with Bussorah by a line of steamers belonging to the British India Steam Navigation Company. Moreover, Kurrachee is the nearest port in India to Europe. For nine months in the year it is 200 miles nearer to Aden than Bombay; while during the prevalence of the south-west monsoon in June, July, and August, it is, following the track of the Peninsular and Oriental steamers to Bombay, 750 miles nearer to Aden than its great rival. Only, however, when the Euphrates Valley line, which promises to bring India 1000 miles nearer to Europe, shall have become a great fact, will Kurrachee receive the full benefit of its advantageous natural position in relation to Europe, and only then will the enthusiastic valtication of the conqueror of Scinde be fully verified.

WILD TRIBES IN INDIA DEFENDING A MOUNTAIN PASS.

THE hilly countries which border upon the western and northern provinces of our Indian empire are mostly inhabited by half-savage races, who are greatly addicted to plunder and rapine, and who have resisted for ages the attempts alike of the rulers of Hindostan, Cashmere, and Cabool, to put an end to such outrages upon the peace of the neighbouring civilised States. The British Government of the Punjaub, especially, has had frequent occasion to chastise those troublesome highlanders who dwell in the recesses of the Suliman Mountains, to the west of the plains of the Indus. It may be recollected that in December, 1863, a mixed force of English troops, Sikhs, and Ghoorkas (an excellent composition for this kind of service), was thus engaged in an arduous conflict with the Boneyr tribe and others somewhere above Umbeyla, in the Chumla Valley. The sort of warfare by which, in general, the mountaineers of North-western India are accustomed to defend their wild independence is somewhat like that practised by the Gauls in the Alps of Savoy and Dauphiny when invaded by the Romans; or it may be of the same type as the romantic struggles of the natives of Wales and North Britain at a later date. They avail themselves of such means of defence and offence as the nature of their rugged country supplies — climbing to the top of the steepest precipices which overlook the narrow road by which their foe must approach; and from the vantage ground of a natural fortress hurling down upon him an incessant shower of big stones, which are the natural artillery of the sturdy mountaineers. An illustration of this mode of fighting, and of the picturesque scenery in which it may take place, will be found in the sketch we have engraved. The Indian Army, whether in India or elsewhere in the colonies, is frequently called upon to do duty in circumstances of this description. Probably the French soldiers in Algeria, and the Russians in the Caucasus, may have seen something like this, but it would seem rather strange to the tightly-drilled Prussians.

WILD TRIBES OF WESTERN INDIA DEFENDING A MOUNTAIN PASS.

THE WAR IN BHOOTAN: THE BALA PASS, STORMED BY THE BRITISH FORCES ON THE 15TH OF FEBRUARY.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE WAR IN BHOOTAN: THE BALA PASS.

The last mail from Calcutta, dated March 22, brings us the news of a renewal of the movements of our expedition against Bhootan, which had met with a check, it will be remembered, at two points—the Bala Pass and Dewangiri—previous to the departure of the February mail. The forts or stockades of the Bala Pass were, however, recaptured by a force of the Bengal Native Infantry, under Brigadier-General Tytler, on Feb. 15. We have to thank several of the officers engaged in this expedition for sketches of the scenery and illustrations of the events they have witnessed. A View of the Bala Pass, from a sketch by Captain Warren, R.A., is given in this Impression; but, as the ordinary atlases and gazetteers afford very little information about Bhootan, we must briefly describe the situation of our little army.

Bhootan is a country as large as Scotland, lying close under the Himalayas, immediately northward of Bengal. It consists, chiefly, of the upper valley of the great river Brahmapootra and its numerous tributaries, with the narrower valleys formed by jutting-out ridges of the Himalaya range, and with an extensive desert plain occupying the middle of the country. On the western side of this central desert, at a distance from Calcutta of some 300 miles due north, is the more fertile and populous part of Bhootan, adjoining the frontier town of Darjeeling and the territories of our ally the Rajah of Sikkim. Here is the fortress of Dalimkote, which was stormed, on the 6th of December, by the left-hand division of our army, under Brigadier-General Dunsford, advancing from the Julpigoree station, as was shown in our Journal of Jan. 28 and Feb. 4. The right-hand division, under Brigadier-General Mulcaster, went away far to the eastward, along the British frontier of Assam, to make an attack upon the Bhooteah fortress of Dewangiri, which lies quite on the further side of the central desert, and is separated by that space (about 150 miles across) from the more inhabited parts of Bhootan. The reduction of Dewangiri could therefore be of no service towards the conquest of the rest of the country, though it might secure our valuable province of Assam from being disturbed by the incursions of the Bhooteah marauders. We are enabled to see the position of affairs by examining a large and minutely-detailed map of Bhootan, published by the Bengal Hurkaru of March 18, from the surveys of our Indian Government. It seems that the opinion of military men in India does not at all approve the plan designed by the late instructions of Sir Charles Wood—to take possession of a number of isolated stations along the whole southern frontier of Bhootan, a line of two hundred miles, bordering on the desolate and unhealthy tract of land which forms the middle portion of the enemy's country. Dewangiri, which was occupied by the 43rd Native Infantry, under Colonel Campbell, has, indeed, been lost already, and is now again in the possession of the enemy; but our holding that place was by no means essential to the success of the campaign. The Bala Pass, near Buxa Dooars, commanding one of the main roads to Punakha, the chief town of Bhootan, is of much greater importance. We have mentioned the left-hand division of the army, whose base line of operations stretched from Titalyah and Julpigoree through Fallacottah to Cooch Behar, whence two columns were to shoot forward and secure certain results. This was done. The Julpigoree force went on to Dalimkote and Dhamsong, and thence it swept down on Chamoorchee; detachments having been thrown out for the purpose of holding Mynagoree and Kantalbarry, for the purpose of keeping up the communication with the Cooch Behar force, which moved through Chichakotta on the Bala Pass and Buxa Dwar, at both of which places it found itself more or less en rapport with the column from Julpigoree. The places named were all occupied, Kyranti, Mynagoree, Kantalbarry, and Chichakotta forming our first line of advance; Dhamsong, Dalimkote, Chamcorchee, Buxa, the Bala Pass, and Bala Well constituting the second.

The position of the Bala Pass was held but a few days, and then evacuated, because our troops could get no water. It was instantly seized by the enemy, who could get as much water as they pleased. The truth was that our force was too scanty to provide a safe escort for the foraging parties sent out to fetch the water. It is satisfactory, however, to learn that the forts of Bala Pass—a kind of stockades, with turrets and galleries of timber, some 20 ft. or 30 ft. high—were assaulted and taken by General Tytler on the 15th of February.

The following extract of a letter from Captain Warren, R.A., gives some account of this smart affair:—"The enemy's works and stockades at Bala Pass, Bhootan, were forced yesterday. The force, under General Tytler, was divided into two columns. One passed by a river bed and ascended the height on the enemy's right—the 19th N.I. and 200 men of the 18th N.I. To hide this movement, the 30th N.I. and 200 men of the 11th pressed the Bhooteahs in front. A party of one hundred men of this column very nearly surprised the enemy asleep. Once fairly alarmed, the Bhooteahs swarmed in their works, howling and yelling. The reconnoitring party retired slowly and steadily, losing only one officer and three men wounded, and occupied a lower position. From this hour until the other column appeared on the right the Armstrong guns and mortars fired at the large works at Tassajing, bursting the shells most satisfactorily in the stockade, and committing considerable havoc, as was seen by the dead men left there. As soon as the 18th and 19th N.I. appeared, the Bhooteahs gave vent to their astonishment and surprise by continued and loud yells; but the matter was soon over. The gallant Patans, Sikhs, and Ghoorkas were not to be denied. They fairly rushed the works, stormed up the highest, and killed thirty-seven men inside. This was enough; for, about a few minutes previous, the artillery had, by a well-placed shell, set the stockade of Tassajing on fire; and now, paralysed and frightened, the enemy poured in hundreds over the hill crest into the valley towards the interior. Their numbers certainly were not under 1500 men. General Tytler has proved himself well able to deal with this kind of foe, and a better timed and more energetic affair could not have been managed. Our loss is one officer, Captain Macgregor, wounded (shot in the hand); four men killed and eighteen wounded. Forty-four dead bodies of Bhooteahs have been already found, but their loss must have been far heavier."

It is announced that Brigadier-General Tombs has been appointed to the chief command of the whole Bhootan expedition.

Letters from Goslar, in Hanover, mention that the Imperial Palace there—a magnificent building, erected, about 1050, by Henry III., to serve as a residence to the Emperors—is giving way in its foundations. A large portion of the gigantic wall on the south-west side has already fallen. Measures have been adopted to prevent the entire edifice from crumbling to the ground.

Professor Gneist, the defender of the Poles in the late prosecution at Berlin, has received from the accused in the first trial a silver épergne, representing at its base Wisdom and Justice supporting an escutcheon containing an inscription in Latin. Above rises a column bearing a statue of Poland holding in its hand a flag, with some words in Polish. On the column are engraved the names of the 126 accused.

Last year the Duc de Luynes started on a scientific exploration of the Dead Sea and the adjacent country; and it was stated at the time that he had caused an iron-built vessel, the Segar, to be transported thither, piece by piece, on camels. This boat, after doing excellent service, was intrusted to the care of a sheikh, in the hope that she might be serviceable to other tourists, but during a stormy night she broke from her anchorage and struck against a rock, which caused her so much damage that the French sailors who had the management of her towed her far into the Dead Sea and sunk her, that she might not be broken up and then destroyed by the Bedouins. This and the following details of the expedition we have gleaned from an able article on the subject by M. Huillard-Breholles, in the Revue Contemporaine:—"The Duc de Luynes, who had reserved the archæological department for himself, had selected M. Lartet, a geologist attached to the Museum of Natural History at the Jardin des Plantes; Dr. Combe; and Lieutenant Vignes, French navy, to aid him, each in their respective capacities. A few caverns, situated near Beyrout, were explored in the hope of finding antediluvian remains in them; and, indeed, several flint instruments were dug up as evidence of the "age of stone" in these parts. The expedition visited Masada, the last stronghold of the Jews. This stronghold is a rock accessible only by two narrow winding paths, leading over frightful precipices. There are still some ruins visible at Masada besides the trenches of the Roman General Silva, who besieged the place. From the surveys taken by Lieutenant Vignes, it appears that the Dead Sea is of an ovoid form, with the narrower end towards the south. It is forty-five miles long, and its greatest breadth does not exceed twelve. The density of the waters of this inland sea varies between 1160 and 1230, that of pure water being 1000. The larger figure represents the density at the bottom, which shows that the waters of the affluents do not descend to the lower strata. The bottom consists of a bluish mud mixed with crystals of salt.

FINE ARTS.

EXHIBITION OF THE SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.

We trust the fault is not in ourselves; but this year's exhibition of the Old Water-Colour Society has not realised the more than ordinarily high expectations we had formed. Notwithstanding the valuable accessions made in the two new members, the display seems to us to fall short of the excellence of recent years; and this opinion is very generally entertained. Certain it is that several of the most eminent members either contribute sparingly or are represented by comparatively unimportant works. The only explanation we have to offer for this apparent declension is the ill-advised exhibition of so many finished drawings in the winter gathering of so-called sketches and studies. Still, we need hardly say that the average merit of the collection is very high when compared with its rivals, while the variety of subjects and styles is, perhaps, greater than on any former occasion. Possibly some of the disappointment one feels in the gallery arises from the absence of white margins to the drawings. It is true that the works for the summer exhibitions have always been displayed in the same way—always stifled or "killed" in close gold frames. But the society itself has taught us in its Winter Exhibition, and we have so well learned at the Dudley Gallery, the value of the white mount that we must feel as impatient at its absence in a public exhibition as we should be in a private room—for no collector of taste dreams of hanging up a work of water-colour art without it. Surely, with a little contrivance—such as lengthening the screens and raising the top rank a little—the members could exhibit their productions with more justice to themselves and far greater pleasure to their visitors.

Let us, in the first instance, endeavour to gratify curiosity respecting the débutants, Messrs. F. F. Shields and F. D. Watson. Both these new recruits are figure-painters. They will therefore strengthen what was, till lately, a rather weak part in the society's ranks.

Mr. Shields has a provincial reputation, but had scarcely been heard of in London. His election, a short time since, is said to have surprised the artist himself; it will, however, have a very different effect upon every one else. All his four drawings are small or of very moderate size, and their subjects are of the humblest. One is called "Eleven O'Clock, A.M." (306), and represents a cottager's daughter, a strapping girl of ten or twelve, cutting with a will the huge luncheon-slice of bread-and-butter; another is "The Baby Cart" (277), a third, "The Popgun" (297); and the last (the largest, though not the best) is entitled "Desire is Stronger than Fear" (196)—two children timidly approaching an old pedlar, tempted by his basket of sweetmeats and gaily-coloured paper windmills, yet terrified by his portentously ragged, grizzly, hirsute appearance, and, possibly, in mortal fear of the sack with which he is swathed, and into which they may, recalling some nursery legend, think his encouraging smiles are only designed to inveigle them. Humble, we say, as are the subject of these drawings, they have true and rare qualities of art. We have no hesitation in saying that for happy rendering of character—and more especially of natural action, gesture, and expression—there are portions in them which will bear comparison even with such a master in similar subjects as Wilkie; and that there is nothing so good, exactly of their kind, in the exhibition. What can surpass the hungry eagerness of that girl with the loaf, or the impish delight of that boy, with his knees so strenuously clamped together, at having just discharged his popgun at the little frightened fellow he has persuaded or compelled to kneel before him to be shot; or the inviting grin of that old cadger, and the alarm of the child clinging to his elder sister's back?

Mr. J. D. Watson, like Mr. Walker, had made a reputation as a painter in oil and as a designer of book illustrations before he was elected an Associate by this society. We ourselves engraved, a year or so ago, a capital single-figure study of his, in oil, entitled "A Train of Thought." He signalises his first appearance here by only one drawing, "The Duet" (104). Illustrative of old English domestic life, and of the prevailing love of music in the seventeenth century, the subject is an aged gentleman keeping time, taking part with, and accompanying on the spinnet, a young lady whose handsome face, turned from the light, receives the reflections from the sheet of music from which she sings. The work gives evidence throughout of a well-trained and accomplished artist; the breadth of light and shade is especially commendable.

It may be thought that we should have given first attention to Mr. Carl Hang's Royal commission, the large drawing occupying the place of honour. Our excuse must be the regret we feel at finding we cannot congratulate the artist upon the success which his great abilities, together with the highly-picturesque scene and incident, painted "by command," seemed to warrant. The subject (which may, perhaps, be understood to have, like several of her Majesty's recent art-commissions, an in memoriam character) represents the Queen, with the late Prince Consort, Princess Alice, and Prince Louis of Hesse, accompanied by the Duke of Athole and attended by Lady Churchill and the Hon. C. Grey, fording on horseback Poll Tarff in Glen Tilt, on returning from Blair Athole to Balmoral, Oct. 8, 1861. Besides the personages already mentioned, there are numerous mounted attendants, gillies, &c., with a pair of pipers immediately in front of the Queen playing away vigorously, though struggling, almost up to their armpits, in midstream. Were it not for the many Southron dresses, the whole would happily realise to the fancy the procession of a Scottish monarch or some great Gaelic chieftain. Though the mountain torrent is not impassable, it plunges in ponderous volume down the successive cascades, and the water is very deeply peat-stained, probably from recent rain. The chief drawback to the pictorial effect of this drawing is the monotonous colour. The peat stains seem to have got into everything. Otherwise the portraits, though a little Germanised, are carefully and faithfully rendered, and the actions and grouping leave the impression of a truthful record. Mr. Haag has also an interesting view of the ruins of Baalbek (127) enveloped in evening shadow.

We are sorely afraid that Mr. F. Walker may prove one of the many artists upon whom early and unbounded success have had an injurious influence. Shall we ever again have from him such a work of exquisitely felicitous art as his church-pew scene, illustrative of Thackeray's "Philip"? We could hardly hope we should, were we to judge from his single drawing of this year. It is entitled "Autumn" (62), and is far inferior in grace of childlike action to the "Spring" of two years ago, to which, we presume, it is intended as a pendant. A thin, slatternly girl, looking town-bred rather than the rustic lass one might expect to see, lolls awkwardly on the tortuous trunk of an apple-tree, holding an apple. Has she stolen this same apple? and is she hiding from the man in the distance? We really know not, there is so little apparent "intention" in attitude or expression. If, however, there is a meaning, we suppose it is that. Her bent knees (of which she seems to have three) cast a mass of intense shadow, though there are no cast shadows among the foliage surrounding her. Patches obtrude upon the eye, hopelessly embroiled or intentionally muddled—we have no other word. Some very good passages of imitative painting are, it is true, to be found, as the face of the girl; but, on the whole, the falling off is so manifest that we think the severest criticism may prove the kindest. Mr. Burton, too, is somewhat disappointing this year, notwithstanding that his "Marquesa" (27) contains the broadest and best flesh modelling of life-size scale in the gallery. The drawing, however, of the receding side of the face is not correct, the green of the sleeves is crude, the scale of finish—that can give Dutch precision to a cinque-cento brooch and yet neglect entirely to define finger and nail hard by—is disproportionate; and why choose a model of masculine character lacking the distingué air the title would seem to guarantee? "Clematis" (247), a smaller drawing, by the same artist, of a girl holding a tangled bunch of the pretty creeper, is more to our taste, though rather heavy (particularly the hair), and not to be compared to a former drawing of a similar subject.

The warmest commendation is due to Mr. John Gilbert's scene from Le Sage's romance, "Laura introduces Gil Blas to the Service of Arsenia" (267). The deferential air of the young coxcomb and dupe, as he now was, and the mock stately condescension of the adventuress are capital; while the execution has that masterly facility for which the painter is almost unrivalled, and the colour-tones are fuller and clearer than in some of the artist's works. "Cromwell in Battle" (152) is a larger, more elaborate, and exceedingly picturesque drawing—one of the best of many similar. After giving us numerous spirited and splendid tableaux of the Cavaliers in martial array, the artist now makes the amende to their sturdy conquerors in the great revolutionary struggle; and, instead of exaggerating, as the common run of artists generally do, the peculiarities of the Puritans, he represents them as manly, hardy veterans, to whom even their chivalrous antagonists need not blush at having succumbed. Cromwell, his attendant captains, and a body of his troops are halted, and the stern, half-triumphant expression in the rugged, resolute faces seem to indicate that they are witnessing the delivery of a decisive charge; the Lieutenant-General himself looks as if he were recalling one of those texts of Scripture without which to support him, as Carlyle brings evidence to show, he seldom went to battle.

Mr. Topham has not for years exhibited so important a drawing, or one so full of character and well-told incident, as his intensely Irish scene in Connemara, on a "pater" gathering (126). Dancing, love-making, between the boys of Ballinasloe and the beauties of the Claddagh; whisky-drinking (doubtless from an illicit still) and its effects; devotion before the ancient cross; the medicine-witch prescribing for a sick child; animated discussions which, it is not unlikely, may be referred to the logical arbitrement of the shillalah, and other humours of genuine Irish life in Galway, are here set forth in an exceedingly well-composed and pleasantly-coloured picture; which, however, needs a little more open-air daylight. So much of the charm of Mr. F. Tayler's works resides in the skilful descriptive handling—done once and left—that where it is necessary to enforce effect, as in two or three interiors here, he is apt to lose some of this distinguishing merit. "The Coupling-up Hounds—Woodland Hunting" (114) and some others are, however, subjects which escape this risk. Mr. Smallfield has selected, as usual, an out-of-the-way subject in "Tartini" (204), composing from his dream the "Devil's Sonata." There is enthusiasm in the expression; and though the model might have been better chosen, and the foreshortening may be challenged, it is noticeable among the studies of life, or nearly life, size. Mr. Jenkins sends, among others, two charming drawings, "The Spring-head" (133)—a child filling a pitcher at a spring; and "Il Dort comme un Sabot" (117)—a Breton child watching its sleeping playmate, a little spaniel. In landscape, also, the artist is so well represented as to leave us in doubt which of the two principal walks of art we prefer to see him take. Mr. W. Goodall exhibits two tenderly and artistically painted drawings—"The Bindweed Wreath" (191) and "Labour and Love" (38). Mr. Lundgren contributes nothing so finished or fine as his conventual interior in the last exhibition of "Sketches;" but his command of deep, powerful effect may be inferred from "The Spanish Posada" (115) and "Arab Girl" (310).

Mr. Birket Foster has apparently been aiming at a manlier style of execution in several drawings, principally of childlife incident with rustic or seashore accompaniments. Of these the more noteworthy are "On the Beach, Hastings" (12), "Primroses" (33), and "The Swing" (314)—a pretty composition of girls swinging on the slackened bowsprit shrouds of a beached lugger. Still, however, the "stippled" mannerism of execution and the conventional drawing-room elegance, will not, to our mind, however popular or be-puffed, compensate for the absence in such subjects of the unaffected traits of natural character and expression found, for example, in the drawings of Mr. Shields. We must confess that we greatly prefer to see Mr. Joseph Nash represented by subjects where the architectural interest is paramount, such as those by which he won his reputation, than by figure compositions so arduous as his Shakspearean illustrations and "Visit of Charles V. to Francis I." (231), which alone he sends this year. Mr. A. D. Fripp, without failing to choose pleasing subjects, or to treat those subjects with refinement, yet is somewhat disappointing this year. "One of England's Naval Reserve" (10)—a tiny golden-haired fisher-boy seated on a rock—is rather hot in colour; as is also the "Arabs of the Common" (82), and still more so "The Allies" (162)—boys with Scotch terriers playing with hedgehogs; while "Under the Vines of Sorrento" (228), though sweet, is vapid and flat. Mr. Burne Jones seems more than ever bent upon being a Brother Ignatius in art. We suppose that—to paraphrase the testimonial of Abe Lincoln to "Artemus Ward, his Book"—these queerest and funniest of drawings "must be very nice to those who like them." They are: "Astrologia" (18)—an ill-favoured, jaundiced damsel, troubled with toothache in the upper incisors, with crimson gigot sleeves of anything you like except drapery, looking uncomfortably at a polished steel ball, because she is immovably jammed into a sooty background; "Cupid and Delight—from Chaucer's 'Assembly of Fowls'" (97), with a starveling Cupid pointing his arrows after heating them in a portable furnace, and Delight cooling them in a convenient stable-trough with pump; "Green Summer" (105)—very green indeed—green foliage, green dresses, green water; and "The Enchantments of Nimue (the Viviana of some Arthurian romances); how by Subtlety she caused Merlin to pass under a Heaving Stone into a Grave" (230), a truly magical scene, Merlin's age and beard being already spirited away, and Nature herself enchanted out of all possibility of recognition. Now, as nobody claims for these curious productions three of the necessary elements of a good picture—drawing, modelling, and its necessary concomitant, chiaroscuro—we would ask, in the interest of art, what is the value of the colouring for which some laud these drawings—colour that is quite arbitrarily dissociated from nature? First, let us say that, though this scheme of colour comes as a novelty, contrasting, as it does, with the healthy, natural tendencies of the English school, its history is simply this:—Mr. Jones borrowed it from Mr. Dante-Rossetti, when painting in the Oxford Union together; and Mr. Dante-Rossetti borrowed it from some of the latest, dingiest, and worst Venetian pictures. The recipe for a colourist of this sort is simple enough. First, get a well-smoked and varnished picture by some follower of Palma Vecchia, then mix up thick and slab a quantity of treacly brown; the same with blue for greens, rank yellow, and dull, gummy red, and apply as thickly as possible. N.B. Carefully avoid any attempt at imitating nature or expressing form, relief, and texture. After all, however, and notwithstanding wholesome ridicule and just censure, we are disposed to credit Mr. Jones, as well as Mr. Rossetti, with possessing a sort of inarticulate feeling for art, with the colour faculty, and can only regret that their talents have been so wilfully perverted.

The wealth of this exhibition in landscape, architectural, animal, and marine subjects baffles any effort at minute particularisation. Leaving, then, for a moment the mass of landscapes, we would call particular attention to the admirably-painted Spanish church interiors by Mr. S. Read, because they very opportunely illustrate the valuable work by Mr. Street on "Gothic Architecture in Spain," reviewed in another column; as, indeed, have other drawings by this artist to which we have alluded in that review. The peculiar arrangement of the Spanish coro or choir, is, for example, well exemplified in the magnificent "Coro of the Cathedral of Toledo" (85); while the architectural and complete separation of the coro from the tras-coro, or western part of the nave, is further elucidated by Mr. Read's drawing of "The Entrance to the Coro, Cathedral of Valencia" (22). This artist also contributes some interesting Flemish church interiors—to wit, "The Church of St. Gomer, Lierre" (124), "Interior of the Church, Tamise" (183), and "Chapel in the Hospital of St. Elizabeth, Antwerp" (213). There are also some careful architectural studies in Normandy and Brittany by Mr. Burgess. Where there is hardly another competitor, Mr. Brittan Willis must bear the palm for his studies of cattle, &c., though we have seen the artist to greater advantage on former occasions, especially as regards his skies and landscape backgrounds. Mr. Duncan's versions of his frequent theme, "Storm and Shipwreck at Sea" (24), do not this year impress us so much as usual with the sense of terrible reality. We like best of all his contributions the moonlight view at "Millwall, Isle of Dogs" (146).

Among the landscapes proper a prominent place is due to a large view of "Glen Spean, Inverness-shire," entitled, from the children in the foreground, "The Young Idlers" (203), by Mr. Newton, an artist who of late has scarcely borne out the promise of former years. This, however, though differing in subject from any previous work by Mr. Newton which we remember, is very good. The summer leafage clustering up the right-hand slope and shining in the sunlight, and the young silver birches on the left bank shimmering in the wind, are truly and powerfully rendered. Another drawing of "A Highland Moor" (143) shows well-remembered effects, such as frequently result from the sudden changes of atmospheric conditions in mountainous districts. It is to be apprehended that long familiarity with old favourites renders one apt sometimes to be blind to their merits and sensible only of their defects. The reflection occurred to us with some force before Mr. Richardson's large drawing of "Castellamare, Gulf of Naples" (60)—a drawing which, had it been by a new hand, would have been the talk of the town. In "The Hospice, Pass of the Simplon" (66), there is, however, that appearance of clever systematic studio work which makes one feel uncomfortably incredulous before, and ready to dislike a little unjust towards, some of Mr. Richardson's drawings. There is, unquestionably, much artistic feeling in Mr. A. W. Hunt's work, but that feeling urges the artist to try appurrently to get the colours of the rainbow supplied by nature into a kind of concrete in every square inch of his drawings, whatever their subjects. For this reason chiefly they have a look of unreality. In these, as with a stereoscope or chromatic lens, the eye cannot at first, and until it has become used to the false conditions, realise either the general effect or details as it would at once in a natural scene. A good example of the danger that this would apply to most of the works of Turner's middle and later periods. But in these there is more than a mere mechanical mode of drawing found in Mr. Hunt's to increase the sense of incongruity. The peculiarities of his style are exhibited in "Bolsena" (37) and "Amberside Mill" (52). The unpretentious truthfulness of Mr. Davidson's work has always been recognised, and yearly the artist gains in quantity and range and power of expression. His drawing (101) "The Mountain Road" (39), another very fine after-Cuyp drawing by Mr. A. Shawcross, "A Day in Dutch Weather" (40), especially noticeable. Mr. G. A. Pritp is another artist whose drawings grow: this has gone to Nature with a determination, not to say thought of tricking her out in his own finery, or in any but her own native livery. "Ben-making in the Highlands" (Glenfalloch, Perthshire) (100) and "The Banks of the Thames, near Sonning" (132), are particularly pure and true. The whole accomplishment, because its nature is so desirable, it does not follow that a painter should plant himself down, as if he had no more knowledge of nature than an unthinking camera, to copy the first scene that comes to hand, however ugly or uninteresting. Yet this Mr. G. P. Boyce seems to do, judging from some of his drawings, and from the present example. We may, however, include among the exceptions "The Black Gate, Newcastle-on-Tyne" (90), an accurate and pleasing piece of interest of the scene. The sunlight in this drawing is, in parts, quite illusive and powerful. A second representation of the Black Gate (89), engraving and contrasted with breadth of cloud-shadow occurs in a view from the "Bull-banks," shows the artist's love for the more unexceptional notice; as, likewise, do other phases of natural effect, particularly those of grey twilight, as instanced in the two drawings opposite, by the same artist. It is seldom that a landscape-painter aiming at effect—more so public one long accustomed to a well-marked shade of public approbation—seems so clear of very obvious mannerisms as Mr. Collingwood Smith. His large drawing, "Laguna" (34), is an excellent comparison to Mr. Richardson's "Castellamare," just in smaller works, too numerous to mention, prove the artist always credibly advancing to secure new materials, and to use them for new effects: hence their comparative freshness of treatment.

Other of the best known painters are represented—Mr. E. M. Palmer, in his poetical, deep, and glowing manner; Mr. Dodgson, in a view of his favourite "Richmond, Yorkshire;" Mr. G. Barnes, in a scene of sylvan delight, with an intangibility that is also poetic; Mr. Naftel, in very alternating between the "Thames" and "Sussex" and shows of Naples, possessing a virulence of effect which, were it not for the subjects, would appear unpleasant; Mr. S. P. Jackson, in several drawings, honest, painstaking, thoroughly true to nature, and, not acquiring more artistic value; Mr. G. H. Andrews, in "Chepstow Castle, Monmouthshire" (93), a drawing of masonship, aerial quality, and colour, the best work we have seen by this artist; Mr. J. Holland, in a freely-painted "Scene in Venice" (109); Mr. J. W. Whittaker, in which moors and wastes—some of the best of the artist's many—rendered into poetry; Mr. C. Branwhite, in a drawing of a "Dead Heron" (140), and in views on the Thames, &c., with much reflected in water—always a difficult accomplishment, however, a very limited range of artistic resource and natural effect; Mr. J. Nash, in "Elyddan Castle" (110), and other drawings; and Mr. E. A. Goodall, in praiseworthy, unobtrusive views of London and Venice; and Messrs. Holland, F. and W. Callow, Oakley, Bartholomew, Rivière, and Branwhite, in their respective generally well-known styles.

EXHIBITION OF THE INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.

This year's exhibition of the junior Water-Colour Society is by much the best we remember. The average of merit may remain lower than in the other gallery in Pall-mall; there are not so many of those finished works by acknowledged masters: but the "Institute" has received so many real accessions to its strength in the way of young artists of rising talent that the improvement is very observable. Not among the least noticeable of the most recent acquisitions is the drawing last elected—Messrs. W. Lucas and W. L. Thomas, both figure-painters.

Mr. Lucas, of whom we had no previous knowledge, has much command of character, expression, and gesture, combined with the technicalities of his art. His heads are well drawn and modelled, his flesh painting above the ordinary standard. The principal work of this artist is noted on this first appearance, entitled "Rustic Courtship" (81), representing a brawny young woman coming out of a cottage door, and, inside, with a smile that simulates a frown, at the "soft nothings" protruding from an imperfect outlined head and shoulders of a youth which are thrust through the narrow washhouse casement. The subject of two other drawings are of a similar class—a mother at the cottage's young wife decking the homely mirror with holly; on "Christmas Eve" (220), and "Playfellows" (193), a girl reading a penny instalment of a sensation novel as she does so to her sister and a companion, we forget which. A fourth contribution is a study of a sweetly-passive young girl's head, in which the artist has at once be naked among the established favourites and most prepossessing members of this society. A second drawing is due to the hand of Mr. W. Leon Thomas. This is another of the artists who vary their work to their world within for fashion and the public taste, combining with the fascinating alternation of water colours. The artist is the brother of the clever and also young painter of the two remarkable pictures, described by us not long since, on its exhibition at the Gorsan Gallery in Sackville-street. Mr. Thomas's contribution, like his low (and a very creditable one it is) with several subjects from Boccaccio and the neighbouring coast, and one bit of English locality. They are, nominally and scarcely, "Illustrations of Modern Boulogne Sands" (22), a bunch of matelottes trudging cheerily along with weary loads of netting, tackle, and fish—the feet of two of them, and, some compromise made as regards the length of the pettiskeats of all, to the nature of the sands and the tide. "Illustrations of Boulogne" (260)—the same three friends, toujours gais, now wearing neat chasseur-like short frogged petticoats—and "Illustrations of Boulogne" (248)—one of these Gallic cynics sunnily occupying, as a convenient place to seat one, a projecting masonry-base of the Napoleonic flagstaff, to whom she laughingly listens, and who forgets his duty of guarding the sacred soil and "runs perfide" after a pretty girl with a basket of fresh-caught fish, and, last, of the Boulogne subjects, "Le Petit Rusé" (248), two little coureurs after the same game. There is a charm of genial truth about all these drawings; while the artist is interesting as to the ways of life without affected puerility or vulgarity, manifested in "Dolly" (328), so often characteristic of such artists.

We must warmly congratulate Miss Emily Farmer on the great advance made in her drawing of a child regarding with intense glee the jumping exertions of her "Pet Dog" (228), and in her "Sewing." The head is extremely well drawn and modelled, the colouring bright and well-organised; and there is much expression in the figure and some added scarcely inferior.

Mr. C. Green, one of the later members, confirms our favourable expectations in a scene of modern life—a little child led by its mother into grandpapa's library and presenting a nosegay as a birthday present (69). There was no scope here, however, for those sunlight open-air effects which are noteworthy in the scene among the foliages on the beach at "Newhaven, Scotland" (91), and also in No. 128. On the other hand—and we say it in the interest of a young artist—it is to be apprehended that Mr. Cattermole will not rise above the grade of a welcome painter if he does not give his best attention to the execution of action and expression. Mr. Goodall sends another view, on a smaller scale, of the female subject which, in prolific, supplied the "Fluffy" we engraved last year; but, like many sequels and pendants, it is rather disappointing. The rich colouring for which the painter has a keen relish (betraying him occasionally, however, into disregard of drawing) is favourably exemplified in some foreign subjects, particularly the "Moorish Jeweller at Rose in Algiers" (194).

It is with regret we approach the works of two or three of the figure-painters of long-established reputation in this gallery. Indeed, it is a painful duty to be compelled to note decline that cannot arise from failing powers, and the absence of great but misapplied talent. The retrogression of Mr. R. H. Wolmert is but too obvious in "Contemplation" (4), "Sunday Morning" (5), and "Sunday in the Leicester" (201), yet there is no stint of apparent labour; nothing, that is, in the sense not to be applied to the studies from life (merely preparatory, if necessary) in order to secure appropriate character, nature, and expression in a difficult theme requiring all these in an eminent degree. Mr. R. H. Colebrook's principal drawing (14) is one of his technical qualities attainable in the material in which he works; yet he is not to be classed with the artists in a sacred subject such as "Christ and the Woman of Samaria" (274), or "Christ Blessing Little Children" (284) should also be suited to our Saviour? and who could wear such inflated, conventional attitudes? Mr. J. Absolon we will not say, but he has recorded merely as a study of a female in a supplicatory attitude, it is nevertheless more than this. A beautiful conception of character and poetic insight must also be felt in Launcelot's "Departure from the Hall" (15), and in "Ruth" (16). The figure of the "Lord" at the round table is vying the favour of the "lily maid" on his helmet; and still more in the "Lily Maid" (16) and the "Ruth" (248) are that memorable parting from his dishonoured Queen. Should we quarrel with the character, dignity, and have in the other a pretty young carpet-knight? Yet, with all this, the artist's powers would be as valuable for representing chivalric spectacle, none could deny they so lately were displayed in his "Lear" (16), a highly excellent. From Mrs. Elizabeth Murray's full and flowing pencil we have had one of a few "Contemplative Moments" (17), a composition lodging, at least, by two slight but very agreeable drawings—a newly-married couple in "Love's Young Dream" (18), and a "Courtship" (19). Lovemaking in the last century and in the present day are also contrasted in two drawings. The artist dwells with much complacency in his largest drawing, "A Distinguished Member of the Alpine Club, 1765" (20), and "Love in 1865" (21), when to a to a brown Swiss maidchen, whose society proves more attractive than the perils of Alpine mountains and glaciers. The subject, we must say, approaches perilously near—nearly, indeed, nearly, le jeune garçon perdrix, in several drawings by Mr. Tidey. Mr. Oliver Pigott has two (23 and 24) of his "Young People" engaged, or open to engagement, in London. Here are "Dolly Varden" (23) and "Barnaby Rudge" (24), Dickens's young people to be lover (23) "Nanny" and her lover, of the pathetic ballad (153); our readers may remember the engraving of "Sweethearts and Partners" (39); and even two children, incipient sweethearts, playing "Cock Robin" (154), and "Love's Young Dream" (155), are subjects without great exercises and fervour, but certainly not devoid of grace and sentiment. Mr. Pigott's principal contribution is "Making-up" (26), and cannot feel much sympathy for the interruption of the "Toilet" (27).

Mr. Louis Haghe has two drawings from subjects of Flemish mein-at-arms gambling at night and awaiting a culprit of some sort. But we know nothing of the "Guard-room" (29), nothing of the "Interior of St. Peter's" looking from the south transept, with the Swiss guard assembled (30), that can be said of the "Pope" (31) we remember to have seen. The impression of vast space is very successfully conveyed. The principal drawing by Mr. Haghe, as the interior of Flemish dentives, the hailstorm, and some of the gilding is reflected light from the sun-lit buildings without, combined with the local and various colour of that statelest of all interiors. We may direct our attention to the interesting drawing, namely, when we have mentioned a female study, entitled "Modesty" (149), by Mrs. Margaret Gillies Carpenter. This artist should be never painted anything more sweet; and to the "Fair Weather" (150) of Mr. Carpenter we prefer it in accordance than on former occasions; by Mr. H. Warren—a couple of German peasants in their market-boat, pulled by a dog, with a woman spreading her spoon for sail.

Mr. Cope, R.A., contributes, as we hear, again in the Holy Land, supplements the large collection of Oriental drawings which formed a separate exhibition. Of this gallery we have already spoken in a general view, very effective in light and shade, of "Beyrout, with Mount Lebanon in the Distance" (35), and another of "Cairo, from the North-east" (253), a favourable direction for viewing that interesting picturesque city, and from above its level. Besides these, Mr. Werner sends a still more remarkable collection, comprising nearly entitled "A Monk Reading the Scriptures" (221), but undoubtedly a study of a Moslem priest in the interesting mosque-court of the ancient Dominican chapter-house, afterwards called the Capella degli Spagnuoli, and now the property of the Signora Bianchi, of Florence. A frate stands on the platform, on which is raised the masonry, surrounded by the arches of the court, with its ornamental service-books, and from which the monk reads—not, Mr. Werner, we should imagine, from the Koran, but another of Christian faith, to whom we are indebted for that famous monument of Italian Gothic, the splendid pulpit of Pisa. The drawing, viewed about in the carved stalls, some of them swallowed up almost in the masses of shade, is a fine rather than pleasing. On the walls are faint indications of the ancient frescoes by Simone Memmi, Spinello Aretino, &c.

We are under obligations to that very adventurous spirit Mr. Weber, for contributions to this exhibition from the Far East and Arabia of Algeria; but nothing he had exhibited equals in strange and decided originality the drawing of "Sunset on the Tombs of the Memlooks" (10 and 69) in the desert south of Cairo, with the Pyramids of Ghizeh in the distance. Mr. Weber and Mr. Wilkinson say that these curious Saracenic monuments offer interesting subjects for the artist, and we are sure of it. The tombs have not been frequently represented. They stretch far and wide in "most melancholy and desolate" scenes for the most conspicuous, recognisable by its large dome surmounted by a crescent, that of the Sultan Barkook, which is said to have been erected by Saladin to Imâm e Shafiaee, the founder of the Shafiee sect of Moslems. Near it is the sepulchre of Mohammed Ali and his family, and other modern tombs. Mr. Weber has made an impressive drawing of the "Tomb of Caleb," seen in the "after-glow" (69). A large view of "Glen Lech, North Wales" (70), by Mr. Cox, jun., is another of the artist's works, and also very good; though perhaps not so well suited to the artist's peculiar qualities. Mr. Cox, jun., is not an imitator of his father as in the expression of all-pervading air and light, glowing, sometimes, with the sunshine of a summer day.

Mr. E. G. Warren is another of the pillars of this society. We must not complain of the fact that his contributions are various, as an artist who best struck out so original a path for himself, and in whom we have been so long and so delighted: aspects and effects of nature, caught with singular felicity. The best example of this delightful painter is called "The First Notes of the Cuckoo," suggested by a line in Wordsworth's poem of "Yarrow Unvisited," and Wordsworth's exquisite lines on "the darling of the spring," just now come back to us. The drawing is full of the sweetness and wild hyacinths across a sunny field the trees are breaking into brightest green; the "sky-lark warbles" overhead and the "cuckoo" is heard, lead gleam in dazzling white, tier on tier, the light citro-cumuli, building in the luminous azure their aerial mountains. Mr. Warren's "Hill" (71) escapes ranging a vast corn-field—shows the beauties of another season of the year, and, perhaps, not quite so attractive a subject: while in No. 235 the painter again places us under the shadow of beeches that "make a low pavement" of their fallen leaves and the tremulous play of the filtering sunlight. Messrs. Shalders and Hine are two of the later members who have done so much for this society. The animal subjects by Mr. Shalders—"Collecting the Flock" (21), for instance, and two contributions representing cows and sheep enjoying cool retreat from the mid-day rays—are very admirable, notwithstanding something of mechanical elegance in the execution reminding of Birket Foster. Mr. Hine's works have some affinity to those of Mr. Dobyns, in the Old Society. He dwells upon the long shadows of the declining sun, and love the mystery of twilight; but even his mid-day scene, with sparkling water, "The Ferry, Leithenampton, Sussex" (72), is very true and beautiful. One of the best drawings is "Dunstone Head, Dorset" (90)—rain-clouds, their down-pour and shadow out at sea; but clearing off cheerfully over the great cliffs of the foreground.

We could add little to the reputation of some of the older and exquisite of this gallery; and we should be loth to attempt to take anything therefrom. Mr. Bennet, an acknowledged master of "breadth," is worthily represented in the lovely panorama from "Richmond Hill" (277). The painter's power is evinced, also, in a sequence (166)—a class of exhibiting drawings of smaller scale than usual. Eminently skilful drawing-master's works these may be called; and, from that number of one of them, that is "Bonchurch, Isle of Wight" (221), the artist has evidently a fine sympathy for the sea. Mr. Leitch's works, Mr. Leitch breaks away from some mannerism of his, opaque colour in which shadow is "impenetrable," as in the "Lady of Shalott" (214)—an elegant, nay, a really beautiful, drawing of a lovely view. The long-practised drawing-master style may be detected in Mr. Read Gray's works; but, unquestionably, they have very unusual vigour this year. Mr. Read's "Rocky Bed of a Highland Stream" (225) shows a power they not resemble so much those of the last-named artist, and still less those of any other in the elder society. Mr. Robina's marine pieces are as spirited as ever. Mr. Mogford's drawings of Scottish scenes and lakemost coast and rustic scenes, with figures, call for no fresh remarks. Mr. Hulme's drawings are rather more in his manner, and very happy. The clever Rosters subjects by Mr. Webbs are unquestionably fresh in colour. With the notice of given a Coloured Illustration of Mr. Frederick Taylor's "Ruins of Pevensey and the architectural subjects of Messrs. S. Prout, Boys, and Simmons, we have, we believe, nearly, without specially noticing, all which demands upon our attention at this moment prevent our giving the full notice of contributions which we intend to bestow on the best exhibition the institute has submitted to the public.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

A RETURN of 532 pages (the seventh report of the medical officer of the Privy Council) has been issued, containing an account of the proceedings which the London of the Privy Council took during the year 1864, together with the reports of the medical officers appointed to inquire into the causes by which disease has been caused. The latter reports give an account of the present state of public health in various districts in which had not been previously reported on, and also of districts reported as being every where quite satisfactory.

Among the papers is one by Dr. Hunter on the sanitary state of the metropolis in relation to the dwellings of the poor, and another by Dr. Simon on the sanitary circumstances of rural districts, examining in different counties in England the state of the principal towns, and the healthy and unhealthy and miserable quality of the accommodation almost every page of Dr. Hunter's report bears testimony; and the evil, instead of diminishing, is shown to be one which is daily and hourly increasing. Dr. Hunter describes great owners as escaping from year-to-year the increasing inconvenience of the districts in the midst of which they have made their fortune, the nearest town or open village, already crowded, receiving this artist of overflowing population, and the consequence is that the poor have to endure all the suffering population are mentioned the proportion of the Duke of Bedford, 1,000 of the Marquis of Salisbury, and of the Marquis of Westminster, 1,000.

Where any considerable number of human sojs, contains unaltered in its previous overcrowding settlement and change of occupation, the result tend to become diseased and unhealthy dwellings. Dr. Hunter says many fathers are to forbold from the known interests of those who can neither help nor would be due to their own interests, as a class, and to the public welfare, very heavy of a taxation, while the law leaves it optional with them to keep or not to keep their property in a condition of decent habitability. That even the general tedious of the dwellings is an evil eminently less urgent, and more remediable, is undeniable.

Mr. Simon seems to repeat much beaten from the Union Chargeability Bill, as regards the sanitary condition of rural districts, and the improvements effected of agricultural labourers in those districts where their industry is employed; but the ulterior question which he thinks ought to be dealt with is that of the welfare of land which the labour ought not to be left to the obligation of containing a certain proportion of suitable labourers' dwellings.

But the chief value of the report lies in the fact that it has called to the above inquiry extended. The household circumstances of mining and agricultural labourers, and the sanitary state of the villages, of the large class of the rural population which follows the more migratory kinds of labour. The interest of employers and employed alike in the health of the latter, are reached apparently the lowest levels at which a so-called house can be considered habitable. In the mining and colliery districts, says Mr. Simon, "it is frequent that large populations are gathered together with scarcely more edifices than are required for the shelter of the workers for a night." All the accommodation provided is for their mines are commonly worked on lease, and that the duration of the lease is often so short that it would be to their own interest to make any permanent provision for the labourers. Here, again, Mr. Simon argues that claims of inhabitability are being or so set up by the owners of the land, and the consequent deterioration of mine-owner, involves an industrial colony to labour on his estate; and this is the principle which Mr. Simon makes of the duties of the labourer when he collects should find proper lodging where they must live. Mr. Simon's report, we hope, will receive due attention from the legislature and the public, well knowing that if its latter condition be certainly, the latter will not be slow to follow. The report is full, but we have only room to add that it will be well to know the value of their sanitary rights, that neither discovered helpless, nor the means of their due appreciation generally accessible. Accordingly, for some of the present state of things, the great desideratum is, that no mine-owner should be able to demand the services of labourers who are not in decent habitation.

With regard to the removal of nuisances, the reports of the inspectors furnish overwhelming evidence that the power given by the Nuisance Removal Act is insufficient for its understood purpose. The insertion of local authorities is considered necessary, and also certain other amendments in the Nuisances Removal Acts. One of these is that it ought no longer to be discretionary with magistrates to refuse to enforce the law for the abatement of extreme nuisances, and that it should be made an evil for which the Court of Queen's Bench could easily apply a remedy.

Mr. Simon's report concludes with the inquiry whether it is not necessary to the prevalence of parasitic disease in the midst of the London markets, and with inspection of the meat and provisions exposed for sale, and generally, to an efficiently reported local excesses of preventible disease.

THE LATE CONFEDERATE WAR-STEAMER TALLAHASSIE.

In our Journal of the 2nd of September last year, was an Illustration of the race across the British Channel, from Dover to Calais, between one of the pushing steamers of the Messrs. Wigram, of Blackwall, a new steamer designed by Captain T. R. Symonds, R.N., on the two principles of Messrs. Wigram, Messrs. E. C. and W. Dudgeon, of Cubitt Town, Millwall, for the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company, and the Atalanta, which easily got over the distance in seventy-seven minutes, against the Confederate steamer Atalanta. In the same year, the latter vessels purchased by the Government of the Confederate States of America, and, in the autumn of 1864, was fitted out for regular and extraordinary swiftness and her power of rapid evolution—being able, it was supposed, to turn round her own length in a minute, or in little more than her own length—have made her a most efficient instrument of annihilation. In the autumn of last year she was employed with a vast amount of damage to the commerce of the Northern States—principally sometimes under the entrance of the harbours of New York and Philadelphia, thereby capturing, plundering, and burning a great number of American vessels, and even the pilot-boats of New York, while it was thought necessary for any of the federal ships of war to attempt to catch her. This career of not inglorious mischief came to an end on the 19th of October last year, when the Tallahassie has been disarmed and disposed of once more to private owners. She was lately brought to Liverpool, and is now being refitted, under the name of the Amelia, for ordinary commercial purposes. We give an Illustration of the present appearance of this celebrated vessel. She is built of iron, 200 ft. in length, 24 ft. in breadth, and 14 ft. in depth, with a burden of 500 tons. There are two engines, independent of each other, and each of 100-horse power, making from 100 to 120 revolutions a minute. She is an admirable sea-boat, very strong, and keeping entirely dry. The superior advantages of the twin-screw principle, which have been repeatedly proved by such examples as this, are clearly explained in a scientific essay read by Captain Symonds at the last meeting of the Institution of Naval Architects last year, and which has been lately published.

"A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE."

We engrave one of the most noticeable pictures in the Exhibition of Female Artists, Pall-mall. In that Exhibition (which we have already reviewed) Miss Kate Swift has for some years taken a distinguished place. Those who wish to see the condition of woman ameliorated, and her capabilities more generally recognised, will regret that the example of this lady is not followed by a larger number of our best female painters, in order that the character of the only art-gallery exclusively devoted to the sex might be more worthily sustained. Now that this Exhibition has been remodelled, and the conduct of its affairs released from the leading strings of patronage, we shall more confidently hope to see that result brought about. The subject of the present work needs no comment. The illustration of the jingling old proverb which supplies the title will commend itself as very appropriate from a lady's pencil. It will surely please every male, as well as female reader, whose heart is in the right place; but we suppose only the latter will fully appreciate how naturally the mother's interest and the child's docility are expressed. We have before remarked that Miss Swift's style of painting indicates study on the Continent, and this French interior, apparently Norman, seems to furnish another confirmation of the observation we had made.

"HIGHLAND PIPER PRACTISING."

When our readers shall have visited the three excellent Water-colour Exhibitions, which (including the two usual displays in Pall-mall, reviewed in another part of this Number) are now open, he will not fail to have arrived at the conclusion that the fascinating art of "water painting" has received a marvellous development in this country in recent years. To some of the causes of the great extension of this particular branch of painting—or, rather, of painting generally in this particular medium—we have already alluded in our notice of the exhibition from which we have selected the picture engraved.

The long-felt need of a free exhibition is proved by the high excellence of this collection; by the number of the works necessarily excluded, amounting to more than double those actually hung on the walls; and by the fact that it reveals the existence of several artists who, although previously unknown to the public at large, are entitled to take rank with the best in either of the eclectic and exclusive societies.

Among the latter, and therefore of those whom it is the pleasing duty of ourselves and our contemporaries of the press to aid in bringing into the notice they deserve, is Mr. John Richardson, the painter of the capital drawing of a "Highland Piper Practising," an artist who has nameaken (that is to say, at least, as regards the surname) in both the old-established societies. We do not know, however, that we need add much to what we have already said regarding the drawing itself, in our notice of the Dudley Gallery Exhibition. It will be remembered that we could not refrain from quoting poor Haydon's comparison of the music (?) of the bagpipes to "all the devils in Hades singing through their noses while squeezing them with finger and thumb." Yet, a wild pibroch or fierce martial air played among the Highlandman's native mountains conveys the same impression, relatively to the pretty pastoral pipings commonly sung of by the poets, that a savagely-picturesque landscape by Salvator conveys relatively to a sweet sun-lighted scene by Claude or Cuyp. It seems to remind us, too, that, though the voice and song of liberty may die away on the plains, they will still continue to reverberate among the hills. After all, however, we must exclaim, "Save us from the torture of listening, within the limits of a small cot or shieling, to a solo on the Scottish national instrument from such a rapt enthusiast as this!" We should much prefer to assist, as the French say, at such a musical entertainment with our eyes than with our ears—as in the contemplation of this Engraving. A malicious Saxon has said that a Scotchman shows his love of his country by quitting it at his earliest convenience. But we are thankful, under feelings awakened by this drawing, that this may not always be done; or, at all events, that, as our artist kindly intimates, some pipers, at least, either cannot or will not get away.

Of course, the great point of the drawing is the intensely Celtic characteristics of the face, exaggerated as they are by Sandy's present employment—the long upper lip not only lengthened but distended, apelike; and the small grey eyes, looking still smaller, half-closed by the swelling cheek. As for the sly humour evinced by the painter in his expression of the perfectly-contented enjoyment with which the old fellow drinks in his own portentous discords—sweeter to him than harmonies from Apollo or the music of the spheres—we must leave that to be relished as it appears in our Engraving, for it is not to be described in words.

"A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE," BY MISS KATE SWIFT, FROM THE EXHIBITION OF FEMALE ARTISTS.

THE ALBERT MEMORIAL SCHOOLS AT BIRKENHEAD.

About eighteen months ago, when the propriety of erecting a monument to the late Prince Consort in the Public Park at Birkenhead was discussed, Mr. William Jackson, M.P., a well-known enterprising capitalist of that port, resolved at his own private cost to erect a school for the lodging, boarding, and industrial teaching of one hundred destitute children, to form a really useful monument of that public occasion. Mr. Jackson has fulfilled his munificent promise, and the building shown in our Illustration this week is ready to be opened at the beginning of June. In the mean time a temporary school has been opened at a hired house in Hamilton-street, where some twenty-five children are lodged, besides fifty who attend as day-scholars, and are also fed. The working expenses of the school and maintenance of the children are defrayed by a public subscription, which was really started by some of the influential residents in Birkenhead, as soon as Mr. Jackson's intention to give the building and the land for it was known. A committee, of which that gentleman is president, whilst one third of its members are re-elected each year by the subscribers, will have the management of the institution. His title is "The Birkenhead Industrial Ragged Schools," and it is designed "for the education, industrial training, and maintenance, in whole or in part, of children who, through poverty, parental neglect, or any other cause, are left without instruction, or are in danger of contamination from vicious or criminal associates." None are to be admitted for gratuitous food and instruction whose parents are able to pay for them at other schools, or who are entitled to support from the poor rates. For those who are lodged and clothed as well as fed and taught, the committee may charge at the rate of five shillings a week, if they think proper, to be paid under the provisions of the Industrial Schools Act, or by the parents, or by other persons; but it is within the discretion of the committee to reduce this charge. The intellectual instruction will be chiefly reading, writing, spelling, and arithmetic, with the Bible for religion, and no sectarian theology at all; the girls will learn plain needlework and housework; for the rest, their industrial training will be "such as to form habits of labour, neatness, order, and general usefulness, rather than to teach them any particular trade." There will be accommodation for one hundred children in the new school-house, and there are funds secured to carry on the schools for three years. The building, which is handsome and convenient, stands on a plot of ground, belonging to Mr. Jackson, in Corporation-road. The architect was Mr. David Walker, Lord-street, Liverpool. There is a boys' school-room, 57 ft. long by 20 ft. wide; a girls' school-room, 32 ft. long; a dining-hall, 29 ft. by 35 ft.; spacious dormitories above; a board-room, class-rooms, teachers' rooms, baths, covered playgrounds, and other necessary apartments. We refer to the Illustration.

THE LATE CONFEDERATE WAR-STEAMER TALLAHASSEE, NOW AT LIVERPOOL.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

"THE HIGHLAND PIPER," BY J. RICHARDSON, IN THE GENERAL EXHIBITION OF WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

Some Account of Gothic Architecture in Spain. By G. E. Street, F.S.A. (Murray.) This is a work interesting to the archæologist, historian, and general reader, and of great value to the architect. That Mr. Street should, in the midst of his professional engagements, have made repeated journeys to Spain, collected a mass of historical material, executed many admirable drawings, taken many invaluable plans, and written a bulky volume full of the results of personal observation, is a most praiseworthy instance of industry. And the industry is well rewarded. This book is of much greater importance than the "Brick and Marble Architecture of Italy," by the same author. In it new, or nearly new, ground is broken. We had many sources of information concerning the Moorish remains in Granada, Seville, Cordova, &c.; but, relating strictly to the Gothic architecture of Northern and Central Spain, we had nothing more precise than the necessarily concise and generalised descriptions of Fergusson and Ford. This want Mr. Street, by his own personal examination and with the aid of Spanish authorities and local guides, has gone far towards completely supplying. Though the conclusion to which the author arrives is that his "love for our own national artistic peculiarities rather increases than diminishes the more he studies the contemporary buildings of the Continent," yet he also entertains the belief that there are in Spain many characteristics of ecclesiastical architecture very rarely seen in this country, and well deserving study and emulation—especially the masculine solidity, honesty of construction, and sparing use of sculptural ornamentation in its Romanesque and Early Pointed developments. In Spain we see the phenomenon—to the extent we find it nowhere else—of two streams of art flowing for centuries side by side, often in the same district. The Mosque at Cordova, of the ninth century; the Alcazar and Giralda of Seville, of the thirteenth; the Court of Lions in the Alhambra, of the fourteenth; some of the houses in Toledo, of the fifteenth, are examples of what the Moors were building during the very period of the Middle Ages in which all the buildings were erected which Mr. Street has described and illustrated. Yet the one stream scarcely throws off a single tributary to the other. The history of Gothic art in Spain resembles closely its history in France, Germany, and England. Its growth was slower in Spain, and there exists comparatively little in the country the essential features of which may not be traced to, or that we cannot find exemplified more or less closely in, France, Germany, or England. One of the chief local peculiarities (departed from somewhat in the fourteenth but returned to in the fifteenth century) is the evident aim at excluding the powerful sunlight. The effects of chiaroscuro in the vast and massive interiors, lit here and there only with brilliant specks of sunshine, often iridescent from stained glass, are inexpressibly solemn or lovely. Another peculiarity is the position of the choir. The choir is transferred to the nave, and the central apse treated only as a sanctuary. This, our author thinks, arose from the shortness of the apses in the Romanesque Spanish churches. The large size of the sumptuously-decorated retablo or reredos behind the altar, at the end of the Capilla Mayor, may also be considered a Spanish peculiarity. Mr. Street's researches lay chiefly in those portions of Spain which were once included in the kingdoms of Aragon and Castile. He thinks the earliest churches are San Pablo and San Pera, at Barcelona, both of the tenth century. Their general type of plan is followed in the next century in many churches betraying Byzantine and Provençal origin, or closely resembling a type common in Aquitaine and Auvergne. Among the principal churches, cloisters, &c., of the eleventh, twelfth, and beginning of the thirteenth centuries, which reveal a longer adherence than we see in France to the Romanesque or semi-Romanesque characteristics derived chiefly from that country, may be named San Isidore, Leon; San Vicente and San Pedro, Avila; the cloisters of Gerona Cathedral; several churches in Segovia; the old cathedrals at Salamanca and Lérida; Sta. Maria Benevente; Santiago, la Cariña; the Abbey Church at Veruela; and the Cathedrals of Tarragona and Valencia. Two other grand early churches are remarkable as being but to a slight extent founded upon other examples. These are the cathedrals of Sigüenza and Avila; and they "seem fairly independent, on the one hand, of the early Spanish style of Tarragona, Lérida, Salamanca, and Segovia; and, on the other, of the imported French style of Toledo, Burgos, and Leon." Of the three last-named great churches the palm is awarded to the ancient metropolitan of Spain at Toledo—a city of inexhaustible artistic interest and picturesqueness. "This cathedral equals," says Mr. Street, "if it does not surpass, all other churches of Christendom in the beauty and scale of its plan." But we need not dwell upon a building, the magnificent interior of which, together with a portion of the screen round the choir, we not long since engraved from drawings by Mr. S. Read. We must remark, however, that the plan of the chevet affords a near resemblance (hitherto supposed not to be found) with that rare example of a mediæval architect's own handiwork—the design for a church made by Wilars de Honecort. The next great division of Gothic art (in the fourteenth century) is, though well deserving careful study "even less national and peculiar, and, "on the whole, more akin in feeling and detail to German middle-pointed than French." One example is the chevet of Gerona Cathedral. But this little-known church is otherwise remarkable as possessing a nave (erected in the following century) without aisles, yet of the entire width of the chevet, though the latter contains an aisle round the choir. This nave is the widest-pointed vault in Christendom. Its clear width is 73 ft., and its height is admirably proportioned to this vast dimension. The effect, increased as it is by the smaller arches of the choir and its nave, is described as wondrously fine. A document relating to the construction of this vault is given by Mr. Street, and affords extremely interesting data bearing upon the profession of architect in the Middle Ages. Lastly, the great fifteenth-century churches of Segovia, Salamanca, Astorga, Huesca, Pamplona, and Manresa sufficiently mark the period which produced them as one of the most fertile and artistic the world has ever seen. We would remark, in parting from this valuable work, that we cannot accept all the conclusions to which Mr. Street is drawn by his enthusiastic admiration of everything Gothic, and especially of certain varieties which seem to us ill-suited to our English climate and requirements. We notice, also, a new and apparently invidious use of the word "Pagan," not as opposed in the usual technical sense to the term "Christian," but in place of Renaissance as opposed to Gothic. May not one love and admire genuine Gothic art, and yet remember that true Classic art also gave us what has been aptly described as an "architecture of the soul." There was nothing in early Renaissance so base as much that has been produced and admired among us in the first years of the modern Gothic revival.

Travels and Discoveries in the Levant. By C. T. Newton, M.A. (Day and Son.) These two noble volumes are printed in a manner to delight the eye, they are garnished with excellent maps, and they are profusely illustrated. The letters which they contain are charmingly written, are full of interesting anecdotes and stories of discovery, and refer to places about which one never tires of hearing—about Constantinople, and Athens, and Mytilene, and Rhodes, and Halicarnassus, and Cnidus, and numerous other places, about which lingers still a pleasant odour of antiquity, which seem haunted still by the spirit of departed Hellas, and to which still clings an atmosphere of classical romance. Sebastopol, too, and the Crimean War are touched upon; and Prince Alfred and the Euryalus are subjects of discourse. The woodcuts, moreover, are charming; but it is impossible here to give an idea of them. Of the pleasant style, however (learned discovery to the contrary notwithstanding), in which the letters are written it is possible to convey a notion. Let us see how Mr. Newton playfully describes the dangers and misconceptions to which the philosophical coin-collector is liable. "Blunt is a capital ally," he says, "particularly for coins. He goes about all sorts of unfrequented streets hunting for antiquities, and drawing down on himself thereby many angry looks and inquiries from jealous husbands and duennas. 'It is not coins you are looking for, pallikari,' said an old hag to him the other day, 'you are looking for black eyes.'" So prone is woman to imagine she is always uppermost in men's minds; and the Mytileniote beldam is so besotted that she is unable to distinguish the scientific from the dissolute physiognomy, a Monkbarns from a Don Juan. Let us further see how Mr. Newton introduces us to the mysteries of the picturesque Rhodian costume. He was observed by some fair (that is to say, female) Rhodians to be writing. He explained that he "was taking notes of their dresses," whereupon, he remarks, "an aged crone stepped forward on behalf of her sex, and initiated me into the arcana of Rhodian toilette with a frankness which left nothing for the imagination." Now "a Rhodian contadina may be thus described: her head is covered with a fez cap of red cloth, outside which a shawl is wound round the crown of the head, outside the shawl again a muslin veil hangs down from the back of the neck in true antique style, with an inner veil appearing underneath it. On the front of the head is a gold or silver ornament of a triangular form fastened to the shawl; in the centre is a large garnet, and from the base of the triangle hang ornaments suspended by little chains. This kind of ornament is clearly of Byzantine origin. So much for the head-dress. With regard to the rest, the innermost garment is a shift, falling nearly to the ankles; then comes a garment without sleeves, reaching about half way down the leg, under the skirt of which the edge of a pair of trousers is just visible. Over this is worn a jacket with sleeves. Round the waist is a girdle, loosely and gracefully tied, though I cannot say that it had any of the magic influence which Homer attributed to the cestus of Venus. Quaint Turkish slippers, turned up at the toes, and clean white stockings complete this dress, in which, as in most things in the Archipelago, there is a mixture of classical and Turkish fashions." N.B. The Rhodian women, whose dress struck Mr. Newton as being so beautiful and picturesque, were themselves by no means well-favoured.

Homer's Iliad. By Edwin W. Simcox. (Jackson, Walford, and Hodder.) Of all hopeless, soul-wearing, desolating toil none has hitherto seemed to us so hopeless, soul-wearing, and desolating as that which the Grecian myth assigns as punishment to the Danaids, whose never-ending penal servitude it was to endeavour to fill with water a bottomless tub. Nothing, moreover, so excites our compassionate indignation and causes us acute heartache as to gaze upon profitless labour. That fishermen should toil all night and take nothing is pitiful enough; but that a scholar should waste his mind and body on naught is, to our thinking, still more distressing. We deeply sympathise with Mr. Simcox upon the disappointment which we feel certain must wait upon his herculean efforts; we give him all honour for his creditable attempt to put before his readers "what 'the blind bard of Chios' rugged isle' really is;" but we feel bound to say that we are afraid he has laboured in vain. The points in which he differs from other translators are chiefly these: his verse is hexameter; "the names of the deities and heroes are given in the spelling of the original, so far as this has been found possible without trespassing on the ludicrous;" and "the translation also proceeds nearly line for line with the Greek, and, failing this, sentence for sentence." Now singular ideas about the hexameter have got abroad. Not long ago there was a dispute between two gentlemen whether were or were not a hexameter. It is possible, by doing violence to your conscience and your uvula, to read the line as a hexameter; but it does not seem to have struck either of the disputants that the line has exactly the same rhythm as, and exactly one syliable more than, each line in Locksley Hall—i.e., that it falls into the metre called Trochaic Tetrameter Acatalectic. Mr. Simcox seems to have the same views as the pro-hexameter disputant; he calls that which by violating all principles you can scan hexametrically a hexameter. And sometimes we have been unable to make hexameters out of his verses even by taking the most shameful liberties. Lord Derby calls the English hexameter a "pestilential heresy;" and we are so decidedly of his Lordship's opinion that we would rather endure a week's compulsory exercise upon the treadmill than read the "Iliad" in even such English hexameters as Longfellow can write. We cannot help fearing, therefore, that all Mr. Simcox's conscientious strivings after unusual accuracy will be rendered of no avail by the general sense of injury, notwithstanding some excellent passages, produced in the reader's mind by a few score lines of his metre.

> Fathoms deep in Norman waters lies the good ship Alabama,

Historic Pictures. By A. Baillie Cochrane, M.P. (Hurst and Blackett.) An elegant mind passes its leisure in elegant occupation; and nothing has from time immemorial, from the days of Solomon to the time of Mæcenas, and from the age of Mæcenas to the reign of Victoria, seemed fitter occupation than literature. Mr. Cochrane may have opened no new storehouse of literary treasure, but the gems he has chosen are bright and ever-valuable, and he has put them in a graceful setting. His manner of spending the last recess from the labours of Parliament gave him pleasure, and the results of what was to him agreeable study are likely to prove equally agreeable to discursive readers. The subjects of his "Historic Pictures" are "The Spanish Marriages" (from the early part of the seventeenth century to the ministry of Guizot, when we were nearly at war with Louis Philippe, and to a late "interesting event" at Kingston-on-Thames), "The Impeachment of Strafford," "The Mayflower," and (in the second of two volumes) "The Monastery of La Trappe" and "The Conciergerie"—not new, assuredly, but not too threadbare to be highly interesting when they are sketched by so skilful a hand as that of Mr. Baillie Cochrane.

Cawnpore. By G. O. Trevelyan. (Macmillan and Co.) We have here the ever-memorable, ever-sad story of Cawnpore, from the pen of the brilliant "Competition-wallah." What need of many words? The power of the author is well known: he has taken vast pains to secure accuracy; his subject is one which Englishmen and Englishwomen will never find uninteresting; he not only tells a tale, but corrects misstatements; he endeavours to give the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Perhaps a little more simplicity, a little less comparison drawn from classical myths, would have saved the style from an occasional appearance of affectation and artificiality.

My Life and Labours in London. By James Inches Hillocks. (William Freeman.) Great care is taken to let one know that her Majesty accepted a copy of this book. Now the Queen's gracious condescension towards those who have struggled against adversity and who labour (as they suppose) for the good of their fellow-creatures is notorious; but it does not follow that every book which she accepts is of great, or indeed any, literary merit. Mr. Hillocks appears to have suffered much, and we condole with him; to have escaped from many troubles, and we congratulate him; to have overcome difficulties, and we laud him; to have toiled and to toil that he may save souls, and we honour and thank him. But we can see neither novelty, nor intellectual excellence, nor superiority of workmanship in his performance. It is not at all certain that he sets about his "Master's business" in the way most likely to be successful, but it is certain that a report of the City Mission would give us nearly, if not quite, all the facts he has to set forth. It may be our own wicked heart, also, though we earnestly hope not, but something whispers to us that the tone is sometimes a little too "umble," and when that idea is once started the mind involuntarily reverts to Mr. Uriah Heep.

Ye Old City. By "Aleph." (W. H. Collingridge.) A series of articles reprinted from the City Press. They are of the nature of gossip, and relate to places, or persons, or things connected now or formerly with the city of London. They are readable enough, but it does not strike us that the author has found out anything very new or that his papers are of much antiquarian value. However, the publisher says that they, "for their literary and antiquarian excellence, merit some more lasting home than the columns of a newspaper;" and he has, accordingly, provided them with a very neat resting-place between two very neat covers. The volume, it should be added, is embellished with many graphic illustrations.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

WAR OFFICE.

6th Dragoon Guards: Lieut. J. Blake and Cornet A. C. S. Barkly to be Lieutenants; H. Bornley to be Cornet.

Royal Artillery: Lieut. A. Wynch and Second Capt. and Brevet Major H. C. S. Dyer to be Second Captains; Riding Master T. Ritchie and Serg.-Major C. Jones to be Riding-Masters.

Royal Engineers: Cadet P. S. G. Reid to be Lieutenant.

Military Train: Lieut. R. Bruce to be Captain.

6th Foot: C. Wollaston to be Ensign. 12th: Lieut. H. Nesbitt to be Captain; Ensign W. B. Ferris to be Lieutenant; Cadet A. E. Gordon to be Ensign. 14th: Capt. J. B. H. Rainier to be Captain; Ensign T. F. Carlyon to be Lieutenant; C. O'Hara Trench to be Ensign. 21st: Lieut. G. Gilmour to be Captain; Ensign F. W. Barr to be Lieutenant; W. B. Tredennick to be Ensign. 25th: Lieut. W. G. Thomas to be Adjutant. 31rd: Major T. D. Cockburn to be Major; Capt. T. B. Fanshawe to be Major; Lieut. W. Bally to be Captain; Ensign C. A. Carthew to be Lieutenant; W. L. L. Downes to be Ensign. 39th: Lieut. F. H. Chambers to be Captain; Ensign T. Boydell to be Lieutenant; A. M. Le Marchant T. Le Marchant to be Ensign. 41st: Capt. W. Allan to be Major; Lieut. R. Sadler to be Captain; Ensign E. Richardson to be Lieutenant; J. W. Thackeray to be Ensign. 43rd: Lieut. H. C. Talbot to be Captain; Ensign F. S. Armfelt to be Lieutenant; H. N. Sherbrooke to be Ensign. 47th: Ensign L. De T. Prevost to be Lieutenant; J. W. Sandilands to be Ensign. 66th: Lieut. J. H. Mardon to be Captain; Ensign C. L. Whitty to be Lieutenant; Cadet M. H. D. Nepean to be Ensign. 70th: Lieut. H. Leake to be Captain; Ensign C. W. Howard to be Lieutenant; Cadet J. King to be Ensign; Lieut. A. S. Gilbert to be Instructor of Musketry. 84th: Lieuts. F. E. R. Wilson, H. Arkwright, and J. M. T. Simpson to be Captains; Ensigns A. H. Luck, E. R. Bromhead, and R. W. Peckitt to be Lieutenants; Ensigns E. P. R. Hamilton, W. H. Perrott, and Sir E. A. Waller, Bart., to be Ensigns. 107th: Ensign E. A. Down to be Lieutenant.

Rifle Brigade: Ensign W. M. W. C. Burrell to be Lieutenant; L. Egerton, Viscount Cole, to be Ensign.

1st West India Regiment: Lieut. W. F. Smithwick to be Captain; H. H. Gilbert to be Ensign.

DEPOT BATTALION.—Quartermaster J. Connor to be Quartermaster.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.—A. Johnston to be Staff Assistant-Surgeon.

BREVET.—The undermentioned promotions to take place consequent on the decease of General Sir J. W. Guise, Bart., G.C.B.:—Lieut.-Gen. Sir C. R. O'Donnell to be General; Major-Gen. the Hon. A. A. Dalzell to be Lieutenant-General; Brevet-Col. H. R. Jones, C.B., to be Major-General; Major W. H. D. Fitzgerald to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. H. T. Richmond to be Major. Quartermaster W. Browne to have the honorary rank of Captain.

ADMIRALTY.

The following flag promotions have been made in consequence of the death of Rear-Admiral T. Henderson, on the 10th inst.:—Capt. G. W. D. O'Callaghan to be Rear-Admiral; retired Capts. W. K. Stephens, G. H. P. White, and W. W. Hornby to be retired Rear-Admirals, under the provisions of the Orders in Council of Aug. 1, 1860, and July 9, 1864.

The following flag promotions have been made in consequence of the death of Vice-Admiral Sir J. M'Dougall, K.C.B., on the 12th inst.:—Rear-Admiral the Hon. E. Howard to be Vice-Admiral on the reserved list; Rear-Admiral Sir A. Milne, K.C.B., to be Vice-Admiral; Capt. C. Wise to be Rear-Admiral; retired Rear-Admiral J. Monday to be retired Vice-Admiral; retired Capt. D. Peat to be retired Rear-Admiral, under the provisions of the Orders in Council of Aug. 1, 1860, and July 9, 1864.

Commander T. Heard has been placed on the retired list with the rank of Captain.

Mr. D. Carr and Mr. G. W. Robins to be Engineers in her Majesty's Fleet.

His Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief will hold a Levée at one o'clock on Wednesday next, the 3rd of May.

The ninth company of Royal Engineers, Captain Rimington, stationed for some time past at Woolwich, in command of Captain Decie, are under orders to hold themselves in readiness for the Mauritius, and will be relieved at Woolwich by the eighth or twelfth company.

The Queen has given orders for the appointment of General Charles Menzies, of the Royal Marine Artillery, and Major-General Charles Warren, C.B., to be Ordinary Members of the Military Division of the Second Class, or Knights Commanders, of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath.

The Victoria cross has been awarded to Mr. Boyes, midshipman; Thomas Pride, captain of the after-guard; and William Seeley, ordinary seaman of her Majesty's ship Euryalus, for conspicuous bravery shown in the attack of the forts of Simonosaki on Sept. 6 last.

Captain and Brevet Major Pasley, R.E., who acts as agent in this country for the Colonial Government of Melbourne, has bought of the War Department a complete battery of six 40-pounder guns, which are ready for shipment in Woolwich Arsenal, for the Colonial War Department at Victoria.

On Thursday week the Duke of Somerset, the First Lord of the Admiralty, and Admiral Sir F. W. Grey, one of the junior Lords, visited the works of the Manchester Ordnance Company, better known as Mr. Whitworth's gun-factory. They then spent several hours in the factory, and again yesterday week.

The Armstrong and Whitworth Special Committee were engaged at Woolwich, yesterday week, in the final trial of one of the competitive guns—a 70-pounder muzzle-loading shunt gun, which has already fired 1600 rounds at Shoeburyness. Notwithstanding a serious rent in the inner tube, from the effects of the firing at Shoeburyness, the gun has borne 200 rounds, with charges of 10 lb. of powder and 70 lb. shot, and appears likely to endure the 800 rounds—the service trial—to which the gun is ordered to be subjected in the cells at Woolwich.

Major-General Warde, C.B., Commandant, accompanied by his staff, began, on Monday, his half-yearly inspection of the troops and the several departments of Woolwich Garrison. The General visited in succession the general military hospital, the military prison, the regimental schools, &c. The inspection was continued during the week. The several companies comprising the Woolwich division of Royal Marine Life Infantry, with the band of the force, marched from the barracks to the common on Monday afternoon, and occupied about two hours in various evolutions.

Field Marshal the Duke of Cambridge, General Commanding-in-Chief of her Majesty's Army, made his annual official inspection of the troops stationed in and around Portsmouth on Saturday last. Before dismissing the troops to their quarters, commanding officers were called to the front; and the Duke, addressing them, expressed the gratification he felt with the appearance and behaviour of the different corps on the ground, and more particularly so considering that the inspection had taken place so early in the season, and before time could have been taken advantage of, by summer drills, to prepare the men for such an occasion. To the batteries of field artillery his Royal Highness paid the highest possible compliment on the condition of the horses, the knowledge of drill evinced by the men, and their general appearance of efficiency. The 52nd Regiment, he observed, had but just returned from India; but he was very much pleased with their appearance. The Royal Marine Artillery and Light Infantry had always been known to be fine bodies of men, but he had never seen them look to greater advantage than that day. With all he had seen, he said, in conclusion, he had been very much gratified. The troops were then dismissed to their quarters, and the Duke and Lord William Paulet, accompanied by their Staff, rode round the line of batteries being erected on each flank of Southsea Castle to command the entrance to Portsmouth Harbour channel from Spithead or the sea.

THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.

EARL DE GREY ON THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.

A meeting of the friends and supporters of the Yorkshire Rifle Association was held at Leeds on Thursday week. The chair was occupied by Earl de Grey, Secretary for War.

The noble chairman said the present gathering had been convened for the purpose of considering what measures should be adopted to place the Yorkshire Rifle Association in the position which such an institution ought to occupy in that great county. The fact of the limited attendance that day showed that the objects and requirements of the association were not generally known, rather than that the service which it rendered to the public was not duly appreciated—for he could not believe that Yorkshiremen less appreciated the association than was the case with respect to similar societies in other counties. From the establishment of the volunteer force to its present organisation, rifle associations began to spring into existence, and every county had found out the practical value of such institutions. The parent society—the National Rifle Association—commenced with small beginnings, but had gradually so extended its sphere of usefulness that it now occupied the highest position in the country. He attached great value to such county societies, principally in consideration of the fact that they, in their annual shooting competitions, provoked a healthy spirit of emulation. At a meeting like the present, it was not for him to dilate at all upon the importance of this great national movement, which had given us, during the last few years, so great and important an addition to our means of national defence. That movement sprung from the spontaneous feeling on the part of the people of England that these means of defence ought to be extended. That movement, so originated, had, he was proud to think, been supported and encouraged by successive Governments; it commenced under the Administration of Lord Derby, and it had been fostered under that of Lord Palmerston. But, though the movement had had this encouragement from Government and from Parliament, he believed that no single circumstance had had a greater influence upon its extension and development than the existence of rifle associations. Whenever he had had an opportunity he had always expressed the opinion that it was unwise to neglect drill for rifle-shooting; but, at the same time, it could not be expected that volunteers would be able to beat the regular troops of the country with respect to drill, whilst, on the other hand, they might be able to excel them in rifle-shooting. Such being his idea on the subject, he regretted to say that the Yorkshire Rifle Association was not in the position it ought to be. The Council of the Society had done its duty; and, with regard to the amount of money spent by them in prizes, he believed only two counties in England had spent more. But, unfortunately, the efforts of those gentlemen who had the management of the association had not been supported by the county at large; though he could not help hoping that this would no longer be the case when the object and wants of the society were more generally known. They could not all become volunteers, but they could all show their readiness to assist and encourage the movement by coming forward with their subscriptions. The Lancashire Association received no less a sum than £1000 from subscribers alone; whilst in Yorkshire, only about £300 from this source would be available during the present year. His Lordship concluded with an earnest appeal in favour of the association.

Lord Londesborough moved—"That this meeting is of opinion that the volunteer force of this country was much strengthened and encouraged by the maintenance of this and similar institutions."—Major Harrison (Harrogate) seconded the proposition, which was adopted.—Lord Wenlock gave a statement of the affairs of the society and moved a resolution declaring it to be desirable that more prizes should be offered at the annual competitions, and that an effort should be made to secure further donations and annual subscriptions.—Mr. Leonard Thompson seconded the proposition, which was also adopted.—By other resolutions, supported by Colonel Akroyd, of Halifax; Major Morrison, M.P.; Colonel Haworth, of Hull; Colonel Hirst, of Bradford; and other gentlemen, it was agreed to invoke the assistance and influence of the Lords Lieutenant, the Deputy Lieutenants, and the press of the county.

NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION'S PRIZE MEETING, 1865.

The following are the by-laws for the forthcoming meeting of the National Rifle Association:—

1. There shall be six ranges, viz.—200 yards, 500 yards, 600 yards, 800 yards, 900 yards, and 1000 yards.

2. The size of the third and first class targets will be the same as in 1863. The second class targets will be 6 ft. by 6, as in 1864.

3. There shall be square bull's-eyes and centres at all ranges, bull's-eyes counting 4; centres, 3; outers, 2.

4. For volunteers the shooting at 200 yards shall be off the shoulder. At the remaining five ranges it shall be from the knee, Hythe position, unless off the shoulder.

5. For all comers, the shooting at 200 yards, as well as at the other ranges, shall, unless otherwise specified, be in any position; but no fixed artificial rests shall be allowed, unless otherwise specified.

6. Unless otherwise specified, the prizes open to all comers may be shot for with any description of rifle not exceeding 10 lb. in weight.

7. Unless otherwise specified, no magnifying sights shall be allowed.

8. No hair-triggers shall be allowed.

9. No front aperture-sights, such as solid discs or bushes pierced in the centre, shall be allowed.

10. In all shooting for prizes open to volunteers only, the minimum pull of trigger shall be 6 lb.

11. Prizes will be given for rifles classified as follows:—1. Large bore: (a) Long Enfield; (b) Any rifle of bonâ fide Government pattern as used by the rank and file of volunteer corps, and carrying ·577 ammunition; (c) Any rifle under 10 lb. which can carry Government ·577 bore ammunition. 2. Any bore; (a) Any rifle under 10 lb., with any description of sights, telescope excepted; (b) Any rifle under 9¾ lb. full stocked, with metal ramrods and military sights. Pull of trigger 6 lb. Mechanically-fitting ramrods will not be allowed.

The following general rules will guide the council in deciding as to what constitutes military sights:—

Foresight—1. To be fixed to the barrel, and incapable of adjustment. 2. All rifles in this class to admit of a bayonet, suited for military purposes, being readily and firmly fixed without injury to the foresight. 3. If knife-edge, transverse section a triangle, of which the height is not more than one and a half times the base, not undercut. 4. No bead-sight, unless covered by a strong shade, not less than four tenths of an inch in diameter, inside measurement, firmly fixed to the barrel, and incapable of being removed. 5. The outside form of the barrel may be cylindrical or polygonal.

Backsight.—1. to be attached to the barrel in front of the lock. 2. No transverse adjustment nor any other movable adjustment, except a hinged flap and a sliding-bar, to be moved by hand only, without screws, racks, or any other mechanical appliances. 3. Graduations (on the Vernier principle or otherwise) may be marked on any part of the backsight. 4. The sliding-bar to be with or without vertical lines or apertures, and the upper edge either straight or with a V of any angle, or a rectangular notch, or a combination of these forms. 5. The outside measurement of the bed on which the flap or leaf rests must not exceed one inch. (c.) Any rifle under 10 lb., with telescope affixed, the weight of the telescope not included.

12. Ties.—When the firing takes place at more than one distance, ties will be decided as follow:—1. By the score made at the longest distance in the competition. 2. If still a tie, by the inverse order of shots counting backwards by twos from the last shot to the first. 3. If still a tie, by firing five shots at the longest distance in the competition. When the firing takes place at one distance only—1. By the inverse order of shots counting backwards by twos from the last shot to the first. 2. If still a tie, by the least number of outers. 3. If still a tie, by the greatest number of bull's-eyes. 4. If still a tie, by firing a single shot at a "carton" target. 5. In all competitions, competitors making all bull's-eyes shall shoot off the ties at a "carton" target. N.B. Ties in the second stage Queen's will be decided by the scores made in first stage; if still a tie, by firing five shots at 1000 yards.

13. Unless otherwise specified, in all competitions for prizes at 200, 500, and 600 yards, restricted to volunteers or to rifles of bonâ fide Government pattern used by the rank and file of volunteer corps, none but Government ammunition, as supplied on the ground from the National Rifle Association magazine, shall be used. Any competitor infringing this rule shall be disqualified from competing for any prizes during the remainder of the meeting.

14. Two sighting shots shall be allowed to each competitor at each distance in every competition, on payment of one shilling per shot. These shots shall be fired in order, when the squad is formed, and at the target about to be used in the competition. No sighting shot shall be allowed after the squad has commenced the competition. Ties shall be allowed two sighting shots, at one shilling per shot, and at the target at which the tie is about to be shot off.

15. Sighting shots may be fired in any position.

16. Competitors shall, if required, submit their rifles for inspection before, during, or after a match.

17. No competitor shall, unless otherwise specified, enter more than once for any prize.

18. All entries shall close on the day and at the hour fixed for the commencement of each competition.

19. All competitors for open volunteer or all-comers' prizes who enter their names and pay the entrance-fees at the secretary's office on or before the 17th of June will be squadded, and due notice will be given before the meeting of the probable day and hour when their squad will shoot. Subsequent entries will be squadded on the ground. All who enter on or before the 17th of June must at the same time state to what county they belong.

20. All entries made after the 1st of July shall be considered as post-entries, and an additional charge of 25 per cent shall be made on such post-entries.

21. In the case of post-entries the council cannot undertake to give competitors timely notice of the hour fixed for the shooting of their squads, and they cannot hold themselves responsible should competitors who enter after the first of July find it impossible to shoot before the close of the competition.

22. The squadding shall be by counties. Competitors must adhere to the same county in every competition throughout the meeting.

23. Competitors who have paid their entrance-fees, but are unavoidably prevented from attending at the prize meeting, shall have such entrance-fees returned to them after the conclusion of the meeting, provided that application has been made by letter to the secretary of the association not later than the day previous to that fixed for the competition for which they had entered.

24. Each competitor for the Queen's prize, first stage, shall be required to bring with him to Wimbledon a certificate stating that he is a bonâ fide efficient volunteer, and selected by his corps as one of its representatives in that competition. Name, rank, and corps must be entered in the certificate, which shall be signed by the officer commanding.

25. The winners of money prizes shall, as in previous years, have the option of taking them in money or in kind.

26. All winners of money prizes shall declare to the secretary their intention to take their prize in money or in kind.

27. Those who wish to take their prize in money shall be paid on the ground, on presenting at the Finance Department a certificate signed by the chief of the Statistical Department, and countersigned by the secretary. N.B. Prize-winners are particularly requested to apply for a certificate at the Statistical Department previous to the conclusion of the meeting.

28. The extra prizes shall be awarded according to the order in which they are won, and no selection shall be allowed; the winners can, however, make exchanges amongst themselves after these prizes have been distributed.

29. All members of volunteer corps competing for prizes restricted to volunteers shall be required to appear in the authorised uniform of their corps.

30. Any competitor discharging his rifle without having previously obtained permission from the officer or person in charge of the firing point shall be fined 10s., and in default of payment be disqualified from competing for any prizes during the remainder of the meeting.

31. No paid volunteer or musketry-instructor who has served in the army or militia shall be qualified to shoot for prizes open to volunteers only.

32. An umpire shall be appointed by the council.

33. All disputed points shall be decided by the umpire, whose decision shall be final, and entered in a book kept for that purpose.

By order, E. ST. JOHN-MILDMAY, Secretary.

FRONT APERTURE SIGHTS.

What are ordinarily known as "front aperture sights"—viz., solid discs or bushes pierced in the centre—are forbidden at the prize meetings of the National Rifle Association.

N.B. What may be called thin skeleton aperture sights, such as were in use before the passing of this rule, will be admitted; but all other descriptions of aperture sights which, in the opinion of the council, seem intended to evade the rule, shall be disqualified.

By order, E. ST. JOHN-MILDMAY, Secretary.

PRIZES.

The following is the preliminary list of prizes:—

Her Majesty the Queen's, the National Rifle Association gold medal and gold badge,*£50.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales's, *£100.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge's, *£50.

NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION PRIZES.

The Queen's, first stage*.—Thirty Rigby rifles—aggregate value, £600; £100 money prizes—aggregate value, £420; the National Rifle Association silver medal and the silver badge—aggregate value, £50; and fifty-eigth badges—aggregate value, £30.

The Albert, first stage,* aggregate value, £720.
The Albert, second stage,* value £100.
The Alexandra, first stage * aggregate value £500.
The Alexandra, second stage,* £50.
The any-rifle association cup,* value £50.
The Enfield Association cup,* value £50.
The any-rifle Wimbledon cup,* value £100.
The Enfield Wimbledon cup,* value £100.
The carbine prizes* †, the telescope prizes* †, and the Swiss target prizes* †.

The Elcho challenge shield.*
The international volunteer challenge trophy,* value £1000.
The China challenge cup,* value £525.
The Chancellor's plate,* value £100.
Public Schools—The Ashburton challenge shield,* value £140.
Public Schools—The Spencer cup,* value £10.
The St. George's challenge vase,* value £250.
The St. George's jewels,* aggregate value £25.
The St. George's money prizes,* aggregate value £61.
The dragon cup * (St. George's, second stage), value £50.
The Saturday Review, £50.
The Daily Telegraph,* £50.
The Volunteer Service Gazette.
The Henry Peek,* £52 10s.
The Directors of the London and South Western Railway Company's, £50.
Mr. Bass's, £50.
The Dudley,* £50.
Captain Horatio Ross's, £25.
Mr. Westley Richards'.†
The London Armoury Company's prizes, value £51.
Mr. George Smith's, value £117.
Mr. Herbert Watkins'.†
Mr. Steward's, value £26 5s.
Mr. Thomas Ross's, value £14.
Messrs. Burrow's (of Great Malvern) prizes.†
Messrs. Watherston and Son's (12, Pall-mall East), value, £21 10s.
Messrs. Mappin, Webb, and Co. (electroplate silver breakfast service), value £52 10s.
Messrs. Elkington's, value £21 10s.
Mr. Murcott's, value £20.
Messrs. Richards and Co.'s targets, value £7 10s.
Messrs. Stevens and Son's* (miniature billiard table), value £21.
Messrs. Howitt and Co.'s (of Holborn) (a library table), value £10 10s.
The ladies' consolation prizes* †.

* Annual. † Value not specified.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

THE CZAREWITCH.

His Imperial Highness Nicholas Alexandrowitch, Czarewitch and Hereditary Grand Duke of Russia, Major-General, Ataman of all the Cossack troops, and Colonel of various other regiments, was the eldest son of Alexander II., present Czar and Emperor of Russia, by his consort, Maria Alexandrowna, formerly Princess Mary of Hesse, only daughter of Louis II., Grand Duke of Hesse, and was first cousin of his Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse, Princess Alice's husband, and of the young Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, whose death occurred just nine days before his own. The Czarewitch was born September 20, 1843, and became Heir Apparent to the throne of Russia on the demise of his grandfather, the Emperor Nicholas, on the 2nd of March, 1855. The young prince was affianced to Princess Mary Dagmar, younger sister of the Princess of Wales, and daughter of Christian IX., King of Denmark. Princess Dagmar was present at the deathbed of her illustrious betrothed, and the last interview between them was most affecting. The Czar, his father, the Empress, his mother, and his brothers, were also present, as well as some of the highest authorities of the Russian empire. The Czarewitch expired at Nice on the 24th inst., and the premature demise of so promising and amiable a prince is not only a deep affliction to his affianced consort and family and to Russia, but it has also caused a feeling of sorrow throughout Europe. The Grand Duke Alexander becomes Czarewitch by his brother's demise. This is not the first time that a Muscovite Prince has died after betrothment and before marriage. The Czar Peter II., the last of the male line of Romanoff (the present Imperial house being of the female line), was affianced with great ceremonial, on the 30th of November (St. Andrew's Day), 1729, at Moscow, to Princess Catherine Alexiewna, daughter of his favourite Minister, Prince Dolgorouky. The nuptials were to take place on the 22nd of January, 1730; but the Prince was seized with smallpox on the 17th of that month, and died on the 29th of January, 1730, in the flower of his youth. He was one of the most amiable and popular monarchs of Russia, and was universally lamented.

THE GRAND DUCHESS OF MECKLENBURG-SCHWERIN.

The sadly premature death of Anne, Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, second consort of the reigning Grand Duke, Frederick Francis II., occurred on the 15th inst., to the great sorrow of her husband, family, and the public. Previously, on the 7th inst., the Grand Duchess gave birth to a daughter, immediately after which event grave apprehensions for her life arose, though for some days a great improvement took place in her condition; but a sudden change brought on a fatal result, which has happened within a twelvemonth of her marriage. Her Highness Anne Maria Wilhelmina Elizabeth Matilda, Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, was the only daughter of Prince Charles William Louis of Hesse, by his consort, Elizabeth, daughter of William, Prince of Prussia, and was sister of his Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse, the husband of Princess Alice of Great Britain, and first cousin of the Czarewitch just dead. Her Highness the Grand Duchess was born on May 25, 1843, and was married on May 12, 1864, to Frederick Francis, reigning Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin.

COLONEL JAMES EDWARD VERNER.

This gentleman, whose death has just occurred, a scion of the old Scotch and Irish family of Verner, and nephew of the present Sir William Verner, Bart., was the eldest son of Thomas Verner, Esq., of Church Hill, in the county of Armagh, by his wife, Elizabeth, second daughter of Sir Edward May, Bart., and sister of Anna, Marchioness of Donegal. He early in life entered the service of the East India Company, in the Bengal Army, and went through a distinguished military career of thirty-two years, rising to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in 1861. He was also Colonel of the 28th Middlesex (London Irish) Volunteers, which gallant corps in a great measure owes its efficiency to the Colonel's untiring efforts; his death is a great loss to that force, and is much deplored by all who knew him. The Colonel's two next brothers are Major William Verner, of Windsor, in the county of Armagh, and Captain Thomas Verner, of Lilliput, in the county of Antrim; and his sister Clara was married to Robert Tower, Esq., of Shenfield Place, Essex.

MRS. THEODOSIA TROLLOPE.

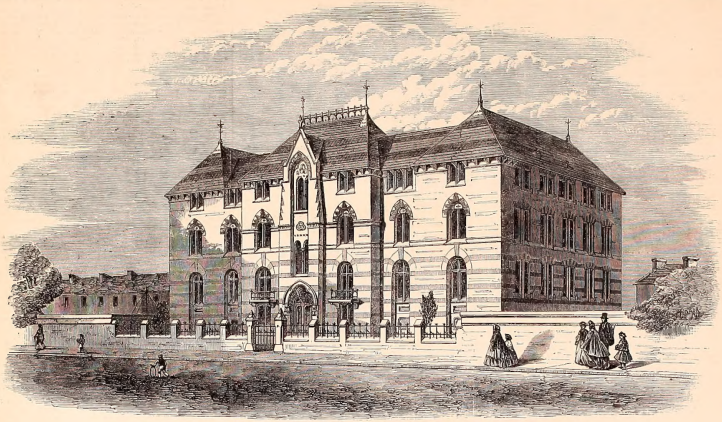
The death of this gifted lady, the wife of the highly successful and meritorious writer, Thomas Adolphus Trollope, Esq., occurred, on the 14th inst., at her husband's villa, Piazza del Indepenza, Florence, where Mr. and Mrs. Trollope have resided for many years past, and where they have enjoyed great popularity among the Italian and other society of that capital. Mrs. Theodosia Trollope was a native of Devonshire, and was the daughter of Joseph Garrow, Esq., of the Braddons, Torquay. Reminiscences of her delightful Devonshire home formed a graceful article in the pages of All the Year Round a few months since. She was also the author of an able translation of Nicolini's tragedy, "Arnaldo da Brescia," a work she executed before her marriage; and she wrote some recently-published letters in the Athenæum on the social aspects of the Italian Revolution. She was a contributor to the Cornhill Magazine, in which appeared her series of articles on the modern Italian poets, and by her death these sketches remain unfinished. Several of the Italian journals, having black borders in mourning for her demise, pay ardent tributes to the memory of one who laboured so much for the country of her adoption. The Gazzetta del Popolo, published in Florence, says:—"The foreign friends of Italy who do battle for Italy with brains and hand are as dear to us as fellow-citizens, and their death afflicts us like the death of one of ourselves. In announcing to-day the premature death of Theodosia Trollope, which took place yesterday in Florence, we do not hesitate to say that it is a sad loss for Italy." And the Nazione of Florence adds:—"It is with the deepest sorrow that we have to register another loss for Italy. English born, she had Italian sentiments that at once enabled her to understand and appreciate the noble aspirations of the nation which she had selected as her home." Mrs. Trollope was interred in the same cemetery at Florence where lie the remains of Elizabeth Barrett Browning. Mrs. Trollope leaves an only child, Beatrice.

At the summer exhibition of the Queensland Horticultural and Agricultural Society, held at Brisbane, on the 30th of December last, there were exhibited arrowroot, coffee-berries, sugar, chicory, silk, and Sea Island and New Orleans cotton, as products of the colony.

The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce have commissioned their chairman to proceed to Algiers on a mission of commercial inquiry. Earl Russell has indorsed the movement by furnishing the commissioner with a letter of introduction to the British Consul at Algiers, who will, doubtless, put him in the way of obtaining all possible commercial information.

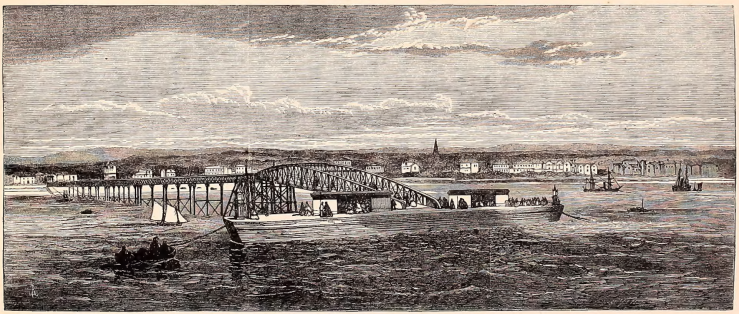
A Parliamentary return recently issued shows that the sum standing to the credit of the Post-office Savings Banks' Fund, on the 31st of December last, at the National Debt Office, was £4,995,663; and on the same day there was in the hands of the Postmaster-General a balance of £18,547—making, in all, £5,014,210, to meet a liability of £4,993,123. The repayments last year amounted to £1,834,849; and the cash received from depositors during the year was £3,350,084. The charges and expenses incurred for the banks last year amounted to £45,856.

THE NEW LANDING-STAGE OF THE MERSEY FERRY.



A NEW ferry across the Mersey, between Toxteth Park, Liverpool, and the opposite part of the Cheshire shore, which is henceforth to be called "New Ferry," has been established by the Mersey River Steam-boat Company (Limited), and was opened for traffic by the Mayor of Liverpool on Monday, the 4th inst. The works at each end of the ferry are worthy of some notice. On the Liverpool side of the Mersey the permanent structure belonging to the Mersey River Steam-boat Company consists of a floating landing-stage, which measures 120 ft. in length by 30 ft. in breadth. The stage is securely moored in the river by strong mooring chains a short distance seaward of the Harrington Dock wall, with which it is connected by a well-constructed wrought-iron bridge 150 ft. in length, and which weighs about sixty tons. The stage, the deck of which is supported on a pontoon made of wrought iron, which rises and falls with the tide, was constructed by Messrs. Bowdler, Chaffers, and Co., iron ship builders, of Seacombe. The bridge, which is in every respect convenient and highly seviceable, was made by Messrs. H. Grayson and Son, Liverpool, from designs by and under the superintendence of Mr. Douglas Hebson, engineer, of that town; both structures and their concomitants being admirably suited to the purposes of an extensive ferry business, and fully provided with lights and other conveniences. The pier or landing-stage on the Cheshire side of the Mersey, at New Ferry, which is at once elegant and commodious, has been constructed from the designs of Mr. James Brunlees, of Victoria-street, Westminster, who has most successfully carried out works of a similar character at Morecambe Bay, in viaducts on the line of the Ulverston and Lancaster Railway, and is now about to construct a railway viaduct across the Solway Firth on the same principle. The piers now about to be erected at New Brighton and Rhyl are also from designs by the same engineer. The New Ferry Pier, of which we give an Illustration, commences from the land end with three rows of wrought-iron lattice-girders, 60 ft. in length and 4 ft. 6 in. in depth, supported by cast-iron columns, of 12 in. external diameter, securely braced with angle-irons; the platform, of four-inch planking, being laid on the bottom flange of the girders, which thus form a substantial parapet. A centre girder divides the whole width of the roadway into two, each of which is 9 ft. wide. The pier proper is 850 ft. in length, consisting of fourteen bays or spans, each 60 ft. in length. At the end of this is a cluster of piles to form a steadying point of attachment for the top of the movable bridge, the end of which is connected with a floating pontoon by suspension-chains hanging from a wrought-iron frame. The bridge itself is 158 ft. long and 9 ft. wide. The pontoon forming the landing-stage is 100 ft. long and 22 ft. wide, and is moored up and down the river by four 1½-inch mooring-chains, which can be controlled by proper gearing on the deck. This elegant fabric, in which lightness of structure has been skilfully combined with strength, was erected by Messrs. William Galloway and Sons, of Manchester, under the management of Mr. H. Hooper, who, as resident engineer, superintended and carried out the work. The pier and its landing-stage have both been erected at the sole expense of Mr. R. A. Macfie.

The déjeuner provided to celebrate the opening was laid out in a large marquee pitched close to the pier. Mr. Macfie and Messrs. Galloway and Sons bore the expense of the entertainment. The company was very numerous, and included a number of ladies. Mr. Macfie occupied the chair, Mr. Matthew Gregson (the chairman of the board of directors) taking the vice-chair. Among the guests were his Worship the Mayor of Liverpool, Mr. E. Lawrence, and many other gentlemen of local influence. In the evening the landing-stage was brilliantly illuminated.

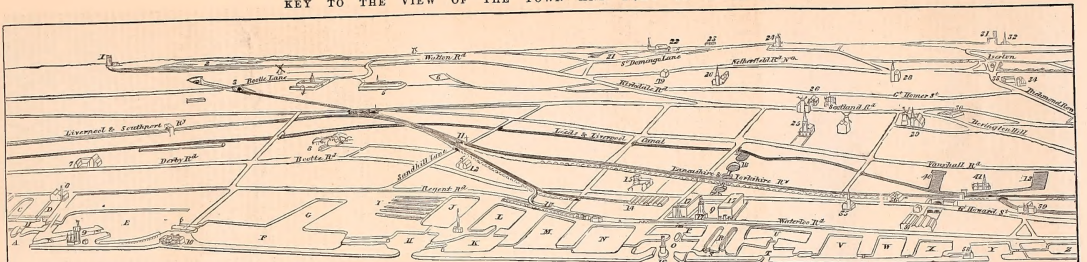


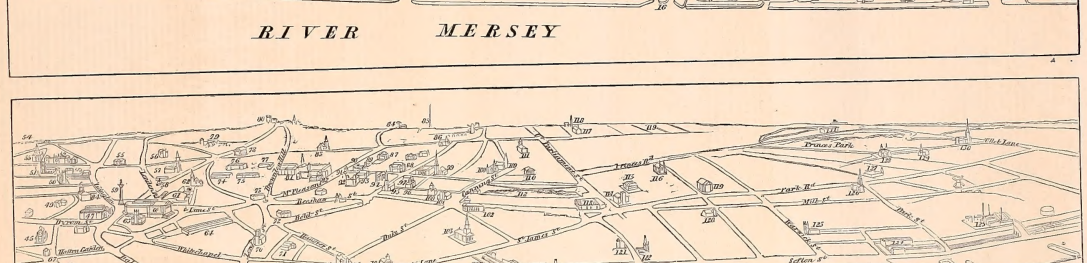
THE NEW PIER AT LYTHAM, LANCASHIRE.

LYTHAM, one of the three Lancashire watering-places which are to Liverpool and Manchester what Margate and Brighton are to London, has followed the example of Southport and Blackpool in providing itself with a handsome and convenient pier, the shore on that coast being low and sandy, so that there is not convenient access to the sea at all tides. The new pier, which was opened on the 17th inst., was commenced in June last year. It was undertaken by a "limited" company, and so great was the faith in its success, arising from the undoubted beauties and attractions of Lytham, with its park and promenade of a mixed rural and seacoast character, that the shares were taken up at once, without entailing any of the usual expenses attendant upon the promotion of such a scheme. The cost of the pier was estimated at between £5000 and £6000, and the actual cost has been about £5600. The money has been raised in 1260 shares of £5 each, the shareholders being principally inhabitants of Lytham and their friends. As soon as the scheme was set on foot, Colonel Clifton, the lord of the manor, gave the promoters every facility, and placed the land required from him at the disposal of the promoters at a nominal rent. The Admiralty authorities and the Ribble Navigation Company were found equally favourable to the project. Mr. E. Birch, C.E., of London, designed the pier, and its construction was carried out by Messrs. Laidlaw and Sons, of Glasgow. The pier is about 900 ft. long, reaching to low-water mark, about thirty or forty yards on the beach side of the channel. It is approached in a direct line from that part of the promenade which leads from Dicconson-street, and is near the Assembly Rooms and Clifton Arms Hotel. The entrance to the pier is by a broad area of 150 ft. wide; the width of the pier proper is 18 ft.; and there is a recess in which a gas-lamp is placed on each side, at a distance of 250 yards. Seats are placed on each side throughout the whole length. The pier stands upon cylindrical iron columns in clusters, the footway being of wood and the remainder of the structure entirely of iron. At the end nearest the promenade there are elegantly-designed balustradings of iron, and two octagonal houses, of ornamental design, for the accommodation of visitors and the officers of the company. At the sea terminus there is another house of similar design, also for the accommodation of persons embarking and disembarking from the steamers running between Lytham, Southport, Blackpool, and Preston. The total cost of this work has been £5860. The town on Monday week had quite a holiday aspect. The railway companies ran special trains from Manchester, Bolton, Preston, and other places, whence a multitude of visitors poured into the town. The Friendly Societies met in the market-place and marched in procession to the pier, headed by the band of the 3rd Royal Lancashire Militia. They took up their station on each side of the pier. They were followed by the 29th (Lytham) Lancashire Rifle Volunteers, of which Captain Clifton is the commanding officer, under the charge of Lieutenant Hinckman, and the 65th (Rossall) L. R. V., under Captain Charles Clarke. These corps, numbering about one hundred men, formed a line from the promenade to the entrance to the pier, and were the guard of honour on the occasion. The pier was very gaily decorated with banners; and on the water several boats, including the Lytham life-boat, also displaying flags, cruised about, thus giving a very animated appearance to the scene. Mrs. Clifton and her son were met at the Assembly Rooms by a distinguished company of visitors, consisting of the Mayor (Mr. J. Isherwood) and Corporation of Preston, the directors of the Ribble Navigation Company, several naval and military officers, the clergy of the town and neighbourhood; the directors of the Lytham Pier Company, the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway, the Blackpool and Lytham Railway, the Blackpool and Southport Pier Company, and others. These visitors formed themselves into a procession and escorted Mrs. Clifton to the pier, where that lady performed the ceremony of declaring it open to the public. A luncheon afterwards took place at the Clifton Arms Hotel. Mr. Murton, the chairman of the company, presided. The proceedings were of an auspicious and gratifying character.

A letter from Reunion of the 12th of March says:—"Madagascar has just passed through a crisis, the issue of which permits the hope of a favourable arrangement of the pending difficulties. The former Prime Minister, who was animated with such a deep hatred of Europeans, had endeavoured to recover his position, but failed. He was degraded and removed, on the 25th of February, to Fort Abonitauta, with ten of his slaves and one wife only. His other wives, thirty in number, all young and handsome, had been married to thirty rising officers between whom the Minister's immense wealth was divided. Being thus deprived of his property and honours, his return to power was thought to be impossible. His successor is better disposed towards Europeans, and there are hopes of arriving at an arrangement with him."

THE ALBERT MEMORIAL INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS AT BIRKENHEAD, BUILT BY MR. W. JACKSON, M.P.—SEE PAGE 412.





THE SOUTH SIDE LANDING-STAGE OF THE NEW MERSEY FERRY.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

THE NEW PIER AT LYTHAM, LANCASHIRE.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

KEY TO THE VIEW OF THE TOWN AND PORT OF LIVERPOOL.

A

A Canada Basin.
B Canada Half-tide Basin.
C Canning Graving Dock.
D Canada Dock.
E Canada Dock.
F Hanover Dock.
G Fire Engine House.
H Waterloo Dock.
I Salthouse Graving Docks.
J Sandon Dock.
K Wellington Half-tide Dock.
L Wellington Dock.
M Brunswick Graving Dock.
N Salthouse Dock.
O Salisbury Dock.
P Collingwood Dock.
Q Stanley Dock.
R Clarence Graving Docks.
S Canning Graving Dock Basin.
T Clarence Basin.
U Clarence Dock.
V Victoria Dock.
W Wellington Dock.
X Waterloo Dock.
Y Prince's Dock.
Z Prince's Dock.
a Prince's Landing-stage.
b Queen's Dock Basin.
c Queen's Landing-stage.
d George's Dock.
e Manchester Dock.
Canning Dock.
f Canning Graving Docks.
g Canning Half-tide Basin.
h Albert Dock and Warehouses.
i Salthouse Dock.
j Old Dock Site.
k Police Warehouses and Yard.
l Tobacco Warehouses.
m Wapping.
n Wapping Dock.
o Queen's Basin.
p Queen's Graving Docks.
q Queen's Dock.
r Union Dock.
s Union Dock.
Coburg Dock.
u South Dock and Yard.
v Brunswick Half-tide Basin.
w Brunswick Dock.
x Brunswick Graving Docks.
y Trafalgar Dock.
z Harrington Dock.
1 Walton Church.
2 Walton Gaol.
3 Sandhills-lane Railway Station.
4 Liverpool Industrial School.
5 Kirkdale Gaol.
6 Everton Church.
7 United Presbyterian Chapel and Schools.
8 Bank Hall.
9 Canada Dock, and Tower.
10 Fort.
11 Sandhill-lane Radial Station.
12 Low-hill Church, Everton.
13, 14 North Dock Yard Station.
15 St. Alban's R. C. Chapel.
16 Stanley Hydraulic Tower.
17 Stanley Dock Warehouses and Tower.
18 New Cut Canal Locks.
19 Scotchyard-road Wesleyan Chapel.
20 Christ Church.
21 St. Domingo Pit.
22 Middle-lane Barracks.
23 St. Edward's R. C. College.
24 St. George's Ch., Everton.
25 St. Anne's Church-the-Fields.
26 St. Anthony's R. C. Chapel.
27 Presbyterian Chapel.
28 St. Peter's Church, Everton.
29 St. Alban's R. C. Chapel.
30 St. Mary's Church.
31 Corporation Waterworks Reservoir.
32 St. Augustine's Church.
33 Compton Independent Chapel.
34 St. Timothy's Church.
35 St. Matthew's Church.
36 Congregational R. C. Chapel.
37 Walton Railway Station.
38 Observatory.
39 Northern Hospital.
40 New Cut-al Basin.
41 All Souls' Church.
42 Coal and Timber Canal Basin.
43 Coal Canal Locks.
44 St. Mary's R. C. Chapel.
45 Holy Cross R. C. Chapel.
46 Great Northern Railway Terminus.
47 Bee-hive Mill.
48 Christ Church, Hunter-street.
49 Friends' Meeting-house.
50 Trinity Church, St Anne's-st.
51 St. Paul's R. C. Chapel.
52 Collegiate Institution.
53 St. Augustine's Church.
54 West Derby Reservoir.
55 Wesleyan Methodist Chapel.
56 St. John's Church.
57 St. Peter's Church.
58 Temperance Movement.
59 Wellington Monument.
60 St. George's Hall.
61 Lime-st. Railway Terminus.
62 Lime-st. Station.
63 St. John's Church.
64 St. John's Market.
65 Exchange Buildings.
66 Welsh Calvinistic Church.
67 St. Stephen's Church.
68 Custom-house.
69 St. John's Gardens.
70 St. George's Church.
71 St. Peter's Church.
71 Mercantile Hospital.
72 Lyceum.
73 Adelphi Hotel.
74 Old-street Mission.
75 Athenæum.
76 Infirmary.
77 Lunatic Asylum.
78 Pembroke Chapel.
79 Mount Vernon Convent.
80 St. Mary's Church.
81 Welsh Calvinistic Union.
82 United Presbyterian Church.
83 St. Stephen's Church.
84 St. Mary's R. C. Chapel.
85 Ebenezer Chapel.
86 Bethesda Chapel.
87 St. Andrew's Presbyt. Ch.
88 Roman Catholic Institute.
89 St. Peter's Church.
90 St. James' Church.
91 Welsh Synagogue.
92 United Methodist and Ch.
93 St. Stephen's Church.
94 St. Mary's R. C. Chapel.
95 Ebenezer Chapel.
96 Bethesda Chapel.
97 St. Catherine's Church.
98 Spurgeon Baptist Chapel.
99 Hope Hall.
100 Mechanics' Institution.
101 Roman Catholic Convent.
102 Great George-street Independent Chapel.
103 St. Michael's Church.
104 St. Paul's Church.
105 Bethel Mariners' Church.
106 Custom House.
107 Waggon Goods Rail. Station.
108 Catholic Apostolic Church.
109 Great Howard-street Station.
110 St. Bride's Church.
111 St. Saviour's, Hankinson-st.
112 Bridewell.
113 St. James Market.
114 St. James's Church.
115 Wesleyan Methodist Chapel.
116 Berkley-st. Independent Ch.
117 St. Clement's Church.
118 Wesleyan Watch-house.
119 St. Patrick's R. C. Chapel.
120 Great Homer-street Station.
121 Greenland-st. Bay Schools.
122 St. Barnabas Church.
123 St. Peter's Church.
124 Liv. Bot. Railway Terminus.
125 Mersey Forge and Iron Works.
126 St. John's Church, Part-st.
127 Sailors' Home.
128 New Wesleyan Chapel.
129 Presbyterian Church.
130 St. Paul's Church.
131 Spring Bank, Pilcon's Park.

THE TOWN AND PORT OF LIVERPOOL.

In the earlier period of English history the great commercial ports of this kingdom were London, Bristol, Lynn Regis, Kingston-upon-Hull, Boston, and Newcastle. These, except the last, owed their chief prosperity to the woollen trade. Chester was a station of some political and military importance on the Welsh frontier, but was prevented from becoming the maritime outlet of the north-western parts of England by the drifts of sea-sand, which spoiled its once convenient harbour. Liverpool, therefore, by a charter of King John, in the ninth year of his reign, was invested with the legal privileges of "a free borough on the sea." The natural advantages of its position were less obvious than in the case of the other towns we have named. The River Mersey—unlike the Thames, the Severn, or the Humber—is a comparatively small stream, with a course of but forty or fifty miles from the Derbyshire hills. It could afford no means of conveyance by water from the interior of the country, though, below Runcorn, its estuary formed a safe and capacious harbour. Both the shores of this estuary, at the time of the Norman Conquest, were covered with the primeval forest, and Domesday Book records that the hundred of West Derby, now the site of one of the richest and most populous towns in Europe, was inhabited by six herdsmen, who kept the cattle of Earl Roger de Poicton. Far to the northward stretched a savage wilderness of woods and moors; to the eastward lay the swampy region of Chat Moss; there were no growers of corn or wool, in that district of South Lancashire, whose commodities might have sought exportation by way of Liverpool; so there was little occupation for Liverpool ships while agriculture continued to be the chief industry of the English people. King John, when he built his castle in Toxteth Park and bestowed a municipality upon the village of fishermen or ferrymen beneath the castle walls, thought less of encouraging peaceful commerce than of providing a station for his fleet employed in the Irish wars.

It would be tedious for us now to follow the obscure history of Liverpool in those rude times. Had the conquest of Ireland been then complete, and had Ireland shared in the progress of this country, Liverpool might have come into importance sooner than it did. The reign of Elizabeth, however, found the trade of Liverpool so inconsiderable that the Royal customs there were not deemed worth the cost of collecting; but this very circumstance presently induced the Irish merchants to resort thither, bringing the flax and yarn of Ireland, which Manchester men had already learned to work up. It was from the manufactures of Manchester, after all, that Liverpool was to derive the staple of its mighty trade. Situated in the midst of the great plain of South Lancashire and North Cheshire, at the confluence of the Irwell, the Medlock, and the Irk, the old town of Manchester is the centre of a land of useful streams, possessing a larger amount of available water-power than any other district in England. Hence the rise of our linen and cotton manufactures in the neighbourhood of Manchester. Wool, as we have remarked, was never so much at home on that side of Blackstone Edge; and the woollen manufacture, which formerly belonged to Wiltshire, Somerset and Devon, has latterly taken up its abode in the West Riding of Yorkshire, but not in Lancashire at all. We must return, however, to the fortunes of Liverpool, the history of which we have read in the learned volume of Mr. Thomas Baines. It does not appear that the Liverpool seamen took any distinguished part in the repulse of the Spanish Armada, by which those of Plymouth, Dartmouth, and Bideford won so much glory for their respective ports. Those famous naval enterprises, whether of exploration, conquest, or traffic, in which the English mariners vied with the Spanish, Portuguese, and Italians, for a century or more after the discovery of America, did not invite the efforts of the Liverpool as of the Bristol Channel shipowners and sailors. In the civil wars of the Stuarts and the Commonwealth, Liverpool was a good deal knocked about between the Royalist and Parliamentary factions, being captured and recaptured, and then made Prince Rupert's head-quarters until the Battle of Marston Moor. The townsfolk were in favour of King Charles; therefore Cromwell kept them down with a garrison of six hundred troopers as long as his protectorate lasted; upon his death, Liverpool broke out in an insurrection, which was quickly suppressed.

As some compensation for these troubles, the great increase of Liverpool in population, commerce, and wealth, had its beginning immediately after the Restoration of Charles II. We are told that many of the London merchants removed to Liverpool in consequence of the successive disasters which happened to London in that King's reign; the Great Plague, the Great Fire, and the Dutch fleet burning English vessels in the Thames and Medway. By the end of the seventeenth century, Liverpool paid his Majesty upwards of £50,000 a year in customs; new streets were built in various directions, the Corporation having obtained from Lord Molyneux, the hereditary governor and lord of the manor, a thousand years' lease of a thousand acres of town land; the river channel was cleared and deepened up to Warrington; and docks were already planned—a scheme then quite new to England, the first dock actually made in this country being the one constructed at Liverpool, under an Act passed in the reign of Queen Anne. When George I. came to the throne, Liverpool had a population of 10,000 persons, with a mayor, aldermen, and town council; with two representatives in the House of Commons; with more than a hundred ships and more than 1000 sailors; with one dock half completed, at a cost of £10,000; with two churches, St. Peter's and St. Nicholas'; and with the ruins of an ancient castle, which had been for five centuries the feudal fortress and state prison of the district. This remnant of mediæval barbarism was removed, by the King's gracious permission, in 1714, and here we commence a new era in the history of Liverpool.

The opening of the first dock, in 1720, was followed by a series of bold engineering works, designed to make the rivers Mersey and Irwell navigable from Liverpool to Manchester; and the river Weaver, from the Mersey to Nantwich, in the heart of the salt and cheese district. But the execution of these works did not fully answer the hopes which had been conceived; the inland water communications of Liverpool fell short of thirty miles in each direction. About the middle of the last century Liverpool, though next to London the most flourishing seaport in Great Britain, enjoying almost a monopoly of the local trade of the Irish Channel, and dealing, as largely as Bristol, with the West Indies, Virginia, Africa, France, and Spain, was practically separated from the rest of this kingdom by the want of proper roads and means of carriage. Not a single stage-coach, in those days, left the town of Liverpool for Manchester, London, or any other place. The usual mode of travelling for gentlemen was on horseback, and for ladies in hired coaches; but the roads were very rough, and infested with highwaymen. An armed caravan would leave the Swan with Two Necks, in London, on a Friday morning, and arrive, God willing, at Liverpool on the Monday night. Yet the statistics of the Liverpool trade, shipping, and population for 1753 are double those we have quoted for the date of the accession of the house of Hanover. A second dock is being constructed; the building of the Exchange is commenced; in short, as a local contemporary writer is fain to express himself, "Here Trade has flourished and spread her golden wings so extensively that she promises to enlarge the size and riches of the town to a prodigious degree."

Yet the problem of a way for the cheap and expeditious conveyance of merchandise to and from the port and the interior of the country was still unsolved. The more recent progress of Liverpool, exceeding any other instance of the kind in the history of modern Europe, if not equalling the rapid growth of the American cities, has been due to the practical settlement of this question. In the year 1737 Scroop, Duke of Bridgewater, whose estate lay around Worsley, five miles from Manchester on the Liverpool side, got a private Act of Parliament for improving the channel of a little stream or brook leading from the Worsley coal-pits to the Irwell, by which his coal might be carried to the neighbouring town. Acting upon this precedent, and upon that of a short canal between the Mersey and the St. Helen's coal-field, the succeeding Duke, with his great engineer Brindley, having obtained an Act for the purpose, in 1758, undertook the construction of the Bridgewater Canal to unite Liverpool with Manchester. The national importance of this work, not only as providing facilities for the trade and industry of South Lancashire, but as setting an example which was speedily followed by other canal constructors all over Great Britain, needs not to be remarked. We learn more particularly that the cost of carriage from Liverpool to Manchester, Wolverhampton, the Potteries, Birmingham, and other manufacturing towns of the midland counties, was thus reduced to one fourth of its previous rate. The Leeds and Liverpool Canal, opened in 1774, gave similar relief to the trade in another direction. By this means, long before the first steam locomotive ran upon the first public railroad, the disadvantages of the port of Liverpool, from its remote situation, were in great measure redressed, and it had already become the main outlet of our manufacturing districts on the western side of this island.

Then came a great convulsion, tearing away from the British empire the better part of those American provinces with which Liverpool had established a profitable intercourse. At the same time, wars repeatedly arising with the naval Powers of Europe, great damage was inflicted upon maritime commerce. Liverpool in many ways suffered very much till peace was restored by the recognition of the United States. She had not then so many strings to her bow as she has now, when she has borne without impatience the four years' blockade of the cotton-growing States. The slave trade, too, which was then a most lucrative branch of Liverpool enterprise, became the subject of a stern and long-protracted controversy, when Mr. Roscoe and other eminent citizens had the moral courage to denounce the unholy gains of their townsmen engaged in that abominable traffic. It will be remembered how a very different person, George Cooke, the drunken tragedian, once turned upon a Liverpool audience who had hissed him, and fiercely exclaimed, "Every brick in your dirty town is cemented with a negro's blood!"

Another questionable kind of maritime adventures, in which Liverpool was deeply involved some ninety or a hundred years ago, was that of privateering against the commerce of the Americans and the French. No less than 120 privateers were fitted out by the Liverpool shipowners at that time. To be sure, the American rover Paul Jones was making free with our coasters in St. George's Channel. But it seems a barbarous and profligate custom for the merchants of a civilised nation to turn highway-robbers and steal their neighbours' goods in time of war. It was reckoned in 1778, by a Committee of the House of Lords, that, during the war then going on, 773 British vessels had been captured, whilst we had taken 904 American vessels. The value of this property, amounting to nearly two millions sterling on each side, went, of course, in the shape of prize-money, to reward the captors, and was not restored to the commercial and industrial capital of either people. The amount of damage inflicted upon our trade and shipping by the second war with America, from 1812 to 1815, was still greater; while the effect of the great war with Napoleon was to prevent any very considerable increase in the number and tonnage of Liverpool vessels from 1793 to 1814; the figures being, in the former year, 4791 vessels, 494,521 aggregate tonnage; in the latter year, 5706 vessels, 548,957 aggregate tonnage. Had the twenty years' war been a twenty years' peace, the growth of our population and manufactures in that period and the growth of our trade with America would have doubled the amount of Liverpool shipping, as in other periods of equal extent.

This leads to the consideration of the great and staple manufacture of Lancashire, from which the immense commercial importance of Liverpool has in great part been derived. The cotton trade began from the East, not from the West, probably in the time of Queen Elizabeth, when the Turkey merchants brought cotton-wool from Cyprus and Smyrna to be worked up into fustians or dimities in the Manchester looms, but first to be spun by hand on the ancient spinning-wheel, which was not superseded until 1770, by Arkwright, Hargreaves, and Crompton, with their machines. At that date the annual importation of raw cotton into Liverpool was only 6000 bales. We have known half that quantity brought in at once as the cargo of a single ship. The total importation, a few years ago, averaged much more than a hundred times the quantity received in 1770, Liverpool now importing five sixths of all the cotton used in the United Kingdom. The cotton trade of the last century, indeed, was rather an importation of foreign yarns than of raw cotton. But when, towards the end of the last century, the invention of the spinning-jenny, the mule, and the power-loom caused an entire revolution in the textile manufactures, it fortunately happened that, by the invention of the steam-engine about the same time, England, and especially Lancashire, was enabled to take the full advantage of her immense coal-fields in applying steam-power to this work. These operations, and in like manner the development of the Staffordshire potteries and Shropshire ironworks, tended, of course, to swell the commerce of Liverpool, which is situated on the edge of a great coal country, as Newcastle is, on the other side of the kingdom. It is curious to think how the enormous resources of this port had lain for so many ages quite hidden from the sagacity of our ancestors—not only in the wild ages of antiquity, when that fabulous bird "the liver" was imagined to have been found haunting the forests of Wirral and West Derby, now the site of the town and the docks—but even down to the time when so many of its most enterprising men preferred the ignoble gains of slave-dealing and legalised piracy to the just profits of legitimate merchandise.

If we come to a period within the recollection of elderly men now living, at the close of the great war in 1815, we find the first steam-boats introduced on the River Mersey on a fine midsummer day in that year; when the Liverpool newspapers, discussing the merits of the new invention, observed that, as ships could not leave their port when a north-west wind was blowing, they were too often delayed there for many weeks. It seems an incredible state of things. Fancy a lucky vessel, the Harriet, Captain May, getting the start of her consorts to go under convoy to the West Indies, and slipping out to sea an hour before the change of wind; going all the way to Barbadoes and doing her trade and coming back to Liverpool before the other vessels, laden at the same time, were able to get out of the Mersey! This anecdote is told by Mr. Egerton Smith, in the Liverpool Mercury of July 21, 1815. What steam navigation on the ocean has done for Liverpool we need scarcely remark. We remember hearing the late Rev. Dr. Dionysius Lardner, in a lecture to a Liverpool audience, desire them never to indulge the delusion that a steamer could ply across the Atlantic; and, for aught their experience could testify, the learned doctor might have been right. The Liverpool Steam-packet Company, indeed, established above forty years ago, kept up a quick and regular communication with Glasgow and Dublin. The port of Liverpool, in 1824, owned ten thousand vessels, with an aggregate burden of nearly twelve hundred thousand tons; the amount of shipping, therefore, had almost doubled itself in less than ten years since the termination of the war. The docks, of which there were several new ones or lately enlarged—Prince's Dock, King's Dock, Queen's Dock, and George's Dock, in the central part of the town shore opposite what is now Birkenhead and Woodside—had room for above five hundred vessels; the dock revenues were £130,000 a year. The population of the town and suburbs was 130,000 souls. The representatives of Liverpool in Parliament were men so distinguished as Brougham, Canning, and Huskisson; its townsmen were themselves ambitious of social and intellectual refinement; they prized the literary accomplishments of their banker Roscoe; some talked of "Liverpool gentlemen and Manchester men."

Such was the town of Liverpool about the time when the Liverpool and Manchester Railroad Company issued their prospectus, signed by Charles Lawrence, chairman, dated Oct. 29, 1824, which is one of the most interesting documents ever printed or penned—the proposal of a scheme infinitely more important than the Duke of Bridgewater's canal. It was, perhaps, the greatest event in the world's history since the introduction of printing—it was certainly of much greater consequence to the social welfare of mankind than all the wars and revolutions and political vicissitudes of Europe and America since modern history began. Liverpool has some right, we think, to be proud of her part in this wonderful and beneficent creation of railways, now overspreading every region of the globe. Allowing all due credit to the scientific projectors and engineers, of whom we have heard so much, it is fair to record the names of Mr. Joseph Sandars, the corn merchant; Mr. John Moss, Mr. William Rathbone, Messrs. Hodgson, Benson, Booth, Gladstone, Rotherham, and others, who formed the first committee for the practical realisation of this scheme. The line was to be of thirty-three miles, from near the Prince's Dock, Liverpool, to near Water-street, Manchester, passing through a tunnel at Edgehill, and passing over Chat Moss, with a great deal of deep cutting, besides a high-arched viaduct and sixty-three bridges; so that the engineers and contractors had no easy task. Yet they did it, at a cost of three quarters of a million, in four years. The directors rode triumphantly in a special train from Liverpool to Manchester and back, on Monday, the 14th of June, 1830; and on the 15th of September we saw the public opening of that railway honoured by the presence of the two foremost men of England—the Duke of Wellington and Sir Robert Peel. It was upon this occasion that Mr. Huskisson, the official Cobden of his day, while stepping across the line to speak with the Prime Minister, became, unhappily, the earliest victim of a railway accident. He was buried in St. James's Cemetery, at Liverpool, where a noble statue, by Gibson, preserves his form.

Having reached our own times, it is expedient here to quit the course of Liverpool history, and briefly describe the existing condition of the town and port, with reference to the panoramic View displayed in our large Engraving, which accompanies this week's publication of the Illustrated London News. The local situation of Liverpool, on the north or Lancashire bank of the estuary of the Mersey, and about three miles from the open sea, is sufficiently known to our readers. The docks, extending nearly five miles in a continuous line, occupy the whole shore in front of the town, leaving only space for quays and wharves, and for the streets or roads which give access to the river. The localities of both docks and streets will be found enumerated in the index list belonging to the key which explains our pictorial View, and which is engraved on page 417. Thirty docks have been made in the last century and a half, at a cost of twelve millions sterling, forming the most perfect artificial harbour in the world. The northern range, formed under the Act of 1844, consists of eight docks for sailing-vessels, one steam dock, and six graving-docks—the Huskisson, the Sandon, the Wellington, the Bramley-Moore, the Nelson, the Salisbury, the Collingwood, and the Stanley being the names of the most important of this range. The Clarence, the Trafalgar, the Victoria, and the Waterloo Docks, were formed under an Act of 1825, at which time also the making of the Canning and Brunswick Docks was undertaken. The older docks have been already mentioned. The Albert Dock, surrounded by an immense pile of warehouses for discharging goods, is one of the most perfect. It was opened by the late Prince Consort in 1846. The total area of these docks is about 277 acres, including twenty acres of dry docks. This is not taken from the land, but from the foreshore and bed of the river, by the erection of a sea-wall thirty or forty feet high. The Dock Trustees have been latterly merged in the Mersey Harbour and Docks Board, a body elected by the ratepayers, which has purchased the Birkenhead Docks on the opposite shore, besides constructing the Canada Docks, the Coburg, and several others of great capacity on the Liverpool side of the river, with vast floats for the accommodation of shipping and timber. The late Mr. Jesse Hartley was the principal engineer. The total length of quays around the wet docks and tidal basins is nearly nineteen miles. The river wall protecting these docks is more than six miles in length. The aggregate tonnage of vessels frequenting this port is upwards of five million tons. Those engaged in the American trade are chiefly to be found in the Huskisson, Sandon, Bramley Moore, Victoria, and Waterloo Docks; the Australian trade more usually resorts to the Coburg; while the Albert gives accommodation to that of India and China, and the Nelson to that of the West Indies; but these rules are altered at convenience, though good order is always maintained. In the twenty dry docks, which are inclosed within walls, there is ample provision for expeditious repairs of shipping.

The town itself, which, by the Census of 1861, had a population of 437,740, exclusive of its thickly-peopled suburbs, stands partly on flat ground along the shore, and partly on a gentle acclivity; the part north of Dale-street is on clay soil; but the remainder is on red sandstone, with much facility of drainage. It is protected by the hills from the cold north-east winds, and the climate, though humid, is more equable than that of London. The streets are broad, well paved, well lighted, and some are handsome—Lord-street, Church-street, Bold-street, Lime-street, Castle-street, and Dale-street displaying the best shops and warehouses, whilst fine squares and terraces occupy some of the upper parts of the town. The grandest architectural ornament of Liverpool is St. George's Hall, which would do credit to Paris, or to any other capital city in Europe. It was built, at a cost of nearly a quarter of a million, raised by public subscription, between 1838 and 1854, from the designs of Mr. Harvey Elmes. This noble edifice, of which more than one Illustration has appeared in our Journal, has a façade 420 ft. in length, towards Lime-street on the east side, with a magnificent colonnade; and, on the south, a portico of twelve polished Corinthian columns, each 45 ft. high and 4 ft. 6 in. in diameter, which are surmounted by a pediment displaying a group of colossal figures—Britannia, Europe, Asia, Africa, and America, with Mercury, Apollo, Ceres, and other mythological persons. The interior contains a splendidly decorated hall, large concert-room, and spacious assize courts. Among the other public buildings of Liverpool, we should mention the Townhall, with its stately dome, and with its fine paintings and works of sculpture; the Exchange, the College, the Infirmary; the Free Library, given by Mr. William Brown; the Sailors' Home, the Northern Hospital, and the Philharmonic Hall. Several good monuments and statues—including those of Nelson, Canning, Huskisson, and Wellington—ornament the streets and squares of the town. The markets—St. John's, St. Martin's, and St. James's—are large and conveniently situated. Though none of the churches are of a venerable antiquity, some of them are structures of no mean style. The literary and scientific institutions of Liverpool, its theatres and music-halls, its Botanic Gardens in Edge-lane, afford a variety of means of intellectual recreation. The inhabitants are supplied with pure water by the great waterworks of Rivington Pike. The local manufactures, especially of glass, metal, soap, and chemical wares, are of some importance. The great ship-building business of the Mersey, with the many trades dependent upon it, has very often come under our notice, upon the occasion of the launch of new vessels. There are now four main approaches by railway to Liverpool—namely, by the London and North-Western line, from Manchester or London; by the Lancashire and Yorkshire line, from Manchester; by the Great Northern line, from Sheffield; and by the Great Western line to Birkenhead, on the opposite side of the river. We must now leave our readers to examine the details of the View of Liverpool by the help of the key and index.

THE OPENING OF THE DUBLIN EXHIBITION.

The following is the ceremonial to be observed at the opening of the Dublin International Exhibition, 1865, on Tuesday, the 9th of May:—

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, accompanied by their Excellencies the Lord Lieutenant and Lady Wodehouse and attended by their respective suites, will arrive at the exhibition building at two o'clock, and will be received by the reception committee and conducted to the dais, the orchestra performing the National Anthem. When his Royal Highness and their Excellencies have taken their seats, an address from the exhibition committee will be presented to his Royal Highness, and, the Prince having replied, the orchestra will perform "With one consent let all the earth." The chairman of the executive committee will then read to his Royal Highness a report of the proceedings of the committee, and, his Royal Highness having replied, the chairman will present to his Royal Highness a catalogue of the articles exhibited; and the secretary of the exhibition committee will present to his Royal Highness the key of the building. The orchestra will then perform Handel's "Coronation Anthem." After which the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of Dublin, in his robes of office, accompanied by the members of the Corporation in their civic dresses, will present an address from the Corporation of the city of Dublin, to which his Royal Highness will reply. The choir will then sing Haydn's "The heavens are telling."

This having been concluded, the following procession will be formed and will conduct his Royal Highness through the building:—Architects, superintendents of the various departments: Fine Arts, Engineering, Indian, Colonial, British, Agricultural; Secretary of Executive Committee; General Superintendent; Secretary of Exhibition Committee; Exhibition Committee; Foreign Commissioners and Representatives; Athlone Pursuivant of Arms; High Sheriff of the city of Dublin; Lord Mayor of York and other Mayors; Lord Provost of Edinburgh; Lord Mayor of London; Commander of the Forces; Chief Secretary of Ireland; Knights of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick; Dublin Herald; the Lord Chancellor; Cork Herald; the Lord Mayor of Dublin; his Excellency's Household; Ulster King of Arms; her Excellency Lady Wodehouse; his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant; his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales; Equerries and Aides-de-Camp. During the procession the orchestra will perform Meyerbeer's Grand March from the "Prophète."

On his Royal Highness and their Excellencies' return to the dais, the opening chorus from Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" will be given, and at its conclusion his Royal Highness will command Ulster King of Arms to declare the exhibition open. The declaration being made, it will be announced to the public by a flourish of trumpets and by the firing of a Royal salute. After which will be sung Handel's grand "Hallelujah Chorus," to be followed by the National Anthem; which being concluded, his Royal Highness and their Excellencies will leave the building with the same ceremony as at their entrance, the orchestra playing the Danish national air.

J. Bernard Burke, Ulster.

Approved on behalf of the Reception Committee.

(Signed) M. Brady, Chairman.

Archæology of the Month.

We need scarcely direct attention to the proposed Society for Exploring the Holy Land for biblical illustration, which is sure to be received with undigested respect and aided with reverence for its sacred objects. Archæology is a leading point; and, leaving the surface to the survey of Jerusalem now in progress, "it is not too much to anticipate that every fork in depth of 70 ft. of rubbish on which the city stands will yield most interesting and important matter for the archæologist and numismatist. Beyond the Holy City there is nearly a full of sites which cannot fail amply to repay examination."

The archæologists are already astir by making arrangements for their coming annual gatherings. The local committee of the Archæological Institute have met at Dorchester; and Mr. Bruce, the honorary secretary, has explained the requirements—namely, papers, musique, and excursions. The institute has never travelled so far west in its itinerant circuit, because it proposes to do the whole of Dorsetshire, the Roman Durnovaria, but with half an ancient British name—Dor, or Dur, water, according to Whitaker. The Avon is the river of Salisbury Saxons, whence we have the modern name Dorchester. Tessellated pavements, Roman arms, and coins of the emperors Trajan, Hadrian, Constantine, and other Roman Emperors, have been dug up in the vicinity of Dorchester, which has its walls and amphitheatre; and its Castle-green was the site of an ancient stronghold. We are glad to learn from Mr. Brent that a large number of specimens of the art and skill of our forefathers has been brought to light by the excavations that have been made in different parts of the country, and by recent railway operations. The excursions are full of promise. There are several Roman camps and stations in the county; the Roman city, or Ecknield, runs by Dorchester, where it is very perfect, high and broad, and paved with flint and stone; and there are traces of several Roman roads, one by Dorchester, with the remains of a cross, abbey church; and its lodge, built for Sir Walter Raleigh; besides ancient houses in the town; will take a whole day's inspection. Sherborne, with its Danish earthwork, and church and castle traces; and Corfe Castle, with its picturesque ruins, preserved principally by Queen and broken walls, stretch with historic lore; will require a long day's examination. And Winborne Minster, Milton Abbey, Sandford Abbotsbury, should be seen. The museum arrangements are confided to Mr. Charles Tucker, F.S.A., whose previous system was so cordially adopted by the institute last year, at the Warwick congress. The Dorchester meeting will be held the first week in July, and the office of local president has been accepted by the Marquis of Lansdowne, K.G., the president of the society.

The new part of the Journal of the British Archæological Association contains four valuable papers from the "Proceedings" of the Suffolk Congress, held at Ipswich last year—consisting of the president's inaugural address, Mr. Levesque's paper on MS. collections relating to Suffolk in the British Museum, Mr. Cuming's paper on the Kings of East Anglia, and Mr. Gordon Hills on the Antiquities of Bury St. Edmund's. In the report of recent proceedings of the association are an account of four elegant examples of ladies' card-purses by Mr. Gould, exhibited by Mr. Bruce, and some observations on purses by Mr. Syer Cuming. It is curious to note the changes in the forms and materials of purses in use within memory. These include revivals of old designs. One of the purses exhibited by Lord Londesborough was a portemonnaie of about the year 1700; and Mr. S. Cuming showed a "long purse," which belonged to a member of the family of William Eyre, in the reign of Charles II.

Some English visitors to Rome (says the Literary Gazette) are about to establish a British Archæological Society in that city for the purpose of investigating its medieval and Roman remains.

Messrs. Pell and Dolby have reprinted the rare and curious tract of 1853, relating to the death of Edward VI., by the Northumberland who is charged with having taken off the King either by poison or other foul means. The tract is in Latin; and a translation, with notes, is added by Mr. J. P. Bergeon.

The success which has attended the copying of Domesday Book by the photo-zincographic process has induced the Master of the Rolls to the publication of a series of the most interesting of our national manuscripts; which, in addition to the interest of the subject of the documents, illustrate the change in our language and in our writing at the several periods of our history. Charters, deeds, grants, and letters from eminent or remarkable persons, and the most perfect copy of Magna Charta extant. The first monument in the series is the charter of William the Conqueror to the City of London, in Anglo-Saxon, and the last, the despatch of Sir Winston Churchill reporting the victory of Blenheim. These documents are arranged chronologically, one or more from each reign being given, and each page will have its translation, when necessary.

Certain objects of antiquity seem to have a never-ending history. Pompey's Pillar, at Alexandria is one of them. Some time ago, however, we hear of a sailor drinking a bowl of punch seated on the capital; then the shaft fell out of the perpendicular, and was with difficulty propped. This alarm has just been revived; and, in attempting to repair the base-stone of the monument, a subterranean vault was discovered. M. d'Arnaud-Bey, a French engineer, was appointed by the Viceroy of Egypt to direct the work. He first had a new pedestal of stone at the base removed, when it was soon found they had nothing to do with the support of the pillar, but the latter rested entirely on the cube of very hard quartzose pudding-stone within the basement. It was further discovered that this cube bears an inscription in hieroglyphics two cubits wide down; and this, in the opinion of scholars belonging to one of the temples of Upper Egypt. M. Barlette (says Galignani) has deciphered the inscription, which states that it is Sesostris II., the father of the Great Sesostris, mentioned in it; so that Pompey's Pillar, now 1000 years old, is the only remaining monument erected at least seventeen centuries before the Christian era. A cavity has also now been discovered in the centre of the cube round the stone, so that visitors may inspect the hieroglyphics.

The anniversary of the blessing of the Golden Rose recently took place (on the fourth Sunday of Lent), in the Papal Chapel of the Apostolic Palace at Rome. A Cardinal Archbishop, Bishop, and the "General" of the Carmelites delivered a sermon in Latin. The golden rose was blessed by the Pontiff himself, who pronounced a prayer, in which the Saviour was described as "the flower of the fields and the lily of the valleys." The Pope consecrates the rose with balm, sprinkled in a powdered state upon it, and then he anoints it over it with incense, and then deposits it on the altar, where it remains during the mass. This ceremony was performed in the Sistine Chapel, and the custom has been to present the rose to some Catholic Prince or Princess; the Pope delivering it in person usually.

Receive this rose, the symbol of Jerusalem militant and Jerusalem triumphant, which there to all Christians is a memorial of the cross and the crown of the saints. Receive it, beloved, noble, powerful, and virtuous, you, our dear Lord Jean Christian Frederick, and you, the rose planted on the border of a running stream. May God, thrice holy throughout all eternity, grant you that you may bring forth fruit worthy of beauty! Amen.

In the fifteenth century consecrated roses presented to the Pope were placed over the confessionals at Rome, to denote secrecy, the rose being the emblem of silence: hence the common phrase, "Sub rosa."

The dispersion of the valuable collection of plate; Sèvres, Chelsea, Dresden, and other porcelain; and miscellaneous objects of artistic formed by the late Earl of Cadogan, at his mansion in Piccadilly, has been one of the most interesting of the sales of the week. The first day of the sale was devoted entirely to the old silver plate, which brought from one to three guineas per oz. The most remarkable article lots was an oblong tea-kettle, engraved with the arms of William III., and chased with the Kings and subjects of William and Mary; a pair of candelabra, of the time of Queen Anne, from Strawberry Hill, 68., per ounce; a silver-gilt tankard and cover, with lions of Henry VIII. and his six wives; a large sauciere bell, silver-gilt, chased with busts of the Saviour and Apostles, in medallions, flowers, scrolls, and inscription; the handle formed of an angel, holding emblems of Faith, Hope, and Charity; and the splendid multipersonal group of the great Duke of Marlborough on horseback, with the first Lord Cadogan by his side, date 1706. On the second day, among the objects of art and virtù were some beautiful specimens of rock-crystal, richly mounted; a casket of steel, Italian work, seventeenth century, from the Dr. Bruges Collection; some fine old Spanish lacquer, from Mr. Bernal's Collection; a magnificent writing-table, mounted with old French enamels, enriched with twelve plaques, with landscapes of fine old black and gold lacquer, raised, over one of the pens of the duty's sale, £240; another superb library table, mounted with vermolu, 650 guineas. On the third day, among the porcelain were some fine old Chelsea vases, also a very fine old Chelsea figure of a woman, holding a branch, a lion at her feet, the drapery richly garnished, pencilled, and gilt, 101 guineas; a fine old Chelsea group, on a rich scale gold ground, 250 guineas. On the fourth day were sold the antique bronzes, Greek and Roman pottery, Etruscan vases, miniatures, pictures, and drawings; and on the fifth and last day the gold and silver coins of Greek cities and kings, gold coins of Roman Emperors, gold Venetian, plate, ivories and bronzes, including the celebrated Celtini dagger of Duke de Pastrana, the handle formed of a figure in armour, and the sheath with figures of deities, from the De Bruges Collection, engraved in Labarte's work, 234 guineas; a pair of fine Italian andirons, with figures of a warrior and a female, on pedestals, charged with arabesque figures and masks, on openwork feet, formed as griffins, 31 guineas; a fine Italian carved and open-work lamp, in the form of a Roman galley, finely chased with classical figures and arabesques. Cupid riding on a dolphin on the lid, engraved, £163. The total amount of the five days' sale was £17,750.

What a strange fate befalls some of the finest painting in one of the days' sale of the Duchess of Kent's pictures at Paris, a few days since, to a full-length portrait of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, painted, by Moline, Vigee Lebrun, dated Rome, 1792. Lady Hamilton is represented as a shepherdess, with a shepherd's crook in her hand. She is dressed in a scarlet robe, a brown drapery is thrown over her shoulders, and she holds a straw hat in her hand. The picture was sold for 4999 francs.

CHESS.

 We are unavoidably compelled to postpone our "Notices to Correspondents" until next week.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM NO. 1161.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. B from K 8th to Q Kt 5th	K moves, or (a)	2. R to Q R 7th (ch) Any move
		2. R to Q 8th (ch) Any move
(a) 1. K takes Q P	R to K 5th	2. R to Kt sq. mate.
	B to Q 5th

PROBLEM NO. 1168.
By Mr. F. HILLIER.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

CHESS IN PARIS.

A charming little Game between Mr. MORPHY and Mr. DE RIVIERE, from the Nineteenth Number of the Club Journal (Bulletin des Clubs).

BLACK (Mr. de R.)	WHITE (Mr. M.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P
3. P to Q B 3rd	P to Q 4th
4. Kt to Q B 3rd	B to Q Kt 5th
5. B to Q 2nd	P to K 5th
6. Kt to Q 5th	Kt takes Kt
7. P takes Kt	B to K Kt 5th (ch)
8. K to B 2nd	P to Q 3rd
9. P to Q 4th	B to K 3rd

(It is rare, indeed, to find Mr. Morphy playing so feebly as in this and the two following moves.)

10. P to Q B 3rd	B to Q Kt 4th
11. P to Q R 4th	P to Q R 3rd

(It was impossible by any ingenuity to develop pieces.)

12. Q takes K B	P to Q Kt 3rd
13. P to Q R 5th	P to Q Kt 4th
14. P to K 5th	P to K R 4th
15. B to Q 3rd	P to K R 5th
16. P takes P	P takes P
17. P to K Kt sq	P to Q Kt 4th
18. B to Q 2nd	B to K 6th

Another capital little Game between the same Opponents.

BLACK (Mr. de R.)	WHITE (Mr. M.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. Kt to Q B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd
4. Kt to K Kt 5th	P to Q 4th
5. P takes P	Kt takes P
6. P to Q 3rd	P to K B 3rd

(Mr. Morphy's mode of continuing the opening is not usual in this —

7. B to Q Kt 5th (ch)	P to Q B 3rd
8. P takes P	P takes P
9. B to Q R 4th	P to K 3rd
10. Kt to K B 3rd	B to K 2nd

And the second player is thought to have had better play.)

11.	P to K R 3rd
12. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd
13. B to Q 2nd	B to K 3rd
14. Kt to K Kt 5th	P to Q 4th
15. P to K 5th	Kt to K 5th
16. P to K R 3rd	Castles
17. P to K Kt 4th	P to K R 2nd
18. Kt to Q 2nd	P to K B 4th

BLACK (Mr. de R.)	WHITE (Mr. M.)
19. Kt to K B 3rd	P to K Kt 4th

(Mr. Morphy has won an unquestionable superiority of position. His pieces have a more freedom than his adversary's, and he now commences a vigorous attack.)

19. Castles	B takes Kt (ch)
20. P takes B	P to K 5th

(The power of this Pawn is now considerable. It threatens, in fact, the formation of a Passed Pawn.)

21. Q Kt to K 4th	Kt to K 4th
22. P to K B 5th

(Black had no good move at command; but played to this point, or even to Q to K Kt sq, Queen has considerably disturbed his game.)

22.	P to K B 5th
23. P takes Kt	Kt to K B 6th (ch)
24. K to Kt sq	Kt takes Q P
25. Q to K 2nd	Q to K 5th (ch)
26. K to Kt 4th	B takes Q P
27. R to K Kt sq	K to K 2nd
28. K to K 5th	Q to K 5th (ch)
29. K to K 6th	R to K Kt 2nd

(This is extremely subtle. White now threatens mate in two moves, by R to K 8th.)

30. R to K 6th

(Mr. Morphy's winning move, apparently.)

27.	B to K 3rd
28. Kt takes B	B takes Q R P
29. Q to Q 5th	B takes Q Kt P
30. Kt to K B 3rd

and White resigns.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

At a recent meeting of the Academy of Sciences at Paris MM. Boudin and Bourgeat laid before the members a description of the continuation of their experiments for obtaining the greatest amount of work from the fuel-air machines, as constructed so to be adapted to farming—remembering that of an ordinary steam engine. These gentlemen express a hope that the result of their thirty years' labour may be eventually the introduction of a new motive power superior to steam, and thus capable of inures beg the wealth and power of civilised nations. For the details we must refer our readers to the Comptes Rendus, vol. 60, No. 15.

Mr. G. R. Airy, F.R.S., Astronomer Royal, has written to the Royal Astronomical Society, stating that in December, 1863, Professor Brame, of Fontenay, in France, communicated to him "a plan for sawing granite, without reference to the issue of hearing or to the toxic of the process, at an economy of labour of not less than only a thousand, using a wire upon a relatively steady object." In March following Mr. Airy received from Professor Brame a model, accompanied by a letter, stating that another letter from Brame, dated before the society, Mr. Airy thinks that the date of Professor Brame's communication is the true one.

Dr. Wm. Wallace, F.R.S.E., has printed in the Chemical News (No. 281) a description of the method employed by the Egyptians in preparing ancient tanbingo in Egypt, Greece, Italy, and Cyprus. It is curious that the Egyptians should have derived their colours from a thousand miles in Europe by the hottest and farmed, resembling a piece of rock. Dr. Wallace states that the Egyptians, in order to fix the colour, first steeped the mortar in lime water, and then in a solution of alum. He believes that when the mortar has been freely exposed to the weather a certain proportion of alkaline or earthy silicate is formed, which, in all probability, confers hardness. He adds, "It is well known to builders that those walls are strongest that are built with the hardest mortar, and that when the mortar decays the bricks become crumbly, and possess little binding power. When kept wet for some time a mixture of lime and sand forms a kind of stone which will not only make the mortar itself harder, but will unite it more firmly with the bricks."

From Mr. Alexander Herschel's report on the progress of Meteoric astronomy in 1864, presented to the Meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society, we learn that the average height of shooting-stars at the beginning of observation is 76 miles, at the middle, 64 miles, and at their ending 19 miles, and that their average velocity is thirty-five miles per second. In the case of meteorites, or aerolites, or shooting-stars, but they all agree in penetrating our atmosphere from the outer atmosphere. Should they arrive within twenty miles of the earth's surface with a velocity of more than a mile per second, they are retarded and consumed by friction from the air. Mr. Herschel also gives the most recent information in regard to the periodicity of meteors, the radiant points of which, as far as possible, &c., have been fixed by him.

M. Riédrff has published his experimental researches on temperature produced by the freezing mixtures. He says that the temperature at a salt with snow or broken ice to the temperature of the two substances. Under the most favourable circumstances, the temperature will not sink lower than the point at which it began to freeze. As the freezing-point of a solution is the lowest temperature at which it can remain liquid, the maximum of cold produced will be obtained by mixing proportioned snow and cold pounded salt, or concentrated solutions. In the case of all the proportions of sulphate of potash, nal ammoniac, and other salts mixed with 100 parts of snow, and 100 parts of the concentrated solution, the three first parts of sea salt mixed with 100 parts of snow give a temperature of—21·00 deg. centigrade (—5·8 Fahrenheit).

In Mr. H. A. Newton's paper on shooting-stars, inserted in the last number of the American Journal of Science and Arts, he infers that the number of meteoroids in the space which the earth is traversing, he finds by calculation that, if the requisite allowance be made for the quantity acquired by the earth's atmosphere, in the mean, "in each volume of the size of the earth of the space in question, there are 2,000,000 of bodies such as we see there are no many as 10,000 swift bodies, each body as would form ah n the earth's atmosphere, and produce a shooting-star." He adds that "the subsequent history of the meteoroid, then, would be limited to a brief period of the proportions of sulphate of potash, nal ammoniac, and other salts mixed with 100 parts of snow, and 100 parts of the concentrated solution, the three first parts of sea salt mixed with 100 parts of snow give a temperature of—21·00 deg. centigrade (—5·8 Fahrenheit).

In Mr. H. A. Newton's paper on shooting-stars, inserted in the last number of the American Journal of Science and Arts, he infers that the number of meteoroids in the space which the earth is traversing, he finds by calculation that, if the requisite allowance be made for the quantity acquired by the earth's atmosphere, in the mean, "in each volume of the size of the earth of the space in question, there are 2,000,000 of bodies such as we see there are no many as 10,000 swift bodies, each body as would form ah n the earth's atmosphere, and produce a shooting-star." He adds that "the subsequent history of the meteoroid, then would be limited to a brief period of the proportions of sulphate of potash, nal ammoniac, and other salts mixed with 100 parts of snow, and 100 parts of the concentrated solution, the three first parts of sea salt mixed with 100 parts of snow give a temperature of—21·00 deg. centigrade (—5·8 Fahrenheit).

In our last we noticed the discovery by Mr. Mattieu Williams's account of the action of sulphur when employed in the voltaic battery. M. Edmé Filippi has also contributed a paper on the subject to the Cosmos. It appears that in this battery the electro-positive metal is zinc, and the electro-negative metal lead or tin, covered with a thin coating of sulphur; that when the battery is set in action a solution of sodium, more or less concentrated, on which is sprinkled a small quantity of sulphur in powder. M. Filippi states that this battery the advantages of economy, durability of action, and compactness; and considers that it will be found useful in practice. The battery is figured in Les Mondes, No. 18. He deduced the polarisation till M. Matteucci and made known the theory of this battery.

At a recent meeting of the Geological Society, Mr. Wh taker, of the Geological Survey, read a paper on the Tertiary strata of the south-east of the Isle of Thanet, of Buckinghamshire, and of the Isle of Wight. He stated that the Tertiary deposits of the London basin consist of sands, with many lenticular beds of clay, the former being treated the Margate, the latter the Brandlehurst, clouds, and Woolwich beds, and that, in many of the sands, the fossils from Kingsgate to Fyvgeil, between which places the thirty chalk rises up from beneath the Tertiary beds, are in a state of perfect preservation. He also understands that the Woolwich and Reading beds are found in the bottom of the former resting on a peculiar bed of tubular flint at the top of the latter. Mr. Whitaker distinguished the Tertiary strata of the Isle of Wight according to including chalk marl, the Totherdown stone, three beds without flints, chalk marl, and chalk with flints. He also stated that the chalk of the Isle of Wight, he pointed out that, as in that of Oxfordshire, the division between the chalk with flints and the underlying chalk marl is not the base of the chalk ("chalk-rock"), hard, of a cream colour, containing irregular-shaped green-coated nodules.

The appearance of the planet Mars formed the subject of a discussion at the meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society, in consequence of the exhibition of a number of diagrams, by Mr. J. Joynson, received from a correspondent in Australia during the opposition of 1864, and from a series of 104 taken during the late opposition. They were intended to give a general idea of the appearance and relative rotation, position of the various appearances of the disc. Mr. Joynson stated that his observations had led him to conclude that the belt of water which surrounds the planet is not continuous, but is broken up into irregular patches and islands, and also that the polar regions are not always of uniform darkness. Mr. Huggins stated that he had the impression that the light of Mars on Aug. 30 and Sept. 1 was unusually red, and the markings indistinct, then in November and suggested the possibility of learning something of the meteorology of Mars by the comparative degree of purity of successive observation. He expressed his concurrence with the opinion of Mr. Lockyer, that when the atmosphere of Mars is free from fog and cloud it might be a most ruddy in colour and the permanent markingsof its surface are to be seen with the greatest distinctness.

During May Mercury (in Aries) will be a morning star; Venus (in Aries) will be a morning star during the first half of the month and a morning star from the 6th to the end. On the 16th Mercury will be stationary in R.A. Mars (in Libra) will be a star all the month. Jupiter (in Scorpio) will rise on the morning of the 15th, 9m. p.m.; Jupiter (in Scorpio) will rise at 10h. 19m. p.m. on the 1st, and 8h. 19m. p.m. on the 31st. Saturn (in Virgo) will rise at 10h. 7m. p.m. on the 1st, and will pass the meridian at 2h. 16m. p.m. During May Mars will be in conjunction with the following stars:—On the 1st, with Spica Virginis; on the 2nd, with Omega Librae; on the 3rd, with Alpha Librae; on the 4th, with Beta Librae; on the 5th, with Gamma Librae; on the 6th, with Delta Librae; on the 7th, with Sigma Librae; on the 8th, with Tau Librae; on the 9th, with Upsilon Librae; on the 10th, with Phi Librae; on the 11th, with Chi Librae; on the 12th, with Psi Librae; on the 13th, with Omega Librae; on the 14th, with Alpha Scorpii; on the 15th, with Sigma Scorpii; on the 16th, with Tau Scorpii; on the 17th, with Upsilon Scorpii; on the 18th, with Phi Scorpii; on the 19th, with Chi Scorpii; on the 20th, with Psi Scorpii; on the 21st, with Omega Scorpii; on the 22nd, with Alpha Scorpii; on the 23rd, with Sigma Scorpii; on the 24th, with Tau Scorpii; on the 25th, with Upsilon Scorpii; on the 26th, with Phi Scorpii; on the 27th, with Chi Scorpii; on the 28th, with Psi Scorpii; on the 29th, with Omega Scorpii; on the 30th, with Alpha Scorpii; on the 31st, with Sigma Scorpii.

The permanent commission of inspection appointed by the French Minister of Public Instruction to examine into the state of the various museums of the empire has just published its report on those of Paris. From the account (says Galignani) it appears that the sum required to defray the expenses of the commission for the present year was 300,000 francs; salaries, 368,800f.; travelling expenses, 30,000f.; stock, 249,000f. Regarding the collections, the commission remarks that many of the animals kept there are too well provided for as they ought to be, in so far as regards their stabling or stock. It considers the maintenance of five elephants in the establishment as a useless expense, which however for the present is unavoidable. Two of these creatures were presented to the Emperor some time ago by the King of Siam and two others by the Viceroy of Egypt. The administration is endeavouring to procure a female elephant to keep the male company. The lodgements for the labourers are also insufficient for the 974 plants possessed by the administration; the nurseries are well provided, comprising 4,893 trees, 9,948 shrubs, 19,000 plants, and perennials. The botanical collection, moreover, possesses 61,116 dried specimens.

NEW MUSIC.

TREKELL'S BROOKLET. Morceau de Salon for the Pianoforte. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S GRAZIELLA. Romance Nocturne for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "JESSAMINE." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "TWO BUDS." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S "ROLAND." A celebrated French War Song. Transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S TWO HUNGARIAN MELODIES for the Pianoforte.
No. 1. ELEGY. Price 2s. 6d.
No. 2. THE GIPSIES' MARCH. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S LA SERA. Venetian Gondola Song, for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

J. F. BARNETT'S PASTORAL SCENE. A characteristic Piece for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE SAIL IS SPREAD. Song of the Homeward Bound. Written by Henry Farnie. Composed by BRINLEY RICHARDS. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE LOST STAR. New Song. Words by Henry Farnie. Music by W. VINCENT WALLACE. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

A NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.

THE ORGANIST'S PORTFOLIO: A selection of opening and concluding voluntaries, by the most celebrated composers, ancient and modern. Adapted chiefly for the use of amateurs, by Dr. RIMBAULT. Each number contains from seven to twelve favourite voluntaries, including one arranged expressly with pedal obligato. Nos. 1 to 6 are now ready, price 3s. each; or the six numbers in one volume, bound in cloth, 12s. A thematic list of contents may be had on application to
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S MEMORIES OF HOME. Just published, a new Fantasia for the Pianoforte, played by the Composer with immense success. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW DRAWING-ROOM MUSIC.

KUHE'S GUARDS' WALTZ. A brilliant arrangement of Godfrey's celebrated Guards' Waltz, for the Pianoforte. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S ORPHÉE AUX ENFERS. Now ready, a Fantasia on favourite airs from Offenbach's charming Opera. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S CUJUS ANIMAM (from the "Stabat Mater"). Arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50 New Bond-street.

KUHE'S O RUDDIER THAN THE CHERRY—Handel's celebrated Song, sung by Santley—transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

G. A. OSBORNE'S NEW COMPOSITIONS. FLEURETTE. Morceau de Salon for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d.
MARION. Nocturne for the Pianoforte. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW AND POPULAR DANCE MUSIC.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE VALSE. On Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE QUADRILLE. A new and charming Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE POLKA. On Airs from Offenbach's Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

MABEL WALTZ. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. A new and beautiful Set of Waltzes, which will eventually become as popular as the celebrated "Guards' Waltz," by the same Composer. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. Illustrated by Lynch. Orchestra, 3s.; Septet, 2s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ROYAL ALFRED QUADRILLE. A new Quadrille on favourite Nautical Melodies. Arranged by D. GODFREY, Composer of the "Guards'" and "Mabel" Waltzes. Illustrated. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE MILL-GROVE WALTZ. A new Waltz by GERALD STANLEY (Composer of the "Woodland Whispers Waltz"). Illustrated. Price 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

MARGUERITE WALTZ. On favourite Airs from Gounod's "Faust." By A. F. GODFREY, B. M. Coldstream Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS QUADRILLES. A new Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's popular Opera, "Orphée aux Enfers." By D. GODFREY, Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 4s. Illustrated.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS GALOP. A capital Galop, from Offenbach's "Orphée aux Enfers." By the Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 3s. Illustrated. CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' QUADRILLE. By the Composer of The Guards' Waltz. Just published, a new Quadrille on Popular Marches of the Brigade of Guards. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' WALTZ. By D. GODFREY. Played everywhere with the greatest success. Price (Solo or Duet) 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s.; Military Band, 15s.; Brass Band, 7s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

MELVIL CASTLE. Old Scotch Ballad. Newly arranged by Mrs. CAMPBELL, of Drimnamuchloch.
"Willie's gane to Melvil Castle, boots and spurs, an a',
To bid farewell to the leddies fair, afore he gaed awa."
Price 2s. 6d. BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

New Edition of

MARION'S SONG by CLARIBEL. This highly-popular Song will in future be published exclusively by BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

GOUNOD'S NEW SONG.

THE MESSAGE OF LOVE. Valse Ariette. 3s. Also, with Italian words, "La Messaggier a d'Amore." 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

GOUNOD'S NEW VALSE ARIETTE, arranged for the Pianoforte. A very brilliant and thoroughly original composition. By no means difficult. 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

ARDITI'S L'OROLOGIO, New Scherzo, with Italian words, 3s., or English words, "Tic tic," 3s.; also for the Pianoforte, 3s. This charming polka movement promises to become as popular as "Il Bacio." It has been sung (with unfailing encores) by Mdlle. Volpini and Mdlle. Carlotta Patti.
BOOSEY and CO.

NEW MUSIC.

FOR OPEN AIR SINGING.

MENDELSSOHN'S 26 FOUR-PART SONGS (Op. 41, 48, 49, 50), with English words complete, price 1s., cloth. Also, for Choral Societies, in 12 Numbers, One Penny each.—Published this day by BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

MDME. RUDERSDORFF'S NEW SONG.

SIGNOR GUGLIELMO'S IL BALLO. Song, in Polka time, introduced with invariable success by Mdme. Rudersdorff. Price 3s. Also arranged for the Pianoforte by the Author, 3s.—BOOSEY and CO.

Third Edition of

MDME. OURY'S SOUVENIRS D'EDINBOURG. New Scotch Fantasia, the most successful of all her recent pieces, 4s. Also, sixth Edition of "Auld Robin Grey" and "Bonnie Dundee," by the same brilliant writer, price 3s.; and third Edition of "Annie Laurie," transcription, 3s.
BOOSEY and CO.

STEPHEN HELLER'S PROMENADES D'AU SOLITAIRE, complete, price 1s. ("Booseys' Musical Cabinet," No. 85). Also, STEPHEN HELLER'S Twelve Short Pieces, 1s. ("Musical Cabinet," No. 80). Holles-street.

WINIFRED and MARGUERITE. Two new Pieces. By ADOLPH GOLLMICK, Author of "The Dripping Well," "A Happy Thought," &c. Published this day, 3s. each, by BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

Fourth Edition of

CAPRERA, by FORBES. Chanson Napolitaine for Pianoforte. Mr. Forbes's most popular piece.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

Second Edition of

CASTELLUCIA. By FORBES. Second Chanson Napolitaine, and companion piece to "Caprera."
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

LINDSAY SLOPER'S MIRELLA. Played by Mdme. Arabella Goddard with great success. Price 5s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

TAKE BACK THE HEART. A New Song, but already an immense success. By CLARIBEL, Author of "Maggie's Secret," "Janet's Choice," &c. Price 3s.
BOOSEY and CO.

THE NEW BARITONE SONG.

I ALWAYS FEARED A MARRIED LIFE. By J. L. HATTON. Sung by Mr. Weiss, Mr. Winn, and Mr. Lambert, with immense success.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

NEW MUSIC FOR VIOLIN.

OFFENBACH'S ORPHÉE AUX ENFERS, Opera complete, arranged for the Violin, 1s., just ready. Also, CLARIBEL'S 40 SONGS FOR THE VIOLIN, 1s. (This day.)
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

MOZART'S SONATAS, 10s. 6d. — Just published, BOOSEY and CO.'S new and complete edition of Mozart's Pianoforte Sonatas, printed from newly-engraved plates, and edited by W. Dorrell, Esq., of the Royal Academy of Music. In one vol., paper cover, price 10s. 6d. Also, the same work, with Memoir and Portrait of Mozart, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, price 16s.; or, half morocco, gilt edges, price 18s. Uniform with Boosey and Co.'s guinea edition of Beethoven's Sonatas. This edition will be found second to none in point of correctness or elegance of appearance.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' NATIONAL GLEE-BOOK contains Sixty of the most celebrated Glees, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 2s. 6d.; or, in crimson cloth, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

HENRY SMART'S IMPERIAL MASS of HAYDN (No. 3, in D), arranged in a complete form for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Published this day.
Also, uniform with the above,
HENRY SMART'S STABAT MATER (of Rossini). 3s.
HENRY SMART'S TWELFTH MASS (of Mozart). 3s.
BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MUSICAL PRESENTATION LIBRARY, Holles-street.

NOTICE.—HALF PRICE.—All Music and the best Editions, at half the published price, sent post-free for postage-stamps or Post Office order (bound works excepted).
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

A GEM FOR THE PIANO.

FLEETING THOUGHTS, by IUCHO, price 3s., is charming, and daily acquiring popularity.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A PRETTY DRAWING-ROOM PIECE.

MOUNTAIN ROSE. Reverie. By MULLER. Price 4s. This piece is exceedingly graceful, without being difficult.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.

COOTE'S ECLIPSE GALOP. Price 3s. This celebrated Galop eclipses all the others, and is the r[illegible]ing favourite.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW VALSE.

COOTE'S ORPHÉE VALSE, price 4s., on Airs from Offenbach's beautiful Opera.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET EVER COMPOSED

COOTE'S POLLY PERKINS QUADRILLE. Price 4s. Introducing Clifton's celebrated Songs, "Isabella," "Watercresses," "Have you seen the Ghost?" "Polly Perkins," &c.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW CALEDONIANS, with the Figures. Price 4s. One of the best quadrilles ever published by this popular dance composer, and will be sure to take its place with the celebrated Cure Lancers by the same Composer.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

COOTE'S INNOCENCE VALSE. Price 4s. "This simple and beautiful Valse has become quite the rage of the season."—Review.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

VERY DANSANTE.

COOTE'S KINGFISHER POLKA. Price 3s. The best Polka ever written.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE LAST SUCCESS.

COOTE'S CROQUET GALOP. Price 3s. With a beautiful Illustration of the Game in colours.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.

COOTE'S PAUL-Y-TOOLE-Y-TECHNIC QUADRILLE on the popular Songs sung by Messrs. J. L. Toole and Paul Bedford, comprising "He, She, and the Postman," "Jolly Nose," "The Whistling Song," "Married on Wed-nes-day," and "A Norrible Tale." Price 4s.
"Enthusiastically received at Alfred Mellon's Concerts, and proved a most brilliant success."—Vide Times.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PERFORMED AT THE STATE BALL.

COOTE'S HUMMING-BIRD VALSE. 4s. Considered the best set of Valses by this popular Composer.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET OF LANCERS ARE

COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s. Introducing "The Pilgrim of Love," "My Pretty Page," "So Early in the Morning," "The Cure," and other popular Airs. A real merry set. No dance programme complete without them. Always redemanded.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED EVERYWHERE.

COOTE'S EXTRAVAGANZA GALOP. 3s. The greatest hit of the season.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW SONG FOR CONTRALTO,

MY THOUGHTS ARE OF THEE ONLY, price 2s. 6d., by SHIRLEY, is greatly admired.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW CHRISTY SONG,

THE BEAUTIFUL DAISY, by SHIRLEY, price 2s. 6d. "This song is full of melody, and has the most charming chorus we have ever listened to."—Review.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

HARRY CLIFTON'S NEW SONG,

THE WEEPIN' WILLER; or, The Miller's Daughter, price 2s. 6d., is the best comic song published.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A MOST AMUSING COMIC SONG.

HAVE YOU SEEN HER LATELY. Price 2s. 6d. Sung by Albert Steele.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

IMMENSE SUCCESS AT THE ADELPHI.

J. L. TOOLE'S NEW SONGS.
Bob Simmons's Courtship .. .. .. 3s.
He, She, and the Postman .. .. .. 3s.
A Norrible Tale .. .. 3s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE FUNNIEST SONG OF ALL.

MATILDA TOOTS. Price 2s. 6d. "You should have seen her boots."
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

EXTRAORDINARY SUCCESS OF

HARVEY'S CELEBRATED IRISH AIRS Fantasia, for Piano, containing "Love's Young Dream," "Garry Owen," &c. Free for 25 stamps, from
EVANS and CO., 77, Baker-street, Portman-square, W.

MISS GABBIEL'S LATEST SONG.

THE GARDEN OF ROSES, by VIRGINIA GABRIEL, is the most popular of all her compositions. Free for 19 stamps, from EVANS and CO., 77, Baker-st., Portman-sq., W.

NEW PIANOFORTE MUSIC. The following are some of the most popular Pianoforte Pieces lately published by EWER and CO.
BLUMNER, S.—Am Meer. Fantasiestück (dedicated to her Royal Highness the Princess Mary of Cambridge) .. 4s. 0d.
COENEN, W.—Chant du Barde. Morceau de Concert .. 4s. 0d.
" Le Papillon au reveil. Fantasie .. .. 4s. 0d.
HARDISTY, J. E.—Abendroth, 3s.; Sonnenaufgang .. 3s. 0d.
KORNATZKY, F.—Le reveil des oiseaux. Improvisation brillante .. .. 4s. 0d.
LEUPOLD, F.—Soleil couchant. Nocturne .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
LISZT, F.—Ave Maria (d'Arcadelt) .. .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Hallelujah (d'Arcadelt) .. .. 4s. 0d.
O'LEARY, ARTHUR.—L'Adieu. Chanson allemande .. 3s. 0d.
" Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," transcribed .. .. 3s. 0d.
" Schumann's "Fröhlicher Landmann," transcribed .. .. 3s. 0d.
SCHULTHES, W.—La Regata, 4s.; Esmeralda .. 4s. 0d.
SPINDLER, F.—Chanson populaire, 4s.; Le Carillon, 3s.; Une feuille de rose, 3s.; Un conte de fées, 3s.; Valse aerienne, 3s.; Une rose sans épines, 4s.
WOLLENHAUPT, H. A.—Marche hongroise, 3s.; Valse héroique, 4s.; Caprice aérien, 4s.; Un fil de perles, 4s.; Valse gracieuse, 4s.
Sold by all Musicsellers in town or country.
London: EWER and CO., Musical Library, 87, Regent-street.

THE SOLDIER'S LEGACY: OPERA DA CAMERA.
The Libretto by John Oxenford; the Music by G. A. MACFARREN, as performed at Mr. German Reed's Gallery of Illustration, by Miss Robertine Henderson, Miss Emily Pitt, Mr. Whiffin, and Mr. Shaw.
"It is impossible to enumerate the many beauties of this operetta."—Musical Times.
"Fresh, pretty, and harmonious, this work will give greater pleasure than many a grand opera."—Punch.
"This operetta will gratify the most refined taste, and may be agreeably represented even by a party of four amateurs in a drawing-room."—Daily News.
Price of the complete Opera, Six Shillings net.
The following Ballads are also published separately:—"O, Welcome, Young Soldier!" "I never knew, my heart hold fast;" "A simple tune sometimes we hear;" "You promised to come with the dawn of day." Half price, 1s. 3d. each.
London: EWER and CO., Musical Library, 87, Regent-street.

HATTON'S MOST SUCCESSFUL NEW SONG.

FAIR AND FALSE. 2s. 6d. Post-free for sixteen stamps.
EWER and CO.'S Musical Library, 87, Regent-street, London.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Pianino to which the Prize Medal was awarded).—A very elegant Pianoforte, of small size, the full compass, check action, and most perfect touch, admirably adapted to Small Rooms, Yachts, Boudoirs, &c. Warranted to keep in tune and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte, with check action and all the latest improvements.
Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 25 and 26 guineas. A great variety may be seen at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTES.—To amateurs preferring the pure English tone of the Broadwood or Collard quality, the English Model will be found the most perfectly satisfactory instrument, at a moderate price. The action is of the same simple description as the above makers', and therefore especially adapted to the country, where the more complicated actions are objectionable to many of the tuners. In elegant rosewood case, with full fret, similar in every respect to other instruments at 50 guineas, price 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the newest kinds by those celebrated makers, may be tried side by side (and hired with option of purchase) at the new Show-rooms of
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, in solid mahogany or plain walnut, the best English manufacture, with perfect check action, the full compass, and all the latest improvements. Messrs. Chappell strongly recommend this instrument as superior to any other pianoforte at or about the same price, whether new or secondhand.
50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas; other varieties at 25 and 35 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues and Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM, by ALEXANDRE, with five octaves, two footboards, and in oak case. These instruments are lower in price and superior to all other cheap Harmoniums. Descriptive lists on application to
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDRE, nearly (if not quite) as good as new, at greatly-reduced prices, at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION MODEL HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, 13 stops, 4 rows of vibrators, and Venetian swell, worked by the heel of the right foot, in oak case, 32 guineas. A large assortment may be always seen at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

BOOSEY AND CO.'S HARMONIUMS (English) of the best description, at prices from 6 to 140 guineas, in every possible variety. The Cottage Harmonium, with full compass, 6 guineas. The School Harmonium at 10 guineas. Church Harmoniums at 20, 25, and 40 guineas. Catalogues gratis.—BOOSEY and CO., Holles-street, W.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MINIATURE PIANO, price 17 guineas, in a walnut case, full compass. This instrument is confidently recommended as the best cheap piano before the public. The touch and tone are alike excellent, and the workmanship is of the best description.
Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 25-GUINEA PIANO has the Check Action, and is in a highly-finished elegant walnut case, with every modern improvement. The touch is elastic, and the tone of that pure rich quality that especially distinguishes first-class English pianos.
Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 35-GUINEA PIANO is a model Cottage English Piano, and no better can be desired. It is in a richly ornamented case, has the registered keyboard, as well as the new grand compass of seven octaves.
Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

MUSICAL BOXES.—BOOSEY and CO. beg to announce the arrival of a large supply of MUSICAL BOXES from the celebrated Nicole, of Geneva, made expressly to their order, and containing all the newest and most popular music of the day, including selections from "Faust," "Mirella," &c. Lists upon application.—24, Holles-street, W.

ENGLISH CONCERTINAS, by LACHENAL, Full compass, with all the latest Improvements, warranted for hot climates, and to keep well in tune, from Two guineas, with case, lock and key, &c.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO., pre-eminent for their
Silver Cups and Tankards,
Electro-Silver Plate,
Volunteer Rifle and Boating Prizes,
Strongly-plated Spoons and Forks,
Officers' Canteen-Cases,
Family Plate-Chests,
Table and other Cutlery,
Vast Show-rooms and Galleries,
Illustrated Catalogues post-free.
West-End House, 77 and 78, Oxford-street.
City House, 71 and 72, Cornhill.
Manufactory—The Royal Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO., 77 and 78, Oxford-street. City House, 71 and 72, Cornhill.

DINNER, DESSERT, BREAKFAST, TEA, and TOILET SERVICES.—A large assortment of new and good patterns. Also a beautiful variety of every description of Cut Table Glass. The stock is well selected, and admirably suited for parties furnishing to choose from.
First-class quality, superior taste, low prices.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill, E.C. Established 1760.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, DINING-ROOM, consisting of vases, figures, groups, candlesticks, inkstands, obelisks, inlaid tables, &c., in Alabaster, Marble, Bronze, Derbyshire Spar, &c. Imported and Manufactured by J. TENNANT (late Mawe), 149, Strand, W.C.

GARDNERS' LAMPS ARE THE BEST.—MODERATOR and PARAFFIN TABLE LAMPS, from 5s. 6d. each. Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (four doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GARDNERS' DINNER-SERVICES, best quality. Illustrated Catalogues post-free.—Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (4 doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GASELIERS in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze. Mediæval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures.
D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 55 and 56, High Holborn, W.C.

CHANDELIERS in BRONZE and ORMOLU for DINING-ROOM and LIBRARY, Candelabra, Moderator Lamps, in Bronze, Ormolu, China, and Glass. Statuettes in Parian, Vases, and other ornaments.—OSLER, 45, Oxford-street, W.

OSLER'S Crystal Glass CHANDELIERS, Wall Lights, and Lustres, for Gas and Candles. Table Glass, &c.
Glass Dinner Services, for 12 persons, from £7 15s.
Glass Dessert Services, for 12 persons, from £2.
All articles marked in plain figures.
Ornamental Glass, English and Foreign, suitable for presents.
Mess, Export, and Furnishing Orders promptly executed.
London—Show-rooms, 45, Oxford-street, W.
Birmingham—Manufactory and Show-rooms, Broad-street.
Established 1807.

PATENT SPRING PILLOWS.—These Pillows are strongly recommended by the Medical Profession to Invalids for affording great ease and comfort, especially when travelling. They are alike adapted for the bed, couch, or carriage. To be had of W. H. BATSON and CO., 1, Maddox-street, Regent-street. Eiderdown Quilts of every colour and size.

TO LADIES.—GREEN TISSUE IVY LEAVES, for ornamenting Chimney-glasses. 18 stamps per set of 72 slips. Tissue for Stove Aprons, 8 stamps per packet; 6 for 40 stamps.—R. PETERS, Tovil, Maidstone.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—G. HOOPER, Artist in Hair.—Solid Gold Lockets for Hair, from 5s. each; Hair Rings, from 6s. 6d.; Hair Alberts, from 25s. each, &c. Illustrated Catalogues sent free.—213, Regent-street, London.

A. FORRER, Hair Jeweller to the Queen, 2, Hanover-street, Hanover-square, W.

M. F. DENT, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen and to the principal Courts of Europe.
M. F. Dent, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, London.

120 SHEETS OF NOTE-PAPER for 6d.; 120 thick ditto for 1s.; 120 sheets ditto, black-bordered, for 1s.; 250 useful Envelopes for 9d.; 1000 extra large ditto for 4s. 6d.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, W.

STRAW WRITING-PAPER (PARKINS and GOTTO'S). Pleasanter to write upon than any other. Has a hard, smooth surface, well adapted for the steel pen, and cheaper than any other writing-paper, being only 3s. the ream of 20 quires. Parkins and Gotto, Paper and Envelope Makers, 25, Oxford-street.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS, to last for years, bound in a superior manner with leather joints, plain and elegantly mounted, in great variety, at moderate prices. A choice of 3000.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-street, W.

PURSES, pocket-books, cigar-cases, card-cases, wallets, opera-glasses, scent-bottles (double and single); pencil-cases; fans, note-cases, &c., the largest Stock in London. N.B. Choice articles selected and sent post-free to the country upon prepayment.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-st.

15,000 BIBLES, PRAYER-BOOKS, and CHURCH SERVICES, in every variety of type and binding. Suitable for presents.
PARKINS and GOTTO'S Bible Warehouse, 25, Oxford-street.

500 DRESSING-CASES and DRESSING-BAGS, of the best manufacture, and fitted in the most complete manner for ladies or gentlemen. DESPATCH-BOXES, INKSTANDS, ENVELOPE-CASES, BOOK-SLIDES, RETICULES, PURSES, BLOTTING-BOOKS, &c. The public supplied at TRADE PRICES.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-st., London.

2S. PRIZE WRITING-CASE, fitted with Paper, Envelopes, Blotting-book, Pen-case, &c., can be sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom upon receipt of 28 stamps to PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London.

DANCE PROGRAMMES (Perfumed); Invitation and At-Home Note-paper; Return Thanks; Bordered Note-papers; Dinner Lists; Dish and Dessert Papers; Household Papers.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 25, Oxford-street.

COLOURED STAMPING REDUCED TO 1s. per 100. No charge for plain stamping paper and envelopes from parties own dies. Monogram, Crest, and Address Dies cut at half price.—PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, W.

MONOGRAM, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES cut at half price, and remain the property of the customer. No charge for plain stamping; coloured stamping reduced to 1s. per 100. Writing-paper and Envelopes supplied to the public at wholesale prices.
PARKINS and GOTTO, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, W.

CROQUET.—Nice Present to Children. PARKINS and GOTTO'S 15s. set of Croquet, the cheapest in London, sent into the country, carriage-paid, on receipt of P. O. order.—Parkins and Gotto, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, London, W.

CROQUET.—PARKINS and GOTTO'S.—The largest stock in London, from 15s. to 5 guineas. Any set sent into the country, carriage paid, on receipt of the amount. A first-rate set, full size, 30s.
Price-list on application post-free.
Parkins and Gotto, 24, 25, 27, and 28, Oxford-street, London, W.
N.B. The trade and shippers supplied on liberal terms.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS, at HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly. Mounted and Ormolu Suites for the Boudoir, Toilette, and Writing-table; and a variety of useful and elegant novelties suitable for presentation.

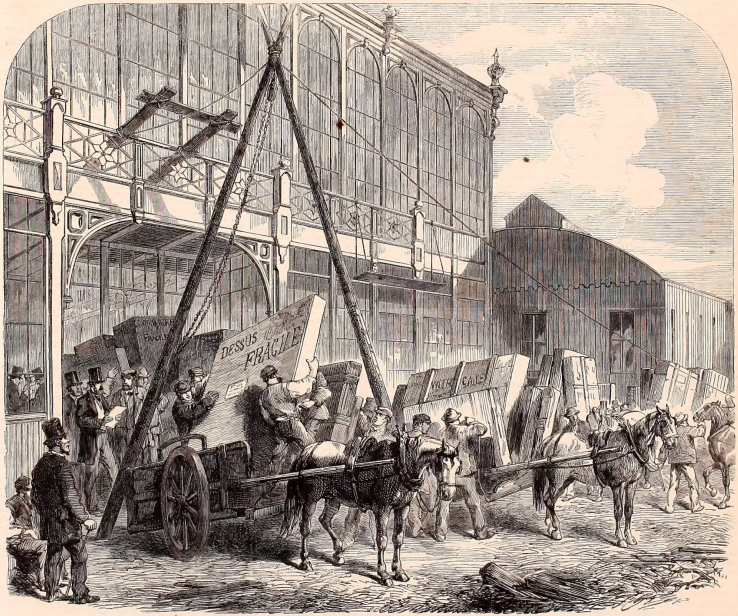
RODRIGUES' DESPATCH-BOXES and TRAVELLING WRITING-CASES, in russia or morocco, of the best quality. Elegantly-mounted Envelope Cases, Blotting Books, Inkstands, and Bookslides, at H. Rodrigues', 42, Piccadilly, W.

RODRIGUES' DRESSING-CASES and TRAVELLING DRESSING-BAGS, with silver or plated fittings, in every variety. Carriage Bags, Reticules, Jewel Cases, Cigar Cases, and Purses. At Henry Rodrigues', 42, Piccadilly, W.

NO CHARGE MADE for STAMPING PAPER and ENVELOPES with Arms, Crest, or Monograms plain. Rodrigues' Cream-laid Envelopes, 4d. per 100; Cream-laid Note, full size, five quires for 6d. At H. RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY APRIL 29, 1865.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.



No. 1314.—VOL. XLVI. SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1865. WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

MR. GLADSTONE'S FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

THERE are not many things within the range of political exposition comparable with Mr. Gladstone's yearly financial statements. His genius is most at ease just where that of other men is most cramped—in the domain of statistics. A national balance-sheet strikes most people as utterly wanting in all the materials of effective oratory. Formerly, lucid explanation of its figures was regarded by Chancellors of the Exchequer as the utmost it was capable of, and to have made its primary meaning clear to everybody's apprehension was the highest praise to which they aspired. Mr. Gladstone, on the contrary, looks upon this achievement as if it were quite rudimentary—as the mere grammar of his subject. Nothing can be more precise, nothing more translucent, than his statement of public accounts. He arranges and expounds them with such consummate art that "he who runs may read;" but then they suggest to the Chancellor's imagination hosts of collateral and illustrative topics. His penetrative insight discerns in the barest columns of figures the most precious elements of social and political truth, and out of the rough ore with which he has to deal he delights in fashioning a countless variety of flashing, beauteous, and wondrously significant inferences, each of which casts a side light, as it were, upon his main design. He turns a Budget into a poem. He makes the most sterile rock contribute something to the fascination and meaning of his picture. You go to him to be instructed on a matter that promises very little interest, and you come away not only instructed but conscious of that pleasurable exaltation which the contemplation of beauty and perfection in art never fails to awaken.

The financial statement of the present year will not take rank with the very best of Mr. Gladstone's efforts of the same kind. It exhibits, indeed, the characteristic features of the master's former productions, but scarcely, perhaps, in an equal degree the subtle and finely-proportioned relation of part to part, nor that all-pervading radiance of persuasive earnestness which imparts such a charm to his logical declamation. Two considerations will go far to account for this—the first that the broad facts of his case were themselves so pleasing as scarcely to admit of being enhanced by eloquence of statement; the second, that there were no difficulties in prospect to put the orator upon his highest mettle. Nevertheless, it was a display of intellectual vigour, of mastery over the multifarious details of his subject, of an interpretative power to extract from them their full amount of meaning, and of felicitous exposition, which we should expect from no other man, in or out of office. It will not raise the Chancellor's reputation, but neither will it lower it. It does not touch as might well have been the brand of Mr. Gladstone's name without detracting from the admiration which that name excites in connection with all questions of national finance.

THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION: DELIVERY OF GOODS AT THE FOREIGN AND FINE-ARTS' ENTRANCE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

The opening of the statement was as happily conceived as it was thoroughly executed. The present is the last Session of the existing Parliament. It seems natural enough, now that the thing has been done; but it would probably have occurred to none but Mr. Gladstone to select this moment for a task that has been achieved by it from its opening until now. The result, on the whole, is more favourable than might have been anticipated, considering that this Parliament has acquired a reputation for extravagance beyond any of its predecessors since the period of Reform. Since 1859-60, its first year, the true expenditure of the country, says Mr. Gladstone, has been reduced by the precise amount of £1,314,000. The following year, 1860-1, was the year of its highest expenditure, and up to that there has been a decrease of £6,547,000. Compared, however, with 1858-9, when the extensive operations connected with the military and naval departments commenced, and the year immediately preceding that in which the Budget Committee of Commons was elected, our expenditure at the present date shows an increase of £5,442,000; and if we go back to the year immediately anterior to the outbreak of the Russian War, we shall find the scale of our national outlay to have increased to the enormous extent of £12,459,000. The fact is that the Parliament now about to expire commenced with a high rate of taxation, not much higher, and certainly gradually retrenched so far as to make its last amount lower by a million and a half than its first. "The expenditure of this period," remarks the Chancellor of the Exchequer, "has been a large one; yet, no doubt, I do not know of a period of our most history, the expenditure, small or great, has been more entirely in consonance with the general views, wishes, and feelings of the nation at large."

As to the financial year ending the 31st of March, 1865, the statement is still more satisfactory. The net surplus of revenue over charge is £3,231,000, and over the estimate of the Chancellor at the beginning of the year, £3,185,000; and the increase over 1864 is very materially augmented by increased excise, income tax, stamps, and post office. The productiveness of taxation has been growing for many years past. Mr. Gladstone, by a reduction of the process of which he lucidly explained the rank growth during the last twenty years—from 1840 and 1852 inclusive, at £1,020,000 a year: from 1853 to 1859, at £1,240,000 a year; from 1859 up to the present period, at £1,760,000 a year. But this gradual growth of revenue cannot safely be relied on for a series of years, except in a bad harvest or an unlooked-for calamity may at any time reduce it, or cause it to disappear altogether. It does, however, prove the productive energy of the country to be steadily and progressively increasing. From March 31, 1860, to March 31, 1865, the national debt has been diminished by the sum of £17,646,000. The general trade of the United Kingdom is also highly encouraging; and, compared with the trade of France, of Belgium, and of Holland, and especially of Austria, shows that our immense advantages have "resulted from the apparently simple, but, in practice, sufficiently difficult process of removing bars, fetters, and obstructions, devised by the perversity of man in the various forms of human industry, and trusting to the simple expedient of freedom for the development of the productive powers of the country." The several lines of argument by which the Chancellor of the Exchequer reached this conclusion are not equally valid within our limited space. Some of them will be thought fanciful; all of them are ingenious, and have an aspect of novelty that is devoid of suggestiveness; but we apprehend, Englishmen, whether conducted to it or not by Mr. Gladstone's reasoning, will arrive at the same result by one of those broad generalisations which result from the combined use of a large experience and a sound common-sense as they accept or agree with him in every syllable of the glowing tribute he paid to the memory of the late Richard Cobden, "who bore a larger share than any other man in realising this blessing for the country."

We come now to the Budget proper. The national expenditure for the financial year just opened is set down at £66,129,000. The estimated revenue derivable from present sources is £67,000—showing a probable surplus of income over charge of £4,031,000. "What will he do with it?" was the query heard from all sides until Thursday se'nnight. That question has received a generally satisfactory answer. Mr. Gladstone proves himself to be a financier of many and various occasions, by way of whetting the appetite for his more substantial fare. He did so, as usual, last week. He announced a reduction of the stamp duty on the letting of small tenements for periods of less than a year from 6d. to 1d.; an alteration in the scale on which appraisements are taxed, "so that property amounting to £5, instead of paying the minimum tax of 2s. 6d., should pay a proportionate duty of 3d., and so on, upwards:" a remission to special pleaders and conveyancers similar to that allowed to attorneys and solicitors; a reduction of stamp duties on certain ecclesiastical licenses; on charterparties, from 3s. to 6d.; on marine insurances; and on insurances upon accidental death, personal injury, and plate glass. These are his minor proposals. We will not traverse with him the rather wide field of discussion over which he passed previously to his exhibition of the larger boons he had in store for her Majesty's subjects. The country will, no doubt, bow to the decision which excludes the malt tax from Mr. Gladstone's present Budget; and the agriculturists, at least, will read his lengthened argument in support of that decision with curiosity and interest, if not with conviction. We feel ourselves compelled to skip that episode—thoroughly Gladstonian as it was—for "more attractive metal." The duty upon tea will be reduced to 6d. in the pound, which will entail a loss of £1,868,000 upon the present financial year, and a further loss of £207,000 per year. The income tax is to be lowered by twopence in the pound—that is, from 6d. to 4d.—thus bringing down its annual yield after the reduction has taken full effect to £5,200,000. The sire insurance duty is to be put on the footing recommended by a resolution of the House of Commons passed on the 21st of March, and made uniform on all property insured, at 1s. 6d.; besides which the one shilling duty now charged on policies will be converted into a penny stamp and a penny receipt for the payment of the money, a loss to the present year's revenue of £200,000 and of an equal sum additional next year. There will thus be a total relief of taxation to the amount of £2,400,000, of which £1,778,000 will take effect in the present financial year, leaving a marginal surplus in the hands of Government of £253,000.

Such, in substance, is the right hon. gentleman's financial statement for 1865-6. In point of fact, no less than in manner, it is calculated to give great satisfaction. We can conscientiously echo the concluding words of the Chancellor of the Exchequer's magnificent speech in reference to his proposals:—"I am sure and strong in the persuasion, that, of all, they are likely to win the approval of this House; and, secondly, that they will likewise obtain the favourable verdict of the nation over the interests of which it is our duty to watch."

THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

The preparations for the opening of the Dublin International Exhibition on Tuesday next are proceeding with the utmost activity in every part of the Exhibition Palace and of the adjoining grounds. On Monday night the Palace was lighted up for the first time, and presented a very brilliant appearance, viewed from the gardens outside. Inside it looked almost as well; but the many operations of the multitude of workmen in progress were not calculated to make a long-lived stay in the interior. Great progress has been made in the unpacking and arrangement of the articles, and the glass cases which line both the nave and transept, both on the ground floor and galleries, are now being put in their places by the contractors. The display in the entrance-hall already makes a noble show, although the display is still incomplete. A new feature has been introduced. Above the entrance on the front page of our Paper shows the scene of boats at the bridge and fine arts' entrance, where pictures and other valuable artistic wares are constantly being delivered. The "Royal Irish Fusiliers' Band" has been received from the Duke of Cambridge to the effect that he is to accompany the Lord Lieutenant to Dublin on Tuesday, the 8th, the day on which the Prince is to arrive, there is to be an illumination of the public buildings, and on the night of Tuesday, the 9th, the day of the opening, there will be the Lord Mayor's ball at the Mansion House. The Prince of Wales, the 10th, there is to be a grand military review in the park, by his Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief, and the night of the 10th, the day of the Prince's departure, that the Academy of Music will take place at the Exhibition Palace. Whether the Prince of Wales will be present at this ball is not yet known. Some of the visitors who have already arrived in Dublin on a day after day, walking in the beautiful picture-grounds attached to the Crystal Palace, have expressed a wish that for this purpose there should be a grand illumination of the Exhibition Palace itself. The Empress's reception at Lyons, which he entered without escort, was enthusiastic. On crossing the suspension bridge to show himself on the balcony of the Hôtel de Ville to a countless multitude the cheers rends went to the skies, and the throng's the crowd. Next morning he visited the Faubourg of the Croix-Rousse in the same fashion, passing through a breach of the walls which he had made in the time of the Empire. The enthusiasm continued all the railway station, before leaving for Marseilles, he again met and passed through a crowd of 100,000 persons. Arrived at Nice on Sunday after a journey hence. At Marseilles an ovation awaited him from 200,000 people; the Prince of Wales arrived there on Wednesday warm as Southon blood could make it. A grand dinner took place on board the Victoria and Albert, at which the Empress of the French and Mendez Morning. An immense crowd assembled to witness the manœuvres. The Empress of the French and Prince of Wales, in order not to arrive at Algiers during the night. He was to proceed to his voyage the same evening. The sea has been high, but the weather was beautiful, and the Empress was in excellent health.

The Empress held her first Cabinet Council as Regents, on Wednesday afternoon, at the Tuileries. Rumour of the Council's decision continues to float, indicating that the palace is still the abode of Sovereignty.

In Paris, as in London, public opinion has emphatically expressed its satisfaction at the way in which the Regency has been entered. The Emperor at once sent an aide-de-camp to call upon the Minister of the United States, conveying the sympathy of the French President Johnson the expression of his Majesty's profound affliction. During the sitting of the Corps Législatif, on Monday M. Haussy communicated to the House the despatch of M. Drouyn de Lhuys to the Minister of the United States, conveying the sympathy of the French Government on account of the assassination of Mr. Lincoln. Rouher spoke in high terms of the energy and firmness, as well as the conciliation and generosity displayed by the late President, and expressed a hope that the work of pacification which he had commenced might be completed by his successor. M. Jules Favre, M. Schneider, the President of the Corps Législatif, expressed, on behalf of the Chamber, its entire concurrence in the sentiments expressed by the Government. A demonstration similar in effect was made in the Senate. A national meeting of American residents, to express their sentiments regarding the murder of the late President, was held on Tuesday, at the residence of Mr. Bigelow, the new Minister.

SPAIN.

The Senate has adopted the bill for the abandonment of Santo Domingo by ninety-three against thirty-nine votes.

Both Houses have unanimously passed resolutions expressive of horror at the assassination of President Lincoln and of sympathy with the people of the United States.

The proposal of Senor Rios Rosas for a Parliamentary inquiry into the events of the 10th ult. has been rejected by 134 against 134 votes.

The anniversary of the Spanish Revolution of the 2nd of May was celebrated at Madrid on Tuesday. The Government employés took part in the fête. The streets were thronged with people. Perfect order and tranquillity prevailed.

The Official Gazette publishes a decree accepting the resignation of Senor Gutierrez, Civil Governor of Madrid, and appointing Senor Martin Belga his successor.

BELGIUM.

King Leopold has much improved in health, though great care, it is stated, is still necessary. His Majesty attended Divine service, on Sunday, in the chapel of his palace.

ITALY.

The bill for the suppression of religious corporations has been withdrawn, the Government having declared to be one of its acts.

The flag at the entrance of the Chamber of Deputies has been draped with black in token of sympathy in mourning for President Lincoln.

Following order of the day has been carried:—"The Chamber, in taking leave of Turin, declares that this city to have deserved well of the country, and trusts that the Italian cause, so valiantly sustained by her, may very soon obtain its definitive triumph."

AUSTRIA.

On the proposal of Dr. Berger, the Lower House of the Vienna Reichsrath has unanimously voted an address to the American people expressing their sympathy on account of the assassination of President Lincoln and their best wishes for the future of the United States." The Government has also expressed to the American Minister at Vienna and to the United States Government, through the Austrian representative at Washington, its deep sympathy, with a hope that the unhappy event will not be detrimental to the re-establishment of peace and to friendly relations with foreign Powers.

PRUSSIA.

In consequence of the assassination of President Lincoln and the attempt on the life of Mr. Seward, Herr von Bismarck has addressed a letter of condolence to the American Minister at Berlin; and in the sitting of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday week Herr Lowe proposed, in very excited terms, an address expressing sympathy with America, observing that, from his personal acquaintance with the late President, he could certify to the greatness of his character, for which he had the deepest veneration. The members rose in token of their concurrence in the proposal.

DENMARK.

At Copenhagen, on the 29th ult., Earl Cowper, on the part of her Britannic Majesty, presented the insignia of the Order of the Garter to the King of Denmark, who, on Monday following, held a chapter for the ceremony, which lasted an hour, all the Danish Ministers and many of the Danish Princes being present. In the evening a banquet took place at the Amalienborg Palace in honour of the Embassy.

RUSSIA.

The body of the late Czarewitch has been placed on board the Russian frigate which is to convey it to Cronstadt. The Czar has thanked the Prefect, the Admiral, and the Mayor of Nice for their attentions. All is now ready for the start.

An Imperial manifesto has been published at St. Petersburgh proclaiming the formal betrothal of Prince Alexandrovitch, heir to the Crown. The Czar has given his benediction to the new Czarewna.

The Journal de St. Petersburg publishes a semi-official article expressing sympathy with the American people on account of the assassination of Mr. Lincoln, and hoping that Mr. Johnson will prove himself to be a worthy successor to the late President.

The breaking-up of the ice in the Neva has taken place, and the port of Cronstadt is entirely free.

AMERICA.

The steamers Edinburgh and Moravian bring news from New York to the 22nd inst.

President Lincoln's funeral was solemnised with great state at Washington on the 19th inst., a procession of civil, military, and naval officers, including President Johnson, General Grant, Admiral Farragut, Rutler, Butler, Governors, and others, followed the remains. Business was entirely suspended throughout the North. The body of the President was removed from Washington on the 21st ult., and arrived in Baltimore at 10 o'clock that night. On the railway station in the latter city an immense civic and military procession attended its conveyance to the Exchange, where it remained until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Thence it was conveyed to Harrisburg, reaching there in the evening. On the 23rd inst. it would arrive at Philadelphia, and remain there till the 24th ult., whence it would be taken on to New York, arriving on the morning of the 25th. The remains of the latter in state until the hour for the grand procession to move on the following day. Thence they would be taken to Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis, and Chicago, to Springfield, public honours having been rendered to them in each place.

All civil, military, and naval officers have been ordered to wear mourning for Mr. Lincoln for six months.

We now learn that Mr. Seward recovered from the horror and grief throughout the northern states at the assassination of Mr. Lincoln. The foreign Governments have sent a deputation to Europe of Mr. Lincoln's family expressions of their sympathy; the British and French authorities in Canada have held a meeting, at which condolences expressive of deep sympathy were passed; and the Confederate Government at Paris has also passed resolutions of sympathy on Mr. Lincoln's assassination, and expressing sympathy for his family. The Confederate Government at Richmond condemned in the strongest terms the atrocious deed some mention is made in other parts of this Journal.

Mr. Seward, by latest accounts, was better, and he sat up for a short time on the 20th inst. The wounds in his throat and neck, and on his neck, for the support of his broken jaw, saved him, it is said, from fatal wounds. A portion of the wounded wrist has come away in order for, upon the same evening on which the attack was made, the Secretary's coloured attendant, who was watching by his bedside, rose to relieve it from an extraordinary pressure of blood. Mr. Frederick Seward, who was wounded in the face, was regained consciousness.

Booth, it appears, is still at large, but the men supposed to have taken his murderous part in the attack on Mr. Seward's house, and which, Seward, has been arrested at Washington. His name is Surratt, and the assassin's servants are said to have identified him. It is also said that a resident of Baltimore has confessed to complicity in the deeds, and been arrested, but there is really no trustworthy intelligence of either of the villains. A man named Conrad has been arrested for discovery. The assassin of the President left behind him a hat and a coat. The hat bears the name of "Wilkes, Washington," and was identified as one belonging to the suspected man Booth; the gear had been left behind in the hurry of flight, and has been identified as that secured at a stable where the same man hired a horse in the evening. A letter of Booth, found in the pocket of the assassin's coat, and stating the capture of Mr. Lincoln, has been only an intimation that he contemplated assassination.

The Diplomatic Corps have visited President Johnson. Baron Gerolt, Prussian Minister, read an address of condolence, and expressed hopes for the early re-establishment of peace and the maintenance of friendly relations with foreign Powers.

Mr. Frederick Seward has presented his condolence. He expressed deep sympathy at Mr. Lincoln's death, and said that her Majesty had always been desirous of preserving friendly relations and that a good understanding, so long happily existing between England and America. In reply, President Johnson said that Queen Victoria and Johnson expressed pleasure at her Majesty's friendly sentiments, and said that the interests of civilisation and humanity required that England and America should be friends. He always accepted it as an honourable fact that the Queen was a sincere and honest well-wisher of the United States.

President Johnson has made several speeches in reply to the addresses of delegates from different parts of the Union; but he has afforded no definite indications of his policy, though he has repeated his declaration that treason is the highest crime, and that traitors must be punished.

It is thought Mr. Johnson's intoxication on the day of his inauguration as Vice-President was a most exceptional occurrence, the combined result of natural excitement and two glasses of spirits taken by medical advice. It is affirmed that Mr. Johnson is not a dram-drinker, but habitually a sober man in the strictest sense of the word. We gladly take this view of the case. Still, the fact must weigh against him that he suffered himself to be "overtaken" (to use the mildest euphemism at one's command) on such an august occasion. From the memoir of the new President—given, with a Portrait, in another part of this Journal—it will be seen with what energy he raised himself, step by step, from his originally obscure condition; and it is to be hoped, for the welfare of his country as well as for his own credit, that his good genius will not desert him now that he has attained the summit of man's ambition. President Johnson evidently feels the weight of responsibility cast upon him, and has borne himself with a dignity and prudence which are reassuring.

Mr. Johnson having vacated the vice-presidency, the office devolves upon Mr. Lafayette S. Foster, of Connecticut. According to the laws of the United States, in case of the death of both the President and Vice-President, the President pro tempore of the Senate becomes Chief Magistrate.

The greatest order continues throughout the Northern States.

General Anderson formally replaced the United States flag on Fort Sumter on Friday, the 14th ult., when the Rev. Ward Beecher and others delivered patriotic addresses.

General Lee has arrived at Richmond, where he was enthusiastically received both by the Unionists and Confederates. Lee's farewell order says that, after four years of arduous service, marked by unsurpassed courage, the army had been compelled to yield to overwhelming numbers and resources, and had surrendered to avoid useless sacrifice of life.

It is reported from Richmond that Mr. Jefferson Davis and his Cabinet have reached Augusta and established a Government there, preparatory to flight to the Transmississippi Department.

The surrender of General Johnston, which, under existing circumstances, could not long be delayed, is announced, but not as yet upon what appears to be trustworthy authority. Mosby also is said to have laid down his arms, and Rosser is stated to have made propositions to the same effect. After a series of hard fights the Confederates were driven from the outworks of Mobile, and on the 12th ult. it was found that they had evacuated the place. This was their last seaport. An expedition from Charleston has destroyed 1000 bales of cotton, and all the railway bridges between Columbia and Florence, and has brought in 2500 slaves. 5000 more are waiting to come in.

The latest quotation of gold at New York was about 49½ per cent premium.

The New York Chamber of Commerce has passed resolutions of condolence on account of the death of Richard Cobden.

BRITISH NORTH AMERICA.

The murder of President Lincoln has called forth in the British provinces the utmost indignation and numerous expressions of deep sympathy with the Northern States at their bereavement. The Governor of Nova Scotia, in consequence of the assassination, postponed his intended visit, and recommended the adjournment of the Legislature as a mark of sympathy. The day of the solemnisation of President Lincoln's funeral in Washington (the 19th ult.) was observed in the principal cities of the provinces by a partial suspension of business and the closing of the public buildings.

Great floods have taken place in the district of Berthier, in Canada. Several islands in the St. Lawrence have been submerged, and many lives and much property lost.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

A donation of £1000 has been paid to Mr. J. Gurney Hoare, the treasurer of the Albert Orphan Asylum, by a friend, "in memoriam."

Among the votes to be proposed in the House of Commons by the Government this Session is one of £10,000 as a contribution towards the funds for the establishment of a fire brigade in London.

The Lord President of the Council has fixed Saturday (to-day), at twelve o'clock, for holding a conference with those who are interested in establishing metropolitan district museums. The meeting will take place in the lecture theatre of the South Kensington Museum.

The first step in bringing about a considerable addition to the dock accommodation of London was taken on Monday, when the first turf of the Dagenham Docks was turned in the presence of a large company. The company under whose auspices the docks are to be made intend to utilise the lake on the Essex side of the river, just below the northern outfall sewer.

Colonel Waugh has hardly been delivered from the meshes of his great bankruptcy before he is involved in another—of much less amount, however, than the first. He has been arrested for debts amounting to about £2400, chiefly incurred while undergoing his late incarceration and preparing his statements. His new petition was dated from Whitecross-street Prison, and the commissioner did not fix any day for his release.

At the Royal Botanic Society's third spring fête, last Saturday, there was an abundance of May and June flowers. Of the exhibition we cannot speak too highly, roses in full bloom, azaleas, cinerarias, pelargoniums, calceolarias, auriculas, rhododendrons, and very many rare and curious plants, combining to form a delightful mass of bright colours and beautiful forms. The band of the 2nd Life Guards was in attendance during the afternoon.

The West London Industrial Exhibition—held in the Floral Hall, adjoining the Royal Italian Opera—was opened, on Monday, by the Right Hon. W. Cowper, M.P., the Chief Commissioner of Works. A large number of persons was present, and the hall was handsomely decorated with wreaths and banners, while a musical performance was given by a volunteer choir and orchestra. A special prayer was offered by the Archbishop of York; and the Old Hundredth Psalm, Hallelujah Chorus, and the National Anthem were sung. Space has been granted for 1087 exhibitors; and the collection ranges in aim and design from oil painting and statuary down to an ingenious arrangement of a vast number of postage-stamps.

The births of 2205 children—1140 boys and 1065 girls—were registered in London last week. In the corresponding weeks of ten years 1855-64 the average number (corrected for increase of population) was 2013. The deaths in London in the same period were 1344. The average number for the seventeenth week in ten years (corrected) is 1332. From zymotic diseases in the aggregate the deaths were 270; 79 children died from whooping-cough; 55 deaths occurred from typhus, 9 from smallpox, 21 from scarlatina, 4 from diphtheria, and 11 from measles. 239 deaths occurred from diseases of the respiratory organs (exclusive of phthisis); in the previous week the number was 338. 119 persons died from bronchitis, 86 from pneumonia, 181 from phthisis, 161 from diseases of the brain and nervous system, and 50 from diseases of the heart.——In the week that ended on Saturday last the births in London and nine other large towns of the United Kingdom were 4162; the deaths, 2687. The rate of mortality last week was 23 per 1000 in London, 28 in Edinburgh, and 28 in Dublin; 30 in Liverpool, 27 in Manchester, 22 in Salford, 22 in Birmingham, 29 in Leeds, 21 in Bristol, and 31 in Glasgow.

The annual meeting of the Zoological Society of London was held at their house, 11, Hanover-square, last Saturday—Sir George Clerk in the chair. From the report, read by Dr. Sclater, F.R.S., the secretary, it appeared that the number of fellows, elect fellows, and annual subscribers was 1965, showing an increase of 200 since last year. There was also a considerable increase in the income of the society, its total revenue for 1864 being £21,713, which exceeds that of 1863 by £1429; the average of the three ordinary years preceding the Exhibition year, 1862, was about £16,000. The number of visitors, or rather of entrances, to the society's gardens in the last year was 507,169. After paying the year's expenditure there was a balance of £8871 in favour of the society. The council further reported the completion and opening of the new monkey-house, aviary, and other structures in their gardens in the Regent's Park, as well as the successful mission of Mr. James Thompson, the head keeper, to fetch some valuable animals from India, including two rhinoceroses, with several species of hornbills, and other rare birds. The list of animals exhibited for the first time during the last year comprised eight mammals, twenty-three birds, two reptiles, and two fishes. Several of these have appeared among the Illustrations in our own Journal. In conclusion, the council remarked that, from the experience of the past two years and the prosperous commencement of the present, the yearly income of the society might be reckoned, under ordinary circumstances, likely to reach the amount of £20,000. Allowing £17,000 for the ordinary expenses of the present large establishment, a surplus of £3000 remained, which might be devoted to extraordinary works, without intrenching on the society's reserve fund. The report having been adopted, the following gentlemen were elected the new members of council for the year:—Viscount Bury, M.P.; Mr. Charles Buxton, M.P.; Mr. J. Travers Smith, Mr. R. H. S. Vyvyan, and Mr. G. H. Waterhouse. The president and other officers were re-elected.

THE MAY MEETINGS.—The meetings of religious and charitable institutions held about this time, and generally known—those of religious societies especially—under the above heading, are in full operation.

The annual general meeting of the members of the Wesleyan Missionary Society was held, on Monday morning, in Exeter Hall—Mr. Francis Lycett presiding. The chairman passed a high eulogium upon the character of the late president, the Rev. W. Thornton, who died about two months since. He spoke of the zeal, activity, and devotion of the late president on behalf of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, the object of which was to sweep every form of idolatry, cruelty, and superstition from the face of the earth. The society was prosecuting its work with success in Western India, in Ceylon, in West, Central, and Southern Africa, in the Friendly Islands, and last, though not least, in Fejee. They were, moreover, hopeful of gathering in a glorious harvest from Italy and China. He expressed his regret that the income of the past year had been less than the expenditure. The report stated that the total amount of receipts for the year had been £141,899, the expenditure being £145,000. There are at present in connection with the society 4659 chapels and other places of worship; 958 missionaries; 1408 paid agents; 17,779 unpaid agents; 141,735 accredited members; 13,873 unaccredited students on trial; and 140,584 scholars and pupils. The report entered at great length into the operations of the society in its various fields of labour, and congratulated the society upon the success which had attended those efforts.

The anniversary meeting of the Church Missionary Society was held, on Tuesday, at Exeter Hall. Lord Chichester occupied the chair, and was supported by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishops of London, Ripon, Huron, Rupert's Land, and Grahamstown, and a large number of clergymen and gentlemen. The noble chairman, in introducing the business of the meeting, gracefully alluded to the assassination of President Lincoln, whom he described as one of the purest-minded, most honest, and ablest of American citizens, and whose untimely end he was sure everybody most deeply deplored. He spoke in high terms of praise of the labours of the great people of the United States in the wide field of missionary enterprise. He complained of the want of funds felt by the society, and the consequent curtailment of its operations, and said that if large funds were not forthcoming the society would not be able to hold its own. He concluded with an eloquent appeal to the public for increased support. The Rev. H. Venn then read the report, which was of a very encouraging character. The ordinary income for the past year had been £144,464, chiefly owing to legacies. The expenditure exceeded the regular income by £3900; but contributions from the India and China fund enabled them to cover that. The amounts for the year were unusually large, and therefore they carried £6000 to the capital fund, because the increase of funds this year was exceptional. The grand total of funds received from all sources amounted to £164,464. The Archbishop of Canterbury moved and Canon M'Neile, of Liverpool, seconded the report, which was unanimously adopted. Numerous other speeches were delivered.

The seventh triennial conference of the Society for the Liberation of Religion from State Patronage and Control began its sittings at Freemasons' Hall on Tuesday morning. Not less than 700 delegates were in attendance, representing all parts of the country. Mr. Edward Miall was unanimously chosen as the president of the conference. He reviewed the proceedings of the society, and showed how much had been accomplished and how much remained to do. The results achieved justified, he said, a confident belief that the course pursued by the society had brought to bear upon public opinion an educational influence of the most successful kind. Mr. Miall's address was warmly applauded. The treasurer's account showed an income from donations and subscriptions of £4554 during the past year. The other side showed a balance in hand of £131. Another meeting was held in the evening, when Mr. Henry Lee, of Manchester, presided, and an able paper was read by the Rev. N. Haycroft, of Bristol, on "The Present Position of the Anti-State-Church Movement." Resolutions were moved, and practical addresses delivered, by the Rev. John Pillans, of Camberwell; the Rev. Johnson Barker, of Leicester; the Rev. Charles Vince, of Birmingham; Mr. Joseph Spencer, of Manchester; Mr. Alfred Illingworth, of Bradford; the Rev. W. Best, of Leeds; and Mr. John Norris, of Bristol. The treasurer went at some length into the financial condition of the society, and a resolution was proposed and unanimously carried for the raising of a special fund during the next five years of not less than £25,000. Several subscriptions to this fund had already been made, and during the evening the secretary stated that the amount received was between £12,000 and £13,000, composed of sums varying from £5 to £500, and including the following:—Mr. George Hadfield, M.P., £500; Mr. James Sidebottom, £500; Mr. Robert Johnson, £500; Mr. Robert Rumney, £125; Mr. Henry Lee, £250; Mr. Joseph Thompson, £100; Mr. Joseph Spencer, £150; Mr. Samuel Dewhurst, £100; Mr. Abraham Heyworth, £100; Mr. T. B. Potter, M.P., £500; Mr. Titus Salt, £500; Messrs. Crossley, £500; Mr. William Edwards, £500; and Mr. Samuel Morley, £500. The conference met again on Wednesday morning, and a soirée was held in the evening at the Hanover-square Rooms.

The members of the British and Foreign Bible Society held their annual meeting at Exeter Hall on Wednesday. The Earl of Shaftesbury presided, and there were present on the platform the Bishop of Rochester, Bishop Anderson, Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, the Bishop of Huron, Bishop Jones (of the United States), Lord Charles Russell, the Hon. Arthur Kinnaird, M.P.; Mr. George Moore, the Rev. T. Binney, and other gentlemen. The Bible Society, founded in London in 1804, soon became the parent of many others. At the present time the societies in connection with it are—In Great Britain, 3894; in the colonies and other dependencies, 1154; Ireland has 495; and there are about 4000 foreign branches: making a total of about 9543. When the society was established the translations of the Bible, in whole or in part, might have been about 50: there are now 169 languages or dialects in which the society has promoted the distribution, printing, or translation of the Scriptures—directly, in 125 languages or dialects; indirectly, in 44: making a total of 169. The number of versions (omitting those which are printed in different characters only) is 209. Of these, 157 are versions prepared since the year 1804. The circulation of the Scriptures shows also a great increase. During the past four years the number was 81,157 copies—last year alone, at home and abroad, 2,450,127 (including 539,041 portions): total from the commencement, 47,989,579. Other Bible societies, aided in former years by grants from the funds of the British and Foreign Bible Society, have been instrumental in distributing nearly 35,000,000 more; so that the circulation, by means of these combined societies, amounts to nearly 83,000,000 copies of the Holy Scriptures, in whole or in part. By the translation, printing, and circulation of the Bible within the present century, the records of inspired truth have been rendered acceptable to about 600,000,000 of the human family. The receipts of the past year amounted to £187,454; the expenditure to £169,742. Many effective speeches were delivered.

The annual meeting of the London City Mission was held on Thursday, when the secretary read a report giving the following summary of the receipts, the number of missionaries, their work, and its results during the past year:—Missionaries, 394; hours spent in domiciliary visitation, 548,707; visits paid, 2,048,581, of which to the sick and dying, 246,467; scriptures distributed, 6024; religious tracts distributed, 3,385,938; books lent, 48,665; indoor meetings and Bible classes held, 46,738; average attendance at ditto, 30; gross attendance at ditto, 1,393,893: outdoor services held, 4025; average attendance at ditto, 92; gross attendance at ditto, 370,933; readings of scripture in visitation, 632,254; communicants, 1313; backsliders restored to Church communion, 220; families induced to commence family prayer, 595; drunkards reclaimed, 1140; unmarried couples induced to marry, 274; fallen females admitted to asylums, restored to their homes, or otherwise rescued, 420; shops closed on the Lord's Day, 187; children sent to schools, 9354. The receipts had been:—General funds, £40,041; disabled missionaries' fund, £731.

The anniversary festival of the Friend of the Clergy Institution took place, on Tuesday, at Willis's Rooms, under the presidency of Sir Hugh Cairns, M.P. The majority of the guests were clergymen, and the total number of gentlemen who sat down exceeded one hundred. This society has been in existence thirteen years; during that time it has entered upon the books of the institution 135 lady pensioners, and laid out in pensions about £29,000. It has also granted to clergymen in temporary distress nearly £9000, making a total of £38,000 expended by the society since the period of its formation. A subscription-list was read, amounting to £500, including a donation of thirty guineas from the chairman; and it was at the same time stated that the income of the society during the past year was £5000.

The annual examination of the students and general meeting of the friends and supporters of the Home and Colonial School Society was held, on Monday, at the schoolhouse in the Gray's-inn-road, under the presidency of the Rev. J. M. Andrews, in the absence of the Earl of Chichester. The report of the committee spoke in congratulatory terms of the working of the society, drawing especial attention to the operations in the training department, and the report of the Rev. Mr. Cook, her Majesty's inspector for female schools, upon that branch. In the first year there were forty-nine students for girls, and mixed schools of the first year, and sixty-three of the second year, against seventy-one and forty-nine respectively in the year 1863. There were twenty-six students trained to manage infant schools, against fifteen in the previous year. The society had trained sixty-three teachers for two years, under the Government minutes of August and December, 1846, and seventy-five teachers for twelve months. There were twenty teachers not under the Government minutes; seven engaged for schools, and sent to be trained; five recommended as assistants, two recommended to foreign stations, and sixteen governesses for families and private schools: total, 188. The committee reported satisfactorily of the working of the schools. The financial statement showed, under the head of Government account, receipts, £5559; and the expenditure, £5529. The receipts of the non-Government branch had been £2432, and the expenditure, £2429. The report was adopted, and the meeting addressed by the Rev. W. M'Call, Rev. W. Fleming, Rev. H. Boyd, Rev. Canon Champneys, Rev. J. E. Evans, and others.

The annual festival of the Royal Free Hospital was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, on Monday night—E. Masterman, Esq., treasurer, in the chair. There was a large attendance. The chairman, in proposing "Success to the Hospital!" drew attention to the catholic principles on which the institution was conducted, and said he thought it was impossible that the benevolent could do otherwise than support it. Amongst the year's contributions were a gift of £1000 by a lady who would not allow her name to transpire and £500 by Rustomjee Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy. Still he was sorry to say that their annual subscriptions were only about £2000, although their expenses were increasing. It was an interesting fact that in their box for the subscriptions of the poor was no less a sum than £2 2s. 7½d., or 2046 farthings. The "Health of the Founder, William Marsden," was drunk with loud applause, and that gentleman returned thanks. The total amount of subscriptions and donations announced during the evening was £4430.

The annual meeting of the friends and subscribers to the British Asylum for Deaf and Dumb Females was held on Tuesday, in Exeter Hall. During the year a purchase had been made of a building and grounds for an asylum, at a cost of £4186, of which sum £2431 had been subscribed, the balance being made up from the reserve and other sources. The new asylum is situated in a most healthy locality in Clapton. The receipts during the year had been £3690, and the expenditure had been such as left a balance in hand amounting to £371. A most satisfactory report of the progress of the industrial education of the inmates of the asylum was read.

The annual meeting of the Systematic Beneficence Society—the ally, not the rival, of other benevolent institutions—was held on Wednesday, at Exeter Hall—Sir F. Crossley, Bart., presiding. There was a numerous attendance, many gentlemen connected with philanthropic and religious objects being present. The meeting was addressed by several speakers, who illustrated from experience the necessity for such an institution, and the feeling of the meeting was testified by a large collection at the close.

The annual meeting of the Association for Promoting the General Welfare of the Blind was held on Tuesday, at the institution in the Euston-road, at which Sir John Anson presided. The report, as read and unanimously adopted, pointed out that the number of blind persons receiving assistance was last year 170. The receipts of the year had been £5725, and the expenditure, £4981.

Sir Henry Dymoke, the Hereditary Champion of England, died yesterday week, aged sixty-four, after an illness of only two days, from diphtheria.

Mr. Bulwer Lytton has been appointed Secretary of Legation at Lisbon; Colonel Neale, from Japan, replaces Mr. Lytton as Secretary of Legation at Athens; Mr. Scott, third secretary at Copenhagen, is transferred to Stutgardt.

The Circassian exodus from the eastern coast has recommenced. News having reached the Porte that 8000 immigrants are awaiting transport, two Government steamers have been sent to convey them to Trebizond.

Two French artists, MM. Elias Robert, sculptor, and Gabriel Davioud, architect, have obtained the first prize in the international competition opened by the Portuguese Government for the erection of a monument in Lisbon to Dom Pedro IV. Eighty-five plans were presented, among which are twenty-eight from France.

The detectives at Queenstown arrested one of the passengers by the Edinburgh who bore a resemblance to Booth, the assassin of Mr. Lincoln, and the telegraph carried to all parts of the country the startling announcement that Booth had been captured. It turned out, however, that the unfortunate prisoner was Mr. O'Neil, who is described as "bearing an extraordinary likeness" to the murderer. He has, of course, been set at liberty.

Mr. John Rea is again before the public as the opponent of the whole power of the House of Commons. He persisted on Tuesday in speaking in a committee-room when ordered to be silent. The chairman finally ordered policemen to turn him out; and this was done, but not until Mr. Rea had warned the Committee that he had four millions and a half of Irish Catholics at his back.

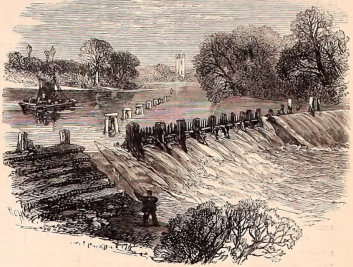
The horror which the murder of Mr. Lincoln has excited in England is being daily expressed in one form or another. The Queen has written a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Lincoln; and both Houses of Parliament have, at the instance of the Government, addressed the Crown, asking that the sentiments which animate them may be known to the Government of America. Besides the two large meetings held in St. James's Hall, of which particulars are given elsewhere, the working classes of London met, on Thursday, at St. Martin's Hall, and passed addresses of condolence with Mrs. Lincoln and the American people. Meetings for a similar purpose have been held in every important town in the kingdom. The usual spring county meetings in Scotland were, with one or two exceptions, held on Monday. At nearly all it was resolved to transmit to the American Minister in London addresses expressive of the sorrow and indignation with which the commissioners of supply and justices of the peace had learned the news of the assassination of President Lincoln, and of their sympathy with the American people under that calamity.

THE CHINESE EXHIBITION AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

AN interesting collection of porcelain, jewels, furs and silks, and other precious things, brought from the Emperor of China's Summer Palace, near Pekin, by Captain De Negroni, an officer of the French army, when the palace was plundered and burnt in September, 1860, is now on view at the Crystal Palace. A few of the most remarkable specimens of art in this collection are represented in our Engraving. In the foreground are two very pretty and ingenious timepieces, of French or Italian workmanship, which were sent to the Chinese Court at some period in the last century as gifts from one of the European Sovereigns of that time. The stands of these timepieces are furnished with machinery by which the small figures of birds displayed in their upper compartments are made to move and to chirp or sing. In one case, as our readers will see, there are two of these little birds in a cage of golden filigree, which is ornamented with fine pearls and enamels. The mechanism beneath is extremely complicated, and produces a great variety of movements in the wings, tails, beaks, and eyes of the little birds, with tones very like a bird's natural notes. The other timepiece, or rather clock-stand, is so placed that the bird which it contains does not appear in our Illustration; the compartment which holds the bird, perched on a golden spray or twig, is open only behind, while the front of the clock-stand, which has the general form of a flagon or large vase closed with a stopper, displays the clock dial and the escapement above it, set with diamonds, rubies, sapphires, emeralds, and turquoises. The stopper serves for a key to wind up the mechanism. On the other side of the birdcage clock, in the front row of the articles shown in our Engraving, is a very curious specimen of Chinese art—a large sardonyx, carved into the shape of a grotto, with two monkeys in it. The different colours of this stone have been skilfully managed, as in a cameo, so that the grotto itself is left entirely red, whilst one monkey is white, and the other is yellow. Immediately behind this fantastic object is a magnificent cabinet of red Pekin lacquer, which had been nearly four centuries in the possession of the Emperors of China. Its top is covered with figures of dragons surrounded with a border of peculiar ornamentation, which consists of the signet of the Ming dynasty. On the sides are various domestic scenes and landscapes of inlaid jade-stone; the handles and clasps, also, are of the richest and finest workmanship. Still further back, raised upon a table or bracket just above the clocks in the centre of our Engraving, is seen a beautiful work of ivory-carving in the form of a ship or junk, with several men wielding their oars at the side and at the stern of the fairy vessel, which is surmounted by a dainty pavilion reared high above the deck. The ends of the hull of this junk are shaped like the head of a bird. These, indeed, are hidden in the present Illustration by the large vase on the left hand, and on the right by another fine piece of carved jade, which represents the colossal hand of the goddess Fo-Ki, or Justice, enfolded in a rhubarb-root wrapped up with acanthus-leaves—an arrangement having, we presume, some mystical or symbolical meaning in the Chinese philosophy. The cylindrical vase, or cup, which stands in front of the last-mentioned object, is a cameo made from a true chalcedony; the different colours of its regular layers, which are distinctly marked, have been dealt with so as to show the brown figures on a ground of greenish white. This vase, which is of exquisite design and workmanship, was made by command of a Chinese Emperor who was contemporary with Louis XIV. for the use of Kien-Long, the favourite Court poet, to dip his pencils therein for writing. The Imperial library, we believe, was burnt by the French soldiers on the occasion when Captain De Negroni carried off this booty; yet the poems of Kien-Long may still be extant. The smaller vessel, a pan or basin of grey jade, with handles of a grotesque shape, bears an inscription recording that it remained 800 years in the tomb of the Emperor Chi-en-Fan, and was then removed with appropriate ceremonies. It is of a fabulous antiquity, no doubt.

THE NEW ARCADIAN EXTRAVAGANZA AT THE ADELPHI THEATRE.

IN our Impression of the 15th ult. we gave some account of the "new and original Arcadian pastoral extravaganza," written by Mr. Henry Byron, and entitled "Pan; or, The Loves of Echo and Narcissus," which has had great success at the Adelphi Theatre during the last three weeks. We now present an Illustration of one of the most effective scenes, in which there is an apparition of the rustic deity, attended by a train of satyrs, to express his displeasure with the young people of the village because the fair Syrinx, whom Pan has condescended to love, is rather inclined to love Narcissus. Mr. Toole is a most humorous representative of Pan, first disguised as a peasant among the crowd of mortals, and afterwards in the grotesque majesty of his mythological character, bearing a queer resemblance to the idol or statue of Pan, which is erected at one corner of the stage.



THE CASCADE IN THE GARDENS OF THE DUBLIN EXHIBITION PALACE.—SEE PAGE 422.

SCENE FROM THE NEW EXTRAVAGANZA OF "PAN," AT THE ADELPHI THEATRE.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

BREEDING-PONDS AT SUNBURY.

FISH-LADDER AT HAMPTON.

WORKS OF THE THAMES ANGLING PRESERVATION SOCIETY.

FISH-BREEDING ON THE RIVER THAMES.

THE Thames Angling Preservation Society is an association which has been in existence these twenty-seven years past, but has been suddenly called into increased activity and a new phase of usefulness by the practice of fish-culture introduced into this country by Mr. Frank Buckland and Mr. Stephen Ponder. A very agreeable and instructive excursion was made up the river, on Saturday, the 22nd ult., under the direction of Mr. W. H. Whitbread and other prominent members of the society, the object being twofold—the inspection of progress in the hatching of fish and the viewing of improved arrangements for their preservation. The method of propagation is an improvement on the French system, no glass bars being used for supporting the ova, but simply well-boiled gravel placed in slate boxes, through which runs the continuous stream of water indispensable to the operation. The parent fish are caught in distant waters, and the eggs taken from them are carefully and scientifically manipulated. In a period of time varying, according to temperature, from sixty to one hundred days, the young fish are hatched. They subsist for about six weeks on the egg, which remains umbilically attached to their wriggling, active little forms; and when they are ready to seek their food in the open waters they are turned thither to seek it. At this very time, "skeggers," or young salmon fry, which have been draughted into the river in former seasons, may be seen in the shallows; and they are not unfrequently caught by anglers and returned to the water. The party on Saturday, having taken luncheon at one of those quaint old inns to which Thames anglers resort, repaired to the grounds of Mr. Stephen Ponder, at Hampton, where they saw in one of his conservatories the whole process of hatching in a small compass. They then took boat, and were towed up to Sunbury, where is a lock, by the side of which is a pond, artificially contrived to vary in depth, and filtering back into the river at the lower level. We give an Illustration of this contrivance. About 4000 young and healthy fish, all with the egg-bags attached, were turned from a large tin pail into the pond. Here they will receive a twelvemonth's education, at the end of which they will be sent out to seek their fortunes in the stream. The next visit of the excursionists was to Pecker's Ait, where the old river course has left a pond, in which, instead of salmon and trout, jack and perch are bred for the behoof of the more humble bottom-fishers. The company then went to Moulsey weir, where the salmon-ladders are placed. These salmon-ladders enable fish to surmount a height of fall which, judging roughly by the eye, we should call 10 ft. The salmon-ladder, as shown in our second Illustration, is like a series of troughs arranged stepwise, and with alternate changes in the position of the side openings near the ends, so that the water flows gently down them in a zigzag stream, against which the fish very easily make their way.

ARTICLES IN THE CHINESE EXHIBITION AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.—SEE PAGE 433.

BIRTHS.

On the 26th ult., at Thornton-le-Street, Yorkshire, Countess Cathcart, of a daughter.

On the 26th ult., at The Ryes, Sudbury, Suffolk, Lady Florence Barnardiston, of a daughter.

On the 24th ult., at Berkley House, near Frome, the Hon. Mrs. Edmund Dickinson, of a daughter.

On the 27th ult., at Great George-street, Westminster, the Hon. Mrs. John G. Talbot, of a son.

On the 2nd inst., at Wellshot House, Lanarkshire, the wife of Captain Maclean, the Prince Consort's Own Rifle Brigade, of a son.

On the 29th ult., at Lawrie Park, Sydenham, the wife of G. L. Clowser, Esq., of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 27th ult., at St. Peter's Chapel, in Westminster Abbey, Lady Adelaide Emily Feilding, daughter of the Earl of Denbigh, to C. A. Murray, Esq., son of the late Hon. Mr. Murray, and nephew to the Earl of Mansfield.

On the 23rd of March, at St. Michael Church, Kingston, Jamaica, by the Rev. Dr. Bradshaw, assisted by the Rev. T. B. Turner, Rector of Port Royal, John Davidson, Esq., of Sherwood Forest, St. David, to Caroline, eldest daughter of Patrick C. Crichton, Esq., London. No cards.

On the 26th ult., at the parish church, Eye, Northamptonshire, by the Rev. George Thurnell, M.A., Incumbent, Edward Clapham, M.D., of Devizes, eldest son of John Clapham, Esq., of Thorney Abbey, Cambridgeshire, to Emily Catherine, third daughter of the late Edward Thurlow Leeds, Esq., of Eyebury, near Peterborough. No cards.

DEATHS.

On the 27th ult., at Penzance, Anna Maria, Dowager Lady Clanmorris aged 88.

On the 25th ult., at Wighill Park, Yorkshire, the Hon. Edwin Lascelles, suddenly, of apoplexy, aged 64.

On the 1st inst., at Watford, Herts, Sarah Harrow, the beloved wife of George Tidcombe, in her 58th year.

* The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.*

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 13.

SUNDAY, May 7.—Third Sunday after Easter. Monster Repeal Meeting on the Curragh of Kildare, 1843.

MONDAY, 8.—King Charles II. proclaimed at London, 1660. The great French chemist, Lavoisier, guillotined at Paris, 1794.

TUESDAY, 9.—Death of Count Zinzendorff, founder of the sect termed the Moravian Brethren, 1760; and of the great German poet, Frederick Schiller, 1805. Half-quarter day.

WEDNESDAY, 10.—Death of Louis XV., and accession of Louis XVI., of France, 1774. Napoleon's victory over the Austrians at Lodi, 1796. Full moon, 8h. 22m. p.m.

THURSDAY, 11.—The Empress Maria Theresa crowned at Prague, 1743. The great Earl of Chatham died, 1778. Easter Term ends.

FRIDAY, 12.—The amiable Princess Elizabeth of France guillotined, 1794. Wellington passed the Douro and Soult precipitately retreated, 1809.

SATURDAY, 13.—Old May Day. King John surrendered his Crown to Pandulf, the Pope's Legate, 1213. Pope Pius IX. born, 1792.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 13.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
—	0 9	0 32	0 51	1 11	1 31	1 48	2 4	2 20	2 37	2 56	3 12	3 29	3 45

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.
Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	Daily Means of: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Thermometer: Minimum, read at 10 a.m.	Maximum, read at 10 A.M.	Wind: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles	Inches
April 26	30·109	64·0	40·5	·45	3	38·4	74·5	N. NNE.	117	·000
27	30·043	67·3	42·5	·43	0	45·1	76·4	WSW. W.	127	·050
28	29·945	57·0	44·6	·65	3	42·2	70·7	NNE. ENE.	306	·000
29	30·040	43·5	32·6	·68	3	39·9	50·8	E.	604	·000
30	..	..	..	..	..	35·2	50·9	..	433	·000
31	29·941	49·9	40·5	·72	9	33·1	58·7	SE. SW.	172	·000
May 1	29·977	56·3	45·4	·69	7	45·5	64·2	SSW. SW.	379	·075

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m. :—

Barometer (in inches) corrected	30·145	30·113	29·980	30·076	29·995	29·931	29·931
Temperature of Air	61·2°	65·8°	55·4°	46·3°	47·2°	55·8°	58·3°
Temperature of Evaporation	53·9°	55·0°	51·9°	40·5°	40·3°	48·6°	51·6°
Direction of Wind	N.	CALM.	NNE.	E.	ENE.	SW.	SSW.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY LANE.—Managers, Messrs. E. FALCONER and F. B. CHATTERTON.—Triumphant and Unprecedented Success of the production of Milton's Mask of COMUS (vide Public Press).—Last Nights but Six of the present Season. On MONDAY, MAY 8, Wednesday, May 10, and Friday, May 12, the new and successful Play, in Five Acts, by Mr. Edmund Falconer, entitled LOVE'S ORDEAL; or, The Old and New Regime.—Principal Characters by Messrs. Walter Lacy, E. Phelps, J. Neville, Edmund Falconer, H. Sinclair, A. Raynor, G. Belmore, Fitzjames, Mrs. Hermann Vezin, Mrs. H. Vandenhoff, Miss R. Leclercq, and Miss C. Weston. On Tuesday, May 9, for the last time this season, Macklin's Comedy of THE MAN OF THE WORLD—Sir Pertinax Macsycophant, Mr. Phelps. On Thursday, May 11, and Saturday, May 13 (for the first times this season), Shakespere's Tragedy of KING LEAR—Lear (first time at this Theatre), Mr. Phelps; other characters by Messrs. R. Roxby, E. Phelps, H. Marston, A. Raynor, H. Barrett, J. Neville, &c.; Miss Poole, Miss Atkinson, Miss C. Weston, and Mrs. Hermann Vezin. To conclude with, each evening, Milton's Mask of COMUS. The Scenical and Spectacular Effects designed and painted by Mr. William Beverley. The General Action of the Mask directed by Mr. Robert Roxby. The Cast of the Characters includes some of the principal members of the Company—to wit, Mr. Walter Lacy and Mrs. Hermann Vezin. To give due effect to the Lyrical and Musical portions of the Mask, engagements have been formed with Mr. Wilbye Cooper, Mr. Henri Drayton, Miss Poole, and Miss Augusta Thomson, who are supported by a Choir of Fifty Voices and an Increased Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Barnard. Harp Accompaniments arranged and performed by Mr. Frederick Chatterton. The Masks and Decorative Furniture and Symbols designed from classical authorities by Mr. R. W. Keene. The Bacchanalian Dances and Revel Rout arranged and directed by Mr. Cormack. Doors open at Half-past Six; performances commence at Seven. Box Office open from Ten till Five daily.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Mr. Sothern in his original Lord Dundreary, in OUR AMERICAN COUSIN, for twelve nights only, in consequence of his Lordship's preparations for introducing his BROTHER SAM. Asa Trenchard, Mr. Buckstone. MONDAY, MAY 8, and during the Week, MY WIFE'S MOTHER, OUR AMERICAN COUSIN, EASY SHAVING, and MY HUSBAND'S GHOST.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Mr. FECHTER will perform RUY BLAS for six nights, commencing MONDAY, MAY 8. Box-office open daily from Eleven till Five.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. WEBSTER.—RE-APPEARANCE of MISS BATEMAN.—MONDAY, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, FAZIO; or, the Italian Wife—Bianca, Miss Bateman. Tuesday and Thursday, THE WILLOW COPSE—Mr. Benjamin Webster. Commencing each night with THE IRISH TIGER, and concluding with THE STEEPLECHASE. Commence at Seven.

STODARE'S THEATRE OF MYSTERY, EGYPTIAN HALL.—EVERY NIGHT at Eight and Saturday Afternoon at Three.—The New and Startling Illusions, as performed by Colonel Stodare, continue to create the greatest success and astonishment.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—WEDNESDAY NEXT, GREAT CHORAL CONCERT OF THE METROPOLITAN SCHOOLS.—Conductor, Mr. G. W. Martin. Five thousand voices on the great Handel Orchestra. Admission, Half-a-Crown, or by the New Guinea Season Ticket. Reserved Seats Half-a-Crown extra.

EVERYONE SHOULD HAVE THE CRYSTAL PALACE NEW SEASON TICKET.—Unparalleled attractions for One Guinea only. See Programme.

NOW VISIT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.—Wet or Dry. Delightful Spring appearance of Gardens and Park.—Nature in early beauty. Arrangements for the Week:—

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday—One Shilling.

Wednesday—Great Choral Concert of 5000 voices of Metropolitan Schools. Conductor, Mr. G. W. Martin. Admission, Half-a-Crown; or by Guinea Season Ticket. Children, One Shilling.

Saturday—Second Grand Opera Concert. Half-a-Crown Admission Tickets now on sale at Crystal Palace, Exeter Hall, and usual Agents.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—The New-Season Programme and New Guinea Season Ticket.—Intending Purchasers will confer a favour by securing them as early as possible. The unusually large demand consequent upon the issue of this year's unparalleled programme renders it somewhat difficult to keep up a continuous supply at the various agencies.

The agents are also supplied with the Five-shilling Admission Tickets for the Handel Festival Great Rehearsal. They should be applied for at once, as only a few thousands will be issued at Five Shillings.

Guinea Sets of Stalls for the Ten Opera Concerts should also be applied for without delay at the Palace or at 2, Exeter Hall, where also Season Tickets and Programmes may be had.

MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL. Mdme. ARABELLA GODDARD'S BENEFIT, on MONDAY EVENING NEXT, MAY 8. The programme will include Beethoven's Sonata in G major, Op. 31, No. 1, for pianoforte alone; Sonata in B flat, dedicated to Mdlle. Strinasacchi, by Mozart, for piano and violin; Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor, for piano, violin, and violoncello; and Quartet in D major, No. 45, by Haydn, for stringed instruments. Pianoforte, Mdme. Arabella Goddard; Violin, Herr Joachim; Violoncello, Signor Piatti. Vocalist, Mr. Sims Reeves. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Sofa Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Tickets and Programmes at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street; Cramer and Co.'s; Keith, Prowse, and Co.'s; and at Austin's, 28, Piccadilly.

ROYAL BOTANIC SOCIETY, REGENT'S PARK. EXHIBITIONS of PLANTS, FLOWERS, and FRUIT, WEDNESDAYS, MAY 24, JUNE 14, and JULY 5; AMERICAN PLANTS, MONDAYS, JUNE 5 and 12. Tickets to be obtained at the Gardens, and of the Society's Clerk, Austin's Ticket Office, St. James's Hall, on vouchers from Fellows of the Society, price, on or before Saturday, May 13, 4s.; after that day, 5s.; or, on the exhibition days, 7s. 6d., each. The next Meeting for the Election of New Subscribers is Saturday, May 13.

SOCIETY OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.—The SIXTY-FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION IS NOW OPEN, at their Gallery, 5, PALL-MALL EAST (close to the National Gallery), from Nine till Dusk. Admittance, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. GEORGE A. FRIPP, Secretary.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS.—The THIRTY-FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION IS NOW OPEN, at their Gallery, 53, PALL-MALL (near St. James's Palace). Daily from Nine till Dusk. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. JAMES FAHEY, Sec.

FRENCH GALLERY, 120, PALL-MALL.—The TWELFTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF PICTURES—the Contributions of Artists of the French and Flemish Schools—IS NOW OPEN. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d.

INTERNATIONAL REFORMATORY EXHIBITION of the PRODUCTS of INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS, Reformatories, Refuges, &c., at home and abroad.

The EXHIBITION will be held at the AGRICULTURAL HALL, ISLINGTON, and will be open to the public for one week, from FRIDAY, the 19th, to THURSDAY, the 25th of MAY.

The Institutions of the following countries will take part in the Exhibition:—

England.	Belgium.	Italy.	Saxony.
Scotland.	Canada.	Malta.	Switzerland.
Ireland.	Egypt.	Netherlands.	United States.
Austria.	France.	Portugal.	Wirtemberg.
Baden.	Hanover.	Prussia.	&c., &c.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS the PRINCE of WALES will OPEN the INTERNATIONAL REFORMATORY EXHIBITION at the AGRICULTURAL HALL, Islington; at a Public Ceremonial, on FRIDAY, the 19th of MAY, at 3 o'clock.

Tickets, 5s. each; Numbered Stalls (with right of admission to the Exhibition throughout the week), 10s. 6d. May be had at the usual agents; at the Hall; and at the Office, 20, Suffolk-street, Pall-mall East.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1865.

A LARGE and bold speech, even when it is a party speech, deserves to be recorded in the annals of a civilised nation, for in a state of high civilisation words are things. But when such an oration is delivered by an independent man, who takes his stand upon the rock of principle and not upon the platform of party, it becomes the property of a nation, and must be registered, of right, among the nation's possessions. Such a speech was the exhaustive, energetic, luminous address of Mr. Robert Lowe, on Wednesday last, in the debate on Mr. Baines's bill for the extension of the suffrage in boroughs.

Mr. Lowe happens to have special claim to be listened to on such a subject. He is a Liberal of advanced views, for which, as he said, he has suffered. He can have no reason for wishing to serve the Conservative party, which hunted him from office, and, on the most frivolous pretext, deprived the country of the services of one of our ablest public men. He sits as a Reformer, and his votes are all on the Liberal side. But he has had the courage to stand up and oppose a measure which is called liberal, but which he calls democratic, and he has delivered against that measure a series of arguments and warnings which will be the text-book for future speakers on the subject. The effect on the House was marked, for the supporters of Mr. Baines's bill were afraid to let Mr. Lowe be followed by any speaker who would address himself to argument, for such argument would have been felt a failure, and they called on Mr. Osborne, who would probably divert the attention of the House by a shower of smartnesses; but even Mr. Osborne himself expressed his conviction that such a speech as Mr. Lowe's demanded different treatment.

This speech will be, and deserves to be, so frequently referred to during the approaching political contest that we shall be rendering service to all who are not in the habit of closely perusing the Parliamentary debates if we briefly restate the points made by the late Vice-President of the Board of Education. We should premise that he grappled fearlessly with the entire subject. He took all the points upon his target—Mr. Mill's notion of an ideal government and Mr. Gladstone's theory of moral right, besides all the claptrap and sentimental pleas about insult, exclusion, degradation, and slavery. He showed that there was no such thing as moral right to the franchise, inasmuch as the first condition of society is the abnegation of the alleged rights of all. Mr. Mill's balances, by which he seeks to redress the absurdity he would create, Mr. Lowe ridiculed as childish, and it is needless to say that his sarcasm on those who describe the most free population that ever existed as slaves was sufficiently mordant. Having shown that the object of a statesman should not be the pedantic creation of a system without anomalies, which does not even exist in nature itself, but that the aim should be to produce the best machinery, and having got it, to keep it, Mr. Lowe introduced, in a masterly and crushing manner, an illustration of the mode in which a large extension of the suffrage would work. He referred to a petition, signed by three millions of the working classes, and presented to the House of Commons by the late Mr. Duncombe, in which the petitioners declared that the National Debt had been incurred by the enemies of liberty in order to put down liberty, and they protested against taxation to pay the interest of the debt. Those who think that the masses have acquired more honest and enlightened views since the date of that petition have an awkward fact before them in the declared aim of the extreme party, which desires to abolish all excise and customs, and thereby to throw the entire burden of the country upon property. To be sure, if the National Debt were wiped out, the burden of the country, as far as regards the past, would not be large; and as everybody, including those who now live on the wages which nobody would then be able to pay, would be utterly ruined, we might start afresh. But in this case we may be quite sure that the many would take care that the few should be chargeable for the future. But the fact that millions believe, and are prepared to act upon the belief, that one generation is not bound by the acts of its predecessor, and are ready to repudiate a debt which was incurred in support of principles not their own, is surely answer enough to all theories, ideals, and sentimentalities. Honest men pay their debts; and we cannot trust our affairs to men whose honesty does not dictate that duty.

Then, taking his antagonists in detail, Mr. Lowe showed that the working classes had opposed the middle classes in all the efforts of the latter in favour of the measures which have produced our commercial prosperity. Protection, for instance, is the vulgar resource of the violent and ill-informed; and we should have little free trade if, at a moment of temporary distress, it rested with men out of work to say whether foreign productions should be admitted. Had Coventry the manhood suffrage at this moment, would a French ribbon enter England if Coventry could prevent it? But it is needless for us to expatiate upon Mr. Lowe's text. Will you, he asked, take power from property and intelligence, and give it to those who live on weekly wages? The middle class will have to answer this question at the hustings.

Mr. Lowe also contended that the masses are not in earnest on the question, and that they are being used as tools by a party which is impatient of exclusion from power. Mr. Lowe's general opinions being those of that party he is entitled to be listened to with respect and gratitude when, rising superior to party and to care about his own political chances, he supplies the most convincing answer that has yet been given to the advocates of a considerable extension of the suffrage.

THE COURT.

THE Queen, with the junior members of the Royal family, continues at Osborne House, in the enjoyment of good health.

On Wednesday week her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Helena and attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat, drove in the neighbourhood of Osborne.

On Thursday week the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa, walked and drove in the grounds adjacent to Osborne. Later in the day, her Majesty, attended by Lady Caroline Barrington, drove out. Princess Helena and Princess Louisa rode out.

Yesterday week the Queen, accompanied by the members of the Royal family, walked and drove out twice. Prince Alfred, attended by Dr. Bernhardt, went to Beaulieu.

On Saturday last the Queen drove out in the vicinity of Osborne. Princess Helena and Princess Louisa walked out. The Right Hon. Sir George Grey arrived at Osborne and had the honour of dining with the Queen. The Judge Advocate-General had an audience of her Majesty.

On Sunday the Queen, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, and Princess Louisa attended Divine service, performed at Osborne by the Rev. G. Prothero. Princess Beatrice attended Divine service at Whippingham Church. This was the fifteenth anniversary of the birthday of Prince Arthur. The Right Hon. Sir George Grey left Osborne for London.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena and Princess Beatrice, walked in the grounds of Osborne. Later in the day her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Louisa and attended by the Hon. Flora Macdonald, drove out. Dr. and Mrs. Becher arrived at Osborne on a visit to the Queen.

On Tuesday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa, walked and drove in the vicinity of Osborne. Prince Leopold, attended by Mr. Buff, drove out. Lord Schomberg and Lady Victoria Kerr arrived at Osborne, and had the honour of paying a visit to the Queen. They afterwards drove with Prince Alfred, and returned to Beaulieu in the evening.

The Queen, accompanied by the members of the Royal family, is expected to leave Osborne on Friday next, the 12th inst., and return to Windsor Castle. It is rumoured that the Court will proceed to Scotland on or about Friday, the 19th inst.

The Court mourning, which was commanded to be terminated on Thursday last, has been extended to Monday, the 8th inst., the Queen having been pleased to command that the Court shall be in mourning for ten days from the 28th ult. for his late Imperial Highness the Hereditary Grand Duke Nicholas, eldest son of the Emperor of Russia.

Prince Alfred has, during the week, honoured Miss Durant with sittings for a medallion.

The Hon. Flora Macdonald has succeeded the Hon. Lucy Kerr as Maid of Honour in Waiting to the Queen. Colonel H. Ponsonby has succeeded Lieutenant-Colonel Du Plat as Equerry in Waiting to her Majesty.

COURT ARRANGEMENTS.

The Queen's Drawingroom, announced to be held at St. James's Palace, on Tuesday, the 16th inst., by Princess Helena, on behalf of her Majesty, is postponed until Thursday, the 18th inst.

The Princess of Wales, as representing the Queen, will have an evening party on Tuesday, the 16th inst., at Buckingham Palace.

The Prince of Wales will, by command of the Queen, hold a Levée, on behalf of her Majesty, on Saturday, the 20th inst., at St. James's Palace.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales received, at Sandringham House, on Saturday last, the Mayor of King's Lynn; the Rev. T. White, Head Master of the Lynn Grammar School; and Mr. Bristow, one of the pupils of the school. The Prince graciously presented to Mr. Bristow a gold medal, one of which will henceforth be given annually to the school by his Royal Highness, Mr. Bristow having attained the honour on this first year of its presentation. The Prince addressed some appropriate remarks to Mr. Bristow upon presenting the medal to him.

On Sunday the Prince and Princess attended Divine service at Sandringham Church.

On Monday the Prince and Princess, accompanied by Prince Albert Victor and attended by the Hon. Mrs. E. Coke, Lieutenant-General Knollys, Major Grey, and Mr. Fisher, left Sandringham House and returned to Marlborough House. Their Royal Highnesses drove to the Wolferton station, and travelled thence in a state saloon by a special train, viâ the Great Eastern Railway, to London. The train was under the charge of Mr. J. Robertson, the superintendent of the line. The Prince and Princess arrived at the Shoreditch terminus at a quarter to five o'clock, and were received by several of the directors and the principal officials of the railway company. Their Royal Highnesses drove immediately to Marlborough House.

On Tuesday the Prince, attended by Major Teesdale, rode out. His Royal Highness attended the House of Lords. The Princess, attended by the Hon. Mrs. E. Coke, drove out.

On Wednesday the Prince, accompanied by Prince Alfred and attended by Major Teesdale, rode out. The Princess, attended by the Hon. Mrs. E. Coke, took a drive. Prince Alfred arrived at Marlborough House from Osborne on a visit to the Prince and Princess. In the evening the Prince, accompanied by Prince Alfred, honoured the Strand Theatre with his presence.

The Hon. Mrs. Edward Coke has succeeded Countess De Grey in attendance upon the Princess.

Major Teesdale has succeeded Major Grey as Equerry in Waiting to the Prince.

Queen Marie Amelie, who is staying, with various members of the Orleans Royal family, at Starkey's Royal Victoria Hotel, St. Leonards-on-Sea, attained her eighty-third year on Wednesday week. Her Majesty, who is in the enjoyment of good health, received congratulatory visits from all the members of her family (except the Duke and Duchess de Montpensier, who are absent from England), and at two o'clock a party of thirty sat down to an elegant breakfast. Queen Victoria sent a beautiful carriage, to be drawn by a grey, as a birthday remembrance to the co-Queen, in which her Majesty took a drive along the Parade.

Princess Baratinsky left Claridge's Hotel on Sunday for Paris.

His Excellency the Prussian Ambassador has returned to town from St. Leonard-on-Sea.

MARRIAGES IN HIGH LIFE.

The marriage of Lady Adelaide Fielding, daughter of the Earl of Denbigh, with Mr. Charles Murray, took place, on Thursday week, at Westminster Abbey, with full choral service.

The marriage of Mr. Stirling, of Keir, M.P., with Lady Anne Maria, second daughter of the late Lord of Leven and Melville, took place on the 18th inst., at Stirling, with all the pomp.

The marriage of Viscount Chelsea with Lady Beatrix Craven (deferred on account of the death of Lord Uffington) will take place privately, at Coombe Abbey, on the 16th inst.

POLITICAL AND FASHIONABLE ENTERTAINMENTS.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, as Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief, held a levee, on Wednesday afternoon, at the Horse Guards. Above 120 officers attended.

The Duke of Somerset, as First Lord of the Admiralty, held a levee, on Thursday, at the Admiralty, in Whitehall.

The Marchioness of Salisbury held her second assembly this season, on Wednesday evening, at Hatfield House, which was attended by upwards of 1000. The evening was dissipated by a brilliant assemblage of the political and fashionable world.

Lord Derby had a dinner party, on Thursday evening, at his residence, 23, Piccadilly, Berkeley-square.

Combe House, Wallingford, on Wednesday, resumed the series of evening parties interrupted by her Ladyship's temporary indisposition. The reunion was attended by a large circle of the elite of the neighbourhood, with the exception, the Right Hon. Colchester Porteous and the Countess entertained at dinner various members of the Corporation of Oxford and a distinguished company of the aristocracy.

The Duchess of Teba had a dancing party, on Wednesday evening, at the usual fashionable residence in St. James's-square. A select and brilliant company assembled.

Mrs. Gladstone had a musical party, on Wednesday evening, at her official residence on Carlton-house-terrace. Previously the Right Hon. the Chancellor of the Exchequer and Mrs. Gladstone entertained at the Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge and a distinguished circle at dinner.

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

The Rev. F. E. Lloyd Jones, Curate of Gresswich, has been elected Gaskoney of Newgate, receiving eighteen out of nineteen votes.

The Archdeacon of Bristol will hold his visitation at Bristol June 12; Clevedon, 14; Cirencester, 15; Tetbury, 16; Malmesbury, 17; Cricklade, 23.

The Bishop of London preached at St. James's Church, Piccadilly, on Sunday afternoon last; and his Lordship will continue to preach at the same church, at the same service, on the three following afternoons.

On Thursday week the new chapel of Uppingham School was opened. The building is from the designs of Mr. G. E. Street, the architect of the new school-room, which was opened last autumn, and is in keeping with the remaining portions of the pile. The chapel is in the Early Decorated style, 1901. by 30 ft., and will accommodate 400 persons.

All Saints' Church, Hamer, near Rochdale, the corner stone of which was laid last fortnight by Lord Derby, has been entirely built on an eligible site adjoining the grounds of that gentleman, by whom the expenses of the edifice, amounting to £5000, have been defrayed. The architect is Mr. J. M. Taylor, of Manchester.

The following are the preachers appointed by the Bishop of London to preach in St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday mornings in the present month:—Sunday, May 7, the Rev. Thomas Mozley, M.A., Rector of Plymtree, Devon; 14, the Rev. John Henry Cowell, Rector of St. Benet's, Paul's-wharf; 21, the Rev. Henry Robert Reynolds, D.D., President of Bristol College; 28, the Rev. George F. W. Mortimer, Chaplain to the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of the City of London.

The following preferments and appointments have been recently made:—The Rev. C. D. Acland, Rural Dean of Ilminster, Archdeacon of Bombay. Rectories: Rev. C. J. Abbey to Cranbrooke, Oxford; Rev. Rt. Le Estrey to Hargrave, Brownsover, Northampton; Rev. J. Bell to Silverton-with-Alphington, Suffolk; Rev. J. E. Davies, M.A., to Llangyfnin, Carnarvonshire; Rev. J. Dixon to Ashton-under-Hill, Worcester; Rev. G. L. Hartsgrave to Rev. G. L. Jones to Rockbourne, Wilts; Rev. W. M. Kingsmill to Bromley-with-Tibberton, Essex; Rev. W. Lewis to Llanfair Brighdwel, Anglesea; and Rev. A. Wright to Ashton-under-Hill, Worcestershire; Rev. W. D. Long to Godalming; Rev. J. Whicker to Wootton Bassett, Wilts; Rev. F. P. Wood to Bromsgrove, Worcester. Vicarages: Rev. J. D'Arcy to the new iron church of Jacksbrook, near Stroud; Rev. A. Earle to Alvington, near South Molton, Devonshire; Rev. Edward Hamilton to Rev. F. F. Pepys to Horrington, Somerset; Rev. H. H. Wright to Rd. Jones, Sheffield; Rev. T. Jones to Rev. W. Lewis to Llanfair; Rev. D. R. Davies, M.A., to St. Stephen's, Lerrham. Chaplaincies: Rev. Thomas Barnes, Rev. R. Beddoe, M.A., to Rev. Joseph Bellamy, Rev. Edward Bickersteth, Rev. E. J. Peckham, M.A., to the Bethnal-green Union; Rev. Edward Bowen, M.A., to the Bishop of Oxford; Rev. Septimus Buchanan, Rev. Edward Cavenagh, Rev. Edward Cooper, Rev. Thomas Norwich; Rev. J. D. Dawson to Dallowgill, Ripon. Curacies: Rev. J. W. Bell to Hartlepool; Rev. W. Gumley, M.A., to Rev. Thomas Hall, Rev. E. J. Hall, Rev. Harrison, Rev. Woodhouse; Rev. E. Hayes to St. Mary Magdalene's, Paddington; Rev. H. Horrocks to St. Mark's, Whitechapel; Rev. Thomas Hall to All Saints', Margaret-street; Rev. J. P. Knox, M.A., to St. George's-in-the-East; Rev. J. Horn to Christ Church, Spitalfields; Rev. W. Lewis to Rev. Joseph Chapel, Yarmouth; Rev. W. King to Lower Heyford; Rev. G. Nicholas to Chester; Rev. Septimus Reginald, B.A., to Rev. J. Sabine to Rev. Thomas Sadler to St. Anne's, Westminster; Rev. G. H. Titchmarsh, B.A., to the parish church of Bethlehem-green; Rev. W. A. Whitehead to Rev. Richard Wood.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Probate of the will of the Right Hon. William Thomas Horner Littleton, late Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Ashcott Castle, Bristol, and of Hollyrock, Somerset, was granted on the 20th ult. to Lady Hagley, and Henry Frampton, Esq., the executors, the personalty being sworn under £20,000. His Lordship was the second son of the second Earl, and succeeded his brother as fourth Earl in 1837, and died, as we stated last week, in the age of seventy. His will bears date 1865, and a codicil 1865. His Lordship directs the settlement on certain trusts of the Ashcott Castle estate in Somerset, Congleton or Sir R. Sheffield, Bart., and also the subsequent provisions for his younger sons and for his carriages, horses, and other personal effects, with the consent, and all jewels not being heirlooms, and an immediate legacy of £1000 to his eldest male issue being the Hon. Edward Littleton. Bequests of other articles of plate, books, drawings, medals, coins (ancient or modern, not forming part of the collection), and all his interest in the collection of antiquities, art, or curiosities, and all other bequests to him by his brother the late Earl (Henry Stephen) at the time of his death, he left by trust in the possession of the successive owners for the time of the estates; and he bequeaths the residue of his personal property to his nephew and executor, Henry Edward Fox Stephen, and to the heirs male of his body. In 1847, son of his brother, the late Hon. John George Charles Fox Stavenage. There are certain legacies and annuities to servants, and bequests to other relatives and friends, also to servants, to be paid free of duty; and he grants to his executor, Henry Stephen, an annuity of £1000 for his trouble, and a legacy of £1000 [illegible] Mr. Littleton, at Weymouth, £100; Dorset County Museum, £50; to the Somerset Archæological and Natural History Society, £50; to the Camden Society, Aldersgate, £50; to the Royal Society, £100 each, subject to the payment of £20 to the poor of each parish at the time of his death for the use of preachers, £40 for the use of the Bishop of Bath and Wells; to the Literary Association of the Friends of Poland in London, £100; to the Chancellor, Master, and scholars of the University of Oxford, £1000 for founding and establishing an exhibition, lectureship, or scholarship, or prizes(s) every year for the encouragement of the study of the Polish and other Sclavonic languages, literature, and history, with a view of promoting the knowledge of the modern politics in reference to the present and future political diplomatic service of this country. His Lordship, among other appointments, was elected to the honorary membership of the Athenæum.

The will of Major-General Richard Say Armstrong, Royal Artillery, late Governor of the Island of Ithaca, who died at Geneva, in Switzerland, on the 22nd of January last, was proved in London on the 6th of April, the personalty was sworn under £12,000. He died on the 22nd of January, leaving date August, 1863, and appoints as left executors and trustees his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Armstrong; his sister, Mrs. Harriet Blunde; and his nephew, Richard Armstrong Blunde, Esq. To his wife he leaves his carriages, horses, furniture, plate, linen, china, and wines in his lodgings, an immediate legacy of £2000, and an annuity of £600. Any surplus or residue arising from his estate he leaves to his said sister for her life, together with the reversion of the annuity of £600. The whole of the property will ultimately devolve upon the children of his said sister. To his executors he leaves £100 each, and to his said nephew a further bequest of £500 to the residue.

The will of Benjamin Harrison, Esq., formerly of Madras, in the East Indies, but late of Blackheath Park, Kent, was proved in London, under £30,000 personalty. The testator died on the 31st of January last. His will is dated April 13, 1863, and disposes of the whole of his property to his wife absolutely, appointing her sole executrix.

MUSIC.

Verdi's beautiful opera "Rigoletto" was performed at the Royal Italian Opera on Thursday week, for the first time this season. Those who were aware that the incomparable Ronconi—the only actor on the musical stage capable of doing justice to the intensely tragical character of the outraged and vindictive buffoon—had arrived in town and was at his post, were surprised to find that Graziani had been cast into other hands. It was performed by Graziani, who sustained it well as far as singing went, but in which one singer is a secondary consideration; and, though his fine baritone voice carried him through with tolerable success, he could not be expected to fill Ronconi for a moment. We hope, however, before the season is over, to see "the real man in the right place." The part of Gilda was well acted and sung by Mdlle. Bozzio, who had previously made a successful debut in the character at Covent Garden in Paris. Mario, as the Duke, the gay, graceful, heartless voluptuary, was as unrivalled as ever, and delighted all the delicious freshness of his early days. The small but important part of Giovanna was well performed by Mdlle. Rosoni, and Tagliafico played the part of the ruffian Sparafucile with his usual intelligence. The opera was magnificently mounted, as it has arrived in town, and was to have appeared in the course of this week, but has been prevented by indisposition.

Her Majesty's Theatre opened for the season on Saturday last, when there was a large and fashionable audience. The interior of the house has been considerably improved, and the stage has been enlarged; the footlights no longer impede the view of the occupants of the stalls; and the boxes have been fitted up in a handsome style. La Traviata was La Sonnambula," the two principal parts being performed by debutantes in this country—Mdlle. Ilma de Murska, from the Opera of New York; and Rivino, by Signor Rosamalia Carrion, a native of Constantinople. Mdlle. Ilma de Murska is an inexperienced, and her voice seems deficient in strength and volume; and she had the usual nervousness of a first appearance before her debut was decidedly successful. Signor Carrion is an accomplished singer, in the style of Mario. He is past his prime, and his voice is no longer what it has been; but he is a thoroughly finished artist. Sunday performed the small but pleasant part of Count Rodolfo as respectably as it could be performed by anybody. He was greeted with acclamations from all parts of the house. Signor Arditi, the admirable conductor of the Royal Italian Opera, presided over every appliance. At the end of the opera "God Save the Queen" was sung (as usual on the opening night) by all the vocal strength of the company.

The Crystal Palace Concerts on Saturday last derived extraordinary interest from a splendid performance of Beethoven's great Choral Symphony, which attracted a vast crowd of visitors, and was received with the most enthusiastic applause. The symphony was rendered seventy the powers of Mr. Manns's magnificent orchestra, but they were not unequal to the occasion.

The third concert of the Philharmonic Society took place, at the Hanover-square Rooms, on Monday last. The programme included Beethoven's Sinfonia in C minor, Mendelssohn's pianoforte concerto in D minor, played by M. Charles Halle; Starndale Bennett's symphony, characteristic and masterly, and Weber's overture, and Mendelssohn's overture to "Ruy Blas." All these pieces, especially Mr. Bennett's and Weber's, were admirably executed. The vocal performers were Mdlle. Edesska, a young Russian lady who has now been heard twice in London, and who possesses a charming voice and finished execution made a great impression; and Mdlle. Sinico, who has won a distinguished number of the company of Her Majesty's Theatre.

The lamented Meyerbeer's long-expected, and, alas! posthumous work, "Le Prophète," was performed at the Italian Grand Opera on Friday, the 28th ult. The excitement caused by this event was beyond precedent, and the most eminent amateurs in music from all parts of Europe in order to be present, and for days before the performance the theatre was surrounded by crowds of people, in which the Emperor and Empress, with many of the most distinguished people in Paris, occupied the boxes; and the representation, though it lasted five hours, was listened to with the most profound attention and unflagging enthusiasm. This, by-the-way, may do very well in Paris, but it will require a little more than that to please Covent Garden, the pruning-knife must be unsparingly used. The prevalent opinion is that the work is not worthy of the author of "Robert" and most beautiful of Meyerbeer's works, be that the effect of the music be injured by the long and tedious accompaniments of the drama.

The young and talented pianist, Mr. Marshall Hall Bell, gave a morning concert at the Hanover-square Rooms on Friday last week. Mr. Bell was assisted by Mr. Sainton and Mr. Manns, leader and conductor of the Crystal Palace Band, and by Mr. G. A. Macfarren for conductor. Mr. Bell is a pupil of Mr. W. H. Holmes for the violin, and of Mr. G. A. Macfarren for composition and instrumentation. He is also a pupil of Mr. Holmes for the pianoforte. He played the piano part in Schumann's fine quintet in E flat, and Handel, and a graceful song of his own composition, "Reigloo! Reigloo!" which was sung by Mdlle. Drasdil. Mr. Bell also accompanied several of the vocal pieces with great ability. He was assisted by Mr. Lazarus, Mr. Paque, Mr. Collett, Mr. Wallace Wells, and several other vocal and instrumental performers. The concert altogether was very interesting.

Mr. Hullah's new overture to "As You Like It," which was produced last season by the Musical Society of London, was performed on Wednesday week, at his Academy concert given at St. James's Hall, and was also included in the music of the Stratford Shakespeare Festival, but, unfortunately, the composer, as one of Mr. C. Hullah's concerts, and again at Liverpool by the Philharmonic Society of that town.

The Hampstead Musical Society of Islington gave their first vocal and instrumental concert of this season, at Myddelton Hall, on Wednesday, the 26th ult. The hall was filled by a fashionable audience. The entertainment was elegant and agreeable. The overture to Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas," Waltz," by Godfrey; Mendelssohn's March in "Athalie," and other instrumental pieces were performed by the band with precision and power. The Scottish ballad "Ye Banks and Braes," by Mr. Land, was sung by Mr. Thomas with great sweetness and expression. On being enthusiastically encored, Mr. Thomas substituted "Robin Adair." Mrs. Lockey sang Balfe's ballad "Tell me, my heart." A variety of vocal pieces were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Messrs. Hodgson, Turner, Bryant, and others.

We wish to call the attention of our musical readers to Mr. Van Praag's benefit concert, announced to take place at St. James's Hall, on Thursday evening next. The programme is exceedingly attractive. Among the vocal performers are Mdme. Lemmens Sherrington, Mdlle. Parepa, Mdlle. Rudersdorff, Miss Poole, Miss Dolby, Mdme. Lischbiel, Miss Banks, and Miss Palmer. Among the instrumentalists are Mr. Charles Hallé, Mr. Sainton, and Mr. Charles Hallé. Mr. Van Praag is well known in our musical world, and we have no doubt he will receive for his attention and courtesy in the performance of his laborious duties.

THE THEATRES.

A new comedietta has been produced at the New Royalty Theatre, entitled "The Two Kings," by F. Talfourd, the hero of Ringwood Chase." Mr. Wooler's dramas are generally exceedingly flimsy, and the present one is no exception to the rule. Amusing, yes, by the force of dialogue and a certain neatness in treatment, proves the author possessed of a certain power, but equal [illegible] J. G. Shore] is one of those shy and timid lovers who fear to "propose" to their selected mistresses, and therefore some friendly aid is interposed to compel a solution of the difficulty. Lord and Lady Milmar (Mr. and Mrs. Wesdon and Miss Kelly) are, with the bride elect, Miss Florence Huntley (Miss Fanny Clifford), guests at his mansion. The two former contrive to lock the lovers in a room together, and a conversation then becomes inevitable. Frank, aided by a glass or two of Madeira, warms in the subject, until at last he makes a regular declaration of love. Miss Florence, to Frank and Lady Milmar's delight, makes no. Lord and Lady Milmer, locking them in the same chamber, Frank pretending a passion for Lady Milmer, and also that the Madeira is poisoned. When they have been sufficiently plagued, a general reconciliation takes place. There is more fun and humour in the piece than the reader would suspect from the simplicity of the story.

A new play, in five acts, was produced at Drury Lane on Wednesday. It is from the pen of Mr. Edmund Falconer, and entitled "Love's Ordeal." The lovers belong to the period of the French Revolution and partake in parts. The action of the piece commences just before the fall of the Bastille, and introduces Robespierre as a private man, in a coffee-room, resisting the insolence of a Duke (Mr. Barrett Clark) and of the fawning attempts of a host of public manners at that time. The Duke is a decided libertine, and more than once in the course of the piece [illegible] Robespierre, while in the act of pressing his attentions on the fair sex, without much success, to the great delight of the humble station of his victims. De Mercy is secretary to Count D'Ostagne, whose daughter Rosina entertains for him a secret affection, but whom he is compelled to surrender to the profligate Duke, who, as he suffers insult and dismissal. But time has in its bosom a coming vengeance for such wrongs. The Bastille has fallen, and the Revolutionists are busily engaged in the act of delivering from the dungeons of the Republic the imprisoned Duke, with the lady and her father. The Duke is also a friend of Robespierre, who connives at their escape on condition of the noble lady contracting a civil marriage with a Republican husband. The release of De Mercy, with his legal bride is embarrassing, but the young man respects the delicacy of the lady's position. Ultimately she discovers the Monk's real character and the forgery of De Mercy's love. The drama is elegantly dressed and interspersed with music. It was eminently successful, and, as it is very interesting, may enjoy a prolonged run.

THE FARM.

It was a very near thing in the council-chamber of the Royal Agricultural Society, on Wednesday, when the question of the 1000 place of residence was discussed. The more understanding part of the committee of inspection thought differently on the claims of Isleworth and Bury St. Edmunds, but the third was not to be denied in a friendly way. Both their deputations spoke at great length; and, as Norwich and Bristol were left out in the cold, there was room for great local feeling began. It was then carried unanimously that the meeting should be held at Bury St. Edmunds, and Norwich reserved their credit. To the very last it was by no means quite certain how it would go. The rather long arguments were, perhaps, in favour of Norwich, but Bury had the best offer, and to offer a piece of ground such as the society has hardly ever had at its disposal before. The railway interest in the matter was the point which turned the scale (it was between Wereester and Hereford in 1862); but it has been found that the Bury line is the nearest to the centre of England (a district for the year) won by 21 votes to 17. We should miss more than ever now the old Wednesday meetings, which were so pleasant and partly shelved away not many years after it was made.

The Bury Show is to begin on July 25. He has not always known as a superior judge, buying the best Bates blood, and keeping in mind the great milk characteristics, which have been so much neglected, and the Duchess of Northumberland will be in the front row to see the reverse weather at defiance. There was none of that fancy bidding and undue excitement which has of late years spoiled many of the sale pockets running jealous of each other over particular lots, and throwing their fifties and hundreds about just for the sake of being written and talked about in the New World and the Old. Nothing at Sidlington was sold for more than £100, and the Duke's management was a bull and a cow. The former was by Fourth Duke of Oxford, and so was Myrtle (99), by Second Duke of Oxford. The land of the farm is chiefly sifted to the lucheon-tent, for the sake of old times; and Seventh Duke of York, purchased by Messrs. Rose and Rice, was brought out on parade. There was a good steady average of £40 18s. 9d. for thirty-eight animals; and £41 8s. for the twenty-three females. The Warlaby Bulls are in as great demand as ever under their new owner. General Hopewell is in Norfolk, Ravenspur and Royal Sovereign in Ireland, Prince Arthur in Kent, Sir Colin Campbell, and, to show how good a blood will always hold its own, we have it on authority that some of these bulls letting at 100 guineas each will be in the Scotch herds sold during the last months for 200 gs. and 220 gs. apiece; whilst others have gone to the Colonies." We are glad to hear of private prices; and, of course, the report of these negotiations must be valued accordingly. Sidlington, although, not to be compared to Sir Stafford's, is a very pretty place, and Clydesdales, is swelling to fearful dimensions.

"IM WALDE."

"IN WILDE"—"In the woods" or "forest"—is one of the most charming of German phrases. The word "wilde" is the name of a subject which we have seen. It is wholly free from the tendency to exaggeration which has made the German artist's name of late years been changed. Let us not forget, too, how rare and precious in the English school of painting is such a theme as Mr. Polesco's—of simple, rustic, child-like incident, without affectation or display, yet with high technical skill—without poetry on the one hand, or on the other without prosaic and commonplace. The picture is full of such little cares. These German peasant children are as natural as they are pretty, and are particularly well grouped in their unaffectable character, without conforming entirely to the peculiar German type so often seen in the Düsseldorf pictures. The girl's head, in particular, strikes us as more than usually happy, stooded as it is by her kerchief, and the attention for the time of her little brother or sister as a niche for the anxiety of her child-matronliness. Moreover, these little children are not mere models, but look as if they were used to love to see them. The girl, being the elder, has selected and gathered the nuts for them, the sweet, little, hearty, pale-face forget-me-nots, in order that she may play them and offer them to her mother's hand or that of her brother. But the little fellow, who, of course, most delights in the nuts, has found something more interesting—"lobster-cups," and these, prattling, he presents to his sister.

Ah, what a world of pleasant thoughts are given without recalling a time when the heart leapt up at sight of the simplest wild-flower! Here, in part, lies the secret of the charm of Mr. Polesco's picture. Not one of the flowers, not the thorns, which strew the path of life—seems unwelcome to the little wanderers, and that contrast of the mood of Cloth-of-Gold, and a slope inunited with the more than Imperial purple of forest-grown nuts, which illuminates our memories of the first fine fortunest emotions of "the waste of years" in the Fatherland of innocence, under the shadow of the oak, or the dim forests, some such shining forget-me-not memories, and can weave them into a fresh coronet wherewith to deck the beautiful and unwrinkled brow of childhood—the type of all that is no perishable flowers, a diadem of memories immortal as the stars.

THE CHICHESTER AND MIDHURST RAILWAY.

THE Chichester and Midhurst Railway has nothing to do with the Mid-Sussex and Midhurst Junction Railway, a short line, the unfinished state of which, three years ago, has been made known. For the completion, was made the subject of some comments in the House of Commons on the Chairman of the Brighton and South-Coast Railway, having been authorised by an Act of Parliament in the last Session, and its works commenced, to abandon the undertaking. He said, with the greenery of "cutting the first turf," shown in our present illustration, that it was not the intention of the Brighton Company to commence it to establish railway communication between Chichester, Midhurst, and Petersfield, and thus to open out a district of the South Downs, between West Dean, Singleton, Cocking, Headham, Lynne, and Fernhaus. It will start from a station in Chichester, London, Brighton, and Coast Railway at the west end of Chichester, and form junctions at Midhurst with the Mid-Sussex and Midhurst Junction and the South-Western Railways, and with the Portsmouth direct line at Haslemere. It is expected to develop a large trade in timber, chalk, lime, bricks, and coke, and will certainly accommodate a large district to a considerable extent now destitute of railway facilities. This railway is a little more than twenty miles in length, and as it takes Singleton on its way it will be a great benefit to those who attend Goodwood races, as the line is not more than a mile from the course. The contract for the line is let to Messrs. Dierden and Buxton, the contractors, who have made most of the lines in the district, and they have undertaken to complete the one from Chichester to Midhurst in two years. The extension to Haslemere is not yet authorised by Parliament, the bill having only passed through the House of Commons and been read a first time in the Lords. The spot selected for turning the first turf was about two miles from the town of Midhurst. Lord Henry G—— Lennox had been invited to perform the ceremony. In order to cut the turf, he wielded not the ornamental implement of silver commonly paraded on these occasions, but a good useful spade, with a bright steel blade and a polished handle, and he took off his coat and dug lustily, much to the amusement of the countrymen and navvies on the spot. The barrow was of the ordinary form, but highly finished and polished; and his Lordship, having well filled it, trundled it smartly along to the end of a platform, shot the contents in a most workmanlike manner, and brought back the barrow, looking a little the warmer for his exertion, amidst the hearty cheers of the very large gathering of farmers, landowners, and other inhabitants of the district. Amongst those present to witness the ceremony were Messrs. W. F. Dobson (chairman), George Battock, John T. Pagan, Edward Woods (engineer), J. Widdicombe (secretary), Frederick Sperring, W. and H. P. Sharpe, and Messrs. Johnstone, Cooper, Wintle, and Evans, the auditors of the company. Mr. Dobson, the chairman, at the close of the ceremony, on behalf of the directors and shareholders, tendered thanks to his Lordship, and at the same time acknowledged the support which the scheme had received from the Duke of Richmond and Lord Arthur Lennox in Parliament. He referred, also, to the lamented death of Mr. Cobden, who had taken a warm interest in this line. He concluded by presenting Lord Henry Lennox with the spade and barrow used on this occasion. The band of the Petworth Volunteers struck up "God Save the Queen." Cheers were given for Lord Henry Lennox, the chairman, and the railway, and the business was over. In the evening there was a dinner at the Angel to commemorate the event.

THE NEW SECRETARY TO THE TREASURY OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE Hon. Hugh M'Culloch, who was lately appointed by President Lincoln to the office of Secretary to the Treasury, vacated by the retirement of Mr. Fessenden, is a native of Kennebunk, York County, in the State of Maine. He was educated for the legal profession, and, in 1833, removed to Fort Wayne, in the State of Indiana, where he has resided above thirty years, filling at one time the office of Probate Judge. But he soon left the paths of legal practice and judicial promotion for the banking business, and became cashier of the Branch Bank of Indiana at Fort Wayne. He was subsequently made one of the Board of Control of the State Bank system of that State, and it is asserted by his friends that there was not one of the measures devised for the security and efficiency of that system but was inspired or shaped by his sound judgment and financial sagacity. He early established a reputation as a skilful and most reliable financier, which each succeeding year enlarged; and on the incorporation of the State Bank in Indianapolis, with its twenty branches, in 1855, he was made president under the most encouraging auspices, and, despite the crash of 1857, gave a character to the banks of Indiana which made, unmistakably, a favourable impression on financial circles. When the office of Comptroller of the Currency was instituted, he was recommended for it with general unanimity, and the moneyed interests of the country felt that in his hands the conversion of the State banks into national institutions was entirely secure. This great financial revolution, by which the national currency is passing from under a divided, irregular State control to that of a national system which is to secure a uniform American currency, has been superintended by Mr. M'Culloch. Already five hundred of these State creations have assumed the prefix of national banks, and the change is going on rapidly and healthfully. That much of this is due to the tact and masterly management of Mr. M'Culloch those best qualified to judge will readily concede. Mr. M'Culloch had agreed to take the position of president of the Fourth National Bank of New York, with its capital of 4,000,000 dols., organised by a number of the leading men of that city, but they reluctantly released him on finding that there was a general conviction that the office of Secretary to the Treasury could be placed in no more efficient hands.

MR. HUGH M'CULLOCH, THE NEW FINANCE MINISTER OF THE UNITED STATES.

CUTTING THE FIRST TURF OF THE CHICHESTER AND MIDHURST RAILWAY.

"IN WATER." BY W. F. C. DOBSON, A.R.A., IN THE EXHIBITION OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY.—SEE PAGE 427.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

Considering that this has been, and is to be, the most uneventful of Sessions, circumstances have occurred which have resulted in an agglomeration of the Parliamentary plums which ought to have been scattered more thinly through the less toothsome materials of the pudding. Within the space ranging from Thursday in the last and Wednesday in the present week there have occurred scenes in the houses which, if they had arisen at intervals, would have done much to rescue the whole Session from the charge of dulness. The Budget night ought and would have sufficed for excitement for a month in these degenerate days; but when it was supplemented by the address on the assassination of Mr. Lincoln and by a debate on Mr. Baines's single-barrelled Reform Bill of unusual point and significancy, there has been hardly resting-time for the palpitating spirits of members, stimulated out of apathy to enthusiasm, and strangers who pant after Parliamentary titillation. Indeed, it was only by a chance which, in one sense, was unlucky, that the Commons did not have the Budget and the address on the same night, and it was palpable that this was expected by the surging restlessness of the great crowd which was hanging on mere pegs of accommodation in that chamber of little-ease in which the third estate of the realm assembles. It is a question whether all but that portion of the strangers who could not hope to be present on the following Monday were not better pleased in having to wait for another of those scenes in which the House rejoices even when it formally mourns.

It is bootless, or at least supererogatory, in these latter days of Gladstonian finance, to set about figuring the picture of a Budget night. Every feature is as familiar as word-painting can make it, and this time the outlines and most of the filling-in were the same. Two points of difference may be noticed, and these are—that the Prime Minister was not present to hear one of those developments of fiscal policy to which in the main, if not altogether, he owes his retention of his high office for a tenure of six years; then, too, for once, Mr. Gladstone was content to be perfectly plain and straight-forward; to leave alone all casuistry and sophistry in bringing people up to the point of a distinct assertion of his intention on particular points; and, while he put out his best powers as an arguer, indulged but sparingly in the arts of a rhetorician, and then only in a good-humoured, bantering sort of way, which amused his audience, instead of—as has sometimes happened with him—half-irritating them. As to declamatory flights, there was but one—when he referred to Mr. Cobden; and last, but not least, the play of his countenance was agreeable, his demeanour pleasant and sociable; and, in short, quite in contrast to that stern, frowning ex-pression which he usually assumes during his great speeches, and which gives the idea that he is under an influence akin to that of the rustic who unfairly won a prize for grinning through a horse-collar by the device of concealing a lively crab about his person, with its claws available for their ordinary exercise. Curiously enough, on this occasion, the gentlemen who spoke after him were not as gratified with him as usual, and they were other than the advocates of the abolition of the malt tax, whose case he had ground to powder. However, from the great facts of the Budget none of them could take anything; and so Mr. Gladstone seemed to think, for he went away in the midst of their spasmodic grumblings.

It so happened that the moving of the address to the Crown expressing the opinion of Parliament with regard to the murder of the President of the United States was concluded in the Commons before it commenced in the Lords; so that a very slight increase of activity enabled any who chose, and had the privilege, to be a witness to both ceremonials. There was this disadvantage, however—that the pro-ceedings in the Upper House were dimmed and dulled by contrast. In any case, however, and without the drawback of comparison, every spectator must have been sensible of utter failure. In that large gilded and many-hued chamber Earl Russell's voice is painfully inadequate to the area which it ought to fill; and when he appears, as he does during half his speeches, to most of those who are striving to listen to him, to be going through an operation akin to that by means of which inter-communication is held with the deaf-and-dumb, the effect is indescribable. This time, what was heard was characteristic of that cold, hard, unsympathising style out of which he never has been roused, except in a few cases when his personal ambition has been involved or his personal vanity wounded. What need was there of a long dissertation on questions of policy, actual and tentative, and of half-insinuated political distrust, when the subject was the denun-ciation of a great crime? But why dwell on this painful failure when one has to speak of one still more conspicuous and, moreover, most surprising? What evil influence came over Lord Derby's spirit at such a moment, when the springs of his naturally generous heart should have been overflowing? Was it that an unconscious distaste for his task lurked in his mind? For unless that were so there can be no accounting for the bad tone, the mistakes in illustration, the absence of spontaneity in the right, and its intrusive presence in the wrong, places, even for the deficiency of eloquence, which he displayed. In fact, it seemed as if he looked at the act which he was called on to denounce purely in its political and not in the least in its personal phase, and was doing violence to his political proclivities in condemn-ing it. Any way, he never has appeared to less advantage; and it were as well if the whole proceeding in the Peers' had never occurred, for all its appropriateness to the occasion.

It is quite certain that if Lord Palmerston had been able to perform the function of condolence in the Commons, that it would have been done correctly—with tact and with due, if without pronounced, effect. As senior Secretary of State, the deputy-leadership was for the nonce with Sir George Grey; and in a certain sense he was successful, although in another sense he could hardly have been considered so. If he was wanting in the dignity, the measured solemnity, which was fitting to such an exposition of the feelings of the House and of the nation, he was abundantly earnest, emotional, and almost impassioned; so that though his speech was here and there faulty, and as a whole not particularly well constructed or conceived, he was manifestly real, and what he said came direct from his feeling; and even in such an assembly as the House of Commons genuineness is not always un-acceptable. In marked contrast to Sir George's address was that of Mr. Disraeli. In its conception and arrangement, in delicate touches, in happy illustrations, and in its whole spirit, it was admirable—in-dubitably the very best thing of the kind he has ever produced; but the manner, the voice, the pose, the gesture were all so artificial, that the mind of the listener was inevitably awakened to the palpable evidences of elaborate preparation in the speech itself, which, had it been uttered naturally and simply, would have been an oratorical triumph of no mean order; but, after all, it seemed to spring from impulses and feelings so creditable and so sympathetic that, with as much surprise as pleasure, the universal House applauded it with cheers the ring of which was of the true kind, and which must have been peculiarly agreeable to Mr. Disraeli, than whom no one could better understand their quality.

When, on Wednesday, shortly after twelve o'clock, Mr. Baines sur-veyed the House which awaited the opening of his plan of Parlia-mentary reform, he must have half repented the exordium which he had prepared. The rounded periods of his appeal for indulgence were rather out of place, as they reached the ears of some fourteen or fifteen members, who were all that accepted his apologies. The scene was in a manner suggestive of that condition of Swift's country church which induced him to confide the opening exhortation of the service of the day to his clerk. If at least Mr. Baines had the advantage of addressing a few sympathetic souls who clustered about the seats below the gangway, still his deprecatory tone was out of place, for, of course, no apologies were due to the little band of his co-thinkers who constituted almost his whole audience. But, with a courage which—judging from the grim set of his counte-nance, through which he strove ever and anon to drive a smile meant to be engaging—he had pretty considerably screwed up, he went on with a sort of nervous vigour, and almost got an audience before he had finished. Indeed, they were strong enough in numbers to be able to give him a very significant hint, when, after exactly an hour's general dissertation, he began to be statistical, and to reproduce figures which struck with too much familiarity on the ear to be accep-table; and so he truncated his speech, and, by doing so, perhaps improved it; at any rate, most people seemed to think that it had been long enough. Lord Elcho, who undertook to bell the reform cat, was an agreeable surprise. The Parliamentary character-istics of this noble Lord need not now be specified, since, on this occasion, he entirely emancipated himself from them, and made a speech which, in the main, was exactly calculated to catch the humour of the House. With plenty of facts, arguments, and illustrations—some of the latter particularly happy and pointed—there was an entire absence of that elaboration and straightlacing, that partial getting by heart, which enables a man to go so glibly and methodically through an address as often to leave no impression; on the contrary, Lord Elcho adopted that best of House-of-Commons style, the conver-sational—using the term not in its fullest sense. In a manner, he talked to the House, oftentimes to particular members, never strained after a climax; and, in fact, there was a touch of ruggedness pervading the speech, which rendered it far more really effective than if it had been the product of the strictest rhetorical arrangement. Into the scene, which had now assumed the distinctiveness of an occasion of great debate, Mr. Osborne, refreshed by a tongue-reticence of nearly nine months, made powerful physical efforts to thrust himself early into the discussion. But the House was more willing to have Mr. Leatham's nicely-confectioned sentences, in which antithesis is so purely preserved and language moulded into the quaintest illustrations; and they were right, for he was in his happiest vein, and even struck out a new one, in the tart personal criticisms with which he sprinkled Mr. Gladstone—who had not yet appeared in his place, though he came in later—and which he showered with unsparing hand on Mr. Milner Gibson, who started and turned pale when he heard something akin to objurgation upon him coming out of the midst of the body of politicians whom, until then, he believed he represented in the Cabinet. The consciousness of having failed in his political truth, which Mr. Leatham accused him of, has not been unobserved by some who note men and things from a height above the floor of the house; and it was especially apparent now in Mr. Milner Gibson's wincing fidgetiness under the sarcasms which were poured upon him.

If thitherto pointed and interesting, the debate was in a manner commonplace until Mr. Lowe intervened and was welcomed, because he had been observed all day in a state of incubation, and something high-seasoned and racy was expected of him. But it was probably not expected that he would have laid down, in language most rare and vigorous, and in arguments most mercilessly logical, that this country stood on the verge of a democratic reign of terror, and that the classes which now possess power in the State must be prepared to struggle for it. In fact, the whole speech was a tirade against an avatar of democracy; and, just as the metropolitan drainage was set a-going by the simple act of the turning of a small cock by the Prince of Wales, so the passing of the second reading of Mr. Baines's bill would be the signal of its mighty rush over aristocracy and middle class. It was a curious specimen of intellectual gladiatorship, and not the less because of the singular physical immobility of the speaker, who never moved a limb, and scarcely a muscle of whose face, except those of the mouth, was in motion. It was as if the Anthropoglossos had been shaved clean, and been made, by a completion of its mechanism, to deliver with a rapidity of utterance which rendered much that it said unintelligible a stupendous socio-political essay. There was high Toryism in the eager cheers with which Mr. Lowe's opinions were received by the Opposition; and his speech may be considered as an elaborate farewell to Liberalism on his part, and an application for his formal admission into the charmed circle of aristocracy. Mr. Osborne, who followed, was unlucky in having only three-quarters of an hour of the fixed Wed-nesday sitting left for him to bustle in; but, judging from the pon-derosity of so much of his speech as he did deliver, the audience were decidedly lucky in the circumstance which curtailed it of its intended proportions. The fight for the day of the adjournment was the most exciting incident of an exciting day, and it will probably be the last excitement on this question this year, unless, indeed, Mr. Gladstone should make a pronunciamento.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—Monday.

The Common Law Courts Fees Bill was read a second time.

Some discussion ensued on the motion for the second reading of the Quali-fication of Offices Abolition Bill, but eventually the motion was rejected by 72 to 49. The bill was consequently lost.

THE MURDER OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.—ADDRESS TO THE CROWN.

Earl Russell moved an address to the Crown expressing the sorrow and indignation with which the House had heard of the assassination of Mr. Lincoln. He believed that the motion would receive the entire concurrence of their Lordships. Having stated that her Majesty had written an autograph letter to Mrs. Lincoln condoling with her in her bereavement, the noble Earl observed that no such crime had been committed in modern times as the murder of the twice-elected President of the great American Republic, who had borne his honours meekly; had displayed so much integrity, sincerity, and straight-forwardness, and had done so much to alleviate the miseries of war; and who ap-peared disposed to follow up the success achieved by arms by a wise, conciliatory, and generous policy towards the South. He was sure that there was in this country a universal sympathy with the United States in their great depriva-tion, as well as a hope that the successor of Mr. Lincoln would follow the example of moderation set him by his predecessor. He trusted that the policy of neutrality which had been adopted by her Majesty's Government in reference to the civil war, and the moderation which had characterised that of the United States towards this country, would continue; and that this special proceeding of Parliament would have the effect of convincing the people of America that every class in this country felt the deepest sympathy with them in the loss they had sustained.

The motion was seconded by the Earl of Derby, who said that the House, in expressing its sorrow and indignation at the atrocious crime by which the United States had been deprived of its chief magistrate, only followed the universal sympathy which prevailed from one end of the country to the other; and such an expression of feeling must prove a complete refutation of any idea or impression which might lurk in the mind of the people of the United States that any unfriendly feeling existed towards them on the part of any section of the people of England. For the crime which had been committed no pallia-tion could be offered, and, whatever difference of opinion there might be as to the respective rights of the North and the South, all must agree that it could not serve the cause of the South. It was, he thought, impossible to believe that the Confederate Government could in any way approve an act which was not only a crime but a blunder. He joined with Earl Russell in lamenting the loss of a man who had conducted the affairs of the United States amidst great difficulties with singular moderation and prudence, and who was bent on trying a system of conciliation. The death of such a man, and in such a manner, was not only a subject of deep regret but also a serious misfortune to the country of which he was the chief, and it was to be hoped that his suc-cessor would see the wisdom of following out that conciliatory line of policy which there was every reason to believe the late President was preparing to inaugurate when his valuable life was taken.

After a few words from Lord Stratford de Redcliffe in favour of the motion, it was unanimously agreed to.

There was an unusually large assemblage of peers, and the ladies' gallery was occupied by many distinguished strangers. A considerable number of members of the other house were also present below the bar and in the smaller galleries, while the general gallery for strangers was filled to overflowing.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Monday.

The Chelsea Bridge Tolls Abolition Bill was, after a debate, read a second time by 27 votes to 14.

The Waterworks Bill was read a second time and referred to a Select Com-mittee.

The Land Debentures Bill, as amended, was considered and agreed to, and ordered to be read a third time. The Sewage Utilisation Bill passed through the same stage.

Mr. Gibson moved the second reading of the Partnership Law Amendment Bill, and explained that its object was to enable individuals to invest money in mercantile undertakings and private partnerships without the liability of partnership; to enable firms to give employés an interest in a concern without the latter actually becoming partners; and to enable the widow and children of a deceased partner to take a share of profits without risk. The bill was read a second time and ordered to be committed on Monday next.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer moved the re-committal of the Bank Notes Issue Bill. The bill did not ask the adoption of any new principle beyond the Act of 1844. It was desirable, however, that the absorption of private issues should go on more rapidly than it did under that Act. It was, therefore, proposed that the issues should continue for a fixed term of years on certain payments being made, after which Parliament would be free to deal with the subject. Nothing in the Act would, however, affect those banks which did not choose to avail themselves of its provisions. The House went into Committee, and was occupied for some time in the discussion of the various clauses and amendments which were proposed.

THE MURDER OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.—ADDRESS TO THE CROWN.

The orders of the day were postponed for the purpose of enabling the Government to propose an address to the Crown on the assassination of President Lincoln.

Sir G. Grey, having expressed his regret at the unavoidable absence of Lord Palmerston, observed that it was comparatively unimportant by whom the motion was made, because he felt confident that the address which he was about to move would meet with the cordial and unanimous assent of the House. When the news of the assassination of President Lincoln and of the attempt on the life of Mr. Secretary Seward reached this country, the first impression on the mind of every one was that the intelligence could not be true. But when the fact became fully known a feeling of deep sorrow, horror, and indignation pervaded the public mind, and the people of the United Kingdom felt as if some great calamity had befallen themselves. Whatever might be the conflicting opinions or sympathies of the public as between North and South, they had completely vanished in the presence of the great crime which all Europe now deplored. He was persuaded that this sentiment also animated every man in the Southern as well as in the Northern States. The American nation now mourned the loss of their trusted and chosen chief, struck down by the hand of an assassin at the most eventful period of his country's history. Just as it was hoped that the civil war was about to be brought to a close, all eyes were turned towards Mr. Lincoln, in the expectation that in the hour of victory he would have shown that forbearance and just consideration which would have added tenfold to the energy and ability by which he had prosecuted the war. Unfortunately, the hand of an assassin had deprived him of the opportunity of displaying his magnanimity; but it was to be hoped that the good sense and right feeling of those on whom the arduous duty of conducting public affairs would devolve would lead them to act with the same wisdom and sagacity which there was reason to believe he would have exhibited had his life been spared to accomplish the pacifica-tion of his country. Sir George Grey, who was frequently cheered throughout his speech, concluded as follows:—"Sir, I wish it were possible for us to con-vey to the people of the United States an adequate idea of the depth and universality of the feeling which this sad event has occasioned in this country. From the highest to the lowest there has been but one feeling entertained. Her Majesty's Minister at Washington will, in obedience to the Queen's commands, convey to the Government of the United States an expression of the feelings of her Majesty and of her Majesty's Government on this deplorable event. And her Majesty, with that tender consideration which she has always evinced for the sorrows and sufferings of others in whatever rank and station (hear, hear), has with her own hand written a letter to Mrs. Lincoln (hear, hear), conveying the heartfelt sympathy of a widow to a widow (hear, hear) suffering from an over-whelming calamity that has so suddenly come upon her (hear, hear). From every part of this country, and from every class of the community, one voice is now raised—a voice of abhorrence at the crime, and of sympathy and interest in that country which has this great loss to mourn. The British residents in the United States have met, as may have been expected, to express their feelings against the crime committed; and we read that our British North American colonies are vieing with each other to give expression to the same sentiments of sympathy. And not only is it from men of that race which is con-nected with the inhabitants of the United States by the tie of origin, language, and blood that a feeling of this kind arises, but I believe that every country in Europe is giving expression to the same sentiments and sending them to the Government of the United States. But I am sure, therefore, I am not wrong in anticipating that this House, in the name of the people of England, of the people of Scotland, and of the people of Ireland, will be anxious to record its expression of the same sentiments and feelings to the Government of the United States. Of this I am confident, that this House could never more fully and never more adequately represent the feelings of the people of this United Kingdom than by agreeing to the address which it is now, Sir, my duty to move, expressing to her Majesty our sorrow and indignation at the assassination of the President of the United States and praying her Majesty, in conveying her own sentiments to the Government of that country upon this deplorable event, that she will express at the same time upon the part of this House their abhorrence of the crime and their sympathy with the Govern-ment and the people of the United States in the deep affliction into which they have been plunged." (Loud cheers from all parts of the house.)

Mr. Disraeli: "Sir, there are rare instances when the sympathy of a nation approaches those tender feelings that, generally speaking, are supposed to be peculiar to the individual, and to form the happy privilege of private life, and I think this is one of them (Hear, hear). Under all circumstances we should have bewailed the catastrophe at Washington; under all circum-stances we should have shuddered at the means by which it was accom-plished. But in the character of the victim, and in the very accessories of his almost latest moments, there is something so homely and so innocent that it takes the subject, as it were, out of the pomp of history and out of the cere-monial of diplomacy. It touches the heart of nations, and appeals to the domestic sentiments of mankind (Hear, hear). Sir, whatever may be the various and varying opinions of this House and the country generally of the policy of the late President of the United States, of this, I think, all must be agreed, that in a trial which, perhaps more than any other, tested the moral quality of the man he performed his duty with simplicity and strength (Hear, hear). Nor is it possible for the people of England to forget at this moment that he sprang from the same fatherland, and spoke the same mother tongue (Hear, hear). When crimes of this character are perpetrated the public mind is apt to fall into gloom and perplexity, and that has arisen because it is as ignorant of the causes as it is of the consequences of such an act. But it is our part, I think, to reassure them under any un-reasoning panic or despondency (Hear, hear). Assassination has never changed the history of the world. I will not refer to instances of remote antiquity, although an accident has made the most memorable example of those times familiar at this moment to the mind and memory of most gentlemen present. But even the costly sacrifice of a Cæsar did not pro-pitiate the inevitable destiny of his country. But in more modern times, the people of which were animated and influenced by the same in-terests as ourselves, the violent deaths of two heroic men, Henry IV. of France and the Prince of Orange, are conspicuous illustrations of this great truth. Therefore at this moment, while I second the address to the Crown, and express upon my own part, and I hope on the part of every member of the house, feelings of unaffected and profound sympathy with the citizens of the United States at the untimely end of their elected chief, I would not sanction any sentiment of depression. I would rather take this opportunity of expressing my fervent hope that from these awful years of trial the various populations of North America may come out elevated, chastened, rich in that accumulative wisdom, and strong in that disciplined energy which a young nation can only acquire in a protracted and perilous struggle. Then will be open to them again, not merely the same course of power and prosperity which they have heretofore pursued, but they will pursue that course of power and prosperity for the general happiness of man-kind (Hear, hear). It is with these feelings, Sir, that I now second the address to the Crown." (Loud and general cheering.)

The motion was then put by the Speaker, and carried unanimously.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—Tuesday.

The Inclosures Bill, the Pilotage Order Confirmation Bill, and the Herring Fisheries (Scotland) Bill were read a second time.

On the motion of Lord Clarendon, the Public Schools Bill was referred to a Select Committee.

The Commons' reasons for disagreeing to certain amendments to the Bank-ruptcy and Insolvency (Ireland) Act Amendment Bill were considered, and, upon a division, their Lordships decided, by 43 to 33, not to insist upon their amendments.

The Metropolitan Main Drainage Extension Bill passed through Committee.

The Lord Chancellor having moved to go into Committee on the Courts of Justice Building Bill, Lord Redesdale complained that the powers taken under the measure for effecting improvements in the streets adjacent to the proposed courts were very defective, and would occasion a further outlay of money. No estimates had been laid before the House, and he protested against so large an expenditure upon such meagre information as was before their Lordships. He therefore moved that the bill should be referred to a Select Committee. The amendment led to some discussion, but was ultimately negatived by 55 to 33. The bill was then passed through Committee; as was also the Courts of Justice Concentration (Site) Bill.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Tuesday.

The Isle of Man Disafforestation Bill passed through Committee.

The Lancaster Court of Chancery Bill, the Oxford (Vinerian Foundation Bill, and the Sewage Utilisation Bill were read a third time and passed.

Sir C. O'Loghlen obtained leave to bring in a bill to make Bank-of-England notes a legal tender in Ireland, and to authorise banks of issue in Ireland to make their notes payable only at the places in Ireland at which the account of gold and silver coin held by such bankers is taken by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes.

THE INDIAN ARMY.

Captain Jervis called attention to the petitions presented to the House by the officers of the late Indian armies, and moved that a humble address be presented to her Majesty, praying her to redress all such grievances complained of by them as were admitted by the Commission on the Memorials of Indian Officers to have arisen by a departure from the assurances given by Parliament by the Act 21 and 22 of the Queen.

The motion was seconded by Lord Elcho.

Sir C. Wood defended the military administration of India at great length, and contended that the amalgamation of the Queen's and the Company's forces had been carried out upon equitable principles—that promotion had been accelerated, pensions and pay augmented, and officers and men placed in a greatly-improved position. These changes had, he said, involved the expendi-ture of a quarter of a million sterling. The right hon. gentleman also canvassed the merits of the particular cases referred to by the mover, and asserted that in some of them no grounds for complaint existed, that in others it was impossible that a grievance could arise, and that in others where any grievance, or supposed grievance, did exist, it had been remedied by the measures of the Government. He denied, on the authority of the courts of law, in two reported cases, that there had been a departure from the assurances given by Parliament, and submitted that neither legally nor equitably had the petitioners any substantial cause of complaint.

Colonel Sykes supported the motion; and after some observations, also in its favour, from Mr. Smollett, the House divided, and the motion was carried by 49 to 36.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Wednesday.

The Borough Franchise.—Mr. E. Baines moved the second reading of his bill for extending the borough franchise to £6 householders.—Mr. Bazley seconded the motion, which was met, on the part of Lord Elcho, with the previous question.—Mr. Black seconded the amendment, while Mr. Leatham spoke at some length in support of the bill.—Mr. Lowe followed, in one of these remarkable speeches by which he has distinguished himself since he retirement from office. He strongly opposed the measure, and, being averse to the proposition that the real of all representation is good government, insisted that those who demanded a change in the Constitution, in the interest, as they alleged, of the working classes, were bound to show that the interests of those classes were neglected under the present system. And this "he defied any one to prove."—Mr. BERNAL OSBORNE taunted the Government and the House with insincerity on the question of reform.—After some unimportant discussion the debate was adjourned.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

The Lord Chancellor moved the second reading of the Record of Votes (Ireland) Bill, and explained that it was for the purpose of giving effect to the system practised by the Disembodied Rolls Court. When an estate in Ireland was encumbered, the Court appointed a day for the claims of parties to the encumbrance. It was proposed by the bill that a period of twenty years should be kept, so that all future sales and transfers of such estates would be made under safe terms. The bill was read a second time.

The following bills were also read a second time:—viz., Metalliferous Mines, Sheep and Cattle, Married Women's Property (Scotland), Bills of Sale (Ireland), Local Drainage Supplemental, Local Government Supplemental, and Local Government Supplemental (No. 2).

The Select Committee upon the Public Schools Bill was nominated. It consists of the Duke of Buccleuch, the Duke of Marlborough, the Earl of Derby, the Earl Cowley, the Earl of Carnarvon, the Earl of Lichfield, the Earl of Devon, the Earl Fortescue, the Earl of Harrowby, Viscount Hardinge, Lord Wodehouse, Lord Ebury, Lord Bishop of London, Lord Lyttelton, and Lord Houghton.

The following bills passed through Committee:—Common Law Courts (Fees), Incloture, and Herring Fisheries (Scotland).

The Metropolitan Main Drainage Bill was read a third time and passed.

THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

Viscount SYDNEY, as Lord Chamberlain, made known to their Lordships her Majesty's reply to the address agreed to by them, in reference to the assassination of President Lincoln, as follows:—

"I entirely participate in the sentiments which you have expressed in your address to me on the assassination of the President of the United States. I have given directions to my Minister at Washington to make known to the Government of that country my feelings of horror at the crime enacted in connection with myself and my whole people with regard to this deplorable event."

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

Mr. THOMAS Kennedy took the oaths and his seat for the county of Leeds, in the room of Mr. Beckett.

On the motion of Mr. Brand, a new writ was ordered for the borough of Lambeth, in the room of Mr. W. Williams, M.P., deceased.

The Customhouse Fines (Ireland) Remission Bill was read a second time.

In a Committee of the whole House, Mr. Cardwell obtained leave to introduce a bill granting retiring pensions to Colonial Governors; the amount of such pensions to depend upon the number of years they have been in the service of sixty years, except in case of ill health compelling retirement before the requisite completion of the period of service.

THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

Lord FERMOY, the Comptroller of the Household, laid before the answer of the Queen to the address of the House relating to the assassination of President Lincoln.

[The Royal reply was precisely similar in terms to that which was read by Lord Sydney to the House of Lords.]

THE TEA DUTY.

The House having gone into Committee of Ways and Means, the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER moved the following resolution, "That, towards raising the supply granted to her Majesty, there shall be levied on the articles charged upon tea, the following duties of Customs shall, on and after the 5th day of May, 1865, be paid, that is to say, on tea the produce of the countries not East Indian and British possessions, the duty of 1s. per pound."

Mr. MOWATT moved as an amendment that the words "1st day of June" be substituted for the "5th of May."

Mr. CAVE seconded the amendment.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER said that for the last twenty years such a principle had not been adopted when it was proposed to make financial changes, and as reason had always been in favour of adhering to that principle. He therefore objected to any departure from the ordinary mode of dealing with matters of this kind, but the question of the mode in which, or whether of how, members, that all duties should be struck out of the resolution, and the usual ground on which the House went in dealing with such matters inserted, and that it should be done in the following terms:—"That, towards raising the supply granted to her Majesty, there shall be levied by the Government, in 1865, in respect of the tea duty, such reduction should be postponed until the 1st of June."

Mr. MOWATT assented to this resolution.

In the course of a discussion which followed, Sir P. KELLY once more raised the question of the mode in which the Government dealt with tea duty. He contended that the consumers of beer were as much entitled to relief as the consumers of tea. The Government ought to say that the greater portion of the beer drunk in this country was not sold in barrels, yet every member in reality knew that the greater portion of the beer on malt was higher than the duty on tea; and if on the ground of high duty tea was to be taken off, he contended that the duty on malt should be taken off as a first claim for consideration. He thought the Government ought to have removed malt tax since the high duty on malt had prevailed. The tax on malt was a grievance, and ground which was felt more severely now than at the more remote to complain when they found that the duty on the luxury of foreign wine had been very greatly reduced.

Colonel NORTH was not surprised at the little consideration that the agricultural interest had met with from the Government. The agricultural body was present when a deputation from the country waited upon the right hon. gentleman, and he had never seen a deputation more unsatisfied.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER thought the expression of Colonel North was rather harsh. He presumed the agriculturists were quite as well entitled to more attention than any other body. The malt duty ceased to be a protective duty, and was now a tax upon the consumer. He thought that the malt tax bore directly on the question of the reduction of the tea duty. If the House had chosen to retain the income tax, then the malt duty could have been reduced; but he believed that the House and the country were satisfied with the election he had made in favour of the reduction of the income tax in preference to a reduction of the malt duty.

Mr. BENTINCK supported the claims of malt over tea with his usual energy. Sir T. BARTLEY declared that, though a supporter of the Government, he preferred the course taken by the Chancellor of the Exchequer to any other proposed.

Colonel BARTTELOT suggested that Sir J. Shelley had made a speech for the Whig constituents rather than for the House, and he hoped that would be the last time it would be so.

Mr. BARNES also advocated the reduction of the malt duty.

The resolution of the Chancellor of the Exchequer was ultimately agreed to. The income tax and fire assurance resolutions were subsequently assented to.

With reference to the late Confederate war-steamer Tuscaloosa (built, under the name of the Selma, by Messrs. Jones, Quiggin, and Dover Railway Company), of which we gave an illustration last week, we may mention that she was purchased by Messrs. Fraser, Trenholm, and Co., of Liverpool, and that she was designed as a tender to the Alexandra, for Mr. Mitchell, upon a modification of the twin-screw principle, which was said not to be patented by the late Mr. Richard Mitchell, but to be protected by a preventative.

The report of the Lords' Committee on the Edmunds scandal was presented to the House on Tuesday. It enters into copious details of the various charges brought against Mr. Edmunds by the anonymous writer upon which he resigned his offices. The pecuniary matters subsisting between the Brougham family and himself are also investigated. The Committee have completely exonerated from all connection, directly or indirectly, with Mr. Edmunds' salary or his disbursements, Lord Brougham. In conclusion, the Committee say they cannot conceive in the view the Lord Chancellor took of his duty in withdrawing from Mr. Edmunds the confidence he had before reflected knowledge of Mr. Edmunds's misconduct, deeming that it was his public duty to have done so; but that they are bound to state their opinion that his Lordship was influenced by any unworthy motives. A more severe censure upon the original report, which was carried by a majority of one, a motion for by a majority of one—at the Liberals voting on one side, and all the Tories voted on the other.

We have received a letter from one of the officers of the British naval squadron engaged in the blockade of Matamoras, in the Straits of Bitumenti, some illustrations of which, from the pencil of our Special Artist in Japan, were engraved in our last Number. The writer of the sentence of his sketch is acknowledged, but we are desired to correct one or two errors in the names. The Commodore is Commodore Commerell, the Captain of Her Majesty's ship Majestic is Captain Hastings Yelverton, the Captain of the Pearson, with Lieutenant Francis Pitt, sole-Lieutenant A. H. Francis, Mr. Charles Cochrane (gunner), and twenty seamen and marines under his command, was not by an unopposed assault, nor did they find the battery already abandoned by the Japanese. They resumed, while examining the parapet, a volley of musketry from the enemy in the rear of the battery, and a continued fire of musketry was kept up from the adjoining woods all the time the Englishmen remained in the battery, which was about a quarter of an hour. In about time, it being then dark, Captain Kingcote's party succeeded in spiking the fourteen guns, removing the bolts, &c., and cartridges of the guns, which were all of the same description, and destroying which, they returned to their boats, and then to the ship, without losing a man. The whole time elapsed from the first landing to the re-embarkation was an hour. The battery fortressed, the battery would be armed with fourteen guns the first, which we sketched not more than a thousand yards off.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

WHAT with dust, which "made the pigeon pies gritty and the salad sandy," and wind, and a legion of the Cambridgeshire and Suffolk Pooh-bahs-ing, who thundered over the iron-bound turf reckless of life and limb, perfectness especially had a poor time of it at Newmarket on Tuesday. Such a crowd never met on the Heath before, the favourites got a fairly severe trouncing, and the ring made a rattling ball no bone; and when the eighteen did get off they ran the last half mile through crowds of people, carriages and equestrians. The race was worthy of the assembly, and there has never been such a bowling-over of favourites. The Two Thousand, falling in "by the chalk" that the eight Ascot Cup horses should have had 24,000 gs. paid or refused for three, whereas it should have been two only for which the least £12,000 had been paid as three-year-olds, as well as a 930-guinea, a 900-guinea, and a 300-guinea "purchased" yearling. The French party have had strong favourites three successive years for this race, and Gladiateur succeeded where Hospodar and Fille de Nil had failed, in fact, he was a "certainty" from the time From the Bushes, and, defeating "the Ascot rush" on Archimedes, won the £5,000 by a head. Fille de Nil had been beaten by Fille de l'Air, but the market uncertainly which always seems to hover round the French stable revealed Lord Clifden taking 5 to 1 handily. The reported trial of Archimedes with Cambuscan, who gave a stone and won by a neck, was, seemingly, good enough for any Two Thousand, but the colt is locked upon as rather delicate and uncertain.

The hitherto unbeaten Gladiateur has now established him, coupled with the certainty, on the part of the stable, that he does not care for much ease and training, has proved that Mr. Merry behaved most chivalrously and wisely in scratching him for the Derby; and, to the delight of all, the little black Zealous, who is fairly a head and a half better than he was when he finished, Argonaut being also in a first-rate form to try a horse, as in eight days he has won three lights since even a walking-over for the Bentinck Stakes on Wednesday; but, other from hard ground or some other cause, his white-nosed, flat-sided opponent was not himself, Gladiateur's win at Doncaster, Ariel and Rifle pervaded the Whitewall Derby lot to be as weak as it has been strong for years. The Derby has attracted nearly two lengths from the winner, Breadthane ran very well for a fifteen, making three, and Gladiateur, Ariel, and Rifle have always shown that Borealis, Breadthane's trial mate, must be in form; and with another month's work Gladiateur should be better. Another may be heard of more favourably, with the other "B," when the "all rose" jockey of Lincolnshire face "the great gs," at Epsom.

A fine fall over the Rowley Mile course has taken out ten or twelve Derby horses in The Biennial, the bay was so thoroughly beaten on any rate at the finish that Mr. Merry let him stand still. The Derby pin collectorally with Wild Charley through Ackworth, the Dazzler made the pace, and Gladiateur was "pulled" to the front by as well; but all the Kennig calculations are knocked over by the fact that Jackass, who was not quite as good as the Duke of last year, now quite Kangaroo (who had beaten Kruig in a canter for the Biennial) by a length, and Lady Elizabeth by half. The three-year-olds were not a great lot, although many have still a chance for the Derby, Wild Charley, Jackass, and Archimedes "with a start," are leading in the Derby betting, with Wild Charley third; and the public still persist in keeping Breadthane instead of Gladiateur second favourite. Wednesday's Handicap was a corpse at 50 to 1 the night before, and the hard ground is the probable explanation of the Bentinck Stakes being a walking-over in his stable. The party are very quiet about The Duke, (who is matched for £1,000 against Mr. Padwick's Dundee for the Bibury Club in the Houghton Meeting) and it is difficult to see how they can never have been thought dangerous to the Lambourn lad about Longbows, who finished level with Gladiateur in the Prendergast. The Duke of Beaufort's Lady Elizabeth is also well backed to win in the Derby, Oaks, and St. Leger. Lord Zetland has carried his motion to enforce jockeys riding for masters according to their engagements over the Yorkshire Stewards' Rules, but the matter is not to be changed; the July Meeting is to keep its fourth day, since the members are to be left to their choice. Mr. Merry is now also abroad; and Colonel H. Baillie has been elected a member of the Jockey Club, vice Lord Stamford, who has resigned his seat on the parish church at Newmarket.

Mr. Yates-Lee, of Kangaroo, has reached Mr. Blenkiron, whose paddock produced six winners in three meetings last month. He has had two, one of which was a mare, in the Derby and Oaks reigns, and a Danube foal may date from the day of her arrival at her new quarters, where she became in consequence of her "three-cornered" locks.

"The Lawn" was sold last Saturday, by positively the last time, in the occupancy of the sale of Mr. Villebois's thorough-bred horses. A brook was drawn up under the two, and a large number of members of the Jockey Club were present. The lots were all sold, and out, held quite a pleasant congress in the heart of the great city. Some of the horses realised very good prices, the mares with hardly a blood enough for a flying country. The 565 couple made 812 gs., one of four thousand pounds by Stockwell, the Duke of York bought a weight-carrying hunter, Simpson, for 220 gs. Tom, the crack horse of the lot, was sold for 300 gs. Lot 14 for 350 gs. made 1100 gs.

NEWMARKET FIRST SPRING MEETING.—TUESDAY.

Handicap Plate of £100.—Mercer, 1. The Giant, 2. The Brigand, 3.

Handicap Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Ashmore, 1. Mr. Merry's Sweepstakes, 2. Sweepstakes of Sovs.—Sallies, 1. Bizzaro, 2. Knight of the Whistle, 3.

Mr. Thrower's Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Mr. Thrower's, 1. Lollingdon, 2. Plate of 100 sovs.—Troublesome, 1. Bavarde, 2. Hippolyta, 3.

Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Mr. Merry's, 1. Mr. Cox's, 2.

WEDNESDAY.

Handicap Plate of £100.—Lord Stamford, 1. Fuzon, 2. Spice, 3.

Plate of 100 sovs.—Tollshire, 1. Alfredia, 2. Cambali, 3.

Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Argonaut, 1. Zealous, 2. Vestiarous, 3.

Sweepstakes of 50 sovs.—Argonaut, 1. Gemma, 2. Gallopade, 3.

Newmarket Handicap Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Mr. Merry's, 1. Hilton Petty, 2. Belfrey Handicap Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Hawksbury, 1. Miry, 2. Kremmels, 3.

Mr. Thrower's Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Mr. Thrower's, 1. Lollingdon, 2.

Prince of Wales' Stakes.—Ida Girl, 1. Paris, 2. Sierra Ladra, 3.

Hampton Handicap Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Mr. Merry's, 1.

THURSDAY.

£100 Plate.—Lytham, 1. Warrington, 2. Sagacity, 3.

New Biennial Stakes of 10 sovs.—Jackass, 1. Kruig, 2. La Fortune, 3.

Handicap Plate.—Tomato, 1. Verdant, 2. Tweedsmuir, 3.

Handicap Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Mr. Merry's, 1. Mr. Cox's, 2.

Sweepstakes of 25 sovs.—Saffron, 1. Fusiolo, 2. Kill'em and Eat'em, 3.

Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Argonaut, 1. Gemma, 2.

£250 Plate.—Cargoman, 1. Balmontine, 2.

Handicap Sweepstakes of 10 sovs.—Hilton Petty, 1.

The foundation-stone of an additional wing to the Royal South Hants Infirmary was laid last week. It is to be erected in memory of the late Colonel Lucas, and will cost about £2,000 when completed.

The ironmasters of North Staffordshire have, it is stated, rejected the compromise proposed by the puddlers on strike. They are resolved, we are told, to stand out for a reduction of 10 per cent in the puddling rate.

At the Central Police Court, Glasgow, the other day, a colonel named Hamilton, of the Glasgow Corps of the Police Act, by having failed to wear a good hat while on duty at one of the cab-stands in the city, had fined 10s.

A handsome building was opened on Wednesday for business at Blackburn as the new Exchange. The building, which is Italian in style, is erected on a site opposite to the Townhall; the right wing, comprising the larger room, and the left wing the smaller room. The cost, when all is over, has been completed, is a cost of about £12,000.

At a large and enthusiastic public meeting was held at Nottingham on Monday, under the presidency of the Mayor, when it was unanimously resolved to invite Mr. Gladstone to visit Nottingham on his return to London from annual meetings for the year 1866 in that town. Nearly £2000 have already been subscribed towards meeting the expenses.

Another party riot broke out in Belfast on Sunday evening. Large numbers of our party were gathering fissures in a meadow in the neighbourhood of the town, preparatory to a celebration of May Day, when they were to open fire where, and a furious fight took place, which the police could with difficulty quell.

Messrs. Laird Brothers launched, on Saturday, in the presence of a large concourse of spectators, from their yard at Birkenhead, for the National Steam Navigation Company, an iron screw steamer called the Iberian, largest vessel ever built on the Mersey of the Mersey for the merchant service. She is 350 feet long, 40 feet beam, 31 feet 6 in. breadth, and 27 ft. in depth, her tonnage being 3750, and her horse-power 470.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

THE Council for money for commercial purposes having increased, and a new Turkish Loan for £5,000,000 sterling having been announced, Mr. Hume thinks he is from home and is sleeping in prize. The purchases of stock on account of the public have been trifling, and the Bank of England has not yet begun to buy bullion.

On Thursday the Directors of the Bank of England advanced their minimum rate of discount to 6½ per cent. The return shows an increase in "other" securities of £1,305,840; and a decrease in the stock of bullion of £1,305,840.

The supply of money in the general discount market is large, but on the Continent very little change has taken place in the rates.

The business done in the Stock Exchange has been on a moderate scale, and several parcels of Government stock changed hands during the week.

The bullion market was very dull last place on Wednesday, but only £10,000 was taken. The supply of gold on offer is small, and the demand is limited, with prices unchanged.

There has been an active market for American Securities, at enhanced quotations.

The Foreign Stock Market has been very quiet, and prices have declined. Mexican, 21; Spanish, 27½; Turkish, 51½; Italian, 59½; Brazilian, 90; Peruvian, 90; Egyptian, 90; Indian Five per Cents, 103; Ditto Five-and-a-Half per Cents, 103; Ditto Four per Cents, 96; Ditto Bonds, 1865, 97; and Exchequer Bills, 30s. to 35s. pm.

The Railway Share Market has been very dull, pressure in the market for Foreign Securities. Most of the leading Railway Shares have been somewhat depressed in price.

The dealings in Joint-stock Bank Shares have been somewhat restricted. Colonial Government Securities are dull. Miscellaneous Securities and Mining Shares Market has a dull luxury, and the quotations have, in some instances, given way.

THE MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE, MAY 1.—Thoroughly of English wheat in to-day's market was only moderate, and sales proceed steadily, at 1s. per quarter more money. Foreign wheat is in good supply, and the demand is steady, at full quotations. Barley is in short supply, and is worth a shade more money. Malt is in good request, at full quotations. Beans and peas are steady. Oats and oatmeal are unchanged. Flour is dull, at late rates.

Mark Lane, May 1.—Wheat, both English and foreign, exceedingly dull. Barley, full prices. Malt, 1s. per quarter dearer. Beans and peas, 1s. per quarter higher. Oats, 6d. per quarter dearer. Flour, 1s. per sack lower.

ENGLISH CORN AVERAGES.—Wheat, 46s. 5d.; barley, 34s. 6d.; oats, 23s. 8d.; rye, 34s. 6d.; beans, 37s. 6d.; peas, 37s. 6d.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

Clarence Yard, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

Leeds, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

Liverpool, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

Manchester, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

Liverpool, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

Manchester, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

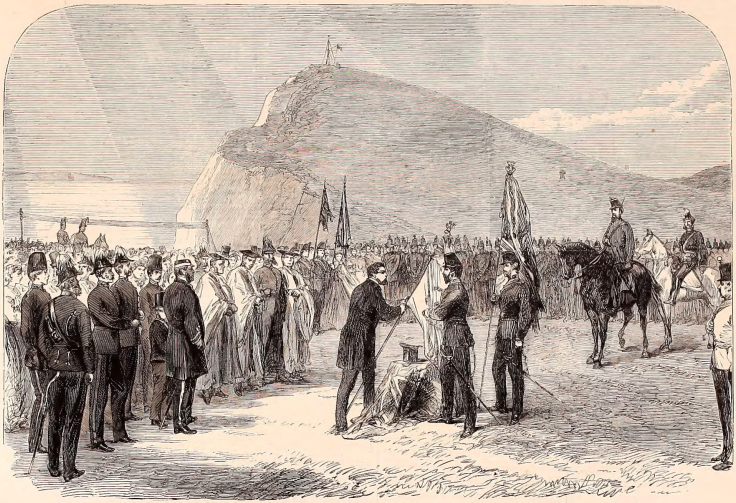
Liverpool, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

Manchester, May 1.—Wheat, 40s. to 46s.; barley, 30s. to 34s.; oats, 20s. to 24s.; rye, 30s. to 34s.; beans, 34s. to 38s.; peas, 34s. to 38s.; flour, per sack, 36s. to 40s.

Beef, 5s. to 6s. 4d.; mutton, 5s. to 6s. 8d.; veal, 5s. to 6s.; pork, 4s. to 5s. 8d. per 8lb. loaf.

MARRIAGE GIFTS FROM NORTH-WESTERN INDIA TO THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.



SIR ROBERT MONTGOMERY, late the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjaub, waited upon Her Majesty and Princess Alexandra, at Marlborough House, on March 29, immediately after his return to England, and presented to their Royal Highnesses a number of splendid jewels, pieces of plate, and other articles of native manufacture, which he had been requested to bring hither as gifts from the princes, nobles, and people of certain provinces of North-western India under the occasion of their Royal Highnesses' most happy marriage. The Illustration which appears on page 433 represents a portion of the rich articles, which had been arranged with great taste and skill by Messrs. R. and S. Garrard, jewellers, to her Majesty and their Royal Highnesses. They may be distinguished in the Engraving by the numbers attached to each article. No. 1 is a shield of very handsome workmanship, with four large diamond bosses in the centre, given by the European and native inhabitants of the Delhi district as a testimonial of their regard for the eldest son of the Punjaub, as the Punjaub is a frontier province and its army holds the post of honour. No. 2 is a cuirass from the same province, in a sacred Delhi box, mounted with ivory-paintings of the principal buildings in the city. No. 3 is a pair of pistols and a pair of swords of Cashmere workmanship; and this likewise is a present from the European and native inhabitants of the Punjaub. No. 4 is a piece of Oriental fashion, set with diamonds, rubies, and emeralds, and furnished with a gold turquoise-mounted scabbard, presented to the Prince of Wales from the Rajah of Kuppoortulla (whose portrait, with a brief memoir of his life, appeared in our Number for September 3, 1864, in the birthday of 1857, was published in the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of Dec. 17 last year, upon the occasion of his being invested by Her Majesty, at Windsor, with the dignity of the Star of India). This Rajah, Randhir Singh Bahadoor, who led a well-equipped force to the assistance of our army in Oude, just after the capture of Delhi, understands the English language, and is a most loyal and devoted friend to the Government. He has sent, besides the sword, two exquisite pearl and diamond bracelets, intended to be worn as No. 7 in our Engraving, for her Royal Highness; with a pair of emerald, pearl, and diamond bracelets, a pair large emerald drop earrings, set with pearls. No. 9 in our selection consists of a pearl necklace, with diamond clasp, and a pair of pearl earrings, with a emerald and diamond snape, the gifts of the Maharajah of Puttiala. No. 6 is a pearl festoon necklace, containing seven rows of pearls, with a diamond and emerald pendant, given by the Rajah of Dhcond; who has sent, also, a collar necklace of pearls, emeralds, and diamonds. No. 8 is described. In addition to these articles, which are shown in our Engraving, several other gifts were brought to her Royal Highness and the Prince of Wales from some of the native chiefs whom we have not yet named. The Maharajah of Cashmere sent a handsome assortment of shawls and various kinds of cloth of the exquisite manufacture of that country. The Rajah of Jeypore sent a pearl and emerald necklace, containing seven rows of pearls; and a pair of pearl bracelets, with diamond snaps, each bracelet having seven rows. The Maharajah of Gwalior sent a pair of diamond armlets, richly worked. Such are the tokens of loyal affection which the son and daughter of Queen Victoria have received from the gorgeous East.

PRESENTATION OF COLOURS TO THE 37TH (NORTH HAMPSHIRE) REGIMENT.

A NEW set of colours was presented by the Secretary of State for War, Earl De Grey and Ripon, to the 37th (North Hampshire) Regiment of the Line, at Dover, on Thursday week. We give in the Illustration of the ceremony, which took place on the ground between the citadel and the Archcliff Fort. On his Lordship's arrival he was received by the Lieutenant-General the Hon. A. A. Dalzell, C.B., and Staff; Brigadier-General Elliot, C.B., and Staff; Colonel Fielding Marriott, R.A.; and General Sir Hilgrove Turner, K.C.B., who commands the garrison, gave a general salute. After the inspection of the line the ceremony of GIFTS OF THE PRINCES OF THE PUNJAUB TO THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

EARL DE GREY, THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR WAR, PRESENTING NEW COLOURS TO THE 37TH (NORTH HAMPSHIRE) REGIMENT OF THE LINE, AT DOVER.

trooping' the colours was gone through; the regiment formed three sides of a square, in the centre of which were the new colours, lying upon a drumhead. The Chaplain-General read prayers. The old colours were borne aside by two Ensigns. Earl De Grey and Ripon then handed the new colours to two Ensigns, who received them kneeling, and afterwards expressed his gratification at having been called on to present them to so distinguished a regiment as the 37th, because the past history of the old colours must remind everyone that the regiment was worthy to possess them. Having touched upon the services of the regiment from the time it was raised, in 1702, and their glorious achievements, which had won the words "Minden," "Tournay," and "Peninsula" upon their colours, his Lordship concluded as follows:—"Thirty-seventh, see that these colours are never tarnished while they are in your keeping. Take care that when they are unfurled in the morning of any future battle they may be so carried as that when they are furled again in the evening you have added another glorious name to the long roll of British victories." The new standards were then encircled each by a garland of flowers, after which Colonel Grey, commanding the 37th, responded to the speech of Earl De Grey and Ripon, and expressed his confidence that the new colours will never be sullied. The ceremony being over, Earl De Grey and a large party of officers and fashionables were entertained at luncheon under the marquee. The officers also gave a grand military ball to about 200 fashionables at the Apollonicon Hall, Dover, in honour of the event. The old and tattered colours, which were presented to the 37th by General the Hon. Sir A. Duff, G.C.B., at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, on the 12th of July, 1843, are to be deposited in All Saints' Church, Aldershott, where it is intended to erect a beautifully-designed stained-glass window to the memory of the officers and men who died or were killed while serving under the old colours.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND AND FORT, NEW YORK HARBOUR.

IN the last number of our Journal was a View of the new fort erected, near Sandy Hook, at the entrance to the Bay of New York. We now give a view of the fortifications upon Governor's Island, which lies within the bay, at the entrance to the East River, or Sound, between Long Island and the mainland. Fort Columbus, Castle Williams, and the South Battery, are the names of the principal military structures upon Governor's Island. The Bay of New York is about eight miles wide and long, and has sufficient anchorage for all the navies of the world to ride with safety in it. The defences of the inner harbour are considered quite impregnable, and they have been made even stronger by the works lately completed, of which the new fort at Sandy Hook is an example.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND AND FORT, NEW YORK HARBOUR.

MR. and Mrs. GERMAN REED, with Mr. JOHN PARRY, will appear in their NEW ENTERTAINMENT Every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight. Wednesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three. ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street. A New Opera di Camera every Tuesday and Thursday at Three. Saturday at Eight.

HYDE PARK in 1864, by HENRY BARRAUD, Esq., containing 220 Portraits of the Frequenters of Rotten-row. NOW ON VIEW, at 220, Regent-street (opposite Hanover-street). Admission 1s. Open from Ten till Dusk.

THE LARGE PICTURE—A DRAWING-ROOM at ST. JAMES'S PALACE, in the reign of Queen Victoria—painted by JERRY BARRETT, and containing nearly 40 Portraits—is now ON VIEW at Mr. HOGARTH'S, 5, Haymarket. Invitation cards issued before the Picture's removal are available. Hours Eleven till Six. Admission, One Shilling.

MUSICAL UNION.—TUESDAY, MAY 9, QUARTETS by Mozart and Mendelssohn. Sonata, A Minor, Violin and Piano, op. 23, and Grand Trio in D, op. 70, Beethoven. Piano Solos, &c. Artists—Joachim, Ries, Webb, Piatti, and Hallé. Visitors' Tickets Half-a-Guinea each, to be had at the usual places. J. ELLA, Director, 18, Hanover-square.

MAY 15, 1865.—MDME. SAINTON-DOLBY and Mons. SAINTON have the honour to announce that their ANNUAL GRAND MORNING CONCERT will take place at ST. JAMES'S HALL, on MONDAY, MAY 15, 1865. Vocalists—Mdlle. Carlotta Patti, Mdme. Lemmens-Sherrington, Mdme. Parepa, Miss Marian Moss, Mdme. Sainton-Dolby, and Miss Louisa Pyne; Herr Wachtel, Mr. Wilbye Cooper, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. J. G. Patey, and Mr. W. H. Weiss. Pianoforte—Mdme. Arabella Goddard. Violin—M. Sainton. Violoncello—M. Paque. Conductors—Mr. Benedict, M. Toure, Mr. Deacon, and Herr Meyer Lutz.—Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Reserved Area, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; admission, 1s. Tickets may be obtained of Mdme. Sainton-Dolby and Mons. Sainton, at their residence, 5, Upper Wimpole-street, W.; the principal Libraries and Musicsellers; and at Austin's Ticket-office, St. James's Hall, Piccadilly.

APTOMMAS'S TARENTELLE, VALSE DE CONCERT, SOUNDS FROM HOME, &c., will be played at his Harp Recitals, commencing TUESDAY EVENING NEXT, May 9, at the CONSERVATOIRE DE LA HARPE, 76, Harley-street. Just published, "The Modern Harpist" (new work for the Harp).

MR. HENRY LAHEE'S MORNING CONCERT, HANOVER-SQUARE ROOMS, MAY 17, at Three o'Clock. Miss Banks, Mr. Lazarus, Herr Deichmann, Herr Daubert, Mr. B. Blagrove, and Mr. H. Lahee. Conductor, Mr. H. R. Bird. Reserved Seats, 10s. 6d.; to admit Three, 21s.; Unreserved Seats, 7s. 6d.; to admit Four, 21s.; may be had of the principal Musicsellers, and of Mr. H. Lahee, 20, Alexander-square, Brompton.

MISS AGNES ZIMMERMANN'S MORNING CONCERT will take place, at the HANOVER-SQUARE ROOMS, SATURDAY, MAY 13, at Three o'clock. Programme includes:—Bach's sonata A major, piano and violin; Beethoven's sonata Appassionata; Mendelssohn's sonata B flat, piano and cello; Schumann's quintet; vocal and pianoforte compositions of Miss A. Zimmermann, &c. Artistes—Mdme. Lemmens-Sherrington, Miss Adelaide Cornelis (by kind permission of the Opera Company), Mr. W. H. Cummings, Messrs. Deichmann, Wiener, Webb, Signor Piatti; pianoforte, Miss A. Zimmermann. Conductor, Signor Randegger. Stalls, 15s.; Reserved Seats, 10s. 6d.; Tickets, 7s. each, at the Hanover-square Rooms; and of Miss Zimmermann, No. 13, Dorchester-place, N.W.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY, EXETER HALL.—Mr. Costa's New Oratorio, NAAMAN, will be performed for the first time in London, as a Subscription Concert, on FRIDAY NEXT, MAY 12, conducted by the Composer. Principal vocalists—Mdme. Rudersdorff, Miss Edmunds, Mdme. Sainton-Dolby, Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Cummings, and Mr. Santley. The Band and Chorus, complete in every department, the largest available in Exeter Hall, will consist of nearly Seven Hundred Performers. Half-guinea numbered Stalls and Five-shilling Gallery Reserved Tickets at 6, Exeter Hall.

THURTON'S "ODD FOLKS," with a New Piece of Extravaganza, termed "GOING TO COURT," and Portraits of the Japanese Dandy, the Model Policeman, Idle Josh, and other Novelties, at NANTWICH, MONDAY, MAY 8; Northwich, 9; Warrington, 10; Wrexham, 11; Oswestry, 12.
Manager, Mr. J. MORFEY.

DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION,
1865.
Under the Special Patronage of
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

THE EXHIBITION
WILL BE OPENED
ON TUESDAY, 9TH OF MAY,
BY HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS
THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The State Ceremonial to be observed on this occasion will include a Grand Musical Performance, with a Band and Chorus of a Thousand Performers.
On the Opening Day Season-ticket Holders only can be admitted. Season Tickets are now on Sale at the Office, 112, Grafton-street.
Lady's or Gentleman's Ticket £2 2 0
Child's, under 12 Years 1 1 0
April 10, 1865. HENRY PARKINSON, Comptroller.
Arrangements for Return and Excursion Tickets on all the railways to the Exhibition, at reduced rates, are in progress.

PARIS.—GALLERY of the DUC DE MORNY.
The SALE of the COLLECTION of ANCIENT AND MODERN PAINTINGS,
the property of the late Duc De Morny, consisting of the masterpieces of the first painters of the Flemish, Dutch, French, and Spanish schools, will take place in PARIS, at the Palace of the Presidency of the Legislative Body, on WEDNESDAY, the 31st of MAY; Thursday, the 1st, Friday, the 2nd; and Saturday, the 3rd, of June, 1865.
The Sale of the important
COLLECTION OF OBJECTS OF ART AND CURIOSITIES, consisting of porcelain, bronze ornaments, enamels in frames, jade, rock crystal, and other valuable objects from China and Japan, several ancient snuffboxes of the reigns of Louis XV. and Louis XVI., porphyry vases, marble sculpture, furniture, &c., will also take place at said Palace of the Presidency, on TUESDAY, the 6th, Wednesday, the 7th, Thursday, the 8th, Friday, the 9th, Saturday, the 10th, and Monday, the 12th, of JUNE, at Two o'Clock precisely.
General Exhibition:—
Private, on Thursday, the 25th, Friday, the 26th, and Saturday, the 27th, of May.
Public, on Sunday, the 28th, and Monday, the 29th, of May, from One to Five o'Clock.
Catalogues may be obtained, from the 4th of May inst., in Paris, of—
M. Charles Pillet, the Auctioneer, 11, Rue de Choiseul;
M. Eugène Escribe, Auctioneer, 217, Rue St. Honoré;
M. Ferdinand Laneuville, Appraiser, 73, Rue Neuve des Mathurins;
M. Horsin Déon, Appraiser, 1, Rue Chabanais;
M. Francis Petit, Appraiser, 43, Rue de Provence;
M. Mannheim, Appraiser, 10, Rue de la Paix;
M. Rousel, 20, Rue de Victoire;
M. Malinet, Dealer in Curiosities, 25, Quai Voltaire; and in London of
Mr. Colnaghi, 14, Pall-mall East;
Mr. Webb, 22, Cork-street, Burlington-gardens;
Mr. Durlacher, 113, New Bond-street;
Mr. Annett, 16, Old Bond-street;
Mr. Davis, 101, New Bond-street; or of
Mr. Gambart, 120, Pall-mall.

PICTURE FRAMES for "HAPPINESS," given with this Paper. Handsome gilt frame, glass and back 2s.; maple and gilt, 3s.; ornamented, gold oval frame, 5s.—At GEO. REES, 57, Drury-lane; and 34, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

PERMANENT PHOTOGRAPHS are obtained by the new patent process of WOTHLYTYPE on Ivory. Those interested in the advance of the art are invited to view the specimens. Full information and card of prices by post.
"The pictures are printed with wonderful delicacy."—Times.
The UNITED ASSOCIATION of PHOTOGRAPHY (Limited), 213, Regent-street, W.

TO PARENTS and GUARDIANS.—Wanted, a respectable, well-educated YOUTH, from 14 to 16, as an APPRENTICE in an old-established and first-class FAMILY and DISPENSING CHEMIST'S business.—Address, W. H. BULLEY, Chemist, &c., High-street, Exeter.

LADIES' SCHOOL, 40 and 50 Guineas Yearly for Board and Education—Laundress, Seat in Church, Musical Pieces, Drawing Materials, and use of Books included. No extras. Masters attend daily. References, H. S., Mr. LIMBERD'S, 344, Strand, W.C.

EDUCATION ON THE CONTINENT.—P. MARQUARD, Ph. D. (Bonn), Professor of Greek and Latin at Berlin University, purposes opening a College at Stutgardt, in September next, for a limited number of YOUNG GENTLEMEN. They will avail themselves of the Gymnasium and other Educational Institutions, Dr. M. superintending their studies and attending to their moral and religious (Protestant) training. French, German, and Italian conversationally. Terms (inclusive), £70 per annum. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. C. Arnold, Rugby. For particulars address Dr. Marquard, Schönhauser-street, Berlin.

HOSPITAL for CONSUMPTION and DISEASES of the CHEST, BROMPTON, S.W.—Supported by Voluntary Contributions.—Two Hundred and Ten Beds are now occupied. Liberal and Continuous SUPPORT IS REQUIRED to meet the current expenses of this Charity.
PHILIP ROSE, Hon. Sec.; HENRY DOBBIN, Sec.

NEW BOOKS.

On Wednesday, the 10th inst., will be published, price 3s. 6d. cloth,

HUNTING SKETCHES.
By ANTHONY TROLLOPE.
(Reprinted from the "Pall Mall Gazette.")
Contents.

The Man who Hunts and Doesn't Like it.	The Man who Hunts and never Jumps.
The Man who Hunts and Does Like it.	The Hunting Parson.
The Lady who Rides to Hounds.	The Master of Hounds.
The Hunting Farmer.	How to Ride to Hounds.

CHAPMAN and HALL, 193, Piccadilly.

This day, in one volume, 8vo, with Illustrations, 12s.,

A WINTER IN ALGERIA.
By Mrs. GEORGE ALBERT ROGERS.
London: SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, Milton House, Ludgate-hill.

Second Edition, this day, 3 vols., post 8vo, 24s.,

A MERE STORY. By the Author of "Twice Lost," "Linnet's Trial," &c.
London: SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, Milton House, Ludgate-hill.

This day, at all the Libraries,

HELEN FELTON'S QUESTION. A Novel.
By AGNES WYLDE. One volume. Price 8s.
"I hold it truth, with him who sings
To one clear harp in divers tones,
That men may rise on stepping-stones
Of their dead selves to higher things."
SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, Milton House, Ludgate-hill.

This day, in 1 vol., crown 8vo, beautifully printed on toned paper cloth extra, price 6s.,

LIKE UNTO CHRIST: a new Translation of the "De Imitatione Christi," usually ascribed to Thomas à Kempis, with a Vignette from an Original Drawing by Sir Thomas Lawrence.
SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, Milton House, Ludgate-hill.

This day, fcap 8vo, cloth, price 3s. 6d., with Maps and Illustrations,

MISSIONARY GEOGRAPHY: a Manual for all persons interested in missions, and especially adapted for school teachers and missionary speakers.
SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, Ludgate-hill.

Next week, at all the Libraries.

SIR FELIX FOY, BART. A Novel. By DUTTON COOKE. 3 vols, post 8vo, 24s.
London: SAMPSON LOW, SON, and MARSTON, Ludgate-hill.

Just published, royal 8vo, with numerous Illustrations, £1 1s.,

A TREATISE on the CONSTRUCTION, PROPER USE, and CAPABILITIES of SMITH, BECK, and BECK'S ACHROMATIC MICROSCOPES.
By RICHARD BECK.
JOHN VAN VOORST, 1, Paternoster-row.

In a few days,

TRAVELS and RESEARCHES in CRETE.
By Captain SPRATT, R.N., C.B., F.R.S.
With Map, 12 full-page Chromolithographic Views, and many head piece and other vignette illustrations. 2 vols. 8vo. £2.
JOHN VAN VOORST, 1, Paternoster-row.

NEW NOVEL.
This day is published, 3 vols., crown 8vo, cloth, price £1 11s. 6d.,

THE HILLYARS AND THE BURTONS; A Story of Two Families. By HENRY KINGSLEY, Author of "Austin Elliot," "Ravenshoe," &c.
MACMILLAN and CO., London and Cambridge.

Ready this day, cloth, price 2s. 6d.,

A HANDBOOK FOR THE MAN OF BUSINESS, applicable to all departments of commercial engagements.—London: F. PITMAN, 20, Paternoster-row, E.C.

MABEL MAY. By Author of "Twice Married." The New Tale in the FAMILY HERALD. Weekly, One Penny.
London: W. STEVENS, 421, Strand; and all Booksellers.

MISS ACTON'S MODERN COOKERY-BOOK. Price 7s. 6d. Seventy-sixth Thousand, revised and enlarged, and fully illustrated. "The best book of its class yet produced."—Illustrated London News.
London: LONGMAN and CO.

FLOWERS, FRUITS, VEGETABLES—how to select the best and grow them to perfection. See practical papers in the GARDENER'S MAGAZINE, conducted by SHIRLEY HIBBERD, Esq., F.R.H.S. Saturday, price 2d.; Monthly Parts, 10d.
London: E. W. ALLEN, 11, Ave Maria-lane, E.C.

Just published, 8vo, price 7s. 6d.,

HOMŒOPATHIC TREATMENT of RHEUMATISM, EPILEPSY, ASTHMA, and FEVER, being Chemical Lectures delivered at the London Homœopathic Hospital. By J. RUTHERFURD RUSSELL, M.D.
LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yard, and 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st.

Price 3s. 6d., bound in cloth,

HOMŒOPATHIC TEXT-BOOK of VETERINARY PRACTICE; embracing the Treatment of the Horse, Dog, Ox, Cow, Sheep, and Pig. By HARRY GOODAY.
LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yard, and 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st.

Price 5s., Second Edition, bound in cloth,

HOMŒOPATHY. The Parents' Guide to the Treatment of Diseases incidental to Children. By G. LAURIE, M.D.
LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yd., and 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st.

Sixty-third Edition, price 1s.,

HOMŒOPATHIC FAMILY GUIDE; containing Plain Directions for the Domestic Treatment of Ordinary Ailments. A Chest of Medicine for this Work, price 18s.
LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yard, and 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st.

Nineteenth Edition, 8vo, cloth, 16s.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Specially adapted to the use of clergymen, emigrants, and missionaries. Also, just published, An Epitome of the above, Twenty-fourth Edition, price 5s. The Case of Medicines, adapted to the former work, price 50s.; and to the latter, price 20s.
LEATH and ROSS, 9, Vere-st., Oxford-st., and 5, St. Paul's-ch.-yard.

Tenth Thousand, price 2s. 6d., post-free, 32 stamps,

HUNT on the SKIN; a Guide to the Treatment and Prevention of Diseases of the Skin and Hair, with Cases. By THOS. HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte-st., Fitzroy-sq. "Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.—London: T. RICHARDS, 37, Gt. Queen-st., W.C.

Just published, post-free,

TEETH.—GABRIEL'S Pamphlet explains the only effectual mode of supplying Teeth, without pain, at half the usual charge.—27, Harley-street, W.

PHOTO-CHROMOGRAPHY.—An easy method of colouring Photographs (without a knowledge of Painting or Drawing). Books of instruction, post-free, 7 stamps. Boxes materials complete, 10s. 6d.—WILLIAM BARNARD, 59, Connaught-terrace, London, W.

LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE. Established 25 years. For Family Arms send name and county. Sketch, 3s. 6d., or stamps. Arms painted and quartered and engraved on Seals, Rings, Dies, &c. Monograms designed. Pedigrees of Families, 21s.—PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, London, W.C.—Manual of Heraldry, 3s.

CORPORATE and OFFICIAL SEALS and PRESSES, Hatchments, Monumental Brasses, &c.; Diplomas, Cheques, and Votes of Thanks; Bookplates, Wedding and other Cards.—PUGH BROTHERS, Artists, Gt. Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

MONOGRAM, Crest, or Address stamped in colour on paper and envelopes, without any charge for the die. A ream of thick ivory note-paper and 500 envelopes, stamped in four different colours, for 21s. Artistic design in monogram sent for 18 stamps. Arms and crests found, and emblazoned in gold and colours.—HENRY REED, Stationer and Heraldic Engraver, 57, Oxford-street.

THE MAGIC DONKEYS.—Roars of Laughter.—These wonderful animals go through their extraordinary evolutions at 252, Strand, from Ten till Six. The pair sent post-free for 14 stamps.—H. G. CLARKE and CO., 252, Strand.

1D. EACH, selling by thousands, the ingenious POCKET TIMEPIECE, warranted to denote time correctly. 1d., 3d., and 6d. each; post-free, 1d. extra. Agents wanted.—ARTHUR GRANGER, Patentee, 308, High Holborn, London.

NEW MUSIC.

BEN É RIDICOLO.—The favourite Italian Canzone, by RANDEGGER. Sung by the principal Vocalists and invariably encored. In E for Contralto; in G for Soprano. Price 3s.; post-free for 19 stamps.
METZLER and CO., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

MISS C. M. E. OLIVER'S NEW SONG, LADYBIRD, LADYBIRD, FLY UPON ME! Price 2s. 6d.
ASHDOWN and PARRY, 18, Hanover-square.

MAGDALENA, CEASE THY WEEPING (PONE LUCTUM MAGDALENA). Sacred Song, Eight Hundred years old. Words by Peter the Venerable. Music by C. G. HAMILTON. In F and A flat. "The most beautiful and interesting sacred song ever published." Post-free, 1s. 6d.; Quartet, 3d.; Pianoforte Piece, 1s. 6d.
OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

MUSIC HALF PRICE and Post-free. The High Price of Music. All full-price Music of every publisher forwarded immediately on publication to any part of the kingdom, on receipt of stamps to half the price. Catalogues gratis.
OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-square, London.

ONE GUINEA per YEAR, MUSIC LIBRARY; Six Months, 12s.; Three Months, 7s.; or, for town subscribers only, 10s. per year.—HARRIS, 33, Rathbone-place, Oxford-street. All New Music Half price.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE, 14s. per Month. Seven octaves. No hire charged if purchased in six months. The most economical and judicious mode of obtaining a really good pianoforte is to hire one (with the option of purchasing it if approved) of the Manufacturers, OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-square, opposite Mdme. Tussaud's.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOT for the Sale of NICOLE'S celebrated Musical Instruments is REMOVED from 54 to 11 and 12, Cornhill, London. A large consignment of all sizes, from Geneva, has arrived. Lists of Tunes and Prices gratis and postage-free.

TO LOVERS OF MUSIC.—The choicest Stock of Musical Boxes in London, by Stauffer, at £1 per air; Snuffboxes, 7s. per tune.—At T. W. NEILSON'S, 232, Strand (four doors west of Temple Bar).

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 56, Cheapside, and 32, Ludgate-street.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, £1 per air; Snuffboxes, 7s. to 16s. per tune. Catalogues of tunes and prices gratis and post-free on application to WALES and CO., as above.

ARCHERY PRIZES, Fancy-Fair and Bazaar Novelties.—EDWARDS and JONES beg to call the attention of the Nobility, Clergy, and Gentry to their extensive and varied Stock of Attractive Novelties suitable for the above purposes, and to which fresh novelties are being daily added.
161, Regent-street, W., London.

UNIVERSAL MICROSCOPE.
Price £5 5s.—SMITH, BECK, and BECK,
31, Cornhill, E.C. (late 6, Coleman-street).
Catalogues sent on receipt of six postage-stamps.

WATCHES.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, WATCHMAKERS, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London (opposite the Bank). First-class Patent Detached Lever Watches, with the latest improvements and maintaining power to continue going whilst being wound, recommended for accuracy and durability.

PRICES OF SILVER WATCHES.

	£	s.	d.
Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	4	14	6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes and capped	6	6	0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes	8	8	0

Silver Watches, in Hunting Cases, 10s. 6d. extra.

GOLD WATCHES—SIZE FOR LADIES.

	£	s.	d.
Patent Lever Watch, with gold dial, jewelled..	11	11	0
Ditto, with richly-engraved case	12	12	0
Ditto, with very strong case, and jewelled in four holes ..	14	14	0

GOLD WATCHES—SIZE FOR GENTLEMEN.

	£	s.	d.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, seconds, and capped ..	13	13	0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance..	19	19	0

Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, £3 3s. extra.
List of prices with remarks on Watches, gratis and post-free.

M. F. DENT, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen and to the principal Courts of Europe.
M. F. Dent, 33 and 34, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, London.

THE PRETTIEST GIFT FOR A LADY is one of JONES'S LEVER WATCHES, at £11 11s.; for a Gentleman, at £10 10s. Rewarded at the Exhibition for cheapness of production. Manufactory, 338, Strand, opposite Somerset House.

DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker, by special appointment, to her Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and Maker of the Great Clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand (adjoining Coutts's Bank), and 34 and 35, Royal Exchange.

A. FORRER, Hair Jeweller to the Queen, 2, Hanover-street, Hanover-square, W.

HAIR JEWELLERY.—G. HOOPER, Artist in Hair.—Solid Gold Lockets for Hair, from 5s. each; Hair Rings, from 6s. 6d.; Hair Alberts, from 25s. each, &c. Illustrated Catalogues sent free.—213, Regent-street, London.

A FACT.—An ELEGANT POCKET-DIAL, with Gold Appendages, warranted to denote correct time, in handsome gilt case, reduced to One Shilling; by post 14 stamps. PAUL BANSOM, 94, Brunswick-street, Haggerstone, London, N.E.

SELLING BY THOUSANDS,

THE INGENIOUS POCKET TIMEPIECE, with Case complete, warranted to denote solar time correctly. Price One Shilling; by post, thirteen stamps.
WARD and CO., Kinver, near Stourbridge.

TEETH WITHOUT PAIN and WITHOUT SPRINGS.—OSTEO-EIDON for Artificial Teeth.
Equal to Nature.
Messrs. GABRIEL, 27, Harley-street; and 64, Ludgate-hill.

TEETH.—GABRIEL'S GUTTA-PERCHA ENAMEL prevents Toothache and arrests Decay. Price 1s. 6d. per box.—27, Harley-street, and 64, Ludgate-hill, London; 134, Duke-street, Liverpool; 65, New-street, Birmingham.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT in ARTIFICIAL TEETH, and great Reduction in Prices.
Mr. EPHRAIM MOSELY, Surgeon Dentist, 9, Grosvenor-street, Grosvenor-square, sole inventor of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, on a soft, elastic, chemically-prepared indiarubber gum. No wires or unsightly fastenings are required; they are more natural, durable, and comfortable than any yet introduced. They are self-adhesive, and render support to the adjoining teeth. Consultation free. Observe—No connection with anyone of the same name.

TEETH and PAINLESS DENTISTRY. Messrs. LEWIN and SIMEON MOSELY and SONS, 30, Berners-st., Oxford-st., and 448, Strand (opposite Charing-cross-Railway Station). These teeth are cheaper, more durable, natural, and comfortable than any yet produced. Consultation Free. For the efficacy, utility, and success of this system, vide "Lancet."—No connection with anyone of the same name.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.—Corns Cured in one day by using ALEX. ROSS'S CHIROPO. It gradually dissolves the corn in a few hours. Price 4s., sent by post for 60 stamps.—248, High Holborn, London.

PURVEYORS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH,
used in the Royal Laundry,
and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,
prescribed by the most eminent medical men throughout the world as the safest, speediest, and most effectual remedy for
CONSUMPTION, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, is incomparably superior to every other variety.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
DR. LETHEBY,
Medical Officer of Health to the City of London.
"It is, I believe, universally acknowledged that Dr. de Jongh's Light-brown Cod-liver Oil has great therapeutic power; and, from my investigations, I have no doubt of its being a pure and unadulterated article."

DR. LAWRANCE,
Physician to H.R.H. the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.
"I invariably prescribe Dr. de Jongh's Cod-liver Oil in preference to any other, feeling assured that I am recommending a genuine article, and not a manufactured compound in which the efficacy of this invaluable medicine is destroyed."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, 2s. 6d.; pints, 4s. 9d.; quarts, 9s.; labelled with his stamp and signature, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE, by respectable Chemists and Druggists.
Sole Consignees,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W. C.

TO the ELECTORS of the BOROUGH of LAMBETH.
GENTLEMEN,—The cordial invitation to become a candidate for the representation of Lambeth given to me on Thursday last, in a requisition signed by upwards of 2000 electors, who pledge themselves to use their best exertions on my behalf, demands from me a fuller acknowledgment than could be conveyed in the few remarks with which I signified my acceptance of the invitation and expressed my attachment to the Liberal cause.
I feel myself honoured by so great a mark of confidence on the part of my neighbours and friends, and by the unsolicited offers of support I have received from all parts of the borough.
I have ever advocated the principle of progressive reform, being of opinion that the word "finality" should never be found on the lips of a genuine and thorough reformer, opposed as it is to the fundamental principles of reform, which implies constant progress and improvement of all institutions, so as to adapt them to the times in which we live, and to meet the wants of the people.
The extension of the suffrage would, by widening the basis of representation, render the institutions of the country more secure, as the Constitution itself would thus become more firmly established in the affections of the people.
I am of opinion that the skilled mechanic and industrious artisan would exercise the franchise as wisely and as well as other classes of the community, possessing as they do, thanks to a free press, the means of acquiring sound views of government and of public affairs both at home and abroad.
Convinced of the importance of maintaining and extending the principles of local self-government, as it is only by local institutions that the true principles of liberty can be cherished, I will oppose, as I have always done, all attempts at centralisation, experience having shown that increase of the central power is always effected at the expense of individual freedom.
Upon the subject of Church rates I am happy in finding myself in accord with thoughtful men of all parties. Attached members of the Church of England and those who dissent from her communion are alike of opinion that their abolition is advisable, as it would tend to remove a cause of animosity and a fruitful source of bitterness and animosity.
Believing that my opinions on all the great questions of social and practical reform are in accordance with those of the electors generally, I shall take an early opportunity of meeting you and expressing my views more fully.
You will, however, I am sure, concur with me in the necessity of a few days' delay, out of the respect which is due to the memory of your late long-tried and faithful representative, Mr. William Williams, whose friendship I possessed for twenty years, and the sad intelligence of whose decease has just reached me.
I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, your faithful servant,
JAMES CLARKE LAWRENCE.
Pitfield Wharf, Lambeth, April 29, 1865.

LAMBETH ELECTION.—The CENTRAL COMMITTEE for Promoting the ELECTION of Alderman J. C. LAWRENCE for the Borough of Lambeth SITS DAILY at the Horns Tavern, Kennington.—May 2, 1865.

TO the ELECTORS of the CITY of WESTMINSTER.
GENTLEMEN,—Having been requested by many of my fellow-citizens to give the more moderate and the Conservative portion of the constituency an opportunity of marking their disapproval of the extreme political doctrines which have been avowed by the candidates already in the field, I have the honour to solicit your suffrages.
Well known to many of you as a man of business resident amongst you, I shall be prepared to devote myself to your interests.
Unconnected with either of the great political parties, I should desire to enter Parliament as an independent member, at liberty to vote for measures rather than for men. I should not be a party to any factious attempt to drive Lord Palmerston from power, as I feel that the country owes a debt of gratitude to him for having preserved peace, and for the resistance he has offered to reckless innovation in our domestic institutions.
Although not opposed to a carefully-considered scheme for the extension of the suffrage, I deprecate violent or hasty changes, and am not prepared to acquiesce in proposals which would, in my opinion, have the effect of swamping the existing voters, upon whom is laid the great burden of taxation. I could not, therefore, support Mr. Baines's bill, now before Parliament, as I believe it to be neither necessary nor desirable to make so considerable a change in the present condition of the franchise.
I am opposed to the ballot, as I believe that it would not prove any safeguard to the voter, who, if afraid to act openly, is scarcely worthy of the trust which it is his duty to discharge for the benefit of the commonwealth.
As a sincere member of the Established Church, I believe the cultivation of the most kindly feelings towards those who dissent from its communion to be essential to its peace and prosperity. I earnestly hope, therefore, that means may be found for settling equitably and amicably the question of church rates, as I am unwilling to consent to their unconditional abolition.
I wish to see the naval and military forces of this country maintained in a condition of efficiency, under the conviction that such a condition is indispensable to the preservation of peace, and to real economy in the public service.
To the many social questions which occupy the public mind at the present day I should desire to give the most careful attention, as I believe the prosperity of the nation to be dependent, under the blessing of God, upon the education, morality, and providence of all classes of her Majesty's subjects.
I have the honour to remain,
Gentlemen,
Your very obedient servant,
WILLIAM HENRY SMITH, JUN.
186, Strand, May 2, 1865.

WESTMINSTER ELECTION.—The COMMITTEE for promoting the ELECTION of Mr. SMITH sits daily, from Twelve to Four, at the Trafalgar Hotel, Spring-gardens, where all communications may be made to us.
JOHN H. ISAACSON, ROBT. P. OLDERSHAW. } Agents.

SMART'S SOLE WRITING INSTITUTION, corner of Swallow-street, Quadrant, Regent-street. Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received (privately) and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in Eight to Twelve Easy Lessons. Separate Rooms for Ladies, to which department (if preferred) Mrs. Smart will attend. For prospectuses, terms, &c., apply to Mr. Smart, as above.
N.B.—Agent to the West of England Insurance Company.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

CLERICAL, MEDICAL, AND GENERAL
LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.
Established 1824.
The Eighth Bonus will be declared in January, 1867, and all With-Profit Policies in force on the 30th of June, 1865, will participate. Assurances effected before June 30, 1865, will participate on two Premiums, and thus receive a whole year's additional share of Profits over later Policies.
Tables of Rates and Forms of Proposal can be obtained from any of the Society's Agents, or of GEORGE CUTCLIFFE, Actuary and Secretary.
13, St. James's-square, London, S.W.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND.
Bankers to the General Government of New Zealand, the Provincial Governments of Auckland, Canterbury, Otago, &c.
CAPITAL, £500,000. RESERVE FUND, £100,000.
Branches and Agencies in New Zealand.

Auckland	Napier	Wanganui	Queenstown
Russell	Nelson	Wellington	Shotover
Blenheim	New Plymouth	Dunstan	Tokomairiro
Christchurch	Ngaruawahia	Dunstan Creek	Waikouaiti
Dunedin	Oamaru	Hamilton	Waitahuna
Invercargill	Picton	Hyde	Waikitipu
Kaiapoi	Riverton	Manuherikia	Wetherstone
Lyttelton	Timaru	Mount Ida

This Bank grants Drafts on any of the above-named places, and transacts every description of Banking business connected with New Zealand, on the most favourable terms.
The London Office receives deposits at interest for fixed periods, on terms which may be learned on application.
F. LARKWORTHY,
No. 50, Old Broad-street, London, E.C. Managing Director.

£2000 on ACCIDENTAL DEATH for £3 a year. At the ACCIDENTAL DEATH INSURANCE COMPANY, corner of Old Jewry, London.
J. W. ORAM, Secretary.

ROYAL NAVAL, MILITARY, AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (Established A.D. 1837, under Royal Patronage), 17, Waterloo-place, London, S.W.
ARTHUR R. HAMILTON, Secretary.
Agents wanted in towns not yet represented.

ACCIDENTS to LIFE or LIMB.—£1000 in case of death, or £6 per week while laid up by injury, secured by a payment of from £3 to £5 5s. per annum to the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY, 64, Cornhill; and 10, Regent-street. W. J. VIAN, Secretary.

LIMPLEY STOKE, NEAR BATH.

HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT. Physician, D. B. Dalzell, Esq., M.D. Manager, Mr. T. Preston. Terms, £2 2s. per week.
CHARLES JUPE and SON, Proprietors.

GARDEN EDGING TILES in great variety. Garden Vases, Fountains, &c., in artificial stone.—F. and G. ROSHER, Manufacturers, Queen's-road West, Chelsea, S.W.; Upper Ground-street, Blackfriars, S. Illustrated Price-lists by post.

SELECT PLANTS, Post-free at the annexed prices:—12 superb varieties, Fuchsias, 4s.; 12 varieties, Verbenas, 3s.; 12 Dwarf Lobelias, 3s.; 12 varieties, Pansies, 4s.—From B. W. KNIGHT, Florist, Battle, Sussex.

ORIGINAL AND SUPERIOR ESSENCE OF ANCHOVIES, SAUCES, PICKLES, &c., pure and good, as supplied by JOHN BURGESS and SONS for more than a Hundred years.—107, Strand (corner of Savoy-steps), London.

MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO., pre-eminent for their
Silver Cups and Tankards,
Electro-Silver Plate,
Volunteer Rifle and Boating Prizes,
Strongly-plated Spoons and Forks,
Officers' Canteen-Cases,
Family Plate-Chests,
Table and other Cutlery,
Vast Show-rooms and Galleries.
Illustrated Catalogues post-free.
West-End House, 77 and 78, Oxford-street.
City House, 71 and 72, Cornhill.
Manufactory—The Royal Cutlery Works, Sheffield.

MAPPIN, WEBB, and CO., 77 and 78, Oxford-street. City House, 71 and 72, Cornhill.

GARDNERS' LAMPS ARE THE BEST.—MODERATOR and PARAFFIN TABLE LAMPS, from 5s. 6d. each. Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (four doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

GARDNERS' DINNER-SERVICES, best quality. Illustrated Catalogues post-free.—Gardners', Manufacturers to the Queen, 453, Strand, Charing-cross (4 doors from Trafalgar-square), London.

ORNAMENTS for the MANTELPIECE, &c. Large and Choice Selection, including, among other articles, Groups, Statuettes, Vases, &c., in Parian and English and foreign Porcelain; Clocks (bronze, marble, and gilt), first-class Bronzes, Lustres, Candelabra, Candlesticks, and Bohemian Glass.
Novelty, Beauty, and Art.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 23, Ludgate-hill, E.C. Established 1760.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, DINING-ROOM, consisting of vases, figures, groups, candlesticks, inkstands, obelisks, inlaid tables, &c., in Alabaster, Marble, Bronze, Derbyshire Spar, &c. Imported and Manufactured by J. TENNANT (late Mawe), 149, Strand, W.C.

GASELIERS in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze. Mediæval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures.
D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 55 and 56, High Holborn, W.C.

SPOONS and FORKS.—SLACKS' SILVER ELECTRO-PLATE is a coating of sterling Silver over Nickel. The fact of 20 years' test is ample proof of its durability. Table Spoons or Forks, 30s. and 38s. per dozen; Dessert, 20s. and 30s.; Tea, 12s. and 18s. Book of Engravings gratis. Old goods replated equal to new.—Richard and John Slack, 336, Strand.

J. MAPLE and CO.'s CHIMNEY-GLASSES, in best French Plates and double gilt. The following is a list of prices:—

Size of Plate.	Outside Measure of Frame.	Price.
40 by 30 inches ..	50 inches wide by 39 inches high ..	£2 12s.
40 by 36 inches ..	50 inches high by 45 inches wide ..	3 15s.
50 by 40 inches ..	63 inches high by 52 inches wide ..	4 15s.
60 by 50 inches ..	74 inches high by 66 inches wide ..	8 8s.

Larger sizes in proportion. Among which are several handsome pairs, 7 ft. 6 in. by 6 ft., price 15 guineas each; girandoles, from 14s. 9d. An Illustrated Catalogue post-free.
Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.
Families who study economy with durability and elegance should visit this establishment before giving their orders; it will save them much time, trouble, and expense. A ten-roomed house furnished complete in twenty-four hours. An Illustrated priced catalogue sent post-free on application.
Entrance, 145, Tottenham-court-road.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS!
CARPETS!!
Stout Brussels for Bed-rooms, 2s. 4½d. per yard.
Good Handsome Brussels, 3s. 6d. per yard.
Very choice ditto, new in design, 4s. to 4s. 9d. per yard.
500 pieces of Old Patterns, 2s. 11d. per yard.
Velvet, Axminster, and Turkey Carpets.
145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road;
and 1 to 12, Tottenham-place, London.

CRETONNE, the French Chintz, requires no calendering, is both elegant and serviceable.—J. MAPLE and CO. have an immense stock of this fashionable material, suitable for Curtains or Covering for Sofas, Chairs, &c., at moderate prices.

DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE. — The BELGRAVE FURNISHING COMPANY, 12, Sloane-street, Belgrave-square, have for disposal a Complete Suite for Drawing-room, highly finished and covered in the elegant and new Regina Blue Silk Reps. Several beautiful specimens of Cabinet Furniture are also included, and, together with the above, form an entire suite of a most elegant description, and can be had for a considerable sum under the original cost.
N.B. Illustrations of the Silver-fir and Marqueterie 25-guinea Bed-room Suites forwarded gratis.

FURNITURE, Carpets, and Bedding. See our Illustrated Furniture Catalogue, 390 engravings, with prices 30 per cent less than any other house. The most unique and complete guide ever published. Gratis, from LEWIN CRAWCOUR and CO., 73 and 75, Brompton-road, Knightsbridge. Country orders carriage-free.

OAK FURNITURE, at the BELGRAVE FURNISHING COMPANY, 12, Sloane-street, Belgrave-square. — To Clergymen and Gentlemen furnishing. — A very superior Suite of Dark Oak Dining-room Furniture for sale, at the remarkably low sum of 38 guineas. The above is in admirable condition, and such a bargain as is seldom offered. Also, a very large and costly Suite, adapted for a mansion, equally cheap.

THE BURLINGTON FURNITURE GALLERIES, 38, Conduit-street, Bond-street, W.—A. SEDLEY and CO. have the honour to direct attention to the following—viz., the beautiful TAPESTRIES of ST. MAUR and NEUILLY, for curtains, portières, covering furniture, &c. These elegant productions are now in price within the reach of all who desire to furnish economically and in good taste. Also a Superb Collection of High-class Carved Oak DINING-ROOM and LIBRARY FURNITURE, at very moderate prices.—A. Sedley and Co., 38, Conduit-street, W., Upholsterers, and Patentees of the celebrated Equilibrium Chairs.

CHALET CHAIRS.—HOWARD and SONS, 26 and 27, Berners-street, solicit the gentry to inspect their new Chalet Chairs, varied in form, and adapted to all reception-rooms. An indispensable luxury to every lady's boudoir.

CONVERTIBLE OTTOMANS for centre of rooms, to form two settees and two easy-chairs—a great improvement.—T. H. FILMER and SON'S, 31, 32, and 34, Berners-street, Oxford-street. An Illustrated Priced List post-free.

CRETONNE CHINTZ, requring no calendering, is peculiarly adapted for curtains or furniture-coverings, being durable, elegant, and inexpensive. HOWARD and SONS, 26 and 27, Berners-street, have all the new patterns.

TO LADIES.—GREEN TISSUE IVY LEAVES, for ornamenting Chimney-glasses. 18 stamps per set of 72 slips. Tissue for Stove Aprons, 8 stamps per packet; 6 for 40 stamps.—R. PETERS, Tovil, Maidstone.

THE LEAMINGTON PRIZE KITCHENER combines large Hot-plate, Roasting, and Baking Oven, Open Fire, good Boiler, effects a Saving in Fuel, and a certain Cure for Smoky Chimneys.—For Price Lists, RICHARD and JOHN SLACK, 336, Strand, W.C.

WILLIAM S. BURTON, GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGER by appointment to H.R.H. the PRINCE of WALES, sends a CATALOGUE gratis and post-paid. It contains upwards of 600 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Sterling Silver and Electro-plate, Nickel Silver, and Britannia-metal Goods, Dish Covers, Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimneypieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers; Tea Trays, Urns, and Kettles; Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed-room Cabinet Furniture, &c., with lists of prices, and plans of the twenty large Show-rooms, at 39, Oxford-street, W.; 1, 1A, 2, 3, and 4, Newman-street; 4, 5, and 6, Perry's-place; and 1, Newman-yard.

FURNISH YOUR HOUSE with the best Articles at DEANE'S Ironmongery and Furnishing Warehouses. Established A.D. 1700. New Illustrated Catalogue and Priced Furnishing Lists gratis and post-free.
Deane and Co. (the Monument), London Bridge.

WENHAM LAKE ICE delivered in Town or packed for the Country. REFRIGERATORS or ICE-SAFES from £3 10s. each. Ice-cream Machines, Saltzogenes, Freezing Powders, and everything connected with freezing, of the best, cheapest, most modern, and reliable character. Illustrated Catalogues by post free.
The Company having no agents, its goods can be obtained only at the sole Office.
WENHAM LAKE ICE COMPANY, 140, STRAND, W.C.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PRINTER.—The People's Printing Press, price from 25s. to £4 4s., for Letterpress, Lithographic, or Copperplate Printing. "Art of Printing," "Art of Lithography," 1s., or 13 stamps each.—D. G. BERRI, Engraver and Stampmaker to her Majesty's Post Office, 36, High Holborn, London, W.C.

KING and CO., SILKMERCERS, &c., 243, Regent-street, have the Largest and Cheapest Stock of the NEW SPRING SILKS, NEW SPRING and SUMMER FABRICS, SHAWLS, MANTLES, &c., all bought previous to the late advance.
Patterns sent post-free to all parts of the World.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

MADE-UP DEPARTMENT. An elegant variety of Trimmed Dresses in all the latest designs, commencing at 16s. 9d., with materials and trimming for bodice.

MANTLE DEPARTMENT. Silk Mantles, Jackets, and Paletots in great variety, commencing at 1 guinea.
Light and fancy Summer Cloth Jackets and Paletots, in the newest shapes, commencing at 15s. 9d.
Opera Mantles in all the new summer fabrics.
Address to KING and CO., Regent-street, London.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

£35,763 BLACK SILKS, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
Black Glacé Silks, £1 5s. 6d. the Full Dress of 14 yards.

Black Ducapes	£1 7s. 6d.	the Full Dress.
Black Gros Grains	1 10s. 6d.	"
Black Corded Silks	1 15s. 6d.	"
Black Reversible Broché Silks ..	1 17s. 6d.	"
Black Drap de France	2 2s. 6d.	"
Black Drap de Lyon	2 5s. 6d.	"
Widows' Silks	2 10s. 6d.	"
Richest Black Moire Antiques ..	£3 3s. 6d.	"

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

NEW SPRING and SUMMER DRESSES at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

Spring Cashmeres	8s. 9d.	the Full Dress.
Marie Glacés	10s. 6d.	"
French Glacé Lawns	12s. 6d.	"
New French Camlets ..	12s. 9d.	"
Wool Grenadines	13s. 9d.	"
Marie Poplinettes	16s. 6d.	"
Broché Silk Grenadines ..	17s. 6d.	"
The New Cameleon Cloth ..	£1 5s. 6d.	"
Real Irish Poplins	£1 15s. 6d.	"
N.B.—A large Lot of Last Year's Muslins	5s. 0d.	"
The New Organdie Muslins ..	10s. 6d.	"

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street.

PATTERNS POST-FREE.

NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
First Delivery.
Striped Silks, £1 1s. the Full Dress of 14 yards.
Checked Silks, £1 5s. 6d.
Tartan Silks, £1 7s. 6d.
Corded Silks, £1 10s. 6d.
Gros Grains, £1 15s. 6d.
Broché Reversible Silks, £1 17s. 6d.
New Crossbar Silks, £2 2s. 0d.
Corded Drap de France, £2 10s. 6d.
Richest Moire Antiques, £3 13s. 6d.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

NEW SILKS for MAY.
Patterns post-free for Comparison.
Quality and Style are the Test of Cheapness.
£5000 worth of Rich Black Silks,
bought cheap under peculiar circumstances.
Good Black Glacé Silks, 18s.
Rich Black Gros Grains, £1 5s. 6d., worth 2 guineas.
Rich Black Lyons Silks, 1½ guinea.
AMOTT and COMPANY, Crystal Warehouses, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NEW SILKS for MAY.
Rich Black Poult de Soies, £1 15s. 6d.
Rich Black Drap de Lyons, £1 19s. 6d.
Hundreds of Moire Antiques, all Silk, £1 19s. 6d., worth 4 guineas.
A lot of rich Waters, very handsome, 3 guineas, unequalled under £6.
Rich Lyons Taffeta and Black Brochés, £1 18s. 6d. to 3½ guineas.
AMOTT and COMPANY, Crystal Warehouses.

NEW SILKS for MAY.
Thousands of Wedding Silks, very new, £1 5s. 6d. to 5 guineas.
500 pieces Fancy Silks, last year's patterns, are selling from 1 to 2 guineas, worth double.
Hundreds of New Checks, for young ladies, £1 5s. 6d., £1 7s. 6d., and £1 9s. 6d.
Rich Coloured Ottoman Corded Silks 1½ guinea; in appearance worth £5.
AMOTT and COMPANY, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

NEW SILKS for MAY.
The New and Pretty Patterns for Spring.
Also, the New Colours in Glacés, Taffetas, and Cords, £1 13s. 6d., £1 18s. 6d., and £2 5s.
Plain Glacés, in 30 new shades, 2s. 6½d. per yard.
Fashionable French Silks, very elegant, 2½ guineas and 3 guineas.
Hundreds of rich Plain and Figured Moire Antiques, 2½ guineas to 5 guineas.
AMOTT and COMPANY, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DRESSES, NEW, for MAY.
Patterns post-free.
The New Malabar Fancies, 3s. 11d. 12 yards.
The New Norwich Zeelika, 5s. 11d. 12 yards.
The Drap Arabia, very new, 7s. 11d. 12 yards.
Rich Peruvian Epingles, 8s. 11d. 12 yards.
AMOTT and COMPANY,
61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

DRESSES, NEW, for MAY.
The New Chenie Roubaix Pekin, 10s. 9d. 12 yards.
Plain Fashionable Glacé Alpacas,
all the new Colours, 12s. 9d. 12 yards.
Rich Alexandra Chenies, a pretty Spring Dress. 14s. 9d. 12 yards.
Rich Belgian Poplins, very silky. 16s. 9d. 12 yards.
AMOTT and COMPANY, Crystal Warehouses.

DRESSES, NEW, for MAY.
The Popeline Ottoman Alhambra, brilliant, new, and rich, 1 guinea.
The new Foulard d'Avril, extra wide, suitable for Suites, £1 5s. 6d. and 1½ guinea.
Hundreds of New Spring Petticoatings.
1s. 0½d. and 1s. 3½d. per yard, yard wide.
Mourning Dresses at a saving of 25 per cent.
AMOTT and COMPANY, Crystal Warehouses,
61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

ROYAL SCOTCH WAREHOUSE, London.
SCOTT ADIE, 115, Regent-street.
Entrance at the Corner of Vigo-street only.

SMYTH'S MILLINERY ROOMS
Modes du Premier Empire,
dernières nouveautés de Paris,
109, Oxford-street, and 276, Regent-street.

THE "ARIEL" MANTLE, SHAWL, and SWISS MANTILLA.—These elegant Novelties for the present Season can be purchased only of FARMER and ROGERS, 171, 173, 175, 179, Regent-street. India, China, French, Paisley, Norwich, and Fancy Shawls, from 1 guinea to 200 guineas.

BONNETS.—MARKS and GAVELL returned from Paris with their elegant GUINEA BONNET, in Silk, Crape, French Straw, &c. Show-rooms (no shop), 61, Regent-street, four doors from Swan and Edgar's.

BONNETS, ONE GUINEA, at Mrs. AXFORD'S, 51, Maddox-street, Bond-street, Milliner and Dressmaker. Wedding orders, outfits, and country orders punctually attended to.

FORD'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LIST, post-free.—Intending purchasers, who cannot favour us with a call, will find it of great assistance. It contains over forty drawings of shirts, shirt-collars, &c. All the new fashions are to be found in it.—R. Ford and Co., 38, Poultry, E.C.

FORD'S EUREKA COLOURED SHIRTS reduced to Six for 34s. 6d. Superior quality, and made expressly to measure: the new patterns to select from sent post-free.—R. Ford and Co., 38, Poultry, E.C.

LADIES' ABDOMINAL SUPPORTERS, Elastic Stockings, Chest Expanders, Improved Enemas, Breast Pumps, Nipple Shields, Metallic ditto, &c. Illustrations sent free.
ELAM, 196, Oxford-street.

CHEAP SILKS at BAKER and CRISP'S.
Patterns free.

Last year's Striped, Checked, and Fancy Silks at	£1 5s. 6d.	Full Dress.
The New Spring Silks	£1 13s. 6d.	"
The New Rich Fancy French Silks ..	£2 2s. 0d.	"

Neat, useful, and recherché Silks for Young Ladies, from £1 7s. 6d. Full Dress.
198, Regent-street, London.

CHEAP SILKS at BAKER and CRISP'S.
Patterns free.
Rich Corded Silks (same both sides), £1 13s. 6d. Full Dress, or 2s. 9½d. the yard.—198, Regent-street.

MOHAIRS, Camlets, Mexican Glacés, &c.
Patterns free.
The New Mohairs, and Camlets, 8s. 9d. to 15s. 6d.;
Mexican Cloths, Poplinettes, &c., 12s. 6d. to 1 guinea, Full Dress.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

WOOL EMBROIDERED MUSLINS, 8s. 9d. Full Dress.—BAKER and CRISP are now selling a Manufacturer's Stock of White and Coloured Embroidered Muslin Dresses at the above price; every Dress worth double. Patterns free.
198, Regent-street.

AS FINE AS HUMAN HAIR, Three for 1s., post-free. Invisible HAIR NETS, in any colour; the new Floss Silk Hair Nets, 1s. 6d.; Chenille ditto, 1s. 6d., 2s. Post-free for stamps.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

1s. 6d. LADIES', 1s. 11½d. GENTLEMEN'S, Delafosse's Alpine Kid Gloves.
Very best Paris—Ladies', 2s. 9d.; Gentlemen's, 3s. 3d.
Every pair warranted. Free for two extra stamps.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

BAKER AND CRISP'S

BLACK SILKS of extraordinary brightness and durability. Patterns free.
Good Black Gros de Naples (the old make), 29s. 6d. Full Dress; Spitalfields Gros Grains (wear warranted), 39s. 6d. to 55s. Bright Lyons Glacés, 2 guineas to £5.—198, Regent-street.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS,
Barèges, Balzarines, Grenadines, Mohairs, &c.,
at half the original cost. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

CURTAINS! CURTAINS! CURTAINS!
Samples free.
BAKER and CRISP have the cheapest stock of Muslin, Lace, and Leno Curtains in London, measuring from 3½ to 4½ yards long, from 6s. 9d. to 2 guineas the Pair.

THE NEW PETTICOATINGS.
Patterns free.
Camlet, Linen, and Madapolams, all washing, from 1s. 6d. to 3s. 3d. a yard, at BAKER and CRISP'S.

---

2 YARDS WIDE, THE UNTEARABLE

BLACK GRENADINES, Barèges, Tamatavés; also the New White and Black Llamas, 2 yards wide, for Shawls, Mantles, or Dresses, very cheap. Patterns free.

GRENADINES. Patterns free. Plain, Striped, Checked, and Embroidered, for Dinner, Evening, or Walking Dresses, from 12s. 6d. to 1 guinea Full Dress.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

1500 BLACK LACE SHAWLS at Half Price.
During May we shall sell Black Lace Shawls that are worth 1, 2, and 3 guineas for 12s. 6d., 19s. 6d., and 25s. 6d.
Samples free.
BAKER and CRISP.

BAKER AND CRISP'S

NEW CHÉNÉ MEXICAN CLOTHS.
Patterns free.
The largest variety in the kingdom, 15s. 6d. Full Dress.

MOURNING.—Untearable Black Barèges, Grenadines, &c., 12s. 6d. Full Dress. The New Crape Laine, Tamatavés, Muslins, Mohairs, &c., from 8s. 6d. Full Dress. Patterns free.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

15,000 YARDS PURE ALPACAS, all at 1s. 0½d. yard; worth 1s. 6d. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

RUMCHUNDER and TUSSORE SILKS, for Ladies Dresses, Suits, &c.; any length cut; from 25s. 6d. to 2½ guineas the Full Dress. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

MUSLINS! MUSLINS! MUSLINS!
The best Selection, the finest goods, and the cheapest in London. Patterns Free.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

MUSLIN JACKETS, 4s. 9d.
BAKER and CRISP'S new Muslin Jackets are now ready in great Variety, from 4s. 9d. to 10s. 6d. each.
198, Regent-street.

FOULARDS! FOULARDS! FOULARDS!
PATTERNS FREE.
We have just purchased from Lyons 20,000 yards of the best Silk Foulards, and are now selling them considerably under the regular prices. Very best goods 35s. 6d. extra Full Dress.
BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

OSTRICH FEATHERS, ROMAN PEARLS, &c.—10,000 White, Green, Blue, Straw, Violet, and Scarlet Ostrich Feathers, now selling at 2s. 9d., worth 4s. 6d. each. Also, a large Stock of best Roman Pearls and Vienna Beads, at half price. at BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

MANTLE and JACKET CLOTHS of all kinds, from 1s. 11½d. per yard. Also a large assortment of woollen goods, for gentlemen's and boys' wear, at very moderate prices; also Fancy Flannels for Shirts.
CHARLES MEEKING and CO., 111, Hatton-garden, London.

SILKS. — Paris taste and fashion have declared Black and White, and White and Black, to be the reigning colours in dress for the present season.
Messrs. Jay have, in consequence, imported the most elegant patterns in these varieties; and they can now supply their patrons and the public with the finest materials for such Dresses at a price which defies rivalry for cheapness at any other establishment in the kingdom.
JAYS',
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

LUCAMELAINA DRESSES.—A novel and very elegant fabric for Walking Dresses, manufactured exclusively for the establishment of Messrs. JAY, which resembles silk in the brightness of its glacé texture, although not half the price of that material. It is especially suited to the present season, never catching the dust, and therefore always looking fresh and new.
JAYS',
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

MOURNING FABRICS OF ALL KINDS. In addition to the very best materials for Mourning Dresses, and which they invariably sell at a rate only proportionate to the cost price of the article, Messrs. JAY have always in stock an immense variety of other fabrics, equally suitable for the same purpose, but at far cheaper and more economical charges.
JAYS',
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

COSTUMES for FETES and PROMENADES.
Messrs. JAY beg to announce that they have just received, from the best houses in Paris, models of the above, in the fashionable colours of black and white, and such as can only be obtained at
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

MESSRS. SWAN and EDGAR beg to announce that the following departments are now replete with every novelty adapted to the present season—viz., Silks, shawls, mantles, fancy dresses, made-up skirts, robes, and costumes, printed muslins, cambrics, piqués, drapery, household linen, lace, hose, gloves, ribbons, haberdashery, trimmings, underlinen, outfitting. Family mourning, wedding trousseaux, and Court trains. Patterns for inspection free.—Piccadilly and Regent-street.

IRISH LINENS, direct from Belfast, at Manufacturers' Prices.
JAMES LINDSAY and CO.
will forward, carriage paid on parcels of £5 and upwards, Single and Double Damask Table Cloths, Napkins, Diapers, Family Linens, Sheetings, Pillow Linens, Tickings, Huckaback and Diaper Towellings, Glass Cloths, Pastry Towels, &c., &c.; Ladies' and Gentlemen's Lawn and Cambric Handkerchiefs.
Patterns and Price-list post-free.
James Lindsay and Co., 18, Donegall-place, Belfast.

LADIES' UNDERCLOTHING of best make at moderate prices. A stock always on hand of Chemises, Nightdresses, Petticoats, Morning Robes, &c. Price-books by post. Address "Ladies' Department," WHITELOCK and SON, 166, Strand.

PLAIN STRIPED OR BROCHE

RICH SILK GRENADINES, adapted for Dinner, Evening, or Ball Dresses, 18s. 6d., 25s. 6d., 31s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Some very superb designs, extra quality, from 2 to 3 guineas.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALL THE CHOICE DESIGNS IN

NEW ORGANDIE MUSLINS.
British, French, and Swiss Printing,
8s. 9d., 10s. 9d., 12s. 6d. to 35s. the extra Full Dress.
An immense variety of patterns post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

ALSO SEVERAL HUNDRED PIECES OF

LAST YEAR'S PRINTED MUSLINS.
Finest Quality and Designs, equal to new
An endless variety of patterns (at the reduced price) post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Now ready, all the New Patterns in

PRINTS, BRILLIANTS, and PIQUES, for Ladies' Morning Dresses.
An endless variety of patterns post-free.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

EVERY NEW COLOUR IN THE

ARABIAN GLACÉS, for Ladies' Dresses and Jackets complete.
A most useful and desirable fabric either for Walking or Travelling Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

A Choice Assortment of the

NEW PRINTED ARABIAN GLACÉS, in every variety of style, either in white or coloured grounds, from 14s. 6d. to 31s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

GINGHAMS and COLOURED LAWNS, for Ladies' travelling, morning, and seaside Dresses, 12s. 6d. the Dress, in plain colours, checks or stripes.
A large collection of Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

AN UNUSUALLY LARGE COLLECTION OF

NEW SPRING DRESSES.
Rich Broché Silk Poplins (new colours), 2½ guineas Full Dress.
Paris Spring Poplins (Corded), 35s. Full Dress.
The Honeycomb Poplinette, 35s. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

THE MOST DECIDED NOVELTY FOR THIS SPRING IS THE

SILK CRÈPE MEXICAN, a most elegant and useful fabric.
In all the new colours, 28s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

A CAREFULLY SELECTED VARIETY OF

CHEAP SPRING DRESSES.
A new series of colours in the Plain Mexican Cloth, 14s. 6d. Full Dress.
Also Striped, Checked, and Chéné ditto, 12s. 6d. to 18s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING PETTICOATS.
A choice assortment made, unmade, and by the yard.
New French and Sicilian Lawns, for Morning Dresses,
in Plain, Striped, and Checked, all colours, 14s. 6d. Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

LYONS LEVANTINE, a perfectly new Twilled Silk, made expressly to our order, and very suitable for Ladies' Morning Costumes, in most brilliant colours, £2 6s. 6d. the Full Dress, 14 yards, 25 in. wide; or any length cut.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

LYONS FOULARDS of the most improved manufacture, the wear of which cannot be surpassed. The most fashionable article for the present season for ladies' morning suits, including great variety of style.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

CHÉNÉ SILKS.
Now selling, 100 Pieces of rich French Chénés,
£2 15s. 6d. 14 yards; or any length cut.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

RICH FIGURED MOIRE ANTIQUES, 3½ and 4½ guineas the Full Dress of 14 yards. 27 inches wide.
Real Indian Tussores for Seaside Wear.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON'S, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

SILKS FOR SPRING.
New Colours in Rich Plain Silks, including our well-known make of Glacés, Poult de Soies, and Drap de Lyons,
from £2 12s. 6d. to 5 guineas extra Full Dress.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

Just Imported,

5000 SILK DRESSES, made expressly to our order for this season, including every style for present fashion, from £1 15s. 6d. to 10 guineas extra Full Dress. Many of the above have been produced in new designs expressly for young ladies' wear.
Patterns free.—PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, Oxford-street.

MILLINERY for MOURNING.—PARIS FASHIONS.—The novelties from Paris are now ready for inspection, at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

PARIS FASHIONS.

MANTLES and JACKETS for MOURNING and otherwise.—The New Shapes, in elegant and graceful novelties, are now ready for inspection,
at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.—PARIS FASHIONS.
The New and Beautiful Novelties
are now ready for inspection
at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

JUST RECEIVED FROM FRANCE,

HALF-MOURNING SILKS of New and very recherché character,
at PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

BLACK SILKS.—Patterns free.
Good useful Black Silks, from 35s. to 50s. the Dress.
Superior and most enduring qualities, from 3 to 6 guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of Regent-street.

A NEW FABRIC.—The ROYAL BLACK CASHMERE.—Ladies requiring a new and useful Black Dress are invited to write for patterns of this excellent material, which is exactly alike on both sides, to PETER ROBINSON, of Regent-street.

UNTEARABLE

WIRE-GROUND BLACK GRENADINES and BAREGES. The improved makes introduced by PETER ROBINSON, of Regent-street, excel all others for strength and beauty of finish.
May be obtained by the yard, or made up into Skirts.
Patterns free.
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
256 to 262, Regent-street.

FOR FAMILY MOURNING,
PETER ROBINSON, of Regent-street,
sends free of charge to all parts of England every description of Mourning Goods for selection (with a Dressmaker, if necessary). Skirts, Mantles, Bonnets, and goods of the newest and most suitable description, ready made for instant wear, and trimmed in the most correct taste.
The best style of costume and fit is secured and the greatest saving in price, together with expedition and punctuality, by sending orders direct to
The Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
Peter Robinson's.

SANSFLECTUM JUPONS,
15s. 6d. and 17s. 6d.
"Wear admirably well."—Court Journal.
"Like vulcanite or indiarubber."—Queen.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

ONDINA, or WAVED JUPONS,
18s. 6d. and 21s.
"The dress falls in graceful folds."—Morning Post.
"Learned in the art of petticoats."—Le Follet.
ADDLEY BOURNE (late Philpott), 37, Piccadilly.

BRIDAL PARASOLS.—W. & J. SANGSTER have now ready at their Establishment, 140, Regent-street, a large assortment of the most elegant Parasols and Sunshades in Brussels, Honiton, and Maltese Lace; also, of their much-admired Florentine and Zephyr Parasols, introduced by them this season.

NOTICE.—Professor BROWNE respectfully invites ladies and gentlemen to an inspection of his Stock of Head-dresses, Perukes, Scalps, and Ornamental Hair of every design, suited to the present fashion, at his well-known Establishment, 47, Fenchurch-street, City. Material and workmanship guaranteed of the first quality. For self-measurement see "Punch." Hair brushed by machinery.

NEW MUSIC.

GODFREY'S FAVORITES, easily arranged for the Pianoforte, by E. F. RIMBAULT. Price 1s. each.
No. 1. The Guards' Waltz. | No. 4. The Hunt Quadrille.
No. 2. The Mabel Waltz. | No. 5. The Jockey Galop.
No. 3. The Orpheus Galop. | No. 6. The Marguerite Waltz.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONGS.

The Lost Star	Wallace	3s. 0d.
The Sails are Spread	Brinley Richards	2s. 6d.
The Cottage Window	G. Russell	2s. 6d.
Syr Tankarde	R. Haking	2s. 6d.
White-Wings	R. Haking	2s. 6d.
Again I wander	R. Haking	2s. 6d.
I will not wander	Schumann	2s. 6d.
My lost youth	Walter Maynard	2s. 6d.
Part with forgiveness	Florence	2s. 6d.
The Cloister'd Nun	Louis Emanuel	2s. 6d.
Cantilène (for two voices)	Gounod	2s. 6d.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR.—A new Edition of this justly celebrated work is now published, containing the favourite airs from "Faust," including the Soldiers' Chorus, Valse, &c.; "The Guards' Waltz," and numerous other airs, arranged as progressive exercises, thus rendering it the cheapest and best Tutor extant. Price 4s., post-free. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S BROOKLET. Morceau de Salon for the Pianoforte. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TREKELL'S GRAZIELLA. Romance Nocturne for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "JESSAMINE." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

WALTER MACFARREN'S "TWO BUDS." Melody for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S "ROLAND." A celebrated French War Song. Transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S TWO HUNGARIAN MELODIES for the Pianoforte.
No. 1. ELEGY. Price 2s. 6d.
No. 2. THE GIPSIES' MARCH. Price 3s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PAUER'S LA SERA. Venetian Gondola Song, for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

J. F. BARNETT'S PASTORAL SCENE. A characteristic Piece for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

A NEW WORK FOR THE ORGAN.
THE ORGANIST'S PORTFOLIO: A selection of opening and concluding voluntaries, by the most celebrated composers, ancient and modern. Adapted chiefly for the use of amateurs, by Dr. RIMBAULT. Each number contains from seven to twelve favourite voluntaries, including one arranged expressly with pedal obligato. Nos. 1 to 6 are now ready, price 3s. each; or the six numbers in one volume, bound in cloth, 12s. A thematic list of contents may be had on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS'S MEMORIES OF HOME. Just published, a new Fantasia for the Pianoforte, played by the Composer with immense success. Price 3s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW DRAWING-ROOM MUSIC.
KUHE'S GUARDS' WALTZ. A brilliant arrangement of Godfrey's celebrated Guards' Waltz, for the Pianoforte. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S ORPHÉE AUX ENFERS. Now ready, a Fantasia on favourite airs from Offenbach's charming Opera. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S CUJUS ANIMAM (from the "Stabat Mater"). Arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50 New Bond-street.

KUHE'S O RUDDIER THAN THE CHERRY—Handel's celebrated Song, sung by Santley—transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

G. A. OSBORNE'S NEW COMPOSITIONS. FLEURETTE. Morceau de Salon for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. 6d.
MARION. Nocturne for the Pianoforte. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW AND POPULAR DANCE MUSIC.
LA BELLE HÉLÈNE VALSE. On Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE QUADRILLE. A new and charming Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's new Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

LA BELLE HÉLÈNE POLKA. On Airs from Offenbach's Opera. By STRAUSS. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MABEL WALTZ. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. A new and beautiful Set of Waltzes, which will eventually become as popular as the celebrated "Guards' Waltz," by the same Composer. Price 4s., Solo or Duet. Illustrated by Lynch. Orchestra, 3s.; Septet, 2s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ROYAL ALFRED QUADRILLE. A new Quadrille on favourite Nautical Melodies. Arranged by D. GODFREY, Composer of the "Guards'" and "Mabel" Waltzes. Illustrated. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE MILL-GROVE WALTZ. A new Waltz by GERALD STANLEY (Composer of the "Woodland Whispers Waltz"). Illustrated. Price 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MARGUERITE WALTZ. On favourite Airs from Gounod's "Faust." By A. F. GODFREY, B. M. Coldstream Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS QUADRILLES. A new Quadrille on favourite Airs from Offenbach's popular Opera, "Orphée aux Enfers." By D. GODFREY, Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 4s. Illustrated. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

GODFREY'S ORPHEUS GALOP. A capital Galop, from Offenbach's "Orphée aux Enfers." By the Composer of the Guards' Waltz and Quadrille. Price 3s. Illustrated. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' QUADRILLE. By the Composer of The Guards' Waltz. Just published, a new Quadrille on Popular Marches of the Brigade of Guards. By D. GODFREY, B.M. Gren. Guards. Illustrated. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE GUARDS' WALTZ. By D. GODFREY. Played everywhere with the greatest success. Price (Solo or Duet) 4s.; Septet, 2s.; Orchestra, 3s.; Military Band, 15s.; Brass Band, 7s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MELVIL CASTLE. Old Scotch Ballad. Newly arranged by Mrs. CAMPBELL, of Drimnamuchloch.
"Willie's gane to Melvil Castle, boots and spurs, an a',
To bid farewell to the leddies fair, afore he gaed awa."
Price 2s. 6d. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

New Edition of
MARION'S SONG by CLARIBEL. This highly-popular Song will in future be published exclusively by BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

NEW MUSIC.

GOUNOD'S NEW SONG.
THE MESSAGE OF LOVE. Valse Ariette. 3s. Also, with Italian words, "La Messaggier a d'Amore," 3s. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

GOUNOD'S NEW VALSE ARIETTE, arranged for the Pianoforte. A very brilliant and thoroughly original composition. By no means difficult. 3s. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

ARDITI'S L'OROLOGIO, New Scherzo, with Italian words, 3s., or English words, "Tic tic," 3s.; also for the Pianoforte, 3s. This charming polka movement promises to become as popular as "Il Bacio." It has been sung (with unfailing encores) by Mdlle. Volpini and Mdlle. Carlotta Patti. BOOSEY and Co.

FOR OPEN AIR SINGING.
MENDELSSOHN'S 26 FOUR-PART SONGS (Op. 41, 48, 49, 50), with English words complete, price 1s., cloth. Also, for Choral Societies, in 12 Numbers, One Penny each.—Published this day by BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

MDME. RUDERSDORFF'S NEW SONG.
SIGNOR GUGLIELMO'S IL BALLO. Song, in Polka time, introduced with invariable success by Mdme. Rudersdorff. Price 3s. Also arranged for the Pianoforte by the Author, 3s.—BOOSEY and Co.

Third Edition of
MDME. OURY'S SOUVENIRS D'EDINBOURG. New Scotch Fantasia, the most successful of all her recent pieces, 4s. Also, sixth Edition of "Auld Robin Grey" and "Bonnie Dundee," by the same brilliant writer, price 3s.; and third Edition of "Annie Laurie," transcription, 3s. BOOSEY and Co.

STEPHEN HELLER'S PROMENADES D'AU SOLITAIRE, complete, price 1s. "(Booseys' Musical Cabinet," No. 85). Also, STEPHEN HELLER'S Twelve Short Pieces, 1s. ("Musical Cabinet," No. 80). Holles-street.

WINIFRED and MARGUERITE. Two new Pieces. By ADOLPH GOLLMICK, Author of "The Dripping Well," "A Happy Thought," &c. Published this day, 3s. each, by BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

Fourth Edition of
CAPRERA, by FORBES. Chanson Napolitaine for Pianoforte. Mr. Forbes's most popular piece. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

Second Edition of
CASTELLUCIA. By FORBES. Second Chanson Napolitaine, and companion piece to "Caprera." BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

LINDSAY SLOPER'S MIRELLA. Played by Mdme. Arabella Goddard with great success. Price 5s. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

TAKE BACK THE HEART. A New Song, but already an immense success. By CLARIBEL, Author of "Maggie's Secret," "Janet's Choice," &c. Price 3s. BOOSEY and Co.

THE NEW BARITONE SONG.
I ALWAYS FEARED A MARRIED LIFE. By J. L. HATTON. Sung by Mr. Weiss, Mr. Winn, and Mr. Lambert, with immense success.—BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

NEW MUSIC FOR VIOLIN.
OFFENBACH'S ORPHÉE AUX ENFERS, Opera complete, arranged for the Violin, 1s., just ready. Also, CLARIBEL'S 40 SONGS FOR THE VIOLIN, 1s. (This day.) BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

MOZART'S SONATAS, 10s. 6d. — Just published, BOOSEY and CO.'S new and complete edition of Mozart's Pianoforte Sonatas, printed from newly-engraved plates, and edited by W. Dorrell, Esq., of the Royal Academy of Music. In one vol., paper cover, price 10s. 6d. Also, the same work, with Memoir and Portrait of Mozart, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, price 16s.; or, half morocco, gilt edges, price 18s. Uniform with Boosey and Co.'s guinea edition of Beethoven's Sonatas. This edition will be found second to none in point of correctness or elegance of appearance.—BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' NATIONAL GLEE-BOOK contains Sixty of the most celebrated Glees, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 2s. 6d.; or, in crimson cloth, gilt edges, 4s. 6d. BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

HENRY SMART'S IMPERIAL MASS of HAYDN (No. 3, in D), arranged in a complete form for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Published this day.
Also, uniform with the above,
HENRY SMART'S STABAT MATER (of Rossini). 3s.
HENRY SMART'S TWELFTH MASS (of Mozart). 3s.
BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MUSICAL PRESENTATION LIBRARY, Holles-street.

HUTCHINGS and ROMER'S LIST of Signor TITO MATTEI'S NEW PIANOFORTE WORKS, as played by him at the Crystal Palace and the principal Concerts in London:—

	Price.
Grande Valse	5s.
Una notte d'Estate (Nocturne)	4s.
Un Sogno d'Amore	4s.
Il folletto (Galop de Concert)	4s.
Addio del Passato (transcription)	4s.

Can be had of all Musicsellers throughout the country or of the Publishers. HUTCHINGS and ROMER, 9, Conduit-street, Regent-street, W.

SUNG BY MDME. SAINTON-DOLBY.
SWEET KILKENNY TOWN. Price 4s. THE COUNTESS OF GIFFORD'S NEW SONG, in answer to KATEY'S LETTER. Price 3s. Can be had of all Musicsellers throughout the United Kingdom; and of the Publishers, HUTCHINGS and ROMER, Music-publishers and Pianoforte-sellers, 9, Conduit-street, Regent-street, W.

NOTICE.—HALF PRICE.—All Music and the best Editions, at half the published price, sent post-free for postage-stamps or Post Office order (bound works excepted). HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

A GEM FOR THE PIANO.
FLEETING THOUGHTS, by IUCHO, price 3s., is charming, and daily acquiring popularity. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A FAVOURITE PIECE FOR THE PIANO.
GANZ'S BALLERINO MAZURKA. 3s. 6d. Pretty, simple, and graceful. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE RAGE OF THE SEASON.
COOTE'S FOREST FLOWER WALTZ. 4s. With a superb Illustration in Colours. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.
COOTE'S ECLIPSE GALOP. Price 3s. This celebrated Galop eclipses all the others, and is the reigning favourite.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW VALSE.
COOTE'S ORPHÉE VALSE, price 4s., on Airs from Offenbach's beautiful Opera. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET EVER COMPOSED
COOTE'S POLLY PERKINS QUADRILLE. Price 4s. Introducing Clifton's celebrated Songs, "Isabella," "Watercresses," "Have you seen the Ghost?" "Polly Perkins," &c. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

COOTE'S NEW CALEDONIANS, with the Figures. Price 4s. One of the best quadrilles ever published by this popular dance composer, and will be sure to take its place with the celebrated Cure Lancers by the same Composer. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street, W.

PLAYED AT MARLBOROUGH HOUSE.
COOTE'S PAUL-Y-TOOLE-Y-TECHNIC QUADRILLE on the popular Songs sung by Messrs. J. L. Toole and Paul Bedford, comprising "He, She, and the Postman," "Jolly Nose," "The Whistling Song," "Married on Wed-nes-day," and "A Norrible Tale." Price 4s.
"Enthusiastically received at Alfred Mellon's Concerts, and proved a most brilliant success."—Vide Times.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

PERFORMED AT THE STATE BALL.
COOTE'S HUMMING-BIRD VALSE. 4s. Considered the best set of Valses by this popular Composer. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE BEST SET OF LANCERS ARE
COOTE'S CURE LANCERS. Price 4s. Introducing "The Pilgrim of Love," "My Pretty Page," "So Early in de Morning," "The Cure," and other popular Airs. A real merry set. No dance programme complete without them. Always redemanded.—HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

PLAYED EVERYWHERE.
COOTE'S EXTRAVAGANZA GALOP. 3s. The greatest hit of the season. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW SONG FOR CONTRALTO,
MY THOUGHTS ARE OF THEE ONLY, price 2s. 6d., by SHIRLEY, is greatly admired. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

NEW CHRISTY SONG,
THE BEAUTIFUL DAISY, by SHIRLEY, price 2s. 6d. "This song is full of melody, and has the most charming chorus we have ever listened to."—Review. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

HARRY CLIFTON'S NEW SONG,
THE WEEPIN' WILLER; or, The Miller's Daughter, price 2s. 6d., is the best comic song published. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A MOST AMUSING COMIC SONG.
HAVE YOU SEEN HER LATELY. Price 2s. 6d. Sung by Albert Steele. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

IMMENSE SUCCESS AT THE ADELPHI.
J. L. TOOLE'S NEW SONGS.
Bob Simmons's Courtship .. 3s.
He, She, and the Postman .. 3s.
A Norrible Tale .. 3s.
HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

A COMIC VERSION OF
THEN YOU'LL REMEMBER ME, by BALFE, price 3s., causes shouts of laughter. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE QUADRILLE OF THE SEASON.
COOTE'S LARA QUADRILLE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s. Post-free at half price. METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE VALSE OF THE SEASON.
COOTE'S LARA VALSE. Illustrated. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 4s. Post-free at half price. METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE ARAB SONG from LARA. "The gem of the opera." Sung by Miss Louisa Pyne. BRINLEY RICHARDS'S Transcription of "The Arab Song" for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. each. Half price. METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

SENSATION MAD.—Mr. Sothern's Comic Song in "The Woman in Mauve." Written by H. J. Byron. Illustrated. Price 3s. Post-free for 19 stamps. METZLER and Co., 35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, W.

Music Warehouse, 201, Regent-street.
Pianoforte Gallery, 207, Regent-street.
MESSRS. CRAMER and CO. (Limited) have lately published the following Compositions:—

I.—FOR VOICE.

GOUNOD—"For lack of gold he left me." Sung by Titiens. In A and G	3s. 0d.
" "Hero to Leander." An exquisite Song	3s. 0d.
" "The Lark Song." Vocal Waltz	3s. 0d.
ARDITI—"Oh, touch the ivory keys again!"	3s. 0d.
" Beauty Sleep (L'Ardita)	3s. 0d.
" Dream of Home (Bacio)	3s. 0d.
" Gondolier's Last Good-night	3s. 0d.
WALLACE—Bird of the Wild Wing	3s. 0d.
V. GABRIEL—Little Golden Hair	3s. 0d.
" Breeze and the Harp	3s. 0d.
BALFE—She sleeps! though not a star	3s. 0d.
" Ah, could I but re-live the past!	3s. 0d.
ASCHER—The Cavalier's Steed. In E and C	3s. 0d.
BENEDICT—My Home in Cloudland. In D and B	3s. 0d.
MORI—Sunshine of love	3s. 0d.
" Maid of the silver mail	3s. 0d.
NICOLAI—The Happy Dawn of Day	3s. 0d.
RANDEGGER—"Round with her, boys! Yo-ho!" In C, B, and G	3s. 0d.
" Innamorata d'una stella. Aria	2s. 6d.
" La luna è bella. Aria	2s. 6d.
DELAMERE—My Lady's glove	3s. 0d.
LEVEY—Coo! says the gentle dove. In G and F	3s. 0d.
" Hurrah for the Bombardier! In A and F	3s. 0d.
BRINLEY RICHARDS—The celebrated "Leah's Song." In E, D, and C	3s. 0d.
" "The Chieftain's Wife,"	3s. 0d.
" "In the hour of my distress." Sacred Song	3s. 0d.
PERRING—Beware!	2s. 6d.
MACFARREN—I've watched him	3s. 0d.
" Wear this flow'r	3s. 0d.
" Duet: Ne'er yield thy soul	3s. 0d.
ROBERTI—Duet: Faintly flow	3s. 0d.
" Child's Vision. Duet. S.C.	3s. 0d.
VERDI—"Swiftly thro' the West." Boat Song.	3s. 0d.
LOCHIEL—The Covenanter's Bridal	3s. 0d.
" Heather Bell	3s. 0d.
FARNIE—A Happy Song	3s. 0d.
ARTHUR SKETCHLEY (as sung by)—The Twin Brothers. A Song of Mystery. With Portrait.	3s. 0d.
MAGAZZARI—Taci non d'irmi. Arietta	2s. 6d.
CAPT. COLOMB—"Up the Alma's Height"	3s. 0d.
W. VINCENT WALLACE—"A holy calm, a peace divine," the companion song to "Sweet Spirit"	3s. 0d.
REICHARDT—The Haunting Thought	3s. 0d.

II.—PIANOFORTE PIECES.

WALLACE—Prelude and scherzo	5s. 0d.
GOUNOD—Four songs without words, each	3s. 0d.
ASCHER—Chant des Naïades	5s. 0d.
BLUMENTHAL—La Stella	3s. 6d.
" Téré, Téré	3s. 6d.
" Les Ailes	4s. 0d.
BRINLEY RICHARDS—"Wear this flower" (Helvellyn)	2s. 6d.
" Cujus animam. Solo, 4s.; Duet	4s. 0d.
" "Leah." Transcription	3s. 0d.
FAVARGER—Stradella Fantaisie	3s. 6d.
" Masaniello ditto	4s. 0d.
" Pandora. Bluette de Salon	3s. 0d.
MRS JOSEPH ROBINSON—Elf-Land	4s. 0d.
" A Dream	3s. 0d.

III.—DANCE MUSIC.

MONTGOMERY—Starry Night Mazurka	3s. 0d.
DE VILLIERS—Donato Galop	4s. 0d.
" Donato Quadrille	4s. 0d.
" Poppies Red Valse	4s. 0d.
CLARKE—Witches' Own Galop	3s. 0d.
COOTE—Merry Wives' Quadrille	4s. 0d.
" She Stoops to Conquer, ditto	4s. 0d.
MARRIOTT—Helvellyn Galop	4s. 0d.
" " Waltzes	4s. 0d.
" " Quadrille	4s. 0d.
" Dark Eyes Valse	3s. 0d.
GIORZA—Limited Liability Galop	4s. 0d.
GODFREY—Coldstream Guards Quadrille	4s. 0d.
WARREN—River Sprite Quadrille	3s. 0d.
" Sleeping Queen Quadrille	3s. 0d.
D'ALEMBERT—Woman in Mauve. Waltz	4s. 0d.
" Wild Irish Girl. Galop	4s. 0d.

Specially prepared Lists of Vocal and Instrumental Music on application.
ALL NEW MUSIC SENT AT HALF-PRICE.
CRAMER and Co. (Limited), 201, Regent-street.
For the Pianoforte Department, see other advertisements.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN PIANINO (the only Pianino to which the Prize Medal was awarded).—A very elegant Pianoforte, of small size, the full compass, check action, and most perfect touch, admirably adapted to Small Rooms, Yachts, Boudoirs, &c. Warranted to keep in tune and to be the best and cheapest Pianoforte, with check action and all the latest improvements.
Price, in mahogany, rosewood, or walnut, 25 and 26 guineas. A great variety may be seen at Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL COTTAGE PIANOFORTES.—To amateurs preferring the pure English tone of the Broadwood or Collard quality, the English Model will be found the most perfectly satisfactory instrument, at a moderate price. The action is of the same simple description as the above makers', and therefore especially adapted to the country, where the more complicated actions are objectionable to many of the tuners. In elegant rosewood case, with full fret, similar in every respect to other instruments at 50 guineas, price 35 guineas; in walnut, 40 guineas. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BROADWOOD, COLLARD, and ERARD. The best Pianofortes of every description, including all the newest kinds by those celebrated makers, may be tried side by side (and hired with option of purchase) at the new Show-rooms of CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S TWENTY-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, in solid mahogany or plain walnut, the best English manufacture, with perfect check action, the full compass, and all the latest improvements. Messrs. Chappell strongly recommend this instrument as superior to any other pianoforte at or about the same price, whether new or secondhand. 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas; other varieties at 25 and 35 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues and Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SIX-GUINEA HARMONIUM, by ALEXANDRE, with five octaves, two footboards, and in oak case. These instruments are lower in price and superior to all other cheap Harmoniums. Descriptive lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, by ALEXANDRE, nearly (if not quite) as good as new, at greatly-reduced prices, at CHAPPELL'S, 50, New Bond-street.

ALEXANDRE'S PRIZE EXHIBITION MODEL HARMONIUM, for the CHURCH, 13 stops, 4 rows of vibrators, and Venetian swell, worked by the heel of the right foot, in oak case, 32 guineas. A large assortment may be always seen at CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

BOOSEY AND CO.'S HARMONIUMS (English) of the best description, at prices from 6 to 140 guineas, in every possible variety. The Cottage Harmonium, with full compass, 6 guineas. The School Harmonium at 10 guineas. Church Harmoniums at 20, 25, and 40 guineas. Catalogues gratis.—BOOSEY and Co., Holles-street, W.

BOOSEY and CO.'S MINIATURE PIANO, price 17 guineas, in a walnut case, full compass. This instrument is confidently recommended as the best cheap piano before the public. The touch and tone are alike excellent, and the workmanship is of the best description. Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 25-GUINEA PIANO has the Check Action, and is in a highly-finished elegant walnut case, with every modern improvement. The touch is elastic, and the tone of that pure rich quality that especially distinguishes first-class English pianos. Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S 35-GUINEA PIANO is a model Cottage English Piano, and no better can be desired. It is in a richly ornamented case, has the registered keyboard, as well as the new grand compass of seven octaves. Boosey and Co., Holles-street.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited)
LET on HIRE the following PIANOFORTES for three years, after which, and without any further payment whatever, the instrument becomes the property of the hirer:—
28-guinea Pianette, in rosewood or walnut. 10 guineas per annum.
40-guinea Drawing-room Model Cottage, rosewood or walnut .. 15 guineas per annum.
60-guinea Semi-oblique, rosewood or walnut 20 guineas per annum.
Every instrument is warranted of the very best manufacture, inferior Pianofortes being entirely excluded from the stock.
Quarterly payments are required.
PIANOFORTE GALLERY (the Largest in Europe), 207 and 209, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited) Let on Hire the following Harmoniums for three years, after which, and without any further payment whatever, the instrument becomes the property of the hirer:—
24-guinea, 7-stop, in oak, rosewood, or walnut .. 2 guineas per quarter.
36-guinea, 11-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. 3 guineas per quarter.
48-guinea, 13-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. 4 guineas per quarter.
60-guinea, 19-stop, oak, rosewood, or walnut .. 5 guineas per quarter.
Every instrument is warranted, by Debain, of Paris, and of the very best manufacture.
Quarterly payments are required.
HARMONIUM GALLERY, 201, Regent-street, W.

CRAMER and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM, as above detailed, is extended to all parts of the United Kingdom.

CRAMER'S ENGLISH PIANETTE.—22 guineas in polished ash, 26 and 28 guineas in rosewood or walnut. Double, or Check, Action, agreeable tone, solid touch; rendering it far superior to old instruments, loose in the key and worn in the hammer.—Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-st.

BROADWOODS' NEW DRAWING-ROOM GRAND, 135 guineas in rosewood, and 165 in walnut. These extremely elegant and much-admired Instruments are sold at the manufacturer's prices, and are selected with the greatest care. They may be bought on the three-years' system. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

COLLARDS' NEW BOUDOIR GRAND, 135 guineas in rosewood, and 150 in walnut. These powerful and remarkably effective pianofortes may be bought on the three-years' system.—Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

COLLARDS' NEW SEMI-GRAND 110 guineas. The largest selection in town at the Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street, London.

PLEYEL and CO., of Paris, have appointed CRAMER and CO. (Limited) their Sole Agents for England. PIANOFORTES by this eminent firm may now be had for Sale or Hire. Prices, from 50 to 200 guineas. Pianoforte Gallery (the largest in Europe), 207 and 209, Regent-st.

ERARD'S NEW BOUDOIR GRANDS, 135 guineas in rosewood, 155 in walnut. Perfect specimens of these celebrated instruments—almost equal in power to the largest grand—in stock, and may be purchased on the three-years' system. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES of every class and size, from the smallest pianette to the most elaborate oblique, and by all the best makers, constantly in stock, and may be purchased on the three-years' system. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

BROADWOODS' at CRAMER'S.

COLLARDS' at CRAMER'S.

ERARD'S at CRAMER'S.

KIRKMAN'S at CRAMER'S.

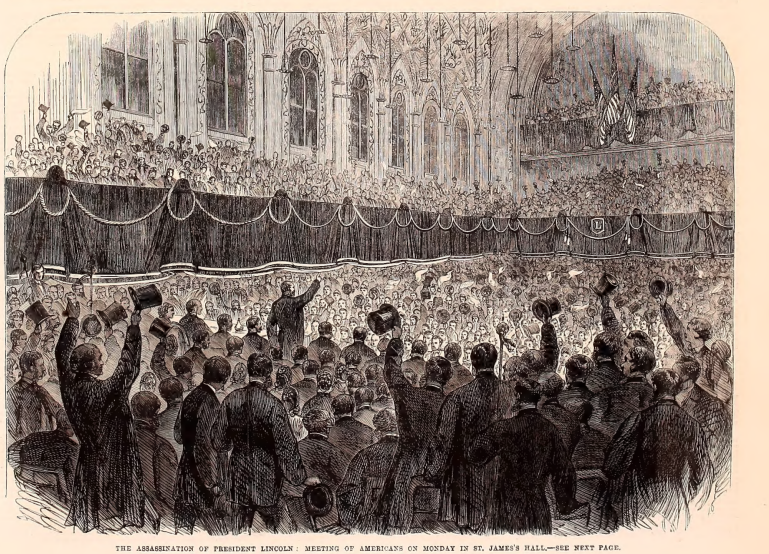
PLEYEL'S at CRAMER'S.

70 TO 80 GRANDS by the above eminent makers, at prices from 105 to 280 guineas, always on stock at the Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

INDIAN PIANOFORTE.—A superior upright Pianoforte, in solid mahogany, especially made with metallic bracings, &c., for extreme climates, delivered free on board, packed in zinc, for 50 guineas. Pianoforte Gallery, 207 and 209, Regent-street.

CRAMER and CO.'S NEW ARTISTS' CONCERTINAS, selected by Mr. Richard Blagrove, 48 Keys, 12 gs.; 55 Keys, 16 gs.—201, Regent-street.

CRAMER and CO. (Limited) have a large Stock of secondhand ENGLISH CONCERTINAS, by the most eminent Makers, at greatly reduced prices.—201, Regent-street.



ENGLISH CONCERTINAS, by LACHENAL, Full compass, with all the latest Improvements, warranted for hot climates, and to keep well in tune, from Two guineas, with case, lock and key, &c. HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond-street.

THE NEW PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

MR. ANDREW JOHNSON, who was lately elected Vice-President of the United States, and who has succeeded to the presidency upon the death of Mr. Lincoln, was born in Raleigh, North Carolina, Dec. 29, 1808. When he was four years of age he lost his father, who died from the effect of exertions to save a friend from drowning. At the age of ten he was apprenticed to a tailor in his native city, with whom he served seven years. His mother was unable to afford him any educational advantages, and he never attended school a day in his life. While learning his trade, however, he resolved to make an effort to educate himself. His anxiety to be able to read was particularly excited by an incident which is worthy of mention. A gentleman of Raleigh was in the habit of going into the tailor's shop and reading while the apprentice and journeymen were at work. He was an excellent reader, and his favourite book was a volume of speeches, principally of British statesmen. Johnson became interested, and his first ambition was to equal him as a reader and become familiar with those speeches. He took up the alphabet without an instructor; but, by applying to the journeymen with whom he worked, he obtained a little assistance. Having acquired a knowledge of the letters, he applied for a loan of the book which he had so often heard read. The owner made him a present of it and gave him some instruction on the use of letters in the formation of words. Thus, his first exercises in spelling were in that book. By perseverance he soon learned to read; and the hours which he devoted to his education were at night, after he had finished his daily labour upon the shopboard. He now applied himself to books from two to three hours every night, after working from ten to twelve hours at his trade. Having completed his apprenticeship in the autumn of 1824, he went to Laurens Courthouse, South Carolina, where he worked as a journeyman for nearly two years. While there he became engaged to be married, but the match was broken off by the violent opposition of the girl's mother and friends, the ground of objection being Mr. Johnson's youth and the want of pecuniary means. In May, 1826, he returned to Raleigh, where he procured journey-work, and remained until September. He then set out to seek his fortune in the West, carrying with him his mother, who was dependent upon him for support. He stopped at Greenville, Tennessee, and commenced work as a journeyman. He remained there about twelve months, married, and soon afterwards went still further westward; but, failing to find a suitable place to settle, he returned to Greenville and commenced business. Up to this time his education was limited to reading, as he had never had an opportunity of learning to write or cipher; but under the instructions of his wife he learned these and other accomplishments. The only time, however, he could devote to them was in the dead of the night. The first office which he ever held was that of alderman of the village, to which he was elected in 1828. He was re-elected to the same position in 1829, and again in 1830. In that year he was chosen Mayor, which position he held three years. In 1835 he was elected to the Legislature. In the Session of that year he took decided ground against a scheme of internal improvements, which he contended would not only prove a failure, but entail upon the State a burdensome debt. The measure was popular, however, and at the next election (1837) he was defeated. He became a candidate again in 1839. By this time many of the evils he had predicted were fully demonstrated, and he was elected by a large majority. In 1840 he served as presidential elector for the State at large on the Democratic ticket. He canvassed a large portion of the State, meeting upon this tour several of the leading Whig orators. In 1841 he was elected to the State Senate. In 1843 he was elected to Congress, where by successive elections, he served until 1853. During this period of service he was conspicuous and active in advocating the bill for refunding the fine imposed upon General Jackson at New Orleans in 1815, the annexation of Texas, the tariff of 1846, the war measures of Mr. Polk's Administration, and a homestead bill. In 1853 he was elected Governor of Tennessee after an exciting canvas. He was re-elected in 1855, after another active contest. At the expiration of his second period as Governor, in 1857, he was elected United States Senator for a full term, ending March 3, 1863. At the last Presidential election he was m de Vice-President, and took the oaths of that office on the 4th o March. We engrave his Portrait, from a photograph supplied by Mr. A. M. Bailey's American agency, Northumberland-court, Charing-cross.

MR. ANDREW JOHNSON, THE NEW PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN: MEETING OF AMERICANS ON MONDAY IN ST. JAMES'S HALL.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

MEETINGS OF CONDOLENCE ON THE DEATH OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

A public meeting was called upon very short notice, at St. James's Hall, on Saturday evening, to express condolence with the people of the United States, and with the widow and family of the late President Lincoln, upon the shocking event which took place at Washington on the 14th ult. The hall had been most appropriately decorated. The galleries were tastefully draped with black cloth, trimmed with white bandeaux, and relieved with a white and black mixed cord, in festoons. The upper gallery was similarly draped, and displayed a group of the American national colours covered with crape. The whole was completed (by Messrs. Garstin, of Welbeck-street, gratuitously) in little more than an hour, as the hall was otherwise engaged up to three o'clock. The hall was well filled in every part. The chair was taken by Mr. W. Evans, president of the London Emancipation Society. The meeting was addressed by Mr. W. E. Forster, M.P.; Mr. Peter Taylor, M.P.; Mr. Leatham, M.P.; Mr. T. B. Potter, M.P.; Mr. Baxter, M.P.; the Hon. Lyulph Stanley, Mr. H. Fawcett; Mr. Caird, M.P.; Mr. Grenfell, M.P.; Mr. Crum Ewing, M.P.; the Rev. Newman Hall, and Mr. Mason Jones, and the proceedings were of a very earnest and impressive character.

The following were the resolutions adopted:—

"That this meeting desires to give utterance to the feelings of grief and horror with which it has heard of the assassination of President Lincoln and the murderous attack upon Mr. Seward, and to convey to Mrs. Lincoln and to the United States Government and people an expression of its profound sympathy and heartfelt condolence.

"That this meeting desires also to express the entire confidence which it feels in the determination and the power of the Government and the people of the United States to carry out to the full the policy of which Abraham Lincoln's presidential career was the embodiment, and to establish free institutions throughout the whole of the American Republic.

"That copies of the foregoing resolutions be placed in the hands of the Hon. C. F. Adams, the American Minister, for transmission to his Excellency the President of the United States, Mrs. Lincoln, and the Hon. W. H. Seward."

MEETING OF AMERICANS IN LONDON.

A meeting of Americans in London was held at St. James's Hall, on Monday evening. The decorations of the hall were the same as those displayed on Saturday, with the addition of an immortelle which hung below the American flag. The chair was taken by his Excellency the Hon. Charles Francis Adams, the Minister of the United States at the Court of Great Britain; and amongst those present, besides Lord Houghton; Alderman Salomons, M.P.; Mr. T. B. Potter, M.P., and other members of the British Parliament, were the following gentlemen from America or connected with America:—Mr. Cyrus Field, Judge Winter, Dr. Black, Mr. Fuller; Mr. E. C. Fisher, of the United States Sanitary Commission; Rev. Crammond Kennedy; Mr. Morse, Consul of the United States; Mr. Nunn, Deputy Consul of the United States; Mr. B. Howard, New York, late United States army; Mr. Henry Bergh, late Secretaire de la Legislation des Etats Unis d'Amerique St. Petersburg; Dr. Coffin, Mr. Henry Thornton, Mr. John B. Stephenson, Mr. C. M. Lampson, Dr. Ludlow; Mr. E. G. Tinker and Mr. Ward, New York; Mr. H. Stevens and Mr. B. F. Stevens, Vermont; Dr. Storrs, Mr. Peach, and Mr. Massey, New York; Mr. Phillips, Wisconsin; Mr. G. J. Abbott, Consul of the United States for Sheffield and Bradford; Rev. J. Shaw, Boston; Mr. J. Holmes Goodenow, United States Consul at Constantinople; Mr. G. Grant. Mr. Gerard Ralston, Philadelphia, Consul-General of Liberia; Captain Richardson, San Francisco; Mr. C. Stratton (General Tom Thumb) and Mrs. Stratton, Mr. J. M'Henry, Captain Tomkins, and Mr. H. Brough.

Mr. Adams, the chairman, in opening the proceedings, remarked that it was because Abraham Lincoln was a faithful exponent of the sentiments of a whole people that he was stricken down. The blow that was aimed at him was meant to fall upon the Northern supporters of the Union. It was a supposed short way of paralysing the Government which they had striven so hard to maintain. It was, then, for their cause that Abraham Lincoln had died. If he was called a tyrant who was elevated to his high post by the spontaneous voices of a greater number of men than had ever been given in republic before, it was only because he was obeying the wishes of those who elected him. Mr. Adams expressed his confidence in the new President. "He, too," said his Excellency, "has been susceptible to the influence of the national opinion. He, too, has gradually been brought to the conviction that slavery, which he once defended, has been our bane and the cause of all our woe. And he, too, will follow his predecessor in making the recognition of the principle of human liberty the chief pathway to restoration. Maybe that he will colour his policy with a little more of the sternness gathered from the severity of his own trials. He may give a greater prominence to the image of Justice than to that of Mercy in dealing with notorious offenders. But if he do, to whom is this change to be imputed? Lincoln leaned to mercy, and he was taken off. Johnson has not promoted himself. The magician who worked this change is the enemy himself. It would seem almost as if it were the will of Heaven which has interposed the possibility of this marvellous retribution."

Mr. Morse, the American Consul in London, spoke of President Johnson from his personal knowledge. Twenty-one years ago, he said, he entered the Congress of the United States with Andrew Johnson, who was then the representative of the State of Tennessee. He was on a committee with him, and sat three or four times a week with him, perhaps, for the space of two years, and he said there, that throughout the whole of that period, and for three or four years subsequently, during which time his acquaintance with Andrew Johnson continued, he never heard one word whispered against his fair fame. He never heard the reproach of intemperance cast upon him. He had seen him daily, and knew him well, and he knew that to charge him with habitual intemperance was one of the vilest slanders that could be brought against him.

Dr. Black moved a resolution expressing confidence that Mr. Johnson would "faithfully prosecute to final success the wise, the humane, and statesman-like domestic and foreign policy of the late President Lincoln." Remarking that Mr. Lincoln, who was so vilified when living, had no vilifiers now, Dr. Black said Andrew Johnson was now the man at whom attacks would be directed; but it would not be many years, he apprehended, before his vilifiers would also hang down their heads.

The various resolutions were carried unanimously, and one was added in recognition of the sympathy extended to the United States by the people of this country.

Tuesday's Gazette contains a notification, by order of her Majesty, appointing the Prince of Wales, Earl Granville, the Duke of Sutherland, and others, as commissioners on the part of Great Britain and the colonies to the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1865, for the purpose of furthering the objects of the exhibition. H. Cole, Esq., C.B., is appointed secretary to the commission.

The sum of £90,089 4s. 9d., which is required to defray the expenses, during the year ending March 31, 1866, in the several Royal parks and gardens, in order to maintain them for the public use, is distributed as follows:—Albert-road, Regent's Park, £1219 3s. 10d.; Battersea Park, £8345 9s. 3d.; Bushey Park, £2882 10s. 7d.; Chelsea Hospital grounds, £1605 7s.; Chelsea Military Asylum grounds, £161 10s.; Greenwich Park, £2023 19s. 4d.; ditto (Ranger's department), £361 4s.; Hampton Court Park, £946 19s.; Hampton Court pleasure-gardens, £1914 0s. 10d.; Hampton Court roads, £947; Holyrood Park, £1904 19s.; Kennington Park, £1282 16s.; Kensington Gardens, £5956 0s. 6d.; Kew Botanic Gardens, £15,358 17s. 6d.; Kew pleasure-gardens, £4506 17s. 10d.; Longford River, £1027; Regent's Park and Primrose-hill, £8479 6s. 2d.; Richmond Park, £3649 6s.; ditto (department of the Ranger), £2710 3s.; Richmond and Kew roads, £1107 10s. 9d.; St. James's, Green, and Hyde Parks, £24,774 2s. 9d.; ditto (department of the Ranger), £1684 8s. 5d.; Victoria Park, £6240 13s. 1d. The income derived from the Royal parks and gardens is paid into the Consolidated Fund. The amount so paid in for last year was £3584 17s. 11d.

MAY IN LONDON.

The London Season may be said to commence in March, and terminate in July; it is in its height in May and the beginning of June. This may be slightly affected by circumstances: occasionally, the Season may be shortened or protracted by the business of Parliament; but it may be safely said that London receives a greater number of visitors in the month of May than in any other month of the year. Its serious life as well as its gay life is then at its zenith. Exeter Hall and the opera-houses are alike thronged this month; commemorations, celebrations, exhibitions, musical performances, and stage-plays then do most abound; the full tide being after Easter.

The 1st of May has ever been a sort of red-letter day in the people's calendar. The Maypoles of London must be sought in old prints pictures, and tokens, and their sites in the various Maypole-alleys. The chimney-sweepers, with their dreary gambols and tinselled squalor, have almost monopolised the metropolitan May Day in our time. Still, we rarely pass Montague House, at the north-west angle of Portman-square, without recollecting that in its shrubberies and grounds the benevolent Mrs. Montague, for many years, feasted the chimney-sweepers of London on the 1st of May, "so that they might enjoy one happy day in the year." The milkmaids kept up their Mayings, with their garlands, and music, and dancing, in the streets, to the present century. But a few bunches of ribbons and flowers upon the heads of omnibus horses are now almost the only Mayings of this class. The chimney-sweepers have, in some cases, been reinforced by the black minstrels.

May 1 is one of the two days in the year for distributing the fund bequeathed in 1717 and 1736, by Mr. Raine, the wealthy brewer of St. George's-in-the-East. He founded schools and a hospital for girls, and added marriage portions of £100, to be drawn for by lots. The winner is married to a young man of St. John's, Wapping, or St. Paul's, Shadwell; the couple dine with their friends, and in the evening an ode is sung, and the marriage portion of one hundred new sovereigns is presented to the bride.

The Royal Academy Exhibition is opened on the first Monday in May. The first Exhibition at Somerset House was in May, 1780, when Horace Walpole described the rooms as "quite a Roman palace, and finished in perfect taste as well as boundless expense." In his exhibition catalogue, Walpole wrote opposite Gainsborough's landscapes, "charming," "very spirited," "as admirable as the great masters." May 6, 1770, he marvels at "a winter Ranelagh (the Pantheon) erecting in Oxford-road, at the expense of £60,000." What would he have said to our Charing-cross Hotel, which is to open on May 19?

May is one of three months in which Sir John Soane's Museum is open to visitors, on Thursdays and Fridays. The British Museum is closed on the 1st of this month, and reopened on the 8th.

The 1st of May has been twice signalised in England by a novel display of national industries, the best testimony to the success of which is that the example has been followed throughout the civilised world. Such displays were the Great Exhibition in Hyde Park, opened May 1, 1851; and the International Exhibition at South Kensington, opened May 1, 1862.

The concert season is now in full force at the newly-decorated Hanover-square Rooms, and the St. James's Music Hall, and Exeter Hall. The gatherings of religious societies and missions, known as "May Meetings," although they commence in April, are this year unusually numerous.

May 24 is the natal day of her Most Gracious Majesty. Two members of the Royal family were born within this month—Prince Arthur on May 1, 1850, the birthday of the Duke of Wellington, after whom the Prince is named; and persons of average memory will recollect how the Queen, after the ceremonial of opening the Exhibition of 1851, received at Buckingham Palace the Duke of Wellington who came to present to the infant Prince a jewelled casket, upon the first anniversary of his birth—an incident commemorated in a painting destined to become historical. Princess Helena was born May 24, 1846.

The horticultural and floral exhibitions are now in full life. The Botanic Society, in Regent's Park; the Horticultural Society, at South Kensington; the Royal Gardens at Kew, and the Crystal Palace fêtes now put forth their counter-attractions. The new Floral Hall in Covent-garden, stated to have cost upwards of £30,000, has been opened with the West London Industrial Exhibition. Covent-garden market is now in its zenith. Forced articles are in abundance, though, perhaps, unable to furnish the City halls with early peas for their Court dinners on Restoration Day.

Holy Thursday (May 25) is still set apart for parochial perambulations and beating bounds; the procession was formerly headed by the bishop and clergy, who sang litanies in the fields. The clergy now accompany the churchwardens, overseers, and school-children to mark out the parishes; in some cases the line runs through dwelling houses and private property, when the authorities claim the right to enter and strike the boundary-stone of their jurisdiction. In the Tower liberties the perambulation is triennial: after service in the Church of St. Peter, in the Tower, a procession is formed of the headsman bearing an axe, a painter to mark the bounds, yeomen-warders with halberts, the Deputy-Lieutenant, and other officers of the Tower, &c.; the boundary-stations are painted with a red broad arrow upon a white ground, while the Chaplain of St. Peter's repeats, "Cursed be he who removeth his neighbour's landmark." The several Inns of Court are closed to the public on this day to prevent the claim of right of way. The parish of St. Pancras is twenty-two miles in extent, and the perambulation commences in Gospel Oak-field, where, within memory, grew on the boundary-line of St. Pancras and St. John's, Hampstead, the oak under which it was customary to read a portion of the Gospel for the day.

We have lately lost what little of the Restoration observances time had spared us. The House of Commons, or rather the Speaker and the Mace, the Serjeant-at-Arms, the clerks, and other officers, and some half dozen members, no longer go to St. Margaret's Church to hear a conventional sermon by the Chaplain of the House; two centuries existence has been deemed enough of this observance. And the tomb of Pendrell, in St. Giles's Churchyard, is no longer dressed with oak-branches, though the custom was revived some thirty years ago. Even the oak-leaves and gilt oak-apples are few and far between. Nevertheless, Restoration festivities are still rife in the City halls. There is a characteristic "Restoration" loving cup at Barber-Surgeons' Hall. It is of silver-gilt, and was presented to the company by Charles II.: the trunk of the Royal oak forms the stem and handle; and the body of the tree, from which hang gilt acorns, and the cup itself; the lid is the Royal crown. To shirk this cup on Restoration Day would be something more than historical ingratitude.

That May marriages are unlucky is a superstition as old as Ovid's time, and had then passed into a proverb among the people, which puzzled even Plutarch. We may have received it from our conquerors. It used to be said, "The girls are all stark naught that wed in May;" and the superstition is still rife among us. The Rev. Alfred Gatty, of Ecclesfield, tells us that, in 1850, a colonial bishop and a home archdeacon, taking part in the services of his church, had both been solicited by friends to perform the marriage ceremony not later than next day (April 30), because in neither case would the bride-elect submit to be married in the month of May. Fifteen years have not diminished the influence of the notion, if we may judge by the large increase of marriages recorded of late. It may be sufficient to name two days. In the Times of April 21 the marriages very nearly occupy a column, and are fifty-four in number, and on April 22 they extend to one column and a quarter, and exceed seventy in number. This great disproportion late in April it is reasonable to attribute to the still prevailing notion that May marriages are unlucky, the several parties being simultaneously anxious to celebrate ere the month unpropitious to matrimony commences.

The reflective visitor will thank us for noting, in prospectu, that on Whit Tuesday (June 6) the Fairchild Lecture will be preached at the Church of St. Leonard, Shoreditch, on "The Wonderful Works of God in the Creation; or, on the Certainty of the Resurrection of the Dead, Proved by Certain Changes of the Animal and Vegetable Parts of the Creation." Fairchild had the Ivy Gardens, at Hoxton; and, dying rich, he left to St. Leonard's £50 (increased by the parishioners to £100), the interest to be devoted to this lecture. And on Whit Tuesday will be preached the annual "Flower Sermon," at the church of St. James, Mitre-square, Aldgate; each of the congregation has to bear a nosegay, however small; the sermon is always founded upon some floral text. The lively nature of the commemoration is strangely at variance with the dingy aspect of the old City nook.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

This is an age of international and industrial exhibitions. France, as we all know, is preparing a very great one, to which our tradesmen will be drawn to exhibit their goods and our gentlefolk to spend their money. So eager are we to engage in this pleasant rivalry that England, slow to speak generally, was the very first to offer to France her cordial co-operation. Then even before France, Prussia is to take the lead; the International Exhibition of Cologne will open on June 2, and the Crown Prince of Prussia, the husband of the Princess Royal, will open it, assisted, no doubt, by his wife, who will thus refresh her young remembrance of glorious 1851. Next comes Portugal and his Majesty Dom Luis I., but, of course, with a German element to help him in the President, Dom Fernando of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. This "international" will open on Aug. 24, at Oporto, and medals and certificates of merit will be awarded. But we should have put foremost, save for English modesty, our own Dublin International Exhibition, to be opened on Tuesday next, by the Prince of Wales, and to be under the especial patronage of her Majesty. A better answer to the Fenian meeting on the celebrated but somewhat ill-used plains of Clontarf could not be devised. Then we have an International Reformatory Exhibition, to be opened nine days after by the same Royal Highness, at the Agricultural Hall, Islington; an exhibition (now open) of an industrial character—a working-man's exhibition—in the Floral Hall, Covent-garden; and an exhibition of arts, manufactures, and fine arts of the north-east of London, also to be held at the Agricultural Hall; so that, if we add a probable Brazilian exhibition, one spoken of in Spain, and another which is "in contemplation," as the superfine phrase has it, for Italy, the ideal travelling Englishman would have enough cut out for him for some time to come to visit them all.

Of the assassination of President Lincoln little can be said here in our light way. Probably no event could have drawn towards the North the wavering sympathies of our commercial classes so strongly as this. The Queen, sympathising in her widowhood, has written touchingly and gracefully to Mrs. Lincoln. It is said that Booth—who assisted, by-the-way, in hanging that proto-martyr of this slave war, John Brown—was madly fond of acting such characters as Brutus, Pierre, or Jaffier. No doubt his overwrought mind had long been familiar with the idea he so fatally put in action. As anything about Herostratus—that ambitious youth who "fired th' Ephesian dome," and who, we are told, "outlives in fame the pious fool that rear'd it"—would have been interesting on the morrow of the event, it may not be out of place here to remark that the last time the three brothers Booth played in New York they acted in "Julius Cæsar," Marc Antony, Brutus, and Cassius being personified by Junius Brutus, Edwin, and the assassin John Wilkes Booth, the last, as will be here seen, playing, not Marcus Brutus, but the lean, hungry, and envious Cassius.

All of us will rejoice to read the affidavits of Mr. William Brougham and of Lord Brougham on the Edmunds scandal. At once and for ever these gentlemen set at rest any suspicions which may have been called into being by an accusation so direct and so foul. Lord Brougham not only exculpates himself from the suspicion of touching public money, but proves that he has saved public money by abolishing sinecure offices. Says Lord Brougham, "If I had followed the example of my predecessors in office (Lords Northington and Eldon) some members of my family would have enjoyed a sinecure of £4000 a year; but, so far from desiring unduly to enrich my family at the public expense, I voluntarily abolished the said sinecure, replacing it by the said office of £400 a year, which I gave to the said Edmunds." The "said Edmunds," to whom Fortune and Lord Brougham had given so much, illustrated the proverbial avariciousness of those to whom she never gives enough. Clerkships at £1000, then at £1500 a year, and an additional clerkship at £600, with another addition of £300! nothing was enough for him. Mr. William Brougham's affidavit is much shorter, but equally explicit. The first and third paragraphs are all that it is necessary to note:—"I make oath and say that I have never, directly or indirectly, received one farthing of Mr. Edmunds' salary." "That I have never benefited, nor under any circumstances could I possibly benefit, by any payments that could have been made by Mr. Edmunds." Now it remains for the House of Lords to do its duty.

A very vital change will come over our noble Fire Brigade soon. We use the adjective advisedly; for, in spite of the fun poked by Horace Smith at our firemen, they are indeed gallant fellows; and truly there is little true fun in finding one of them burnt, even though his name be "Muggins—Joseph Muggins—name revered."

> Loud shouted all, in signs of woe,
> "A Muggins to the rescue, ho!"
> And poured the hissing tide.

Higginbottom is a name also proverbially funny; and perpetually, in the "Rejected Addresses," he will "ply his pumps and wave his whizzing water-pipes;" but in reality his successors will be changed men. As our Indian army was turned over from the service of "Company John" to the Queen, a reality much less venerated by the faithful sepoy and mild Hindoo than the aged abstraction her predecessor, so our fire brigade will no longer serve the fire insurance companies, but the Government itself. A vote of £10,000 will be proposed shortly in the House for the proper maintenance of the present force, engines, stations, &c. At the same time, let us hope that excellent institution, or charity, for the saving of life from fire, commonly known as the Fire Escape Society, will be taken up by Government. It owes very much to its original promoter and active secretary, Mr. Sampson Low, jun. It has from charitable people a large income, which it expends in keeping up a brigade of nearly one hundred men and about forty of those excellent escapes by which life is so often saved. The voluntary system has in this instance worked well. Let us hope that the Government machinery which may be brought into play will equal it.

The formation of a society for the thorough exploration of the Holy Land is a step in the right direction. The romantic clergymen who leave their flocks to take a mere "Pisgah view" of Palestine, to weep at Gethsemane, and to "roam and muse" in the Garden of Olives, will soon find all that done for them. In Smith's "Dictionary of the Bible"—a wonderful and most exhaustive work, by-the-way—there is an account of Jerusalem which would have furnished one of the "travelling hands" of Jacob Tonson with several volumes of travels full of close observation, or which indeed could be "done" into a religious poem of excellent merit No doubt the city will yield much to the numismatist and the archæologist; and if we may expect to find one or two of our old interpretations shaken, we may with more certainty look to having some of our old beliefs more strongly rooted by the testimony of the earth and the rocks. Such was the gratifying result with Mr. Layard's explorations in Nineveh.

As the warm weather sets in, exhibitions open and novels die out. If anyone wishes to see how truly Shakspeare has described photography, let him go to the Architectural and Photographic Exhibition, in Conduit-street. Our operators are no longer mere mechanics. Mr. Robinson, in his "Brenda" and "Evening," really enters—and that as no novice, but a master—the domain of art. There are some fine examples of permanent pictures on opal glass, which has been named, from its inventor, Mr. G. Wharton Simpson, the Simpsontype. Messrs. Mudd and Bedford have some very fine landscapes, charming in their soft detail and brilliance; and Mr. Blanchard some remarkable instantaneous views, wherein the very bursting of a wave has been rendered; and there are some large compositions, especially one of a musical party, which, for arrangement and accessories, are lessons to our best oil painters.

Mr. Payne Collier will produce this week a work of a lifetime, his "Bibliographical and Critical Account of the Rarest Books in the Language," a work which has cost fifty years in preparation! Think of that, ye everflowing authors who produce three volumes a month; and you, Miss Braddon, whose "Only a Clod" is about to interest and distract half the young ladies in England. The new translation of à Kempis "Like unto Christ," a charming book externally, is notable for its close Bible-English style, and for a bibliographical introduction, in which S. Thomas Buonaventura seems to be pointed out as the true author of that wonderful work. Mr. James Hannay will put forward a volume of characters and criticisms. "Judas Iscariot" furnishes the title for a dramatic poem, which seeks to rank with Lord Byron's "Cain;" and Mr. Ruskin will puzzle, delight, and astonish his readers with a new work, entitled "Kings' Treasuries and Queens' Gardens," a title delightfully and mysteriously suggestive.

FINE ARTS.

EXHIBITION OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY.

In view of the present enormous extension alike of the cultivation and appreciation of art, it would be strange if we did not find some corresponding effect in the principal art-exhibition of the year. That exhibition (just opened in Trafalgar-square) does, in fact, reveal a great increase of artistic activity. It will, doubtless, be generally considered an advance upon its predecessor, both as regards the variety and the number of large important works—of which, by-the-way, the Academicians contribute rather more than their usual proportion. But it is impossible to deny that much of this activity is comparatively wasted from the lack of systematic art-education, the absence of generally-acknowledged principles, and the want of consentaneous effort and of cumulative and transmitted experience. No really great historic or contemporary development of art has ever been produced out of a mass of wholly heterogeneous, short-lived elements; and the question may reasonably be raised whether—owing to the unprecedented conditions under which our artists work, the Babel of partisan or purely fanciful criticism, and the deficiency of employment on monumental works—we are not at this moment further from possessing a great national and characteristic school than we were in the days of Reynolds. Notwithstanding the prodigal display of individual talent, this conviction was never pressed upon us more than in this exhibition. "Every man for himself," rather than for the general advancement of his art, seems the motto of nine tenths of the contributors. Garish colouring or startling effect, that shall tell in the general glare of the exhibition, oddity of subject, eccentricity of manner, extreme elaboration or pretentious slightness, mere ornamentalism or downright ugliness, fashionable and commonplace cleverness, Gothic or Italian affectation, meet the visitor at almost every step, and render discriminating criticism, within reasonable limits, almost impossible. A really noble or lofty aim is the rare exception. And it can hardly be otherwise till we have a regenerated Academy, with room and verge enough for all its duties; and, supplementing that, such men as Phillip, Herbert, Maclise, and a few more, with their studios crowded, after the good old fashion, with followers. But, while retaining a high standard of excellence, due allowance must be made for altered conditions of society and the modifications these entail; and when there is simply the necessary compliance with, not evident pandering to, the altered requirements, we must not withhold fair recognition or merited applause.

The hanging (by Messrs. Millais, Ward, and Cooke) appears to be neither better nor worse than in recent years. With the necessity of excluding more than twice the number of works for which there is space, the cases of hardship to individual artists must be numerous and severe. In one year a particular class of works may appear to have suffered more than others, and we may hear an outcry from its admirers; but in the next the exclusions of another description of works are sure to seem equally disproportionate. This time landscape and domestic incident appear to have fared worst; while, we must say, instances are not wanting of several large mediocre works by one artist occupying the best places, which we are at a loss to explain, except on the theory of personal or prejudiced favouritism.

As the picture which will be most generally interesting and popular, let us first speak of Mr. Frith's very large and elaborate representation of "The Marriage of the Prince of Wales and the Princess Alexandra in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, March 10th, 1863," painted for the Queen. On the difficulties of such a subject as this we need not dwell. Of the many pictures of state ceremonial executed by distinguished English artists, all have been comparative failures, with the single exception of the late Mr. Leslie's picture of "The Coronation of Queen Victoria." But that success was gained on a much more limited scale, and by sacrifices impossible to Mr. Frith. The living painter undertook to furnish a comprehensive and minute record of the event, with portraits of all the principal personages assisting in or witnessing it. And this great task he has performed with laborious conscientiousness, with painter-like and practised skill, with finished precision, and in a pleasing yet unaffected, suitable, and thoroughly English style. On the score of fact there is little, if anything, to desire. All the prescribed materials of his picture are therein. The picturesque interior is faithfully represented, yet with due subordination. The point of view and the moment selected—when the Prince, holding the ring, is in the act of placing it on the finger of the bride—are well chosen. But we must not hold the artist responsible if all his sitters were not heroic in physiognomy or manner; or for the court milliner, tailor, and upholsterer having left little of what artists denominate "drapery," &c.; or for the colours being often crude and ill-assorted,—the cold masses of the silk and lawn of the bishops, the lace and tulle of the bridemaids, the violet of the Garter robes, the mauve of ladies' trains, and the blue of a very obnoxious carpeting, cutting with cruel harshness against scarlet, crimson, and gold uniforms. As, however, it is possible to regard even a painted chronicle of the time with reference to purely artistic and even imaginative requirements, let us try to anticipate a little the "doggeries," as Carlyle calls them, which are invariably found barking and yelping at the heels of popular favourites. It will then be said that the colouring might have been mellowed and harmonised by warmer light and stronger reflections; that the broad shadows of a Gothic interior afforded facilities not sufficiently used for massing and concentrating; and that some of the faces, including that of the young Prince, though good literal resemblances, wear expressions of interest scarcely adequate to the occasion. The last remark, however, certainly does not apply to the sweet and blushing young Princess, or to the Queen looking from her closet above with that touching expression of repressed emotion; while, speaking generally, and without denying that these objections have more or less truth, we are indisposed to lay stress on them, feeling that in any just estimate of the whole the balance would be struck greatly to the credit of the artist. Mr. Frith has also two small portraits of Mrs. Charles Oppenheim (239) and Miss Braddon (287), the popular novelist.

The large picture to which we must next call attention—one in which the painter was free to choose his own subject and treatment—is, to our mind, the most manly and masterly work in the exhibition. The subject illustrates "The Early Career of Murillo, 1634." At this period Murillo was eighteen years of age. His relative and master, Juan de Castillo, under whom his father had placed him, had removed to Cadiz, and the young artist was reduced to earn his daily bread by painting hasty pictures for the Feria (weekly fair or market) of his native Seville, "held," says Mr. Stirling, in a passage of his "Annals of Spanish Painters," quoted in the catalogue, "in a broad street branching from the northern end of the old Alameda, and in front of the old church of All Saints, remarkable for its picturesque semi-Moorish belfry. This venerable market presents every Thursday an aspect which has changed but little since the days of Murillo. Fruit, vegetables, coarse pottery, old clothes, and old iron, still cover the ground or load the stalls as they did two centuries ago, when the unknown youth stood among gipsies, muleteers, and mendicant friars, selling for a few reals those productions of his early pencil for which Royal collectors are now ready to contend." The young painter stands modestly before his rough easel, on which is placed a picture similar in composition to the "St. John and the Lamb" of our National Gallery. He waits while three monks criticise another and smaller canvas which one of them holds. The back of this is turned towards us, but it may be inferred that the subject has especial interest for those now inspecting it from the fact that Murillo's works of this early period were religious, and in those still existing monks were introduced. But, although waiting deferentially the decision of these probable patrons, the painter's attention is instinctively attracted towards a brown and sturdy gitana, a seller of old iron, bending by the side of one of the monks to steal a glance at the picture, and in whose chubby babe, playfully holding a bunch of grapes to an older brother, Murillo evidently sees a hint for a future Infant Christ and St. John. We need hardly say that the great naturalistic painter derived the models for many, not only of his "beggar-boys" and saucy girls, but of his virgins and saints, infant Saviours, St. Johns, and cherubs, from the humble men, women, and children of Seville. But the interest leads up, as it should, to the three friars—two Dominicans, in their shovel-hats; the one scrutinising the picture with the severe air of a connoisseur, while his older, stouter, and more genial companion smiles an unreserved approval; and a cowled Franciscan eyeing the young and inexperienced painter with the suspicion of a zealous instrument of the Holy Inquisition. Let it not be forgotten that a painter at this time in Spain who dared to deviate from the modes and colours prescribed for the representation of sacred personages rendered himself amenable as a heretic to the tribunal and tender mercies of the Holy Office. To give power to these three gloriously painted heads, much of the picture has been generalised with broad, low tones; and this is done with a confidence in and knowledge of the value of subordination, which is one of the most essential technical constituents of the "grand style" of the great masters—a style almost extinct among the present race of uniform elaborators. Behind these foreground figures and luscious heaps of melons, gourds, and grapes, with onions, garlic, jars, and wallets, we get characteristic glimpses of a Spanish fair. A fantastic quack puffs his nostrums; dancing goes on merrily to the song and guitar of a wandering minstrel; while a pretty flower-girl, looking on and listening, forgets to offer her tempting nosegays; a country fellow, astride the baroccho that has brought him to market, sits stolidly endeavouring to reduce to manageable proportions his enormous mouthful of bread and garlic, with his hand on the water-bottle to wash down the same; and a proud hidalgo, with moustache-ends cocked and hand on rapier-hilt—such a one as Velasquez might have painted—stalks by, heedless of the obsequious salutation of some poor suitor. The nervous energy of the execution, and the fine colour and noble breadth of this picture, are too evident to need comment. Mr. Phillips has also a rich and beautiful study of a coquettish lady, "A Prima Donna in the character of Rosina" (298).

Mr. F. Goodall's single contribution, "The Rising of the Nile," is another of the large pictures in the East Room, and, beyond question, the most important work the artist has exhibited as a result of his sojourn in the East a few years since. Incidents similar to the one depicted occur on some of the annual overflows which fertilise the broad valley of the Nile and to which the Egyptians owe everything. The indolent inhabitants of the villages near the river frequently defer moving from their mud-built huts till the flood overtakes them, when, if it rise only a few feet above the average, escape is difficult or impossible. Here we see several representatives of the mingled races of the Nile valley making, with much haste and trepidation, for higher ground, from their inundated villages on the plains of Gizeh. A couple of affrighted women, one with a child in her arms, and a girl who will not forsake a pet lamb, clamber up a ledge in the foreground; a mounted Hadji, guarding a sick boy, flogs a terrified camel that jibs against the tugging of a Nubian; the aged village sheikh is reverently borne from a sick bed through the rising waters; and fellahs signal directions to their companions for rescuing the helpless sheep. In composition and dramatic action this is one of the finest works we have seen by Mr. Goodall, while the drawing and colouring evince art scholarship and discipline in a high degree. Less monotony of effect might be desiderated in an oil painting, but, on the other hand, the picture partakes of the largeness and dignity which distinguish the true historic style.

Among, however, the very few works which answer the chief requirements of that most difficult walk of art to which we have just alluded, Mr. E. Armitage's "Esther's Banquet" (422) is the most remarkable example, and, at the same time, we think, the best oil picture the artist has exhibited. As, however, we hope to have permission to engrave this admirable work, we will postpone a description of it.

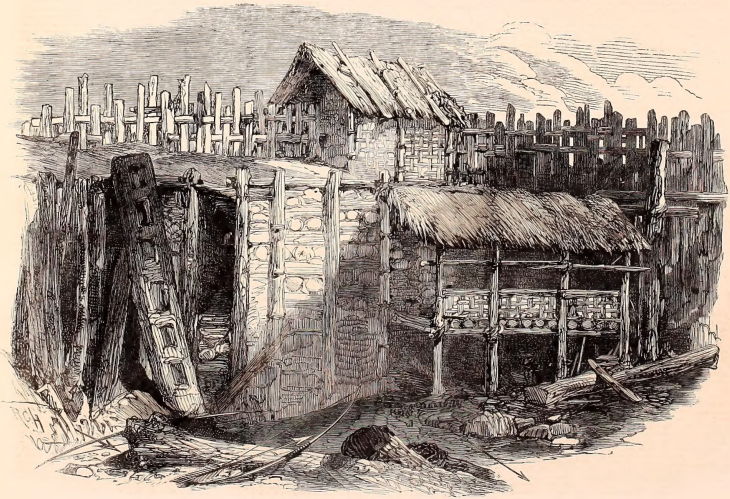
Mr. T. Faed's "Last of the Clan" (150)—again a large single contribution—is the best work since the "From Dawn to Sunset." It is equally picturesque and more robust in style than usual, and comparatively free from the artist's sometimes obvious mannerism of partial lighting and viscidly rich shadows. The subject, like others chosen by Mr. Faed, bears on the trials and cruel separations entailed by emigration, and is explained in an extract from a real or imaginary letter from one of a reduced clan in Scotland to a kinsman in America:—"When the steamer had slowly backed out and John M'Alpine had thrown off the hawser, we began to feel that our once-powerful clan was now represented by a feeble old man and his grand-daughter, who, together with some outlying kith-an'-kins—myself among the number—owned not a single blade of grass in the glen that was once all our own." The scene is the margin of a quay of some Highland seacoast or firth which the ship bearing the emigrants has just left. In the centre, on his old grey pony, is the aged man, gazing, with rueful sorrow, that, despite himself, bows his head and is very touching to behold, towards the remnant of his clan, from which he is now parting for ever, saving only the weeping girl at his side and the few remoter kinsfolk who share his grief in silent sympathy. A few passengers, just landed with their luggage, together with a group of sailors, present, in their indifference, a telling foil to the pathos of the other figures.

Mr. Millais is more than ordinarily unequal this year. Two of his contributions appeal powerfully to the imagination, while three others leave that faculty wholly unimpressed, and excite surprise or admiration only of their technical skill and audacity. The "Romans Leaving Britain" (294) is a composition of two principal figures—a brown and brawny Roman legionary and his British mistress, a grand and belle sauvage, a "Norma," susceptible of the deepest love and fiercest hate. She is clad in a red, rudely-embroidered kirtle and a mantle of wild cats' skins. The rich mass of her unkempt dark brown hair falls waving down her back, after the fashion that may still be witnessed in some of her descendants, when, like herself, near the seashore. She is seated on a ledge of the cliffs overlooking the sea; and hardly anything could be finer in dramatic feeling than the conception, which—assuming both to be conscious of the dire necessity of parting—makes the soldier, in a sudden paroxysm of despairing love and shame, throw himself on his knees, bury his head in her lap, and wring the hands that, passing round, enfold her person; while she, looking away over the ruthless sea with bent brow and flashing eyes; every feature rigid and her whole frame tense with a fierce sense of wrong, yet presses her lover's head with womanly tenderness to her lap. But objection will be taken to the apparently unhistoric types chosen. Making every allowance for regarding the ancient Britons as a dark-haired, purely Celtic race, this Britoness much more obviously embodies all the characteristics of the true Roman woman—such as to this day may be seen in the beauties of the Transtevere; while, singular to say, the soldier suggests rather an Anglo-Saxon than a Roman model. The scene is possibly intended for the precipitous coast near Dorchester (the Roman Durnovaria and Durinum), where the Romans assembled from the southern parts of the island. Other soldiers are seen descending the steep footpaths to the last boat that waits to put off to the galleys in the offing. So insignificant a thing as an oyster-shell in the corner of the foreground reminds one of a British delicacy much esteemed by the Romans, and may besides be understood as emblematical in more senses than one. This is the first picture by Mr. Millais in which we have seen full recognition of the value of atmospheric grey, and of the rarity in nature of an appearance of oleaginous thickness. The illustration of the parable, "While men slept, the enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat" (528), and the design for which has appeared in Messrs. Dalziels' "Illustrations of the Parables," has intense vividness, rather than dignity of conception. It is, in truth, almost humorous in its grotesque terror. The enemy, in the shape of a rascally old Fagan, is seen, in the dim, portentous light of a yellow dawn that breaks through ghastly jagged apertures in the leaden clouds, chuckling devilishly as he sows the tares broadcast, the while stooping stealthily and glancing with his bloodshot eyes watchfully aside, though nothing living is near, save the gliding snake and the green-eyed hyena. "Joan of Arc" (208) is little more than a study of a suit of armour. The illustration of Tennyson's "O Swallow, Flying from the Golden Woods," &c. (391), is a modern young lady with a dubious, piteous expression, at a window, with a swallow outside. The painting has great depth and richness. Lastly (with simple mention of two "Etchings") we come to the picture so strangely catalogued as representing Esther, in her "royal apparel," standing in the "inner court of the King's house" (522); "strangely," we say, because Esther is a plain young woman of purely English character; her apparel is a long, yellow cloak, with embroidery resembling no historic style of ornament we are acquainted with; and the white columns and blue curtains present not the slightest approach to anything Assyrian. As a colour-study of three masses of yellow, blue, and white, it is, however, extremely beautiful, especially in the draperies; and the whole is startlingly effective. But it must be judged merely as painting, needlessly dissociated from intelligent meaning and appropriateness of representation.

Possibly, so much of Sir Edwin Landseer's energy has been expended upon the execution of the lions for Trafalgar-square that he has been unable to give more than divided attention to his four moderate-sized pictures. His success in them is certainly less uniform than usual. The largest, and, we think, the best, entitled "The Connoisseurs" (153), is a composition suggestive of the intimate understanding the painter is said to establish with domestic animals, and such as he may be supposed to have received the hint for from a looking-glass. Like Hogarth, in his own portrait with his dog Toby, Sir Edwin represents himself with, however, not one only but two of his canine favourites. The artist is seated, evidently at work with sketchbook and porte-crayon, while overlooking one and the other shoulder are a clear-eyed collie and a handsome retriever, both inspecting critically the sketch for the portraits of the three; that is to say if we are as credulous of the sagacity of dogs as the title would have us be. Two companion pictures represent the same horse in "Prosperity" and "Adversity." In the first we see him a young lady's horse, his satiny coat and symmetrical form showing the sleekest condition, standing on an elegantly-ordered lawn, arching his neck as he anticipates the approach of a mistress whose love for animals is further indicated by the presence of other pets, including a Skye terrier, a Dutch pug, and a collie. In "Adversity" he is old, and his fallen fortunes have brought him to be a fireman's horse, his "blood" still enabling him to be equal to an occasional burst, notwithstanding that he is broken-kneed, has a tender fore foot, and a raw on his shoulder. The yard in which he has been placed in the night, which is now passing into dawn, bears evidence of a recent fire, and a fireman is seen carousing in an adjoining room, heedless of the poor thirsty animal that sniffs at an empty water-bucket, near which hangs (an emblem of his fate) a withered rose, smelt at by a rat. "Déjeuner à la Fourchette" (91) is a little kilted boy permitting the ass from which he has just alighted to eat of the oatcake on a rustic table spread for breakfast. All the animals in these pictures are capital as ever; but the more than slightness of the last, and the unpleasant colouring of the garden background in "Prosperity," discover that inequality to which we have alluded.

Persons who have seen Mr. Herbert's water-glass painting in the Westminster Palace will be glad to hear that he is represented by an oil picture in Trafalgar-square. But those who have not seen that great painting may be advised that the artist's powers must not be hastily estimated from a picture with only one principal figure, small in scale and with a scheme of colour intentionally negative, in order to point a spiritual meaning, and which is, therefore, necessarily seen to disadvantage amidst the universal effectism of the exhibition. The parable comparing the kingdom of heaven to the "Sower of Good Seed" (46) is illustrated, as in the "Moses Bringing Down the Tables of the Law," by a representation of the actual facts as seen to this day in the East, and which present, according to the best authorities, a general resemblance, especially in the primitive modes of agriculture (but also in habits, customs, and even costumes), to those seen in the time of our Saviour—nay, even in that of the Patriarchs. A young Syrian peasant, with the short abbah over his white haïck, is walking with measured step along the ridges of a fallow field, throwing the seed broadcast. The early spring sky is cold, dubious, neutral; and there is a touch of pensive thoughtfulness in his face as he seems to revolve the chances of the seed being fruitful, whether a hundred, sixty, or thirty fold, though he can scarcely anticipate the enemy coming at night to sow tares as represented in Mr. Millais's illustration of the same parable. Beyond, a team of oxen drag the harrow that covers the good seed with earth, and to further protect it from birds it is rolled by a section of the shaft of a fluted column taken from some ruin, and which is drawn by a pair of oxen. At the extremity of the field is a stone fence, dividing it from a plantation of date palms. The religious significance underlying this painted parable it is hardly our duty to enforce.

Mr. E. M. Ward takes the subject of the well-known scene on "The Night of Rizzio's Murder" (258) for a very dramatic and powerful picture. In choosing Froude for his authority the painter seems to indicate that he accepts the more criminating view of Mary Stuart's character, which recent revelations have done so much to confirm, and in doing so he, of course, sets aside the feminine pleadings of Miss Strickland, which, as becomes her sex, Mrs. E. M. Ward has illustrated in a recent picture. Here we see the Queen, Rizzio opposite her, Darnley at her side, and Murray's loose sister, the Countess of Argyle, with her back towards us, around a supper-table, with some indications of the luxury for which Marie Stuart had acquired the taste in a foreign Court. Arthur Erskine, the Equerry, Lord Robert Stuart, and the Queen's French physician, are in attendance. Surrounded as the Queen was by comparatively rude and uncultivated Scots, the company of a refined and accomplished Italian would be agreeable to her; and we see that Rizzio's guitar has been in request. But, the signal having been given by Darnley's "Judas" kiss, the ghastly, spectre-like Ruthven, newly risen from a sick bed and fully armed, emerges from the curtain, demanding, "Let your man come forth; he has been here over long." Rizzio starts up, appealing to his only friend; and the Queen, seizing the wrist of Darnley (whose guilty, abject cowardice is finely expressed), rises to confront the apparition and demand the meaning of the intrusion. This is the moment chosen for representation; and the dramatic effectiveness of the situation is enhanced by the contrasts of the brilliant light from the candelabra on the table and the fire light, with the sombre shadows of the oak-lined room. The face and rich dress of the Queen are painted with more technical refinement than is usual in Mr. Ward's works.



The epithet "voluptuous" is often applied to Mr. Leighton's works, but we think unjustly so, except under proper restrictions. They are not voluptuous, if by the word is implied the "sensual" or the "meretricious" in their common acceptation—they are too refined for that. The "Helen of Troy" and other female figures here, and exhibited on former occasions, are too impalpable—have too little real flesh and blood; the complexions of snow, tinctured with rose-blush, warmed in faint sunlight, or melting in shadowy haze, are too etherealised; and what there is of definite is too much conformed to a peculiar and conventional type to create anything but a purely artistically sensuous delight. And no inconsiderable praise is due to an artist for affording pleasure pur et simple. Besides this, Mr. Leighton's works have the rare attribute of style (due to his Continental studies), both in the largeness and simplicity of his forms and the harmony of his scheme of colour, though these qualities are partly attained by the undesirable mannerism of a softened uniform texture. To paint for the intellect, the moral feelings and the affections, is more manly and commendable; to paint for the imagination, still nobler; but, while art remains the sister of poetry, it will be quite legitimate to paint merely to please the artistic sense. That this is Mr. Leighton's chief, though it may be unconscious, aim is apparent in all he does, and was never more obvious than in his luxurious composition "The Mother and Child" (120), in which delight at the mere "look of the thing" (subtle imitative relation to nature of course existing) is equally divided between the moonlight face of the "mother," the lovely quintessence of childhood, and the lambent play of light and colour on a pinky, creamy, satin dress. Even in Mr. Leighton's manliest work (5), David, the Psalmist King, seated on his palace roof, relieved of the crown, but not its duties, and sighing for rest as, in thought, he accompanies the doves winging their way to roost from the troubled storm-clouds to the far-off mountains, where the golden sunlight still lingers calm and bright—even here, we say, the pleasure is chiefly of the eye, absorbed in noting the variations of the colour blue, its sequences, cadences, and foils. Helen walking along the walls of Troy towards the Scæan Gate, accompanied by her maidens, Æthra and Clymene, to witness the combat between Menelaus, her former lord, and Paris (309), seemed to promise a fine field for Mr. Leighton's special aptitudes; but this, the largest, seems to us the least successful of the artist's works. The mannered French classical type of beauty, the boyish character of form, and the shadow from the vertical sun round Helen's feet, looking strangely like a pool of water, are the obvious faults. The two companion-pictures (305 and 316), of a noble widow lady, in one, praying in a corner of shadowy Venetian St. Mark's, while her little child plays in a ray of sunlight near her; and in the other, retiring from the church, with her child in her arms, solaced and comforted, are as pleasing in idea as they are excellent studies of low-toned tertiary colour.

These are among the most remarkable pictures in an exhibition containing a more than ordinary number of large works. We shall proceed with our review of the remainder next week.

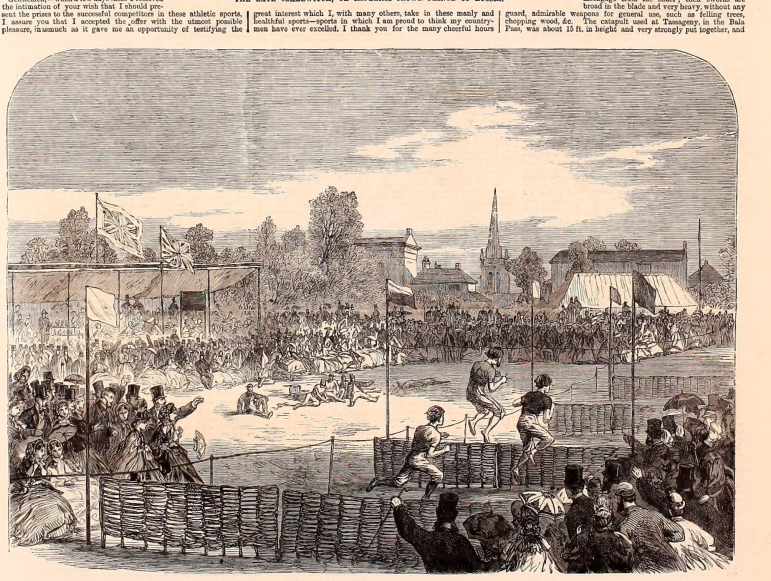
THE WAR IN BHOOTAN.

ARMED VILLAGER AND REGULAR SOLDIER OF BHOOTAN.

INSIDE A STOCKADE IN THE BALA PASS.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE LATE CZAREWITCH, OR IMPERIAL CROWN PRINCE OF RUSSIA.

A BRIEF memoir of the Hereditary Grand Duke Nicholas Alexandrowitch, or the Czarewitch, as the eldest son and heir of the Emperor of Russia is usually styled, has already appeared amongst the obituary notices in this Journal. We now give a Portrait of this lamented young Prince. He was twenty-one years of age last September, though he attained his majority at the end of his sixteenth year, in accordance with an ancient law of Russia. In person he was of slight and even delicate frame, taller somewhat than our Prince of Wales, but without that robustness of chest which marks his Royal Highness. Like most Russians of high rank, he was an excellent linguist, and spoke several European languages with great fluency. He was Major-General of the Russian and of the Prussian army, chief of the Regiment of Cossacks of the Guard, and of the Regiment of Lancers of the body-guard of the Emperor, Hetman of all the Cossack troops, Colonel-Proprietor of the 31st Austrian Infantry Regiment, chief of the Seversk Regiment of Dragoons of the Guard, of the 9th Battalion of Finnish Riflemen, and of a Prussian Regiment of Lancers. The contract of his betrothal to Princess Dagmar of Denmark, sister to the Princess of Wales, enhances the mournful interest with which the news of his death has been received. Our Portrait is from a photograph by A. Marion and Son, of Soho-square.



THE LATE CZAREWITCH, OR IMPERIAL CROWN PRINCE OF RUSSIA.

CIVIL-SERVICE athletic SPORTS AT BEAUFORT HOUSE, WALHAM-GREEN.

THE second annual meeting of the Association of Members of the Civil Service for competitive exercise in various athletic sports took place, on Friday and Saturday week, in the grounds of Beaufort House, Walham-green, lent for the occasion by the South Middlesex Volunteers. Among the spectators were the Marchioness of Downshire, Lady Clarence Paget, Lady Isabella Schuster, Viscountess Forbes, Lady Emily Fitzmaurice, Lady Sophia Melville, Lord Clarence Paget, M.P., the Hon. Ronald Melville, the Earl of Hillsborough, Lord Rosslagh, Lord Arthur Hill, and Lord Charles Russell. The sports were under the stewardship of Messrs. E. L. Bateman, C. Guy Fyn, R. Eyre, Lambert, F. Gosset, and W. C. Herbert, Mr. Herbert also acting as honorary secretary. The events consisted of running, high and broad jumping, pole-leaping, hurdle and hopping races, throwing cricket balls, throwing the hammer and stone, sack-races, and a consolation race, open to those who had been previously unsuccessful. It was the general impression that the performances were quite up to the mark of last year. The prizes were distributed from the grand stand by Lady Clarence Paget, who delivered the following brief speech:—"Gentlemen,—when a few days since I received the intimation of your wish that I should present the prizes to the successful competitors in these athletic sports, I assure you that I accepted the offer with the utmost possible pleasure, inasmuch as it gave me an opportunity of testifying the great interest which I, with many others, take in these manly and healthful sports—sports in which I am proud to think my countrymen have ever excelled. I thank you for the many cheerful hours you have afforded us at Beaufort House, and I think I may say there is no mother, wife, or sister present here to-day who has not looked with pride and pleasure on the feats that have been witnessed. I think, too, I may venture to add that there may be young ladies present who could, perhaps, say to the victorious, in the language of Rosalind to Orlando, 'Sir, you have wrestled well, and have overcome more than your enemies.'" This address brought down enthusiastic applause; and, after the distribution of the prizes, the sports were brought to a close.

SKETCHES OF THE WAR IN BHOOTAN.

WE published last week a view of the Bala Pass, near Buxa Doorm, in Bhootan, where the stockades, or wooden forts, of the enemy were assaulted and captured, on the 15th of February, by a force of Bengal native infantry, with the aid of one or two Armstrong guns, under the command of Brigadier-General Tytler, as we have already narrated. We now give two further Illustrations of this campaign, from the sketches with which we have been favoured by Captain Warren, R.A. One of them shows the interior of the principal stockade after the fight of the 15th of February. This structure of massive timber, furnished with galleries and turrets whence the garrison may shoot at their approaching foe, reminds us of the descriptions of the sort of scaffolding which was sometimes used by warriors of the Middle Ages in order to protect themselves when encamped before a beleaguered city. The other Illustration consists of the figures of some of the native warriors of the country, respecting whom Captain Warren says, "The Bhootanks fighting against us are of two classes—the regularly enrolled soldier and the armed villager. The former is generally clad in red and is armed with matchlock, shield, and sword; he has often an iron or brass helmet, and is a tall, fine-made, muscular man. The armed villager carries bow and arrows; he does the manual labour of making stockades and felling wood; he is a powerfully-made man though not so much so as the soldier. The Bhooteah, far from being a coward, has proved himself a brave, cool man. The coolness he exhibits under an artillery fire has called out our own men's admiration; and when it is remembered that he only owns matchlock, bow and arrows, or a catapult, and that with these he stands steadily to his works, facing Armstrong shells, mortars, and the improved musket, he deserves a full meed of praise. The Booteahs muster pretty strong, but more than one half fight with bows and arrows and stones only; and let it be remarked that a heap of stones coming down the hill while you are going up is a particularly disagreeable greeting. The poison in the arrows is quite innocuous; but they can send these with great force up to 200 yards; the heads easily disengage from the shaft; their swords are broad in the blade and very heavy, without any guard, admirable weapons for general use, such as felling trees, chopping wood, &c. The catapult used at Tassegang, in the Bala Pass, was about 15 ft. in height and very strongly put together, and bound round with raw hide: it discharges at one time about seven or eight stones of 2lb. each. Some of these missiles are more large; these lower their bullets up to 400 yards, and penetrate at greater distances than the smooth bore with which we are armed. One man holds the weapon and aims while a second applies a match. The Blackbuck carries all his resources in the breast of his knee coat, and besides this garment he has literally nothing. The red coat Bheloom is man of importance at a soldier; others wear one of striped colours; but the dirt forms such a neutral tint over all that the original can be scarcely recognised. Their flags are of all colours, and written all over with prayers; their "war-flag" is a square piece of white cotton, which they carry on every conspicuous place; the larger coloured ones appear to be the military points of certain tribes. These are carried about while the "war-flag" is fastened up in a high tree, over the house, or in the village. Spears, ball-clubs, like the Caucasian, plant thousands of short sharpened stakes of bamboo, the ends of which are hardened in the fire. In front of parts of their works these would pierce the naked leg of a native soldier rushing up and keep him long under fire.

ATHLETIC SPORTS OF MEMBERS OF THE CIVIL SERVICE AT BEAUFORT HOUSE, WALHAM GREEN.

THE MAGAZINES.

The Cornhill is not very brilliant this month. "Armadale" seems in danger of losing the powerful imaginativeness which characterised it at first, and which has one of those ingenious puzzles which we have of late been accustomed to receive from its author, devoid of heart and feeling, and appealing to no more exalted sentiment than curiosity. It will, however, continue to interest us, and the ingenuity is as remarkable as ever. "Wives and Daughters" sustains its high level of merit, but the painful character of the main action is hardly sufficiently relieved. The authoress might profit by the sound and lively criticism of her Hindoostanee and Hunt Professor, and the honoured remonstrance with modern novelists on the exaggerated subservitude of their creations. We hope it is not intended as an indirect puff for the author of "George Geith," from whose works nearly all the illustrations are derived. It is certainly unjust to credit this clever writer with the invention of "the sweet little Cherub" whose exquisite nature of one would have thought Mr. Dodson & Fogg, a City Autheiography," is one of the best of the series, and, fortunately, published under circumstances which placed it under the ban of the circulating library. The other papers are chiefly remarkable for popularising disquisitions on subjects of general interest for which the unscientific reader is thankful. Think of the Sun and Moon in the best specimens.

The announcement of the Shilling Magazine, with a splendid list of contributors, excited not a little curiosity. It is almost a trite remark that the first number of any publication is rarely good; and it cannot be denied that this maxim is to some extent unfortunately true. On any other occasion, we nevertheless see ample reason to anticipate a success when the popularity is largely in favour of the first number, rather an impression of heterogeneousness, an absence of distinctive feature. The most interest at present is felt in the papers which are contributed by able and unbackneyed writers. The authoress of "George Geith" is the best part of humour, and we sincerely trust that by the author of "Dr. Jacob" is something more, for our interest is already thoroughly awakened and nothing but the close of the first instalment. The best of the miscellaneous articles is that of what seems, from the author, survey of the history and present situation of Mr. Disraeli.

Macmillan boasts one really splendid article—that on Lucretius. No ordinary scholarship, and unimpeachable accuracy of judgment, must have been required to summon up so vivid a representation of a writer for the dead, whose personal interest is so great as his. It is not often that profound erudition is found co-existing with the power of vitalising the dry mass of material in reproducing the spirit of the dead past with the freshness of contemporary occurrences. Such an alliance implies the ability to select, and the power to reject, in criticism, and for such achievements we shall look to the writer of this essay. No other paper, save, the two new ones, will constitute the chief attraction of the magazine with the majority of readers. It must not be regarded against Miss Yonge's by its sentimental title, "The Dove in the Eagle's Nest." So far as it has proceeded, though it is thoroughly beautiful, graphic, tender, and full of pure, natural feeling, there is not a trait in the Middle Ages which is not to be met of the beaten track of the reigning fashion. The canvas is indeed somewhat large for the figures, but, as it is filled up, perhaps the tale may easily become monotonous; up to this point, however, there is no room for anything but the warmest praise and encouragement. "Cradock Nowell," by R. D. Blackmore, promises to be a racy, original fiction, much in Henry Kingsley's style. Professor Masson's promised recollections of Dr. Quincey will excite a peculiar expectation which the very imperfectly fulfilled, for scarcely anything of the little he tells us is derived from personal knowledge. We have more to say of Samuel Brown, an earnest thinker, who had seized upon the right track in his study or mental science, but who failed, as he, in truth, but modifications of a single primary substance. The same thought has been variously fitted before more or less success, but Brown endeavoured to provide it with a logical basis, and even endeavoured that he had made some progress towards accomplishing it by actual experiment. The result, however, could not sustain strict scrutiny, and the ardent theorist died young, leaving an enthusiastical reputation. Miss Rossetti's poem is very sweet, and we can pronounce favourably on the expression of intense but smothered passion. A brief but weighty review of Mr. Kingsley's lectures will be a practical politician can be excellent number.

Fraser commences with a review of Mr. Greeley's charming American papers. We can taken abroad in Massachusetts, and successively introduced to the scenery of the country and numerous of its inhabitants. It is a panorama, to the homes of preachers and poets, and to the great people gatherings where the anti-slavery struggle was carried on by Garrison and Whittier are among Mr. Conway's portraits, and some specimens are given of the lively and humorous poetry of Lowell Phillips. There is also a fine gloomy picture of the shame and horror created at Boston by the enforcement of the Fugitive Slave Law. A remarkable utterance of an old Governor of Virginia is also given—"I thank God, I have not a free negro, Charles II., "there are no free schools nor printing, and I hope we shall not have, for learning has brought disobedience, and heresy, and sects into the world, and printing has divulged them. God keep us from both!" His wish was wellnigh gratified, and we now see the consequences. The other contents of the magazine are much less interesting, if we except the reviews of the Emperor's "Life of Cæsar" and Marie Antoinette. Anthony Trollope's tale is a pleasant one, and French critics displays ability, but the writer is most offensively arrogant and assertive. Mr. Bennett's memoir of Bishop Mackay Bowers pictures is very able, due allowance being made for private friendship and a long connexion of ideas and effort.

Blackwood has lately exhibited a decided partiality for Irish subjects, and the scene of its new story, "Sir Brooke Foxbrooke," is again laid in that country. It is fortunately unconnected with the benchant style and healthy animal spirits. The more striking incidents appear to be taken from life. The "Recollections of Kossuth" are very interesting, and the Hungarian statesman is evidently a true friend to fact, we are persuaded, that those which more closely represent the prevalence of feeling regarding him. The "Correspondence" seems to be the ne plus ultra of shrubbily and entertainment. A review of the present situation is chiefly remarkable for its frantic spite against Mr. Gladstone, and an extraordinary assertion that but for the dominance of the late Sir George Lewis, Lord Palmerston would have gone to war with America on the Trent question without even addressing a demand for reparation. The story is irreconcilable with the sanity of the former and but for the name of Prince Consort, we are forced actively in the matter.

The British Quarterly depends this month entirely on its stories. "Guy Devenil" expresses more than a third of the number. It is written with skill and point; but, somehow, the interest seems to languish. "Who is the Heir?" is at length owned by Mr. Mortimer Collins. It is as full of affectation as ever, but the writer's flow of spirits buoys it up.

Temple Bar is varied and attractive, and its levels of novelists are all in great force. Miss Braddon's story is very interesting, and there is nothing so outrageous as the hot-poker incident of last month. Mr. Yates's sketches of the lower grades of artist-life are minutely graphic and clever, and Mr. Wills continues to develop a vein of most decided originality. The miscellaneous papers are generally very good, particularly "Masters, Servants, and Tradesmen," and the polished and thoughtful essay on "Cynicism." Of the St. James's and London Society we have merely to repeat that they are as usual. One number of either of these periodicals is usually exactly like any other; but in the case of the latter it is now very long since anything was alteration. The Churchman's Monthly has a paper on Bishop Colenso, quite amusing in its painful inconsistency to satisfy the demands of orthodoxy and civility at once. The Month prefixes the Christian name of a long gone by to its less renowned (when Father Newman's. The fruit of it is not as yet very clear, but the writer is evidently a man of ability. The Argosy has a fine Hibernian from the effervescency of thought and illustration which has spoiled so many Irishmen's chances of success among northern critics. The English-woman's Magazine is somewhat improved; and the Welsh Tenor and The Days of Real Chivalry are displaying no remarkable talent, are very fair repertories of light reading.

Our Mutual Friend. By Charles Dickens. No. 13. (Chapman and Hall.) This may be described as a fair average number. There are both good and bad in it. Mr. Boffin's dream in Betty Higden's cottage is, but, as usual, Mr. Dickens's determination to carry our sympathies by force is very apparent. The scene in which Mr. Boffin and his wife display an honour in Eugene Wrayburn's interview with that incarnation of hideous deformity, Mr. Dolls, and his semi-comic perception of the unlucky schoolmaster.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

Professor Frankland commenced a course of twelve lectures on organic chemistry on Tuesday week, in which he proposed to treat of the compounds of carbon, with hydrogen, oxygen, and nitrogen, and their homologues, and more especially to study the modern which they are produced. The reason why the number of organic compounds is so enormously greater than that of inorganic compounds is mainly very small, and the essential element in them is carbon. Carbon is a solid substance, consisting chiefly of coal, coke, and charcoal, and is also found in the diamond, graphite, &c. Hydrogen, oxygen, and nitrogen are gases. Hydrogen, oxygen—e.g., sugar, spermaceti, starch, alcohol, &c.; and nitrogen—e.g., gunpowder, nitre, and the nitrates generally. Hydrogen, nitrogen, and oxygen—e.g., fibrin, sulphate, albumen, morphine, caffeine, &c. The varying proportions of these elements produce the varying kinds of organic compounds. Professor Frankland, in a series of experiments, showed that carbonic acid, water, and ammonia were produced by the combustion of organic substances, and these products were not yet characterised by very remarkable peculiarities. Among these products were the following:—Carbonic acid, a colourless gas, which extinguishes a burning taper, and is also fatal to animal life; water, a colourless liquid, which freezes at 32 deg. Fahr., and boils at 212 deg.; ammonia, a colourless gas, which has a pungent smell, and is also fatal to animal life; and nitrogen, a colourless gas, which extinguishes a burning taper, and is also fatal to animal life. The lecturer then proceeded to show that carbonic acid was produced by the combustion of charcoal, and that when an organic compound is burnt in a current of oxygen gas, carbonic acid and water are produced. If a nitrogen, &c., element is only partially oxidised—i.e., if the supply of oxygen is insufficient to enable the carbon to satisfy the requirements of the chemistry—it is then termed a compound radical. Compound radicals, it was stated, are frequently found in the products of combustion, and, like them, may be incandescent, and in regard to hydrogen, the experiments completely bore out the statement that the combustion of hydrogen in a current of oxygen gas produced water, and that by forming electrodes of sulphuric or common salt decomposition of water was produced, the oxygen appearing at the positive electrode, and the hydrogen, &c. It was also shown that nitrogen was produced by the combustion of ammonia, and that a current of electricity of such an explosive character as to be decomposed by the very slightest touch. It would be seen from the foregoing general remarks that the compounds of carbon in a partially saturated condition, and in monatomic &c., according to the number of atoms of hydrogen they contained. Thus, in marsh gas one atom of hydrogen forms the chloroform compound radical in chloroform; with two atoms of hydrogen it established a diatomic compound radical in ethylene; with three atoms of hydrogen it established a monatomic compound radical in chloride of methyl. At the conclusion of the lecture Professor Frankland referred to Mr. Odling's recent method of detecting and giving warning of the presence of firedamp in coal-mines.

At the annual meeting on Monday last were elected Sir Henry Holland, Bart., M.D., D.C.L., to be president; Professor Miller, M.D., F.R.S., as treasurer; Henry Rosse Jones, M.D., F.R.S., as secretary; and the rest of the old council re-appointed.

OBSEQUIES OF THE CZAREWITCH AT NICE.

The Journal de Nice gives the subjoined account of the funeral ceremony for the Hereditary Grand Duke of Russia :—

On Wednesday, the 12th inst., the remains were conveyed from the Chapel of the Russian Church to the railway station, some of his Majesty's household attending, Grand Duke Alexander Nicolaievitch, Grand Duke Constantine, and the Grand Duchess Alexandra Josephowna, the removal of the body from the death-bed and placed it in the coffin. The deceased Prince was attended by the Commander of the Imperial Guard and the Corps of the Emperor.

At the same time the clergy, clothed in copes of gold of dazzling richness, recited the prayers for the dead according to the ritual of the Eastern Church. The coffin was then placed in the hearse, the whole Imperial household with its suite taking part.

Among those who attended were, besides the Russian and French dignitaries and functionaries, the Commander of the Russian colony in Nice, a great number of the Russian residents of Paris, who had arrived in order to pay the last mark of respect.

A quarter of an hour afterwards the Chasseurs presented arms; the clarions sounded to announce the departure of the funeral train. The Emperor, his sons, and the grand dignitaries of the Court. The Emperor, as the head, followed in placing the coffin in the funeral car and in removing it.

The coffin, richly ornamented with gold, bore on its lid the Grand Duke's cap and the insignia of his rank.

The cortège then moved in the order indicated by the ceremonial. The Grand Duke Constantine, the Grand Duchess, and all mounted gendarmerie, General Lanskoi, principal commandant, in full dress, and bearing the grand cordon of the Order of St. Andrew, followed the car on foot, with the Imperial military and navy.

The Emperor Alexander wore the uniform of a general officer—blue tunic, scarlet trousers, and boots. The Princes—his sons—his equerries and nearest covered with crape.

The corners of the pall were held by their Excellencies Count Adlerberg, Minister and Aide-de-Camp-General of the Emperor; Count Ostrowsky, Minister of Justice; Count Admiral Lieven, Admiral de Mr. Gossell, member of the Russian Embassy in Paris.

The Emperor Napoleon, the Empress Eugenie, the Grand Duke Alexander Alexandrovitch Czarewitch, Hereditary Grand Duke; their Imperial Highnesses Prince Napoleon, his Imperial Highness Grand Duke of Luxemburg, their Grand Ducal Highnesses Prince Alexander of Hesse and Duke Nicholas of Nassau followed.

The coffin was placed in the funeral waggon, adorned in this and duty by the Imperial family. It was then placed in the funeral car, which was drawn by eight horses, richly caparisoned. The horses were at the four corners with golden palpes, having each at his side an officer bearing some insignia of the deceased. Other officers of the household followed on foot, bearing the insignia. The standard of the Czarewitch was placed in front of the altar.

The funeral train proceeded at a slow pace, like the car, covered with garnet velvet in veiled costumes, fringed with gold and ornamented with crabbs of gold; it was surmounted by the crown of the Grand Duke, and by the ducal crown. The church was brilliantly lighted.

The Emperor Napoleon and the Empress, with the Russian dignitaries and the Princes and Princesses of rank could be admitted to the interior. The various other bodies of the procession remained in the open air, awaiting the issue.

As soon as their Majesties had taken their places on the right of the altar, the Archbishop of Nice, assisted by the Princes, and the high officers of the Court, the prayers for the dead commenced, in the midst of the most solemn attention.

Their Majesties many times knelt devoutly. After the prayers the Emperor approached the coffin, and pronounced in many broken tones the last adieu and kissed the forehead and the hand of that son so prematurely taken away. The Empress then, with her own hands, covered the remains with the cloth of crimson, fixed upon her child one long, last look, and gave him many farewell kisses. The Emperor then ordered the pall to withdraw her from the coffin, and the Empress, supported by the Emperor succeeded the Princes, in the order of their ages, and to their respective places, followed by the other dignitaries of the Court.

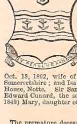
At about ten o'clock the religious ceremony was concluded, when their Majesties returned to the palace, followed by their residence.

On Thursday and Friday crowds visited the coffin, and many Russians and foreigners kissed the cloth which covered the remains.

On Saturday afternoon the official cortège moved towards the roads of Villefranche. The same order was observed as on the day, with the addition of the arrival of her son's remains. The procession following the funeral car was the Prince Royal of Prussia, the Grand Duke Constantine, the Grand Duke Peter, Prince Napoleon, the foreign Princes and personages formed each a cortège as Nice had never before witnessed. The Emperor and Empress, with their sons, and several of the suite, while smoke the warships fired salutes. The batteries extended on those mountains replied. The bands of the ships and of the regiments played funeral marches, and the bells of the churches chanted their prayers. An immense multitude formed, as it were, the frame to this sad picture.

The voyage of the Oleg, bearing the body of the late Czarewitch, will take about four weeks. The Oleg has just been fitted out from Toulon expressly for Greenstadt. The solemn ceremony of interment will take place in the cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, the burial-place of the Czars. The body of the Grand Duke Nicholas has received the remains of the members of the Imperial family of Russia, the Princes of Oldenburg, Leuchtenberg, Mecklenburg, Hesse, Wurtemberg, Baden, Nassau, Saxe-Weimar, Saxe-Coburg, Darmstadt, where they will remain in seclusion for about a month. Then the Imperial family will proceed to St. Petersburg, to accompany to their last resting-place the relics of their son.

Raphael's cartoons were safely removed yesterday week from Hampton Court to the South Kensington Museum.



An exploration of the Dead Sea is to be made by a body of archæologists and scientific savans, "with perfect command of funds and time, and with the best appliances which science can suggest. The Bishop of Oxford, clergymen and gentlemen have already consented to join the committee—The Archbishop of York, the Bishop of Ely, the Bishop of Devonport, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Oxford, the Bishop of Sly, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Earl of Harrowby, the Earl of Carnarvon, the Chancellor, the Dean of Westminster, the Rev. George Williams; the Rev. Samuel Martin, Westminster; Mr. James Fergusson, Mr. Robert Stephenson, M.P.; Mr. Austen Layard, M.P.; Mr. Walter Morrison, M.P.; Mr. William Tite, M.P.; Mr. John Abel Smith, M.P.; Lady Augusta Stanley, Mrs. Augustus Smith, the Rev. Henry Milman, Mr. Antonio Panizzi, and Canon Ernest Hawkins; hon. secretary, Mr. George Grove, secretary to the Sacred Lands Committee. The object of the proposed excursion which have hitherto prevented any satisfactory exploration. In a report on Palestine which may be accepted by all parties as a trustworthy and thoroughly satisfactory document." What has immediately led to the project now in contemplation is the survey of Jerusalem, under the direction of Captain Wilson, of the Royal Engineers. Few can be altogether ignorant of the controversies which have raged about the most important localities of the Holy City, such as Mount Zion and Calvary; and it will be almost more than we expect if this survey should finally set them at rest. "Below the surface," however, as this paper reminds us, "hardly anything has yet been discovered;" and, if it be true that modern Jerusalem is built on sixty feet of rubbish, the excavations of all kinds may still be fertile enough. The promoters of the expedition attach great importance to the Prince of Wales's visit to the Dead Sea, as throwing open ground to scientific investigation.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States of America during the most momentous period of rule since that of his great predecessor George Washington, was the grandson of Abraham Lincoln, killed by Indians in 1784, and was the son of Thomas Lincoln, of Virginia, by his wife, Nancy Hanks. He was born, Feb. 12, 1809, in Harden County, Kentucky. His father, Thomas Lincoln, when the young Abraham was about eight years of age, removed with his family to Spencer County, Indiana. There for the next twelve years Abraham Lincoln worked with his father in the ordinary pursuits of a settler, living in the log hut which the neighbours assisted them to build when they first came to the neighbourhood. He had not, however, during all these years the guiding hand of his mother, for she died shortly after they took up their residence in Indiana. In course of time, a Mr. Crawford came to settle in the neighbourhood, and opened a school in his own cabin, and Abraham Lincoln was his pupil. Abraham was a youth of manifold qualifications: he had perseverance, a desire for knowledge, truthfulness, and earnestness. The books which he loved to peruse at this period were Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," "Æsop's Fables," a life of Henry Clay, afterwards Lincoln's model of a statesman; and Weem's "Life of Washington." When he was nineteen he made a trip to New Orleans in a flat-boat with the son of one of his neighbours, with a cargo for the New Orleans market. In addition to a long voyage down the River Ohio, which bounds Indiana on the south, the young voyagers had at least one thousand miles of the Mississippi to traverse before they arrived at their destination. The voyage was successful, and raised the character of Abraham Lincoln in the vicinity as a youth of energy and promise. In 1830, when Abraham was twenty-one years of age, he migrated once more with his father to Decatur, Illinois. The father being there comfortably settled, Abraham started on his own account, hiring himself out first of all as a farm hand, and occasionally acting as a clerk in a store. When the war with the Indians broke out in 1832, commonly called the Black Hawk War, Mr. Lincoln was elected to the command of a company of volunteers. One who knew him at this period writes that "he was an efficient, faithful officer, watchful of his men, and prompt in the discharge of duty; and his courage and patriotism shrank from no dangers or hardships." After his military career, Lincoln kept a store; and then took to the business of a surveyor. In 1834 he was sent to the local Legislature, and during the time the House was not sitting he applied himself with vigour to the study of law. In 1836 he obtained a license to practise; and in 1837 went to Springfield, the chief town in Illinois, and commenced as a lawyer, in partnership with the Hon. John F. Stuart. He rose rapidly in public favour, and is said to have been very successful as an advocate in jury trials. In 1846 Mr. Lincoln was returned to Congress, and took his seat as the only Whig member from Illinois. He continued to belong to Congress till 1849. The Whigs were the forerunners of the present powerful Republican party, the chief point of difference being that of slavery. Lincoln was for freedom, and on that ground opposed the Mexican War. He supported a bill abolishing slavery in the district of Columbia. When the Wilmot proviso was discussed to exclude slavery from those territories which had been captured from Mexico, Mr. Lincoln voted for the proviso; and he afterwards stated that, in one way or another, he had cast his vote about forty times in favour of the abolition of slavery. In 1849 he stood, and was defeated, for the office of United States' Senator for Illinois, and consequently remained at home from that period until 1854 in the practice of his profession. In that year the Kansas Nebraska Bill was passed by the slaveholding party, aided by some of their supporters in the North. Mr. Stephen A. Douglas stood for United States' senator from Illinois, and Mr. Lincoln opposed him; the two champions ultimately holding seven joint debates in different towns of the State for the purpose of informing the people of the grounds of difference of policy upon which they were called on to decide. Upon his discussions with Douglas, however, the eyes of the whole country were fixed, and the ability and quaint humour which Mr. Lincoln exhibited, and the success which he gained for the party, made him very popular among the Republicans. The immediate practical question which then agitated the people, and which came to be the turning-point of the presidential election of 1860, was whether or not slavery ought to be permitted in the new territories as, one by one, they came to be peopled. Mr. Lincoln believed that slavery ought to be excluded from the territories, although he did not see his way to interfere with slavery in those States where it existed. The Republican Convention, which met at Chicago, nominated Mr. Lincoln as their candidate for the presidency. The contest lay between him and Mr. Seward. The canvass was carried on with the usual good humour in the North, but amid threatenings and mutterings in the South in the prospect of their defeat. The polling resulted in the return of Mr. Lincoln—the numbers being, for Lincoln, 1,857,910; for Douglas, 1,291,574; for Breckenridge, 850,082; and for Bell (a Whig of long standing), 646,124. The election, in 1860, of Mr. Lincoln was hailed with delight by the people of the Northern States, and when he proceeded to Washington to execute the functions of President the whole country watched his progress with intense satisfaction. Mr. Lincoln's policy was to woo the South to submission to the constitutionally-expressed will of the people by every argument which would be supposed to have weight with American citizens. His appeal was vain. The men to whom it was addressed had for a long series of years encouraged the delusion that slavery was a Divine institution. The North, with Mr. Lincoln as President, had no choice but to enforce the laws and to use whatever powers the Constitution gave for the suppression of the South, which had burst out into open rebellion. The terrible war that followed and its ever-varying incidents are too much matters of present knowledge and history to need any detail here. Sufficient it is to say that in the west the national arms were almost uniformly successful. In the east the forces of the Union failed to capture Richmond until weary years of effort had been wasted and several successive Generals tried and removed. But the elasticity of free institutions permitted of these changes of commanders, and the patriotism of the people supported the President in whatever appointments he deemed best for the furtherance of the cause until—by his happy selection of General Grant, who had proved victorious in the west, and Grant's no less admirable appointments of Generals Sherman, Sheridan, Thomas, and others—the power of the South has been completely battered down. The emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln was one of his boldest and greatest acts, and the cause of the Union seems to have prospered ever since. Lincoln had been a second time elected President, and the surrender of the Confederate army was just being looked on as the closing-in scene of the mighty struggle, when President Lincoln fell the victim of one of the foulest and most daring acts of assassination that has ever disgraced the pages of history. Assassination is a crime which seems to have peculiarly and invariably the curse of Heaven upon it; for in perusing the annals of the world we find it has not only not been followed by success, but it has been usually a fatal blow to the cause in support of which the murderer has done the deed. No doubt, therefore, this dreadful slaying of the President will tend more than aught else to cause a revulsion in the minds of his opponents and bring them round, and to thus establish the Northern triumph permanently, and to effect the long-desired pacification of America. President Lincoln died, on the 15th ult., from the shot fired at him by John Wilkes Booth in Ford's Theatre, Washington, on the previous evening. The President leaves a widow and family.

SIR SAMUEL CUNARD, BART.

Sir Samuel Cunard, Bart., of Bush-hill House, Edmonton, Middlesex, who died, on the 28th ult., at his town house, 26, Prince's-gardens, Kensington-gore, was the son of Abraham Cunard, Esq., of Philadelphia, by his wife, Miss Murphy, daughter of Thomas Murphy, Esq., of the same city. He was born in November, 1787, and attained considerable eminence in shipping and mercantile pursuits: he was the originator of the celebrated line of Cunard packets. He was created a Baronet March 9, 1859. He married, in February, 1815, Susan, daughter of William Duffus, Esq., of Halifax, Nova Scotia; and has had Edward, his successor; William, who married (in 1851) Laura, daughter of the Hon. T. C. Halliburton, Judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia; and six daughters, five of whom have been married—viz., Mary, wife of the Hon. J. H. Peters, Judge of the Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island; Margaret Anne, widow of Lieutenant-Colonel William Leigh Mellish, of Hodsock Priory, Notts; Sarah Jane, wife of Colonel G. W. Franklyn; Anne Elizabeth, who died Oct. 13, 1862, wife of Major Ralph Shuttleworth Allen, of Bathampton, Somersetshire; and Isabel, wife of Captain Henry Holden, of Hoveringham House, Notts. Sir Samuel Cunard is succeeded by his elder son, now Sir Edward Cunard, the second Baronet, who was born in 1816, and married (in 1849) Mary, daughter of Bache M'Evers, Esq., of New York.

JUDGE LEVINGE.

The premature decease of the Hon. Edward Parkyns Levinge, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court, Calcutta, is much and very generally lamented. It is hardly more than two years since his appointment to his high office, when he carried out to India an already-acquired reputation, which he fully bore out there, for forensic talent and profound knowledge of jurisprudence: his judgments, indeed, were so thoroughly approved of that there is no instance of one of them being reversed. The Hon. Mr. Justice Levinge died at Penang, on the 2nd of March, of dysentery, aged thirty-nine. He was a scion of the old family of Levinge, which has existed from the time of Canute, and of which the then ancestor, the celebrated Archbishop Levinge, crowned that Monarch. Judge Levinge was the eighth son of Sir Richard Levinge, sixth Baronet, of Knockdrin Castle, in the county of Westmeath, by his wife, Elizabeth Anne, eldest daughter and coheiress of Sir Thomas Boothby Parkyns, first Lord Rancliffe, and was brother of Sir Richard George Augustus Levinge, the seventh and present Baronet. Judge Levinge died unmarried.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS, ESQ., M.P.

William Williams, Esq., M.P. for Lambeth, who died on the 28th ult., had been in failing health for some time past, and had announced his intention to retire from Parliament at the next election. Mr. Williams was the son of Thomas Williams, Esq., of Tredaren, in the county of Carmarthen, and was educated at Merchant Tailors' School. He was formerly a merchant in London, and a member of the Common Council. In politics he was a Liberal, and, as is well known, took a particular interest in all the financial matters of the country. He represented Coventry from January, 1835, till the general election in 1847, and was first returned for Lambeth in 1850, and has since continued to represent that important borough till his demise.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

SUBSCRIBER, E. C., NIGEL, AND OTHERS.—We cannot undertake to receive subscriptions for the volume of "I. B.'s" chess problems. The book can be obtained of the publishers, Trübner, 60, Paternoster-row; or post-free from the composer's widow, "Mrs. I. Brown, Chard's Mead, Bridport, Dorset."

R. S., Malines.—You are wrong in both cases. Look once more, and remember there is such a condition of things in chess as stalemate.

I. R. L. LEE.—There is no mate in three moves.

I. H., Winchester.—You will find, on looking at the position carefully, that you are in error. Suppose Black for his first move play 1. P to Q R 4th, what then will you do?

W. GIBBONS.—They shall be reported on next week.

I. PHENIX.—The only safe course is to confine your attention to the composing one problem at a time, making sure it is free from flaw by repeated examination. You evidently overlook the fact that in No. 1103 White may win by playing 1. P to K 7th, 2. R to K R 5th, &c.

G. N. Spa, Royal Artillery, Clonmel.—No; see notice above to I. N., Winchester.

I. H. A., Quebec.—1. The variations you suggest were, of course, seen through; they are apparent at a glance; but the true line of play gives Black a winning advantage: ex. gr.:—

14.	K takes B	16. Q takes Q Kt P	P to K B 3rd
15. Q to Q Kt sq (ch)	K to Kt sq

And now, whether White take the Rook or play Kt to Kt 6th, Black must have two minor pieces for a Rook and the better position. 2. Game marked "A" is still less worthy to represent the state of chess-playing in Canada. It is interminably long and unspeakably dull; and, unless in expiation of some grave wrong, we should be sorry to impose upon anyone the task of playing over the 188 moves of which it consists. You must be good enough to make another effort. Try to procure games played by other players. Send something of reasonable length, and with, at least, a touch of animation, and avoid a notation—"K P 2"—which is used now only by old folk who stick to the tinder-box.

T. I. G.—The Acrostic shall be examined; the Riddle appears to be a sorry jest. As to the seventeen questions, we must decline them altogether. The answers would half fill our column. Besides, it is hardly justifiable to print the addresses of private people in a newspaper without their permission.

W. H. TAYLOR, JULIO, A. M.—It is now under examination.

HENRIETTA, I. M., of Sherburne.—Perfectly correct.

PHILKO.—1. A good suggestion. 2. The comparative value of such odds can only be known by experiment.

A BEGINNER.—Yes, there is a fatal objection to both. Black, instead of playing 1. P to Q B 3rd, would move 1. P to Q R 4th. How would you then proceed to avoid giving stalemate?

I. W.—In No. 1 the interest is enfeebled by the poverty of Black's defence. No. 3 wants vivacity. For No. 2, however, we shall find space.

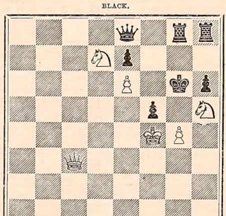
SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1103 by Simkin, L. S. D., Philo-S., M. P., Turnus, V. P., L. M., Cosmos, P. D. K., Jim W., Dyk Wynkyn, S. M. E., Conrad, Theo Ellis, H. Frau, Lyons, Keith, W. H., T. Addison; H. W. B., the Hague; N. W., Oxford; G. M'L., Query, Felix, D. V., Monkbarns, Box and Cox, T. W. M., Rook, R. B. G., Peon, Try-Again, Aberdeen, L. E. E., C. R. P., Q. E. D., N. S., Wilfred, W.C., Iota, Pangloss, D. D., Paedagogus, M. A., Civis, Adelphi, George, D. T. M., Charley, T. Bo-tock, Medicus, Ellen, Colonel, B. A., Manfred and Man Friday, Viator, Betsy Prig, Wyley, Nimrod, Addey, I. Danby, Cosmopolitan; M. G., of Mons; E. C. F., Templar, Rifleman, C. D., E. P. E., F. S. R., Peregrine, Violet, Omega, W. F. W., G. S. C., True-blue, Bion, E. L. R., Charlotte, A Swede, C. S. T., E. Q. H., D. R., Rugbeian, W. N. J., T. K., Q. E. D., Philip, R. A. F., Maid Marian, Omicron, C. M. F., I. Norris, C. R. W., C. E. A., Tribus, D. J. C., Major, G. T. O., P. G. P., T. D., C. H. R., F. C. S., N. C., Boston Stump, An Essex Calf, Mrs. Harris, A Subaltern, R. K. D., Queen, Stanley, B. C., A Farmer, Mrs. Grundy, Miles, Andrew, Sigma, F. A. S., C. M. S.; B., of Dundee; A. Pouncy, F. L. E., Quito, Annabell, Julio, A. M., R. B. C., L. L. D., Fergus, Beppo, C. W. K., Dryad, Romola, V. P., R. M. D., I. W., M. Morris, Armadale, Sindbad; Mr. Veller, sen.; Volpone, E. B. I., Target, Trial, C., Athenæum, Vigo, Pandulph, W. E. D., Spalding, R. E. D.; I. M., of Sherburn, are correct. All others are wrong.

SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1104 by Frank Will's, E. B. C., Drury, T. V. K., Omicron, C. M., Burgh, Gavino; H. Frau, Lyons; T. B., Box and Cox, M.P., Lucy Van D., Sigma, A. B. Z., 1865, P. P., Manfred and Man Friday, Launce, Cosmos, P. E. G., Aunt Sally, Willy, F. R. A., A Bath Archer, Omega, Eques, H. W. B., Julio, A. M.; R. S., Malines; H. W., of Oxford; Dr. Fould, A. Pouncy, Derevon, Patty, D. C. L., A Swede, Ernest, D. D., A Clerk, Miles, Mrs. Betsy Prig, Fanny, W. T. W., J. D., Iota, R. B., Conrad, Fidele, W. H. O., Peregrine, W. L., Civis, Try-again, Banting, Q. E. D., Oxoniensis, W. W., Medicus, Lex, are correct. All others are wrong.

Comte F. Munich.—You will see, on again examining your composition, that the second version is also defective. It admits of the following very easy solution:—

1. B takes R	P takes P (best)	3. Q takes R and mates next move.
2. Q to Q B 5th (ch)	K takes Kt

C. BENBOW.—It was found to be defective and was destroyed. There was an obvious solution beginning 1. B to Q Kt 6th.



SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1105.

WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.	BLACK
1. Kt to K B 4th	B takes Kt (best)	3. Q to Q B 4th (ch)
2. B. to K 4th	K takes B (best)	and mates next move.

PROBLEM No. 1106.

By Mr. F. ANSIDEI.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

SURREY CHESS CLUB.—A chess club, under this title has just been formed, the members of which meet at No. 3, Newington-causeway. The president is Mr. G. Bone; the hon. secretary, Mr. F. Russell. At the first meeting twenty gentlemen were enrolled as members of the new society, and twenty more are said to be awaiting admission.

CHESS WITH LIVING CHESSMEN.—The French illustrated paper called Le Monde Illustré communicates some interesting details of a stately game of chess played, some months since, at Cochin-China, on the occasion of the New-Year's fêtes, which are celebrated in that country with wonderful magnificence. During three days, the correspondent of Le Monde Illustré relates, a game of chess was conducted at Mi-Tho, with the pieces represented by living figures dressed in costumes indicative of their office on the chess-field. An immense crowd assembled to witness the contest. Each person who figured on the chessboard was furnished with a stick, at the extremity of which was a disc, bearing, in Chinese characters, the name of the piece which he represented. A herald with a speaking-trumpet announced the moves; and two other heralds, carrying each a flag, conducted the pieces to their squares, while the Royal executioner, with a sabre at his back, expelled from the board all the men captured in the fight. Among the Annamites chess is played by following the lines of the board, and not the squares; but the number of these is the same as with us. The men, too, are not placed in the middle of the square, but at the intersection of the two lines; and the march of them, although very different from that of the European game, affords a variety of combination quite as extensive.

France possesses at the present moment 491 ships afloat and 18 in course of construction, composed as follows:—Iron-cased steamers—ships of the line, 2; frigates, 11, and 3 building; corvettes, 1, building; floating batteries, 13, and 5 building; batteries which can be taken to pieces, 11. Screw vessels, not plated—ships of the line, 36; frigates, 23, and one building; corvettes, 11, and 3 building; despatch-boats, 43; smaller vessels, 11; gun-boats, 58, and 1 building; transports, 46, and 3 building; special constructions, 4; paddle-steamers, not plated, frigates 26, despatch-boats 34, gun despatch-boats, 28. Sailing vessels: ships of the line, 1; frigates, 19; corvettes, 9; brigs, 12; smaller ships, 65; transports, 29, and 1 building: general total, 509, of which 39 are ships of the line, 89 frigates, 24 corvettes, 28 floating batteries, 77 despatch-boats, 104 smaller vessels, 12 brigs, 59 gun-boats, 79 transports, and 4 special constructions. They carry in all 6399 guns, and the united force of their engines is 103,292-horse power. Independently of the ships of war above enumerated, the French navy also possesses 245 old ships of the line, frigates, corvettes, brigs, bomb-vessels, transports, schooners, &c., converted into barracks, guard-ships, hulks, store-ships, towing-vessels, and others. The majority of them, which have been set aside since the construction of the new fleet, might, however, in a moment of danger, render useful service.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

WAR OFFICE.

Royal Horse Guards: Lieut. C. R. St. John Ives to be Captain; Cornet H. E. Wescar to be Lieutenant.

4th Dragoon Guards: Lieut. G. R. A. Denne to be Lieutenant.

11th Hussars: Staff Surgeon D. Hanley, M.D., to be Surgeon.

Royal Artillery: Surgeon J. Mee to be Surgeon-Major.

1st Foot: Lieut. J. W. Turnbull to be Lieutenant. 7th: Lieut. C. F. Powell to be Lieutenant. 13th: Lieut. H. F. K. Penrose to be Lieutenant. 16th: Lieut. R. Morrison to be Lieutenant. 22nd: Ensign H. O. Megra to be Lieutenant; J. G. K. Young to be Ensign. 29th: Lieut. J. C. Douglas to be Captain; Ensign C. H. M. Paget to be Lieutenant; J. O. Dalgleish to be Ensign. 31st: Lieut. A. Jebb to be Captain; Ensign T. Stanier to be Lieutenant; W. A. Beamish to be Ensign. 41st: Lieut. E. F. B. Brooke to be Captain; Ensign F. D. Webb to be Lieutenant; H. E. James to be Ensign. 50th: Ensign A. S. Campbell to be Lieutenant; J. P. Soote to be Ensign. 81st: Lieut. H. R. Young to be Lieutenant. 84th: Lieut. W. A. Atcherley to be Captain; Ensign F. A. Gore to be Lieutenant; Ensign A. G. Saunders to be Lieutenant; Ensign C. L. M. Kirwan to be Lieutenant; G. E. B. Baker to be Ensign; D. T. Allcard to be Ensign; G. J. Smallpiece to be Ensign. 85th: Lieut. W. Galbraith to be Captain; Ensign F. C. Lewin to be Lieutenant; E. H. G. Ravenhill to be Ensign. 91st: Lieut. W. Grant to be Adjutant. 102nd: Cadet W. J. Morse to be Ensign. 105th: Cadet J. Abercrombie to be Ensign. 106th: Lieut. W. A. C. Stuart-Menteth to be Lieutenant. 107th: Cadet W. F. Cavaye to be Ensign. 108th: Cadet H. F. S. Neill to be Ensign.

DEPOT BATTALION.—Capt. W. H. Paul to be Instructor of Musketry.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.—Surg. Major J. B. St. Croix Crosse to be Staff Surgeon Major.

HALF-PAY.—Major A. C. M'Barnet to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capts. G. H. Page, W. A. Baillie, J. Aytoun, and A. C. Begle to be Majors; Lieuts. O. Goldsmith and A. W. L. Mirehouse to be Captains.

BREVET.

Major-Gen. Sir J. Michel, K.C.B., to have the local rank of Lieutenant-General in British North America.

The undermentioned promotions to take place in her Majesty's Indian Military Forces, consequent on the decease of Gen. R. C. Andrée, Gen. M. Boyd, Lieut.-Gen. Sir S. W. Steele, K.C.B., and Major-Gen. J. Matthie: Lieut.-Generals F. Young and Sir T. M. Douglas to be Generals; Major-Generals C. D. Wilkinson, W. Taylor, and W. Watkins to be Lieutenant-Generals; Cols. J. E. Landers, E. R. Mainwaring, R. C. Moore, and A. Tucker to be Major-Generals.

The undermentioned officers, who have retired upon full pay, to have a step of honorary rank as follows:—Lieut.-Cols. S. R. Tickell, A. J. Kelso, and R. J. Edgell to be Colonels; Major W. Hornidge to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. A. Crawford to be Major.

ADMIRALTY.

The following flag promotions will be made in consequence of the death, on the 22nd ult., of Admiral Sir J. Stirling:—Vice-Admiral the Hon. Sir F. W. Grey, G.C.B., a Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty, to be Admiral on the active list; retired Vice-Admirals J. F. Studdert and C. Gordon to be retired Admirals; Rear-Admiral the Right Hon. Lord C. E. Paget, C.B., Secretary of the Admiralty, to be Vice-Admiral on the active list; Rear-Admiral R. Crozier, on the reserved list, to be Vice-Admiral on the same list; Capt. T. P. Thompson, a recipient of the good-service pension, becomes Rear-Admiral on the active list; and retired Capt. T. V. Watkins, a recipient of the captains' out-pension of Greenwich Hospital, becomes retired Rear-Admiral.

Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Renny, of the Bengal Staff Corps, has been made a C.B.

The Duke of Cambridge presided on Thursday week at the first annual meeting of the friends of the School for Army Officers' Daughters established at Bath.

The Duke of Somerset held a levée for the reception of officers of the Royal Navy and Marines on Thursday. He will hold further levées on Thursday next, and on Thursday, the 18th inst.

The maps and plans of the proposed Government Dockyard at Queenstown, Cork, have been received at the Admiralty Office at the former port, and are accompanied by an order for the immediate commencement of the works. The docks will extend from the eastern end of Haulbowline on to what is called the Spit Bank and Ratty Island.

A ball was given by Colonel Fraser and the officers of the 11th Hussars, in the Rotundo, Dublin, on Monday night, previous to the departure of this splendid regiment for England. It was attended by the élite of the city and county of Dublin. His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, Lady Wodehouse, and suite were present.

On Saturday last Major Hopkins was installed in the Chapel Royal, St. George, at Windsor, as Governor of the Military Knights, with the customary ancient ceremony, the vacancy having been occasioned by the death of Governor Major Edward Moore. At the same time Captain Scoltock was risen from the Lower to the Upper Foundation; and Captain Copeland was elected a Military Knight on the Lower Foundation.

The Special Committee on Armstrong and Whitworth guns assembled at Shoeburyness on Wednesday week, Sir William Armstrong and Mr. Whitworth being present, to make the trials of the two competitive 70-pounders, the shunt-gun and the Whitworth, at what has been named "oblique firing." The experiments were commenced with the intention of firing several rounds of steel shot and shell at two large iron plates, 4½-in. thick, set up on a strong supporting framework of balks of timber in a sloping position, so as to ascertain whether the round-headed shot or the flat-headed would pierce plates in this position. After six rounds had been fired, however, it was found that the large pieces of the shot when it broke up flew away to the right so far that the experiments were by no means without danger to the inhabitants of some cottages beyond the limits of the practice-ground, and the commandant, Colonel Eardley Wilmot, ordered the firing to cease. The results, though incomplete, were in favour of the round-headed shot; but the experiments offered several new and important points.

The deaths of the following officers were officially recorded at the War Office during the month of April:—Generals Sir J. W. Guise, G.C.B., Colonel of the 85th Light Infantry Regiment; and Sir E. Nicolls, K.C.B., Royal Marine Light Infantry. Colonel J. A. Vigors, 52nd Light Infantry Regiment; and the Hon. F. Cathcart, 92nd Highlanders. Majors G. E. Rose, Rifle Brigade; and C. Wilkinson, Royal Artillery. Captains H. P. M'Carthy, Royal Artillery; C. J. T. Duesbury, 66th Regiment; W. Smith, J. Lilley, Quartermaster, Grenadier Guards; and J. Baxter, Quartermaster, Royal Canadian Rifles. Lieutenants G. H. Bowyer, 1st Dragoon Guards; J. H. Urquhart and A. J. W. Cumming, Royal Engineers; W. Clegg, second battalion, 11th Regiment; T. O. Johnston, 40th Regiment; A. S. Milnes, Royal Artillery; J. Oliver, 33rd Regiment; R. Evans, 62nd Regiment; and H. Nason, 8th West India Regiment. Cornet T. J. Newnham, 6th Dragoons; Paymasters Major G. Moore, 32nd Regiment, and C. Barlow, 22nd Regiment. Adjutant F. Osborne, 62nd Regiment; Quartermaster J. E. Tripp, second battalion, 12th Regiment; Deputy-Assistant-Commissary-General G. F. Anderson; Assistant Surgeon H. O. Harvey, 21st Fusiliers. Chaplain the Venerable Archdeacon J. Timbrell, D.D. Deputy-Assistant-Superintendent of Stores, J. Gartlan.

THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.

The spring general meeting of the National Rifle Association will be held at Willis's Rooms, on Wednesday, May 17, at 2.30—Field Marshal his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, K.G., in the chair. The sixth annual prize meeting of the association will be held on Wimbledon-common, and the camp will be ready for occupation on Saturday, July 8. The shooting will commence on Monday, the 10th.

The War Office has published the report of General Walpole on the volunteer review at Brighton on Easter Monday. He finds some technical fault with the marching past; but has only praise for every other part of the affair. The Commander-in-Chief and Earl De Grey and Ripon both express their approval of the report.

The fortieth and last of the preliminary contests for the Inland Revenue cup took place on Monday week. The competitors were the Admiralty Company of the Civil Service and the 12th Middlesex (Barnet) Corps. The latter proved the winners by five points, and succeeded in making a score sufficiently high to entitle them to shoot (as one of the five companies in these contests) in the final match for the permanent holding of this much-prized volunteer trophy.

The sixth monthly competition for the gold champion badge of the West Middlesex took place, at Wormwood-scrubbs, on Thursday week. The badge was again won, for the third time, by Ensign Garner, A Company.

The 4th City of London (or "Foresters") Rifle Volunteers, a corps composed almost exclusively of members of the various orders of Foresters in the metropolis, has been struck off the records of the War Office. The corps, since its formation at the outset of the volunteer movement in 1859, has been in a languishing state, and its disbandment had been for some time in contemplation.

A rifle contest took place, last Saturday, on the practice-ground of the 21st Lancashire (Wigan), between five members of the first company of the 21st and five of the third or Heywood company of the 8th Lancashire (Bury). The match was won by Wigan by 18 points.

The returns in connection with the simultaneous Enfield rifle match, fired throughout the United Kingdom on the 8th ult., have been published. Upwards of one hundred battalions, including all volunteer regiments who make any pretensions to rifle-shooting, entered in this match, representing more than 200 competitors. In this match £260 was offered in nine prizes, and the following were the winners:—1st North York Administrative, first prize, £100: total, 1057 marks. 1st Gloucester (Bristol), second, £50: 1056. 1st City of Edinburgh, third, £25: 1021. 1st Staffordshire Administrative, fourth, £20: 1011. 1st Lanarkshire (Glasgow), fifth, £15: 1000. The Robin Hoods, sixth, £15: 996. The Herefordshire Administrative, seventh, £15: 986. 1st Cheshire Administrative, eighth, £10: 983. 8th and 21st Lancashire, ninth, £10: 981. The winners of prizes in the company match were as follow:—8th Aberdeenshire (Echt), first prize, £50; 12th North York (Wensleydale), second, £25; 3rd Ayrshire (Ayr), third, £20; 6th Inverness-shire (Kingussie), fourth, £15; 1st Gloucester (Bristol), fourth company, fifth, £10; 6th North York (Scarborough), sixth, £8; 6th West York (Huddersfield), first company, seventh, £5; 8th Stafford (Burton-on-Trent), eighth, £5. A sum of £75 was offered in seven prizes for the highest individual scores, and the following were the winners:—Ensign Coutts, 8th Aberdeenshire, first prize, £25; G. Smith, 3rd Aberdeenshire, second, £15; Ensign Winn, 12th North York, third, £10; Sergeant Whitehouse, 4th battalion Staffordshire, fourth, £10; Sergeant Overton, 5th battalion Administrative (4th Corps), fifth, £5; Sergeant Davidson, 1st Perthshire (thirteenth company), sixth, £5; Colour-Sergeant Donaldson, 3rd Lanarkshire, seventh, £5.

NEW BOOKS.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.

VIOLET OSBORNE. By LADY EMILY PONSONBY, Author of "The Discipline of Life," &c. 3 v.
A FAITHFUL WOMAN. By the Author of "Cousin Geoffrey," &c. 3 vols.
LISABEE'S LOVE STORY. By the Author of "John and I," "Dr. Jacob," &c. 3 vols.
CARRY'S CONFESSION. By the Author of "High Church," "Owen," "Mattie," &c. 3 vols.
BEATRICE. By JULIA KAVANAGH. 3 vols.
CHRISTIAN'S MISTAKE. By Author of John Halifax. "A more charming story has rarely been written."—Times.
THE CURATE OF SADBROOKE. 3 vols.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

DEDICATED TO THE RIGHT HON. W. E. GLADSTONE.
ready, Vol I., 8vo, with Portrait, and upwards of 100 Illustrations, price 21s., elegantly bound,

THE LIFE OF JOSIAH WEDGWOOD. From his Private Correspondence and Family Papers in the possession of Joseph Mayer, Esq., F.S.A.; Francis Wedgwood, Esq.; C. Darwin, Esq., M.A., F.R.S.; Miss Wedgwood, and other original sources; with an Introductory Sketch of the Art of Pottery in England. By ELIZA METEYARD.
"This is 'The Life of Wedgwood,' to the expected appearance of which I referred at Burslem."—Extract from a letter to the author by the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

Now ready at all the Libraries, in 2 vols., 21s.,

HISTORIC PICTURES. By A. BAILLIE COCHRANE, M.P.
"Two entertaining volumes. The work is a study of the more interesting moments of history."—Times.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

NEW NOVEL BY THE AUTHOR OF "LADY AUDLEY'S SECRET," &c.
On May 10, at all Libraries, in 3 vols.,

ONLY A CLOD.
JOHN MAXWELL and Co., 122, Fleet-street.

CHEAP EDITION OF "HENRY DUNBAR."
This day, in one vol., with Frontispiece and Vignette Titlepage, in cloth, price 6s., uniform with the Author's previous Works,

HENRY DUNBAR. By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret," &c.
Also ready, uniform with above, price 6s. each,
BROKEN TO HARNESS. By EDMUND YATES.
SACKVILLE CHASE. By C. J. COLLINS.
SIR VICTOR'S CHOICE. By ANNIE THOMAS.
JOHN MAXWELL and Co., 122, Fleet-street.

Now publishing, price One Shilling,

THE WATCH-TOWER, A New Monthly Magazine, Illustrated.
Office of "The Watch-Tower," 158, Fleet-street.

Now publishing, price 6d. monthly, Illustrated,

THE DAY OF REST. A Magazine for every Home and for all Classes.
London: WARD, LOCK, and TYLER, 158, Fleet-street.

Ninth Edition, with 26 Plates, price 1s., postage-free,

STAINED GLASS, by the Improved Transfer Process of Diaphanie; easily performed by any person, at small cost.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

New Edition, with Drawings in Colour, price 2s. 6d.; post-free, 2s. 10d.,

A PRACTICAL TREATISE ON LANDSCAPE PAINTING AND SKETCHING FROM NATURE. By JOHN CHASE, M.W.C.I. Edited by the Rev. J. Harris, M.A.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st.

Price 1s., postage-free, 1s. 2d., with 14 Plates,

MONOGRAMS and CYPHERS, Modern and Gothic (Handbooks of), by VICTOR TOUCHE.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Third Edition, price 1s., postage-free, 1s. 2d., with 14 Plates,

ALPHABETS and DESIGNS of DIFFERENT PERIODS, for the Use of Illuminators and Decorators, by F. C. WOOD.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street.

Price 6d., postage-free,

PHOTO-CHROMOGRAPHY; an Easy Method of Colouring Photographs (producing a beautifully enamelled appearance), which may be practised by any person unaccustomed to drawing and ignorant of art. By M. C. C.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, W.

Fifth Edition, with 12 Diagrams printed in colours, price 2s.,

PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAITS, Draperies, Backgrounds, &c. A guide to Painting in Water Colours; to which is added Instructions for Painting in Oil Colours. By A. N. RINTOUL.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st.W.

POSTAGE-STAMPS.—A priced Catalogue of FOREIGN POSTAGE-STAMPS sent post-free for two stamps by W. LINCOLN, jun., 462, New Oxford-street, London. Standard Guide to Stamp Collecting, post-free, 1s.

ATLASES, MAPS, and GLOBES.—Now ready, a CATALOGUE of Selected Atlases, Maps, and Globes published or sold by EDWARD STANFORD, 6, Charing-cross, London, S.W., Agent for the sale of the Ordnance Maps, Geological Survey Maps, and Admiralty Charts. May be had free upon application, or per post for one stamp.

WHAT WILL THIS COST TO PRINT? is a question often occurring to literary men, public characters, and persons of benevolent intentions. An immediate answer to the inquiry may be obtained. A Specimen Book of Types and information for authors sent, on application, by RICHARD BARRETT, 13, Mark-lane, London.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS and HERALDIC DEVICES, designed and engraved as gems of art. Note-paper and envelopes stamped in colour relief, and illuminated in the most elegant style. At Rodrigues', 42, Piccadilly, W.

RODRIGUES' CARTE de VISITE ALBUMS, in handsome antique morocco and russia bindings; also in ormolu, walnut, and coromandel. Albums for monograms, crests, and postage-stamps.—At Henry Rodrigues', 42, Piccadilly, W.

A VISITING CARD-PLATE ENGRAVED, and 100 CARDS PRINTED, for 4s. 6d. Wedding Cards and Envelopes, Ball Programmes and Bills of Fare printed and stamped with Crest or Address at HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

IF YOU TRAVEL send for BUSSEY SMITH and CO.'s Illustrated Catalogue of PORTMANTEAUS, Trunks, Travelling-bags. Also Field, Marine, and Opera Glasses, unrivalled for excellence, cheapness, and choice. 483, New Oxford-street, W.C.

TO THE LADIES OF ENGLAND.—Miss TALBOT, thirty years Lady's Maid in the highest circles of England, Paris, and Spain, will forward, on receipt of thirty stamps, full directions in the new and beautiful art of getting-up the FACE and EYES in the most brilliant style, with other recipes for the Toilette, standing unrivalled. Address, Miss Talbot, Folkingham, Lincolnshire.

WHITE and SOUND TEETH are indispensable to personal attraction, and to health and longevity, by the proper mastication of food.
ROWLANDS' ODONTO, OR PEARL DENTIFRICE, preserves and imparts a pearl-like whiteness to the Teeth, eradicates tartar and spots of incipient decay, strengthens the gums, and gives a pleasing fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 9d. per box. Sold at 20, Hatton-garden; and by Chemists and Perfumers.
Ask for ROWLANDS' ODONTO.

NAPOLEON PRICE'S REGISTERED GOLDEN OIL is the only article that really possesses nutritious virtues for promoting a luxuriant growth of the human hair. Beware of an imitation. The genuine is sold by the Sole Proprietors, Price and Co., 27, Old Bond-st., 3s. 6d., 5s., 7s., and 10s.

MILK of ROSES—PIESSE and LUBIN. This exquisite Emulsion has been a favourite preserver of beauty for many years. It is the best and simplest remedy and preventive of sunburn and freckling. Be sure to ask for Piesse and Lubin's Milk of Roses. Sold by Fashionable Druggists and Perfumers. 2s. 6d. Laboratory of Flowers, 2, New Bond-street, London.

GREY HAIR.—248, High Holborn, London. ALEX. ROSS'S HAIR DYE produces a perfect colour immediately it is used. It is permanent, and perfectly natural in effect. Price 3s. 6d.; sent post for 54 stamps.

NEW MUSIC.

THE GOOD-BYE AT THE DOOR. Ballad. By S. GLOVER. Sent for 18 stamps. This truly beautiful Song, now established as one of the leading favourites of the season, may be had in the key of C for mezzo-soprano, and in E flat for tenor.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

E. L. HIME'S PARFAIT AMOUR. Romance for Piano. Played by Master Willie Pape before the Prince and Princess of Wales. This celebrated Romance has already run through fourteen editions. Sent for 15 stamps.
DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

E. L. HIME'S ROSE LEAVES. Ballad without words. Will rival the successful Romance, "Parfait Amour." Master Willie Pape will play "Rose Leaves" at his Concert. Sent for 15 stamps.—DUFF and HODGSON, Oxford-st.

E. L. HIME'S BROOK, for Piano (suggested by Tennyson's poem), sent for 18 stamps. E. L. Hime's Transcription of "The Bailiff's Daughter of Islington" sent for 15 stamps.—DUFF and HODGSON, 20, Oxford-street.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S LIST OF NEW MUSIC:—
THE MOUNTAIN WANDERER. Song. By G. Linley. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
ALL, ALL AROUND IS STILL. Song. By Miss M. Lindsay (Mrs. J. W. Bliss). 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
THE DAY ITS LAST GOOD-NIGHT HATH SAID. Song. By Miss M. Lindsay (Mrs. J. W. Bliss). 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
BEATRICE. For Piano. By G. F. West. 4s.; free for 25 stamps.
THE POSTMAN OF MAY-FAIR. Song. By W. Randall. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
TICK, TICK, TICK! Song. By Vance. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
GODFREY'S UNITED SERVICE QUADRILLE. For Orchestra, 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
THE WREATH. For Piano. By G. F. West. 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
SEAWEEDS. Song. By Gitana. 2s. 6d.; free for 16 stamps.
HILL'S VOCAL TRIOS for equal voices, Nos. 1 to 8. Each Twopence.
SNOW FLAKES. For Piano. By Brinley Richards. 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
THE PILGRIM'S PATH. Sacred Song. By Brinley Richards. 3s.; free for 19 stamps.
6, New Burlington-street, London, W. Agents for India—Messrs. Burkinyoung and Co., Calcutta.

NEW PIANOFORTE MUSIC. The following are some of the most popular Pianoforte Pieces lately published by EWER and CO.

BLUMNER, S.—Am Meer. Fantasiestück (dedicated to her Royal Highness the Princess Mary of Cambridge)	4s. 0d.
COENEN, W.—Chant du Barde. Morceau de Concert	4s. 0d.
" Le Papillon au reveil. Fantasie	4s. 0d.
HARDISTY, J. E.—Abendroth. 3s.; Sonnenaufgang	3s. 0d.
KORNATZKY, F.—Le reveil des oiseaux. Improvisation brillante	4s. 0d.
LEUPOLD, F.—Soleil couchant. Nocturno	3s. 0d.
LISZT, F.—Ave Maria (d'Arcadelt)	3s. 0d.
" Hallelujah (d'Arcadelt)	4s. 0d.
O'LEARY, ARTHUR.—L'Adieu. Chanson allemande	3s. 0d.
" Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," transcribed	3s. 0d.
" Schumann's "Fröhlicher Landmann," transcribed	3s. 0d.
SCHULTHES, W.—La Regata, 4s.; Esmeralda	4s. 0d.

SPINDLER, F.—Chanson populaire, 4s.; Le Carillon, 3s.; Une feuille de rose, 3s.; Un conte de fées, 3s.; Valse aerienne, 3s.; Une rose sans épines, 4s.
WOLLENHAUPT, H. A.—Marche hongroise, 3s.; Valse héroique, 4s.; Caprice aérien, 4s.; Un fil de perles, 4s.; Valse gracieuse, 4s.
Sold by all Music-sellers in town or country.
London: EWER and CO., Musical Library, 87, Regent-street.

THE SOLDIER'S LEGACY: OPERA DA CAMERA. The Libretto by John Oxenford; the Music by G. A. MACFARREN, as performed at Mr. German Reed's Gallery of Illustration, by Miss Robertine Henderson, Miss Emily Pitt, Mr. Whiffin, and Mr. Shaw.
"It is impossible to enumerate the many beauties of this operetta."—Musical Times.
"Fresh, pretty, and harmonious, this work will give greater pleasure than many a grand opera."—Punch.
"This operetta will gratify the most refined taste, and may be agreeably represented even by a party of four amateurs in a drawing-room."—Daily News.
Price of the complete Opera, Six Shillings net.
The following Ballads are also published separately:—"O, Welcome, Young Soldier!" "I never knew, my heart ho'd fast;" "A simple tune sometimes we hear;" "You promised to come with the dawn of day." Half price, 1s. 3d. each.
London: EWER and CO., Musical Library, 87, Regent-street.

HATTON'S MOST SUCCESSFUL NEW SONG.

FAIR AND FALSE. 2s. 6d. Post-free for sixteen stamps.
EWER and CO.'S Musical Library, 87, Regent-street, London.

THE FIVE-SHILLING ILLUMINATING COLOUR BOX contains twelve superfine Colours, body, white, gold, aluminium, and brushes.—J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-st., London; and all Artists' Colourmen, &c.

THE PHOTOCHROMATIC COLOUR BOX, enabling any person, without a knowledge of painting or drawing, to colour photographs, producing a beautiful enamelled appearance, with twelve colours, all materials, specimen, and full directions, price 10s. 6d.—London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street; and all Artists' Colourmen, Stationers, &c.

NEW OPERA and FIELD GLASS, and the RECONNOITERER GLASS, 10s. 10d., sent free.—This "Tourist's Favourite" distinctly shows small windows ten miles off, landscape at thirty miles, Jupiter's moons, &c.—The Marquis of Carmarthen: "The reconnoiterer is very good." Earl of Breadalbane: "I find it all you say, and wonderfully powerful for so very small a glass." Lord Garvagh: "Remarkably good." Rev. Lord Scarsdale "approves of it." Lord Gifford, of Ampney: "Most useful." Sir Digby Cayley: "It gives me complete satisfaction, and is wonderfully good." Major Starkey, of Wrenbury Hall: "Quite as powerful as that for which I gave £5 5s." Captain Sendey, Royal Small-arms Factory, Enfield: "I have found it effective at the 1000 yards' range." F. H. Fawkes, Esq., of Farnley: "I never before, although I have tried many, met a glass combining so much power for its size with so much clearness." The Field: "We have found it fully equal to others which had cost more than four times its price." Notes and Queries: "What tourist will now start without such an indispensable companion?" The celebrated "Hythe" Glass shows bullet-marks at 1200 yards, and men at 3½ miles. Price 31s. 6d. All the above, respectively bearing the registered trade marks, "Salom," "Reconnoiterer," and "Hythe," are only to be had direct from SALOM and CO., 98, Prince's-street, Edinburgh.
No agents of any kind anywhere.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.—OPERA-GLASSES in every variety of form and mounting, matchless for their great magnifying power and sharpness of definition, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23A, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street), W. Sole Agent for the celebrated Field and Opera Glasses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

THE DERBY.—"The best and cheapest Race-Glass is the newly-constructed one manufactured by Callaghan." Price, including sling case, 50s. Post-office orders have immediate attention.—WM. CALLAGHAN, Optician, 23A, New Bond-street, W. (corner of Conduit-street).

MAGIC LANTERNS and DISSOLVING VIEWS. The £5 Set of Magic, Microscopic, and Phantasmagoria Apparatus comprises a 3½ in. improved Achromatic Lantern, producing 12 ft. figures; a microscope, throwing upon a screen animalculæ; ten slides, containing forty subjects; eight movable comic slides; one panorama, with shipping in motion; one photograph; and one chromotrope, with view and revolving watermill. S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

THE GLORIES of the HEAVENS seen by a NEW TELESCOPE for £5, which will also distinguish the features of a man four miles, and time by a church clock ten miles. Persons are invited to apply for a diagram, with other particulars, and eight sheets of testimonials from scientific and other gentlemen, including Lord Rosse. Sent free by book post. S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly. High-power Pocket Telescopes, Opera, Race, Field, and general Outdoor Glasses.

POCKET BAROMETER, COMPASS, and THERMOMETER, all in one, the size of a watch, for telling the weather, the heights of mountains, direction of winds, and temperature of the air. Guaranteed for twelve months. Price £4 15s., sent free.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-st., Piccadilly.

THE MESSRS. SOLOMONS' NEWLY-INVENTED TINTED SPECTACLES are patronised by the majority of the nobility, including Viscount Palmerston. They give by day and night extraordinary relief to weak, dim, and defective vision.—39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

DEAFNESS.—The SOUND MAGNIFIER and INVISIBLE VOICE CONDUCTOR, for Deafness. It fits into the ear not perceptible, removes singing noises in the head, and enables deaf persons to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

STAINED-GLASS WINDOWS for CHURCHES and DWELLINGS.
HEATON, BUTLER, and BAYNE'S New Catalogue, containing 18 pages of Illustrations, including completed Windows of the highest character, also Church Decorations and Memorial Brasses, now publishing, 3s. 6d., post-free.—Heaton, Butler, and Bayne, New King-street, Covent-garden, W.C.

W. F. THOMAS and CO.'S PATENT SEWING MACHINES.—Prize Medal 1862.—These machines, made by the original Patentees and Introducers of the Invention, stand foremost and unrivalled for all practical purposes. They are guaranteed to perform their work efficiently, with exceeding rapidity, regularity, and durability, and give no trouble. The stitching (alike on both sides of the material) is without cord or ridge, and the thread cannot be pulled out.—66, Newgate-street, and Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London.

GROVER and BAKER'S, 150, Regent-street, London, W., 59, Bold-street, Liverpool, celebrated ELASTIC-STITCH SEWING-MACHINES, with all the latest improvements, are the best and simplest ever offered. For Family Use or Dress and Mantle Making they are positively unrivalled, doing plain and ornamental work with equal facility. They stitch, hem, fell, tuck, gather, braid, quilt, cord, bind, and embroider, are very easily managed, and not liable to derangement. One hundred thousand now in use in all parts of the world. Every machine guaranteed. Instruction gratis. Illustrated Prospectus and samples of work gratis and post-free.—Grover and Baker, 150, Regent-street, W.

OLD MARSALA WINE, guaranteed the finest imported, free from acidity or heat, and much superior to low-priced Sherry. One guinea per dozen. A genuine, really fine old Port, 36s. per dozen. Terms cash. Three dozen, rail paid.—W. D. WATSON, Wine Merchant, 73, Great Russell-st. (corner of Bloomsbury-sq.), London, W.C.—Established 1841.

PORT and SHERRY, 12s. per Dozen; Claret and Sauterne, 10s. per Dozen.—VICTORIA WINE COMPANY, 63, Lower Thames-street, E.C. Two samples sent for 12 stamps.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY v. COGNAC BRANDY.—This celebrated old Irish Whisky rivals the finest French Brandy. It is pure, mild, mellow, delicious, and very wholesome. Sold in bottles, 3s. 8d., at the retail houses in London; by the agents in the principal towns in England; or wholesale at 8, Great Windmill-street, London, W.—Observe the red seal, pink label, and cork branded "Kinahan's LL Whisky."

ALLSOPP'S PALE ALE.—The MARCH BREWINGS of the above Ale are now being SUPPLIED in the finest condition, in Bottles and in Casks, by FINDLATER, MACKIE, and CO., 33, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

SAUCE.
LEA and PERRINS'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE, pronounced by Connoisseurs "THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE."
None genuine without name on wrapper, label, bottle, and stopper.
Sold by CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Barclay and Sons, and by Grocers and Oilmen universally.

CHOCOLAT-MENIER. The best aliment for Breakfast.

Yellow wrapper	2s. 0d.	per lb.
Chamois ditto	2s. 6d.	"
Pink ditto	3s. 0d.	"
Blue ditto	3s. 6d.	"
Flavoured with Vanille.
Green wrapper	2s. 6d.	per lb.
Lilac ditto	3s. 0d.	"
Bronze ditto	3s. 6d.	"
White ditto	4s. 0d.	"

Sold, in ¼ lb. packets, by all respectable Houses.
Wholesale, 23, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden.

FISON'S PEARL SEMOULE is Delicious, Wholesome, Economical, and Extremely Nutritious.
For the Dinner Table it gives a variety of choice dishes.
For Invalids it is very delicate, light, and digestible.
For Children, prepared with milk, it is a perfect diet.
For Infants it is much prized; they will often thrive upon it when everything else fails.
Sold in Packets by Grocers, Chemists, &c. London Wholesale Agents: HICKS BROS., Maiden-lane, E.C. Works, Ipswich.

OSWEGO

PREPARED CORN, for Puddings, Custards, Blancmanges, &c., Manufactured and Perfected by T. KINGSFORD and SON, of Oswego, State of New York.
It is the original preparation from the farina of maize, established 1848, commands the highest price from the trade, and offers the best value to the consumer.
It is stronger than any of the imitations, has a finer grain, and is more delicate.
The Oswego has the natural golden tinge, and not the chalk white produced by artificial process.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

LETTERS PATENT, 1823. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862.

ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS is the most valuable preparation for making pure and delicate gruel. Modern chemistry has shown that this food is easy of digestion and rich in nutriment.
ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY makes a delicious custard-pudding, directions for which have been given by Mons. C. E. Francatelli. It is appreciated as a non-inflammatory drink, is excellent for mothers nursing, and has long been used with great success for rearing children by hand.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

KEEN'S GENUINE MUSTARD. First Manufactured A.D. 1742, or more than ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY YEARS.
This well-known brand of Mustard has been sold by the trade of Great Britain for more than a century, and is held in high estimation for its purity and pungency of flavour. The qualities that are recommended for family use are the Double Superfine and the Genuine, both of which can be obtained from most Family Grocers, in canisters of 1 lb. and ½ lb. each.
KEEN, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

PURITY AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY.

COLMANS' PRIZE-MEDAL MUSTARD bears their trade mark, the Bull's Head, on each package.
It is the only Mustard which obtained a Prize Medal at the Great Exhibition, 1862.
For domestic purposes nothing finer can be produced. Their "genuine" and "double superfine" are the qualities particularly recommended.
Retailed in every town throughout the United Kingdom.
J. and J. Colman, 26, Cannon-street, London.

COLMAN'S STARCH obtained Prize Medals, International Exhibitions, 1851, 1862.
Report—"Superior Quality, with large Production."

PURVEYORS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH, used in the Royal Laundry, and awarded the Prize Medal, 1862.

"IT IS THE BEST I HAVE EVER USED or seen in use," writes Mr. Bladon, Refreshment-rooms, House of Lords, where FLOWER'S NON-MERCURIAL PLATE-POWDER has been in use the last seven years. Sold in boxes, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each, by Chemists and Ironmongers; Wholesale, by Crosse and Blackwell, 21, Soho-square, W.

SPRING.—WATTS'S ALKALINE SOLUTION OF SARSAPARILLA.—This fine purifier of the Blood in indigestion, scrofulous affections, chronic rheumatism, &c., so frequently prescribed by the medical profession, is to be had wholesale of Messrs. Barclay and Sons, Farringdon-street, and retail of all Druggists. In bottles at 4s. 6d. and 10s. 6d. each.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA, an excellent remedy for Gout and Stomachic Disorders of every kind and as a mild aperient for delicate constitutions.—172, New Bond-street, London; and all Chemists.

CONSUMPTION.—DR. CHURCHILL'S Successful Treatment of Consumption, Diseases of the Chest, Chronic Cough, General Debility, Loss of Appetite, &c., by Hypophosphites, prepared by H. H. Swann, of Paris. Full prospectuses, testimonials, and medicines, of DINNEFORD and CO., Chemists, 172, New Bond-street, W., wholesale and retail agents.

DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS give instant relief of Asthma, Consumption, Colds, Coughs, &c.
Price 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. per Box, of all Druggists.

ALL afflicted with WEAK EYES may obtain instant relief by using Dr. WARNER'S EYE-WATER; it removes all inflammation arising from cold, dust, or constitutional causes.—Sold in bottles, 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., by Sanger, Oxford-street; Prout, Strand; Butler, Cheapside; Hooper, London Bridge.

LUDGATE-HILL RAILWAY (now opened).
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.
SILKS, DRESSES, MANTLES, FAMILY LINENS.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. New Checked Glacés, 14 yards, £1 15s. 6d.
Patterns of Rich Silks.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

NEW SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE. New Striped Glacés, 14 yards, £2 2s.
Patterns of New Ribbed Silks.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

BLACK FIGURED SILKS.—PATTERNS FREE.
A large assortment of New Patterns, £2 5s. 6d. for 14 yards.
Black Gros Grains, Black Gros de Suez.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, 9, Ludgate-hill.

SUMMER CHALLIS.—Patterns free. Checks and Striped Summer Mohairs, a large variety of useful Dresses cut by the yard.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

LENO and MUSLIN CURTAINS.—Double borders, 4 yards long, 12s. 6d. per pair. A cheap lot of New Patterns, 18s. 6d. 4½ yards long.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.

FAMILY LINEN DEPARTMENT.
JOHN HARVEY and SON, Ludgate-hill.
Linen and Cotton Sheetings, best makes, all widths.
Irish and Scotch Table Linen, Napkins, and Slips,
Made and Marked with Crest or Initial, and Warranted for Wear.

FORD'S NEW JACKETS FOR LADIES, at 76, Oxford-street, opposite the Pantheon, London, W., comprise a large number of beautifully braided patterns in Silk, Cashmere, Cloth, and Velvet, at various prices, all of which are arranged in sizes to fit ladies without delay.

FORD'S MARGUERITE JACKET, registered. Prints illustrative of the shape and design of this charming Jacket are prepared to send post-free. In general it is semi-fitting, may be worn open or closed, and is adapted, according to material and ornament, for Morning Wear, Dinner Dress, and Evening Home Parties. It is also specially suited to the occasional requirements of married ladies. Ready in different sizes, in Silk, from 21s. to 3 gs.; Cashmere or Cloth, 18s. to 2 gs.; Velvet, 2 gs. to 4½ gs.—Thos. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S RICH SILK MANTLES display the best taste and newest designs of the Season, in Glacé and Gros Grain Silks, from 38s. 6d. to 10 guineas. The New Grenadine Bernouses, Lace, and other thin textures, from 14s. 6d. to 5 guineas. Carriage Wraps; Waterproof Cloaks warranted to resist rain, from 21s.—Thos. Ford, 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S GUINEA JACKETS, to wear open or closed, beautifully braided; materials silk, cashmere, and fine cloth; are especially worthy of notice. Ford's New Jacket Rooms exhibit the largest and cheapest stock in Europe.—Thos. Ford, 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S HALF-GUINEA JACKETS, in cloth and cashmere, in tight-fitting, Zouave, and loose shapes. Immense numbers of these are sold. Although remarkably cheap, they are good, and such as any lady may wear. Patterns and illustrations free.—Thos. Ford, 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

FORD'S RIDING-HABITS, 3 to 8 guineas. Quality and fit guaranteed. Riding-trousers, 21s. per pair. Illustrations of the new Riding-jacket, with Patterns of Cloth and Directions for Self-measurement, post-free.—T. Ford and Co., 76, Oxford-street (opposite the Pantheon), London, W.

JAMES LOCKE and CO., the SCOTCH WAREHOUSES, by appointment to her Majesty the Queen and her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales.
117, 119, and 127, Regent-street, London, W.
Waterproof Tweed Cloaks, Walking and Yachting Jackets, Shawls, Rugs, and Wrappers of every description. Shetland Shawls, Veils, and Hose. Serges, Fine Tweeds, and Linsey Woolseys for Ladies' Travelling and Seaside Dresses.
Patterns forwarded free.

NEW SILKS, DRESS FABRICS, &c.

GRANT and GASK invite an inspection of their large collection of new French Fancy SILKS, rich Silk Robes, Court Trains, Satins in all the new colours, Moire Antiques, made-up Skirts, Mantles, Shawls, Evening Dresses, Organdie Muslins, &c.
Several very cheap lots of rich Silk Robes and Fancy Silks, from 2½ to 4½ guineas Full Dress of 14 yards; greatly under value.
Very superior Lyons Foulard Silks, 38s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Richest Moire Antiques, at 4½ guineas the Full Dress.
The Made-up Skirt Department contains a beautiful collection of Novelties for the Season.
Several hundred pieces of French Brilliantines and Printed Cambrics much below the usual prices.
PATTERNS FORWARDED FREE.
58, 59, 60, 61, 62, Oxford-street; 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street, London.
Illustrated Fashion Books for the season forwarded free.

REDMAYNE and CO. have the honour to announce the COMPLETION of their ALTERATIONS, and of their arrangements for the Spring Trade. Every department is now supplied with the latest novelties. R. and Co. further respectfully call attention to the new department they have added—viz., General Mourning and Family Household Linen.
19 and 20, New Bond-street; and 35, Conduit-street.

SEWELL and CO. beg to inform Ladies that their made-up ROBE DEPARTMENT is now replete with all the Novelties for the coming Season, including THE NEW SILK WARP CORAIL CLOTH (Warranted to wear),
"Mexicaine" Lustre, and Glacé Cloths in great variety.
COMPTON HOUSE, Frith-street, Soho-square.

MOIRES ANTIQUES.—SEWELL and CO. have the largest selection of Spitalfields Moires Antiques, in White, Black, and all the New Colours, at 4½ guineas the Full Dress.—Compton House, Frith-street, Soho-square, W.

MARRIAGE TROUSSEAUX and LAYETTES.—CHRISTIAN and RATHBONE respectfully solicit an inspection of their extensive and recherché Stock, combining Parisian taste with the excellence and durability of material for which their House has been noted for upwards of seventy years.
Christian and Rathbone, 11, Wigmore-street, W.

NEW FRENCH SILKS, in COLOURS and BLACK, at 2s. 6½d. the yard, made of bright Italian silk, with the guarantee for durability of eminent firms in Paris and Lyons. The Silk Department includes all the richest and most costly productions. Patterns sent free.—HARVEY and CO., Lambeth House, Westminster-bridge, S.

IMPORTANT TO WOOLLEN BUYERS. Tailors and others desirous of saving 5 per cent every purchase, should go to JAMES PLATT and CO., 78, St. Martin's-lane, and 28 and 29, Cranbourn-st., who return to Cash Buyers 1s. out of 20s. N.B. Foreign Orders honestly, carefully, and promptly executed.

SHIRTS.—Morning and Evening Shirts of every description, fitting with precision and ease, at moderate prices. Flannel Shirts and Dressing-gowns.
CAPPER and WATERS, 26, Regent-street, London, S.W.

SHIRTS, SEASON 1865.—A large variety of new Patterns in fancy Cashmere and Cambric Shirtings, made from the finest materials, adapted for Spring and Summer Shirts. BOWRING, ARUNDEL, and CO., 11 and 50, Fenchurch-street, E.C.; 11, Old Bond-street, W., London.

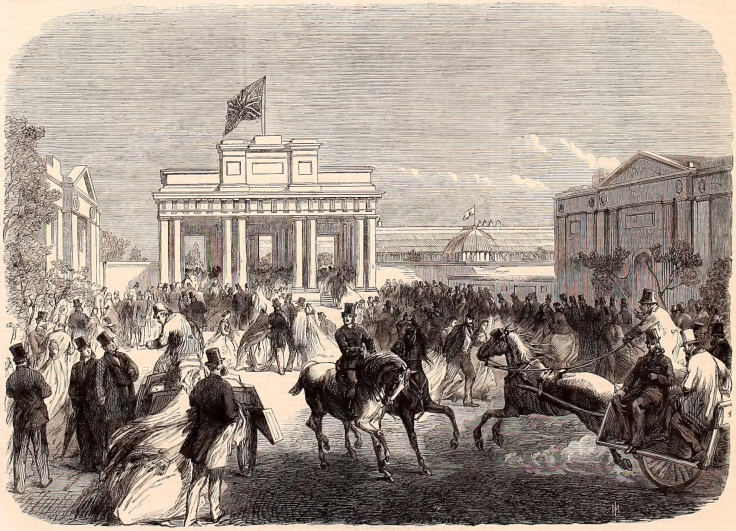
WANTED.—LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, &c. Mr. or Mrs. A. DAVIS, 2, Crawford-st., Baker-st., W., attends Ladies and Gentlemen privately, to purchase Wearing Apparel, Uniforms, Jewellery, Diamonds, Plate, &c.; or, Parcels being sent, Post-office orders remitted the same day. Est. 64 years. Terms cash.

WANTED.—Left-off Clothes, Uniforms, Jewellery, and Miscellaneous Property, &c. Highest price given. Ladies and gentlemen waited on. Address Mr. or Mrs. D. DAVIS, 46, Marylebone-lane, Oxford-street, W. Parcels being sent, Post-office orders remitted. Established 1800.

WANTED.—Left-off Clothes, Uniforms, Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. G. HYAM, 10, Beak-street, Regent-street, W.; or, Parcels being sent, the utmost value in cash instantly remitted. Established 1820.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1865.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.



No. 1315.—VOL. XLVI. SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1865. WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

"FAINT heart never won fair lady." We cheerfully offer our tribute of admiration to the courageous national self-assertion out of which has grown the Dublin Exhibition. To a people of less spirit the lions in the way were numerous and terrible enough to have scared them back from the enterprise, however tempting. They who represented Ireland in this matter seemed "to let 'I dare not' wait upon 'I would.'" They looked upon difficulties as simply the measure of the energy and skill required to surmount them, and, valuing the end, as they were right in doing, at a higher rate than they feared the responsibilities to be incurred in pushing towards it, they have justified their daring by their achievement. All honour to them, as well for the boldness of their decision as for the masterly vigour with which they have carried it into effect!

There are several considerations, besides that to which we have just adverted, which help to excite interest in the present Exhibition. Whatever will legitimately minister to Ireland's self-respect should be warmly welcomed by all who are or who ought to be concerned for her welfare. Her history has certainly been one of misfortune. Until comparatively recent times she suffered grievously from the application to her of a mistaken regimen. Her spirit of enterprise was sorely bruised precisely at that period of her growth when it needed every encouragement. Her connection with this country, inevitable as it was and is, instead of being made to strengthen her highest aspirations, was so used as to enfeeble them by depriving them of the stimulus of hope. When political wrongs had ceased to harass her she was overtaken by worse calamities. Famine smote her children, and on the heels of famine came fever. Even free trade damaged for a while her commercial prospects. One rejoices to find that her long succession of trials has not utterly exhausted her national emulation; that she has not resigned her claim to vie with other countries in great undertakings; and that she, too, can take her turn with the proudest of them in providing instruction and entertainment deserving of being characterised as "international." Moreover, the greater credit is due to her for her spirited determination, because she is fully sensible that in the competition which she has invited she is not herself likely to hold high rank. The best treasures of her fine-art exhibition—and we are glad to know that both in number and value the collection is first rate—are not the work of her own children; and in art-industry, the illustrations furnished by a people mainly employed in pastoral and agricultural pursuits cannot be expected to rival the choicest products of the factories of Europe. She has more knowledge to gain from the contributions of others than to impart by means of her own; and the fact that she has not been deterred by that consideration does honour to the breadth and soundness of her judgment. Perhaps, too, she is to be congratulated on being wholly absorbed for the time being by an object which will divert her attention from her own condition and give her a taste of the world's homage and praise. As hostess on so great an occasion, she will naturally experience a glow of self-respect—a temporary exhilaration as much needed as, no doubt, it will prove beneficial.

It is not to be concluded, however, that the Dublin Exhibition is interesting only, or chiefly, on account of its probable reflex influence upon the leading people of Ireland. Quite irrespectively of any reviving effect it may be supposed to have upon them, it promises to take a high place on its own account. Ireland is not wholly inexperienced in projects of this nature. The Cork Exhibition in 1852, and the Industrial Exhibition at Dublin in 1853 showed that in this, as in other goths of enterprise, Irishmen, wherever resolutely bent upon it, are quite capable of winning distinction. The last, it is true, was got by the magnificent liberality, patriotism, and capacity for business of one man—William Dargan. But the gratitude evinced by his fellow-countrymen gave them some claim to place his success to the credit of the nation, and to take honest pride in the position to which he had raised it. It is unnecessary, however, to revert to the past. Ireland may confidently challenge a verdict on the present. The Dublin International Exhibition gives every preliminary indication of being fully competent to stand the test of criticism in its least compassionate mood. There is no reason apparent as yet which should compel it to fall back upon the mere good-nature of its judges. The general beauty of the scene; the convenience, as well as grace, of its internal arrangement; the great variety and, in many instances, the striking novelty of manufactures exhibited, give evidence of the progress of industrial ingenuity in all parts of the world; and the display, as we have already hinted, the brilliant display of statuary and paintings, in regard to which one hardly knows whether to praise most highly the productions of the artists or the skilful manner in which they are set off to the best advantage, conspire to render the Exhibition worthy of any country, and to make it eminently attractive by its own merits. It is, therefore, very easy to appreciate fully what it will be when seen in its complete development. Some days must yet elapse before every trace of confusion has been effaced. In this respect the Dublin Exhibition is subject to the same inevitable delays as all others have been, not excepting the last in Paris. It is possible to give a shrewd guess as a general conclusion, and we venture to assert that, whatever there may or may not be amongst the yet undetermined probabilities of the future, there will not be found amongst them any element of failure. All the leading features of the design have been worked out—a good proportion of the details are distinctly visible—we know, to a certain extent, what the whole will be—and enough is revealed to give assurance to the public that, even should anything is reduced to order, the tout ensemble will be impressive, and the several parts of which it is composed will invite close inspection and repay study.

THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION: WEST ENTRANCE TO THE BUILDING.—SEE PAGE 453.

The Exhibition was formally inaugurated on Tuesday last by his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, representing, for the occasion, her Majesty the Queen. Loyalty to the Sovereign is a sentiment dear to the Irish people, and it has never been more anticipated, it was enthusiastically displayed on Monday. Dublin adjourned to Kingstown to welcome the Prince to the shores of Hibernia, and the reception given him on landing, and on the way to the Viceregal Lodge, was conspicuous in its heartiness. The ceremonial preceding the declaration by Ulster King-at-Arms that the Exhibition was open—the presentation of and answers to the addresses—the procession, the music, choral and choral-and-orchestral, all had their part in the purpose of remarking that everything went off with éclat. Nearly ten thousand visitors were present; and, if their delight could be measured by the lusty and protracted cheers with which they saluted the Prince and those who appeared round the building, it may be truly described by the hackneyed but not inexpressive phrase, "nothing was left to be desired." In short, the inauguration was complete in every detail—a success. It was interpreted as a prophecy. May it be fulfilled! The Exhibition Committee may well have felt the hope to which they gave modest utterance in their address to the Prince—"we trust that the Exhibition, at whose commencement your Royal Highness so graciously presides, may prove not unproductive of beneficial results, and that it may justify the hopes of those who, in honest labour and in self-reliant enterprise, recognise the true sources of national prosperity." In this hope we cordially share.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL INTELLIGENCE.

FRANCE.

The Emperor reached Algiers on the 8rd inst., and met with an enthusiastic reception. On the same day he issued a proclamation to the inhabitants of Algeria informing them of the object in visiting the colony is to learn in person their interests, and to assure them of the protection of the mother country. He will do his best to overcome the two great obstacles in their path—viz., a virgin soil and a warlike people. He calls upon them to cultivate the land which they cultivate, and to treat the Arabs as fellow-countrymen. This proclamation was followed by one addressed to the Arabs. In it the Emperor informs them that it is useless to struggle against the domination of France. He recommends to them their Prophet says, "God gives power to whomsoever he will;" and that he (the Emperor) comes to exercise power in their interest. Place confidence, he concludes, in your sovereign, who is in accordance with the Koran, that what God directs is well directed. His Majesty's health is excellent, and he is busy giving audiences, visiting the public establishments, and making excursions in the environs of Algiers. He has paid a visit to Mitidjah, a town built on the ruins of an ancient city, and had an enthusiastic reception there. Telegrams pass daily between the Emperor and the Empress.

The Empress has addressed a private letter to Mrs. Lincoln condoling with her on the death of her husband. The letter was answered by her Majesty to Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow when she received them at the Tuileries on Sunday, and it is now published in the Moniteur.

A decree of the Empress has been issued, approving the decision of the municipality of Issonville for the erection of a statue of the late Duke de Morny in that town.

The Corps Législatif has voted the 160,000 men of the division of 1865, and passed to the new loan open clause.

The Ministry has introduced into the Legislative Body a bill providing for an outlay of £14,000,000 on public works during the course of six years. The sum required for each year is not to exceed £2,400,000, and is to be furnished by the surplus of the ordinary Budget," and by the sale of national forests to the amount of £1,600,000.

A committee of ladies is being formed in Paris by Mdme. Lebocufre, to make and send clothes for the "liberated slaves of the United States."

An ironclad, stated to be on a new principle discovered by the Emperor of the French, is being constructed at Toulon. It is called Le Chor, carries no guns, and only acts by its weight and speed, sinking the ships it attacks by breaking them to pieces.

The dog show open in the Cours-la-Reine, Paris, comprises nearly 2000 animals, belonging to from fifty to sixty races.

SPAIN.

The Queen has nominated the King of Hanover and Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia Knights of the Golden Fleece.

Senor Gonzales Bravo has been made Minister of State during the illness of Senor Benavides.

The official gazette publishes a decree ordering the evacuation of St. Domingo.

Senor Reyes, an Attaché of the Peruvian Embassy at Madrid, set out on Sunday for Peru, with the ratifications of the treaty between Spain and that country. The Queen has received the Peruvian Minister.

PORTUGAL.

The King was, on Thursday week, invested with the Order of the Garter by the Earl of Malmesbury. In return for the honour, he presented to the Portuguese Order of the Tower and the Sword.

The Cortes passed a resolution expressing their sympathy with the people of the United States on account of the assassination of President Lincoln.

ITALY.

The Senate has passed the financial bills by 66 votes to 15.

The Government has issued a circular in reference to the questions of interest—the withdrawal of the Religious Corporations Bill and the negotiations at Rome. The circular (addressed to the Prefects by the Minister of the Interior) that the opposition on the part of the Chamber and Senate to the Religious Bill will be such as to call for the suppression of religious corporations would not be passed this Session, but it was, therefore, thought proper to withdraw the bill. But the Government has decided upon bringing it forward again next Session. In reference to the mission of Signor Visconti to Rome, the circular seems to convey the idea that the negotiations thus far have not led to anything. The Government states that, while it could not refuse the invitation of the Pope, it could not deviate in any respect from the fundamental political principles of the country. Meanwhile, Signor Visconti remains at Rome. It is said that he asserted that he is to return to the Eternal City within a fortnight.

The Parliamentario of Milan says that Professor Respighi, the director of the observatory, having discovered a new planet, has determined to make his first experiments on the subject at the observatory of Palermo to-day, and that, in honour of the poet, he has christened the new planet Beatrice.

The municipality of Palermo have determined that one of the streets in that city shall be named after President Lincoln.

AUSTRIA.

In Monday's sitting of the Lower House of the Reichsrath, the sum of 7,100,000 florins was voted for 1865, being the total of the budget, upon the recommendation of the finance committee, instead of the 8,300,000 florins asked by the Government. The House afterwards voted the general Budget for 1865, which states the revenue at 252,045,860 florins (over £25,000,000) and the expenditure at 184,945,450 florins (about £18,000,000), leaving a surplus of 67,100,410 for meeting the deficit.

It is stated in Vienna that Prussia's reply to the note of Austria in reference to the port of Kiel has arrived in the Austrian capital. The reply is said to be conciliatory in tone. Here was Prussia's answer to that by Austria—which is, that a portion of the Prussian marine should be transferred to Kiel with a corresponding reduction made in the Prussian army of occupation in the duchies.

PRUSSIA.

The Lower House gave its decision on Friday yesterday week to the Government Military Reorganisation Bill, upon which hangs all the Chamber's differences with the Ministry. The Bill was then rejected by Herr von Bonin, proposing a mediation between the Government and the Chamber on the question of the military budget, was lost, only eight votes having given in its favour. Finally, the second reading of the Government bill were rejected by 258 to 31 votes; and the Military Reorganisation Bill was thrown out. Much interest is taking part in the discussion. Paragraphs three and four were then rejected; also, paragraph five. Herr von Bonin's two first additional paragraphs were together put to the vote and rejected. A letter from Berlin says that the Government intends to summon another war session of the Chambers, and that the second result is a deficit of £314,149. Sir Charles's estimate of the deficit for the year is assigned to nearly the same sum—£874,310; and it is to be hoped that they will not bolse the estimates, as in the case of last year, when the Income-tax is to be allowed to expire on the 31st of July. Export duties are to be imposed on jute, wool, tea, coffee, hides, sugar, silk, rice, and other grain. This observation has been already made and verified by the house-agents.

The Bhootan war has reached another stage. General Tytler has taken Chamoorchee, the capital of Bhootan, so that the Western Passes are cleared. General Tombs has retaken Dewangiri. At the latter place the enemy made a stand, but were driven from their position. Not only from the fort but from the plateau. At least 120 were killed and numerous arms taken possession of, but only three killed and wounded. The only officer severely wounded was Lieutenant Weldon, of the Bengal police battalion. Captain Taylor, Captain Dundas, and Lieut. Chatterton, of the 29th Sikhs, were slightly wounded.

Major-General Mondsell assumed command of the army of India on the 22nd ult.

Mr. Massey, the newly-appointed Finance Minister, arrived at Calcutta on the 31st of March.

Captain Shepard Osborn, R.N., who arrived at Bombay by the last mail, has started on his duties as the manager of the Great Indian Peninsular Railway.

CHINA.

By a telegram, dated Pekin, April 12, we learn that the Ministerial crisis in that city continues, and that the dissolution of the opponents of Prince Kung, and that that able Minister has been reinstated in his position of Prime Minister.

NEW ZEALAND.

The military situation in New Zealand is unchanged, except that the Waikato militia and volunteers under General Cameron and Colonel Horis Kingt and the east coast chiefs have surrendered. General Waddy has been thrown from his horse and has sustained a fracture of the collar-bone.

A meeting of the Royal National Life-boat Institution was held on Thursday week—Earl Percy in the chair. A reward of £10 was voted to the crew of the life-boat of the institution at Hastings for putting through a heavy sea and saving fifteen persons from the screw-steamer Ocean Queen, of Newcastle, which was driven on the coasts of Sussex in the late gale. A reward of £5 was voted to the crew of the life-boat of the institution at Whitby for putting off in a heavy gale of wind and rescuing the crew of the brig Lord of the Isles, of Dysart, which was observed in a sinking state from the E.N.E. on the Dogger bank, off that place, on the 21st ult. Various other rewards were voted to the crews of the life-boats of the institution and also to the crews of shore-boats and others for saving life from shipwrecked vessels on the United Kingdom. Payments amounting to £460 were ordered to be made on various life-boat establishments. During the past month the institution has voted the sum of £1000 to the Lifeboat Fund. The cost of the Sunderland boat had been raised, in the town and county of Durham, by the Rev. J. Williams, Mr. Wilson Patten, M.P., and other friends. The institution has also sent a new life-boat to New Quay, Cornwall, which was presented to the people of that place by the Lord Lieutenant of the county, in the absence of the Duke of Leeds, with a handsome gold and efficient life-boat for use on shipboard in cases of shipwreck.

The report of the director of the National Gallery for the year 1864 was read on Saturday following in a list of the pictures purchased during last year:—In January, a picture by Jan Steen, "The Doctor's Visit," was purchased from Dr. Nieuwenhuys; in March, a portrait of a lady, by Hugh Stephen Cope, was purchased from Mr. Francesco Bonsignori, was included in the same purchase. In February, a Canal Scene at Dordrecht, by Cuyp, from Mr. Vander Kerr; two by Canaletti, in London, from the Earl of Shaftesbury. In March, the picture of "The Holy Family," by Sebastian Ricci, from Mr. Hughes Hughes, was purchased at the sale, in London, of the late Lord Lyndhurst's pictures. During a journey on the Continent, in the autumn, the director, with the concurrence of the trustees and the sanction of the Treasury, the following pictures were purchased:—"The Virgin and Child," by Giovanni Bellini, was purchased from Count Contarini, at Venice. Two pictures, representing scenes of the Giotti family, by Nicolas Giolino, were purchased with the last-named. In October, a picture of the Madonna and Child, by Bono Ferrara, was purchased from Sig. Jouno, at Venice. In November, an altar-piece, by Alvisello Meliore, was purchased from the Conte Carlo Castelnovo, at Milan. Seven pictures are acknowledged as bequests during the year, and one as a donation (by Lord Taunton). A long account is given of the pictures of which the varnish has been refreshed by the Keeper, Mr. Eastlake stating that, referring to those recently which have been tested, it is believed that, this process, "cautiously applied by one who has had much experience in the delicate use and safety of its operation, will be found an important means of improving the appearance of pictures and of preserving them uninjured."

It was asserted that Mr. Jefferson Davis, with an escort of 200 horse, had left Goldsborough for the Mississippi; and there had even been a rumour that he had actually crossed the Mississippi, on his way into Texas.

DEATH OF BOOTH.

The death of President Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, is announced. It appears that Booth, on whose leg had been broken by a fall from horseback, upon which had been set by a Maryland surgeon, named Mudd, who has since been arrested—and an accomplice, named Herold, were concealed in a barn, which had been set fire to by Mr. Conger, Maryland. They were pursued, but seem to have found means to cross the Potomac, and to have taken refuge in a barn, on the Rappahannock. There they were followed by a party of Federal horse, but they hastened to the farmhouse in a barn, and refused to surrender. The Federal troopers then set fire to the barn, and in the affray which ensued Harrold was taken alive and subsect; but Booth was shot through the head by a sergeant. He lived, however, about three hours afterwards, and uttered an interest to see a farewell message to his mother. Booth's corpse and Harrold were taken into Washington on the morning of the 27th inst. It is stated that Booth's body has been buried privately, by order of the War Department, whilst Private Boston has been arrested on suspicion that he was one of his brother's accomplices.

GENERAL NEWS.

Mr. Lincoln's remains were conveyed on the 25th ult., amid popular demonstrations of mourning, from the City Hall, New York, to the depôt, en route for Albany, followed by the largest procession ever assembled in that city, including the foreign Consuls, detachments of military, and large numbers of citizens and coloured people. Masses of people lined the streets through which the procession passed. In the evening religious services were held by all the sects in New York. A meeting was also held in Union-square, at which Mr. Beecher delivered an oration.

President Johnson has appointed June 1, instead of May 25, as a day of humiliation on account of Mr. Lincoln's death.

Secretary Seward is rapidly regaining strength, and has already been out riding. His son is out of danger.

Harrold has so far, denied participation and morose. The trial is to take place immediately.

Lewis Payne, the man who, it is supposed, attacked Mr. Seward, is in gaol at Washington. He recently attempted to beat his brains out against the bars of his cell, but was at once restrained, securely bound, and his head encased in a wire cage, in order to frustrate any similar attempt at self-destruction.

Secretary Stanton has declared that he possessed information to the effect that the assassination plot had been framed in Canada and approved at Richmond. Booth was the man apprehended at Washington, and believed to be the assailant of Secretary Seward and his sons, was one of the 30 in the plot.

The changed aspect of the war has enabled the Government to reduce the military expenditure by 1 million dollars a day.

President Johnson had made a speech in which he stated that leniency must be shown to the rebels, but that their leaders must be punished.

Lord Carlisle proposes who were willing "to take the oath of allegiance and "become loyal citizens," and who were "proper objects of clemency," were to be released upon such terms as the President might deem fit, in accordance with public safety."

A frightful calamity had occurred on the Mississippi, the transportsteamer Sultana having burst her boilers, and 1400 persons had been destroyed on the 28th ult., near Memphis, by the explosion of her boilers. Of the 2000 persons on board, who are said to have been "a peculiar prisoners," released by the Confederates, 1400 perished.

INDIA.

The report of Sir Charles Trevelyan's financial statement contains announcements which have caused considerable surprise. The revenue of 1864-5 was estimated at £52,000,000 to exceed the expenditure by £822,538, but the actual result is a deficit of £314,149. Sir Charles's estimate for 1865-6 is £52,000,000, designed to meet a deficit of £874,310; and it is to be hoped that they will not bolse the estimates, as in the case of last year, when the Income tax is to be allowed to expire on the 31st of July. Export duties are to be imposed on jute, wool, tea, coffee, hides, sugar, silk, rice, and other grain. This observation has been already made and verified by the house-agents.

The Bhootan war has reached another stage. General Tytler has taken Chamoorchee, the capital of Bhootan, so that the Western Passes are cleared. General Tombs has retaken Dewangiri. At the latter place the enemy made a stand, but were driven from their position. Not only from the fort but from the plateau. At least 120 were killed and numerous arms taken possession of, but only three killed and wounded. The only officer severly wounded was Lieutenant Weldon, of the Bengal police battalion. Captain Taylor, Captain Dundas, and Lieut. Chatterton, of the 29th Sikhs, were slightly wounded.

Major-General Mondsell assumed command of the army of India on the 22nd ult.

Mr. Massey, the newly-appointed Finance Minister, arrived at Calcutta on the 31st of March.

Captain Shepard Osborn, R.N., who arrived at Bombay by the last mail, has started on his duties as the manager of the Great Indian Peninsular Railway.

CHINA.

By a telegram, dated Pekin, April 12, we learn that the Ministerial crisis in that city continues, and that the dissolution of the opponents of Prince Kung, and that that able Minister has been reinstated in his position of Prime Minister.

NEW ZEALAND.

The military situation in New Zealand is unchanged, except that the Waikato militia and volunteers under General Cameron and Colonel Horis Kingt and the east coast chiefs have surrendered. General Waddy has been thrown from his horse and has sustained a fracture of the collar-bone.

A meeting of the Royal National Life-boat Institution was held on Thursday week—Earl Percy in the chair. A reward of £10 was voted to the crew of the life-boat of the institution at Hastings for putting through a heavy sea and saving fifteen persons from the screw-steamer Ocean Queen, of Newcastle, which was driven on the coasts of Sussex in the late gale. A reward of £5 was voted to the crew of the life-boat of the institution at Whitby for putting off in a heavy gale of wind and rescuing the crew of the brig Lord of the Isles, of Dysart, which was observed in a sinking state from the E.N.E. on the Dogger bank, off that place, on the 21st ult. Various other rewards were voted to the crews of the life-boats of the institution and also to the crews of shore-boats and others for saving life from shipwrecked vessels on the United Kingdom. Payments amounting to £460 were ordered to be made on various life-boat establishments. During the past month the institution has voted the sum of £1000 to the Lifeboat Fund. The cost of the Sunderland boat had been raised, in the town and county of Durham, by the Rev. J. Williams, Mr. Wilson Patten, M.P., and other friends. The institution has also sent a new life-boat to New Quay, Cornwall, which was presented to the people of that place by the Lord Lieutenant of the county, in the absence of the Duke of Leeds, with a handsome gold and efficient life-boat for use on shipboard in cases of shipwreck.

The report of the director of the National Gallery for the year 1864 was read on Saturday following in a list of the pictures purchased during last year:—In January, a picture by Jan Steen, "The Doctor's Visit," was purchased from Dr. Nieuwenhuys; in March, a portrait of a lady, by Hugh Stephen Cope, was purchased from Mr. Francesco Bonsignori, was included in the same purchase. In February, a Canal Scene at Dordrecht, by Cuyp, from Mr. Vander Kerr; two by Canaletti, in London, from the Earl of Shaftesbury. In March, the picture of "The Holy Family," by Sebastian Ricci, from Mr. Hughes Hughes, was purchased at the sale, in London, of the late Lord Lyndhurst's pictures. During a journey on the Continent, in the autumn, the director, with the concurrence of the trustees and the sanction of the Treasury, the following pictures were purchased:—"The Virgin and Child," by Giovanni Bellini, was purchased from Count Contarini, at Venice. Two pictures, representing scenes of the Giotti family, by Nicolas Giolino, were purchased with the last-named. In October, a picture of the Madonna and Child, by Bono Ferrara, was purchased from Sig. Jouno, at Venice. In November, an altar-piece, by Alvisello Meliore, was purchased from the Conte Carlo Castelnovo, at Milan. Seven pictures are acknowledged as bequests during the year, and one as a donation (by Lord Taunton). A long account is given of the pictures of which the varnish has been refreshed by the Keeper, Mr. Eastlake stating that, referring to those recently which have been tested, it is believed that, this process, "cautiously applied by one who has had much experience in the delicate use and safety of its operation, will be found an important means of improving the appearance of pictures and of preserving them uninjured."

THE COURT.

On Wednesday week the Queen, accompanied by Prince Alfred and Princess Helena, drove in the grounds adjacent to Osborne. Later in the day Prince Alfred, attended by Major Cowell, took leave of her Majesty, and left Osborne for Marlborough House, en route for Bonn. The Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor arrived at Osborne.

On Thursday week the Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena and Princess Louisa, walked and drove in the vicinity of Osborne. Sir Edwin Landseer arrived at Osborne.

Yesterday week the Queen walked and drove in the grounds of Osborne. Princess Beatrice rode out. The Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor left Osborne.

On Saturday last the Queen, accompanied by Princess Helena and attended by the Hon. Mrs. Bruce, drove out. Sir Edwin Landseer had the honour of dining with her Majesty. The Right Hon. Sir Charles Wood arrived at Osborne.

On Sunday the Queen was unable to attend Divine service at Whippingham Church, in consequence of the unfavourable state of the weather. Princess Helena and Princess Louisa attended the afternoon service at the church. The Right Hon. Sir Charles Wood had the honour of dining with her Majesty.

On Monday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa and attended by Lady Waterpark, walked and drove out. The Hon. Mrs. Ponsonby arrived at Osborne and had the honour of dining with her Majesty. The Right Hon. Sir Charles Wood left Osborne.

On Tuesday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louisa, drove in the vicinity of Osborne.

The Prince of Wales will, by command of the Queen, hold Levées at St. James's Palace, on behalf of her Majesty, on Saturday, the 20th inst., and on Wednesday, the 7th of June next, at two o'clock.

A state concert will be given on Monday, the 22nd of May, at Buckingham Palace.

The Duchess Dowager of Athole has succeeded Lady Waterpark as Lady in Waiting to her Majesty.

The Hon. Emma Lascelles has succeeded the Hon. Flora Macdonald as Maid of Honour in Waiting to the Queen.

Mr. Jabez Hughes, photographer, of Ryde, has had the honour of taking photographs of the Queen and Princess Beatrice.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Prince Alfred, drove to Kew on Thursday week, and visited the Duchess of Cambridge at Cambridge Cottage. The Princess of Wales, attended by the Hon. Mrs. E. Coke, took a drive. In the evening the Prince and Prince Alfred honoured the performances at the Aldelphi Theatre with their presence.

Yesterday week the Prince, accompanied by Prince Alfred, rode out. The Prince attended the House of Lords. The Princess, attended by the Hon. Mrs. E. Coke, drove out. Prince Alfred, attended by Major Cowell and Dr. Bernhardt, took leave of their Royal Highnesses, and left Marlborough House, en route for the Continent.

On Saturday last the Prince, attended by Major Teesdale, rode out. The Princess, accompanied by the Crown Prince of Denmark, drove out. The Crown Prince of Denmark, attended by Captain Lund, arrived at Marlborough House on a visit to their Royal Highnesses.

On Sunday the Prince and Princess and the Crown Prince of Denmark attended Divine service in the Chapel Royal, St. James's. The Rev. the Sub-Dean, the Rev. J. Antrobus, and the Rev. T. Mills were the officiating clergymen. In the afternoon the Prince and Princess, accompanied by the Crown Prince of Denmark, drove to Kew, and visited the Duchess of Cambridge at Cambridge Cottage.

On Monday the Prince, attended by his suite, left Marlborough House for Ireland, some account of which is given below. The Princess, accompanied by the Crown Prince of Denmark, drove out. Princess Mary of Cambridge visited the Princess at Marlborough House.

On Tuesday the Princess, accompanied by Prince Albert Victor and the Crown Prince of Denmark, drove to Kew, on a visit to the Duchess of Cambridge, and remained to luncheon.

On Wednesday the Princess, accompanied by the Crown Prince of Denmark, drove out.

THE VISIT OF THE PRINCE OF WALES TO IRELAND.

The Prince of Wales, attended by Earl Spencer, Lieutenant-General Knollys, Lieutenant-Colonel Keppel, Major Teesdale, and Mr. Fisher left Marlborough House shortly before seven o'clock on Monday morning, en route for Dublin, in order to inaugurate the Exhibition. The Crown Prince of Denmark accompanied his Royal Highness to the Euston station, where the Prince was joined by the Duke of Cambridge, attended by the Hon. Colonel Macdonald and the Hon. Colonel Curzon. The Royal party was received by Mr. J. C. Ewart, M.P., one of the directors; Mr. C. Stewart, secretary; Mr. W. Cawkwell, general manager, and other officials of the London and North-Western Railway. The Crown Prince of Denmark returned to Marlborough House upon the departure of the Prince and the Duke of Cambridge. Their Royal Highnesses travelled in a state saloon attached to the twenty-five minutes past seven Irish mail express-train, proceeding, viâ Rugby, Stafford, and Chester, to Holyhead, whence the Prince embarked on board the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, Commander the Prince of Leiningen, and steamed across to Kingstown, arriving at five minutes to six o'clock. The Prince continued his journey by special train to Dublin, where he was received by the Lord Lieutenant, and drove immediately to the Viceregal Lodge, in Phœnix Park. Large crowds of people warmly greeted his Royal Highness upon his arrival, to which the Prince graciously responded. A large and distinguished party was invited to meet his Royal Highness at dinner. Later in the evening Lady Wodehouse had an evening party, at which a numerous circle had the honour of being present.

On Tuesday the Prince, accompanied by the Duke of Cambridge, the Prince of Leiningen, the Lord Lieutenant and Lady Wodehouse, and attended by his suite and an escort of the 11th Hussars (the Prince's Own), proceeded, in a close carriage, to the Exhibition Palace, and was received by the Reception Committee and conducted to the dais, when the ceremony of inauguration was performed by his Royal Highness. The Prince returned to the Viceregal Lodge at four o'clock. In the evening his Royal Highness was present at a ball given at the Mansion House, by the Lord Mayor of Dublin, in honour of the Prince. Nearly two thousand invitations were accepted upon the occasion. His Royal Highness, accompanied by the Lord Lieutenant and Lady Wodehouse, arrived at the Mansion House at half-past eleven o'clock. The Prince opened the ball with Lady Wodehouse, the Duke of Cambridge having for his partner the Countess of Charlemont, Lord Wodehouse the Marchioness of Drogheda, and the Lord Mayor the Marchioness of Kildare. The Prince retired at two o'clock.

On Wednesday a grand review of the troops in garrison in Dublin was held on the Fifteen Acres, in Phœnix Park. The Duke of Cambridge took the command of the troops, which were reviewed by the Prince. His Royal Highness was attired in the uniform of the 10th Hussars, of which regiment the Prince is Colonel. His Royal Highness was received with the utmost enthusiasm by a greater number of spectators than has assembled upon any similar occasion since the visit of the Queen, in 1849.

DEPARTURE OF PRINCE ALFRED FOR BONN.

His Royal Highness Prince Alfred, attended by Major Cowell and Dr. Bernhardt, left Marlborough House yesterday week upon his return to Bonn, in order to resume his studies in the University of that city. The Prince, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, drove to the Charing-cross terminus, and was received by Mr. J. P. Knight, of the South-Eastern Railway, and Mr. Cockburn, the station superintendent. The Prince took leave of the Prince of Wales at the station, and travelled thence in a saloon-carriage attached to the half-past eight p.m. mail-train to Dover, arriving at half-past ten. The train was under the charge of Mr. J. P. Knight. His Royal Highness embarked immediately from the Admiralty Pier on board the Admiralty steam-vessel Vivid, and crossed the Channel. The Prince visited the King of the Belgians, at Laeken, on his route to Germany. His Royal Highness will continue his studies at Bonn until he comes of age, in August next.

ARRIVAL OF THE CROWN PRINCE OF DENMARK.

The Crown Prince of Denmark, attended by Captain Lund, arrived in England on Saturday last, from Copenhagen, on a visit to the Prince and Princess of Wales. The Prince arrived at Dover from Ostend in one of the Belgian Government mail-steamers, and landed at the Admiralty Pier at three o'clock. His Royal Highness was received upon landing by Mr. E. T. Way, of the South-Eastern, and Mr Henry Cox, of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Companies, and by various officials. The Prince travelled incognito, consequently no honours were paid to his Royal Highness. The Prince proceeded to the Royal Ship Hotel and partook of luncheon. His Royal Highness was afterwards conducted to the new harbour station of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company, whence he travelled by the quarter-past four boat express-train to London, arriving at Victoria station at a quarter to six. The Prince drove immediately to Marlborough House.

The Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch and Lady Margaret Scott have arrived at the temporary family residence in Belgrave-square.

The Duke and Duchess of Manchester and family have arrived at their mansion in Great Stanhope-street from Kimbolton Castle, Huntingdonshire, for the season.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Abercorn and the Ladies Hamilton arrived at Chesterfield House on Saturday last, from Cannes.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Cholmondeley returned to their residence on Carlton House-terrace, on Saturday last, from visiting Sir Walter R. and Lady Mary Farquhar at their seat in Surrey.

The Marchioness of Salisbury has arrived in town from visiting Earl and Countess Delawarr at Knowle.

Earl and Countess Grey have arrived at their mansion on Carlton House-terrace, from the Continent.

Earl and Countess Howe have arrived at their residence in South Audley-street, from Gopsall Hall, Leicestershire, for the season.

The Earl and Countess of Wilton have arrived at their residence in Grosvernor-square for the season.

The Countess of Powis and the Ladies Herbert have arrived at the family mansion in Berkeley-square, from Walcott House, for the season.

The Countess Dowager of Mount-Edgcumbe and Lady Ernestine Edgcumbe have arrived in Charles-street, Berkeley-square, for the season.

The Earl of Harrowby has arrived at his mansion in Grosvenor-square, from Sandon Hall, Staffordshire.

Viscount and Viscountess Palmerston arrived at Cambridge House, on Saturday last, from Brockett Hall, Herts.

The Right Hon. the Chancellor of the Exchequer returned to town, on Monday, from Cliefden House, Berks.

Mr. and Lady Edith Abney Hastings have arrived at their new residence (the Duke of Cleveland's) in Grosvenor-place, from Wellersly Hall, Ashby-de-la-Zouch.

MARRIAGES IN HIGH LIFE.

The marriage of Mr. Richard Marke, of Combe House, near Honiton, and the Hon. Victoria Alexandrina Digby, eldest daughter of Lord and Lady Digby, will take place the beginning of June.

The marriage of Miss De Rothschild with Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild is fixed for Wednesday, the 7th of June.

FASHIONABLE AND POLITICAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

Earl and Countess De Grey entertained a select party at dinner, on Saturday last, at their residence in Carlton-gardens.

Countess Cowper gave her first evening party this season, on Tuesday, at the family residence in St. James's-square. The réunion was attended by a brilliant assemblage of the political and fashionable world.

Countess (Frances) Waldegrave had an evening party, on Wednesday, at her house in Carlton-gardens. The réunion was fashionably attended. Previously to the reception the Countess and the Right Hon. Chichester Fortescue, M.P., entertained their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess d'Aumale and a select circle at dinner.

Lady Blantyre gave her first dance this season, on Tuesday evening, at the family mansion in Grosvenor-place. A numerous and distinguished company honoured her Ladyship with their presence.

Lord and Lady Egerton of Tatton received a select party at dinner, on Saturday evening last, at their residence in St. James's-square.

Lady Molesworth entertained the Duke and Duchess d'Aumale, the Prince de Condé, and a distinguished circle at dinner on Monday. Her Ladyship afterwards received a select party.

The Right Hon. Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton, M.P., entertained a distinguished company at dinner, at Saturday last, at his residence, Park-lane.

The Right Hon. Edward Cardwell, M.P., and Mrs. Cardwell had a select party at dinner, on Tuesday evening, in Eaton-square.

The Bishop of London and Mrs. Tait had a dinner party, on Wednesday evening, at London House, St. James's-square. Later in the evening Mrs. Tait had a reception, which was numerously attended.

CHURCH AND UNIVERSITIES.

The Bishop of Columbia and Mrs. Hills arrived safe and well at Victoria, Vancouver, on March 10.

The Rev. Charles Henry Leigh Lye, M.A., of Wadham College, has been appointed to the archdeaconry of Bombay, vacant by the retirement of the Ven. Markley J. T. Boys.

The new Church of All Souls, between St. John's-wood and Kilburn, was consecrated, on Monday, by the Bishop of London, who was attended by his Chaplain, the Rev. W. H. Freemantle. About £67 was collected at the offertory towards reducing the debt (about £700) still owing for the site. The new church is lofty, and will hold about 600 people.

On Tuesday week the first stone of the new spire of Chichester Cathedral was laid by the Duke of Richmond, in the presence of a large number of distinguished guests. The day was observed as a great holiday in Chichester, and the chief thoroughfares of the town and the greater part of the tower were gaily decorated with flags. The old spire fell on Feb. 21, 1861, levelling with it in its fall much of the old masonry which, like the spire, had stood for centuries.

A meeting of noblemen and gentlemen, presided over by the Archbishop of Canterbury, met on Thursday week, at the National Club, Whitehall-gardens, for the purpose of presenting to Mr. J. M. Knott a piece of plate and a purse of £1000, as an acknowledgment of his services as hon. secretary of the Committee of Laymen, associated for the purpose of defending the Church against the attacks of the voluntaries. The piece of plate was a handsome salver, suitably inscribed, and the purse containing the £1000 was elaborately worked by Lady John Manners.

The Bishop of London's Fund has received a contribution of great importance. The Bishop's appeal was, in the first instance, addressed to the great landowners and employers of labour in his diocese, and the Crown possesses large and valuable property in the metropolis. The Bishop, therefore, addressed a particular appeal to the office which has the management of this property. The result is that the Treasury is prepared to pay, within the next ten years, out of the land revenues of the Crown, the sum of £15,000, "as a contribution in the name and on the part of her Majesty." The Queen has already contributed £3000 in her personal capacity.

The Rev. Charles Merivale, B.D., Chaplain to the House of Commons, and Rector of Lawford, Essex, has commenced his second course of lectures in her Majesty's Chapel Royal, Whitehall, and he will continue them at the afternoon service each Sunday during the months of May and June. These lectures were founded, in 1691, by the Hon. Robert Boyle, who bequeathed a sum of money to be paid "to some learned divine or preaching minister from time to time, to be elected and resident within the city of London or extent of the bills of mortality, who should be enjoined to perform the offices following:—To preach eight sermons in the year for proving the Christian religion against notorious infidels—viz., Atheists, Theists, Pagans, Jews, and Mohammedans, not descending lower to any controversies that are among Christians themselves."

The following preferments and appointments have recently taken place:—Prebends: The Rev. C. G. Harris, Incumbent of St. Paul's, Torquay, to Exeter; Rev. A. C. Thynne, Rector of Kilkhampton, to Exeter. Rectories: Rev. F. C. Alderson to Holdenby, Northamptonshire; Rev. T. Carnes to Loxton; Rev. W. Mayo to Folke, Dorset; Rev. R. F. Molesworth to Coston, Leicestershire; Rev. T. H. Tooke to Monkton Farleigh, Wilts; Rev. S. Warren to Neenton, Salop. Vicarages: Rev. C. W. Underwood, Vice-Principal of the Liverpool College, to Histon, Cambridge; Rev. F. Weston to Eaton, Norwich; Rev. E. H. L. Willes to Helston, Cornwall. Chaplaincy: Rev. W. A. Campbell to her Majesty's Mission at Madrid. Incumbency: Rev. A. Coates to Percy District, Tynemouth, Northumberland. Perpetual Curacies: Rev. W. Bishop to St. Ethelred, Norwich; Rev. G. Dawes to Ash, Somerset; Rev. E. G. Hunt to Plympton St. Mary, Devon; Rev. F. Newman to Hemblington, Norfolk; Rev. J. S. Padley to Ireleth, Lancashire; Rev. J. P. Stoute to Bardsea, Ulverstone; Rev. W. A. Taylor to Aslacton, Norfolk; Rev. J. R. Walker to Walmersley. Curacies: Rev. J. G. Barnsdale to Farnworth; Rev. R. Espinasse to St. Mark's, Surbiton.

THE UNIVERSITIES AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—In a Congregation held at Oxford, on Thursday week, Mr. G. E. Thorley, Fellow of Wadham, took the necessary oaths, and was admitted Pro-Proctor. In a Convocation held afterwards, the name of Mr. H. G. Madan, M.A., of Queen's, nominated Public Examiner in the School of Natural Science, in the place, pro hâc vice, of Sir B. C. Brodie, was approved. In a Convocation, yesterday week, the University seal was, by unanimous consent, affixed to letters of condolence to the Minister of the United States of America on the recent calamity which has befallen that nation in the assassination of their President. The letters have been forwarded to the Chancellor of the University in order that they may be duly presented.

At Cambridge, Sir W. Browne's medals have been awarded as follow:—For the Greek Ode, to J. E. Sandys, of St. John's; for the Latin Ode, to F. Gunton, of Magdalen; for the Greek and the Latin epigrams, to W. Kennedy, of King's. The University seal has been affixed to a letter expressing sympathy and condolence with the people of the United States on the assassination of President Lincoln.

Earl Granville presided, on Wednesday, at a meeting for admission to degrees in the University of London. The report gave a satifactory account of the position of the University.

The prizes obtained by the students of the Faculty of Medicine at the University College, London, were distributed on Monday, by Sir Rutherford Alcock, K.C.B., in the theatre of the college, in the presence of a large number of members and their friends. From a statement which was read by Dr. Harley, it appeared that the number of students attending the medical classes had been 161, of whom forty-eight were new students of the college, being an increase of six over the previous session. The council, with its usual desire to keep pace with the times, had instituted a course of lectures on mental diseases, which were now being delivered by Dr. W. H. O. Sankey.

By a return issued on Monday it appears that there are in the Queen's College, Cork, nineteen professors, in addition to the president and vice-president. Of these five are Roman Catholics and fourteen Protestants, and thirteen are Irishmen. In the Queen's College, Galway, there are three Roman Catholic professors, and sixteen Protestant or Presbyterian professors; ten of the number are Irishmen, the rest English, Scotch, and German. In the Belfast Queen's College all the professors, nineteen, are Protestant or Presbyterian, and twelve of them are Irishmen. The salaries in these colleges, apart from fees, range from £100 to £800 per annum.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte has been appointed one of the presidents of the next national Welsh Eisteddfod.

The State apartments of Windsor Castle will be closed on and after Monday next, the 15th inst., until further orders.

The Town Council of Ipswich has adopted plans for the erection of a new Townhall. The estimated cost is £10,000; and Mr. Bellamy, of Lincoln, is the architect.

The Tunbridge Wells Horticultural Society held its spring floral exhibition in the assembly-room and grounds of the Royal Sussex Hotel, Tunbridge Wells, yesterday (Friday).

Llanbedr Hall, situated on the southern slopes of the Clwydian Mountains, a short distance from Ruthin, has been totally destroyed by fire. A man was killed while assisting in the endeavours to subdue the fire.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland visited Drogheda, on Thursday week, in order to turn the first sod of the new waterworks, towards which Mr. Whitworth, a Manchester manufacturer, had subscribed one half; and also to open the new Townhall, erected at that gentleman's sole charge.

Miss Constance Kent, who stands charged on her own confession with the murder of her half-brother, Francis Saville Kent, was, on Thursday week, examined before the magistrates at Trowbridge, the result being that she was committed for trial at the assizes.

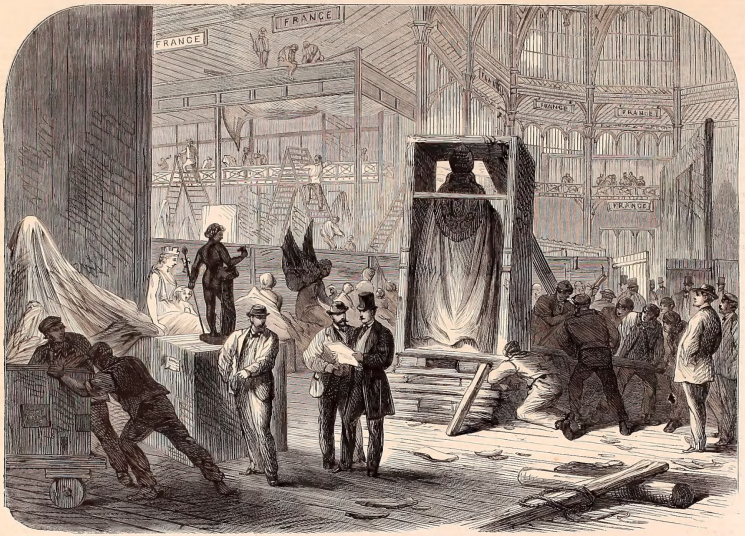
The new promenade pier at Bognor, on the Sussex coast, was opened last week, with some festivity. It has been built by Mr. J. E. Dawson, from the designs of Mr. Wilson, the engineer to the company. It is a light but strong structure, 1000 ft. long, with an octagonal platform at the end.

A first-class silver medal and an illuminated testimonial have been presented by the Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane Society to Captain William Clarke, of the screw-steamer Montague, for the humanity and judgment he displayed in saving great part of the crew and passengers of the Royal mail screw steam-ship Armenian, in January last. This is the fourth crew saved by Captain Clarke.

The directors of the Sheffield Water Company have issued a circular, in which they state that the total amount claimed against the company for damage done by the flood was £455,164; and the amount of claims to be paid by the company, as determined under the Inundation Commission, was £276,821, being little more than three fifths of the amount claimed. The directors estimate that not more than £310,000 will be required to meet these claims and the yet unpaid costs.

The Queen has approved of Don Ignacio Fato as Consul at Liverpool, Don Roderick Kameke as Vice-Consul at Belfast, Don José Ellis as Vice-Consul at Bristol, Don Francisco M. Morgan as Vice-Consul at Cardiff, Don Roberto C. Hall as Vice-Consul at Cork, Don Alfredo E. Fox as Vice-Consul at Falmouth, Don Francisco M. Faulkner as Vice-Consul at Folkestone, Don Guillermo Malcolm as Vice-Consul at Glasgow, Don Tomas W. Fox as Vice-Consul at Plymouth, Don Victor Shakery as Vice-Consul at Liverpool, Don Alfredo L. Hodges as Vice-Consul at Ramsgate, Don Tomas Harling as Vice-Consul at Cowes, and Don José Clark as Vice-Consul at Southampton, for the Emperor of Mexico.

A meeting of the Central Executive Relief Committee was held at Manchester on Monday—Major Egerton Leigh presiding. Mr. Maclure, the honorary secretary, reported that £201 had been received during the past four weeks, and that the balance in the bank was £41,426. During the past month there has been a great increase of employment in the cotton-manufacturing districts; Mr. Farnall reported that on the 29th ult. there was a decrease of persons receiving relief in the twenty-seven unions of those districts, as compared with the number so relieved for the week ended the 1st ult., of 4702. The following grants were made, each for six weeks: Ashton-under-Lyne, £800; Dukinfield, £400; Hurst, £250; Lees (and district), £120; Stalybridge, £600; Tintwistle, £250; St. Paul's, Halliwell, £40; Bury and Elton, £200; Heywood, £300; Glossop, £250; Crawshaw Booth, £20; Newchurch-in-Rossendale, £40; Rawtenstall, £180; Stacksteads, £80; Crompton, £100; Middleton, £20; Oldham, £500; Royton, £70; Preston, £250; Hyde, £250; Hebden Bridge, £50; Wigan, £400; and Bacup, £100.



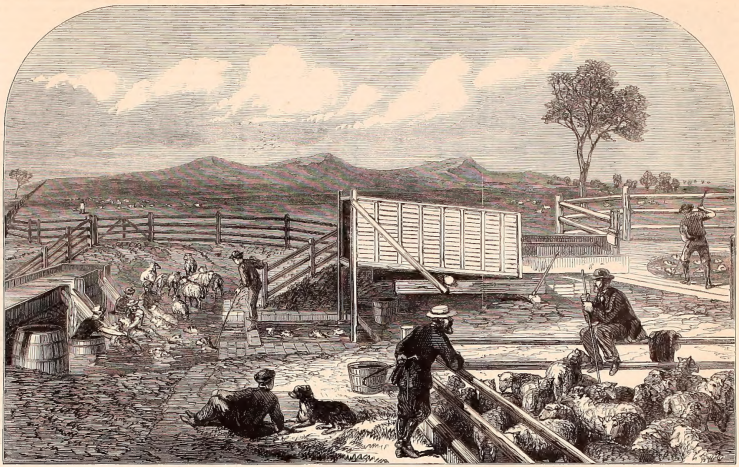
The emigration returns for the port of Liverpool for the past month were completed last week. The number of ships sailing under the Act were—to the United States, twenty-one ships, with 9843 passengers, of whom 239 were cabin, and the remainder steerage, passengers. Of the steerage passengers, 5442 were Irish, 2490 English, 201 Scotch, and 1020 other countries. To Canada there were two ships, with 640 passengers, of whom 163 were in the cabin; and to Victoria three ships, with 662 passengers: making a total of twenty-six ships and 11,145 passengers. Of ships sailing independent of the Act there were seven to the United States, with 443 passengers; to Prince Edward Island, one ship, with two passengers; to New South Wales, one ship, with twenty-four passengers; to Victoria, one ship, with twenty-six passengers; to the West Indies, three, with seventeen passengers; to South America, five, with 116 passengers; to Mexico, one, with five passengers; to Africa, one (the mail steamer), with thirty-two passengers: total, nineteen ships and 685 passengers. This shows a full total of 11,800, against 22,241 in the corresponding month of last year.

Some notion of the enormous traffic of this country may be gathered from the fact that there is scarcely ever less than one hundred sail of ships near the Land's-end, leaving or bearing up for the British or Irish Channels.

SHEEP-WASHING IN AUSTRALIA.

THE process of sheep-washing in England is simple enough. The animals are tossed, one by one, into a large pond, and left to swim or scramble out of it. But the vast Australian flocks, which are counted by tens of thousands, being valued more for their fleeces than for their flesh, undergo a most elaborate scouring by the means which will be seen in our Illustration. We are indebted to a young lady, Miss Proctor, the daughter of Mr. T. Proctor, of Thurles, Ireland, for the sketch we have engraved. It represents, in one view, the several stages of the operation as performed at the station of Mr. W. Skene, at Wurrumbeech, Hamilton, in the province of Victoria; Mr. Skene having first introduced this system of sheep-washing into the district, where he is the owner of nearly 20,000 merinos. The sheep to be washed are placed in pens, all being kept very close together. While in this state, hot water is pumped over them, by means of a small engine, with a very fine hose, until the wool is thoroughly saturated. The object of this is to soften the tips of the wool, which in most cases is hardened by the dirt. The sheep are next passed on to the soak, which is a round bath, 7 ft. in diameter and 4 ft. deep, with a false bottom and grating, to allow of the dirt sinking below the level in which the sheep remain. At starting in the morning the water in the soak is warmed by one boiler full of hot water and softened by one bar of soap; after this the temperature is kept up by the warmth of the bodies of the sheep, and the natural "yolk" of the wool furnishes the emollient, which, in the first place, is supplied by the bar of soap. Small as the soak is, from eighteen to twenty sheep are placed in it, and allowed to remain nearly

THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.



UNPACKING THE STATUES.

a quarter of an hour. Although a constant flow of water runs into the soak, there is no outlet except for what is taken out in the fleeces of the sheep. The water remaining in the soak has a very dirty appearance, and is in a strong lather. When sufficiently soaked, a trap-door is lifted up, and the sheep go slowly out, ascending a few stone steps until they get into the movable slide or dip, which overhangs the water in which the washing process takes place. Here they stand dripping for a few minutes until their predecessors are disposed of, when the platform is "tipped" and its occupants unceremoniously plunged into the bath. This place is a small area composed of substantial masonwork; at the lower end is a race, which carries off the water after it has done its work, and at the side is a shelving beach, which the sheep ascend when their washing is completed. At the back of the bath, and at a few feet higher level, is situated the dam from which the supply of water is obtained. The dam is a fine sheet of water about 8 ft. deep, and furnishes an abundant permanent supply. Arrangements are made so that the water used in the washing is drawn from the surface of the dam, its temperature being considerably higher than that of the deeper water. The success of the whole process depends, to a considerable extent, on the warmth of the water used. A race brings the water from the dam to the wash. At the termination of the race are two spouts just about the breadth of the body of a sheep. Down these spouts a thin sheet of water pours, of sufficient body and force thoroughly to penetrate and rinse out the fleece of the sheep, which is held just above the surface of the water, and which is slowly turned over and over in the stream until thoroughly washed. This is done by men standing in narrow casks, which, coming up nearly to their armpits, keep them quite dry, and yet enable them to handle the sheep with ease. There are two men under each spout, and it is interesting to see the facility and rapidity with which they take sheep after sheep, pass them under the spouts, and guide them out by the beach. There are seven men engaged altogether at the wash, and in a short day's work they can get through from 1000 to 1200 sheep, without hurry or bustle. After washing the sheep remain three or four days before shearing, to allow the "yolk to rise." This is a very short time, as on many stations the time allowed is seven or eight days. Of course, the shorter the time, the lighter the wool is. In every extensive sheep-washing deaths sometimes occur from drowning; but the proportion in spout-washing is probably much less than in the swimming process, from the fact that the sheep are more under the immediate observation of the men, who are at hand to give assistance to sheep that show signs of weakness. Of course, the old ewes are the most liable to accidents; but Mr. Skene last season had only lost seven or eight out of about as many thousands.

PAVILION ON THE LAKE IN THE GARDENS.—SEE PAGE 423.

SHEEP-WASHING IN AUSTRALIA.

GLADIATEUR, THE WINNER OF THE TWO THOUSAND GUINEAS STAKES AT NEWMARKET.—SEE PAGE 462.

BIRTHS.

On the 4th inst., at Hurst Grove, Twyford, Berks, the wife of Shackelford Morris Hoby, Esq., of a son.

On the 6th inst., at Enfield Court, Middlesex, Mrs. Alfred Somerset, of a daughter.

On the 7th inst., at the Parsonage, Cully, Gatehouse, N.B., the wife of the Rev. Thomas Farquhar Hill, of a son.

On the 4th inst., at Lennox-heath, Kent, the wife of Augustus W. Prudence, of a son.

On the 7th ult., at Point de Galle, Ceylon, the wife of Sidney C. Higgs, Esq., of a daughter.

On Feb. 26 last, at Buenos Ayres, the wife of Henry Burr, Esq., of Tilehurst, Glenmoriston, of a daughter.

On the 6th inst., at 21, Chesham-place, Lady Baird, of a son.

At Bournemouth, Portholme, Lady Gertrude Hamilton, of a son.

At Tunbridge-house, the wife of Vice-Admiral the Hon. Sir H. Keppel, K.C.B., of a daughter.

At Mandeville, the Hon. Mrs. R. W. Hanbury Leigh, of a daughter.

At Queen's-gate-terrace, the Hon. Mrs. C. Du Cane, of a son.

At The Nurses, near Malvern, the Hon. Mrs. Norbury, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 28th of February, at Christ Church, Canton, by the Rev. J. H. Gray, A.M., James Wilmot Murray, Esq., Assistant Commissary-General, second son of the Rev. J. G. Murray, D.D., to Elizabeth Emma, second daughter of Major-General J. C. Maddox, retired full pay, Madras Army.

On the 9th inst., at Wood Hilton, Cambridgeshire, by the Rev. Horatio Bickersteth, Rector of Hilton, Cambridgeshire, Edward Lyulph Stanley, Esq., to Maud Blanche, youngest daughter of the Rev. Josiah Wedgwood, of Wood Dalton.

On the 8th inst., at St. Paul's Church, Knightsbridge, by the Vicar, the Rev. Osborne Shandy, assisted by the Rev. and Hon. Robert Liddell, Commander Maxwell Fox, R.N., of Annaghmore, King's County, to Florence Jane, eldest daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Andrew Buchanan, K.C.B., her Britannic Majesty's Ambassador at St. Petersburg.

On March 4, at the British Consulate, city of Mexico, John, second surviving son of the late John Cruz Boeboman, Esq., of Auchinteehan, Dumbartonshire, to Rosa Dominica, second daughter of the late Thomas Jenkyn, Esq., M.D., of Zacatlcs, Mexico.

On the 19th ult., at the Harrogate Congregational Church, by the Rev. Edward Baker, of Hull, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. John Henry Wilson, of Harrogate, the Rev. Thomas Wilson, of Bradford, to Jessie Jane Peile Upjohn, Esq., of St. Ann's, Harrogate. No cards.

On the 16th inst., at Thoington, near Canterbury, by the Rev. T. H. Whormsley, D.D., Vicar of Willesborough, Kent, Alexander Cockburn, Esq., 90th Regiment, to Edith, only child of the Rev. W. J. Wise, incumbent of Thoington.

On the 3rd inst., at the Royal Bavarian Chapel, Warwick-street, St. James's, Robert Hope, fourth son of John Adam Hope, Esq., of Fenton Barns, to Isabella, daughter of John Bourne, Esq. No cards.

On March 16, at St. Paul's Church, Nanaimo, Vancouver Island, by the Rev. T. B. Good, George Charles Deverell, Esq., Assistant Manager of the Vancouver Coal-mining and Land Company, eldest surviving son of the late Colonel Deverell, H.M. 16th Light Infantry, to Mary, eldest daughter of W. H. Franklyn, Esq., J.P., Stipendiary Magistrate and Gold Commissioner of Nanaimo.

At St. James's Church, Paddington, Robert Henry, eldest son of R. S. Ray, Esq., of Normanby, Hyde Park, to Agnes Mary, youngest daughter of the late Duke of Devonshire, and niece of the Dowager Countess of Tavcrton and Rainald de Lawcse.

On May 10, at St. George's Church, Hanover-square, Lieut.-Col. Sir H. M. Havelock, Bart., son of the late Sir H. Havelock, K.C.B., to Lady Alice Morton.

DEATHS.

On the 4th inst., at his residence, Walmer, Kent, Admiral Sir Edward Harvey, G.C.B., in his 83rd year.

On the 6th inst., in Staton-square, Maria Tryphena, wife of W. B. Seymour Fitzgerald, Esq., M.D., 37, Her Majesty's Bengal Medical Service, and daughter of Edward J. Seymour, Esq., M.D., F.R.S.

On the 7th inst., at Edinburgh, Joan, daughter of the late William Aitchison, Esq., Roxburghshire, and relict of the late Robert Stewart Cumming, Esq., M.D., F.R.S.E., only brother of the late Sir William Aitchison, Bart., of Calton.

At Lucca, Italy, Sir D. Davies, K.C.H., M.D., in his 73rd year.

On the 4th inst., at his residence, Walmer, Admiral Sir E. Harvey, G.C.B., in his 83rd year.

At Bromley, Martha Dorcas, J. B. Phillimore, Esq., and the late Admiral Sir J. Phillimore, aged 84.

At Brighton, Lady Conrad, relict of Sir J. Gerard, Bart., of Garswood, Lancashire, aged 60.

* The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

Dr. Ollier has reported to the Academy of Sciences at Paris a remarkable case of regeneration of bone. After he had removed the humerus from the shoulder of a young girl, aged fifteen, for disease of the joint, he had been well preserved, reproduced its entire bone, and the shoulder has become strong, of what it was before—a result which, a short time ago, would have been deemed impossible.

Mr. Frederic Weil's new processes for electrotyping metals appear in the Annales de Chimie. He claims for them the advantages of obtaining, in the case of lamentous solutions, a solid deposition of copper, zinc, iron, cast iron, and steel with rapidity, simplicity, and economy, and the faithful reproduction of all the most delicate details in works of art. He makes use of baths formed of metallic salts or oxides held in an alkaline solution by means of tartaric acid, certain polyatomic alcohols, saccharine matters, or tartaric acid, glycerine, albumen, or any other inoffensive substance which prevents the precipitation of the basal alkali.

Mr. G. F. Ansell, of the Royal Mint, has patented an application of Professor Graham's law of the diffusion of gases for the purpose of ascertaining and giving warning of the presence of the accumulations of fire-damp in coal-mines. One form of the apparatus consists of a glass tube, having its one aperture closed with a plate of graphitic or equivalent porous diaphragm, and the other aperture communicating with a vessel of air or any other gas free from fire-damp or atmosphere containing fire-damp in such proportion as might carburetted hydrogen, or marsh gas, the presence of such an admixture will be indicated by the passage of the gaseous fluid through the diaphragm, and the consequent expansion in volume of the gaseous contents of the tube. The column of water will rise in the open end of the tube, and communicate with a metallic contact, platinum, or any other inoffensive substance which prevents the precipitation of the basal alkali.

Mr. G. F. Ansell, of the Royal Mint, has patented an application of Professor Graham's law of the diffusion of gases for the purpose of ascertaining and giving warning of the presence of the accumulations of fire-damp in coal-mines. One form of the apparatus consists of a glass tube, having its one aperture closed with a plate of graphitic or equivalent porous diaphragm, and the other aperture communicating with a vessel of air or any other gas free from fire-damp or atmosphere containing fire-damp in such proportion as might carburetted hydrogen, or marsh gas, the presence of such an admixture will be indicated by the passage of the gaseous fluid through the diaphragm, and the consequent expansion in volume of the gaseous contents of the tube. The column of water will rise in the open end of the tube, and communicate with a metallic contact, platinum, or any other inoffensive substance which prevents the precipitation of the basal alkali.

Mr. Frederic Weil's new processes for electrotyping metals appear in the Annales de Chimie. He claims for them the advantages of obtaining, in the case of lamentous solutions, a solid deposition of copper, zinc, iron, cast iron, and steel with rapidity, simplicity, and economy, and the faithful reproduction of all the most delicate details in works of art. He makes use of baths formed of metallic salts or oxides held in an alkaline solution by means of tartaric acid, certain polyatomic alcohols, saccharine matters, or tartaric acid, glycerine, albumen, or any other inoffensive substance which prevents the precipitation of the basal alkali.

The May number of the Annals of Natural History opens with an elaborate memoir by Professor Huxley on the development of the upper eye of decapodous crocus through the head, from the blind side to the eye side, illustrated by lithographs. The subject is considered under the various structural deviations. The muscular system of the blind side is much more powerful than that on the eye side; the nerves are larger, and the pigmentary sac commences on the peculiar position of the eye in turbots. His memoir is entitled "On the Thoracic Ganglia of Fishes, and their Homologues in Other Vertebrata." The dark side of a turbot is infinitely the more fully developed, and the nerves are larger than on the white side. Professor Owen's memoir on "A turbot cast on shore in Orkney, with remarks on its affinities, and the consequences is that usually after the thin blind side has been discovered to be the eye side, most of the fish is sent away to the London market. The same number contains the first of a series of papers "On the Species and Varieties of the Genus Bos," by Mr. Wilson, which contains many curious and interesting monographs by Messrs. Gulliver, Bates, Berkeley, Rupert Jones, and other eminent naturalists. By a most liberal offer, the Queen's cattle and fishes may be preserved with their natural colours almost unimpaired by immersion in a bath of alcohol for about a month, and then dried in a warm room; life and drying there rapidly by artificial heat. The temperature must not be too high, so great is the change to red or a dull brown of the colours of the delicate shades of red, purple, and orange of the New England species have been thus preserved.

At a recent meeting of the Geological Society three papers were read. The first, by Dr. J. Stoddart, on the Carboniferous rocks of the South Indian cretaceous rocks, contained a summary of the more important of the species, and a reference to the relations of the rocks of the two districts of Ceylon and species. He also discussed the relation of the fauna to those of the European carboniferous rocks, and concluded that the two districts of the geological areas in India and Europe are not identical in their physical features. In the second paper (on the growth of the fern), or coralloidal aragonite Mr. W. Wallace described the physical features of the coralloidal aragonite, and mentioned, and endeavored to show that they here certain relations to the geological structure of the country, and to the physical features of the rocks varied with the elevation of the rocks and their position in relation to the valleys. All the formation of the plain of Cheshire and Lancashire and the veins in their neighborhoods were stated to be noted upon by decomposing agents, and it was therefore inferred that the nature of their decomposition in vein and rocks is proportional to their elevation above the sea. Mr. Wallace stated that aragonite is produced only after the strata are traversed by joints, and that the brecciated aragonite very rarely occurs, being found only in the vicinity of the veins. He then described the nature of the conditions existing the causes and conditions necessary to the formation of this coralloidal aragonite, he came to the conclusion that the theory of a circulation through the pores of the rock of fluids holding its compounds partly in solution is the only one which harmonizes with the varied phenomena observed in the country. The third paper contained notes by Sir John F. Hrrschel on preserving some rhomboidal specimens of ironstone, &c., from a quarry at Claxheughton, King's County, and from Collingwood Quarry, in the Weald of Kent. The Wealden specimens were all closed boxes, each containing a rhomboid of limestone and sandstone, the other cases being slightly fumiginous.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 20.

SUNDAY, May 14.—Fourth Sunday after Easter. First publication of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, 1842. The Prince Consort opens the Museum of Practical Geology, 1851.
MONDAY, 15.—The Bodleian Museum at Oxford founded, 1679. Death of Daniel O'Connell, 1847.
TUESDAY, 16.—Mary Queen of Scots enters England, never to return, 1568. The Union Canal—navigation of poppy and other crimes, 1865. Sir William Petty, political economist, born, 1623.
WEDNESDAY, 17.—Death of the Empress Catherine I. of Russia, 1727; of Prince Talleyrand, 1838.
THURSDAY, 18.—Declaration from the Established Church of Scotland, and establishment of the Free Church, 1843. Opening of the new reading-room, British Museum, 1857. Moon's last quarter, 9h. 39m. a.m.
FRIDAY, 19.—St. Dunstan, Archbishop of Canterbury, died, 988. Battle of La Hogue, 1692. Death of Sir Isaac Newton, March 20, 1726.
SATURDAY, 20.—Birth of Albert Durer, engraver upon wood, 1471. Death of Christopher Columbus, 1506.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 20.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
h.	m.	h.	m.	h.	m.	h.	m.	h.	m.	h.	m.	h.	m.
1	34	2	14	2	54	3	34	4	14	4	54	5	34
13	58	14	38	15	18	15	58	16	38	17	18	17	58

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.
Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF					THERMOMETER.			WIND.		RAIN.
	Barometer reduced to 32° and Sea Level.	Direction of Wind.	Velocity of Wind in miles per hour.	Amount of Cloud. 0 = Clear Sky. 10 = Overcast.	Rain in inches.	Highest.	Lowest.	Mean.	Greatest Direction.	Greatest Velocity.	Miles.	Inches.
3	29·941	19·7	10·1	·68	0·0	49·7	39·7	44·7	SSW. S.	18	193	·032
4	29·948	33·7	12·1	·95	10	51·4	41·7	46·5	SSW. S.	23	233	·054
5	29·972	33·7	12·1	·95	10	51·4	41·7	46·5	SSW.	23	229	·121
6	29·973	35·2	12·3	·66	0	56·9	40·3	48·6	WSW.	23	245	·042
7	29·967	34·2	9·2	·76	0	58·2	42·2	50·2	W.	18	208	·000
8	29·956	34·2	9·2	·76	0	58·2	42·2	50·2	WSW. W.	18	191	·000
9	29·914	38·0	12·3	·93	7	49·7	41·7	45·7	SW. SSW.	23	145	·049

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above week, viz., from May 3 to May 9 inclusive:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected	29·988	29·973	29·977	29·965	29·940	29·903	29·897
Temperature of Air	49·7°	50·7°	51·4°	56·9°	58·2°	49·7°	45·7°
Temperature of Evaporation	44·9°	45·9°	46·5°	51·5°	51·5°	43·9°	43·3°
Direction of Wind	S.S.W.	S.W.	S.W.	W.	W.S.W.	S.W.	S.W.

OPENING OF THE DUDLEY EXHIBITION.

The ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of SATURDAY NEXT, May 20, will contain the following Engravings in connection with the Opening of the Dudley Industrial Exhibition:—

View of the Interior of the Exhibition Palace, and of the Inaugural Ceremony performed by the Prince of Wales (Two pages).
The Ball given by the Lord Mayor of Dublin at the Mansion House.
The Review of Troops by the Prince of Wales in Phœnix Park.
The Prince of Wales in the Sculpture Hall.

Next week's Number will also contain the following Engravings:—
THE ARRIVAL OF THE EMPEROR NAPOLEON AT ALGIERS—Two Illustrations, from Sketches by our Special Artist.
The Investiture of the King of Denmark with the Order of the Garter, in the Royal Palace at Copenhagen.
The Funeral Procession of Mr. Lincoln, President Lincoln, at Washington, and its Reception at New York.
Sketches from the City of Richmond after its Evacuation by the Confederates: the House of Mr. Jefferson Davis.

Price of the Number and Supplement, Fivepence; Stamped, to go free through the post, Sixpence.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1865.

THE AMERICAN WAR IS OVER. We are unaware that it has ever been our duty to write five words which we have written with more unfeigned satisfaction. The lack of tracing the history of this hideous conflict has been one which we have sought to discharge faithfully, unwelcome as it was; and at the close of the struggle we may fairly say that, while none of the splendid deeds of the South blinded us to the fact that there was a black spot upon its escutcheon, none of the harsh and unfriendly utterances of the North in regard to Southern character made us feel less than justice to the perseverance and vigour with which the Federals fought for the Union. It may seem a small thing to add that we have always sought to record the exact truth, in reference to the events of the war, so far as we could ascertain the truth; but it is not entirely without grounds that it has been laid to the charge of partisans on both sides here that narratives of victory and defeat have not unfrequently been coloured in accordance with party views. Let all these things be forgotten, now that North and South are again joined, and

> For as the sword can make them, they are one.

Johnston's surrender, on the same terms that were accorded to Lee, rapidly followed the repudiation of the more easy terms which Sherman thought himself entitled to offer. There remain, of course, a number of Confederate soldiers in the field; but that number is so reduced that it is hardly to be supposed that they will make a stand. It may be doubtful, indeed, whether their commanders would be justified by military usage in continuing the struggle, if, under the circumstances, the same terms as the two armies which have capitulated. Should they endeavour to hold out, the overwhelming forces which will rapidly be hurled against them will inevitably crush them. The flight of Jefferson Davis, therefore, has finally shut has been fired. But the war itself is over, whatever may remain to be done.

Now have the new President and his advisers to address themselves to the solution of the grandest problem which has ever been presented to conquerors—the problem of real pacification. Nations in succession have been subdued before now, but the conditions have never resembled those in which Mr. Johnson finds the noble provinces which have been regained to the Union by the sword. European despots have fought with insurgents, and won the day; but it was to lay on new chains and stamp out the last embers of hope. England was suddenly defied by a fierce and monstrous revolt in the East; she closed with the rebels, and they were given to the region kites; but her terrible work done and the lesson read, she had but to leave it to produce its own effect. But in the Southern States the case is entirely different. There is an absolute necessity for joining the Southerns at the earliest moment that prudence permits in the possession of equal rights with the rest of the population, and they must be treated with generosity from the first. They must be regained to the Union, not only in name but in fact, and they must be aided in the reparation of the ravages of war and invited and encouraged to the peaceful cooperative citizens. There is now the question of the war has deprived them of the unpaid labour by which they were formerly supported. The North should hardly be less generous to a vanquished brother than England was to her own children. We compensated those from whom we took the slave. We do not say that any such compensation is due to men who removed the quarrel from a national tribunal to a field of blood; but the warm and true bonds of the Northern American will tell them that some indulgences, be the form what it may, should be proffered to those who have to learn to make bricks without straw. The moment has arrived when the noblest statesmanship is required, The problem for solution is very grand; and it will be seen whether republican institutions have produced men who are competent to deal with such a crisis. Upon the measures of the next six months depends the question whether the Union shall be truly consolidated, or whether a large disaffected population shall be left to watch for a new opportunity of severance.

The miserable assassin of the President has perished miserably, as he deserved. If he desired the éclat of a state trial and a solemn execution, to be preceded by a theatrical speech, these things have been denied him. He has not even had the gibbet and the gaping which he wanted to have added to prepare for John Brown. Injured by some accident, perhaps his fall when he sprang past the wife of the man he foully murdered and dropped on the stage—he was hunted from a swamp into a barn, and he was brought down by the shot from a common soldier's pistol. He escaped the gallows, and has been buried like a dog. Except in connection with the trial of his accomplices, there is no reason why his infamous name should be kept in print a page.

One thing more, and the greatest. Slavery is extinct in the United States of America. On this record all men—certainly all Englishmen—must look with unmixed satisfaction. In the winter of 1862 the ladies of England put an address to the ladies of America, and in respectful and affectionate language besought them to consider the best means of making preparation for the abolition of slavery. The document bore the names of nearly a hundred and fifty Peeresses and Englishwomen. He had that kindly prayer been heeded, it was that the horrors we have been recording for four years would have been spared; but the subject was a large, a complex, and a difficult one, and it was less easy to grapple with it than to write sentimental letters to their sisters and attend to the beggars in Ireland and in the dens of London. Still, we believe that the appeal sank deep into many hearts in the West, and confirmed many more in their desire for a peaceful settlement of the question. But it was decreed that it should not be settled peaceably; and four years of the most sanguinary warfare have been needed to break chains which indeed of late years have been quite galling enough. But the work is done, and the Slave is free. There is much, very much, of deep and enduring sorrow in the sight which is now to be seen in America; but for this victory of freedom we may all thank God.

The Queen has approved of M. Carl Gustaf Akerberg as Consul at the Cape of Good Hope for the King of Sweden and Norway.

The Royal yacht Victoria and Albert was esteemed, a few years since, one of the swiftest steamers of her size in the world; but her performance on the trial trip, on Wednesday week, when she carried the Prince and Princess of Wales and their children from Gravesend to Osborne, was not quite equal to the best speed she has made on that line by the Chester and Holyhead packets, which are stationed, as the Leinster, at Kingstown, and the Holyhead Pier, on the one side, while the Victoria and Albert lay on the other, when her machinery remained, under his orders, in charge of a London. The Royal yacht got under way immediately and started. The Prince of Wales and his family went ashore shortly afterwards, and their luggage and mails could be taken on board. The Victoria and Albert was therefore well under way by the time the Prince and Princess had left the Breakwater. The passengers now had a good opportunity of comparing the speed of the Royal yacht with that of the Chester and Holyhead packet boat, which, as she lay at the Breakwater, had been moored alongside the Victoria and Albert. The quarter of a mile which the latter ship had to run while the Prince and Princess were on board the packet, between the two vessels, proceeded together, and were off Kingstown Harbour at nearly the same time. The Victoria and Albert, however, proceeded first, passing the Harbour and the Black Prince and the frigate Liverpool, which manned yards and fired a salute, as she passed. The Victoria and Albert ship will subsequently be in Swedish steam sloop of war also, which lay in Kingstown Harbour. The Victoria and Albert, Leinster, and Prince were gay with flags and crowded with people, amidst whose acclamations the Prince of Wales set foot upon Irish soil.

SKETCHES AND DRAWINGS BY JOHN PARRY.—Numerous and various as are the gifts of this accomplished and unassuming mimetic artist, John Parry, at the Gallery of Illustration and elsewhere, during a long series of years, he has taught us some of our strongest lessons in the character of a painter and draughtsman, capable of supplying a capital illustration to almost any subject with the least fatiguing effort. His touch is parte-crayon, and brisk. Yet, to convince us that it is not the mere facility of the hand that is at work, but the original and genial John Parry, our readers have only to look at the sketches which we have given in this and the tomorrow, now open at the Gallery, 9, Haymarket. They number in the aggregate 150, and are arranged in several albums. The subjects comprise landscape and marine pieces, with many bold and startling effects of storm, melodrama, and the sensational mid-life, ornamental designs, copies from the old masters (one from Rembrandt, showing a true perception of the genius of that great painter), sketches in the streets, children, dogs, and heads, some of them highly characteristic and humorous; and even a study for a large picture, "The Assassination of Julius Cæsar." In justice, it may be said that, though displaying a self-taught and comparatively unpractised hand, the sketches are not those of a mere amateur. They possess the true feature of the exhibition is the many odd, quaint, irresistibly droll, and comic subjects and studies of character. Among the most curious of these may be mentioned a drawing of "Old Horace near the Tower," covered with printed placards, all intended to illustrate; another of John Parry himself, seated at the piano, with a waryful Punch-like sprites playing about him with the utmost intermissible legend of his innumerable entertainments from "1825 to 1865;" the etchings of his published "Musical Manual, or Musical Terms, Illustrated in a Manner Ridiculous;" a series of scenes in omnibuses, reminding one, both by the fun of the drawings and their titles, of John Leech; and "In the Strand, in the Strand," the fog of Jan. 31, '65—parts of a vehicle or two, and three or four faint figures on a dark grey ground.

FINE ARTS.

EXHIBITION OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY.

In continuation of our last week's review we proceed to notice, in the first place, the principal remaining figure-pictures by members or associates of the Academy.

Mr. Poole's love of unusual or preternatural effects has full scope in a subject which, calculated as it is to excite only horror and pain, is unfit for artistic representation—"A Suburb of Pompeii during the Great Eruption of 79 A.D." (162). We must at once say that what is seen of the sky effect does not coincide with what is known of the general obscuration of a great volcanic eruption, and the air of style which the picture undoubtedly possesses would have been better sustained with more accurate drawing, and more thoroughly realised expressions. Among small buildings in an open space into which burning flakes and dead birds are falling there are two principal groups—a woman almost forgetting, in her own agony of suffocation, her choking child; and an aged blind man sitting in stoical helplessness with three children clinging to him, dying. Women and children, dead or dying, are strewn about; and even at such a moment avarice masters fear in an old woman who draws off a ring from the finger of one of these; on the right, a hand is seen closing the door of what must be a living tomb; and to the left, a young man lets himself down from a window in a manner closely resembling a figure in Raphael's "Incendio del Borgo." No attempt is made to give antiquarian verisimilitude to the accessories. The sense of partial inadequacy of treatment with which we leave this picture is not felt before another by the same artist of two lovers parting in the moonlight (263)—the man to join his mother in a boat that waits to convey him to an emigrant-ship in the offing.

As regards Mr. Elmore's choice of subject, "On the Brink" (138) which may be displeasing to the fastidious, we are one of those who would enlarge in every way the sphere of the artist's legitimate activities, and we think he keeps within that sphere when he endeavours to make art subserve a moral purpose. The incident to which the title refers occurs outside the window of a play-room of the Conversationshaus at Baden. A haggard-looking, fashionably-dressed young woman sits in the cooling moonlight; the expression of her face relapsing towards despair, and the empty purse hanging from her relaxed hand, tell us she has lost her last florin. Whispering at her ear in the shadow between the moonlight and the gas-lighted room beyond is a young man offering her the wherewithal to return to the table, but at a price, or ruinous slavery of obligation, at which the woman's conscience will not as yet permit her to accept, though the result of the struggle is still dubious: she is "on the brink." In the hot glare of the room the punters are seen round the rouge-et-noir table—winners, losers, and spectators all more or less infected by the fever of gambling, and nearer a man stands up pricking his card, overlooked by a female.

Mr. J. F. Lewis surpasses all previous efforts in his "Turkish School in the Vicinity of Cairo" (121) and "In the Bey's Garden" (234). The school-room of the first seems to be the interior of a Saracenic building of some architectural pretension, originally used for other purposes, if we may judge from its height, the rich inlays, the large, picturesque verandah and elaborate screen of lattice-work, through which the sunlight percolates, and, falling in varying perspective reticulations on carpet and box and cat in the foreground, is imitated with a delicate minuteness and truth quite illusive. For the most part, however, and allowing for a little extra drowsiness induced by the climate, a Cairene school resembles such institutions elsewhere. Here is the old pedagogue, stick in hand, squat on his divan, blinking at the sunglare (his head, by-the-way, the least admirable part of the picture); here is the dullard, drawling over his lesson; here the hypocritically attentive; and there, out of the master's immediate ken, all play, idlesse, and mischief. But the great charm of this picture—perhaps a higher quality, artistically, than even its exquisite precision of touch and brilliancy of colour—is the subordinated yet preserved beauty of the hues in the inner part of the room. The second subject is a pretty odalisque, her face in broad demitone, with warm reflected glow (revealing the best flesh-painting, by this artist, we have seen), gathering, in the seraglio garden, a nosegay. The picture itself—the lovely flowers, the splendid draperies, the graceful figure, the rose-glimmering bowers beyond the sunlit foreground—is one nosegay of splendid, ineffable colour. Mr. Lewis's style becomes more and more sui generis and inimitable; yet none other is so exactly fitted to fully realise the minutiæ of ornamentation which characterises nearly everything in Eastern life which meets the eye.

Mr. Webster appears with renewed strength in his very admirable picture of a party of old female "Village Gossips" (77), the very types of their kind, seated round the tea-table. You may fancy you almost hear them at their delightful entertainment—"at every word a reputation dies." There is capital painting, also, in "My Back Kitchen" (87). Mr. Horsley contributes only one picture, "Under the Mistletoe" (146), but that is as charming as anything of similar kind we have had from the painter. Christmas has brought together in the Old English home, before the capacious hearth and blazing fire, a little man of eight or nine and a still younger lady, his "Cousin Dorothy," as we learn from the young gentleman's slate, on which he has drawn her portrait and also partly conjugated the verb amare together plainly indicative of his sentiments. Of course, they are destined to be lovers and to perpetuate the ancient name and lineage; but, at present, the dolly she has taken from its cradle and is kissing under the mistletoe is the successful rival of the jealous, wo-begone boy in the affections of his little ladye-love. We have already recorded our opinion of "Im Walde" (129), by Mr. Dobson, and we only need add that the other pictures by the painter have more than ordinary refinement of feeling and execution. "The Good Shepherd" (436) may remind us somewhat of the quietism of German religious art; but the "Girl with Fagots" (193) is, like the picture first named, one of the sweetest studies of childhood Mr. Dobson has produced. Mr. H. O'Neil's large picture of King Canute, his wife and courtiers listening, while being rowed on the Ouse, to the chanting of the monks of Ely (327) is, notwithstanding the respectable painting, a work of singularly small interest.

Before turning to the mass of paintings by English artists "without the pale" it will be instructive, as well as courteous, to notice a few contributions by foreign artists. Of these the most important is the "Christ Descendu de la Croix" (194), by M. E. Signol, the eminent painter who succeeded Horace Vernet as President of the Ecole des Beaux Arts. The intentionally sombre, sorrowful tone of this picture and a certain academic air may repel many; but until the public can appreciate the reverent and chastened aim, the educated taste, and unobtrusive mastery of such works as this, we have little hope for the elevation of the British school. Were it not for a too monotonous smoothness, precision, and netteté, which restrains the imagination, we should feel almost unmixed admiration for M. Rudolf Lehmann's thorough and scholarly pictures, the "Pilgrims in Sight of Rome" (272) and "The Distaff" (7). A somewhat similar remark applies to M. Perugini's pair of Italian "Lavandáje" (276) tripping laughingly along with their basket of washed linen—a picture perfect in drawing, action, and expression. "Le Lutrin" (435), by M. Legros—a group of priests chanting the office from the raised desk or lectern, which gives the title to the picture (as it also did to the famous poem by Boileau)—is excellent as regards breadth and physiognomic truth, though rather flat and ineffective. M. Ribot's picture of a couple of tinkers (547) is unsurpassed for force and lifelike character by anything in the exhibition; and even the colouring, albeit too black (after allowing for the men's occupation), has fine Velasquez-like "quality."

Let us now proceed to notice the more prominent works by artists (not yet recipients of the academic diploma) who have specially distinguished themselves this year. Of Mr. Armitage's extremely fine picture we shall have to speak when we offer an engraving of it. Mr. Watts seems to us, in his head of Mr. Bowman, the eminent oculist (251), at length to have given complete technical expression to aims and intentions in portraiture which, when realised in this way, must tend to raise the art from the low level to which it has sunk in England. But we shall return to this head, so unique in its apparently unconscious life and mastery, in our general notice of the portraits. In "Esau" (11), the mighty hunter, with sun-browned, hirsute arms, shaggy hair, and tufted forelock, tall and sinewy—the ideal of a form made and trained for strength and swiftness—resting at evening on his spear after the chase, Mr. Watts has produced a work which, however it may be misunderstood or misappreciated in the glare of the exhibition, is of grave, noble, and truly monumental character. Mr. Orchardson worthily sustains the expectations formed from his "Challenge" (which we engraved from the Winter Exhibition) in an illustration of "Hamlet" (605)—the scene of the interview between Hamlet and Ophelia, with the King and Polonius listening behind the arras. The figure of Hamlet and the expressions of both are finely conceived, but Ophelia might have had more beauty. The space of tapestry is large compared with the figures; but these derive extraordinary power and relief from its dull colour and indefinite forms.

The numerous and able English painters are well represented who draw their subjects from the past; but who, to meet the requirements of private purchasers, do not select the grand leading events and personages of history, and treat them on the scale and with the severity and generalising grasp constituting the old "historical style," but rather select or invent domestic, episodal, conversational, and more familiar incidents, forming the modern branch of painting, called, from its partaking of the character of genre, the "historical genre." This interesting class of works is exemplified in the contributions of Messrs. Pettie, Storey, Clay, Hayllar, and others. Mr. Pettie has, like Mr. Orchardson, acquired a dexterity of handling which is a little too obtrusive. In the essentials, however, of character and telling a story, his "Drum-head Court-martial" (192) is a most remarkable work for an artist so newly risen into public notice. The prisoner on his trial is a captured Cavalier whom Roundhead troopers are roughly searching, as he is submitted to the summary procedure of martial law before a Parliamentary commander, who has assumed a Justice's scarlet robe, and his Puritan chaplain. Mr. Storey's picture, "A Royal Challenge" (350) represents Henry VIII., when young, condescending (like Nero) to share in the pastimes of his people. The awkward deprecatory modesty of the sturdy fellow the King has challenged to a bout at cudgel-playing is capitally imagined and rendered; while the numerous figures—the courtly company on the one side, and the merry-making rustics on the other—are very judiciously introduced. Mr. Clay's picture of Charles IX. and the French Court witnessing the Massacre of St. Bartholomew from the windows of the Tuileries would have appeared under more favourable conditions (for there is much dramatic characterisation and expression in the complicated groupings) if Mr. Calderon had not given us another, and, we must think, a more paintable scene on that ghastly morning. Here nothing but disgust and detestation are awakened; but, in the sanctuary of the English ambassador's house, our sympathies felt at home, and there was much to relieve the horrors, as here suggested, but not expressed.

It is curious (to diverge partially from the class of painting of which we are speaking) to find how often in this exhibition the same fundamental principle of art is violated. Take, for instance, two pictures which naturally associate themselves in one's memory—Mr. Burgess's "Bravo Toro!" (304), a group of spectators at a bull-fight; and Mr. S. Solomon's "Habet!" (431), a party of Roman ladies witnessing a gladiatorial contest. Both give unmixed pain, or may afford a morbid gratification, but neither has a sufficiently evident moral intention. In the one the imagination is driven to figure the bull goring man or horse—doubtless the former, one horse or a dozen being of little account; in the other the exclamation "He has it!" leaves us in no doubt that a mortal thrust or blow has been delivered, and is the more revolting because women are the willing or delighted spectators. In Mr. Burgess's picture the variety of character and expression is very admirably discriminated; but Mr. Solomon has ventured rather beyond his powers, both in scale and subject: the drawing is inaccurate, the modelling weak, the colouring mannered.

Among works of historical genre not yet noticed is "Queen Elizabeth's Toothache" (527)—the Bishop of London has just volunteered to have a tooth drawn by way of encouraging example to the timid Queen—a humorous picture by Mr. Hayllar, in composition and colour by much the artist's best work. In graceful truth equally of conception and imitation, and dainty unostentatious skill of handling, few of our young artists approach Mr. J. Archer. All his pictures this year are very admirable. "My Great Grandmother" (145), a little lady of ten, in flowered sacque and quilted petticoat; "Maggie, You're Cheating" (452), two girls of the same period, but a little older, at cards; and the "Puritan Suitor" (575), asking in marriage a pretty young lady, who clings blushingly round the knees of her irate Cavalier father. Mr. Yeames's finely-coloured work, "Arming the Young Knight" (367), in the midst of a family the head of which has been slain; and Mr. Hodgson's charming seventeenth-century version of "Taking Home the Bride" (398), in which a newly-married couple on one horse are leaving, amidst general felicitations, the old home for the new; Mr. Noel Paton's exquisitely-elaborated but slightly hard little picture (315) of a child in a romantic dell realizing as fact the fairy fancies of its nursery stories; Mr. F. D. Hardy's "Leaky Roof" (265), in which we see, in a picture worthy of his master, Webster, a cheery housewife, with the industry of Mrs. Partington and much better effect, mopping up the water that pours through the roof of her crazy tenement; and Mr. Gale's Oriental subjects contribute, after their diverse ways, greatly to the rich and varied promise of our younger race of painters. The last-named artist, in particular, has made a noteworthy stride in his unusually large illustration of scripture (like Mr. Herbert's) from contemporary facts of the East—the "Woman having an Alabaster Box of very Precious Ointment" (429)—a work wonderful in colour and sunny luminousness of tone; as also is the smaller picture, "A Certain Blind Man Sat by the Wayside Begging" (71). Another Scriptural illustration here, "The Young Saviour Observing the Hypocrites" (451), by Mr. Barwell, fails to impress, notwithstanding the excellent painting and intelligent conception of the group surrounding the Pharisee, owing, apparently, to the English character of the mother and young Christ, which neither satisfies the imagination on the one hand, nor, on the other, the "realistic" critical knowledge of the East which we have all acquired in recent years.

Mr. C. Lucy is a painter who, while preserving genuine English sympathies, has profited by long residence on the Continent. The reserve and regulative taste of a thorough artistic education, not often attained in this country, is evident in his picture of Garibaldi placing a bronze laurel wreath on the tomb of the Italian patriot Ugo Foscolo, in Chiswick churchyard (380), and in which, with an unforced natural suggestion of glory and heavenly approval in the falling sunbeams, the attention is wholly concentrated on the head of the living hero, a head that, if we may trust our own impressions, affords the best portrait of Garibaldi yet produced. We are glad to observe in the works of Mr. A. Moore (a very young artist, we believe) a feeling for largeness and sober dignity of style rare among English painters, conjoined—see his "Elijah's Sacrifice" (615)—with an original dramatic imaginativeness which, unless we are greatly mistaken, will be productive of noble results. Mr. Arthur Hughes has avoided the excess of purple which marred the effect of former works; and all that remains to interfere with enjoyment of his exquisite delicacy and poetic refinement is a little weakness of drawing and laboured timidity of execution. Nothing, however, could more appropriately illustrate the nursery tale of Beauty and the Beast than this artist's picture (190), representing Beauty in the simple white frock she has just chosen from all the splendid dresses of the Royal wardrobe: nothing can surpass the pure, sweet, natural grace and loveliness of the little maiden heroine. The portrait-picture of "Mrs. Leathart and Children" (311), though rather fantastic in its balcony arrangements, has a similar merit of refined treatment, particularly of the children. Lastly, "The Mower" (554) surpasses everything Mr. Hughes has exhibited in mellow harmony of colour and in the sentiment of even-tide, with its associations of rest from honest labour at the peaceful close of day and the child-links that attract and bind to home. Pity it is, however, that the head of one of the children in the foreground is so precocious in size and expression. A greater contrast to the works of Mr. Hughes could not be found than in Mr. E. Nichol's vigorous, humorous, and broadly characteristic picture of three Irish tenants, a "Deputation" (514), as the title tells us, waiting on an avaricious, evasive, intractable, fox-hunting landlord. The three Patlanders are capital foils in character: there is the heavy-jowled, fearless, well-to-do man of few words, seated doggedly; there is the voluble fellow, ready with blarney and wit, standing gesticulating; and the third, with a larger organ of veneration, dumb-foundered, trying to hide himself and his awkward confusion, and anxious to escape altogether from the awful place and presence. We must be content with simple commendation of Mr. D. W. Wynfield's sober and well-studied "Last Days of Queen Elizabeth" (189); Mr. J. D. Watson's admirable picture of a pleasant-looking lady in a picturesque costume of the seventeenth century regarding herself with modest complacency in the glass (609); Mr. J. Faed's "Kinmont Willie," of the "Border Minstrelsy," led a prisoner—the painting of which is equal to that of some of the Dutch masters in its precision and finish, though pictorial artifice is too obvious in the sky; Mr. Joseph Clarke's "Good-by, Baby!" (101), as unaffectedly true to humble life and child-character as anything from the same hand, and more vigorous in colour and effect than recent works; Mr. G. Smith's "Light and Darkness" (406), a blind girl feeling the raised letters of a Bible for the blind, in a cottage filled with three generations—the best work the artist has exhibited for some years; a cleverly-handled and brilliantly-coloured scene of love and jealousy on the Alameda of Lima (501), by A. Johnston; "The Prisoner" (493), a very pathetic and impressive picture, by A. H. Tourrier; "The Church Door" (494), by F. Wyburd—more robust and not less elegantly and carefully painted than usual; Mr. J. Morgan's capital realisation of boyish fun and character in "Snowballing" (610); Miss M. E. Edwardes's extremely graceful and charmingly-painted picture of a fair young lady burying a pet dove (574), which is one of the best works by a female hand in the exhibition; "The Last Number" (279), an effective and very pleasing little picture, by Mr. A. J. Lewis; Mr. G. B. O'Neil's "Anxious Mother" (199), an amusing picture of a child craving silence as she watches the row of dolls she has just put to bed. In addition to those already announced, we shall engrave, and therefore have another opportunity for reviewing, Mr. Eyre Crowe's large picture of "Whitfield Preaching in Moorfields" (559); Mr. Hicks's "Infant Orphan Election at the London Tavern" (553), another elaborate work; Miss E. Osborn's "Christmas Time" (488), and "The Lost Found" (583), by Mr. Herrick. Mr. Sandys' "Gentle Spring" (359) is disappointing. The result is far from commensurate with the extremely careful elaboration of the execution. The impersonation throughout is that of well-worn classical allegory, but without natural grace or virginal tenderness—without even the somewhat fantastic luxurious abandonment of the poetry by Mr. Swinburne accompanying it. The same painter's "Cassandra" (503) raving her unheeded prophecies is an extravagantly unpleasant subject for a single head. Mr. Marks is another artist who hardly answers the expectations formed from his "Gargoyle Sculptor," notwithstanding that he has advanced in technicalities. His "Hark! Hark! the Dogs do Bark!" &c. (331), a group of beggars entering a town in the sixteenth century, is rather empty, both in thought and composition. It has quaintness and character of the kind bordering on caricature, but little real humour. Much better, it seems to us, is the Shakspearean illustration "Francis Feeble, Woman's Tailor" (591), taking the measure, with servile and almost personal dread, of a tall, portly "City madam," a portentous contrast to himself, while her husband waits, and outside is being read the proclamation of the "King's Press," which led to Falstaff obtaining as one of his recruits this same "forcible Feeble." Mr. Marcus Stone's picture of a young lady kneeling sadly over her "Old Letters" (619) is rather weakly sentimental. Mr. G. D. Leslie has attempted a higher flight than usual in "The Defence of Lathom House, 1644" (616), with the widowed Countess of Derby encouraging and assisting the defenders in raising the Royal standard on the besieged stronghold. But, notwithstanding some good points of expression, the picture cannot be considered a success: the composition is scattered, the colouring not agreeable. Mr. E. J. Poynter has a striking picture, distinguished by much ability of execution, entitled "Faithful Unto Death" (542), and representing a Roman soldier standing (while others try to escape with life and treasure) at his sentinel post at Pompeii in the ruddy glow from the falling fireflakes and the burning city, lava-lighted by the great eruption, of which Mr. Poole has given a very different version. The subject—which was suggested by the well-known discovery of the skeleton of a soldier in full armour near the Herculanean gate, and who, probably, having received no order to quit his post, died as here represented—is, to our mind, not one well adapted for pictorial representation, either as regards the exceptional effect or the horror of the situation, although the choice is in great part redeemed by the heroism of the soldier. Mr. Rankley's gipsy scene, "After Work" (442), contains much excellent painting; but neither in subject nor execution can it be compared with the "Doctor's Coming" of last year. A party of gipsies, seated at the mouth of their tent, are entertaining themselves and a young artist, to whom they have been sitting as models, with violin, "bones," and singing. Mr. R. Carrick, in two contributions, repeats a certain mannerism of white lighting previously noticeable, and which seems especially arbitrary in "Saved from the Wreck" (513). In the other, "The Cottage Door" (34), the peculiarity is less discernible; while, apart from this, the picture has a charm of unaffected truth. Mr. W. M. Egley also gives us, in an illustration of one of Bulwer's novels, an effect often repeated by him of moonlight contrasted with artificial light. Mr. R. S. Stanhope's works are never devoid of a sense of beauty, though of a peculiar kind; but the affectation of Mediævalism (as we must term it) is very apparent in his illustration of "Beauty and the Beast" (537). If a purely pictorial treatment of stained glass is objectionable on artistic grounds, surely the converse—the introduction of the unintended conventionalities of Gothic glass-painting on canvas—is very much less defensible on any principles of æsthetics or common-sense.

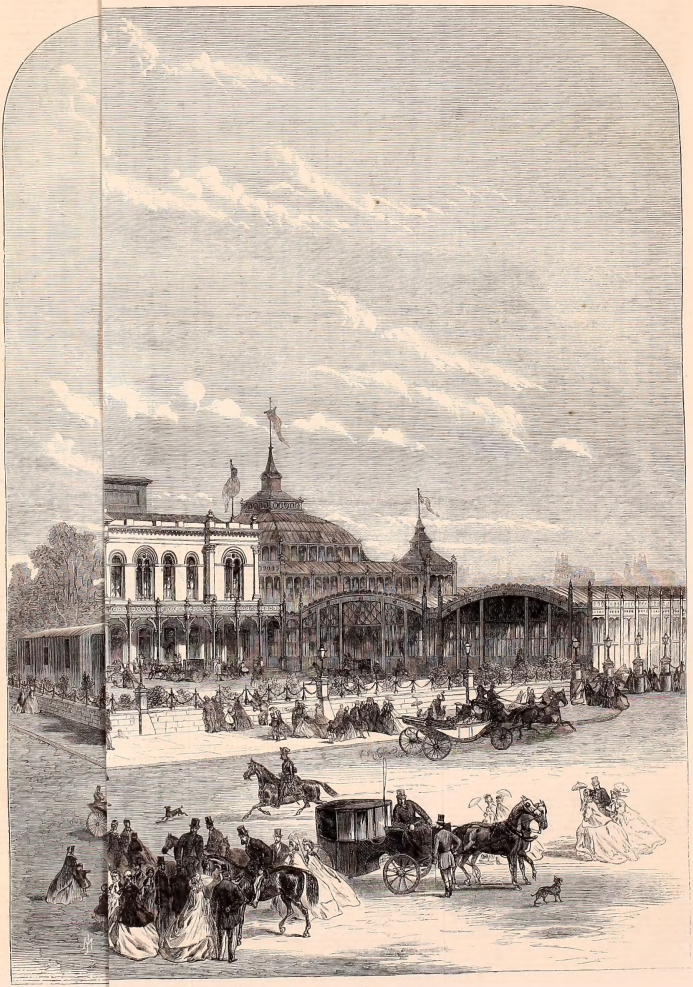
Mr. H. Wallis's hero-worship finds scope in a supposititious meeting between "Shakspeare and Spenser" (7), after, judging by their age, the return of the latter from Ireland; and (a much more important work) "Paul Veronese Painting the Portrait of Sir Philip Sidney" (385), the authority for the representation being a letter from Sidney to Languet. In the latter highly-elaborated picture there is an appropriate sparkling richness and depth of Venetian colour, though too equal in distribution and resinous substance, and lacking those silvery greys the value of which the artist must have seen in Veronese's own works. The figures of Paulo at his easel, the Doge, Venetian nobles, and others introduced in the sumptuous studio are satisfactory; but not so the gallant young Englishman seated on the painter's "throne." The small boyish head is insignificant, while the clumsy legs are those of a burley middle-aged man. Generally, we must remark that the inventiveness of conception which imparted such interest to Mr. Wallis's early pictures appears to have been restrained by a too absorbing regard for technical qualities. Why four pictures, two of them large, by Mr. V. Princep, are deemed entitled to the prominent places they occupy we are unable to imagine. In conception they are obviously either mistaken or commonplace, with one partial exception; while their workmanship is coarse in form, sullied in colour, and wooden in texture. We are very far from insensible to the evidences in Mr. Whistler's works of the artist possessing a rare and precious faculty of colour perception and the power of "hitting" or matching a hue of subtle loveliness with marvellous certainty. But we hold that until he proves that he can preserve purity and beauty of tint in a far closer realisation of form, character, expression, texture, and other essentials of artistic representation, he cannot establish his claims to be considered an artistic colourist in any noble sense. Associated as his mere sensuous colour is at present with more than Chinese ugliness, and most impertinent slovenliness, his works have a value scarcely above that of curious articles of virtù or luxurious upholstery.

We must conclude by commending to the visitor's attention the contributions of Messrs. P. R. Morris, Drummond, Bedford, Mackinlay, Eagles, Payton, Boughton, Slinger, and Opie; Miss Wells, Mrs. Robbinson, and Miss Solomon; also Messrs. Armstrong, E. Hughes, Brooks, Dever, Hannah, F. Weekes, Ballard, and Lidderdale. We shall review the landscapes, &c., in our next.

The President of the Royal Society gave his second conversazione last Saturday night, at Burlington House, Piccadilly. There was a very numerous attendance of the Fellows and a considerable number of distinguished visitors.

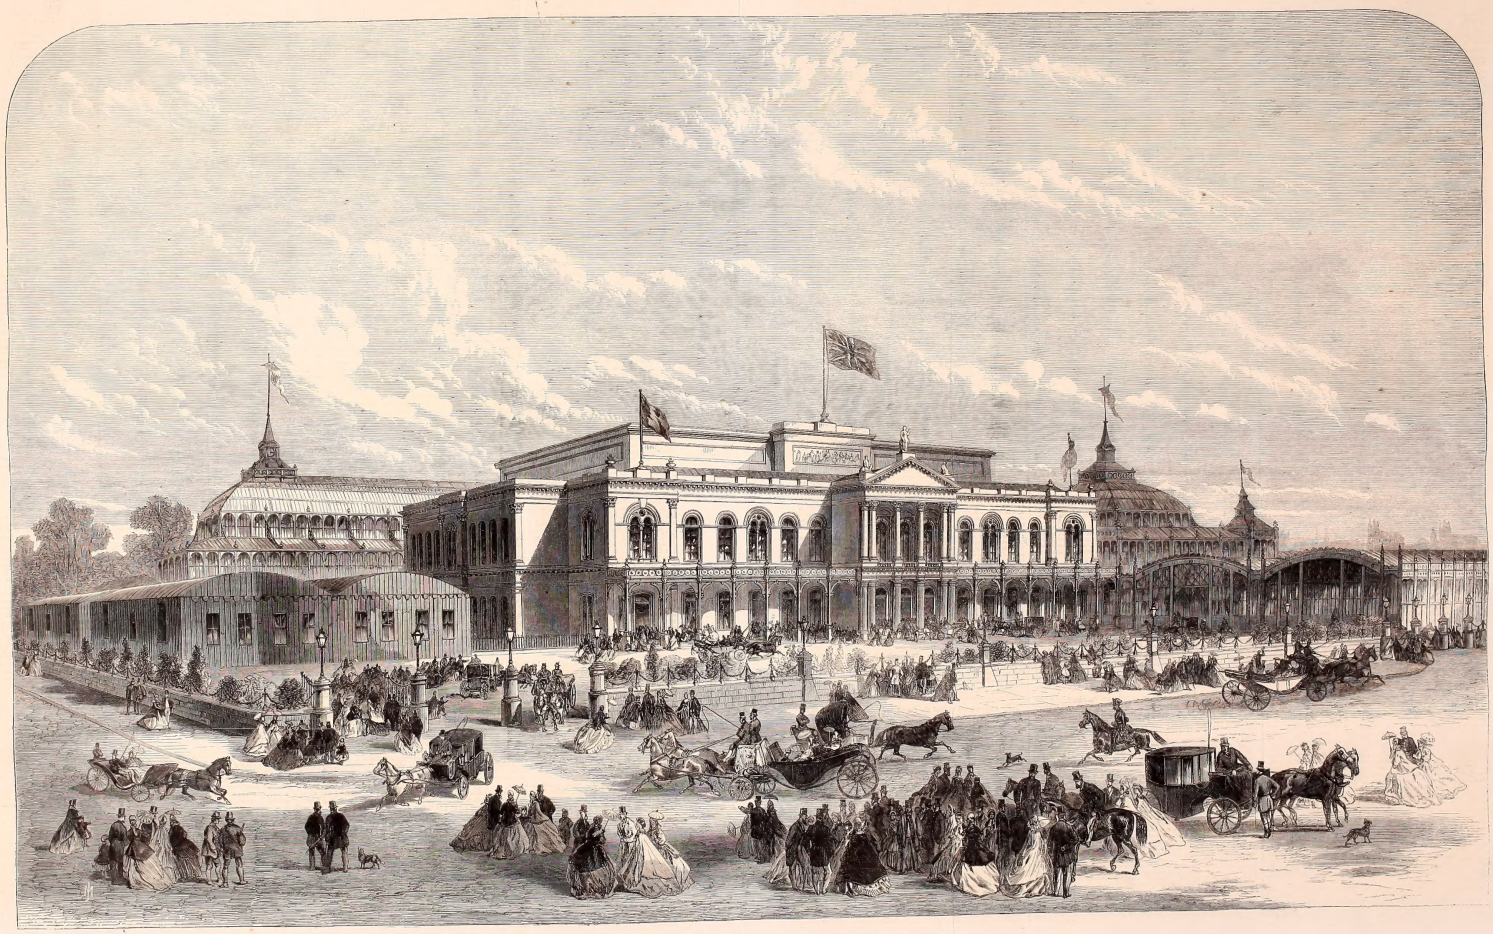
A meeting was held at the South Kensington Museum last Saturday—Earl Granville in the chair—to consider the possibility of utilising the iron buildings irreverently called the Brompton Boilers, which till lately were used as the shell of the South Kensington Museum, but which have recently been replaced by a more sightly building. The noble chairman explained that the old iron building would make three good-sized buildings, and that the Government would remove them to sites to be fixed, provided the parties interested would pay for the site and for their re-erection. There were gentlemen present from all parts of the metropolis, and the claims of each district were separately advocated; but, of course, no speaker was prepared to say what funds the residents in his district would raise. It was agreed to adjourn the meeting for six months, and, in the mean time, gentlemen undertook to see what efforts their various localities were prepared to make with a view to obtain the buildings.

OPENING OF THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.



EAST FRONT OF THE PALACE AND WINTER GARDEN.—SEE PAGE 463.

OPENING OF THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.



EAST FRONT OF THE PALACE AND WINTER GARDEN.—SEE PAGE 463.

ONAL EXHIBITION.

OPENING OF THE DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

EAST FRONT OF THE PALACE AND WINTER GARDEN.—SEE PAGE 465.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

THERE is, as even children know, amongst the traditionary customs of the North American Indians, one which consists in tying a culprit to a stake while the men of the tribe shoot arrows at him, which are made skilfully to whiz close by every part of his body, but not to stick into him; and, at the same time, the squaws expend a choice vocabulary of abuse on the victim. Anyone who was present in the House of Lords on Tuesday evening must have been struck with a sort of resemblance to the Indian scene. For there morally bound fast in his place, the central one of the chamber, and conspicuous in every way, was the Lord Chancellor, at whom for nearly three mortal hours Lord Derby, Lord Redesdale, even Lord Granville (the chiefs and warriors) darted their sidelong shafts; while the Law Lords (the squaws) railed in their piping trebles at the man who had so often manifested his mean estimate of their qualities. As might have been expected, when leave and license was given by those who might be supposed to be the Lord Chancellor's friends, being his colleagues in the Government, the unkindest cut of all came from Earl Russell, a master of cold, heartless, condemnation. Perhaps he has never forgotten that it was a Mr. Bethell who made, from behind his very back in the House of Commons, one of the most damaging speeches against the Ecclesiastical Titles Bill so long ago as 1850; but such angers often linger in minds as celestial as that of Earl Russell. No doubt the House of Peers had a right to vindicate its own character if it was impugned; but as it had formally acquitted the peccant member who had brought trouble upon the body to which he belonged, it seems just allowable to one to think that he might have been spared the fearful moral castigation which was bestowed upon him that night, and which he endured with heroic patience. There were times when it was thought that the Lord Chancellor was about to stand at bay. If he had spoken he would have shown mettle; but, wisely and prudently, as most will think, he forbore, and suffered silently.

In the questions that are put every evening to Ministers in the House of Commons a good deal of ingenuity is exhibited. There are even originality and curious research in some of the inquiries which are made, and often, but for the fact that the seriousness of demeanour is generally in inverse proportion to the absurdity of what is asked, it might be supposed that gentlemen were chaffing Government officials. Lately there have been three special instances of this kind of fooling. With that ineffable, indescribable, inimitable air of self-belief (there is a more appropriate, but less Parliamentary, word) which belongs to him, Mr. Hennessy has again and again pressed an interpellation, which was simply ridiculous, as to why Irish music, which never was included, had been excluded from the harmonic programme at the opening of the Dublin Exhibition. On each occasion he has been countenanced by The O'Donoghue, who sat grimly and patriotically watchful, ready, no doubt, to second the efforts which were being made to get "St. Patrick's Day" and the "Cruiskeen Lawn" inserted between the Hundredth Psalm and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah;" and, at last, the only way of escape from the business was found in a count-out. With equal persistency, but without the offensive tone, Mr. Darby Griffith has been, and still is, driving a question as to how it was that a daily paper had an outline of Mr. Gladstone's Budget on the morning of the day on which it was declared. Mr. Griffith not having been satisfied with the mode in which the Chancellor of the Exchequer parried his demand, only awaits the reappearance of the Premier in the house to insist that the whole Administration, chief and subordinate, should be put on the rack till the telltale is discovered. But the oddest question of all was one set at the War Department by Sir Harvey Bruce, who desired that one of the strict regulations of the Army should be temporarily suspended in order that officers—not soldiers, of course—should not be deprived of the opportunity of going to the Derby. Shortly it is believed that Mr. Whalley will inquire whether there is any latent connection between Popery and the doctrine of Pythagoras concerning wildfowl.

Never, perhaps, were the powers of Mr. Gladstone as a rhetorician put forth with more earnestness and vigour than on the evening when he had to meet the only hitch which has occurred in the progress of his Budget. The teadealers had organised themselves against an immediate reduction of the duty on their article; and Mr. Moffat, who was appropriately chosen as their organ in the house, threatened, good-humouredly, but decidedly, unutterable things from the joint action of a body which in numbers is exactly equal to those of the enrolled volunteers. Indeed, Mr. Gladstone, we believe, had already encountered one of those physical demonstrations which, under the name of deputations, are used personally to bully Ministers on questions with which they have individually to deal. Mr. Gladstone rose with his most determined expression fixed on his countenance, and, in the most unanswerable argument, showed how utterly inconsistent with every principle any change in his purpose must be; watching furtively, however, out of the corner of his eye the gathering thick of the Opposition, who, no doubt, had the mot d'ordre given them to assemble, and, if possible, to give the triumphant finance Minister a check, however slight a one, in his Budget. When he had reached the high-top-gallant of his reasoning, and done so in the most severe and unyielding language, he suddenly changed his note and, singing decidedly small, caught at an excuse which was afforded him to cede all that was asked of him, and so saved himself from the defeat which his own arithmetical calculation made during his speech and Mr. Brand's plaintive communication showed was inevitable. Those who would have been the victors only laughed a little, which was generous of them, under the circumstances.

The expectations that the debate on the single-barrelled reform bill could be made to assume the shape of an electioneering demonstration which prevailed was not very adequately realised on the first day of the discussion, until Mr. Lowe spoke. The remarkable declaration of that gentleman gave a strong stimulus to the interest in the matter; and the renewal of the debate, on Monday, was attended with all the usual accessories of an important Parliamentary occasion. In the attitude and countenance of Mr. Baines as he sat in his place, which was in some degree conspicuous, there might have been observed indications of a triumphant consciousness that he had contrived this time to originate a grand affair. Mr. Horsman, in the very best, in the sense of being the most pointed and most varied, speech which even he has delivered, spoke of Mr. Baines as the "spectre of reform;" and there were moments, especially once, when he rose and expanded his arms wide, as if about to inclose the whole house within them, and tried to look as if he were the genius of the moment, there was a suggestiveness of the phantom huntsman in Weber's opera who hovers behind the active agents of the incantation which is going on in the foreground of the scene. Mr. Baines may be excused for yielding to some feeling of gratification, for rarely of late have so many members assembled and stayed so well during a debate as on this occasion. In the first instance, as they were waiting for a declaration from the Government, they let Mr. Gregory have his way for more than an hour, and were rewarded by the instant rising of Sir George Grey, who was to say the Ministerial say. Very well he said it up to the time when the climax was reached, when he was to state in so many words what Ministers meant to do; and wonderful was the anti-climax, when he announced that they were to stick to that which is the great principle of their policy—viz., approving of everything in the abstract and taking no practical action. Loud and prolonged was the ironical laughter: sarcastic cheers fell thick on the devoted head of Sir George Grey, who soon gave way before the storm, and sat down, pulling his hat tightly over his brows, and looking fixedly at some imaginary object beneath the table. Darker and darker grew the expression on Mr. Gladstone's countenance. He had looked pale and grim, and about his mouth there was tightness, as if exactly there he felt most the moral muzzle which had been fixed on him. It was palpable that he had been forced into consenting not to speak, and to seem as though he dissented from the puny policy of the Government; and, in fact, was being made to do penance for his indiscretion last year. Probably Mr. W. E. Forster touched the right chord when he suggested that it was Mr. Gladstone's duty to answer the speech of Mr. Lowe; and, perhaps, even such a thought was passing through Mr. Gladstone's own mind.

Apart from Mr. Horsman's speech, the rest of the debate was rather galvanic than spontaneous; and certainly Mr. Disraeli is entitled to the negative merit of having crushed it out by the laboured ponderosity of his speech, which had about as much effect as if it had been written and read by the clerk at the table—a process known to be the most effectual in the world for avoiding any display of point or any graces of elocution.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

The District Church Tithes Bill and the County Courts Equitable Jurisdiction Bill passed through Committee.

The Land Drainage Supplemental Bill, the Local Government Supplemental Bill, and the Local Government Supplemental (No. 2) Bill were read a third time and passed.

On the order for reading the Courts of Justice Concentration Bill a third time Lord Redesdale moved as an amendment a clause to the effect that no money should be expended on the purchase of a site for the new courts until full plans and estimates had been laid before Parliament. After some discussion the amendment was carried against Ministers by 47 to 44. The bill, so amended, was then read a third time and passed.

The Courts of Justice Building Bill was read a third time, and, on the question that the bill do pass, Lord St. Leonards moved the omission of the twenty-second clause, which relates to the disposition of the masters' offices. On a division, the amendment was carried by 47 to 40, and the bill passed.

Lord St. Leonards called attention to the subject of strikes and lock-outs, and laid on the table a bill to provide for the constitution of courts of conciliation between masters and men, which was read a first time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

Sir C. Wood, replying to a question of Mr. Caird, said that, having consulted the members of the Council of India, he had arrived at the conclusion not to allow the proposed imposition of export duties on the more important staples of that country.

The Police Superannuation Bill was read a third time and passed, as was also the Tories, Robbers, and Rapparees (Ireland) Bill.

THE BOROUGH FRANCHISE.

The debate on Mr. Baines's bill for extending the borough franchise to £6 householders, partly argued on Wednesday week, was resumed by Mr. GREGORY, who defended the Government from the charge of insincerity on the reform question; and maintained that public opinion, though in favour of liberal measures, was averse to organic changes in the direction of democracy.

Sir G. GREY entered into an elaborate defence of the course which the Government had taken upon this question. He submitted that her Majesty's Ministers had fully redeemed their reform pledges, and that the present state of things was due to the obstacles which the House had thrown in the way of the measure which the Government introduced soon after its accession to office. He gave his support to the present bill, but the Government reserved for future consideration many points connected with the question of reform which Mr. Baines's proposals left untouched. At the same time he wished it to be distinctly understood that the Government would not consider itself pledged to a large measure of reform until it could ascertain the feelings of the country on the question.

The debate was continued by Mr. W. E. FORSTER, who strongly supported the bill; by Mr. LIDDELL, who opposed it; by Sir F. GOLDSMID, who spoke in favour of it, replying to several points in Mr. Lowe's speech; and by Mr. BUXTON, who was opposed to the indiscriminate extension of the franchise.

Mr. STANSFELD was for moderate measures, and therefore he supported the present bill, its object being to introduce into the franchise a moderate number of the working classes, without transferring power from one class to another.

Mr. HORSMAN said that the real object of the measure was to create an entirely new franchise, which was to include the whole of the operative classes. Nevertheless, he argued that it would not comprehend the very class for whom it professed to be intended; while it could not by possibility be presented to the people as a measure of finality at the next election. In fact, the bill was nothing, and was intended as nothing, except a first but irrevocable step towards universal suffrage.

Mr. DISRAELI objected to an increase of the franchise in boroughs, because it was a proposal to redistribute the political power of the country, and because, when the subject of Parliamentary reform was dealt with, it must be comprehensively, and with reference to every class of constituency. He was opposed to this bill, because it dealt partially with the question involved. Having traced the history of the reform bills of the last ten or twelve years, he declared that Lord Derby, when he last took office, had no desire to supplement the original Reform Bill, which he had largely assisted to carry, but he had attempted a solution of a difficult and embarrassing question which it was desirable to settle; and the only object of the bill of that Minister was to extend the franchise to a certain number of the qualified working classes, without admitting more members; and that measure was the only one which really attempted to meet the case by the proposal of franchises founded on personal property and partial occupation—a measure of reform it was the sincere intention of Lord Derby's Government to carry. He laid it down that the principle of reform in the representation was, that it should be not radical but lateral; should be extended, not degraded.

On a division, the "previous question" (moved by Lord Elcho on Wednesday week) was carried by 288 to 214; the second reading was, therefore, rejected.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

Earl Granville laid upon the table a minute of the Council of Education in reference to the revised code.

The amendments to the County Courts Equitable Jurisdiction Bill were reported and agreed to.

The second reading of the Union Officers (Ireland) Superannuation Bill was, after some discussion, carried by 73 votes to 46.

The record of the Title (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee pro formâ, and was ordered to be reprinted, with amendments, and to be recommitted.

The Sheep and Cattle Bill, with certain amendments, passed through Committee.

The Bath Gas Bill, West Worthing Improvement Bill, and Bristol Water Bill were read a third time and passed.

The Royal assent was given by commission to the following bills:—Bill for amending the Law of Evidence and Practice in Criminal Trials, East India Governor-General (Powers, &c.); Bankruptcy and Insolvency (Ireland) Act Amendment, Metropolitan Drainage Extension, Inclosure of Lands, Herring Fisheries (Scotland), Land Drainage Supplemental, Local Government Supplemental, Local Government Supplemental (No. 2), Rosendale Union Gas, Mistley, Thorpe, and Walton Railway; Brighton, Hove, and Preston Constant Service Water, Leicester Lunatic Asylum and Improvement, Limerick Embankment and Reclamation, Oswestry Local Board, Helston-road, Ramsbottom Gas, and Bolton Improvement Bills. The commissioners were the Lord Chancellor, Viscount Sydney, and the Earl of St. Germans.

THE CASE OF MR. EDMUNDS.—Lord REDESDALE defended the Parliamentary Offices Committee against the statement in the report of the Edmunds Committee with reference to the granting of a pension to Mr. Edmunds. He said the petition of Mr. Edmunds had been referred to the Committee without any intimation as to that individual's malpractices at the Patent Office, and he submitted that the Government, by remaining silent on a matter of which they were well informed, had placed both the Committee and the House in a painful and embarrassing position. The Committee, he affirmed, had no idea that Mr. Edmunds had not satisfied all the claims of the Government; nor were they aware that there was any reason why he should not have continued to hold his clerkship in the House of Lords. He concluded by moving two resolutions embodying these statements.—Lord GRANVILLE said there was no intention to reflect upon the conduct of the Offices Committee; and, after some further discussion, Lord Redesdale, expressing himself satisfied with the explanations which had been offered, did not press his resolutions.—Lord WYNFORD presented a petition from Mr. Edmunds praying to be heard by counsel at the bar or before a Committee; but their Lordships passed a resolution, which Earl Granville moved, cancelling the grant of a pension of £800 a year to him.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

Alderman J. C. Lawrence took his seat for the borough of Lambeth, in the room of the late Mr. Williams.

Lord Proby brought up the reply of her Majesty to the address for a commission to inquire into the grievances of Indian officers. Her Majesty promises inquiry and redress.

Mr. Baring obtained leave to bring in a bill to confirm a certain provisional order under the Local Government Act, 1858, relating to the Hastings district.

The Lords' amendments to the Private Bill Costs Bill were considered and agreed to.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:—Glasgow Bridges, Glasgow Corporation Water, Whitehaven and Furness Junction Railway, and Whitehaven, Cleator, and Egremont Railway Bills.

The Attorney-General, in reply to a question from Mr. Paull, said it would be impossible to introduce a bill this Session for the amendment and consolidation of the bankruptcy laws.

Sir W. Gallwey moved a resolution on the subject of railway companies providing means of communication between passengers and guards; but, after an explanation from Mr. Milner Gibson and Mr. H. S. Thompson, the chairman of the North-Eastern Railway, the motion was withdrawn.

On the motion of Mr. Ayrton, a Select Committee was appointed to inquire into the operation of the Acts regulating the inspection of mines and the allegations contained in the petitions presented on the subject.

The adjourned debate on the report of the Committee on the signatures to the petitions in favour of the claims of Azeem Jah, Nawab of the Carnatic, was resumed by the Attorney-General, who said that, having carefully read and weighed the bearings of the evidence, he was satisfied that the inquiry had been conducted with a sincere desire on the part of the Committee to do justice to George Morris Mitchell, who was charged with having himself fabricated and knowingly procured other fabricated signatures to several of the petitions. He suggested, however, that the wisest and simplest course of proceeding would be to adopt the amendment of Lord R. Cecil, to refer the report back to the Committee, with an instruction to take the petition of Mitchell, presented on the previous day, into their consideration. After some discussion, this suggestion was agreed to.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

Leave was given to Mr. Walpole to bring in a bill to amend certain provisions in the Ecclesiastical Leasing Act of 1858.

On the motion for going into Committee on the County Voters Registration Bill, Mr. Hunt moved that it be an instruction to the Committee that they have power to extend the provisions of the bill relating to the powers and duties of revising barristers to the case of registration in cities and boroughs. The motion was agreed to. The bill was subsequently considered in Committee—a clause being introduced to enable persons to make written declarations of qualification, which may be transmitted by post to clerks of the peace, thus dispensing with personal attendance at registration courts.

CHURCH RATES.—Mr. NEWDEGATE moved the second reading of the Church Rates Commutation Bill, the object of which is the substitution of a charge of twopence in the pound on real property, in lieu of existing church rates, extending only to such property as had been assessed to church rates in the last seven years, and to parishes in which church rates have not been rejected on three several occasions; the proceeds to be applied to the maintenance of the fabrics of churches and the carrying on of the services. He only asked the House to sanction the principle of the bill by reading it a second time and then to allow it to be referred to a Select Committee.—Sir C. DOUGLAS opposed the bill, and moved as an amendment that it be read that day six months. The amendment was seconded by Mr. HADFIELD.—Sir G. GREY advised that the bill should not be pressed on the House, considering that there seemed to be a general consent that the vexed question of church rates should be decided by a new Parliament.—Mr. SCOURFIELD supported the bill.—Mr. KINGLAKE objected to it, because, however it proposed to change the incidence of the impost of church rates, it sought to perpetuate them.—Mr. COLLINS urged that the bill should not be pressed, believing as he did that both sides of the House were unanimous in opposition to it.—After observations from Mr. NEATE, who opposed the motion; from Mr. WHALLEY, who attacked the Church of Rome; from Mr. HEYGATE and Lord J. MANNERS, both of whom recommended that the bill should be withdrawn; from Mr. GILPIN and Mr. HADFIELD, who both spoke against the bill; and from Mr. ROSE, who said that the country would, at the coming general election, pronounce unequivocally in favour of maintaining the fabric of the Church as a charge upon the property of the country, the amendment was carried by 126 to 42. The bill was therefore lost.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

The Governor and Company of Copper Miners in England Bill was read a second time.

The District Church Tithes, The Record of Titles (Ireland), and the Union Officers (Ireland) Superannuation Bills severally passed through Committee.

The report of amendments on the Sheep and Cattle Bill was brought up and agreed to.

The County Courts Equitable Jurisdiction Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Bishop of London called attention to the proposed addition to the Imperial Gas Company's works in the immediate neighbourhood of the National Society's Training-school, at Chelsea. It appeared that the Imperial Gas Company was about to extend their works now at Chelsea, so as to cover about 160 acres. Up to the present time, property in the proximity of the gasworks had been much depreciated in value, and the health of the inhabitants considerably affected. A private bill had recently passed the House of Commons enabling the Gas Company to extend their works. He presented three petitions against that bill—two of them from Fulham, and one from the National Society's Training-school, at Chelsea. If the measure in question should pass into a law, and the works projected be carried out, the Church property at Fulham would be so injured and the health of the inhabitants so endangered that it would be impossible for those who could remove to remain there. No doubt it would be easy to sell the Church property and to go elsewhere; but he thought it would be deplorable to leave a neighbourhood which was now historical for a period of about 800 years. The celebrated florist, Mr. Veitch, had expended about £40,000 in buildings and plants in the neighbourhood. The proposed works would inflict a great injury upon him.—After a few words from Lord Ravensworth, who presented a petition from the Vicar, churchwardens, and overseers of the parish to the same effect, the petitions were ordered to lie on the table.

The Archbishop of York introduced a bill to enable railway companies and other corporations to set aside a portion of their funds for the religious education of their workmen and families.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

Mr. Ferrand gave notice that on Monday next he would ask the Attorney-General a series of questions relating to a pension granted to Mr. Wilde, for the purpose ultimately of making room for Mr. Richard Bethell in the Bankruptcy Court of Leeds.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer postponed the Bank Issues Bill until Thursday next.

Lord Stanley asked the Secretary of State for India what amount of expenditure it was intended to incur in the establishment of a line of steam-transports to convey troops by the overland route, and whether all transport of troops to and from India is to take place hereafter by that line.—Sir C. Wood said it was intended to adopt that route, and with that view five vessels would be built, at a cost of about £200,000. The whole expense, including land, would therefore be about a million.

UNION CHARGEABILITY BILL.

On the order for going into Committee on this bill, Mr. BENTINCK rose to move that it be an instruction to the Committee, with a view to rendering the working of the system of union chargeability more just and equal, to facilitate in certain cases the alteration of the limits of existing unions. He contended that the bill would arrest the flow of private generosity, and in that light he regarded it as most objectionable. But his chief ground of objection to the bill was that it was framed for the benefit of the towns and to the prejudice of the rural districts.

Mr. PACKE seconded the motion.

Mr. NEATE considered that the bill was one of justice to the ratepayer and of benefit to the poor. He deprecated any delay in passing it.

Mr. KNIGHT and Mr. SCOURFIELD supported the motion.

Mr. ADDERLEY thought that the bill had been prematurely brought forward. As it was framed it would act unfairly towards the agricultural interest, while it would greatly favour the manufacturing districts.

Mr. VILLIERS observed that there were certain powers given at present for dealing with unions. It was his wish to move in Committee such a clause as would make those powers more ample, but he was overruled. If the amendment were carried, it would only separate the rural parishes from the towns, and in such case it was likely that they would be quarrelling amongst themselves. He should therefore oppose the amendment.

Sir W. MILES considered that the Poor-Law Board evinced an unwillingness to exert their authority when solicited to do so, and their object seemed to be to centralise everything, so that the agricultural interest should have as little as possible to do with that which most nearly concerned them. He did not object to the bill, as he was in favour of the extended area of taxation; but what he wanted was to see it carried out fairly and impartially, which could not be done unless the amendment were agreed to.

Mr. NEWDEGATE also supported the amendment. The alteration of the unions ought to precede the bill of Mr. Villiers. He reminded the House that they were on the eve of a general election, and he asked whether hon. members were prepared to place in the hands of the Government such a vast amount of patronage as the bill would give them.

Sir J. PAKINGTON denied that the amendment was intended to obstruct the bill. The provisions contained in it had been long under consideration, and he should therefore support it.

The House having divided, the amendment was negatived by a majority of 193 to 118.

Mr. THOMPSON moved, as an amendment, that the bill be referred to a Select Committee.

Mr. FERRAND seconded the amendment.

After a long and dreary discussion, which lasted until half-past eleven o'clock,

Sir R. KNIGHTLEY moved the adjournment of the debate.

The proposition having been strongly resisted by the Government, a division took place, when the motion for adjournment was negatived by a majority of 174 to 80.

Mr. LYGON then moved the adjournment of the House, insinuating as a reason the disorderly interruptions that came from the Ministerial side of the house.

Sir G. GREY warmly repelled the charge, and taunted the members on the other side of the house with resorting to unfair means of opposition.

Mr. DISRAELI indignantly repelled the accusation.

After some exciting recrimination, the motion for the adjournment of the House was negatived without a division.

On the motion of Mr. HENLEY, the debate was then adjourned until Monday.

The Philosophical Magazine for May begins with a paper, by Professor Challis, "On the Undulatory Theory of Light," in which he discusses some points which require rectification in the arguments by which he has long maintained "that the phenomena of light are referable to the vibrations and pressures, as mathematically determined, of a continuous elastic fluid, the pressure of which varies proportionally to its density." He refers to Professor Tyndall's experiments respecting the transmutation of less refrangible rays to more refrangible rays as being in agreement with his own theory. In the same number we find a method, devised by M. Weltzien, for obtaining the quantitative estimation of nitric acid in the surface water of town wells. The water is evaporated, and, by a careful addition of carbonate of soda, the lime and magnesia are precipitated as carbonates, and any nitrate of lime is converted into nitrate of soda. The filtrate from this precipitate is evaporated into dryness and mixed with finely divided copper reduced from the oxide by hydrogen. This mixture is heated in a somewhat long combustion-tube, in the usual mode of determining nitrogen, all the atmospheric air having been expelled by carbonic acid. Weltzien, by thus investigating the waters of Carlsruhe, has shown in a marked degree the influence of population in increasing the quantity of nitrates and the completeness with which any nitrogenous organic matter becomes oxydised into nitrates. In a note by M. C. B. Greiss, we learn that magnetism may be produced by turning. In a workshop of the Nassau Railway he found, on examining some thin shavings of cast steel, puddle steel, and soft iron, that all had two well-pronounced magnetic poles. "They had all, by being turned, obtained permanent magnetism, even those which were of soft iron, and which can neither be magnetised by touch nor by the voltaic current. One of the turnings, 7 ft. in length, when broken, formed two complete magnets." In all cases he found that a south pole was formed where the turning began, and a north pole where it ceased. In five or six pieces the magnetism was stronger than in others.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

Mr. Alderman J. C. Lawrence was on Tuesday elected, without opposition, member for Lambeth, in the place of Mr. Williams, deceased.

The Queen has approved of Don Carlos Pedro Schaeffer as Consul-General and Don James L. Hart as Vice-Consul in London for the Emperor of Mexico.

It has been resolved to build a new wing to St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington; and the Prince of Wales will be requested to lay the foundation-stone thereof, on the 23rd inst.

In future, with the sanction of her Majesty, the three entrances to the Royal Horticultural Society's Gardens will be respectively named the Queen's, or Western, Entrance; the Prince's, or North-Eastern, Entrance; and the Office, or South-Eastern, Entrance.

During the months of May, June, July, and August the British Museum—in addition to the ordinary days of admission, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays—will be opened to the public every Saturday, from twelve till six o'clock.

The Rev. Dr. Manning, formerly Prótestant Archdeacon of Chichester, has been appointed to succeed the late Cardinal Wiseman in the Roman Catholic archbishopric of Westminster. In making this appointment the Pope is said to have passed over the nominations of the Roman Catholic Chapter of Westminster altogether.

The annual dinner of the Royal Literary Fund took place on Wednesday evening. The Archbishop of Canterbury presided, and, in proposing the toast of the evening, rated the power and influence of literature very highly. Nearly £1000 was subscribed.

A meeting of the German residents in London was held on Tuesday, at which an address to Mr. Adams, the American Minister, was adopted, expressive of their joy at the victory of the free States of the Union and their horror at the crime perpetrated upon the life of the late President.

At a meeting of the Metropolitan Board of Works, yesterday week, several members called attention to the fact, as a proof of the pure state of the Thames, that fish were beginning to make their appearance in parts of the river where none had been seen for years; and it was stated that a fine jack had been taken just off the Custom House.

The Metropolitan Board of Works has ordered that a portion of Langham-place be incorporated with Portland-place. The names of Queen-street, Queen's-terrace North, Caroline-place, Albert-terrace, Queen's-terrace, Yorick-place, Queen's-place, Sydney-place, and Manor-row, Chelsea, are to be abolished, and the whole line is to be called Flood-street. A new street is to be formed at Whitechapel to facilitate the traffic near Leman-street.

The eighth annual choral festival of the metropolitan schools, under the direction of Mr. Martin, took place at the Crystal Palace on Wednesday. The choir consisted of 3500 children selected from the schools, who have been trained as the first and second sopranos. There were also 500 adult sopranos and altos, and 1000 tenors and basses; forming a choir of 5000 voices. The programme consisted of a selection of choruses, anthems, madrigals, and part-songs. Notwithstanding bad weather, the festival was a complete success.

A public meeting was held, on Wednesday night, at the Vestry Hall of St. Pancras, in aid of a fund set on foot in that parish for the erection of a memorial to Mr. Cobden. The movement was intended at first to be parochial; but as a site of an acre in extent, in a commanding position at the entrance to Camden Town, was freely offered, the original project was enlarged, and contributions are solicited from all parts of the metropolis. The churchwardens of St. Pancras presided at the meeting, and there was a respectable attendance. Subscriptions amounting to upwards of one hundred guineas, including twenty-five by Mr. Harvey Lewis and £10 by Mr. Peter Graham, were announced.

At the meeting of the Metropolitan Board of Works, yesterday week, the report of a committee was brought forward recommending that the board should buy up the private rights connected with the commons and open spaces in the neighbourhood of London and keep them uninclosed for the recreation of the public; the money to be raised by the sale of certain portions of those commons for building purposes. The report, after some discussion, was agreed to.——A motion was made to refer to the drainage committee the question what special remuneration should be offered to the engineer and his assistant engineers for the successful manner in which they had carried through the main-drainage scheme. This motion also was adopted, though not without some hesitation on the part of a minority. In the course of the discussion it was said to be in contemplation to present Mr. Bazalgette with a gratuity, in addition to his salary, of £10,000.

The births of 2074 children—1006 boys and 1068 girls—were registered in London last week. In the corresponding weeks of ten years 1855-64 the average number, corrected for increase of population, was 2024. The deaths in London in the same period were 1236. The average number for the eighteenth week in ten years (corrected) is 1317. 215 deaths occurred from zymotic diseases; of these 19 were caused by smallpox, 9 by measles, 24 by scarlatina, 4 by diphtheria, 55 by whooping-cough, and 43 by typhus. There is a general decline of zymotic disease.——In the week that ended on Saturday, May 6, the births in London and other large towns of the United Kingdom were 4044; the deaths 2626. The rate of mortality last week was 21 per 1000 in London, 27 in Edinburgh, and 25 in Dublin; 34 in Liverpool, 28 in Manchester, 21 in Salford, 23 in Birmingham, 27 in Leeds, 20 in Bristol, 21 in Hull (which appears in the Registrar's report for the first time), and 30 in Glasgow. In Liverpool the births were 381, the deaths 306; in Manchester—births 244, deaths 190; in Salford—births 72, deaths, 44; in Birmingham—births 225, deaths 145; in Leeds—births 183, deaths 118; in Bristol—births 112, deaths 62; in Hull—births 79, deaths 42; in Edinburgh—births 118, deaths 89; in Glasgow—births 378, deaths 243; and in Dublin—births 178, deaths 151.

MAY MEETINGS.—The Church Pastoral Aid Society held its anniversary meeting, at St. James's Hall, on Thursday week. The chair was occupied by the Earl of Shaftesbury. The report stated that during the year eighty-seven new grants were made. Through the operations of the society 671 additional public services on the Sunday are maintained, besides 401 week-day services, 709 school-room and cottage lectures, and 641 Bible classes. The grants from the society had likewise led to the erection or keeping open of 250 churches or chapels, and in districts receiving the society's aid 337 rooms are in consequence licensed for the celebration of Divine worship, so that systematic pastoral visitation is provided for nearly four millions. The total receipts during the year amounted to £60,288, and the expenditure to £43,622.

The sixty-sixth annual meeting of the Religious Tract Society was held, at Exeter Hall, yesterday week—Lord Harrowby in the chair. During the year ending March 31, 1865, the society issued over 300 different publications. The total circulation amounted to 41,794,653. The total receipts of the society for the year amounted to £110,928, and the total expenditure to £109,479.

The annual meeting of the friends and supporters of the Governesses' Benevolent Institution was held, yesterday week, at the Hanover-square Rooms—Mr. T. Hunt in the chair. There had been a considerable increase in the annual subscriptions during the past year. The number of annuitants now on the funds was 122; inmates of the asylum, twenty-two; and provident annuitants, 608: making the whole number receiving the benefits of the charity, 752. The applications for temporary assistance in 1864 had been 792; and grants had been made to 536, amounting in the whole to £1464. The total sum now invested by the charity in the Provident Annuities Fund was £248,000. The Home continues to be of great advantage to those governesses out of employment, and 267 ladies enjoyed its benefits during the past year, most of whom were provided with situations by the aid of the registration department in connection with the Home. During the year, amongst other legacies, have been received the following:—From Miss Fryer, £3000; from Mr. John Farnell, £1000; and from Miss E. Kerr, £1000. The total income for the year had been £13,602, and the expenditure, £13,190. An election for six annuitants took place—one of £32, one of £25, and four of £20. The six highest unsuccessful candidates received a gratuity of £10 each.

The fiftieth anniversary festival of the Artists' General Benevolent Institution took place, on Saturday last, at the Freemasons' Tavern. Lord Houghton was in the chair. It should be understood that this institution is singularly comprehensive in its objects; it does not require the test of membership in a recipient of its aid, but it affords relief to all distressed meritorious artists, their widows and orphans, whether they are subscribers or not, merit and distress constituting the only claim. During the past year seventy-five cases of distress were relieved, at an expenditure of £1330. The result of the evening's subscriptions was a sum of about £1200.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Ragged School Union took place, in Exeter Hall, on Monday evening—the Earl of Shaftesbury in the chair. The report showed that the number of schools was 613, with 50,000 scholars. The number of voluntary teachers is 500 less than it was seven years ago, and the paid teachers have increased by upwards of one hundred. There are eighty-seven penny banks in operation, and the number of depositors is upwards of 16,000. The balance in these banks is £1189. The "Shoeblack Brigade" was progressing, their earnings in the last year having reached £6423. After entering into other details, the report stated that the financial affairs of the society were in a satisfactory condition.

The sixtieth annual meeting and examination of the schools in connection with the British and Foreign School Society was held, on Monday, at the Borough-road. Earl Russell took the chair. The examination having been concluded, the noble president addressed a few words of congratulation to the scholars upon the success of the examination. The company then adjourned to the great hall, where Earl Russell took the chair. The hon. secretary read the report, which, after a suitable eulogy to the memory of the late Earl of Carlisle, who was for thirty years one of the vice-presidents, proceeded to say that the number of students in residence at the Borough-road was, during last year, ninety-six, and at Stockwell, one hundred. The demand for teachers continued great, and at a fair rate of remuneration. In the practising-schools of the society, at the Borough-road and at Stockwell, more than 1200 children were in daily attendance. The inspection of schools by the agents of the committee continued with acceptance and success. Forty new schools have been opened in the year, and a large number of existing schools had been placed under Government inspection and otherwise improved. Both at home and abroad, aid had been rendered by means of grants of school materials. Owing to a change in the time of making up the accounts, the financial statement was for eleven months, showing an income of £12,604, and an expenditure of £13,868. The report closed by some striking illustrations of the necessity for extending education, and a pressing appeal for pecuniary assistance to carry forward the important work of the society.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Church of England Sunday-school Institute was held, on Tuesday, at Exeter Hall—Lord Charles Russell in the chair. The progress of the institute during the year, both at home and abroad, had been most satisfactory. The expenses for the past year had been £2397, being in excess of the income of £90; but there was a total asset of £500.

The anniversary dinner in aid of the funds of the Newsvenders' Benevolent and Provident Institution took place, on Tuesday evening, at the Freemasons' Tavern—Mr. Charles Dickens presiding. There were in all about 200 guests, and amongst them a large number of ladies. A list of subscriptions was read, amounting to about £300.

The Congregational Union of England and Wales has been in session this week in the Rev. Mr. Binney's chapel. The first meeting was held on Tuesday. The Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Bristol, presided. The report stated that the model trust deed had received the approval of most of the gentlemen who had examined it. A deputation had been appointed to visit the Canadian Union, and the churches in the upper and lower provinces. The financial condition of the Congregational Union was stated to be satisfactory. After several practical addresses, the report was adopted.

The anniversary meeting of the Home Missionary Society was held, on Tuesday evening, at the Poultry Chapel—Mr. Samuel Morley in the chair. The report gave a detailed account of the operations of the society during the past year, and stated that, although there was a balance in hand, yet additional funds were still required.

The London Missionary Society held its annual general meeting, on Thursday, at Exeter Hall. The Hon. Arthur Kinnaird, M.P., presided. The last year had been painfully distinguished by an unprecedented number of deaths amongst the missionaries. The society had been able to add to the missionary band more than the number lost, and twelve would be appointed during the present year, making the number of the society's agents 179. The income for ordinary purposes and special objects had been £91,048; the expenditure, £99,156. The society had entered into an arrangement for a new missionary ship, in place of that of the John Williams, which was wrecked on Danger Point, and she would sail with as little delay as possible from the Thames for the isles of the Pacific.

LAW AND POLICE.—The case of Mr. Strange, of the Alhambra, was argued on Monday, on appeal, before the magistrates at the Middlesex Sessions. Mr. Strange had been convicted by Mr. Tyrwhitt of performing a stage play, not being licensed to do so. The play complained of was a ballet, which for the managers of the theatres it was argued was a stage play within the meaning of the Act. The magistrates, after hearing the arguments and the evidence, however, were of a different opinion, and not merely quashed the conviction, but refused to grant a case for the superior courts.

In the Lord Mayor's Court, on Saturday, [in re Balemond and the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway, the company had taken the whole of the property, nearly all freehold, in New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, between Union-street and Earl-street, and the claim made out by several witnesses in their behalf exceeded £26,000. After being viewed by the jury, and hearing evidence of valuation on the other side, a sum of £17,500 was agreed upon between the parties.

At the Central Criminal Court, on Tuesday, two thieves were convicted of sacrilege. One of them, who had committed two offences of the kind, was sentenced to five years' penal servitude, while the other escaped with twelve months' imprisonment. On Wednesday the grand jury returned true bills against the Messrs. Barry, charged with certain frauds upon insurance companies. An application made to postpone the trial to the June Sessions was acceded to. John Samuelson, convicted of stealing £700, the property of the Bank of England, was brought up and sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

At the Clerkenwell Police Court, last Saturday, a charge preferred against the authorities of St. Pancras, by an inmate of the workhouse, that they had confined him in an unwholesome ward, underwent a preliminary investigation. After hearing the evidence, Mr. D'Eyncourt said that he should communicate with the Poor-Law Board, to ascertain whether they intended to proceed in the matter. The statements of the inmate, if true, show abominable misconduct on the part of the authorities of the workhouse. The authorities, however, give the story the most direct contradiction. The Poor-Law Board has ordered an investigation.

The late Duke of Northumberland having omitted to draw his half-pay as Admiral for twenty years, his executors are about to receive the entire arrears from the Admiralty.

A number of young girls were receiving their first communion, in a church at Trèves, when a lighted taper fell on one of their thin muslin dresses. The flames instantly spread to others, and, although extinguished in a short time, several of the children were burnt—one so severely that doubts are entertained of her recovery.

Advices from Stockholm state that a Royal decree has been issued ordering a general Exhibition of Industry in that capital next year, from the 15th of June to the 15th of August. Norway, Denmark, and Finland will be invited to take part in it. A committee, with Prince Oscar as its president, will be appointed to make all the necessary arrangements.

A Turin letter of the 5th inst. says:—"This city at present resembles a vast establishment for removing furniture. Nothing is seen but waggons loaded with articles and packages on their road to the railway. The Ministers are packing up their papers and even their arm-chairs, and the clerks who remain look as if they were encamped in the ruins of some great conflagration. Then at the door of every house are seen placards of apartments to let, hung up as so many signs of distress. It is not without an oppression of the heart that I witness this spectacle, thinking on the approaching and inevitable decay of a city whose progress was so brilliant, and which had made itself so beautiful."

The New York Emigration Commissioners have issued their report for 1864. They state that in the course of the year there landed at New York 222,338 passengers, of whom 39,422 were American citizens and 182,916 were aliens, the latter number being 27,072 more than in 1863. 89,766 of the aliens were Irish, 23,871 English, 57,579 Germans. The commissioners provided employment, food, lodging, or transportation for 28,957; cared for 7363 in the refuge and hospital of the commission, and for 235 in its smallpox hospital; and for 978 did the service of burying them.

THE DUKE OF BRUNSWICK AND HIS DAUGHTER.—The long-impending case of Elizabeth Wilhelmina (née Countess De Colmar) Brunswick, married, 1847, to Viscount De Civry, has come on at Paris. M. Marie recapitulated the history of the case from the year 1825, when the young Duke of Brunswick, at the age of twenty-two, strikingly handsome and very captivating, arrived in London with all the prestige of his rank. The Duke had, moreover, the singular advantage of being nephew to "the first gentleman in Europe." In London society his Royal Highness met, at the house of her aunt, Countess Pipper, Miss Colville, then seventeen, with whom he fell in love, and proposed a left-handed marriage, asserting that he had talked the matter over with his uncle, the Duke of Sussex. The girl believed his Royal word, and, attended by Miss Mathews and her servants, escorted by the Duke's Aide-de-Camp, sailed for Calais, where she was met by the Duke and his brother, the present reigning Prince. On reaching the ducal territory, she found the Château of Wendessen prepared for her reception, and a numerous suite attached to her service. Her daughter, born in 1826, was baptized with all the ceremonial used on the birth of the children of Royal Princes. The golden font of the Brunswick family was used on the occasion; the godfather (the present Duke) was represented by his Chamberlain. The child was named after its grandmother, the Grand Duchess of Baden, and created by letters patent Countess of Colmar. The ducal arms adorned the child's carriage, and her numerous attendants received orders from the Duke in person to watch over the child with the utmost assiduity. Two years later her mother, outraged by his Royal Highness's conduct with a danseuse, fled, during his absence, from her splendid home, carrying her child with her, but leaving her jewels, and even her clothes, at Wendessen. On the Duke's return he traced her to London, dispatched Baron De Girsewold, his first Aide-de-Camp, with written orders to claim the Countess Colmar, then aged two years, supplying Miss Mathews with letters of credit on Hammersley's bank for the child's expenses, and desiring her to take charge of the child till further orders. The Duke arrived some months later, and, attended by his Chamberlain, Baron D'Andlau, inspected a school at Notting-hill, where he subsequently placed the little Countess, stating her to be his daughter, and desiring that she should be instructed in music by Dülcken, then music master to the present King of Hanover, and in dancing by Mdme. Bourdin, who gave lessons at the time to Princess Victoria. In 1835 the Duke informed Miss Mathews in person of his wish that she should go to the school at Notting-hill, and, in accordance with orders already communicated to the heads of that establishment, take charge of his daughter to his residence, 52, Champs Elysées, where Miss Mathews was to transfer her to the charge of the Baron and Baroness D'Andlau. The Countess was supplied with a magnificent wardrobe, jewels, &c., and resided in Paris under the care of the Baroness, having the command of her father's establishment, carriages, &c., till she was, by the Duke's orders, placed at a school in Nancy, where, at the age of sixteen, she heard Lacordaire preach, and under his influence turned Catholic, on which his Royal Highness announced that his religious feelings were so profoundly shocked that he refused to pay for her support, and gave her up totally. The case exciting the interest of the Civry family, whose château is close to Nancy, the Count and Countess adopted the young girl, and consented to her marriage with their eldest son, Viscount De Civry. The consent of the Duke was asked and granted, and the marriage took place in London, in 1847. Viscount De Civry was ruined in 1848, and the family estates sold. The Viscountess is the mother of eight children, and now claims a maintenance from her father, the exiled Duke of Brunswick.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

THE dust and wind of Newmarket was followed by mud and rain at Chester, so that the racing devotees are having a hard time of it. The first day was hardly worth the exposure. The Marquis of Hastings won two races with "hot" first favourites, and the three first in the Mostyn Stakes were all close together, one of the ever-paying Lambton blood winning. At the Cup finish, five four-year-olds—Highflyer colt, Buckfoot, Leprochaun, Helen, and Wandering Minstrel—were in front, at weights ranging from 7 st. 1 lb. to 6 st. 1 lb. The jockeys were wet to their shirts and plastered with mud. Through such ground, Victorious, who was giving a year and 6 lb. to the winner, and Ackworth, who was giving 20 lb., had no chance, but the latter finished sixth. Gratitude, with a mere trifle on her back, was nowhere; Lord Zetland (for whom the handicap was once said to be "made"), The Grinder, Mœstissima filly, The Lion (who expended himself in the false starts), &c., were all scattered, and so were the hopes of the prophets, bar one. The winner, with 8 lb. less, ran third for the Cambridgeshire, and will now, we conclude, be named. He is by Daniel O'Rourke, and was bred by the late Sir Tatton Sykes at Sledmere. Liddington did not come, and Mr. Chaplin won his maiden race, the Dee Stakes, with Broomielaw, or "Breadalbane's uncle," as some delight to call him. He won easily by two lengths; and the second, Argences, was five before the wretched Joker.

Gladiateur, according to the latest quotations we have seen, still holds his Derby lead; The Duke next, and Wild Charley and Breadalbane at 10 to 1. There is, we believe, no doubt that Gladiateur was very lame a short time since, and that his trainer always considered he had a good horse, if he could only train him. The party now say that they will win the Derby, but it must be remembered that four were very close together in the Two Thousand, and that the winner was "pricked." His joints will be sorely tried coming down the hill at "The Corner," and it seems doubtful whether he can be made any better. Archimedes is rather a small colt, with small thighs, and not the nicest fore legs, and by missing the Two Thousand he has probably missed his best thing. Daley's riding of Liddington is blamed by some of his backers, who considered he raced far too much with Pantaloon, who made the pace a stinger, and that his only chance of getting home up that hill was to "suffer." Hardly a soul cared to see Breadalbane put into the train. He was very much hurried in his work; and Mr. I'Anson, we hear, did not wish that he should run. The question arises, was he at all fit to be put through the mill in the great trial, which was brought off with such expensive secrecy, and yet detailed "on authority" five days after? Some connoisseurs were very much disappointed with him, and declared that he had grown upwards during the winter and was too leggy. Still, it is generally agreed that he ought to run much better in the Derby, if he has no drawback. Kangaroo's running must be all wrong, and the result of over-trying. The Duke is being incessantly trumpeted, and his admirers declare that "no one would know him again," and that he could have "gone in alone in the Guineas," and all that sort of thing. Chattanooga, says one "reliable correspondent," is doing good strong work, and is backed by those behind the scenes. "Chattanooga is a roarer, and has another infirmity in his feet or legs," say the opposition. Scott's lot is considered "settled," and curiosity centres upon Longdown, both on account of the Kangaroo sale and his dead heat with Gladiateur last year; but Drewitt and Kent keep their own counsel, and will, it is said, give Jem Goater a very good Oaks mount on Wild Agnes. As for Wild Charley, the Danebury adherents profess to have him quite safe through Ackworth. Fordham, up to the end of last week had quite run away from J. Grimshaw in winning mounts, and was in a majority of twenty-four. Curiously enough, each had been beaten fifty-six times.

Coursing has ended with the division of a stake in Ireland between Jem Mace and Blue Bell of the great Canaradzo-Silkworm litter. The Surrey Club held their annual dinner on Wednesday, when Mr. Burrup announced that their income was £2500, and that 50,000 spectators came to the Oval last year. The county of Cambridge defeated the University in one innings by 121 runs this week; when Carpenter made seventy-seven, and Tarrant took eleven wickets. Messrs. E. Ash and A. Walker made a good stand for "The Gown."

That Chambers and Cooper are matched to row a mile on the Tyne is the newest thing in aquatics.

CHESTER RACES.—TUESDAY.

Grosvenor Stakes.—Grinder, 1. Moulsey, 2. Lytham, 3.
Mostyn Stakes.—Miss Harriette, 1. Tina, 2. Gretna, 3.
Wynnstay Handicap.—Pantaloon, 1. Lady Bohun, 2. Queen of Trumps, 3.
Palatine Stakes.—Donnybrook, 1. Sympathy, 2. Nidderdale.
Eaton Plate.—Light, 1. Attraction, 2. Hesper, 3.
Chesterfield Stakes.—Filbert, 1. Sidewind, 2. Viola, 3.
Corinthian Welter Plate.—Stanton, 1. Queen of Trumps, 2. Kapunda, 3.
Selling Stakes.—Ranter, 1. Sophia, 2. Orontes, 3.

WEDNESDAY.—THE CUP DAY.

Members' Plate.—Moulsey, 1. Zisca, 2. Ozone, 3.
Welter Cup.—The Clown, 1. Stanton, 2. Trumpeter, 3.
Tradesmen's Plate.—Highflyer's dam c., 1. Buckfoot, 2. Leprochaun, 3.
Flying Handicap.—Lucy Long, 1. Queen of Trumps, 2. Light, 3.
Hunters' Stakes.—Brighton, 1. Abbot, 2. Diana, 3.
Belgrave Stakes.—Pantaloon, 1. Henbane, 2. Merry Lass, 3.

THURSDAY.

Marquis of Westminster's Plate.—Sidewind, 1. Filbert, 2. Nu, 3.
Queen's Plate.—Stanton, 1. Yeatsall, 2. Cariboo, 3.
Dee Stakes.—Broomielaw, 1. Argences, 2. Joker, 3.
Cestrian Handicap.—Lucy Long, 1. Moulsey, 2. Sidewind, 3.
Beaufort Biennial Stakes.—Redan, 1. Selim, 2. Terror, 3.
